With his two years experience as a Peace Corps volunteer in Ethiopia, Senator Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts has a longstanding interest in African issues. On a recent Africa trip from December 28 to January 11, Sen. Tsongas stopped in Rhodesia, Mozambique, Tanzania, Zambia, Angola and Nigeria, as well as South Africa. Then,in a letter to President Carter, he called on the U.S. to give South Africa six months to show its willingness to dismantle apartheid, and he also pressed for official recognition of Angola, economic assistance to the front line states, greater British communication with the Patriotic Front and U.S. aid in Rhodesian refugee resettlement. Last week AFRICA NEWS questioned the Senator further about his views on the situation in southern Africa. Excerpts from the interview:

AN: You have expressed concern about the British implementation of the Rhodesian ceasefire. Is the problem there one of communication only or of bias as well•

TSONGAS: I think that events have borne out my concern. The recent decision to have the South Africans withdraw from Beitbridge reinforces the unwise nature of (Britain's initial) policy. But I don't share the view of some that the British are somehow trying to rig the election in favor of Bishop Muzorewa. I think they was to get out, to extricate themselves from the potential of a northern Ireland. I think it's bad judgement, not bias.

AN: Has the U.S. made its voice heard by the British on this point•

TSONGAS:Despite the fact that perhaps there'a not been any public expression of concern, I am confident in saying that private suggestions have been made. Certainly the reversal of the British position on the South African troops at Beitbridge was embarrassing, and I just don't see them making the kind of change in policy without pressure having been applied by somebody.

AN: What kind of response do you think there would be if the Rhodesian army or the South Africans should intervene after an election victory by the Patriotic Front•

TSONGAS: Well, I don't buy the notion that they would move militarily and try to install Bishop Muzorewa in power. They were clearly in very serious straits with the guerrilla war, and certainly negationg a democratic election would bring upon them the wrath of virtually everyone in the world. I'd be very surprised if that happened, I just don't see it. In terms of South Africa, if one looks at the recent newspapers, both Afrikaner and English speaking, it seems they are preparing their own people for the possibility of a Mugave victory.

Even beyond that, I think that any attempt by South Africa to go into Zimbabwe would be doomed from the beginning. As we saw with the recent urban terrorism, they've got their own problems; they've got Namibia on their hands, and to extend themselves beyond that in any kind of meaningful military sense would be very pyrrhic in its outcome.

AN: How do you evaluate the changes made in South Africa itself to dater•

TSONGAS: I think the changes that have been made are really cosmetic at best. There have been a number of statements that have gotten great international acclaim. But long term change is a completely different thing it seems to me that there has to be an acceptance of the inevitability of black majority rule, and (acceptance) that the separate development policy is intellectually bankrupt and cannot be sustained.

AN: What about your six month deadline suggestion•

TSONGAS:The six months give us, one, the session of Parliament which will show in very concrete terms what it is they are prepared to do. And, secondly, Namibia should be resolved in that time period, and, if it is not resolved we'll know why. And, thirdly, we can look perhaps at smaller policies such as passport controls, that kind of thing.

There's no question that six months from now we'll know why. And, thirdly, we can look perhaps at smaller policies such as passport controls, that kind of thing.

There's no question that six months from now we'll have a very good idea whether they have indeed abandoned apartheid and are moving however one may argue the pace towards majority rule. I don't think it's that difficult to make a determination.

AN: If there has not been responsiveness, what particular measures do you think the U.S. should take•

TSONGAS:If you have intransigence on the part of the South Africans in the case of Namibia, then clearly we have the UN mandate that we should pursue, and our allies, I would hope, would be equally committed to that process.

Beyond that it's my analysis that the pulse of South Africa really is economic and that U.S. corporations should be convinced both by the president and by the Congress to push very serious changes, and in the absence of that change should be prepared to get out. I think that until the South Africans really believe that it is in their interest to change, that the change will be simply a surface change.

AN: In the present political climate, isn't U.S. policy likely to move the other way, towards U.S. cooperation with South Africa, as in financing Savimbi in Angola, for example•

Tsongas: Well, it really is hard to understand where we are going. In a presidential year, obviously, whoever ends up in the White House will have a lot to say about what kind of policy we will have a lot to say about what kind of policy we will advocate. But I would think we would eventually see, both in terms of South Africa and in terms of Angola, a certain amount of realism creep into our policy, and I'm hopeful that that would happen sooner rather than later, and not as a result of the violence which at this point, I think, is inevitable in South Africa.

AN:Your position would involve strengthening relations with all the front-line states, including Angola:

Tsongas: Oh, yes. The non-recognition of Angola is just as insane as non-recognition of China, lo, these many years. Now that we are sidling up to China as an ally against the Soviets, the bankruptcy of our policy is all the more arguable.

(Moreover) I do believe many of the frontline states are reassessing their commitment, not so much in public statements as in private, towards socialism-at least as practiced in some countries-as a viable economic system. My own view is that there has to be some kind of private incentive solution, and given the long-term economic problems, I think forces are at work in this direction that are very favorable to the United States. My deep regret is that we don't seem to recognize this, that we always seem to react to problems rather than anticipate them.

Ford (SA) Faces Major Labor Dispute

As the year ended, Ford South Africa found itself the center of the most serious labor dispute involving black employees that has occurred since a wave of strikes in 1973. In an unprecedented act in late November, Ford management dismissed 700 black workers who had walked off their jobs in an act of solidarity with a fired black employee. Ironically Ford, which employs a total of 3304 blacks and 1979 whites in South Africa, had worked hard to establish a reputation as a leader in industrial race relations. The company had been one of the first signatories of the Sullivan principles, the US designed "equal opportunity" code of conduct for American operations in South Africa.

The dispute occurred in Ford's assembly plant in Port Elizabeth, South Africa. A black community leader, Thozamile Botha, was employed in a draftsman program at Ford. Botha also headed the Port Elizabeth Black Civil Organization (PEBCO), the local equivalent of Soweto's Committee of Ten, and an organization with a strong popular base, which has drawn thousands to its meetings in recent times.

In early November, Botha was pressed to resign by Ford management. When he left, the entire 700 strong African work force walked out in the middle of the day. Ford paid the workers for their time off the job. By November 5, the black work force had returned to face increased hostility from the white employees who are part of a powerful white union. Insulting racial remarks were made by white workers and the black employees demanded that Ford extract an apology. One foreman complained that the integrated canteen facilities were dirty because Africans were abusing them. Meanwhile workers refused to work overtime, there were slowdowns on the job and increasing tensions between black and white employees.

On November 19 Ford management (closely in touch with Detroit) declared that anyone who refused to work overtime or walked off the job would be fired. Ford is apparently trying to negotiate with the black union, the (African) United Auto Workers, but some black workers now find the union much too moderate. However the union has had well-attended meetings in the townships to discuss grievances. UAW organized workers at General Tire have also been on strike.

After the dismissals, community leader Botha sent Ford a letter listing grievances and asked Ford Detroit to start a Commission of Inqeiry to look into the situation. By presstime Ford had not responded.

Observers have commented on the high level of poltical awareness and solidarity displayed by the workers in the total walkout of the entire black assembly plant workforce. Such actions put in jeopardy not only jobs and income but also the right to remain in Port Elizabeth.

Despite Ford management threats to hire new workers to replace the strikers, as of the beginning of December, only 170 of the strikers had returned to work. And on December 7, as the dispute continued, South African security police arrested 21 blacks as a result of what they termed "labor unrest."

AFRICAN BRIEFS

NEWS AGENCY READIES TAKE-OFF: The first releases of the Pan-African News Agency (PANA) are finally scheduled--seventeen years after the idea was born. The target date is July 1980, during the OAU (Organization of African Unity) summit in Sierra Leone. African countries hope the news agency will release them from dependence upon European and American sources for information about their neighbors.

A PANA commission composed of Angola, Algeria, Zambia, Nigeria and Rwanda is charged with insuring that everything is ready by July. The activating decisions came at a January meeting in Lobito, Angola where as one participant put it, "more was done in three days than in all the years since PANA was first proposed." [AN]

ARMS PLUS DIPLOMACY: After hearings last week in both House and Senate Subcommittees on Africa, there is considerable Congressional sentiment for greater U.S. efforts in favor of a negotiated solution to the conflict over Moroccan occupation of the Western Sahara. Congressman Paul Simon of Illinois, recently returned from visits to Morocco and to the POLISARIO refugee camps in Algeria, has proposed in a letter to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that the U.S. send a State Department team for week-long visits to Morocco and to the POLISARIO camps, to get a better picture of the Western Saharan side of the dispute. Simon, as well as House Africa Subcommittee Chairman Stephen Solarz, who visited the area last August, opposes the administration's planned sale of $232.5 million worth of aircraft to Morocco. In the Senate, Africa Subcommittee Chairman George McGovern has introduced a resolution of disapproval of the sales, which include 12 helicopter gunships, 20 F-5 fighters and six OV-10 observation aircraft.

The congressional veto, which would be unprecedented, is given no chance of passing, but both House and Senate subcommittees are likely to urge a more vigorous diplomatic initiative to accompany the sales. Assistant Secretary of State Saunders, in his testimony before the two subcommittees, already indicated that the U.S. did not expect that Morocco could win a military victory, and he stated the administration's intent to step up substantive but informal contacts with POLISARIO.

Opponents of the sales, however, are still skeptical of the administration argument that increased arms sales will prove effective inducing Morocco's King Hassan to abandon his intransigent opposition to the independence of Western Sahara. [AN]

Asian Affairs

平等 自由 團結

Equality Freedom Unity

Asian American Poems

Different, An Alien In This Land

By Irene

Different, an alien in this land
Cultures that clash
Pressures in my mind
The question goes through it
An Asian American I am
So where do I go?

A fact in life
A teasing thought
Where do you fit?
Where do you belong?
Blend in the shadows
The past is truly safe

But where is my presence today?
The walls are White
The streets are Black
But night is falling
And all is grey
I stand there
YELLOW

A mass distinguished as such
When morning comes
The white becomes White
And the black arises Black
And me...
Where am I

Call Myself Asian American

By Margaret Cornell

Call myself Asian American
A dragon snake
Coils round
Threatens you
Someone says
I am White.
Redundant.

Person of Asian descent
So secure
You are afraid
Of mere statement
You look
Anywhere But at me.

You go through Life
Avoiding mirrors
Barrier, alienation
So you say.

To say what I am?

Human Without roots
Is to lose face
Is not complete
So I say.

I saw A Movie Called Hearts and Minds

By Debbie Lee

The father looks on
As his little girl runs
And falls...
'Daddy, I am hurt!'
He looks at her shadow
And says
'It's all right, you'll live.'

The little girl
Lifeless
Lies askew over the rubbles
Blood still dripping from her head
The father stands over her body
Trying to remember the smile she use to give him
As bombs exploded around him.

The soft, warm flesh of his wife
Lying close besides him
Untainted
Touched only by the sun and wind
Caressed by him
In a loving embrace.

The woman bends over her crippled baby
Trying to soothe him
As the pain in her back sharpens
Those invisible THINGS
Which fell from the sky
Worming their way
Into her flesh
And that of her child's.
'Bob, what should I wear tonight?
Do you think the Jones will like my duck l'orange?'
'Don't worry hon',
They'll love you and your duck.'

Like sitting ducks at a carnival
The women and children were gunned down
Those who escaped
Ran with skeletal bodies
Pushing ahead
Living another day
Trying to forget
That pain and misery rule their lives.

Praise Triology to the People's Republic of China

By Fred Wei-han Houn

1. Liberated Chinese people no longesr is the Forbidden City
Barred from the people.
Signs once read:
'no dogs or Chinese allowed'
there is now
'Imperialism is a Paper Tiger.'
Once British opium polluted the blood of our young men today only the red blood of revolution flows in their veins.
Though foreign devils no longer infest our land and prey upon our people the dragon of revolution must still exhort its fiery breath
A people's proud nation:
proud that everyone
goes to sleep
with food in their stomach
instead of fear in their minds.

A people's proud nation:
proud that our women
('who hold up half the sky')
can now hold up their heads
in dignity and equality.

A people's proud nation:
proud that even the poorest shall read.

2. The architects of new China are the Communist Party armed with the Thought of Chairman Mao.
The People's Republic belongs to it's builders the workers and peasants.
Learn from the laboring masses
if you wish to know true revolution.

Lesson in revolution:

When the tool is to be used by two men
it must be owned equally.
I can never own a tool that feeds the people.
Lesson in revolution:
Hunger is a raging sea that drowns everyone and floods the land with no escape.
I must share my bowl of rice.

Lesson in revolution:

Two strong arms alone cannot plow China's sun-baked wastelands
but with 800,000,000 pairs of working limbs even Sinkiang
will reap verdant terraces.
When I work collectively with the people no goal is impossible no feat is insurmountable.

Lesson in revolution:

The land is the people's
The rice is the people's
The pride is the people's together the people stand together we are free.
There is no shame in serving the people.

The Chinesse people are a proud people building for themselves a new nation that will never again
kow-tow to foreign humiliation.

A people's proud nation:
proud that everyone
goes to sleep
with food in their stomach
instead of fear in their minds.

A people's proud nation:
proud that our women
('who hold up half the sky')
can now hold up their heads
in dignity and equality.

A people's proud nation:
proud that even the poorest shall read.

3. As I see the progress of China day by day
I see my generation of young people with their golden faces.

I see another generation of parents and grandparents mothers and grandmothers watching us loving us.

For the first time
there is hope and a will to live to see one's children off to school growing up without the pain to have to sell them because there is no food.

Grandmother sometimes cries we ask what is wrong and she replies
nothing is wrong, anymore.

She recalls her childhood her feet bound with hot bandages at four.
Her little granddaughter
now runs and plays on two big feet.

Grandmother with her bound feet cannot read.
Her eight year old grandson reads stories to her
She nods in proud satifaction
He reads well for his age.

Grandmother's own daughter now takes her children for a weekend afternoon at the zoo laughing at the antics of fat pandas.

I dry tears of anger for grandmother's suffering past
It must not be like that ever again.
Grandmother weeps warm tears to see this moment when her grandchildren with their big feet and schoolbooks inherit a future.

ECO LATINO

GUATEMALA: 38 PEOPLE KILLED

Guatemala's military dictatorship carried out its bloodiest act of repression yet January 31, when it stormed the Spanish embassy in Guatemala City in order to suppress a protest against the government.

Thirty-eight people were killed in the attack, most of them Indian peasants from the Quiche area in northern Guatemala.

The peasant had come to Guatemala City more than a week before to denounce army repression and occupation of towns in the northern highlands and to ask the government to remove troops from the area.

But government officials refused to meet with them and accused them of being guerrillas. The press, intimidated by the deaths of several journalists since last November, was afraid to publish their story. Their lawyer, Ruben Ixcamparic, was kidnapped and assasinated by security forces on January 22.

The peasants them decided to stage a peaceful takeover of the Spanish embassy to press their demands. According to the Democratic Front Against Repression (DFAR), the embassy occupants had three demands:

- That the Spanish ambassador agree to act as intermediary between the peasant delegation and the Guatemalan government, and that he press for government withdrawal of army troops from all occupied towns;
- That the ambassador agree to denounce the repressive situation in Quiche province before world public opinion;
- That the delegation be allowed to hang banners out the windows of the embassy, stating the objectives of the peaceful takeover.

Spanish Ambassador Maximo Cajal y Lopez had already agreed to intercede and had been in contact with both the Spanish and Guatemalan governments. Both the ambassador and the Spanish foreign minister has specifically asked that no police intervene since they were already negotiating with the peasants.

Nevertheless, at around 3 pm, 600 soldiers and police surrounded the embassy. Sharpshooters were stationed in strategic positions while specially trained army troops scaled the walls of the building.

According to a DFAR statement, the troops "took up the task of entering the embassy by any and all means, breaking down windows, skylights and doors and throwing firebombs into the embassy...The result of this bestial and bloody action was the death by burning of 38 people, the majority of whom were Indian peasants; also among the dead were functionaries of the embassy, one ex-vice president and one ex-foreign minister of Guatemala."

Two people survived the fire and police assault: the Spanish ambassador and one peasant.

The ambassador accused the Guatemalan police of being "the determining factor in this tragedy, since it was they who put an end to the talks already in progress with the peasants." He has asked for sanctions against the Gualemalan government for breaching international law. Spain broke off diplomatic relations with Guatemalan in protest.

The Guatemalan government asserted the peasant were "subversives who, seeing that all was lost, decided to blow themselves up together with their victims."

Since the massacre, outrage has been growing in Guatemala City. Barricades were thrown up at major intersections and buses burned in protest. Several factories were shut down by protesting workers, and the popular reaction was expected to continue to grown throughout the week. Internationally, Mexico and other countries issued strong statements condemning the massacre.

Guardian

UPI

Guatemala Red Cross workers retrieve bodies of two funeral marchers slain in Feb. 3 Guatemala City shootings.

EL SALVADOR: LEFT PUSHES OFFENSIVE

By Robert Armstrong.

The growing battle between the left and the right in El Salvador sharply intensified last week.

The People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), oldest of the guerrilla forces in El Salvador, launched an offensive Jan. 30 in coordination with its popular organization, the People's Leagues-28 of February. Fifty guerrillas occupied the center of Cuscatancingo, a suburb of the capital, San Salvador. In a rally in the town plaza, ERP members urged residents to join the armed insurrection. After an hour they withdrew, distributing leaflets as they left.

On Feb.5, members of the Popular League peacefully seized the Spanish embassy in San Salvador, taking the ambassador and 14 others hostage. They reportedly demanded the release of four comrades held prisoner in El Salvador and asked Spain to break diplomatic ties with the Salvadorean junta.

Earlier in the week, 50 armed members of the People's Leagues-28 of February occupied the main office of the Christian Democratic Party, holding 15 hostages. The Leagues demanded the withdrawal of the Christian Democrats from the governing junta. Among the hostages was the daughter of Dr. Jose Antonio Morales Ehrlichy, one of the three civilian members of the junta.

The participation of the Christian Democrats in the recently reconstituted junta has been denounced by the left and roundly criticized by reformist sectors who participated in the first civilian military junta which took power after the Oct. 15 coup.

Dr. Guillermo Ungo, head of the social-democratic National Revolutionary Movement and one of the civilian members of the initial junta, described the Christian Democrats as 'committing political suicide by their collaboration with the armed forces.' They 'have demonstrated their surrender to the right.'

Two days later, the People's Revolutionary Army followed up its maneuvers in Cuscatancingo with the execution of Efraim Garaj, a member of Orden, the right-wing paramilitary force which hasa killed hundreds of rural workers.

Earlier in the week, the People's Liberation Forces-Frabundo Marti (FPL), the largest and most effective of the political military organizations of the left, suffered heavy losses in a battle with the soldiers of the regular army Coatepeque, a small town about 30 miles from San Salvador. In its first action since the massacre of 20 persons in a gigantic march of the united left Jan. 22, the FPL contingent was ambushed. Two dozen persons were killed in the battle, 19 of whom were guerrillas.

Concurrent with the stepped-up struggles of the left, right-wing death squads unleashed a murderous assault against all those it had marked as its enemies.

The White Warriors Union, composed of present and retired police and military officers, claimed credit for the murder of two workers, one in the highly politicized region of Chalatenango and the other, the leader of textile union, in the eastern region of San Miguel.

Two young women, employed in the office of the archbishop of San Salvador, were shot to death and their bodies left on a highway 12 miles north of the capital. It is thought that the murders were a response to Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero of San Salvador, a fierce critic of government and right-wing repression.

In another right-wing attack, Carlos Alfredo Castillo, an elementary school teacher, was shot to death while driving his truck. The day before Castillo's death, ANDES, the national teacher's union, had demanded an end to the assassination of the country's teachers. in the last nine months, 37 teachers have been killed by right-wing death squads.

With the violence increasing, there were more signs of the expectation of civil war. The British government closed its embassy and withdrew its diplomatic corps. United Press International reported that a spokesperson for the Salvadorean Department of Emigration ahd advised that 500 people a day were leaving El Salvador for Guatemala. At the same time an unknown number of wealthier Salvadoreans are reportedly fleeing to the U.S.

ECO LATINO Staff:
Jose G. Trejo. , Editor
Carlos Valdes
Mariano Gutierrez Photo Room.

Poetry from Nicaragua

Sueño del optimista

En su palacio Somoza hace planes para el futuro
y piensa: "30 años más se sacrificará mi familia por el pueblo"...
y sus hijos pululan de alegría ante la herencia mientras abajo el pueblo piensa:
"ni un año más"
"ni un año más"
"ni un año más"
porque
entre el presente y el futuro está el destino
incluso para la vida de los tiranos y la prolongación de las dinastías y el destino es inexorable como la muerte
y oscuro como la noche.
En mi país
llena de sombras está la vida de los hombres que aman
y llena de sombras la de los que odian.
Que las sombras se guarden de las sombras:
El guerrillero cae como la noche de un solo tajo
interrumpiendo la cena del dictador.

Optimist's Dream

In his palace Somoza makes plans for the future and thinks: "30 years more will my family sacrifice for the people" . . .
and his sons swarm with glee over the legacy while below the people think:
"not one year more"
"not one year more"
"not one year more"
because between present and future destiny awaits
even the lives of tyrants and the duration of dynasties and destiny is inexorable like death and dark like the night.
In my country life is filled with the shadows of men who love
and filled with shadows are the lives of those who hate.
Let the shadows beware of shadows:
The guerilla descends all at once like the night to break up the dictator's dinner.

— Luis Rocha

La Muerte de Somoza/

La muerte de Somoza, como L del Foster, dice Ike, es una gran pérdida ¡ay!
para el mundo libre. "Fue un gran amigo de los Estados Unidos, en público y en privado". Los Estados Unidos tendrán que ampliar el cementerio de Arlington. O adaptar el jardincillo de la Casa Blanca para tumba de sus íntimos amigos. Y a fe, que ya lo están haciendo. Porque yo busqué en Nicaragua el cadáver de Somoza, y nadie supo responder.

'The Death of Somoza

Somoza's death, like Foster's, is a terrible loss, says Ike. Weep!
for the free world. He was a great friend of the U.S., in public and private.
They'll have to enlarge Arlington or use the White House lawn to bury their bosom buddies. And I bet they're at it already. Because I looked for Somoza's body all over Nicaragua, and nobody knew what to say.

— Ernesto Mejía Sánchez

En Rivas, Nicaragua

En Rivas,
Nicaragua,
te vi
flaco, barbudo, maloliente
cantando tangos
con otros viajeros.
Venías de los Andes fatigosos y helados
y del Caribe
tu mar.
Desde una ventana
los chavalos te miramos comer arroz con pollo en calzoncillos.
Luego te marchaste
y no volvimos
a saber nada de ti hasta que tu nombre brilló
Che Guevara.

In Rivas, Nicaragua

In Rivas,
Nicaragua,
I saw you
skinny, bearded, smelly singing tangos
with other travelers.
You came from the Andes high and cold and the Caribbean your sea.
From the window
we kids watched you eat chicken and rice
in your underwear.
Then you went away
and we didn't hear any more about you until your name rang out
Che Guevara.

Middle-East Affairs

U·S· Promises Increased Aid to Pakistan

By William Ryan (GUARDIAN)

President Jimmy Carter's National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski flew to Islamabad, Pakistan, last week to firm up Washington's alliance with the Ziaul Haq dictatorship.

Brzezinski assured Zia that, following the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan, the Carter administration was prepared to arrange massive military and economic aid to Islamabad. He also indicated the U.S. would be willing to overlook differences over such questions as Pakistan's gross violations of human rights and evident development of nuclear weapons. Most important, he told Zia that Washington would back Pakistan with U.S. troops against a major Soviet or Soviet "inspired" attack.

At the same time, presidential envoy Clark Clifford was sent to India to promise aid in an effort to offset New Delhi's concern about the increased military support to its regional rival.

The Carter administration indicated to congressional leaders last week that it was seeking a permanent repeal of the current ban on weapons sales to Pakistan. U.S. military and development assistance were suspended last year because of Islamabad's secret purchases of bomb-grade material and refusal to accept international monitoring of its nuclear development program. The White House now plans to supply more than the $400 million recently earmarked for Zia in a 2-year package.

These assurances were given to Zia by Brezezinski and Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher during their Feb. 3-4 talks, although the precise amounts of aid were reportedly not discussed. In addition to the U.S. grants, Pakistan will get military equipment and funding from West Germany, Great Britain and Saudi Arabia, as well as continuing military aid from China.

President Zia was elated by Brzezinski's offers and the U.S. pledge to intervene against an attack on Pakistan, and he willingly dropped his recently assumed posture of nonalignment.

The stepped-up aid to Pakistan is a key part of Washington's efforts to strengthen the military presence of U.S. and allied forces in the Indian Ocean region. One important source of concern to Washington, however, must be the obvious instability of Zia's military dictatorship, which is despised by Pakistan's impoverished masses and supported by a notoriously corrupt officer corps.

PAKISTAN AND INDIA

Another problem in this U.S. regional strategy is India, a nonaligned state whose position on Afghanistan has in recent weeks encompassed both a call for the withdrawal of Soviet troops and acceptance of Moscow's explanation of its intervention. Afraid that stepped up military aid to Pakistan might drive New Delhi closer to the Soviet Union, which provides most of India's military hardware, Washington escalated the spiralling arms race in the region and offered India new sophisticated military equipment, including aircraft guidance systems and "smart bombs."

Observers report that the weapons offer did not calm India's concerns. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will visit New Delhi next week.

Gromyko joined the U.S. envoys in traveling abroad last week to build support for their countries' positions, post-Afghanistan. He made a surprise visit to Romania, in what was widely viewed as an effort to bring Bucharest into line behind Moscow's invasion. The maverick, independent-minded Warsaw Pact member government showed little sign of altering its implicit criticism of the Soviet actions in Afghanistan, although a joint communique at the end of Gromyko's trip did blame worsening international relations on "the interference of imperialist forces in the internal affairs of other states."

In Afghanistan, meanwhile, details of the military situation remain unclear due to the unreliable nature of Western press reports. Fighting is apparently sporadic, with clashes between Soviet troops and Islamic guerrilas mostly limited to sniper firing. Soviet tanks have reportedly been moved near the Pakistan border at several points to prevent the infiltration of guerrillas and weapons.

Palestine Autonomy Talks Proceed

By Penny Johnston (GUARDIAN)

Chief U.S. Mideast envoy Sol Linowitz appears to have achieved some small advances in the deadlocked Tel Aviv discussions on "autonomy" for the Palestinians.

He immediately used the limited success to try to sell a revamped U.S. Mideast policy to key Arab states. Linowitz emerged from the Egyptian-Israeli talks with a carefully worded Feb. 1 communique lauding "progress" in the negotiations.

The statement came amidst private speculation that a new Carter-Begin-Sadat summit may be in the offing before May 1980, the target date for the completion of autonomy negotiations under the Camp David agreement.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin has been an advocate of such a summit. On Jan. 19, Egyptian President Anwar el Sadat added his approval, according to the Egyptian news agency MENA. The U.S. has been reluctant to stage another Mideast summit. But this hesitation may well be overcome by the realization that the new U.S. drive to fashion a regional alliance against Soviet "expansionism" may well flounder unless there are substantial moves toward the solution of the Palestinian problem.

According to a senior Tel Aviv conference delegate quoted in the Christain Science Monitor, Egyptian negotiators accepted "the fact that any final accord will stop short of a public endorsement of full-scale Palestinian self-determination." In other words, Sadat seems to be following the Camp David pattern, where Egypt finally acceded to all major Israeli proposals.

On the first day of this round of discussions, Israel rejected the Egyptian proposal, which included a Palestinian legislative assembly in the West Bank and Gaza and the inclusion of the 60,000 Palestinians living in East Jerusalem in the autonomy process.

In subsequent discussions, the Israeli model appears to have been the center of discussion. The model is based on an administrative council of Palestinians from the occupied territory with no legislative or judicial powers. The council would exclude representation of residents of Jerusalem.

In a January 26 broadcast on Israeli radio, on the eve of Egyptian-Israeli "normalization," Begin again outlined the Israeli notion of autonomy.

"We raised the idea so that the Arabs of Eretz Israel [Begin's term for Biblical borders of Israel] will be able to handle their own affairs," he said. "In my opinion, this is a nice human idea, a good Jewish and Zionist notion and we hope it will one day come true. However, we absolutely reject the establishment of the so-called Palestinian state."

Earlier, on January 22, Israeli military authorities announced a postponement of mayoral elections in the occupied West Bank until after the May target date for the completion of the autonomy talks. In 1976 these elections swept in pro-PLO mayors and town councils in 22 out of 26 municipal elections.

Any "success" of the Linowitz mission is based on Egyptian capitulation. Linowitz, who began his mission with talks in London with Jordan's King Hussein, ended his Middle East visit after talks with the Saudi ruling family and King Hassan of Morocco.

So far, U.S. attempts to score a "Muslim mobilization" against the Soviet Union and create a regional defense pact in the Middle East have been received with caution in Arab capitals, primarily because of U.S. support for Israel's hardline policies. It is hard to see how any upcoming reunion of the Camp David three can salvage the notion of a solution to the Palestinian problem without a shred of representation by the Palestinian people.

Progressive Programing on WMUA 91.1 FM

SUNDAY

"Giant Steps" with Ed Cohen

"Glory Road Gospel Show" with Rev. Pearson 6am-10am

"Undercurrents" - Public Affairs 12noon-2pm

Jubilation I - Andy Riter Freeport 7pm-10pm

Jubilation II - Andy Riter Freeport 10pm-2am

MONDAY

"Pure Black Classical Music" with Sam Gilford 10am-2pm

"Perspectives and The Real Issues" - Public Affairs 6pm-7pm

"Concepto Latino" with Carlos Gonzales 7pm-10pm

TUESDAY

"Positive Vibrations" with Gary Lee 10am-2pm

"Spirits Past and Present" with Khalil 10pm-2am

WEDNESDAY

"Ladies Nite" with Cocoa, Mahogany, and Midnite Lady 2am-6am

"Black Classical Music for a Wednesday Morning Wakeup" with Rick Grant 6am-10am

THURSDAY

Midday Music with Kendall 10am-2pm

Women's Media Network 7pm-10pm

FRIDAY

"Talk of the Town" with Mr C 10am-2pm

SATURDAY

"Pan Afrique" with Kari Njiiri 2pm-6pm

"Variations" with K-Rock 6pm-10pm

"Family and Friends" with Ujamaa 10pm-2am

On Monday, February 11th, at 6:00 P.M., the WMUA Public Affairs show, "Perspectives and the Real Issues" withhosts Gary Lee and Ujamaa will be presenting a program dealing with the history, use, and effects of the herbicide Agent Orange. This defoliant was used extensively during the war in Vietnam and is believed to be responsible for a wide range of health problems being experienced by Vietnam Veterans and their children. The program will consist of a panel discussion, questions and answers, with a telephone call-in. The panel will consist of several veterans who were exposed to Agent Orange in Vietnam.

The U.S. in Search of Energy

South Africa's SASOL coal gasification technology is attracting new attention in the U.S. Congress.

U.S./SOUTH AFRICA

LOOKING THINGS OVER

JOHANNESBURG Drawn by interests ranging from regional politics to technological exchanges, a long procession of prominent Americans have trekked through South Africa in recent weeks.

Most numerous have been the U.S. Congressional delegations on business in the Republic, part of an unprecedented exodus to Africa during the current Congressional recess in Washington.

An entourage of 40 persons, including House of Representatives members and staff, accompanied majority leader Jim Wright here in early January. Their primary aim was to inspect the South African coal-gasification plant known as SASOL I, as well as two larger facilities now under construction, SASOL II and III.

[Seven members of the House Armed Services Committee, a group led by Chairman Melvin Price, toured these facilities earlier, in November of last year.]

"I think SASOL technology is exactly what we need in the U.S. today," Wright declared at the end of last month's visit. Admitting he is "not an engineer," Wright added that he believes American developers should fully explore SASOL's experience.

Last year the Carter administration approved the idea of using SASOL methods in the United States but ruled out a direct U.S. government [illegible] SASOL business deal. In addition, Texas Eastern Corporation of Houston has reached agreement with SASOL on studying the feasibility of employing the method in the U.S.

The desire to avoid appearing closely linked with South Africa has complicated Washington's approach to the coal-gasification technology, and House majority leader Wright declined comment on political issues during his stay. One of the twelve congressmen on the tour, however, did speak out. Representative William Gray of Philadelphia, a member of the Congressional Black Caucus, said during a dinner in the South African township of Soweto that he was shocked at what he had seen of conditions in the country.

Another recent visitor, Senator Paul Tsongas, also delivered criticism of South Africa's racial policies. Tsongas said that Prime Minister P.W. Botha must demonstrate during the parliamentary session which begins on February 1 that he is serious about major reforms. After the coming six-month period, the Massachusetts senator commented, he would favor actively discouraging U.S. investment unless major changes had been set in motion. (See interview.)

A more sympathetic view of South Africa was taken by Representative James Santini, who chairs a mining subcommittee of the House Committee for Interior and Insular Affairs. Although Santini said at the end of his visit that he hoped for new changes to ensure stability, the Nevada Democrat declared that South Africa's mineral resources are vital to Western interests and are often undervalued in the Carter administration's strategic planning.

As part of Washington's continuing reassessment of its policy in the subcontinent, Assistant Secretary of State Richard Moose toured South Africa's major urban areas and also visited a resettlement camp in Transvaal during his recent trip here. In addition to a meeting with Foreign Minister Roelof (Pik) Botha, Moose talked with many prominent black figures.

In Port Elizabeth, for example, he saw officials of the Port Elizabeth Black Civic Organization, as well as the wives of three PEBCO officials, Thozamile Botha, Phalo Tshume and Mono Badela, who were detained earlier this month just after the Ford strike was settled. In Durban, Moose met with Chief Gatsha Buthelezi, and in Johannesburg he talked with representatives of several black consciousness organizations.

The most recent American delegation to visit here was a 12-member Rockefeller Foundation Committee studying U.S. policy towards South Africa, which completed its tour last week. Like Moose, the Rockefeller Commissioners, headed by Ford Foundation President Franklin Thomas, saw a cross-section of South African society. They are scheduled to return later this year for more specific discussions before completing their report in early 1981.

ANC Fighter to Hang

James Daniel Mange is the second South African freedom fighter to be sentenced to hang by the South African courts in the past year. The charge? High treason.

Mange was tried along with eleven other members of the African National Congress on charges of undergoing guerrilla training abroad, returning to South Africa with the intention of overthrowing the government, and storing caches of Soviet-made weapons. None were charged with murder and, only one of the defendants was accused of actual violence, arising from a battle with the police near the Botswana border that left two of his companions dead.

Mange himself was arrested as he headed for the Mozambique border in a car, dressed in priest's robes. He aroused the suspicion of a policeman when he drove through a red light.

Most of the defendants had been active in the 1976 Soweto uprising and were in their early twenties, although their ages ranged from 20 to 46.

Mange was not charged with graver offenses than his fellow defendants but was singled out nevertheless to die. The others received sentences between 13 and 16 years. Mange was the obvious leader of the group, which refused to recognize the legitimacy of the court. When the judge ordered the public excluded from the court, the defendants dismissed their lawyers and militantly defied the court. They sang freedom songs during the proceedings and on the day of sentencing displayed placards from their dock reading, "Apartheid is a crime against humanity," "Apartheid is high treason," and "Never on our knees."

James Mange's death sentence was protested world-wide

Nuclear Meeting Bars South Africa

South Africa was barred on December 5 from attending the 23rd annual conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency, a move which may presage its eventual expulsion from the 110-member agency. IAEA is the autonomous United Nations agency responsible for safeguarding against nuclear proliferation.

The move urged by African nations, followed the September 22 "fireball" monitored by the US which, it has been suggested, was in fact a South African nuclear explosion.

The expulsion was the first in the agency's history, and was opposed by 24 members including the US, Israel, Italy, and West Germany.

Bank Funds South African Arms Deal

The First Pennsylvania Bank appears to have been involved in financing illegal shipments of artillery shells and testing equipment to South Africa, according to the Burlington Free Press in Vermont.

Documents obtained by the Free Press show that the bank, which at one point was owed as much as $14 million by the Space Research Corporation, encouraged the sales to South Africa in the hope of recovering part of that debt. The bank's involvement in the arms embargo violations came via a $2.2 million letter of credit it granted to enable Space Research, which has been heavily implicated in arms embargo violations (see Southern Africa Nov./Dec. '79),to purchase some 53,000 artillery shells from the Chamberlain Manufacturing Corporation, which runs a US Army ammunition plant in Scranton. These shells were eventually shipped to South Africa.

Although the bank denied any knowledge of the shells' destination, Edward Treon, former Space Research treasurer, asserted that "knowing the bank, I would say they knew quite a bit about it [the South African sale]." The bank had extended a loan and revolving credit to Space Research dating back as far as 1972 and in exchange held company assets as collateral. The bank also had the right to approve all decisions about the firm's operation.

As part of this lending arrangement the bank was also given the patents for Space Research's special extended-range artillery shells. One of these patents was registered in South Africa. Furthermore, the bank's patent rights on the extended-range shells were sold to South Africa in October 1977, according to company records obtained by Free Press reporters.

First Pennsylvania also guaranteed a loan of $3.7 million by a Belgian bank to Colet Trading Establishment, which represented South Africa in its purchase of 53,000 shells from Paragon Holdings Ltd., a Belgian affiliate of Space Research. Another Belgian munitions firm, PRB, was involved along with representatives of Space Research's international subsidiary in arranging the details of the sale to South Africa.

Among the material published by the Free Press is an extract from a letter written by Space Research president Gerald Bull summarizing his 1976 efforts (at the bank's insistence) to obtain a waiver from the State Department's Office of Munitions Control for the sale. The letter sheds interesting light on the US government attitude toward the arms embargo on South Africa.

The State Department view, according to the letter, was that Space Research did not need approval as long as the articles sold through its Beigian affiliate were "not identifiable as parts or components of weapons systems." B.H.□

Announcements

DRUM

All person's interested in being on the staff of Drum we urged to attend the first meeting of the Spring Semester Tuesday February 12, 1980 at 7 pm room 115 New Africa House

We invite you to join us in the interpretations of the Black Experience.
Poetry, essays, fiction, photography and artworks are now being considered for the Fall)Spring '79-80 edition of Drum.
Written material shall be double-spaced, typed, xeroxed copies of the originals.
Photography: black and whites shall be no smaller than 5" x 7" inches prints color photography shall be submitted as slides.
Artwork: drawing and painting (color and black and whites) shall be submitted as as slides.
All material submitted becomes the property of Drum
All submissions should be addressed to;
Drum
115 New Africa House
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
Deadline date;
Wednesday March 12, 1980
"Share Your Mind With The World"

Student Cover Design Competition
For the first time in the history of Drum a cover design competition is being held. The winning photograph, drawing or painting will be used in our new format and will be plaking on the cover of the Fall)Spring 1979-80 edition of the Black Literary Experience. In addition a framed version of the winning entry will be presented to the winner of the competition.

for the children
I want them to have this time of now as their playground and future be their new home
For the children
I want them to have this good black earth as a gift, I want them to have this blessing that is the Garden of Eden to run free and grow strong
For the children
I want them to live and love as I do. I want them to sing songs; uhuru chants and freedom suites. Tomorrow is thiers
Oh, GOD, I want the children to be free

RULES:
1. All students are eligible.
2. Entrants may not be a professional in the field of art, photography, graphic arts, design or of related fields.
3. Photography: Black and whites are to be no smaller than

Andy Young will be appearing at the Curry Hicks Cage on Feb. 19, 1980. The event is sponsered by D.V.P.

ANDY YOUNG

The National Dance Co. of Senegal will appear at the Fine Arts Center Sun Feb 17, 1980. For information on ticket prices call 545-2511

First organizational meeting of UMass Students against the Draft
Wednesday Feb. 13 5:00 CC 168-170

healthreach

Programs for Students & Families in University Housing

The Healthreach Program of the Division of Community Health Education was begun in 1974 to offer health programs, information and assistance to Family Housing residents. Healthreach now operates in North Village, Lincoln Apartments and University Apartments, serving a total of 391 apartment units. This year a new focus is added to the program as Healthreach changes emphasis to better serve the needs of Third World and foreign students and their families. Healthreach maintains contact with other campus agencies and groups including the Family Housing Office (in the Office of Residential Resource Management), Child Care System, CCEBS, Bilingual Collegiate Program and the Foreign Students Office.

The Healthreach Team for 1979-80:

Joanne Gravell, Coordinator	UHS	549-2671
Lorraine Cox	H-10 North Village	549-1206
Hodges Glenn, Jr.	F-19 North Village	549-6762
Tim Tilden	284 N. Pleasant St.	253-7710

Residents of Family Housing form a diversified population which includes single parents with their children, married couples, some with children, foreign students from many nations, handicapped students, and older "non-traditional" students. About half are graduate students. There are approximately 680 adults and 300 children (96% occupancy rate).

Healthreach activities, in addition to weekly in-service training sessions and the periodic publication of a newsletter, include such on-site programs and services as: health needs assessments, including special surveys of Latino and Asian residents; baby-sitting exchanges; potluck suppers and festivals; first aid for children; parent-child communication about sex; couple enrichment sessions; pregnancy and parenting; alternatives to alcohol; family violence; nutrition; dental care; male and female sexual health. Healthreach workers also provide crisis intervention and assistance, as well as referral and supportive counseling.

Major accomplishments include: establishment of an Infant/Toddler Play Group within the School of Home Economics; successful collaborative advocacy for playgrounds in each apartment complex; modeling for ORRM which now employs residential managers with similar in-service training and goals, assistance in the creation of a Family Housing Recognized Student Organization (RSO); greater UHS and University awareness of the needs of foreign and Third World students; and collaborative advocacy for a Community Center in each of the apartment complexes.

Part-time Position

The University Health Services/Division of Community Health Education is seeking candidates for a part-time position as an outreach worker with the Healthreach program. The outreach worker will work with residents of University-owned Family Housing, especially with Hispanic students and their families. In addition, the outreach worker will act as a liaison with the Bilingual Collegiate Program. Fluency in Spanish in required.

The responsibilities of the outreach worker will include arranging health programs for Family Housing residents, providing assistance and making referrals. Facilitating productive communication and relationships among residents, University Health Services, and appropriate groups and agencies in the University community is a priority as well.

The position requires 10-15 hours/week during the 1979-80 academic year at $3.65/hour. Work/study and non-work/study students are eligible to apply. Non-student applicants must be residents of Family Housing.

For an application packet, contact Joanne Gravell, Health Education, University Health Services, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, 549-2671. Deadline for application is February 13.

The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity employer.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 82 — Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst — Tuesday, February 12, 1980

Index...

News Digest.....page 2
Editorial/Opinion.....page 5
Comics, DC menu.....page 9
Sports.....pages 11, 12

Willie Brown, a prisoner in Walpole's Cell Block 10 segregation unit commented to reporters, who were touring the prison to view conditions and improvements that have been made, "It's worse than it was before." Walpole was labeled a "jungle" by a federal report yesterday. Brown complained of "more beatings by guards." (AP laserphoto)

Athletic fee increase slated to offset deficit

By FRANK PAPSADORE
Collegian Staff

The UMass Athletic Department ended fiscal year 1979 with an $82,500 budget deficit. This year's $7 increase in the athletic department's fee helped, but another $10 increase is slated for next semester.

According to Athletic Department Financial Manager, Al Rufe, the proposed $10 increase should almost balance the budget.

"The 12 percent inflation rate over the past year really hurt us," explained Rufe, "but gasoline pricing was the heaviest hitter. Transportation of athletic teams is a major part of the budget, and gas prices alone went up about 100 percent over the past year."

Rufe said that the $7 increase this year was absolutely neccesary and that next years increase proposal of $10 is also a major step in stabilizing the athletic department's financial situation.

The $10 increase should just about balance the budget, continued Rufe as he leafed through some folders, "The late 1970's were bad, real bad financially. There is really nothing to compare it with. As long as this fee increase goes through, and I'm assuming that it will, we will probably be in a more stable situation in the future. But again, the inflation rate just has to slow down for us to keep up."

The $10 increase proposal has been passed by a student senate committee and is on it's way through channels, eventually to be considered by the UMass Board of Trustees.

"The suspension of the hockey program saved us about $30,000 this year, maybe more," said Rufe, "And if we didn't get the $7 increase this year, we might have been put in the position of deciding what to cut next. But right now, everything looks pretty good."

"We're still scheduling all 28 UMass athletic teams for next year," said Bob O'Connell, Associate Director of the UMass Athletic Department, "There are no program cuts slated for the near future, however, we probably will not be adding any either."

This means that a hockey program probably will not be reinstated for some time, O'Connell said. He gave two prime reasons for the decision.

"In order for us to have a successful hockey program," said O'Connell, "we would need one of two things, or both. Those two things are schoiarships and a hockey arena. And there is just no talk of any of that going on right now."

Dean Bischoff of the UMass Athletic Department insists talk of a hockey arena for UMass is not dead. The proposal for erecting a dome over Alumni Stadium so it may accomodate hockey, basketball, football, soccer and other teams is still in its working stages.

"I plan to speak with the Chancellor sometime during this semester in order to persuade him to embrace the idea of a dome." commented Bischoff. "The dome would cater to many desires, including hockey, paddleball and all phases of sports instruction. It is badly needed."

Bischoff declined to comment on the feasability of the dome actually ever becoming a reality. He said, "It would be a disservice to generate any positive feelings or negative for that matter concerning the construction of the dome. The best thing to say is not much," Bischoff said, "until we have something concrete to talk about."

Carter invites UMass students to conference

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

President Jimmy Carter has invited UMass student government co-Presidents Brian Burke and Richard LaVoice and 200 other student government leaders nationwide to the White House this Friday for a briefing on domestic and foreign issues.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic affairs advisor, and Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security advisor, will be among the presidential aides to speak and answer questions at the briefing, presidential aide Heather Pars said. She said the agenda will be a discussion of policies for the 80s.

The briefing will be held in the old Executive Office Building, next to the White House, from 9:30 to 5 p.m., Pars said. The President is scheduled to address the students and meet with them in the East Room of the White House in the afternoon. A reception is also planned.

Burke and LaVoice received their invitation via a mailgram late last week. By the time the two UMass student leaders leave for Washington, they will have been briefed on various issues of concern to the UMass student government and may have a package statement to deliver.

Presidential aide Pars said Friday's sessions had been in the planning stages for the past "four or five months."

"We do this kind of briefing" frequently, Pars said in a telephone interview yesterday. "It gives us a chance to discuss our relationship on policies first hand." She said she was sure that students will question Carter's poposal to reinstate military registration and require women to rgister also.

Carter, who coasted to an easy victory in the Iowa caucus over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and a narrow win over the Massachusetts senator in Maine this weekend without campaigning personally, has been holding similar briefings with local and state Democrats since last fall, when the presidential campaign season began.

Student chosen delegate, will support Carter

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

UMass Junior Kim Kirschner was elected Sunday to support Jimmy Carter as a delegate in the Democratic National Convention at New York's Madison Square Garden in August.

Kirschner, a 20-year-old political science major, won the position as fourth delegate at the 1st District Carter caucus, held at the Berkshire Hills Country Club in Pittsfield. In order for her to attend the national convention, Carter must get at least 67 percent of the March 4 Massachusetts primary vote.

Kirschner entered the race by first submitting a statement of intent to the democratic Committee in Boston. She was then invited to attend the Carter caucus, where she gave a speech and was later nominated.

The balloting is arranged so that three male delegates are elected first, followed by the election of three female delegates. The number of delegates from the first district will depend on how high a percentage of votes Carter captures.

Kirschner's qualifications for the position include activity in student politics here at UMass and on a national level. She is a special assistant to the presidents of the Student Government Association, a member of the Undergraduate Student Senate Government Affairs Committee, a board member of the UMass Legal Services Organization and treasurer of the University Political Science Association.

Nationally, Kirschner will be directing the Commission on Human Rights at the Model United Nations Conference in New York City in April as a member of the National Collegiate Conference Association.

"Many people think that students have a 'me generation' attitude," Kirschner said yesterday. "That's true of some, but not the majority.

"My involvement will show people that students do care, that we would like to have a voice in choosing the leader of our country." she said.

Kirschner said she chose to support Carter because she has studied all the candidates and believes Carter is "the best in the race." She cited his human and civil rights policies, crisis management, trustworthiness and leadership as criteria for her decision.

"His policies have not always been popular," she said, "but they have been right."

UMass Junior Kim Kirschner talks about the activities that have led her to being elected as a delegate for Jimmy Carter at the Democratic National Convention. (Staff photo by Richard Newman)

DIGEST

An Iranian soldier sports a flower in the barrel of his rifle as he and fellow troops march in a parade celebrating the first anniversary of the revolution yesterday in Tehran.

Bani-Sadr drops demand for return of shah to Iran

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr was quoted yesterday by a French newspaper as saying his government is no longer demanding return of the deposed shah before the release of the american hostages which could occur "perhaps even in the coming days."

In Tehran, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini marked the first anniversary of his Islamic revolution in Iran by vowing to continue battle against "the ruthless devourer," the United States. He made no mention of hostages, who marked their 100th day in captivity.

Masses of jubilant Iranians celebrated the revolution's anniversary with a victory parade through Tehran. The crush was so great a grandstand collapsed, killing one person and injuring 66 persons.

Three Mile Island N-plant springs new radioactive leak

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP)—Radioactive water leaked for nearly two hours inside the damaged Three Mile Island nuclear power plant yesterday, but authorities said it appeared no radioactive material was released outside the facility.

"The leak hs been isolated and stopped," said John Collins, head of operations at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's office here. State officials said water had leaked at a maximum rate of nine gallons per minute between 12:55 p.m. and 2:40 p.m.

"I understand it came from a pump within the auxiliary building," said Ken McKee, a spokesman for General Public Utilities.

Abortion deaths among poor linked to federal cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—At least four poor women have died as a result of the cutoff of practically all federal funds for Medicaid abortions, according to U.S. medical investigators.

Investigators for the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said they have identified eight other deaths resulting from illegal or self-induced abortions that could not be linked to the termination of federal financing of abortions. Two of the eight were teen-agers who were afraid to tell their parents they were pregnant.

Arts in Review

Stompers leave sold-out crowd in Blue Wall screaming for more

By DAVID A. SEGAL
Special to the Collegian

Last Saturday night the Stompers made history at the Blue Wall as they became the first local band ever to sell out the club. Their show did not disappoint the standing room only crowd. The band opened with their self-proclaimed theme song "This is Rock and Roll." The number set the pace for the entire evening as the Blue Wall never stopped jumping.

Sal Baglio, on lead guitar and vocals, directed the Stompers through two high-energy sets. Though at times it seemed as if Baglio was about to lose his voice, he played on enthusiastically and with determination. The band's rock and roll purity is balanced by the almost possessed drummer, Mark Cuccinello with bassist Steve Gilligan; and pianist Dave Friedman.

By the time the Stompers began their second set the crowd was so pumped up the band was literally unable to play any of the slower-type tunes and ballards they delivered in the first set. The highlight of the evening came during the group's version of "Loopie Lou." The crowd was overwhelmed as Baglio joined Cuccinello behind the drums. From competition to cooperation, the two men wooed the audience to the point of no return.

During the band's encore performance, it became more than evident that these four musicians have a certain magic and magnitude that propels them far above the average bar band. The crowd was left in awe, begging and screaming for more.

The Bluewall rocked Saturday night as The Stompers played to a sell-out crowd. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Members of the New Rhythm and Blues Quartet (NRBQ), Al Anderson, Joey Spampinato, Tom Ardolino and Terry Adams perfomed at the Rusty Nail in Sunderland Friday night. (Staff photo by Bob Robinson)

NRBQ upholds high standards in Friday show

By BRETT MILANO
Collegian Staff

NRBQ, the New Rhythm and Blues Quartet, made an appearance at the Rusty Nail on Friday night. The band has become one of the area's most popular attractions. This was the seventh time I've seen them in the past year, but I'm not complaining. There have been a couple of minor changes in their show over the past year. They now play one long set instead of two short ones—but they never fail to give the audience their best.

A typical NRBQ set will usually begin with a few uptempo numbers to get the audience up and dancing, and end with the band tearing into a few encores' worth of straightforward rock and roll. In between, they may touch on any number of musical styles, from improvisational jazz, to classic rockabilly or swing.

One high point on Friday's set was a potent version of the blues standard, "Honey Hush." Another was "Things We Like To Do," a wonderfully-silly singalong originally done by Alvin and the Chipmunks. "Green Lights," one of the band's hardest rockers, was a crowd pleaser; as was a surprise rendition of "Wooly Bully." They allow themselves more room to improvise on stage than on record, and these improvisations contain some of their most inspired moments.

Terry Adams, NRBQ's keyboardist, is the band's most interesting soloist, whether he's pounding the hell out of his acoustic piano or providing some ornamental sounds on synthesizer. Guitarist Al Anderson is responsible for the band's bluesiest numbers, and he plays and sings them with a passion. Bassist Joey Spampinato's songs usually run more toward melodic, 60's-style pop, giving further variety to the band's repertoire. Tom Ardolino is a straightforward, no-nonense drummer. Completing the band is the two-piece Whole Wheat Horns, who added their own solos on the jazzier numbers.

NRBQ has gone through a number of personnel changes over the years, but the band has stayed together for nearly a decade. After all of the shows they've played, they still seem to have the time of their lives whenever they go onstage, and they make sure their audience has the same.

Arts Notice

Jim Moran, Arts Editor of the Collegian, announces the following appointments of Arts Department editors:

Assistant Arts Editor—Eileen Foley
Art Editor—Amy Hubert
Books Editor—Beth Segers
Dance Editor—Sarah Hammann
Drama Editor—David Ambos
Film Editor—Candyce Carlon
Music Co-Editors:
Albums (Records) —Tom Anderson
Concerts—Norma Coates

There will be a meeting of all Arts Department staff to discuss planning for future material for the daily newspaper and monthly magazine on Wednesday, February 13 at 7:00 p.m. at Plumbley's Pub.

Jan. 30—Feb. 15 only with Student I.D.

We're Changing
Our 2 for 1 Special to Tuesday Nights
— 9 til 11 —
— Disco — Oldies —
No Cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Mechanical engineer senior Geoff Andrews is among those who took advantage of the quiet study facilities of the library on its first major reopening after several months of being closed to the general student populace. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Building reform tangled in court

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

The Special Commission Concerning State and County Buildings is engaged in a court battle with former Governor Endicott Peabody over documents the commission believes will indicate the "real" powers that were involved in awarding public building contracts, according to an AP wire story.

The special Commission, the Ward Commission, named after it's chairman Dr. John Ward, is trying to overturn a December Superior court ruling that nullified the commission's subpoena of some of Peabody's personal documents. Superior Court Judge Vincent R. Brogna upheld Peabody's attorney, Morris M. Goldings' argument that the subpoenaed documents fall under a "lawyer's work doctrine" which protects lawyer-client confidentiality, the story states.

Goldings is also the General Counsel for the UMass Building Authority, which falls under the Commission's reform proposals.

Brogna also ruled that the Commission had already fulfilled it's purpose when it submitted it's legislative package on Dec. 5, according to the story.

The legislative package proposes "a total reorganization" of state building practices. Speaker of the House Thomas McGee and Senate President William Bulger have co-sponsored the legislation, which is still pending.

Goldings asserted in court that the Commission's March hearings would be an "abuse of power" if they were designed to gain support for the Commission's legislation, the story states.

Commission representative Nick Littlefield declined comment on the court dispute and the status of the Commission in light of Judge Brogna's ruling that the matter is still before the Supreme Judicial Court.

Goldings was not available for comment yesterday.

The commission has also investigated the Bureau of Building Construction which supervised the construction of the UMass library and Tilson steam plant, both of which have construction problems.

Contract award attempts repair of faulty CC elevators

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

In an effort to combat a nine-year old Campus Center elevator problem, the university has awarded a $2150 per month contract to a Worcester company to service the faulty elevators.

The contract, limited to one year, was awarded to the Armour Elevator Co., and took effect Feb. 1, according to Campus Center Director William Harris.

The elevators have been plagued by doors that open when they shouldn't, doors that won't open when they should, and strange noises in recent years.

Stressing the need for properly functioning elevators because of numerous conventions and meetings in the building, Harris added, "we can now have confidence in our elevators."

Harris said the Physical Plant had performed repairs in the past including maintenance and emergency repairs. "They were excellent. They were there when we needed them," he said.

Workers who had gained expertise in repairing the elevators left several years ago for other employment, Harris said, adding the "confidence" of continuous maintenance prompted the contract award.

A study which was conducted nine years ago by the New York elevator consulting firm Carajat Brothers Associates Inc. indicated the elevators were never properly installed. The report also incicated that improper use by elevator passengers complicated the problem.

The elevators were completed in 1969 by the Boston firm, B & A Elevator Company.

Massachusetts reps hold different views on draft

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

While four state representatives are opposed to President Carter's proposed draft registration for men and women, two support it and the remaining six are still undecided, according to a survey conducted yesterday by the Sudent Center for Educational Research and Advocacy.

William Lyons, a member of SCERA's Public Policy team, said he contacted each of the representative's offices in order to inform UMass students how their individual representatives stand on the issue.

"I think it is important for students to know how their representatives stand so they can exercise their power of persuasion and get their views represented," Lyons said.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., D-eighth district, is the only representative who supports registration for men and women. Nicholas Mavroules, D-sixth district, supports registration for men but not for women. John Joseph Moakley, D-ninth district, is undecided but is leaning towards supporting registration, according to the survey.

Edward P. Boland, D-second district and Gerry E. Studds, D-twelfth district, who says he is skeptical of the need for registration, are both awaiting a sub-committee meeting on Feb. 26 to discuss the issue.

The four representatives opposed to the registration are Robert F. Drinan, D-fourth district, James M. Shannon, D-fifth district, Edward J. Markey, D-seventh district, and Brian J. Donnelly, D-eleventh district.

Silvio O. Conte, D-first district, says he is undecided on registration for men but is opposed to registration for women and would vote against the draft.

Margaret M. Heckler, R-tenth district, and Joseph D. Early, D-third district, are both undecided at this time, according to the survey.

The UMass Students Against the Draft group will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday at 5 p.m. in Campus Center 168-170, organizer Arvid Muller said yesterday.

This horse might be getting a new home if plans for an improved equine center come to pass as proposed by the animal science and veterinary department. (Staff photo by Kim Johnson)

Vet, animal sciences program to build UMass Equine Center

By ANGELA FERNANDES
Special to the Collegian

The Department of Veterinary and Animal Sciences Equitation Program is beginning a two-year drive to raise $250,000 to build an Equine Center at Tillson Farm.

The proposed center would include a 200-by-80 foot indoor riding arena, a stabling area, attached classroom and office space, restrooms and changing facilities.

Dr. Anthony Borton, Vice Chairman of the Equine Center Council, said the fund raising plan includes appealing to individual patrons, horse clubs, and breed associations, as well as the thoroughbred racing industry. The Equine Center will sponsor several fund raising events such as raffles and an alumni phonothon. The phonothon will be held as a supplement to brochures being sent out to appeal alumni of the Veterinary and Animal Sciences Department, asking for support of the project.

Because there is no present indoor facilities, Borton said, the Equine Program is limited by weather conditions. The months from December to March generally limit the use of outdoor facilities. By building this facility, the equine program will no longer by limited to seasonal outdoor activity and will be able to provide larger riding and teaching facilities which will be made more available to both students and community members.

The Equine Council hopes to have raised sufficient funds by the end of a two-year period, or sooner if possible.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Say it with a flower

Red means "I love you!"
Pink means "I like you!"
White means "I'd like to get to know you!"

Let that special someone know how you feel!

Stop by the CC Feb. 9-12
Be ready for Valentine's Day!

Sponsored by Newman Club

Around campus

Northeast/Sylvan sponsors film on Iran

The Northeast/Sylvan Film Series will present The Temptation of Power, a 1976 film on Iran, tonight at 7 in Lewis House basement and again at 9 in the McNamara House basement. Admission is free.

UMass committee hosts 'Biography in American Studies'

The UMass American Studies Committee will host a forum on "Biography in American Studies," today at 4 p.m. in Herter Hall, 6 floor lounge.

Women's Voice seeks Third World women

The Valley Women's Voice will host a recruitment meeting for Third World women tonight at 7 at the Everywomen's Center at Wilder Hall.

Conservation Commission seeks volunteer 'walkers'

The Amherst Conservation Commission is seeking volunteer "ridgewalkers" to hike the towns conservation areas and wildlife sanctuaries and report on their condition. Interested volunteers should contact the Commission, or call 256-0413.

COLLEGIAN SUBSCRIPTION

—Send the Collegian home, to parents, to friends, to relatives.

—Graduating? Get a Collegian sent to you next year at this year's prices.

ONLY $15/year or $9/semester
(on campus)-$9/year or $5/semester
DON'T MISS OUT. SUBSCRIBE NOW fill out this form or drop by the office

Send the Collegian to _____ Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Starting Date ____ All subscriptions must be prepaid
Your name _____
Off Campus: $15/year & $9/semester
On Campus: $9/year & $5/semester

the
EPC PRODUCTIONS
presents
PAT METHENY GROUP
Sunday, Feb. 24 8 p.m. - Fine Arts Center
Tickets: 7.00, 6.50, 6.00 students
8.00, 7.50, 7:00 non-students
At: TIX, Union Records
Platterpus, FAC Box Office

TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE!

COUPON
College Pizza
Grand Opening Offer

clip this ad and save
50c on any size pizza!

Free Delivery
549-6073 549-6098
located across from Southwest

Smith-Corona® Enterprise

Mfr. Code - 3 LRD

An intermediate priced electric portable. Quality compact with cartridge ribbons, 84 character keyboard, repeating keys and on/off signal. Wide power return; many helpful features.

Discount priced at $199.95

We rent SCM typewriters, also

in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Free gift!
Face Factory fashion lipstick, $3 value . . .
with precision cut. $14
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS

Wednesday's Special:
Shampoo, Cut & Blow Dry
$8.00. Good Until Feb. 27th

Editorial/Opinion

Work hazards enduring but health is not

The theory goes like this: In a free market, workers selling their skills to the highest bidder can effectively bargain with their employers concerning the conditions under which they work. In a freely competitive system, it is, of course, in the best interests of all concerned to operate a safe, hazard-free workplace, and the forces of the market tend to produce one.

JOHN PARKER

This would sound even better were it true.

In the real world, one employer may be the only one of note in a community, or the only place where unskilled or semi-skilled labor can hope to earn enough to support a family. Even when an area has a variety of workplaces, there are no guarantees that a worker with a limited training in one can find work in another. In any case, the worker would forfeit seniority, benefits, and a percentage of pay.

This clearly means that workers are often not very free to "vote with their feet" when they feel they work around hazards without adequate safeguards. With bills to pay, perhaps mouths to feed, and often debts as well, with no prospects for another job for equal pay, the employed show a marked tendency to stay silent and endure abuse. Workers who know what their rights are, under the Occupational Safety and Health Act are often reluctant to exercise them. They can find it hard to change policies or press for redress of grievances and can often be made to go to great lengths to keep their jobs.

An Occupational Safety and Health Administration citation issued to American Cyanamid on October 9, 1979 reads in part: "The employer adopted and implemented a policy which required women employees to be sterilized in order to be eligible to work in those areas of the plant where they would be exposed to certain toxic substances..."

The women in question were working in Cyanamid's Willow Island, W. V. plant with pigments containing lead, a known teratogen. A teratogen is any agent which causes birth defects in developing fetuses.

By excluding women from jobs which could expose them to hazardous substances in order to protect them or their potential offspring from injury, companies excuse themselves from making the workplace safe for all workers. By firing fertile women, or forcing them to undergo sterilization or lose their jobs, companies remove the more visible victims from the source of danger. Men, who may be just as affected, remain; and there is often too little incentive to investigate the effects of materials on male workers when this could mean expensive alteration of the manufacturing process. That men can be affected, and their ability to father normal children impaired, is all too painfully and easily established. During the year and one half long manufacture of the herbicide Oryzalin at the former GAF plant in Rensselaer, N.Y., no normal pregnancies were observed in the wives of the all-male production work-crew that handled the making of Oryzalin. Four children were born with heart defects; there was one reported miscarriage.

These are not isolated occurrences without precedent. There is a pattern of abuse in several industries in the exclusion of fertile women from higher-paying, non-traditional jobs, allegedly to protect them and their unborn children. Forced sterilization is the high price some women have to pay for the right to put food on their table. This infamy has been fueled by the sexist assumption that only women's reproductive health is affected by toxins in the workplace, and by the profound and general ignorance concerning the analogous effects in men. Industry must be made accountable for its treatment of workers, and the message that the public, union leaders, workers and activists must give it is clear: Remove the hazard, not the worker, and alter the production process, not the employee.

John Parker is a Collegian columnist

Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief, JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMAN CHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisments lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Registration: representation?

Since President Carter called for revitalization of Selective Service registration for young men between the ages of 18 and 26, discussion of the Equal Rights Amendment has been renewed and the question has been posed as to whether or not young women should also have to register. Some students have expressed the opinion that if the ERA is ratified young women will have to register because of what the laws entails. Other students feel that making women register for Selective Service somehow extends to them the equal rights that they are still not guaranteed under the Constitution. It is distressing to see the principle of equal rights for women being distorted into a mandate for military service for women since one has absolutely nothing to do with the other. It is exactly this kind of twisted thinking that has made the ERA so unpopular.

LUCY MONTES

Perhaps the first problem lies with the term "Equal Rights Amendment." Most people envision unisex bathrooms, women working from nine to five and men staying home to take care of the children. People begin to imagine that the sex of a person will no longer be taken into consideration by the law and that the legal system will become sex blind. Misconceptions include the idea that women will have to do everything that men have to do and that men will get to do whatever women can do. Such absurd notions include men taking leaves of absence for pregnancy or no longer paying alimony. Equal rights does not mean integration of the sexes, since we've already done that on our own, nor does it mean that women will have the same legal obligation as men.

The Equal Rights Amendment prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. This means, very simply, that for the first time in over 200 years this nation will establish, in unequivocal terms, the legal status of women, and for the first time women will have the same legal status as men under the Constitution. Discrimination will no longer be legal on the basis of color, creed, race, national origin or sex. Women will not suddenly be converted into men, they will simply be assured full legal status as citizens.

But many people confuse equal rights with identical obligations. Many men, and perhaps even more women, are saying that if men can be drafted, so should women. Some women fear that if they aren't eligible for military service then they are somehow being discriminated against. The absurdity of this is evident. For years women have taken on the responsibilities of themselves and their men in order to free them for military service. That a women is not performing the same function as a man does not mean that she is not performing an equally important function, simply that she is performing a different one.

Equal rights does not mean that men and women must now share the same responsibilities and obligations or that differences between the sexes must be eliminated. Women certainly don't need to fulfill military service in order to feel they are capable of serving their country.

The example of women serving in the Israeli forces is not applicable here since the history of this nation and that of Israel are in no way similar. Israel is a nation whose people have had to defend themselves against annihilation for many centuries, while the United States has the luxury of defending its own interests all over the world.

Women between the ages of 18 and 26, or any other women for that matter, should not have to inscribe. Women have more important responsibilities. Without going into the endless conflicts and problems that men would suffer with women among their ranks, one has only to look at the disruption caused among families when men have had to leave their homes. The damage caused by the absence of women would be irreparable. Women between the ages of 18 and 26 are in their prime childbearing years. This nation can't afford to lose a whole generation of children in the name of "equal rights."

Lucy Montes is a guest columnist

Letters

Responsibility for sexism: Oliphant's or editors'?

To the Editor:

Upon seeing the cartoon which appeared on the Editorial page on February 8, I again asked myself: "When will the image of women be treated with respect and dignity, and not serve as a handy metaphor for the sins and shortcomings of men?"

Picturing the members of Congress as buxom prostitues says a lot less about men, supposedly ethical, who are corrupt, than it does about the acceptability of the image of women as persons to be bought and sold, the morals of whom are (naturally) inferior to those of men. Would you expect to see a satire of a woman which places her in the role of the male prostitute? That image would be inflammatory, guaranteed to be offensive to the way men see themselves.

For you to print this tasteless cartoon reflects to me the attitudes of newspaper editors who do not (or do not care to) question their prejudices against women.

Sheila Zakre
Northampton

Editor's note:

We wish we could claim credit for even a fraction of Mr. Oliphant's extraordinary work but,alas, his talent and opinion are his own. The opinion expressed in any signed editorial (cartoons included) belong to the writer.

As for our own choice of the cartoon in question, this is more a reflection of scarcity than indiscretion. Persons interested in providing us with a better selection are invited to submit original editorial cartoons at their convenience.

Nebulous cerebral verbosity bewilders academician

To the Editor:

Sociology students who have The Family (Stein et al), check out page 179 for proof that what I am about to pass on is really in print. It is the century's best told lie, repeated here for those who could use a laugh.

"Not being convinced, however, that theoretical lucidity is necessarily enhanced by terminological ponderosity, we shall avoid as much as possible the use of the sort of jargon for which both sociologists and phenomenologists have acquired dubious notoriety."

Is it any wonder?...

Steve Masse
Amherst

David Whitman

Hair Shack

is proud to announce

Roger Davignon

and

Richard D'Amico

have joined our talented staff

124 Amity Street
Amherst
549-5111

David Whitman
Hair Shack
A Total Service Salon

DELTA UPSILON

Invites you to see the fastest growing fraternity on campus.

Mon. Feb. 11 8:00 PM
Tues. Feb. 12 8:00 PM
Wed. Feb. 13 8:00 PM

Refreshments will be served
778 North Pleasant Street
across from NOPE Gym
for info call Vinny 545-2735

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

University of Arizona offers more than 40 courses: anthropology, art, bilingual education, folk music and folk dance, history, political science, sociology, Spanish language and literature and intensive Spanish. Six-week session. June 30-August 8, 1980. Fully accredited graduate and undergraduate program. Tuition $295. Room and board in Mexican home, $315. EEO/AA

Write
Guadalajara Summer School
Robert L. Nugent 209
University of Arizona
Tucson 85721
(602) 626-4729

the UNIVERSITY STORE'S

CALCULATOR EXCHANGE

The calculator Exchange is a service offered by the University Store where we sell USED CALCULATORS. If you have a calculator to SELL or if you are looking to BUY a calculator come in and talk to us.

the calculator store

the UNIVERSITY STORE

STADIUM

KEGS— LIQUORS

U. Mass. Amherst

BEER— WINE—

LIQUORS

500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

Miller bottles or cans.....2.10-6 pk 7.49 cs
Bud bottles or cans.....2.10-6 pk 7.49 cs
Haffenreffer 12 oz. bottles.....1.60-6 pk 5.90 cs
Schlitz 12 oz. n/r.....2.00-6pk 6.90 cs
Gallo 3 litre Chablis, Pink Chablis, Burgandy, Red Rose, Rhine.....4.95
Rose Garden Liebframilch.....3.99

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO

1177 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, Mass.
Tel. 549-3669

"The only Italian Pizza Shop in Amherst"

We Feature
12" and 16" Pizzas
Foot-long Subs

Free Delivery from
5 p.m. - 3 a.m. Sunday 4 p.m. - 2 a.m.

Coupon

2 Free cans of Pepsi with any size Pizza

FAC audience sees virtuoso in Zuckerman

By KEN LEANING
Special to the Collegian

Pinchas Zukerman, virtuoso violinist, and accompanist Marc Neikrug, on piano, entranced a large Fine Arts Center audience in a concert given last Saturday night. The concert consisted of a well-paced variety of music, all sonatas, which brought the listener through myriad dramatic peaks and soothing calms. The duo played the scheduled Sonata in A Major, Opus 96 by Beethoven as second and third sets, respectively.

The first piece though, as Mr. Zukerman pointed out after it had been played, was Mozart's Sonata in E Major, Op. 19 as opposed to E-flat Major as the programs read. Mr. Zukerman added with a playful smile that they might come back next year "...and play it in E-flat." I think the entire audience wuld come back to haar them play, whatever the key. Audience appreciation brought them out ot play two encores before ending for the evening.

It was not necessary to know what was being played once the music began. Mr. Zukerman has done several concerts with Marc Neikrug before, but they played as if they'd been practicing together for several years. Much of the interplay of the instruments flowed back and forth in a pendulum conversation, with one or the other occasionally running off on a solo lead. Precision and agility were made to look deceptively easy, for the two performers played as if it was only natural to play so well.

The Mozart piece began a bit coldly, but soon warmed up and finished with a lot of life. Mr. Zukerman said afterwards that the noticeable lack of humidity in the auditorium made play rather difficult, for the strings got very slippery. His fingertips were cracked and dried in testimony to both the humidity problem and the intensity of the performance.

Mr. Zukerman signed autographs and spoke loosely with many people who stopped after the concert at the table where some of his recordings were being sold.

Marc Neikrug of New York, a highly talented performer of solo repertoire and chamber music, complimented quite well Pinchas Zukerman of Israel, who is considered one of the greatest istrumentalists in the world. The reason for Zukerman's reputation was made obvious in concert Saturday at the FAC. It was a lively and impressive performance.

Have a front row seat for all the Olympic games with 2 T.V.s at

Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation

SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you

THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

All for $5.50
with this coupon only

With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only.
limited to new customers only

Styles by Deborah I & II

55 University Dr.
Amherst, MA
549-5610

Shimmack

62 Main St.
Easthampton, Ma.
527-2411

What you can't see won't hurt you... it'll kill you!

JOHN CARPENTER'S "THE FOG" A DEBRA HILL PRODUCTION
Starring ADRIENNE BARBEAU, JAMIE LEE CURTIS, JOHN HOUSEMAN and JANET LEIGH as Kathy Williams and starring HAL HOLBROOK as Father Malone
Produced by DEBRA HILL Written by JOHN CARPENTER and DEBRA HILL Directed by JOHN CARPENTER
Executive Producer CHARLES B. BLOCH an ENTERTAINMENT DISCOVERIES, INC. PRESENTATION

From the creator of "Halloween" comes the ultimate experience in terror.

Read the BANTAM Book

AVCO EMBASSY PICTURES Release

R RESTRICTED UNDER 17 REQUIRES ACCOMPANYING PARENT OR ADULT GUARDIAN

© 1979 AVCO EMBASSY PICTURES CORP

Opens February 15 at a theatre near you

Add-drop period ends today!

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1972 Toyota Corona rebuilt engine, little rust, well maintained. Needs engine work. $600 or offer. 584-2062

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Fiat 74 X19 for sale call 549-0146

1970 Olds Delta '88' Exc. running cond. new battery FM-8 track 425.00 or BO Jeff 546-4138

65 VW Bug new clutch, muffler, tires, heaterboxes over $200 in new parts $375 546-5464

Comet 92000 mi runs well call 253-9340

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

BLUES BAND WANTED

A 3-5 piece band is needed to play UMSFCU sponsored benefit in assoc. w/UPC in the SUB 2/28/80. No pay but plenty of exposure and fun is assured. Call Peter 546-9366

CURRENTLY DISMANTLING

1000 Late Model Cars for parts. Lowest prices, Searles Auto Parts, Inc., 85 Easthampton Rd., Northampton, Mass. 584-2832

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

Bose/Tapco/Ev Pro soundsystem for rent perfect for coffeehouse, etc. MF Sound 546-8865

FOR RENT

1 room in 4 bedroom Apt. in Swiss Village $110 a month. Call 546-8420

Cape Cod summer seasonal rentals W. Yarmouth & Dennis 2, 3, or 4 bedroom; low rates 1-617-528-0404

Room for rent $125/mo plus, on bus route in Sunderland, call after 5 PM 665-7500

FOR SALE

Olympic tickets pairs of: Women's downhill Men's giant slalom and Men's X-country. Accomodations available. Contact Marc 323-4922.

Hart express skis. New unused with look 6x bindings unmounted + ski brakes $160.00 Call Tim 665-7711

Stereo—AM/FM Receiver with 8 track component turntable, also 2 stereo speakers $100 Call Michael 6-9629 or Nanette 6-9636

15" color TV Mexican sweater coat, hiking boots size 7½, leather stitched boots 253-3012 try constantly

B & W Panasonic TV 11x9 screen $45 546-5464

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7677

Scuba Gear excellent condition U.S. Divers best. Tank, regulator, B.C. call now 546-9631

Clarinet, Selmar Series 9 VG condition $300 firm Call Eric 549-1421 after 5

Stereo--Nikko 30 w/c amp, Sanyo turntable, PR. B.I.C. speakers excellent condition call Leo 546-7769 or 6-7771

Ski Boots 11½ $50, 1967 Pontiac Cat. new snows & timing chain $375 BO 549-4199

FOUND

Black mittens + green hat in Whitmore. 253-5845

HEAD RESIDENTS POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Part-time positions at Mt. Holyoke College for the academic year 1980-81 single persons or married couples. BA required. Call 413 538-2550 an Equal Opportunity Employer

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Child care and housekeeping 5 full days per week, 8:15 am - 5:45 pm. Must be mature and have own transportation. References required. 253-7203

Addressers wanted immediately! Work at home--no experience necessary--excellent pay. Write American Service 8350 Park Lane, Suite 127, Dallas TX 75231

Collegian has a position for an Editorial Assistant see Rob Burbank Collegian Office

Babysitter must have car, one hr. am 3-4 hrs. in aft. Call 253-5141 ask for Ann days. 584-2197 nights. Good pay, good kids

Tutors Needed for O.H./Central Academic Centers, one or two nights a week. Non work study and work study. Subjects are Chemistry, Math, COINS and Economics. Send or bring resume to academic affairs Macyntire House before 5 p.m. Thursday February 14th

Work study positions available in Athletic Injury Care. Also non-work study positions-must be EMT. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg. Rm. 9, Ext. 52866

Get that summer job squared away now: Assistant Riding Instructor/-Counselor needed at small Camp in Berkshire for summer '80 Good pay, room and board. 546-5833

INSTRUCTION

Basic auto-mechanics workshop. 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure. Autoskills Box 210 Amherst

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

LOST

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Animal hide mittens lost Chadbourne area. Sentimental value. Return to Campus Center lost and found please.

Radio Shack calculator near Marston Hall. Please call John 546-7609

One lunchlady's break. Answers to name of Tootsie. Lost on or near 9th floor Washington. Call 546-7095.

Reward: Bl canvas bag w wh straps cont. bl sweatsuit & sneakers Carl 584-3608

Black Ski Gloves with zippers. Lost Wednesday in Stockbridge area. I need them. Reward 546-9661

Lost—Man's gold watch 12/22 near Chenoworth, sentimental value, reward call 6-9794

Lost—sentimental silver ankle bracelet, large reward 323-5900

MUSICIANS WANTED

Wanted lead and bass guitars and key board player for funk group. If interested call Phil 546-1084

PERSONALS

Jay—I met you Wed. at CC. Thanks! You made my day—A Thoughtful Person

Pink Floyd tickets needed for 2/24/80. Mike 6-5749

GBFin 362 Law III Goldman's exams wanted. Will pay cash. Call Dan 665-7721

Have you bought your student discount coupon book yet? Stop by our table in the Campus Center and see why hundreds have bought. Don't be left out. This is the last week!

Janet Happy belated 19th birthday. Elaine and Kathy

Thursday afternoon; table in corner of Hatch by pinball machines. I'll go crazy if I don't meet you

Daytona Beach during Spring Break March 15-22. Peter Pan World Travel agents MC130223 want you to leave the driving worries to them. 8 days round trip and accomodations. 1 block from boardwalk. 4 persons per room. $229 each. Optional day trip to Disney World. Deadline Feb. 20. Please call S. Rayner 256-0675 or J. Hyde 1-773-3854

Attention: All UMass University women invited to Spring formal-informal Rush Parties at Sigma Delta Tau. For info call Robin 545-0527

VALENTINE GIFTS: Will trade for silver and gold. Silverscape Designs 264 N. Pleassant St. Amherst 253-3324

Poetry wanted for Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Literary Arts Press, 132 Nassau, Suite 212, New York, New York 10038

Red means "I love you" Pink means "I like you" White means "I'd like to get to know you"

Want to meet that special someone you admire from afar? Say it with a flower. . .white means I'd like to get to know you Stop by the CC today through Tues.

The Boltwood Project is recruiting students to volunteer at Belchertown State School. Information meeting Wed. Feb. 13, in Campus Center rm. 162

Charismatic Prayer Group & BS CC 811-815 Tues. Feb. 12 8-10 PM

ROOMATE WANTED

Roomate wanted for Northwood apt. 112.50/month & utilities call 665-4293

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apartment bus route, Sunderland $100/month 665-3637

SERVICES

Tune ups all models $15 Labor 586-3695 5-0427

Attroney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Student Movers-Haulers cheap! 256-8868

TO SUBLET

Apartment Swiss Village call Greg 253-7855

WANTED

Housemate to share Amherst house. Female, vegetarian nonsmoker 549-6460

A 2 meter amateur radio, Call Steve 6-8880 Nights

Trade 2 10:00 Garcia for 2 7:00 2nd section row H left, for comparable 7:00 seats. KRISTI 549-5868 keep trying

YOUR GIRLFRIEND WILL KILL YOU

If you forget Valentines Day Remember her with a special message flower Only $1 at the CC

Say something loving on February 14.
Valentine's Day Cards
American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.
in the campus center at umass

? 1/2 Price ?
How can you receive
½ meals at the Pub, Charlie's, Daisy's, Unicorn Banquet?
½ haircuts at Styles by Deborah?
½ price drinks at Barselotti's, Hot-L Warren?
½ price lift tickets at Berkshire East?
Great Discounts on clothing, car repairs, audio equipment & much more?
ONLY in the Student Discount Coupon Book. Available this week only at our table in the Campus Center.

USED BOOKSALE
Mon-Sat, Feb 11-16
20% off our regular prices
Valley Book Shops
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Tuesdays
Dance to Rock/Reggae
Beer & Pizza Special
6-10 p.m.
Happy Hour Everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC Sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Noreste, Admissions
August 80 applicants 4 year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education small classes experienced teachers modern facilities
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 504-6589
or 232-3784

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

1 Electrical fitting
5 Bungles
10 Cessation
14 Italian coin
15 Anoint:Arch
16 Fire: Prefix
17 All around: 3 words
19 Fencing sword
20 Defers
21 Elect. experts
22 Welshman
23 Shriveis
25 Family member: Informal
26 S. Amer. Indian
30 Wee: Scot.
31 Hibernates
34 Miss Talmadge
36 Maul "Hi"
38 --- la la
39 Warehouse installation: 2 words
42 Educated guess: Abbr.
43 Group of stocks
44 Stockholm native
45 Brought up
47 Poetic contraction
49 Gaelic language
50 Signal
51 Skin disease
53 West and Murfary
55 Hidden danger
56 Most agreeable
61 "What - --- of nonsense"
62 Lena or Amur: 2 words
64 Bruise
65 Spice
66 Fork prong
67 To be: Latin
68 Opinion
69 If not

DOWN

1 Drudge
2 Verse unit
3 USSR river
4 Celebration
5 Church services
6 Single: Prefix
7 Quadrennial U.S.A. event: 2 words
8 Leaves quickly
9 Council sitting: Abbr.
10 Coined money
11 Newspaper employee
12 USSR city
13 ---- laureate
18 Fleur- de - ---
24 Violinmaker
25 Europeans
26 Deduce
27 Of Norway
28 Resembling chalk
29 "-- - Blue"
31 Haggard novel
32 Urges
33 Hindu garment: Var.
35 Be of one mind
37 Chic Johnson's partner
40 Owned
41 Windmill blade
46 Soft whispering sound
48 Milk coagulator
51 Passageway
52 Title of honor
53 Noted Broadway role
54 Sorrowful word
55 Treaty
57 Commend for bravery
58 Injurious
59 Asian money
60 Trap aloft
63 Thoroughfare: Abbr.

Monday's Puzzle Solved:

DC Menu

LUNCH
Barbecued Beef on Bun
Eggs Foo Yung/Duc Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Soybean Croquettes
Eggs Foo Yung/Duc Sauce

DINNER
Chicken Fillet/Supreme Sauce,
Cranberry Sauce
Meatball Grinder

BASICS DINNER
Spinach Casserole
Chicken Fillet/Supreme Sauce
Cranberry Sauce

Ocean Front Hotel Rooms in Lauderdale This Spring Break?
Student Suntrips offers these accomodations right now!

•$114/person/week
•Conveniently located on 'The Strip'
For Reservation Information
Call Toll Free — 1-800-848-9540
Arrangements by Student Suntrips, Inc.
Budweiser ☆ Florida ☆ Breakout

THERE'S MORE TO COLLEGE THAN CLASSES.

• COED LIVING (WE'RE THE ONLY COED FRATERNITY ON CAMPUS)!
• DELICIOUS HOME COOKED MEALS!
• A HOME - NOT STEEL AND CONCRETE!
• PARTIES, SPORTS, ACTIVITIES!
• CABLE COLOR TV and MORE!
AND ΣAM HAS IT ALL!
FIND OUT MORE AT OUR INFORMAL RUSH PARTIES. TUES+WED. FEB 12th & 13th 8PM→12
REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED!
SIGMA ALPHA MU 395 No. PLEASANT ST.

do it with a smile !

Take your love to

HAHJEE'S PLACE

"Affordably Unique"

Midway between Northampton and Amherst (Rt. 9)
Sun.-Thurs 4:30-10:30 p.m. Fri. & Sat. 4:30-11:30 p.m.
584-9797

James H. McManus Eating Place

Cup of Coffee 15¢
Each refill 15¢

BREAKFAST SPECIAL
2 Eggs, Homefries,
Toast or Muffin,
Juice and 1 cup of coffee $1.30

Coffee and Breakfast Special
Good 7 days a week, 7 AM to 10 PM

Hrs. Sun-Thurs till 3 AM
Fri and Sat open 24 hours

Zayre Shopping Center
Rt. 9 Amherst Hadley line

SELL IT SELL IT
in the Collegian Classifieds

EUROPE by CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
45 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
☐ RENTAL ☐ LEASE ☐ PURCHASE
☐ EURAIL PASS & YOUTH PASS

Mike's Westview Cafe No. Amherst

Watch the U.S. Olympians

Go for it!
Schlitz makes it great.

at Mike's
10 oz. glass of Schlitz light or dark
30¢ a glass.
60 oz. pitcher $1.80

Valid: During all 12 day T.V. broadcasts of the Olympics.

EVERYTHING YOUR COLLEGE RING SHOULD BE, AT A PRICE FAR LESS THAN GOLD.

NEW LUSTRIUM NOW $68.95

JOSTEN'S

Monday and Tuesday
February 11 and 12
10 am-4 pm

a service of
the UNIVERSITY STORE

THE GREATEST LEARNING EXPERIENCE OF YOUR LIFE IS YET TO COME

Learn about the great opportunities available in the areas of:
ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING
MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING
COMPUTER SCIENCES

SIGN UP TODAY!
Motorola recruiters will be interviewing on campus
February 21

MOTOROLA INC.

Red Roses
the ultimate Valentine's Day statement
Montgomery's Florist
Hadley, MA 584-3798

PI LAMBDA PHI FRATERNITY
"A Home at School"
Announces the Opening of its SPRING - 1980 RUSH open to all University men sign up at our table in the concourse Tues., Wed., Thurs., Feb. 12, 13, 14 or call 256-6837 for info ask for Ezra

NOTICES

Notices must be submitted by 3 p.m. Thursdays for publication on the following Monday or Tuesday. Notices must be non-commerical. Higher priority notices will be printed Mondays, lesser priority ones, Tuesdays and possibly Wednesdays.

All notices must be typed, double-spaced and should include type of event, meeting place, time, and if applicable, cost and a phone number for further information.

The following lists Collegian priorities from most important to least :

1. UMass events, such as RSO group meetings, academic events, etc.

2. Five-College area events, such as happenings at other schools or in the Amherst-Northtampton area.

3. Western Mass. area events: anything occuring outside of UMass or the Five College area.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S GUILD meets each Tuesday at 6:30 PM in the Campus Center. This week we'll be meeting in room 169 to discuss darkroom workshops and show films. The guild is operated as a co-op, with all members contributing. Come and see what it's about. For further information call Bruce at 367-2388.

THE PRE-VET CLUB will have its first meeting of the semester this Tuesday, February 11th at 7PM in Paige 202. Trip announcements, nominations of officers and the semesters programs will be discussed.

THE CHESS CLUB will meet Tuesday at the Campus Center in room 805-809 at 7:30.

There will be a meeting of the ASTROMONY CLUB WEDNESDAY, February 11 in Rm 518 GRC at 7 P.M. All interested people please come.

KUNDALINI YOGA CLUB: All those interested in afternoon classes in Kundalini Yoga should attend a short organizational meeting on Wednesday, February 13th, at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center, Romm 177.

THE UMASS JUGGLING CLUB invites the student body to their special open house meeting Wednesday, February 13 at 7:30 pm in the 1st floor of the Campus Center. Here the club will open its membership to all wishing to join. The main functions of the club include teaching anyone interested in the art of juggling, group practices for all levels of proficiency, and the spreading of all the other circus arts including magic, unicycling, pantomine, etc. The club meets every Wenesday evening at 7:30 in the Campus Center. For further information please contact Neal Bogdanovich at 546-4612.

INFORMATION RETRIEVAL and citation indexing—a workshop is scheduled for tomorrow from 10:30-noon in Goodell 609 (repeated from 2:30-4:00 p.m.) demonstrating the use of Social Sciences Index and Arts and Humanities Citation Index. These publications are important items in the University Library's collection of indexes to journal literature.

Information from the SSCI data base can be retrieved for a fee by computer (as well as manually from the printed index, without charge). A demonstration computer search will be part of each workshop session.

These meetings are sponsored by the Reference Department of the University Library, in Goodell. For further information call Paula F. Mark, 545-0150.

HILLEL
Wed. 2/13—Israeli Dancing Beginner's Instructional Series begins. Beginning dancers are asked to pre-register for this 5-week series by calling 545-2526. 7:30 pm, Commonwealth Room, SU. Advanced dancing will be held at 8:30.
Wed. 2/13—Student Struggle for Soviet Jewry meeting to discuss lobby in Washington, DC on Feb. 20. 7:30 pm, CC 801. For more info, call Bob Geffen, 545-0060.
Thurs. 2/14—Meeting of Students Against Anti-Semitism. 7:30 pm, CC 804-08. For more info, call 545-2526.
Fri. 2/15—Sabbath Services sponsored by Hillel. 7 pm, Duke's Room, SU 310.
Sun. 2/17—Rosh Hodesh (New Moon/New Month) Ceremony for Women. Led by Maxine Kronish, Hillel Director at Brown University. Usher in the new month of Adar in a UMass first! 3 pm, Duke's Room, SU 310.

"MOTHERS AND BABIES—The Pioneer Valley Childbirth Education Association sponsors informal get-together-hers weekly for mothers and babies birth to 18 months. Come and share parenting interests and concerns. For more information contact Myrt Sieger, 279 West Street, Amherst or Barbara King, 128 Bridge Road, Florence. Free.!

JOHN COLLINS, SEMINARIAN

"My name is John Collins. I'm a seminarian. I had the idea of being a priest for a long time before I did anything about it. I was too scared of my feelings.

"But I finally took the plunge and it's the best thing I ever did. It wasn't a shot in the dark. Friends helped. Talking to seminarians helped. And prayer was the biggest help."

Perhaps you, like John, have thought about the priesthood or religious life but never really looked into it.

How about looking into it now?

Mail Coupon Today! S17-2
Please send information on:
☐ Diocesan Priests ☐ Religious Priests ☐ Brothers ☐ Nuns ☐ Lay Ministries
Name
Address
City State ZIP
VOCATIONS COMMITTEE/SUPREME COUNCIL
KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
New Haven, CT 06507

B K Φ

Beta Kappa Phi invites all UMass men to Open Rush
Mon. Feb 11 8:00 pm
Tues. Feb. 12 8:00 pm
Wed. Feb. 13 8:00 pm
Mon. Feb. 18 9:00 pm
Tues. Feb. 19 7:00 pm
at 388 No. Pleasant St.
For Info call 545-0210 545-0211
Campus Intramural & Greek Area Sports Champions '77 '78 '79
Academic and Social Benefits
Come Down & Meet the Brotherhood

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show – Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK Dolby Stereo G (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:15
JOHN BELUSHI 1941 PG (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
GEORGE BURNS ART CARNEY GOING IN STYLE PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-8153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
ROBERT REDFORD JANE FONDA THE ELECTRIC HORSEMAN PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN The JERK R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Richard Gere American Gigolo R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
ALAN ALDA THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

VALENTINE'S EVE PARTY

Entertainment by Music In Motion
with "Mr. Bill"

Feb. 13, 1980 from 8 to 1 admission $1.50 cash bar drafts

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
UMASS

CARBUR'S Lounge
FAMOUS SINCE 1978

WE HAVE SEASONED OUR
HAPPY HOUR
Mon.—Fri. 4-6 — Double Drinks
Mon.—Sat. 9-11 — FREE Chicken Wings Cheese & Crackers

Rte. 9, Elmwood Shops, Hadley 586-1978

Mountaineers prevail on second half surge; UMass burned 73-68

By JONATHAN HAMILTON
Collegian Staff

In a rather sloppily played affair, the West Virginia Mountaineers, led by junior forward Greg Nance's 18 points, stumbled past the Minutemen, 73-68 last night at the Cage.

In the early going of the game both teams struggled in search of the first hoop. Finally, West Virginia erupted for seven unanswered points, two consecutive baskets by Phil Collins, a three point play from Nance and a jumper from Russel Todd. At 15:52 UMass broke its seemingly interminable scoring drought with a Curtis Phauls basket and a Jay Stewart jumper to close within three, 7-4. West Virginia gradually built a small lead through the first half leading by as many as 10, 24-14.

The Minutemen came back with a spurt of their own cutting the lead to 26-24, four of those points the result of two Ty Nedd bombs from the perimeter. As halftime approached so did another Mountaineer lead, built on Nance's and Greg Jones' shooting just before intermission, 35-28.

In the second half UMass made a serious charge at the Mountaineers, cutting the lead to 40-39 at 15:29 with a chance to tie the score. But as luck may have it, Phauls' attempt for a three-point play bounced off the rim. Still, though, UMass was within a single point twice later on in the half at 42-41 and 44-43.

But then Todd made two free throws and a slew of fouls committed by UMass free gave a host of West Virginia players an opportunity put the game out of reach. With 2:46 left West Virginia had built it biggest margin of the game, 67-53. A final flurry by the Minutemen closed the gap to five but still it was not enough.

Tom Witkos was high man for UMass with 13 points followed by Stewart and Phauls and Nedd with 12 points each.

Coach Ray Wilson talked about his team's 19th defeat of the season, "Everytime we thought we were getting back into the game, Gale (West Virginia Coach Catlett) would make the right adjustment. We aren't doing the things we had to defensively. We had trouble with their physical men inside."

"I thought we played a good first half shooting 57 percent but they (UMass) made a good comeback in the early part of the second half. We were able though to settle thing down after that," spoke a confident Catlett after the game.

The Minutemen try again at the Cage Thursday night when they take on the Huskies of Northeastern at 7:30.

UMass' Dan Wright shoots despite the defensive efforts of Donnie Gipson of West Virginia in last night's game.

Minutewomen defeat West Virginia, 78-71

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

In her first start in a UMass uniform yesterday against West Virginia University, sophomore Martha Ready has proven that basketball talent does run in the family.

Tapped to start because of an injury to her sister Julie, 6 foot 3 inch Martha netted 21 points and toatled 18 rebounds to lead the Minutewomen now 13-6 to their seventh straight win 78-71, at the Cage.

"I got a lot of good passes, all I had to do was turn around and shoot," said Ready.

Ready's point total was the game high but it just barely overshadowed strong performances by Ginger Legare and the omnipresent Sue Peters. Legare dished out six assists and grabbed 13 rebounds before fouling out with 1:40 left. Peters scored an unassuming 20 points, shooting 53 percent from the floor.

But the surprise was Martha Ready, a transfer from Massasoit Junior College. She runs and shoots much like her sister, not surprising considering she has gone through the same physical training Julie went through two years ago.

"I decided to come to UMass because Julie was here and she was playing good basketball," Ready said. I worked a lot with Elaine and Steve (assistant coaches Elaine Marasco and Steve Jefferson) on my jumping and shooting. In practice I play against Julie or somtimes Ginger."

The game itself followed a pattern that is getting all too familiar in a UMass game. The Minutewomen build up a substantial first half lead only to lose it in the second half. In yesterday's game, the last home game for UMass, Legare pumped in her own rebound off a blocked shot to put the Minutewomen up 40-27 at halftime.

But the Mountaineers, like Northeastern Saturday, pulled back, closing within four with 8:22 left due in a large part to the shooting of UWV's Janis Drummonds. The 5 foot 8 inch junior hit for 15 second half points and finished with 19. What appeared to be a one-sided game was a 4-10 point affair most of the second half.

UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski is not sure where the problem lies. "If I did," she said, "I would write a book and become a millionaire. It's something we have to talk about and work on."

Yesterday's game marked the return of sophomore guard Sherry Collins, but the exit of Julie Ready. Ready's condition is described as a stress fracture in her ankle. It is not a serious injury but it is not known whether the co-captain will return for Saturday's game at the University of Maine.

Sue Peters of UMass shoots over Cindy Winegar of West Virginia as teammates Martha Ready and Ginger Legare look on. (Staff photo by Peter Berry)

Matmen roll over Devils

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Two superior decisions got Central Connecticut off to an early lead that was rubbed out three times over as the matmen wrestled to their twelfth win last night in Boyden gym. Seven wins and three losses made for a 28-12 UMass victory.

"We did not start off too well but we looked good in the middle weights," Head Coach Dave Amato said.

134 pound Doug Johnson simply outclassed Central Conn's Jim Valerien taking control early and working him hard throughout the match. Johnson chalked up the first UMass win of the night with a 12-2 superior decision.

Greg MacDonald kept on top of Frank Pais in the 142 pound class for a close, 6-2 win and Dave Devoy continued to keep the 150 pound spot strong with his second win in a row over Frank Lizarscus. Levoy, wrestling in place of the injured Kevin Murphy, wrestled to a 5-3 victory.

158 pound Mike Carroll emerged as the star of the show pinning Robert Bates one minute and two seconds into the first period. Carroll exhibited good solid wrestling to bring his record to nine wins in a row.

167 pound Dave McEntee went from ice cold to red hot last night snapping a four game losing streak with a five point superior decision. McEntee threatened Bill Chory with a pin four time in the bout but settled for a 17-2 decision.

With two minutes left in his bout, 177 pound Bob Clark was wrestling a 2-2 tie, but losing 2-3 due to riding time. With ten seconds left Clark brought his opponent down for two points and a 4-3 win.

Bill McQuade was downed only the third time this year by Dave Cameron who, according to Amato, has beaten McQuade before. "He's a good wrestler," Amato said. McQuade went behind in the first period, in the 190 pound class never managing to get ahead and losing 3-5.

Heavyweight John Allen battled big Tom Leonard to a 13-5 four point superior decision. Leonard was at least a head taller than Allen but it was no big advantage over a wrestler with a a 15-0 record, now 16.0.

Trackwomen finish third

By JAMES GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

Competing without much of the depth it had earlier in the season, the UMass women's track team lost to both Vermont and Cortland St. last Sunday afternoon at UVM. Despite the disappointing losses, UMass still managed to pull off some fine individual performances in the distance events.

Winning the 800 meters in 2:19 and then placing second in the 1500 meters in 4:37 premier UMass distance runner Judy McCrone turned in two of the top races of the day. Although her 800 meter time was only five seconds off of qualifying her for the Nationals, McCrone plans to try to make it to the Nationals in her best event, the two-mile. "She'll try to qualify later in the season at the New England AAU's," coach Arnie Morse said.

Other top races turned in by Minutewomen included the 3000 meter in which sophomore Julie Burke placed second in 10:09, only nine seconds off national qualifying time, and in the 50 meter hurdles where Micki Callahan finished second in 7.8 seconds, only .2 seconds off the UMass school record. "Julie ran a good race, but she went out too fast. Micki ran an excellent race and she's running better and more consistent than she ever has," Coach Morse said.

Competing in the 400 meters were Sally Anderson and Jackie Beaudrow who ran 64.8 and 65.2 respectively. Behind McCrone in the 800 meters were Robyn Dally and Karolyn Shea who finished fourth in 2:25 and fifth in 2:26. Both Dally and Shea ran in the relays. In the 4x11 yard relay the team of Caouette, Beaudrow, Fallon and Shea failed to place well due to a bad handoff in the beginning of the race. In the 4x400 meter relay the team of Shea, Anderson, Beaudrow and Dally ran a fast 4:17 to finish behind Cortland and managed to edge out UVM in a close race.

Bench buoys gymwomen in easy win over Temple

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The gymwomen plagued by injury and the flu, utilized their tremendous bench strength as they defeated Temple 124.05-84.60 last Saturday in Philadelphia. The team's record is now 5-2. Temple's Liz Marino placed first in the vault with an 8.85 and teammate Beth johnson came in first on the bars with an 8.65 and second in the vault. In the floor event UMass' Janice Baker placed first with an 8.6 and Heidi Milender came in second on the bars. Karen Ginsberg scored 8.45 for the Minutemwomen in the vaulting event. In the all-around competition Johnson placed first with a 33.05 and Ginsberg second with a 32.15. Although her team was victorious, Coach Virginia Evans felt that this was "their worst performance of the season." This was due in part to the fact that the judges for the meet arrived an hour-and-a-half later than the scheduled starting time. Had this not occurred, the scores for both teams would nave been better, according to Evans. The team's next meet will be 7pm Wednesday against Southern Connecticut at the Curry hicks Cage.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 83 Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Wednesday, February 13, 1980

Index...

News Digest.....page 2
Editorial/Opinion.....page 5
Comics, DC menu.....page 9
Sports.....pages 11, 12

HEW ruling threatens scholarship program

Athletic equality or mediocrity?

By DIANE CLEHANE
Collegian Staff

The recent decision by the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department to provide men and women athletes with scholarship money in equal proportion to number of participants may cause a major revamping of UMass' athletic programs, according to the Dept. of Athletics.

By following the ruling, UMass would have to come up with 19 new scholarships for its women athletes. The present HEW ratio of 2-1 allows the school to offer 57 scholarships to men and only ten to women. The new ruling would increase the number of scholarships available to women to 19, Athletic Dept. members said.

Unfortunately, UMass does not have the necessary funds to both maintain the present number of scholarships given to male athletes and raise the number offered to women. The money needed to create the ratio outlined in the HEW decision would have to come from the state, which is presently working on budget cuts—not increases—at UMass, said Bob O'Connell, assistant director of Athletics at UMass.

An aternative to raising the amount of scholarship money for women athletes would involve cuts in the already decreasing amount of money available to male athletes, O'Connell said. He said the cuts would increase the number of women's scholarships to 28, but cut the men's scholarships down to 20. The money needed to prevent these cuts will have to come out of a source other than gate receipts or the Barber fund, which brought in $700,000 in the last three years from the televised games of the football team, according to O'Connell. Despite this available revenue, members of the athletic department said they agree the only way for making the necessary changes to equalize the scholarships is to increase funding for the athletic department.

Any other solutions, say the members of the department, would be disastrous to the future of all UMass athletic teams. In trying to comply with Title IX's decree of equality, the budget cuts that could result from the new ruling might have a strong negative impact on the recruitment of new members for teams that offer no scholarships, the department members said.

Presently UMass' athletic staff has grown to include four full-time varisty coaches for the womens teams. Athletic scholarships are available in women's gymnastics and basketball, and men's football and basketball. Men's baseball, track, wrestling and gymnastic teams, scholarships were eliminated in hopes of putting UMass in compliance with the HEW ruling, the Dept. said.

The original ruling set by HEW mandated that an equal amount of money be alloted to men's and women's teams despite the ratio of participants. The recent amendment to include only an equal ratio of funding means UMass' 85 percent scholarship money for men and 15 percent for women is not in compliance with that requirement, because it does not match the 2-1 ratio of male and female athletes that presently participate in the program.

While the budget for women athletes has multiplied 12 times from $10,000 to $120,000, the new ruling could cause more budget cuts on the men's teams, according to O'Connell. Cuts, most department members say, would greatly affect the men's teams' hopes of having successful seasons.

David Bischoff, dean of the School of Physical Education, is expected to meet soon with the UMass administration to decide the future of the men and women athletes at UMass.

Ironically, the HEW's attempts to create equality in athletics may be the final step in severing the strength of UMass men's athletic teams, as well as severely harming the women's program.

The money needed to create the ratio outlined in the HEW decision would have to come from the state, which is currently working on budget cuts, not increases, said O'Connell.

Govt. boosts funding for Peace Corps

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Support from the Carter administration and Congress insures the Peace Corps a strong future, said the Peace Corps Director's special assistant, John Chromy last night.

The support comes as the Administration approved a $118 million budget increase for the 1981 fiscal year. The increase represents a gain of 15 percent over this year's allotment and exhibits Carter's firm commitment to the Corps, said Chromy. The increase is most impressive, he said, when one considers the cuts the rest of Carter's budget is taking.

Changes in the admissions policies of the Peace Corps lead Chromy to believe it will be easier for a wider spectrum of interested volunteers to get work overseas. In the past, and particularly in the Nixon administration, a craft or training in a selected field was necessary for admission into the Corps, said Chromy.

In the future it will be easier for liberal arts students or unskilled people to join the Corps, he explained. "Dedication and a commitment are becoming as important as a craft such as plumbing or carpentry was a few years ago," Chromy said.

Photo by Paul Stokes

Chromy

Developments overseas are also encouraging, said Chromy. Papua/New Guinea is allowing Peace Corps volunteers to work in their area for the first time ever. It is one of the most underdeveloped countries in the world, and the country's 600 languages and dialects make it a unique opportunity for volunteer workers to live in and learn from, he added. The first Peace Corps members will be in the country by September or October this year.

"The Peace Corps serves as one of the best teacher training programs anywhere," he said, adding the 80's will see "the effect of the Corps on America blossom."

Twenty-eight percent of the volunteer workers over the years have become teachers, using techniques they either learned or taught themselves when in the Corps, Chromy said. Seventy percent of its participants said upon leaving the organization that the Corps had changed their lives, he added.

Joe Kennedy Photo by Chris Grewe

Campaign '80

Kennedy nephew speaks for Ted

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

Speaking before an audience of about 500 students and supporters, Joseph P. Kennedy III brought the presidential candidacy of his uncle, Senator Edward M. Kennedy, to UMass last night in a speech at Hasbrouck Auditorium.

The persons who actually heard Kennedy's speech in person numbered around 300. An additional 150 were seated upstairs and watched the speech via closed circuit television.

Saying his uncle's campaign is based on the theme of electing "a real Democrat in the White House," the younger Kennedy lashed out at President Carter's administration for appealing to what he called "the vested interests in America."

Kennedy talked of the business interests in the nation, which he called the "profiteers of inflation," and cited Exxon Oil's $4 billion in profits last year as contributing to the problems of consumers who, he said, are faced with decision of whether to "eat or heat." Kennedy went on to say that the candidacy of his uncle, and his support of measures such as the windfall profits tax on oil monies, was a countering force to the policies of the incumbent president.

Kennedy addressed his audience of students on other issues, ranging from his uncle's support of national health care to voter apathy among young people. On the latter issue, Kennedy warned that the "establishment" in business and government "uses" issues such as the drinking age and the draft as a means of stifling young voters' interst in politics, who he said become "disenchanted."

But Kennedy urged young people to become more involved, telling them the only way to make an impact on the system is by "getting out there and working for change." "The social issues of the 60's were the economic issues of the 70's and will continue to be the issues of the 80's," Kennedy added.

Of his uncle's position on the draft and the Afghanistan "crisis," Kennedy said, "Ted is completely opposed to the draft."

Kennedy urged young people to become more involved, telling them the only way to make an impact is by 'getting out there and working for change. The social issues of the 60's were the economic issues of the 70's, and will continue to be the issue of the 80's.'

ANALYSIS

Substance and style

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

The appearance of Joseph P. Kennedy at UMass last night, on behalf of the presidential candidacy of his uncle, Senator Edward M. Kennedy, poses an interesting question to student voters as to the significance of approach versus substance.

Kennedy took a half dozen questions, uttering his responses with an over-abundance of "Uhs" and "Ya knows," making clear he had memorized all his facts but was,

TURN TO PAGE 3

DIGEST

IOC rejects Carter's demand

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) – The International Olympic Committee announced yesterday the Olympic Games will go on in Moscow as planned, thus rejecting President Carter's call that they be moved or cancelled because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The committee also urged that members of the Olympic organizing committee in Moscow inform the "highest authorities of their government of the circumstances which have created these difficulties for so many National Olympic Committees."

Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said that all 73 members attending the IOC general session before the Winter Olympics had voted to keep the Summer Games in Moscow.

U.S. secures base rights

WASHINGTON (AP)–An American military mission returned yesterday from a week-long trip to East Africa and the Middle East with commitments from three countries to allow increased U.S. access to military facilities. U.S. officials say.

The reported agreements reached with Kenya, Somalia and Oman also would grant the United States rights to store military equipment and fuel. In return for their cooperation, the three countries would receive increased U.S. military aid although the amounts have not yet been specified, said the officials, who asked not to be named.

Carter proposes nuke dumps

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Carter proposed yesterday the nation's first coordinated effort to store nuclear garbage, planning to spend $700 million to examine salt domes and other sites in the South and West as potential radioactive dumps.

"This is a solid policy that can stand the test of time," the president said.

Sending his proposal to Congress, the president said the government would study about 11 sites where the poisonous byproducts of nuclear power, weapons tests and medical research could be hidden at no risk to the environment.

The proposal contains funding of $739 million for fiscal 1981. Funding for nuclear storage in the previous two fiscal years averaged $550 million a year.

Drug may kill user's grandkids

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

Researchers at the University of California School of Medicine at San Diego reported last week that the drug DES has been found to cause premature birth and death in infancy to the grandchildren of women who were prescribed the drug to prevent miscarriage, according to a story published by HERSAY news service.

Dr. Larry Cousins and his colleagues compared the reproductive histories of 71 women whose mothers had taken DES with 69 women who were never exposed to the drug. According to the HERSAY report, the researchers found that among the DES-exposed women, 40 percent of the babies were born premature and 25 percent of the infants died at birth.

Dr. Samuel Topal of Hampshire Obstetrics and Gynecological Associates in Northampton said the percentages given in the California study are "excessively high." He said a more realistic estimate of the incidence of premature and still births to DES daughters is slightly above the national average for women never exposed to DES.

Dr. Daniel Clapp of the University Health Services at UMass also said Cousins' estimate is probably too high.

"We do know that there is a structural change of the uterus due to DES exposure that can result in repeated miscarriages," Clapp said. "I have treated some DES daughters who have had several miscarriages, which is very unfortunate."

Topal termed this structural change of the uterus "incompetent cervix." This means that the cervix is unable to hold a pregnancy until full term, because it is T-shaped rather than the normal heart shape.

Topal said he has treated one woman at UMass for an incompetent cervix. The treatment, he said, involves putting a nylon suture in the cervix so that it will hold until the fetus is

TURN TO PAGE 3

Andrew Young is in Iran!

Why? What's He Doing?

Find Out Tuesday Feb. 19th
8:00 P.M. in the Curry Hicks Cage,
when D.V.P. brings him to speak on
"America's Foreign Policy"

Tickets $2.00 UMass students $3.00 Non
Available at TIX Box Office STUDENT UNION

Free gift!
Face Factory fashion lipstick, $3 value · · ·
with precision cut. $12
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
Mt. Farms Mall

Wednesday's Special:
Shampoo, Cut & Blow Dry
$8.00. Good Until Feb. 27th

David Whitman Hair Shack
Precision Hairstyling for Men & Women.
20% off any Haircut.
124 Amity St., Amherst
549-5111
COUPON
1 COUPON PER PURCHASE COUPON GOOD THRU 3/31/80

EXCELLENCE IN MANAGEMENT

IF YOU HAVE
The willingness to work hard
A Strong desire to succeed
IF YOU ENJOY
A fast paced environment, exciting and dynamic people...
A CAREER WITH STAR PROVIDES An Excellent Starting Salary
A Profit Sharing Program
And Many Other Benefits
PLUS MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES
Great on the job training with Star's management team.
JOIN STAR MARKET
One of the Jewel Companies
STAR
STAR WILL BE ON CAMPUS
If you are unable to see us on campus forward resume to:
Personnel Manager
Star Market Company
625 Mt. Auburn Street
Cambridge, MA. 02138

Prayer law gives little trouble here

Many teachers prefer 'moment of silence'

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

The new Massachusetts school prayer statute which took effect a week ago appears to be creating no major problems in Amherst schools.

The new law, passed last October and signed by Gov. Edward King, requires public school teachers of all grades to request a student volunteer to lead a prayer in the classroom. Students who do not wish to pray are allowed to leave the room for this period of time.

"The way the law reads is that if you have a volunteer in the classroom, then you have it (the prayer1) At this point, I'm not aware of any classrooms doing it on a regular basis,"said Ken ☆Chapman, principal of Mark Meadows elementary school.

Chapman said the superintendent of schools sent a notice to be read each morning saying if a student doesn't wish to participate in the prayer he or she can wait quietly in the hall by the classroom until the prayer is over."

"In my own classroom of about 14 students, I've read this each morning and so far haven't had any volunteers," Chapman said.

Asked to compare the new law to the old "moment of silence" one, Chapman said, "I think the old law is better. We used to have a moment of silence every day when each child could think about the day. The teachers would introduce the moment of silence as a time to think of something good or to think of something good you wanted to happen that day or that happened yesterday. The children had a time to think about what they wanted and didn't necessarily have to pray during that time."

The Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) believe the constitutionality of the law should be questioned and would like to see the law overturned. The current law violates the doctrine of separation of church and state, they say.

The State Board of Education says the law should be presumed constitutionally valid until proven otherwise, and therefore it should be implemented.

"I prefer a 'moment of silence.' There was no problem of constitutional grounds. The moment of silence was much more appropriate," said Nancy Morrison, principal of Wildwood Elementary School and a member of the Board of Education.

"We're sure this will be taken care of in court," Morrison said. "It was rather amusing the first few days (of the new law.) Older groups of children discussed what prayer was, and other groups had discussions on laws and their meanings. We're fortunate here in that we have teachers and teacher's aides working together so children that are excused to wait in the halls present no problem. Most children are staying in the classroom though," Morrison said.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) is asking the state Supreme Court to suspend the new law on the grounds that it is unconstitutional even for voluntary participation and violates the right of freedom of religion.

"The law is being challenged in court by the ACLU so we are now anticipating possible instructions to stop all this," said Ron Bell, Amherst assistant superintendent of schools.

"There are some classrooms in which some children do wish to participate and some in which they don't. Everything appears to be going smoothly," Bell said, "the level of cooperation had been high."

Bell said the 'moment of silence' didn't appear to have any legal difficulties like the new law, and "it seemed to be a reasonable compromise."

"The new law is much more controversial and seems to be inconsistent with the Supreme Court decisions," he said.

SGA head to run for selectman

DAVE KELLOG
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice said yesterday he may announce his candidacy for the Amherst Board of Selectman today. Nomination papers are currently being circulated.

Amherst town election are April 7. Candidates for two openings on the board could also face a Feb. 26 primary, because only four candidates can be on the ballot in April.

The last day to register to vote was Feb. 5. UMass could be a strong voting base if enough students have registered, according to LaVoice. With a presidential primary on March 4, more students than usual registered in the area, he said.

LaVoice, also a member of the UMass Board of Trustees, said he feels confident his bid will be successful. He said his work in student government, as former Southwest Residential Area president and now as SGA co-President, has given him high name-recognition among the student body. He added that anticipated coverage local papers will give him will also help. His major problem, LaVoice said, will not be telling the students who he is, but getting them to the polls.

Members of the UMass Debate Team Shagiru Matsamoto (far right) and John Katsulas prepare their anti-nuclear power position while Keiko Takahaski of Japan (far left) argues for nuclear power during a debate last night in Herter Hall. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Slimline TI-35.™

Economical LCD scientific calculator with Constant Memory™ feature. From Texas Instruments.

For students and professionals on the move. The pocket-portable Slimline TI-35 makes short work of problems in algebra, trigonometry, and statistics. 54 functions plus TI's Constant Memory feature that retains data stored in memory even when the calculator is turned off. Large, easy-to-read liquid crystal display. Two miniature batteries provide up to 2 years of normal operation. Includes handy vinyl wallet case and detailed owner's manual. See the Slimline TI-35 today. ...only $21.95

FEB 13 – WED.
FEB 19 – TUES.

the calculator store
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

★ Kennedy—

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

perhaps, in need of a drama coach. The student questioners were offering more in terms of significant discussion.

One student asked Kennedy about the Senator's proposed gas rationing plan, and how it would help consumers more than the gas tax proposal advocated by Rep. John Anderson (R-Illinois). Kennedy said, "Ted supports gas rationing because it would mean rationing fairly as opposed to rationing by price, which would place a greater burden on consumers."

Kennedy reiterated his uncle's support of a two-year moratorium on nuclear construction, mentioning specifically the Senator's call for the Seabrook, New Hampshire plant to be converted for coal usage. He went on to say his uncle favored "complete ratification" of the SALT II treaty.

But perhaps the two most significant factors in this speech were not what was said but how it was presented and for what reasons. The speech was held in Hasbrouck Auditorium, which accomodates a much smaller audience than Mahar or the Campus Center halls. Obviously anticipating a large draw, the Kennedy organization could then say that it had to turn people away and put an "overflow" crowd upstairs to watch the speech on closed circuit television. Even so, the near-500 person crowd was much smaller than the approximately 900 who attended Rep. Anderson's speech last week.

After the speech, geared toward a "liberal" student audience, Kennedy used the event to recruit volunteers for his uncle's campaign. And perhaps that is why this event must be deemed a planned tactic of opportunism rather than a legitimate forum for dialogue on the issues of the current presidential campaign.

Anti-draft group to meet

The first organizational meeting of Students Against the Draft will be held Wed., Feb. 13 at 5:00 in Campus Center, rm. 168.

The action comes following President Carter's call for draft registration of 19- and 20-year-olds. Women are included in the President's request, although Congressional approval is far from certain.

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
Free Delivery
Small & Large Pizzas
Hot Oven Grinders-Spaghetti
Steak Grinders-Dinners
We deliver every day
Starting at 5 Sundays starting at 2
17 Montague Rd.
Next to
N. Amherst PO
549-0626
COUPON 25¢ on large pizza

★ DES

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

mature.

Cousins said he decided to do the DES study on third generation damage from the drug after observing that many DES daughters who are healthy and don't have cervical cancer, do have irregularities of the reproductive organs, according to HERSAY.

Although Clapp said he would like to obtain a copy of Cousins' report before commenting on it further, he added the reported effect of DES is "not surprising, but it is disturbing."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Black Affairs

From left to right pictured above is: Clyde Criner, Jim Briges, Royal Hartigan, S.A. Davis, Ed Tourge and Semenya McCord performing at the Top of the Campus. The group graced its audience with musical style and talent that will long be appreciated in the valley. Highlights include tributes to some of the worlds Jazz greats.

Semenya and Company Singin', Swingin' and Jazzin'

BOBBY DEE
Black Affairs Staff

Semenya McCord dazzled and delighted a full-house Friday Feb. 8, with her vocal performance at the Top of the Campus Center.

During the performance, Semenya paid tribute to Billie Holiday, Leon Thomas and John Coltrane among others. Some of the selections from her repertoire were: "God bless the child" with which she held the audience spellbound and apprehensive awaiting "the next note." "I Remember April" a piecew dedicated to the Aries people in the house the sunsign of which Miss McCord is a member herself. The composition, "A Love Supreme," written by John Coltrane and lyrics by Doug Carn, was conceived in a minor key dictating a spirit awakening surge for all to experience. Miss McCord, aestheticall exploiting the creative genius of this composition, spiritually held her audience in a state of awe.

After a brief intermission, Semenya warmed up with a selection written by Thealoneious Monk, "Straight no Chaser". Throughout the entire evening her performance was tenciously warm and recieved in an equally eliquent manner.

As the saying goes:"The whole is greater than the sum of parts" here, S.A. Davis, Ed Tourge, Clyde Criner, Royal Hartigan, Emmett McDonald and Jim Bridges, accompanying Miss McCord, forged a musical foundation firm enough to put Atlas out of business. The combination rapturously controlled the hearts and ears of the truly submissive audience.

Ed Trouge, on bass, laid a bottom crust in preparation for a gourmets musical appetite; while Royal Hartigan, on drums, maintained a heart throbbing boil to a slow rolling stir, helping to keep all lumps out of the filling. S.A. Davis, on congas, knows the meaning of African rythmic soul food. He was the oven and knew just when to simmer and or cook. Now! everyone knows that all good food has to have a little spice. Jim Bridges, ongoitar, with the most tasteful strokes like a painter at his canvas, flavored in just the right amount of spice. Clyde Crinter, on keyboards, was the director of the group. He borrowed the colors from the spectrum to paint in the filling with sound.

Is this meal really complete without a wine before dinner? HELL NO! Emmet McDonald, on trombone, like truly sipping wine, spot-soloed throughout the evening and sho-nuff blew some minds.

Semanya's opportunities have included headlining at clubs like Lulu's in Boston, Sandy's Jazz Revival in Beverly and the widely acclaimed Jazz celebration series at Emmanuel Church in Boston.

Semenya's performance was only the start of activities and events that have been scheduled to take place during Black History Month.

Jochannon Captivates, Educates, Stimulates

by Tony Crayton
Black Affairs Staff

The second lecture event of Black History Month was an experience that few of the more than sixty persons attending will never forget. Dr. Yosef Ben Jochannan let go a fusillage of history that rarely is ever alluded to let alone taught.

He related the wealth of knowledge and contributions of African people from Ancient times to the present. He revealed the devastating effect of Euro-Christian education on people of African descent and the gross distortions of their history by foreign traditions and people who invaded and enslaved them.

Jochannon presented his lecture with a style reminiscent of the statement of Malcolm X who said: "I'm not the kind of person who will tell you what you like, I'm going to tell you the truth whether you like it or not." This was Black nationalist historical analysis at its best. It wasn't "anti-white," it was "pro-Black" as the Nation of Islam used to say.

He related how the three major religions, (Christianity, Judaism, and Islam) in their quest to convert, contributed to disrupting the traditions of Africa which were in existence and viable for thousands of years.

He refered to the bible tradition in all of its forms and how it thoroughly ignored its African antecedents. He spoke of how the religion and values of western civilization were developed in the "land of burnt faces."

The Decaloque was based on religious ideas and systems already established in Africa over 2,000 years before Moses. The Ten Commandments he said were based on the Egyptian Laws of Maat (truth), also called the Negative Confessions.

To illustrate his point one need only read the so-called Book of the Dead by E.A. Wallis Budge and the examples are glaring:

"Not have I defiled the wife of a man"; "Not have I made myself deaf to the world of right and truth"; "Not have I killed"; "Not have I dispised God".

The Ethiopians are credited, he noted, by the Greeks for giving them the Olympian Gods. To Dionysius Periegles they (the Ethiopians) were "godlike" and "blameless", to Stobaeus they "practice pieth and justice. Their houses are without doors and no one steals the many things left in the streets". Lastly Lactantius Placidus wrote that they are "loved by the Gods because of justice...for that reason the gods leave their abode frequently to visit them". It should be added that the gods went there and no where else.

Jochannon spoke of the lies relating to African contributions to the sciences. For example, how Hipocrates is the "Father of Medicine" when their "god of medicine" was the living man Imhotep who died 2785 B.C.

He related how Euclid, Herodotus, Hipparidium and Socrates and numerous others learned their sciences and philosophy from the Africans in Egypt.

His talk lasted for almost 4 hours and only about 20 of the 65-70 people who attended, left early.

His lecture raised numerous misconceptions about African roles in the devlopment of civilization both in Africa and the Middle East and Europe. No issues were ignored and evidence backed up all references to scholarly studies and histories.

Ten Thousand years to present was covered with efficiency and emotion rarely mixed to make his lecture both informative and personally enriching.

It was a shame however, that the faculty at UMass and too many students and staff have ignored the events. These events while planned by a small number of students and staff are not purely for their interest. We should not allow serious dedicated people to come hundreds of miles to be insulted by our lack of interest.

This Thursday you can hear Neurobiologist Alan Counter and Dean of Admissions David Evans, both from Harvard, lecture and show the world acclaimed documentary on the "Bush Negroes of Surinam".

Every major newspaper in the country has hailed this extraordinary work. They cover the health, medicine history and culture of these little known heroes of African Americans' past. They will also host an informal talk at New Africa House on trends in Higher Education as it relates to minorities.

Commentary

Que Tal Amigos, the Spanish language program at WFCR, has been moved from its prime time early evening time slots, to time slots Tuesday and Thursday evening at 11 p.m. With this change in time, the amount of radio programming dealing with Spanish language and culture has further decreased.

At UMass, there were several Spanish culture and language programs on WMUA Amherst. Now there is only one, that being Concepto Latino, with Carlos Gonzalez as host.

The change in time re-emphasizes the need for increased vigilance for the survival of non-white programming. As in other mass media institutions, radio has pitifully few programs from a non-white cultural and political perspective. Black Mass Communications Project on WMUA and The Minority Media Project on WAMH, Amherst College, as part of their organizational formats provide non-white programming for the Amherst-Northampton area community.

Everyone should have realized by now that the world is made up of people with different identities and cultures. No one can really argue that the majority of media in this country is white oriented, and the great majority of that is racist and sexist...Charlie Chan, Tarzan, and George Jefferson are still alive and as far as this society is concerned will never die. It's up to progressive media outlets to provide that progressive programming.

WFCR General Manager Robert Goldfarb has shown that he is not concerned with the needs of the entire community. His steadfast refusal to acknowledge the importance of non-white cultural programming shows that he clearly has no business having a position of power or authority at such an important media outlet as WFCR.

I feel that Robert Goldfarb should be removed from his position as General Manager of WFCR and be replaced with someone who is more concerned with all the listening audience.

Que Tal Amigos should be returned to its original time slots and all funding be replaced for the program. To insure increased non-white programming and multi-cultural programming in general at WFCR, an organization such as Black Mass Communication or Minority Media Project could provide that input from the various non-white communities within reach of WFCR's frequency.

One possible means of improving WFCR's response to the community if all else fails, would be the organization of an effective economic boycott of the station. I hope that it does not come to that, but the general manager of WFCR, and those people in positions of authority at the station must realize that they have an important responsibility to provide non-racist and non-sexist programming to the community, and this includes the airing of non-white cultural and language programming over and above a token attempt.

Edward Cohen
Public Affairs Director, WMUA

A Pre-Valentine Wish

For all you hearts
That lost your way
Come on back home
It's almost Valentine's Day
You left a short time back
We agreed it was to stay
But damn! sweet funny one
I need you in the worst way

Announcements

Alvin Ailey

The American Dance Theatre featuring Alvin Ailey will perform at the Fine Arts Center February 12-14 at 8:00 p.m. General Adm. $7-6-5/Students $3.50,-$3,-$2.50.

Third World Senators Needed

ATTENTION All Third World Students interested in being on the Third World Caucus of the SGA to represent the interests of the community please contact the office of Third World Affairs, 308 Student Union 545-2517. Leave your name and number.

Documentary

On February 14, 7:00 p.m. (C.C. Rm. 101), there will be a Documentary/Lecture on "Africans in Surinam." Speakers will be Allan Counter and David Evans.

Taj Majal

Singer and performer Taj Mahal will appear in concert Feb. 14, 8 p.m. in the S.U.B. Admission is $4.00

Editorial/Opinion

A model for the new pacifism

I do not care about the Persian Gulf. I have no desire ever to see the Persian Gulf. And since there is no Persia anymore, I was unaware that it even existed—until Jimmy C. happened to mention in passing that our national interests there were being threatened.

MICHAEL MARTINEAU

My own national interests, (i.e., getting to the University Store before the March issue of Playboy is sold out, and speculating on who Johnny Carson's successor might be) are very important to me. So, finding out that those damn Commies were threatening these interests, understandably ticked me off.

While I promised I would never get political in this space, even if my right and the right of other Americans to look at Bo Derek is being jeopordized, I firmly believe that all measures should be taken to protect my rights, including physical force.

However, Jimmy also alluded to the possibility of reinstating the draft. Regarding such a course of action, I am a strict disciple of Groucho Marx' school of thought:

"I would never belong to a club that would have someone like me as a member."

Before all the outcry begins over my lack of patriotism, I must clarify exactly what I mean. I have an incredible aversion to killing anything. One place I lived at had a cockroach problem. No matter how bad the situation got, I never, ever, resorted to pesticides. I always tried reasoning with them first and then, and only then, if they refused to listen to logic, I'd move. When I was young, and we played cops and robbers, I was always an innocent bystander.

Along with that, I also have an intense dislike of pain of any kind. Hating as much as I do the pain experienced at the dentist, I would somehow imagine that my tolerance level for being filled with shrapnel would be even lower. I even tried out for the high school wrestling team and would have made it, except I kept choosing to turn the other cheek, rather than go for the win. Suffice it to say that people who know me well would not sleep soundly if they knew the welfare of their homeland depended on me fighting at the front.

Granted, if you added all the brain cells of each member of our volunteer Army together, they probably wouldn't equal the population of Caibou, Maine. So, obviously, something needs to be done.

In the event of wartime, our volunteer Army's ability to ingest hallucinogens and alcohol will not get us far. Although, if one thinks about it, it could provide an interesting alternative to war: throw an immense party. Instead of the United States and the Soviet Union sinking millions of dollars into armaments and weapons, a neutral site could be agreed upon, possibly the Louisiana Superdome, with the U.S. and Russia splitting the cost of beer and drugs. All the military forces of both countries could be called there, and they can pull an all-nighter. The army will the fewest soldiers standing or the worst hangover the next morning would lose. My personal opinion is that the Russians wouldn't stand a chance.

If in the event that both sides don't agree to a confrontation of this kind, I have still another plan. Until the Soviet Union removes all their troops from Afghanistan, all vegetarians should boycott the use of Russian dressing on their salads. The repercussions felt from Earthfoods and Basics alone should bring the Soviets to their knees.

Michael Martineau is a Collegian columnist

Concern for others best defense

The emphasis on the individual in Western Society contrasts sharply with the value placed on dedication to the state in the communist world. Certainly we are not devoid of individuals who place the collective good high on their lists of priorities, nor is Russia lacking in self-serving greedy materialists. However, the increasing emphasis on self-fulfillment, self-gratification, and personal success in our society is a trend that threatens the very existence of democratic government in the world community. We show symptoms that were noted during the decline of past empires.

EVERETT HARMAN

Too little importance is placed upon people working together toward a common goal. Instead, emphasis is placed on getting as much as one can from the system, be it money, power, or fame. Anyone who wants to dedicate his or her life to an altruistic cause is regarded as somewhat of an offball. It's dog-eat-dog, catch-as-catch-can. There are many examples of this. Politicians have been regularly voting themselves salary increases while everyone else's real income has been going down. Some of the most famous actors and actresses demand a million dollars or more per picture, causing inflated movie ticket prices. Sports figures jump from team to team, parlaying their athletic ability into gold and creating an imbalance in competition since wealthier franchises can afford to hire the most expensive free-agents and holdouts.

Every sports and entertainment celebrity is backed by a team of legal and financial advisors. The object is to wangle a long term lucrative contract that will set one up for life and then just sit back and glory in it. More than one shining golden-boy has declined sharply in performance after being signed into a lifetime of financial security. It's harder for a fat cat to get up his or her motivation. Case in point: Marlon Brando was signed for big six-figure bucks for his short role at the end of "Apocalypse Now." Director Francis Ford Coppola wanted him to portray a tough old soldier gone bad, but Brando showed up on the set so fat and physically sloppy that his body had to be bathed in shadows to hide the blubber, with only his gleaming bald head occasionally peeking out through the gloom. Muhammed Ali recently made a boxing exhibition tour of India, hoping to cash in on his image of yesteryear, but received a cool reception from the natives when he was barely able to push his bloated body around the ring. Every day noted personalities sacrifice their dignity by hawking the most useless products in television commercials. Does pride count for anything?

Everyone is trying to beat the system or at least milk it. The rate of lawsuits has escalated tremendously in the past few years, and the cost of insurance is ultimately passed on to the consumer. Doctors are afraid to aid anyone fallen ill or injured on the street for fear of being sued. People are tripping and falling everywhere and receiving severe psychological traumas from any source capable of paying out stacks of cash in damages. Motorists are pushing their unwanted autos off cliffs or burning them beyond recognition to collect downpayments on new models. Wild speculation in precious metals, stocks, and real estate are fed by the desire to get rich quick.

The drive towards self-fulfillment has broken up many a marriage. People don't see why then should have to sacrifice anything. If one's mate isn't perfect, why work at it? What's the use? There are other fish in the sea. After all, exploration and attainment of the self is the loftiest goal, and overrides all others.

Many people don't want to have children anymore. Why bother? They are an obstacle to personal freedom and development—an inconvenience to say the least. They cost too much anyway. It's a funny thing though that the number of children per family decreases with income. It must be that greed and materialism come to replace the joys of raising little ones. As it is now, the average age in this country is rising steadily. We are becoming a nation of older people and our vitality is threatened.

Then there's the petroleum crisis. We went along happily for many years driving big cars, constructing energy inefficient buildings and machines, and converting more and more industry to oil. And why not. Gas and oil were cheap and efficient. Even back in the 1920's there were experts predicting an eventual oil shortage. Why then did we allow ourselves to become so dependent on petroleum? Why didn't we institute regulation and taxes which would have discouraged the escalating consumption of oil? Because individual consumers were too selfish to give up short-term pleasures and industry wasn't about to sacrifice either. Such shortsightedness has led to a rude jolt and our economy is suffering much more than those of the Western European nations, where gasoline is priced at over $3.00 a gallon to discourage overuse, and where the per capita consumption of energy is half that of the U.S. despite a standard of living similar to ours.

President Carter revived the issue of draft registration in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Many people strongly object to registering. Yes, war is terrible. No, we shouldn't fight in Afghanistan. Let Russia find out that they have become involved in their own Vietnam. But if we refuse to fight at all—if we refuse to even prepare ourselves for the possibility that we may have to defend ourselves, we will be giving a sign to the wolves and jackals that it is OK to begin the hunt, that the lion has lost it's spirit.

We must somehow put the ideal of working towards the common good back into our system of values. People really enjoy the feeling of cooperation and community, but idealism of the past was largely obliterated by the horror and frustration of the Vietnam war and the alienation brought about by Watergate. While learning from these unfortunate events, we must overcome the negative attitudes engendered by them. We must work together to build, improve and, if necessary, defend our society.

Everett Harman is a Collegian columnist

Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief. JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor. FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager. JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor. ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor. LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor. RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor. JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor. SUZETTE COURTMAN, Graphics Manager. JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor. JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administrators, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisments lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Letters

Spontaneous police record

To the Editor:

How many times have you and your friends decided to go for a walk and come back with a couple street signs? How many times do you go out to a bar for a drink and come back with a set of glasses? Have you ever gone into a building and come back with a table, a chair, a lamp, or a plaque perhaps?

You probably don't think twice about these activities before you do them—but maybe you should. A recent vandalism study done by Project Pulse, showed that 49.3 percent of all vandalism is spontaneous fooling around with friends.

You really don't need that traffic sign and you really don't need the hassles you would get from the police for that traffic sign. Maybe you're the lucky kind that doesn't get caught—but your day will come. Depending on what is in "the bag" and who caught you with "the bag" you could be up for more trouble than you had anticipated. Finger prints and a criminal record that will follow you around, letters to your employers and parents, phenomenal fees; not to mention time and embarrassment of dealing with lawyers, judges, and court officials.

These are hassles you will experience if caught. The loss to area retailers is staggering—broken doors, glasses, replacement of lifted signs and decorations. Add the price of vandalism together with shoplifting and you have your answer to why prices are increasing more and more.

There can be no end to rowdiness, but vandalism can and should be put to an end. Go play frisbee, go ice skating, or clean your teeth with dental floss but stay away from the stores and keep your hands in your pockets.

Tami Stone
Jim McPherson
Dan Borsari

Letters to the editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO

1177 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, Mass.
Tel. 549-3669

"The only Italian Pizza Shop in Amherst"

We Feature
12" and 16" Pizzas
Foot-long Subs

Free Delivery from
5 p.m. - 3 a.m. Sunday 4 p.m. - 2 a.m.

Coupon

2 Free cans of Pepsi with any size Pizza

Exhibit combines nature, technology

By DENISE PENGEROTH
Special to the Collegian

George Trakas' Log Mass: Mass Curve Exhibit strikes one with awe upon entering. Massive trees serve as columns supporting steel beams which are a natural rust color like that of the bark. Platforms of natural wood can be reached by stairs of the same texture or by iron ones.

The whole atmosphere suggests a harmony between nature, represented by the trees, and the technology of the steel suspensions as they combine with each other in great strength. The magnitude of the trees can be seen and felt by the contrasting of a huge tree with one of the cement columns of the Fine Arts Center.

The whole exhibit is strange and imaginative carrying the onlooker into realms of advanced architecture or even back to a mystical non-existent forest.

The Contemporary Prints From Northern California Exhibit illustrates the development of art in California over the last twenty years. An array of lithographs, etchings and monoliths entertain in their simplicity yet leave room for probing and indebtness.

One brilliant example is Wayne Thiebaud and his brightly colored drawings of candied apples, triangle cookies and the most detailed "Big Suckers," displaying the favorite multi-colored lollipops. "Pendulum Spite Bite" by Terry Fox, is a great hanging that illustrates a spirograph effect, many ovals overlapping in the center thinning towards the outskirts. One of the most appealig drawings is "Landscape with Moon Peach and Tennis Ball" by Joseph Goldyne. This is a scene of melting hills and a waning moon, done is soft shades of rose, blue, and green, very delicate.

Both Exhibits will be on view through March 14 in the University Gallery.

Wax 'n Wane

Valentine's Specials
Long Sleeve Indian Blouses
30% off
Lurex Styled Blouses
½ off
Sterling Silver Jewelry
Last Year's Prices

Open
Daily 10-5:30-Fri til 8 pm

Downtown Amherst

THE BOLTWOOD-BELCHERTOWN PROJECT is recruiting volunteers for their Spring programs. Gain valuable field experience. Credit is available Information meeting is being held tonight Feb. 13, in Campus Center rm. 162, from 7-9 p.m.

THE CAREER-OPPORTUNITY COMPARISON TEST

- Can you be working as a civilian in the most state-of-the-art environment in the world?
- Will your professional responsibilities be challenging and career-building in an entry-level position?
- Will your initiative be encouraged and your capabilities visible?
- Will you be offered a fine selection of accessible institutions where you can continue your education tuition free?
- Will the comprehensive training program you receive immediately accelerate your pay level?
- Can you be shown exactly how far your potential will take you in 5 years?

Check Out These
PERFECT SCORE
CIVILIAN ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES
AIR FORCE SYSTEMS COMMAND ACTIVITIES

Electrical — Industrial Mechanical — Electronic
Aerospace — Materials

The Aeronautical Systems Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base has an assignment worthy of all the nights you've spent burning the midnight oil—the planning, research, development, testing and acquisition of all U.S. Air Force aeronautical weapon systems. Immediate civilian positions exist in turbine and ramjet engine technology, flight vehicle aerodynamics, structures, flight control and control design, materials research, navigation, communications, surveillance, reconnaissance and weapons delivery. These areas offer unrivaled opportunity for innovation ...for setting precedents ...and for stretching your abilities.

Our civilian team of professionals have found Dayton, Ohio, a place to live. If you like to breathe the open air, it's all around. If city hustle suits your style, you can have it in Dayton. Everything from King's Island to historic Fort Meigs is tucked into a short drive. And Cincinnati with it's professional sports, culture and night life is right next door.

There's no red tape in coming on board. We can hire you without Bureaucratic delay. The Aeronautical Systems Division has been mighty good at getting places fast. Let us tell you how we can do the same for your career.

WE ARE INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS
February 26, 1980
IN THE PLACEMENT OFFICE.
SIGN UP FOR AN APPOINTMENT

OR CONTACT: Charles E. Witchett
Air Force Civilian Career Recruiting Counselor
Aeronautical Systems Division

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AIR FORCE BASE, OHIO 45433
(513) 255-3945 255-3796

We Are An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
Mon.-Sat. 10-9

THE PAVILION

FREE T-SHIRT!

Oui! get a free t-shirt
in solids and stripes with every pair of Bonjour jeans you buy at regular price bon jour

Bring in this advertisment and get 10 percent off

do it with a smile!

11 ways to leave your lover with a few bucks left over

Finast

Honey— Here's what I saved by shopping Finast this week. It's yours! I love you Prices effective thru Saturday, February 16, 1980 at Finast Supermarkets Only!

We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors.

FINAST COUPON
Finast Yellow Cling Peaches
Sliced or Halves
2 29 oz. cans $1
With this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Valid Feb. 10-16, 1980. Limit one coupon per family.
FN-351 Finast

FINAST COUPON
Edwards/Finast Assorted Cake Mixes
Popular Flavors
2 18-1/2 oz. pkgs. $1
With this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Valid Feb. 10-16, 1980. Limit one coupon per family.
FN-352 Finast

FINAST COUPON
Finast Frozen Pot Pies
Beef, Chicken, Turkey, Macaroni & Cheese
4 8 oz. pkgs. $1
With this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Valid Feb. 10-16, 1980. Limit one coupon per family.
FN-353 Finast

Hadley Finast
Beer & Wine Shoppe!
12 oz. N.R. Bottles Rolling Rock Beer Case of 24 $6.75
12 oz. cans Falstaff Beer Case of 24 $5.25
Taylor Cream Sherry 1.5 liter bottle $3.49
Castel Ruboun Lambrusco 1.5 liter bottle $3.95

Richmond Margarine
Qtrs. 3 1 lb. pkgs. $1

Boneless Beef Roast
Bottom Round, Beef Shoulder or Rolled Beef Chuck USDA Choice
$1.89 lb.

Semi-Boneless Hams
Dinner Bell Whole-End Portion 5 lb. average water added Halves lb. $1.49
$1.39 lb.

Fresh Lean Ground Beef
Not more than 22% Fat Content 3 lbs. or more
$1.59 lb.

Farm Fresh Whole Chickens
2-1/2 to 3 lb. avg. Split or Quartered with Giblets 55¢ lb.
49¢ lb.

Maine Russet Baking Potatoes
FIRST IN THE FRESH
U.S. No. 1 Size A
10 lb. mesh bag $1.49

Freshly Sliced Domestic Cooked Ham
$1.19 half pound
Available in Stores with Service Deli Only!

Holiday Store Hours: Finast Supermarkets Closed Monday, February 18, Washington's Birthday

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

Fix your own car. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'68 Chevrolet Impala runs well and is reliable. Fred 546-3254

1972 Toyota Corona rebuilt engine, little rust, well maintained. Needs engine work. $600 or offer. 584-2062

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Fiat 74 X19 for sale call 549-0146

1970 Olds Delta '88' Exc. running cond. new battery FM-8 track 425.00 or BO Jeff 546-4138

65 VW Bug new clutch, muffler, tires, heaterboxes over $200 in new parts $375 546-5464

Comet 92000 mi runs well call 253-9340

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best betnights & mornings.

75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

BLUES BAND WANTED

A 3-5 piece band is needed to play UMSFCU sponsored benefit in assoc. w/UPC in the SUB 2/28/80. No pay but plenty of exposure and fun is assured. Call Peter 546-9366

CURRENTLY DISMANTLING

1000 Late Model Cars for parts. Lowest prices, Searles Auto Parts, Inc., 85 Easthampton Rd., Northampton, Mass. 584-2832

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro soundsystem for rent. Perfect for coffeehouses, discos, etc. MFSound 546-8865, 546-8777

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

ESSAY CONTEST

Win $20 and see your work in print! The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest. In 750 words or less tell how the women's movement has affected you. Contact Lisa at 5-3500 for details.

FOR RENT

5 cubic foot refrigerator $115. Like new. Call 665-3567 evenings.

Ski parka Women's 9-10, brand new, orange & yellow, zip-off sleeves for vest, originally $90. $45 or best offer 545-8244

1 room in 4 bedroom Apt. in Swiss Village $110 a month. Call 546-8420

Cape Cod summer seasonal rentals W. Yarmouth & Dennis 2, 3, or 4 bedroom; low rates 1-617-528-0404

Room for rent $125/mo plus, on bus route in Sunderland, call after 5 PM 665-7500

FOR SALE

Hart express skis. New unused with look 6x bindings unmounted + ski brakes $160.00 Call Tim 665-7711

15" color TV Mexican sweater coat, hiking boots size 7½, leather stitched boots 253-3012 try constantly

B & W Panasonic TV 11x9 screen $45 546-5464

Scuba Gear excellent condition U.S. Divers best. Tank, regulator, B.C. call now 546-9631

Stereo--Nikko 30 w/c amp, Sanyo turntable, PR. B.I.C. speakers excellent condition call Leo 546-7769 or 6-7771

Ski Boots 11½ $50, '967 Pontiac Cat. new snows & timing chain $375 BO 549-4199

FOUND

Black mittens + green hat in Whitmore. 253-5845

HEAD RESIDENTS POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Part-time positions at Mt. Holyoke College for the academic year 1980-81 single persons or married couples. BA required. Call 413 538-2550 an Equal Opportunity Employer

HELP WANTED

The Ombudsman selection committee will be accepting nomination and dissemination information on the Campus Center concourse today, Wednesday Feb. 13. 10-2 pm

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Babysitter must have car, one hr. am 3-4 hrs. in aft. Call 253-5141 ask for Ann days. 584-2197 nights. Good pay, good kids

Tutors Needed for O.H./Central Academic Centers, one or two nights a week. Non work study and work study. Subjects are Chemistry, Math, COINS and Economics. Send or bring resume to academic affairs Macyntire House before 5 p.m. Thursday February 14th

Work study positions available in Athletic Injury Care. Also non-work study positions must be EMT. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg. Rm. 9, Ext. 52866

INSTRUCTION

Basic auto-mechanics workshop. 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure. Autoskills Box 210 Amherst

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

Blue down jacket at Rusty Nail 2/8. I have yours. Call Anne 256-0669.

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Animal hide mittens lost Chadbourne area. Sentimental value. Return to Campus Center lost and found please.

Lost—Man's gold watch 12/22 near Chenoworth, sentimental value, reward call 6-9794

Lost—sentimental silver ankle bracelet, large reward 323-5900

PERSONALS

Coffeehouse Wed. Feb 13 8PM Farley Lodge sponsored by People's Gay Alliance

Garcia tickets Boston Orpheum 2/15 Fri. Prime floor seats 586-4487

Mike missed your editorial. See you Wednesday same time, same place

Anne, the floor will never be the same. We miss you so much. But good luck in the new place. It's great. We love you, Baker fourth girls

The Student Discount Coupon Book is a fun way to explore the Amherst area. With ½ price deals at restaurants, bars and other kinds of stores and services, the Student Discount Book offers a chance to save $$$ while enjoying your times out.

Lurching toward war—can we stop it? Come see Pulitzer Prize winner James MacGregor Burns answer this crucial question on Thur., Feb. 14, 7:00 in RM 102 Thompson Hall

Bofafeyaw says: You are the Holy Spirit of Creation; only you can stop the draft!...Born free!

Announcing The Beatle's Second Annual Benefit Concert at Pi Lam. Food, drink, Yoko and a dynamite home at school. Free admission. Thurs Feb. 14. For info talk to Ezra 256-6837, 549-1347.

Interested in getting away from the peer pressure in the dorms? Would you like to keep the friends you've made on your floor and still get out of the dorms? Call us and we'll meet with you and your floor to offer you an alternative with no hassles. Call 256-6837 or 549-1347. Ask for Ezra.

Goodness! It's your birthday. Best wishes and love, Dave and Mike

Pi Lambda Phi Open Rush Extravaganza Spring 1980. Stop by our table in the CC. Check out The Beatles Valentine's night at our house. Concert time 9:00

Happy Birthday Mom! Have lots more. Love ya, TeriAnn

S.F.C. Hi neighbor, better days ahead, welcome back. Love, Babalino

Jay—I met you Wed. at CC. Thanks! You made my day—A Thoughtful Person

Pink Floyd tickets needed for 2/24/80. Mike 6-5749

GBFin 362 Law III Goldman's exams wanted. Will pay cash. Call Dan 665-7721

Daytona Beach during Spring Break March 15-22. Peter Pan World Travel agents MC130223 want you to leave the driving worries to them. 8 days round trip and accomodations. 1 block from boardwalk. 4 persons per room. $229 each. Optional day trip to Disney World. Deadline Feb. 20. Please call S. Rayner 256-0675 or J. Hyde 1-773-3854

Attention: All UMass University women invited to Spring formal-informal Rush Parties at Sigma Delta Tau. For info call Robin 545-0527

VALENTINE GIFTS: Will trade for silver and gold. Silverscape Designs 264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

Poetry wanted for Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Literary Arts Press, 132 Nassau, Suite 212, New York, New York 10038

The Boltwood Project is recruiting students to volunteer at Belchertown State School. Information meeting Wed. Feb. 13, in Campus Center rm. 162

RIDE WANTED

Binghamton, N.Y. or vicinity for this Friday or returning Monday. 546-7425

Ride wanted to NYC Fri. 2/15. Call Alison 549-1046

ROOMATE WANTED

Down to earth roommate wanted for 2-bedroom apt. Sunderland 150/mo. 665-4373

Wanted one person to share one bedroom in two bedroom apt. in Townhouse. $75 plus. Call 549-4920. Keep trying.

Roomate wanted for Northwood apt. 112.50/month & utilities call 665-4293

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apartment bus route, Sunderland $100/month 665-3637

SERVICES

Tune ups all models $15 Labor 586-3695 5-0427

Attroney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

WANTED

Silver Top dollar paid for silver coins dated 1964 or below 546-9087

A 2 meter amateur radio, Call Steve 6-8880 Nights

Valentine's Day Cards
Heart-to-heart expressions for those you love and care for.
American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.

NEFERTITI'S
POTIONS FOR FACE AND BODY
Sensual Massage Oils, Bubble Baths to Share, Scented for Love
THORNES MARKET / 150 MAIN ST. / NORTHAMPTON / 584-0906

256-8587
whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
Free Cokes Free Delivery
Now Delivering 11 am-3 am
7 DAYS A WEEK
HAVE A WHOLE WHEAT PIZZA FOR BREAKFAST

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Cripple
5 Disagreement
9 Complains
14 Island near China
15 Septet less four
16 "Do -- ---"
17 Correct musical pitch
18 Was conveyed
19 Florida city
20 Timetable abbr
21 Eastern Canadian: 2 words
23 Nervous under pressure
25 Eris' brother
26 After noon
27 Reprimands: Slang
29 Sorrowful
32 Leg part
35 Mr. Carnegie
36 Geometric ratio
37 Watertight vessel
38 Ideal: Slang
39 Hawaiian storm
40 Lodging houses
41 First murderer
42 Gore
43 Decline in value
44 Contain
45 Was in session
46 ---- opera
48 Cute person: Slang
52 '76 Olympics site: 2 words
56 Fish eggs
57 City on the Missouri
58 Speech part
59 ---- Ridge: '72 Derby winner
60 Two-wheelers
61 Give off
62 Roman road
63 Ending for spin and gang
64 Compressed rolls
35 Eur. capital

DOWN
1 In the future
2 Excite mirth
3 Royal and Blanc
4 Focal point
5 Tried hard
6 Verify
7 Operatic heroine
8 Digits
9 Self-powered vehicles
10 Spiel
11 Confession
12 Kind of palm
13 John, in Erin
21 Dodgers or Blue Jays
22 Frivolous escapade
24 Telephone charges
27 ----- City, S.Dakota
28 Dutch length measure
30 A Lindbergh
31 Distribute cards
32 Sacred bull
33 Nurse
34 New World constrictor
35 Twofold
36 Move on ice
38 Range of one's actions
42 Remove skin
45 Turns aside
47 Alternate
48 Marine mollusk
49 Compose
50 English port
51 Have a deep desire
52 Crime syr. dicates: Informal
53 Neglect
54 Feel like --- man
55 Toronto's Casa ----
59 Tease Slang

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved:

P	L	U	G		M	U	F	F	I	S		S	T	O	P
L	I	R	A		A	N	E	L	E		P	Y	R	O
O	N	A	L	L	S	I	D	E	S		E	P	E	E
D	E	L	A	Y	S		E	E	S		C	E	L	T
				S	E	A	N	S		S	T	I	S
I	N	C	A		S	K	A		S	L	E	E	P	S
N	O	R	K	A		A	L	O	H	A		T	R	A
F	R	E	I	G	H	T	E	L	E	V	A	T	O	R
E	S	T		B	A	I	L	S		S	W	E	D	E
M	E	A	R	E	D		E	E	R		E	R	S	E
		C	U	E		A	C	N	E	S
M	A	E	S		P	I	T		N	I	C	E	S	T
A	L	O	T		A	S	I	A	N	R	I	V	E	R
M	A	U	L		C	L	O	V	E		T	I	N	E
P	S	S	T		M	E	N	E	E		F	L	S	E

DC menu

LUNCH
Cheeseburger
Liver and Onions

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Chow Mein/Noodles
Golden Burgers

DINNER
Roast Beef/Gravy
Franks/Rolls, Baked Beans with Pork

BASICS DINNER
Barley-Soybean Casserole
Seafood Cakes/Egg Sauce

Earthfoods
Cabbage Casserole
Rice and Bulghar
Gypsy soup
Potato salad
Banana spice bars

DELTA UPSILON
Invites you to see the fastest growing fraternity on campus.
Mon. Feb. 11 8:00 PM
Tues. Feb. 12 8:00 PM
Wed. Feb. 13 8:00 PM
Refreshments will be served
778 North Pleasant Street
across from NOPE Gym
for info call Vinny 545-2735

STUDENTS-UMASS -(ON CAMPUS ONLY)
It is still not to late to have the Boston Globe delivered at half price
☐Morning 7.50 ☐Sunday 5.00 ☐Morning & Sun. 12.75
Name
Campus Address
Fill out this form and return with payment to:
Larry Berger
M-4 Cliffside Apts.
Sunderland, Mass 01375
665-3966

The Sheep Shop
233 N. Pleasant St.
St. Valentine's Sale
Feb. 14, 15, 16
10% off everything
some items 50%
10 am – 5 pm

Jobs!
Lake Tahoe
California!
Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referals. LAKEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)
Sundays at 6:00 PM supper (potluck)
The Ark 7:00 PM Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays 1:15 PM At Newman
Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

Valentines for Tomorrow
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

the
BLS PRODUCTIONS
presents
PAT METHENY GROUP
Sunday, Feb. 24 8 p.m. - Fine Arts Center
Tickets: 7.00, 6.50, 6.00 students
8.00, 7.50, 7.00 non-students
At: TIX, Union Records
Platterpus, FAC Box Office

WINTER SALE

SALE
$49.00 medium widths
$39.00
AA widths
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
10 6:00 Mon. Sat 253-5135

B K Φ

Beta Kappa Phi invites all UMass men to Open Rush
Mon. Feb 11 8:00 pm
Tues. Feb. 12 8:00 pm
Wed. Feb. 13 8:00 pm
Mon. Feb. 18 9:00 pm
Tues. Feb. 19 7:00 pm
at 388 No. Pleasant St.
For Info call 545-0210 545-0211
Campus Intramural & Greek Area
Sports Champions '77 '78 '79
Academic and Social Benefits
Come Down & Meet the Brotherhood

TONIGHT
PUB MUG NIGHT
with
JIM PLUNKETT
an Amherst tradition and now with a great new look
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Ski Weekend * *
at Sugarbush Valley
Friday Feb 29 - Sunday March 2
*
$69.00
Lodging
(2) Lift tickets
(3) Breakfasts
(4) Dinners (Sat)
Beer & Wine Party
SIGN-UP-AT
* Ski Club Office
CC Room 106
* Ski Club Meeting
Wed 2-13 8:00 pm
Public Health Aud.
*
$25 nonrefundable deposit
Final payment due 2/20 no refunds
UMass Ski Club
Meeting tonight 8 pm Public Health Aud.

201 Student Union
(next to Hatch)
545-0400

Hours:
Monday-Friday
10-5
Saturday
10-5

VALENTINE'S DAY
SPECIAL!
50c off every album in stock
*except specials for the week
ONE DAY ONLY - Thurs., February 14
No rainchecks
Treat your valentine to beautiful music
Your Student-run Record Store

Winter Woes Sale
No snow & warm weather are bringing smiles to runners and oil bill payers, but are causing us to frown about our winter gear sales. So take advantage of the situation by redeeming the sales coupons below — Northampton only.

X-C Skis ½ price
Save on any purchase of ski, poles, boots or clothes when you buy $50 minimum. net.
expires 2/29/80

Timberland Boots $20. off
Save on these 6" or 8" tall insulated and waterproof boots. Men's & Women's expires 2/29/80

Class 5 Down $25. off
Save on any parka regularly priced at $75.00 or more. Lifetime warranty.
expires 2/29/80

Lita or Jelenk Underwear $5. off
Save on either brand when you buy a complete set — tops & bottoms.
expires 2/29/80

runner'shop
15 Strong Ave.
Northampton
159 N. Pleasant Rear
Amherst

Academy of Music
Northampton
Only Area Showing
NOW ENDS
THURSDAY
at 7:00 and 9:10
THE WHO PRESENTS THE MOVIE
QUADROPHENIA
A WAY OF LIFE!
THE WHO FILMS
AT THE GATES OF SOUTH COLLEGE

The place to be for the Olympics is
Time Out
TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE
Free popcorn
at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

Use this coupon to enter the Student Discount Coupon Books drawing for COMPLIMENTARY GIFT certificates at CHARLIES and at THE HUNGRY U
Save $150.00
Bring this coupon down to our table in the Campus Center Concourse with your Student Discount Book to enter.
Last week's winner Mike Barrett

"A STRUTTING, RAZZMATAZZ CELEBRATION DONE WITH CONSUMMATE STYLE." — Clive Barnes, N.Y. Post
"BRIGHT, FUNNY, TOUCHING, FLASHY, EXUBERANT, UPROARIOUS AND DELIGHTFUL — A STAGE CELEBRATION." — Jack O'Brien, King Features
"'EUBIE!' IS THE SHOW FOR YOU — LOADED WITH TALENT AND EUBIE BLAKE'S FINEST MUSIC." — Glenn Garvin, UPI
"WILD ABOUT 'EUBIE!' . . . FOR ONCE THE EXCLAMATION POINT IS JUSTIFIED IN A SHOW'S TITLE." — Jack Kroll, Newsweek MUSIC BY EUBIE BLAKE including such hits as
"I'm Just Wild About Harry"
"Memories Of You"
"Dodsley"
"Low Down Blues"

A TOM MALLOW PRODUCTION
ONE NIGHT ONLY!
FRI., FEB. 22 8 p.m.
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
General Public $9, 8, 7. Senior Citizens $8, 7, 6. UMass Student tickets $4.50, 4, $3.50.
Tickets available at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon - 5 p.m.) and Ticketron outlets. Phone reservations, mail orders, group discounts available; call Box Office at (413) 545-2511.

A career in law—
without law school.
After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.
As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.
The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 3,000 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.
If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.
We will visit your campus on:
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12
The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Paralegal, Inc
Approved by the American Bar Association.

Great Valentine Gifts
Clothing Sale
20-40% off many items
Daily 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Sunday 12-5
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

THINKING ABOUT SPRING BREAK?
BERMUDA!
Air Fare & Accomodations-Beach Party & Booze Cruise
8 Days/7 Nights as low as $249.
(Price includes all taxes & surcharges)
INTERESTED? PLEASE CALL:
Peter Keenan-Gary Bernson 545-0210
or Dan Smith 549-5621

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK Dolby Stereo G (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:15
JOHN BELUSHI 1941 PG (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
GEORGE BURNS ART CARNEY GOING IN STYLE PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
ROBERT REDFORD JANE FONDA THE ELECTRIC HORSEMAN PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN The JERK R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Richard Gere American Gigolo R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
ALAN ALDA THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks
8-9 p.m. 50¢
9-10 p.m. 75¢
10 p.m.-closing $1.00
Tues. 25¢ beers
Wed. 50¢ drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

NEW GRADUATE MERIT SCHOLARSHIPS
Rutgers University is pleased to announce the Rutgers Graduate Scholars program for outstanding students enrolled in the graduate and professional schools of the university. Scholarships provide for full tuition and fees for up to two academic years for both full-time and part-time students. The program also provides for tuition plus living awards. Ralph J. Bunche fellowships to students with backgrounds of educational disadvantage.
Deadline: March 1 for Fall 1980
Graduate Scholars Program
Graduate Admissions Office
542 George Street
Rutgers University
New Brunswick, NJ 08903
THE GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS AT RUTGERS UNIVERSITY
Graduate School—Newark • Graduate School—New Brunswick • Graduate School of Business Administration • Graduate School of Education • Graduate School of Library and Information Studies • Graduate School of Social Work • Mason Gross School of the Arts • School of Criminal Justice • School of Law—Camden • School of Law—Newark
RUTGERS
THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

U.S.placid proceeding 2-2 tie with Sweden

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. [AP] — The Winter Olympics opened under a cloud Tuesday with the International Olympic Committee rejecting President Carter's demand that the Summer Games be moved out of Moscow. But one American member of the IOC held out hope that U.S. athletes might participate anyway.

As the first competition of the Winter Games began Tuesday, the U.S. hockey team managed a 2-2 tie with Sweden thanks to a goal by defenseman Bill Baker with 27 seconds left. Canada, Norway and Romania posted first-round hockey victories.

Meanwhile, Lake Placid was beset by a comical transportation foulup that almost immobilized the town on the day before the opening ceremonies.

After three days of discussions, IOC President Lord Killanin announced that all 72 members attending the preOlympic meeting had agreed that the Summer Games should go on in Moscow as scheduled. The action was taken despite Carter's threat to ask American Olympic officials not to send a team if the Soviets refuse to pull their troops out of Afghanistan before next Wednesday.

Douglas Roby, one of two American members on the IOC, said he thought American athletes would go to Moscow somehow unless the U.S. government took some drastic measures such as canceling passports. USOC officials refused comment immediately.

On another Olympic political front, New York State's highest court cleared the way for the first participation in the Games by Mainland China since the 1949 communist revolution. The court of Appeals refused to strike down an IOC rule requiring that the team from Taiwan must not compete under the flag and anthem of the Republic of China.

The rule was aimed at bringing in mainland China, which already has athletes in the Olympic Village. The Taiwan group said it was considering a further appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. So far, they have been barred from the Village because they refuse to use the name Taiwan and an Olympic Committee flag as required by the IOC.

Hockey was the only event on the competition schedule Tuesday and Baker saved the American squad with his 55-foot slap shot when Sweden appeared to have the game under control. Baker took a pass from Buzz Schneider and powered his blast past goalie Pelle Lindbergh. Dave Silk scored the other U.S. goal with 28 seconds left in the second period.

U.S. ice hockey players pile up in jubilation during their Winter Olympics hockey game Tuesday against Sweden after David Silk scored the first goal for his team. The game ended in a 2-2 score. (AP Laserphoto)

The men's and women's gymnastics teams will be meeting the tough Owls of Southern Connecticut tonight at 7 p.m. at the Cage. (Staff photo by Chris Grawa)

Gymmen host Southern

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team puts its 4-2 record on the line tonight, as it plays host to nationally ranked Southern Connecticut State College at 7:00 in the Cage.

The meet is a double-dual, meaning that the women's squads from both schools will be competing at the same time as the men.

The Southern Connecticut team is led by Olympic trial qualifiers Mario McCutcheon, Wallace Miller, and Carl Antoniolli. McCutcheon earned All-America honors in the all-around, parallel bars, and horizontal bar last season. He tied Kurt Thomas for first place on the high bar at the Caesar's Palace Invitational meet earlier this year, and has represented the U.S. at numerous international competitions.

Miller is another senior standout all-around performer for the Owls. A high school teammate of McCutcheon at DeWitt Clinton in the Bronx, Miller has captured the USGF East regional in 1979 and placed second in the 1978 South African Cup meet. He is strongest on floor and parallel bars.

Antoniolli, a sophomore [illegible]der, joined the Owls after tra[illegible] from the University of Illinois. [illegible] he placed second in the [illegible] as a freshman. He was a [illegible] of the U.S. National Team, which represented the U.S, at the 1979 World University Games and the Pan-American Games.

The Owls are traditionally strong in the floor exercise event, primarily due to their all-around strength. McCutcheon, Miller, and senior all-around Glen Barletta excel on the floor for the SCSC squad. UMass will counter the powerful Owls with all-arounds Hugh O'Neall, Bob Donahue, Frank Cohen, and Bob Lamb, as well as specialist Dave Buegler.

Coach Abie Grossfeld lost two specialists from his pommel horse team to graduation, but the addition of Antoniolli solidifies Southern on the horse with Jim Bobletz and freshman Daren Dembrow the leading specialists. The all-around team plus specialists Tim Barry and Bob Ross will be competing for UMass.

Barletta is a fine performer on the still rings for the Owls, along with McCutcheon and Miller. The Minutemen will rely on the performances of specialist Dave Felleman.

Vaulting is one of Southern's stronger events, with Miller and Barletta topping the list of competitors. UMass is also strong in the event with Buegler and Lamb heading the squad.

But the Owls really excel in both the parallel and horizontal bar events, with McCutcheon, Miller, and Antoniolli shining. The Minutemen have been improving in the bar events, but will find it tough to keep pace with Southern.

"I rate them as the number two team in the nation," said UMass Coach Roy Johnson. "Until they beat Nebraska on February 22, then they'll be number one."

Spikers dealt defeat by Cadets of West Point

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The Cadets of Army handed the men's volleyball team its first loss of the season Monday night at West Point, winning 11-15, 15-11, 15-7, 4-15, 15-11.

The key to the UMass loss was in the powerful Army middle attack which filtered through the UMass blocking at mid-net and scored. UMass kept the match close with attacks from the outside; Quique Caballero and Pat Ryan established a fierce and constant hitting spree for the offense, while Ryan and Ed Midura maintained a consistent defense, especially in the last two games.

However, the Cadets stymied the previously undefeated UMass team with pinpoint passing and the ever-present middle attack (led by a West Point middle-hitter who was 6'10").

Despite the loss, Coach Al Morel felt that the match "was one of the best we've ever played".

"We definitely played well enough to win, but I think we'll learn more from the loss," said Morel, "we definitely learned that we have to shore up our blocking, especially in the middle, to improve our defensive coverage, and to speed up our offense."

"Overall, it was a great match; we managed to capitalize on a lot of Army's errors, and in the final game, which was a real seesaw battle, we tied Army eight times. Our defense was exceptional. But the Cadets smoked us with that middle attack."

UMass next sees action this weekend, when they play Boston University, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island at UNH in Durham.

The junior Varsity will begin its season this coming Saturday at Williams, when they meet Amherst College, Dartmouth and the Ephmen.

Jim Degnim

Behind our hoop woes

Times have certainly changed.

The UMass men's basketball team, once among the best in New England, is now probably the second worst Division One team in the region. Only New Hampshire is worse.

It wasn't that long ago that UMass was posting 20-win seasons with regularity and making several appearances in the National Invitational Tournament. (And in those days, the NIT was more than the loser's tourney that it is today.)

Coach Jack Leaman's teams won 156 games from the 1968-69 season through the '75-'76 campaign, while losing just 52.

The period was the glory days of UMass basketball. Crowds lined up at the Cage three hours before a game to get a seat to watch Julius Erving perform his wizardry. In '70-'71, Erving led the then-Redmen to a 23-4 season; no UMass team has ever won more games.

Even after the Doctah left for the pro ranks, UMass continued to win, dominating the Yankee Conference. It was a great time to be a UMass basketball fan.

Things started to go sour in the '76-'77 season. The Minutemen had everybody back from the previous season's 21-6 team and big things were expected as the squad entered the fledgling Eastern Collegiate Basketball League (what is now the Eastern Athletic Association). The team a disappointing 20-11.

In '77-'78 a team that had worlds of talent in Alex Eldridge, Derick Claiborne, Mike Pyatt and Mark Haymore ended up 15-12.

Last year, the Minutemen won five of 27 games, and lost all 12 Eastern Eight contests, and Leaman retired. This season, UMass has won one game and lost 19. So a school which lost only 52 games in eight seasons has dropped 41 games in less than two seasons.

What happened?

There is no easy cut and dry answer to that question. It's as important to look at what didn't happen as well.

What didn't happen was Jack Leaman didn't successfully recruit any outstanding players in his last four seasons as a coach. That is largely responsible for the team's present problems.

Last year's captain Eric Williams was a good, steady player, but he was not exceptionally talented. Brad Johnson was a classic case of unfulfilled potential, but he was not a star.

The Leaman holdovers still with the team (Bill Morrison, George Dennerlein, Jay Stewart and Tom Witkos) are not bad basketball players, but they are not stars, either.

In addition to the inability to recruit exceptional players, Leaman was unable to adapt to the changing college game. Jack Leaman is acknowledged as an excellent teacher of the game of basketball. That's how his teams dominated the Yankee Conference in the late sixties and early seventies.

But the college game changed in the seventies, and UMass joined a more competitive league. Many observers questioned Leaman's ability to relate to and motivate the new breed of player. His well-publicized rifts with the talented but undisciplined Eldridge supported this.Leaman tried to make fast break players like Eldridge play a deliberate offense. That's like telling Nolan Ryan to throw a change-up.

This article isn't intended as an indictment of Jack Leaman. He was a great coach. He won 217 games, more than any other coach in any sport in UMass history. Julius Erving has often acknowledged that Jack Leaman was extremely important to his development as a player.

Leaman was just the coach. The school's athletic department is just as responsible. It expected the basketball team to go big time without big time money or facilities.

Special Valentine's Issue

A special section of Valentine greetings begin on Page 8.

Expanded Sports and Arts sections begin on Page 17.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 84 — Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst — Thursday, Februarv 14, 1980

Index...

News.....page 2
Editorial/Opinion.....page 7
Around Campus.....page 15
Second Section:
Sports.....pages 1, 2, 3, 4
Comics, D.C. Menu.....page 9

Presidential candidates to debate at UMass?

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

Ten Republican and Democratic presidential hopefuls have been invited to attend a candidate's forum to be held two days before the March 4 Massachusetts primary election at the UMass Fine Arts Center.

The debate, scheduled for March 2, is cosponsored by the Amherst Morning Record in cooperation with UMass, Amherst College and Hampshire College, as well as local political leaders.

"The idea for the debate kind of sprung up spontaneously," said Record publisher Fred C. Temby. "A couple of us just got together and thought it would be a good idea."

Telegrams and letters have been sent to Democrats President Jimmy Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Republicans Rep. Philip Crane, Sen. Robert Dole, John B. Connally, George Bush, Sen. Howard Baker, Rep. John B. Anderson and Ronald Reagan inviting them to attend.

"I think we have a good chance of getting a representative group to attend," Temby said. Temby added he knows that at least two of the candidates are attempting to realign their schedules in order to come.

Temby was quoted in yesterday's Record as calling the event "a complete town affair" because it was organized by a group of individuals from the colleges and the local political scene, as well as one of Amherst's two daily papers.

"Amherst represents the ideal place for this forum to be held, because there is nowhere in the country with the necessary facilities located in an atmosphere so conducive to free political dialogue," Temby said. "It provides all of us with the opportunity to demonstrate a commitment to public service."

The New Hampshire presidential primary is Feb. 26, leaving only six days for candidates to canvass the state before the primary on March 4.

Temby added that the degree of cooperation between the participants in the event has been excellent, noting that UMass "went out of their way to make the Fine Arts Center available because it was such a high quality facility" for the event, adding that, "I feel privileged to be closely associated with these fine institutions in this endeavor."

Temby also offered special thanks to Hampshire President Adele Simmons, Amherst President Julian H. Gibbs and UMass Chancellor Henry Koffler for their help.

A day of love

'Love sickness' hits UM

By KATHERINE MORTON
Special to the Collegian

An outbreak of amore morbus hit UMass.

This highly contageous condition, more commonly known as "love sickness," threatens to reach epidemic proportions today.

In memory of St. Valentine, today's holiday celebrates "the internal feelings that we have" in an "external way," said Rev. J. Joseph Quigley of the Newman Center. "Many of us can express ourselves by giving gifts or other tangible external things evidencing what is in our hearts and minds," he said.

Along with his own personal hopes for this Valentine's Day, Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty, said he hopes for world peace, and for "United State's friendship with the Ayatollah Khomeini."

Beatty also expressed best wishes on this Valentine's Day to former Olympic track and field star Jessie Owens, now in the hospital. He also delivered a special message to the UMass comunity.

"A happy Valentine's Day to the good, honest and sincere students who make my job worthwhile," Beatty said.

Aside from Valentine's Day, people should be "sentimental all throughout the year," said the dean of Social and Behavioral Science Thomas Wilkinson.

"I love my wife 365 days of the year," Wilkinson said, adding that he sends Valentines wishes to actress Bette Davis, an idol from his youth, and also to the Ayatollah Khomeini, in the hope of national unity and world peace.

Dean of Students William F. Field said he felt a card on Valentine's Day is insufficient to display one's love.

"Perhaps I'll send flowers to my wife or cook her a special dinner," Field said.

"Year to year Valentine's Day should be shared with a special friend," said Nancy Lamb, assistant dean of the College of Arts

TURN TO PAGE 16

College romances

Many factors important in relationships

Editors Note: Twenty-five unmarried and married heterosexual couples responded to a Collegian advertisement from September to December 1979. The following article is based on interviews with the couples.

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

College students socialize in their dorms, at happy hour, parties, or within a campus group. Often male/female relationships result. Sometimes it starts with being friends, but often they talk at a party and agree to meet again, and a love relationship has begun.

Couples share some similar aspects although there are few generalities that can be made about male female relationships. Decision making, dominance and various problems that couples must share were the most important aspects stressed by Umass couples interviewed.

Sociologists agree that a great deal of filtering takes place in the mate-selection process. All of the men and women interviewed said they had past romances, and most of these romances were serious, lasting between six months and two or more years.

The unmarried couples surveyed were introduced by mutal friends or met during a social function, in college or high school. Of the couples who have been dating since high school, many of the men and a few women decided to attend UMass for the sole reason that their girlfriends or boyfriends went here.

Sam, a 19-year-old sophmore undeclared major, said his girlfriend Terri, "Talked me into going to college."

Sam and Terri, like many other couples, are from the same home town. They have been dating for two years and four months. Like most other couples who attend the same school, they spend a good deal of their leisure time together. They eat all of their meals with one another but they find mutual study sessions distracting.

Dating rules

There are rules in dating. None of the couples interviewed had open-ended relationships allowing them to date others at the same time. These couples stay together as long as various problems do not result in a break-up, and most often when break-ups occur, the couples get back together again. Sam and Terri have "ended" their relationship three times. Their last break up happened because "he went out with another girl." It lasted a month, but they saw one another every day. Terri said she decided to go back with him after, "I felt better about what happened. What he did was wrong but it didn't change my feeling about him."

Long distance romance

Many students at UMass are involved in long distance romances. This involves one half of the couple attending school here, while the other lives in another part of the state, attends another college, or has graduated and is working away from UMass.

Jenny and Michael had been dating for three years and

TURN TO PAGE 16

DIGEST

Actress Meryl Streep smiles on her way to receive the Hasty Pudding Woman of the Year award. (AP Laserphoto)

'Fugitive' star dies of attack

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor David Janssen, who led detectives on a tense chase for years as the falsely accused murderer in television's "The Fugitive," died of a heart attack Wednesday at age 48.

Janssen suffered the attack at his Malibu home, said actor Stuart Whitman, a longtime friend who happened to be driving by about 4:30 a.m. on his way to his ranch in Santa Barbara.

Whitman stopped when he saw an ambulance and a fire truck outside the Janssen home, and found paramedics trying to revive the actor.

"They had taken him out of bed and they were working on him, and working on him," Whitman said. "It must have been half an hour altogether. One of them then said, 'I think I've got a heartbeat,' and they took him to the hospital."

Death ruled out for marine

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood must be court-martialed on charges of deserting and collaborating with the North Vietnamese, but the death penalty will not be considered if he is found guilty, his commanding officer ruled Wednesday.

Brig. Gen. David B. Barker, commanding general at Camp Lejeune in eastern North Carolina, ordered a general court-martial for the 33-year-old native of Adama, Ind., on the basis of evidence from a military hearing that ended Feb. 1.

Prayer law survives review

BOSTON (AP) — A state Supreme Court justice refused to suspend the state's school prayer law Wednesday, ruling he has not seen evidence it hurts students who refuse to participate in the daily classroom prayer session.

"I have nothing to show me irreparable harm has taken place," said Justice Herbert Wilkins Jr. "At this point, I don't think an injunction would be beneficial."

Attorneys representing the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts and the American Jewish Congress asked Wilkins last week to place a temporary injunction on the new law which they say violates the constitutional provisions for freedom of religion.

Carter will support commission on Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said Wednesday night he will support establishment of an "appropriate commission with a carefully defined purpose" as a way to end the stalemate over American hostages in Iran.

Carter did not define the purpose, nor did he suggest that the release of the hostages, held 102 days, was imminent.

Carter told the nation in a televised news conference that there were now "positive signs" in the Iranian crisis, but he also said it would be wise to "guard against excessive optimism."

Under a proposal for establishment of a U.N.-authorized commission, a panel of neutral observers presumably would assess the crimes charged by Iran's revolutionary regime to the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and any U.S. role in his alleged crimes against the Iranian people.

The idea of a commission, the president said, originated with Kurt Waldehim, the U.N. secretary general. This touched on a running controversy between the administration and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, DMass., who claims credit for the proposal.

Carter specifically refused to acknowledge any U.S. guilt for restoring the shah to the throne in Iran in 1953. "That's ancient history and I don't think it's appropriate for me to go into the propriety of something that happened many years ago," he said.

Iranian officials have said the United States must accept blame for past support of the shah before the hostage crisis can be resolved.

Challenging his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Carter said Kennedy's statements on Iran and also the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan "have not been true, they have not been accurate and they have not helped our country."

Kennedy has attacked Carter's strategy in trying to gain release of the hostages in Tehran and contended that a weak foreign policy encouraged the Soviets to move troops into Afghanistan.

"This thrust of what he has said throughout the last few weeks is very damaging to our country," Carter said, and to efforts to get the hostages released and keep the peace.

Kennedy has tried to draw Carter into debate over foreign policy as well as domestic issues.

Carter said he would not resume "normal campaigning" until the hostages are released, but he did not specifically rule out a debate with his rival before then.

The president said he would not resume "business as usual" until the hostages were freed.

Religious deferment only out in Carter's registration proposal

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's young men and women looking for a sure way out of being drafted will have to turn to religion, under President Carter's registration proposal.

Brayton Harris, spokesman for the Selective Service System, said that unlike previous drafts when there were many exemptions and deferments, the only automatic exemption if a draft occurs under Carter's proposal would be "minister of religion."

That doesn't mean, however, that there won't be some exemptions.

"The theory is that any deferments and exemptions should be granted on the merits of the individual case, such as hardship or conscientious objector, " Harris said. "There will be no student deferments, no occupational deferments and no automatic deferments for family status, such as having children. The only automatic exemption will be for minister of religion."

Local draft boards will make the decisions about exemptions and deferments, Harris said.

President Carter sent Congress a report this week outlining his decision to call for the resumption of draft registration.

The report, in which Carter asks for authority to register women, also says that, should a military draft become necessary, it would be based on a random lottery system that would take 20-year-olds first.

The lottery system would be based on dates of birth chosen at random, the report says.

The plan rules out automatic student, occupational and family status deferments in an effort to correct the draft inequities of the Vietnam period which tended to protect the more affluent at the expense of the poor, the report says.

However, the report notes that the Justice Department has said Congress could alter Carter's proposal to allow some exemptions and deferments.

Carter has stressed that he "has no intention under present circumstances" of calling for a draft. And he would need congressional approval to do so.

But at the same time, Carter has asked Congress for $45 million to register the nation's approximately 8 million 19- and 20- year-olds — born in 1960 and 1961.

Beginning next Jan. 1, the Selective Service will ask those born in 1962 to register, and it will continue to ask eighteenyear-olds to register on their birthday.

Ring leader of Moslem rebels Sharqi Khan known as Amir-e-Jajad (leader of the Holy War) is seen guarding a strategic point in Badakshan Province in Pakistan where his volunteers are fighting Soviet troops. This photograph was released by Afghan rebels. (AP Laserphoto)

Tensions:

US agrees in principal with release plan

Associated Press

The United States has agreed in principle to a plan for release of American hostages in Tehran, it was reported Wednesday, but the White House declined comment. Iran's president said Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini accepted a three-point "action plan" for the release.

It was not known if the reported U.S. acceptance was of a plan disclosed earlier this week by President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr of Iran, or whether Bani-Sadr's initial plan had been changed.

The report on the U.S. acceptance, carried by ABC News, said the hostages would not be held by the Red Cross or any other third party.

Instead, ABC said, they would be released to United Nations officials in Tehran after the members of a commission were named. Under the agreement, the hostages, held at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for 102 days, would be free to testify before the commission if they wish, it said.

ABC did not say what the commission's purpose would be. It said it would be made up of representatives from Third World countries.

Bani-Sadr said Monday he had proposed to Khomeini that the group investigate "crimes" committed in Iran by both deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and the United States.

Soviets may begin Afghan withdrawal

The Associated Press

The Soviet Union has advised key Asian, European and African countries in recent days that it will begin withdrawing troops from Afghanistan when that country's border with Pakistan is stabilized, diplomats in London reported yesterday.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in New Delhi for talks on the Afghan situation, gave Indian leaders little or no hope for an early pullout, Indian officials indicated.

Indian, French, Algerian and other informants in London said Afghanistan has made an overture to Pakistan proposing talks to resolve their differences. A spokesman for the Pakistani government said it would welcome such talks but only after a complete Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan.

In other developments Wednesday:

— The Soviet Union blasted as "strange" and "impudent" Zbigniew Brzezinski's condemnation of any partial withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan. Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser "has clearly forgotten that the language of ultimatums cannot be used in talking with the Soviet Union," the official Soviet news agency Tass said. He suggested Monday that a partial pullout would signal the start of a Kremlin "peace offensive" to counter international condemnation of the Soviet intervention.

Students lobby for safe energy

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Nine UMass students, who are members of the Campaign for Safe Energy, drove to Keene, N.H. last night for a speech by Presidential candidate John Anderson.

As part of the program, the students wanted to keep the nuclear issue alive by bringing it to the candidates and the public at the candidates appearances. By asking questions and identifying themselves with the group, the members said they feel they can make the candidates take a close look at the program's platform.

Although the founders of the SCE started smaller anti-nuclear movements as early as 1973, this group campaign was formed in December of 1979. The group's founders include author Harvey Wasserman, who spoke at UMass last week.

Despite its short life, the campaign has attracted significant national recognition, said organizer John Pepi, who also works with Mass PIRG. The "Periscope" section of Newsweek in the Feb. 11, issue mentioned "forty paid staffers from the Campaign for Safe Energy (who were) canvassing Granite State voters..."

Presidential hopeful Howard Baker commented favorably on the organization and concern of the Campaign's members, Pepi said. However, Baker disagreed with what the group stood for, he said.

The Campaign has a three-part platform they try to get candidates to recognize and endorse, Pepi said. The first line of the platform sums up the Campaign's stance most clearly: "RESOLVED we need a new energy future."

The Campaign's "Safe Energy Platform" pamphlet calls upon candidates and delegates to endorse a "national program to eliminate waste and promote energy self-sufficiency by the year 2000; a moratorium on federal licensing of new nuclear plants; and a plant to coordinate the orderly phase out of all existing nuclear plants," a press release states.

Ralph Nader, a supporter of the Campaign, has stated, "The Campaign is enabling citizens to play a major role in setting the agenda for discussion by Presidential candidates who visit their communities. The Campaign hopes to make a consumers' energy progam prevail over the costly, hazardous and authoritarian energy plans of big oil," according to the release.

Campaign workers have appealed to all types of people in their canvassing experiences, they said. The workers have had different experiences, but all agreed working for the Campaign has given them a new awareness of politics, and its relation to the voters.

By seeing the candidates several times, one worker explained, an appreciation is gained of the political process. Techniques of speaking and campaigning can be picked up easily because so many of the candidate's speeches are similar, he said.

What is most staisfying, workers agreed, is the way the group gets people involved. Another staff organizer, Chuck Lacey, said over 50 percent of the country is anti-nuclear. The Campaign is the best way to get people organized and vocal about their opinions, group members said. The said the Campaign is getting people involved who normally would not be.

The 8:40 bus out of Sunderland Center is overcrowded even after it's first stop where Jay Mondello was fortunate enough to board. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

ANALYSIS

Andy Young

Controversy surrounds ex-official

YOUNG

By STEPHEN KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Andrew Young,former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, remains the focal point of ideological uneasiness.

Saint or fallen angel? Judge for yourself. In his 31 months in the U.N. post, Young:

— Said Cuban troops aiding Marxist rebels "bring a certain stability and order to Angola."

— Described Sweden, the Soviet Union, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford as "racists."

— Answered "Yeah" when asked if he agreed the South African government was "illegitimate."

— Claimed "there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of political prisoners in the United States."

— Predicted Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini will someday be condidered a "saint"

— Said he saw no difference between summary executions in Iran and Florida's execution of convicted murderer John Spenkelink.

— Met with Zehdi Lebib Terzi, an official of the Palistine Liberation Organization, to discuss the possibility of postponing action on a U.N. resolution that would endorse creation of a Palestinian state. When asked by State Department officials about the visit, which conflicted directly with U.S. policy, Young explained it as a chance social encounter. Later, when more information was available, Young said what he had said was "not a lie — it was just not the whole truth."

Whether one agrees with Young's diplomacy tactics or not, one must agree he has certainly catalyzed sensitive issues to an above-board level. Be it black-Jewish differnces, the West's relationship with Third World nations, civil rights at home or abroad or any number of hush-hush, non-agenda items, Young sped up the painfully slow gears of establishment.

The media colored Young with every shade of moral judgement possible. The National Review (Sept. 14, 1979) had this to say: "Young gained immense favor at the U.N. because of his anti-Western pronouncements in general and his anti-U.S. attitudes in particular. The dictators Young likes are all popular in the U.N. The Third World majority at the U.N. has no regard whatsoever for democracy, and neither does Young. Naturally this toadying promulgator of anti-Westernism became a media hero."

Business Week (Oct. 1, 1979) predictably stated: "A dramatic on-the-spot intervention by Andrew Young was the key factor in Pullman-Kellog's securing, on Sept. 13, a $340 million fertilizer plant contract in Nigeria."

'Young gained immense favor at the U.N. because of his anti-Western pronouncements...'

Ebony had this to say: "Such risk-taking and independence have long been a part of the Young persona."

In most cases, hindsight is considered 100 percent. One can only ask: In which direction?

Event slated for Cage

By STEPHEN KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Distinguished Visitors Program at UMass will be sponsoring a presentation by Andrew Young on Feb. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Curry Hicks Cage.

Young first came into the public light through a close association with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., organizing programs of voter registration, community development, working for the rights of working people and for the National Council of Churches.

Young is a former Congressman and a leader of the civil rights movement. He was elected to the United States House of Representatives from the Fifth District of Georgia in 1972, the first black congressman from Georgia in 101 years.

Young has extensive international experience, including travel to 30 nations in most parts of the world before he became and ambassador.

He is a graduate of Howard University and Hartford Theological Seminary, and is an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ. He has received numerous awards and honorary doctoral degrees and is presently rumored to be under consideration by the UMass Board of Trustees for an honorary degree.

UM representative to speak to Ed Commission

By MICHAEL SILVA
Collegian Staff

A representative from UMass is scheduled to speak today in Boston at a meeting of the Special Commission on the Reorganization of Higher Education.

Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy spokesman Ken Mosakowski yesterday said the commission, designed to streamline and economize the money flow in the state higher education system may propose to regionally consolidate the Boston area state schools.

Board of Higher Education Director Donald Epstein said yesterday that a move to consolidate some programs is necessary to benefit higher education in this state.

"It is necessary to review existing programs to eliminate duplication within the system" said Epstein, a UMass graduate. "We are looking for authority to review old programs that are of no use."

The commission is composed of 15 members, appointed by William M. Bulger, state Senate President, and 10 others, appointed by Gov. Edward J. King.

"We need to re-emerge as the leader of higher education in this state," said the SCERA public policy research director. "They (the commission) are not very partisan towards public education."

Mosakowski said the commission was originally organized during former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' administration but that during the change to the King administration "we lost a year."

"The commission has been meeting for the past three or four months," said Mosakowski. "A representative from SCERA has attended each meeting since last November." "But," he said, "it bothers me that not enough people from this campus are monitoring the progress of the commission. I have not seen any one from this administration at the meetings."

According to Epstein, if one program were being offered at three schools relatively close to one another, then it would be financially beneficial to all schools by freeing money when creating only one program in one school.

"We want to strengthen the community college system. We want to strengthen the Amherst campus," said Epstein.

Since the budget cuts began in 1975, "the desire for Amherst to become the flagship university has diminished," said Epstein. The University has "serious problems" and the governor and the House Ways and Means Committee want reorganization "as soon as possible," he added.

The board is currently aiding the reorganization committee by supplying "data and information and statistics on where we have come and where we are now," said Epstein.

Mosakowski said he felt the "commission's orientation is largely economic and that a proposal several years ago to structure higher education schools into vocational and liberal arts sections may be resubmitted.

The basic strength of the University, or any university, is diversity. Autonomy is important, he said. If he could speak at tommorrow's meeting, Mosakowski would ask that "none of our programs be amalgamated, I would like to see new programs initiated," he said.

A spokesperson from UMass New Bureau said Chancellor Henry Koffler would probably speak at today's meeting but that there was no information as to what he would say.

Senate debates funds for Int. Women's Week

By DAVE KELLOGG
Collegian Staff

Last night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting featured heated debate over funding for International Women's Week, to be held March 3-8.

Members of the steering committee came to the Senate meeting requesting their last year's budget deficit be suspended to allow funding for this year's programs. They also wanted $1,200 to provide child care for the six-day event. Both motions had the approval of the Senate Finance Committee.

On the floor, both motions met with vocal opposition from a limited number of senators. After members of the Finance Committee convinced the senate IWW's remaining budget deficit of $500 would be cleared as soon as the organization's debtors made good, it approved suspension of the deficit pending investigations.

Senators were less understanding in the debate over the $1,200 for child care. Many said they consider the amount unnecessary, and proposed an amendment to limit funding to $1,000. The amendment was defeated, and the original motion was finally brought to the floor and passed by a majority of senators.

"I am very proud of all the women that spent three hours at this meeting to support us," said Ellie Bagli, member of the IWW Steering Committee and professional staff member for women's isses at Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, "and of the men who spoke so eloquently in our behalf."

"The overwhelming majority of the Senate supported us," Bagli continued, "that showed in the vote. But there were a few troublemakers."

The senate also unanimously voted to recommend to Chancellor Henry Koffler and the Faculty Senate to reject a proposal for construction of fences along Massachusetts Ave., near the Southwest Residential Area.

The senate also voted to endorse a boycott of Nestle's products in the Campus Center.

Senate Speaker David Routhier criticized poor attendance at the weekly meetings. He emphasized that "times were changing" and that senators will be expected to contribute more effort to committee work.

Nelson Acosta pleads for the senators to get up from where they're sitting and do some work at last night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

GSS supports stress workshops

By SUZY CHAN
Special to the Collegian

The Graduate Student Senate voted unanimously Tuesday to support Stress Workshops for graduate students and the UMass Transit System in its efforts to get funding from Congress to maintain its current services.

The workshops are set up by the Mental Health Division in cooperation with the University Health Services.

Nancy Ryan, the workshops coordinator told the senators a series of one-hour workshops open to all graduate students will be offered at 11 a.m. at Thompson Hall on this schedule: Feb 29, Stress and Relaxation techniques, March 7, Stress and time management, and March 14, Stress, isolation and loneliness.

The workshops are set up to help graduate students recognize the levels of stress and to minimize it.

The senate supporting the UMass Transit system includes asking Congress to direct some of the windfall oil profits tax to mass transit.

Bill Barrett of the UMass system said due to President Carter's proposed budget cut, there is a potential increase in the student fee or service cutbacks in the next academic year.

Barrett urged the Senate to be aware and to start lobbying at both the state and the federal levels to help prevent the cutbacks in transit funding.

The UMass Transit System is sponsored by the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority, the Urban Mass Transportation Association, the Undergraduate Student Senate, the Graduate Student Senate, and the Commuter Collective.

Marilyn McArthur, research assistant at the Office of Research Affairs, also talked about getting research and study grants for graduate students.

According to McArthur, the Graduate Student Grants Service was established in the Office of Research Affairs to help graduate students learn about potential funding agencies. She said that she would like to reach more graduate students by talking to people in various departments.

Candidates use primary for 'one-line'

By MICHAEL MASCIS
Special to the Collegian

There has been a shift of emphasis to presidential primaries rather than caucuses for the selection of delegates in recent years, with a record 37 primaries in 1980, said Political Science Prof. Jerome Mileur.

Mileur, who is also the local chairman of the Democratic Committee, said the shift from caucuses to primaries has reduced the role of the political parties and has transformed primaries to "media fights" where secondary issues are overemphasized and reduced to "one-liners."

Some states elect delegates through primaries while others prefer caucuses. In Massachusetts, and in other states, caucuses are also used in conjunction with primaries; the delegates elected in the caucuses go on to the primary where the number of delegates is determined.

The purpose of the primaries and caucuses are basically the same; they are designed to select the delegates who go on to the conventions to determine the candidates. They differ in the degree of popular participation, however. Caucus participants are usually local party leaders and activists; the caucuses require the participants to meet and confront each other to produce the delegates. The primaries allow more mass participation; the selection process is affected by a media blitz designed to reach a large audience.

Political Science Prof. George Sulzner said "The caucuses do not have the same degree of official sanction as do the primaries." The primaries are accessible to registered party members whereas the participants in the caucuses must be actively involved in the party. Voters can not participate directly in caucuses, they must be interested enough to enter the local caucus and dedicate their time and energy to the selection process.

Mileur said he prefers the caucuses to the primaries. In primaries "more numbers particiapte, but the quality of that participation is lower." In a caucus, he said "the people have to be committed, they must be prepared to go and spend hours, and be able to give reasons for their support of a delegate because they're going to be confronted." In a primary no one is asked to de-

TURN TO PAGE 16

League of Women Voters involve people in election

By ANNE MERCIER
Collegian Staff

The Amherst League of Women Voters is "action oriented, interested in getting people involved in elections and the whole electoral process," said Donna Motts, president of the League.

"We are non partisan," said Motts. The League may offer references to publications with profiles of candidates, "but we offer no position on candidates, because that would be a selective process, and would undermine the League's basic objectives," said Motts.

The league's are "to maintain an educational focus on the electoral process, bring about changes, and update our positions," said Motts.

Motts said the presidents of the league from Amherst, Northampton, Holyoke, Greenfield, and Springfield meet periodically to discuss regional issues. This year their special concern is the diversion of Connecticut River water to the Quabbin Reservoir. They currently oppose the Metropolitan District Commission's plans to divert the water until environmental safeguards have been taken.

The Amherst chapter is comprised of 180 members, two of whom are male. The members come from a "broadly based age group," said Motts, and come from Amherst, Leverett, Shutesbury, Pelham, Hadley, and South Hadley.

The qualifications for becoming a member of the League are the same as those for becoming a voter—one must be 18 years old and a U.S. citizen, said Motts.

There are three main branches of the

TURN TO PAGE 16

ENGINEERS - GO FULL SPEED AHEAD AT ELECTRIC BOAT!

Electric Boat is the world's foremost designer and builder of nuclear submarines — one of the great engineering challenges of this century.

With a $3 billion backlog and long-term contracts Electric Boat offers career opportunities in nearly every engineering discipline (including electrical, mechanical, civil, etc.) top pay and benefits, long-range stability and an unmatched lifestyle on the southern New England seacoast.

GENERAL DYNAMICS
Electric Boat Division
The Best Shipbuilding Team in America

Electric Boat Division will be interviewing on campus on February 19, 1980. Please contact the Placement Office for time and place.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

Free off-campus delivery

Molson's beer, ale, golden 12 oz. NR's.....$2.99
Old Milwaukee.....$2.99 12 pack 12 oz. cans
Tuborg.....$6.99 case 12 oz. NR.....$1.996
Costa Do Sol.....$2.25 qt. Portuguese Rose
Almaden California Burgundy...750 ml Was 3.49, Now $2.49

CHECK THESE PRICES!
Growers Wines
Red, White, Rose
.99 750 ml.
2.99 ½ gal.
4.99 gal.
Budweiser 12 oz. cans
Schlitz 12. oz. NR's both 7.49 case

Friday Happy Hour
3 til 6
A Continuing Amherst Tradition
35c Pub Mugs - 75c Bar Drinks

Serving Food 11:30 am-9:30 pm
Seven days a week

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Alliance calls for action against Vermont nuke

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

The Vermont Yankee Decommisioning Alliance, VYDA, is calling for a weekend of "peaceful non-violent vital action" to help shut the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Plant in Vernon, Vt.

In news conferences held in Greenfield, Keene, N.H., and Brattleboro and Montpelier, Vt., the VYDA set out a series of appeals and called for a "Moratorium Day" March 28. Al Giordano, a spokesperson for the VYDA said that if the appeals are not met, the Moratorium Day will be followed by a non-violent action at the plant's gates March 30.

"We are appealing that the plant be shut down because it cannot meet minimum NRC safety standards. It has been notorious for radiation leaks and structural defects," he said.

Mayor Robert Reid of Middletown, Pa, endorsed the action. Middletown, one of the cities nearest the Three Mile Island Plant is now considered by anti-nuclear activists symbolic of anti-nuclear activity. Mayor Reid and the citizens of Middletown could not help being influenced by the near-disaster in their back yards, he said.

In a taped message at the conferences, Reid said "The nuclear issue is not just Middletown's problem; it's yours too. Nuclear Moratorium Day, 1980, offers each and every one of us the opportunity to free speech. Your participation can prevent the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Plant from becoming another Three Mile Island incident."

The group is "issuing the appeals to all who are incolved with nuclear policy making—the utilities, the utility regulators, state and federal governments and their agencies, and elected representatives."

The utility involved is the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corporation, a blanket organization for a consortium of 11 utilities that supply 85 percent of New England's electricity.

Aside form calling for the immediate shutdown of the plant, the appeals include that the cost of decommisioning the plant not be passed along to consumers, the practice of overcrowding on-site storage facilities of nuclear waste materials and spent fuel rods be ended, the plant's information center provide and opportunity for nuclear power opponents to display literature, and the utilities make public and funds or plans for decommisioning.

"The appeals demand that the officials assume responsibility for protecting the citizens surrounding the plant," said VYDA Spokesperson David Detmold.

Stockbridge will stage career day

By LAURA OWENS
Collegian Staff

Wednesday has been designated Professional Development Day for the Stockbridge School of Agriculture.

Started three years ogo by a group of Stockbridge students, the events of the day are designed to provide interested students with a feel for the agriculture world after college. The Stockbridge Student Senate has allocated $15,000 this year towards Professional Development Day, anticipating a turnout of well over 1,000 people.

According to Steve Gould, a Stockbridge student and promotion chairperson the three part program is scheduled to take place in the Campus Center and will consist of a series of seminars, an industrial show and numerous student displays. An added attraction is the day long outside show featuring large agricultural tractors and the latest in hardware and machinery. The show ill revolve around the theme, "Does Small Business Have a Place in Agriculture?"

Students will have the chance to exhibit their knowledge of the industry through the student displays aspect of the program. By incorporating that knowledge into a project, area professionals will be able to evaluate each student's work. In the past, Gould said it has encouraged merchants to hire individuals on the basis on student displays.

Lectures on a variety of topics will be given on a continuing basis from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.. Students will be able to meet the professionals, give and recieve new ideas and material and broaden their knowledge concerning agricultural affairs. Among the topics to be covered are: golf course construction, alcohol fuels and the New England farmer, what is it like to be a veterinarian?, opportunities in the arboriculture profession, landscape design and construction, and enhancing the economic possibilities of small scale farmers.

Special guest speaker Fredrick Winthrop Jr., Commissioner of Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, will speak on, "Is there a Future for Massachusetts Agriculture?" Students are encouraged to ask questions.

Stockbridge Professional Development Day is open to the general public and all are invited to attend the agricultural mini—fair.

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater receiving a well earned applause after their performance Tuesday night at the Fine Arts Center. (Staff Photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

UPS helps graduates

by LISA REDMOND
Special to the Collegian

The University Placement Service, located in Hampshire House, is designed to aid seniors and graduate students with finding employment after college.

To assist in the job search process, UPS provides workshops in preparing students for interviews with company representatives, writing resumes, federal employment and Pace exams. Workshops, which are held weekly, are filled to capacity requiring special workshops to be held in Herter Hall, Dr. Arthur Hilson, UPS director said.

In conjunction with the workshops, UPS works with academic departments in attempting to adapy curriculum to the job market.

Another phase of UPS, the outreach program, sends UPS employees to seek out corporations to participate in on-campus recruiting programs. There are currently 450 recruiters from companies such as Raytheon, Atlantic Richfield Corp., and General Tire and Rubber Corp.—who interview about 250 students daily.

28 Pages in two sections.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

do it with a smile !

A STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON BOOK is meant for sharing.

Going out to dinner with your honey doesn't have to cost alot of money.

These are just a few of the values (There are 36 more ways to $ave) These are "exclusive" discounts offered only in the Student Discount Book. THIS WEEK ONLY! Stop by our table in the Campus Center today!

Washington's Birthday Weekend
DISCO
Friday — Saturday — Sunday

"An Amherst tradition and now with a great new look"

Serving Food
11:30 a.m.
to 9:30 p.m.
7 days a week

9 til 1

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

All University Women Interested in Becoming A

Phi Sig Little Sister

Organizational Meeting & Round Robin Party Feb. 14 7:30 pm

Phi Sigma Kappa 510 N. Pleasant Amherst, MA 545-0017

Mike's Westview Cafe no. Amherst

Watch the U.S. Olympians

Go for it!
Schlitz makes it great.

at Mike's

10 oz. glass of Schlitz light or dark

30¢ a glass. 60 oz. pitcher $1.80

During all 12 day T.V. broadcasts of the Olympics.

Same Great Place

Thurs. Nite Penny Nite

Every Third Drink 1c

25c Pool Table

Two T.V.'s

Bowling Machine

Friday Afternoon Free Smorgy During Happy Hour 4p to 6p

Old Milkaukee Pitchers
$1.95 Most Bottles
Domestic Beer 75c
THIS MEALS 'S FOR YOU

TOP OF THE CAMPUS RESTAURANT
11TH FLOOR MURRAY D. LINCOLN CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Dear Friends,

The Top of the Campus restaurant is pleased to announce to you an exciting new feature, THE DINNER OF THE MONTH CLUB.* You are invited to join our new Club for a membership price of only two dollars. Membership in THE DINNER OF THE MONTH CLUB entitles you to bring a guest to dinner once every month at any time and to receive a 50• discount on the lowest priced entree that you ckoose from our fine dinner menu. The Top of the Campus Restaurant is open during the months of February, March, April and May as well as September, October, November and December. Members of the Club will also benefit from certain unannounced specials which will be offered at specially selected times to only Club members. For instance, you may receive a free carafe of wine or a special item which our chef is testing for future menus.

Validated parking is offered in our adjoining Campus Center Parking Garage if you present your parking ticket to the Dining Room Manager.

Our menu offers a wide variety of entrees priced from $3.95 to $8.95 and Daily Specials are offered at every meal. Our hours of operation are: Luncheon, Monday-Friday, 11:30-2:00, Dinner. Tuesday-Saturday, 5:00-9:00 and our special Sunday Sunset Buffet is offered every Sunday evening, 5:00-9:00.

Your application for membership in The Dinner of the Month Club may be presneted to the Top of the Campus cashier or mailed to Room 822A, Nurray D. Lincoln Campus Center, Univeristy of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Your membership card will be mailed to you with a special introductory offer.

Please feel free to contact me directly with any questions or personal requets at 549-6000 ext. 639.

Cordially yours
Ralph Johnson

Ralph Johnson, Manager
Top of the Campus Restaurant

TOP of the CAMPUS

* Student discounts do not apply.

Application for Membership
Top of the Campus Dinner of the Month Club

Send to: Room 822A, Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center
UMass, Amherst, MA 01003
Enclosed please find $2.00 Membership Fee for Dinner of the Month Club

NAME_____
MAILING ADDRESS_____

USED BOOKSALE
Mon-Sat, Feb 11-16

20% off our regular prices

Valley Book Shops
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst

BLUE WALL
campus center at u mass

Fri. Feb 15 & Sat. Feb 16

MARTIAN HIGHWAY

Space music
$1 cover charge

UPCOMING

Fri. Feb 22
Loose Caboose
Sat. Feb. 23
The Elevators

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
2 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON OR AMHERST

MICHELIN - GOODYEAR - LEE - ZENITH - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

Cash & Carry TIRES Cash & Carry
All our tires are new and first line. No Blems or Seconds.

Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

CONSUMER NOTE

WHEN COMPARING PRICES, MAKE SURE YOU ALSO COMPARE QUALITY GRADES, EFFECTIVE APRIL 1979 THE N.H.T.S.A. GRADED REGULAR BIAS-PLY TIRES (STANDARD =100) AS FOLLOWS:

NAME	QUALITY GRADE*
FIRESTONE (DLC)	80
ZENITH (PE)	80
GOODYEAR (POWERSTREAK)	70
WOOLCO (ALL AMERICAN)	70
SEARS (GUARDSMAN)	60
K-MART (KM-50)	50

* The higher the No.: the longer the tire will last.

DON'T FORGET! IT'S YOUR MONEY

CASH AND CARRY VISA OR MASTER CHARGE | OPEN Mon.-Fri., 9:30-5 Sat., 9:30-1 | 586-2544

Valentine Special
BEEF, BIRD & BOTTLE FOR 2
Thursday, Feb. 14
Friday, Feb. 15
5 p.m. 'til...
$11.95
Includes choice of Baked Potato or French Fries, Salad, Bread & Butter
Special Creation for the Ladies
Thursday, Valentine's Night
Plumbleys
Love Potion
No. 9
1st 150 Ladies, Thursday Night Receive a Free Flower
Plumbley's off the common
12 Boltwood Walk Amherst Center 253-9546
A Little Bit of Everything for Everyone

Editorial/Opinion

Technology less important than safety

The Du Pont Corporation of Delaware is tapping a new and unique form of job bias. Rather than concentrating on a clean work area or efficient control and disposal of toxic wastes, the company searches for "fit" workers; those not "hypersuseptable" to toxins. This constitutes a mentality, not unusual for profit mongering corporations, which threatens the health and rights of the American work force. The procedure is called Genetic Screening.

MARK WAGNER

As defined by Du Pont, the procedure is a medical surveillance of an individual's genetic make-up used to determine that perton's suseptability to damage from toxins being used in the work area. Denying persons employment due to physical qualities present at birth, qualities which in no way debilitate that person's capacity as a worker, places Du Pont in direct violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Yet, Du Pont is legally justified—they claim to be legally bound to performing these tests. A ruling by the Occupational Safety and Health Agency (OSHA), drafted six years ago, mandates a pre-employment physical surveillance of all employees which is to include "the personal history of the employee, family and occupational background, including genetic and environmental factors." Yet Eula Bingham, acting head of OSHA, has expressed outrage at the wording of the ruling and its interpretation by Du Pont. Other factors also question the application of the ruling being carried out by Du Pont. Members of OSHA involved in the drafting of the ruling recall no discussion of the word genetic. Dr. Samuel Epstein, ana dvisory committee member to the OSHA, went as far as to say he would not have agreed to the word had he been shown its usage. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has also been arroused and has law suits pending. So the battlefield is cleared for a new decade of legal proceedings: those involving genetics.

We could be spared years of legal deliberation and have a swift end to this corporated discrimination if the federalagencies involved acknowledge their paradox of policies. Updating the OSHA ruling and insuring compensation to those already victimized are the first steps. But further actions must be taken to guarantee safe working conditions and strigent control of toxins produced by industry.

The science of genetics promises practical application of a developing technology. Recent advances in this country's medical labs encourage this speculation. Yet there is no place for this technology in industry if health, safety, and environment are compromised. We must demand governmental policies that display a continuity, assuring equality in hiring practices and the basic right of safety in the work place.

Mark Wagner is a Collegian guest columnist

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief. JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor. FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager. JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor. ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor. LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor. RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor. JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor. SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager. JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor. JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisments lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

ERA ratification an urgent need

DEBBIE WALLACE

Both men and women often ask what major changes would result if the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) is ratified. Some people doubt whether women will really benefit from ERA, and if, in fact, they won't lose certain rights already granted. The Equal Rights Amendment is a mandate for change. It is a standard by which to measure future legal and social decisions. If the ERA is passed it would be the first time women were granted a clear and full status of equal citizenship under the constitution. The extension deadline for ERA is June 30, 1982.

The equal rights of women are not fully protected under the equal protection guarantees of the 5th and 14th amendments. These amendments do not require strict judicial scrutiny based upon sex. It is because gender lines have not been erased through existing laws, that ERA is needed.

Even legislation which prohibits sex discrimination contains major loopholes. Title 12 of the Civil Rights act of 1964 is often cited as one of the reasons ERA is not needed. Yet even though Title 12 prohibits sex discrimination in employment, it does not include the coverage of the federal government, small businesses and the armed services. The courts have begun to narrowly interpret Title 12 and the effect has been that employers have been allowed to maintain certain discriminatory seniority systems and to maintain pay schedules which do not reflect equal pay for work of equivalent value.

Equal Rights Amendments have been introduced in nearly every congress since 1923, so this is not exactly a new idea.

ERA is needed because discrimination on the basis of sex continues to be a major problem in the areas of employment, education, and housing.

Women in the labor fource continue to be disadvantaged by sex-role stereotypes and gender lines that affect employment opportunities. Despite legislative reform and efforts to enforce federal and state anti-discrimination laws, sex bias in employment persists. The labor market has provided increased opportunities for women in recent years, but most of these openings have been in clerical and service areas—traditionally dominated by women. In March of 1978, nearly 80 percent of women in the labor force were in clerical, sales, service, factory and plant jobs. In 1977 full-time women workers had a median income of 6,256 less than men. Women who work full-time earn 59 cents for every dollar earned by men. There has been a steady drop in women's earnings in the last 25 years, from 64 cents to every dollar earned by men in 1955 to the present figures. In professional jobs 60 percent of the women are noncollege teachers or nurses, while men tend to be doctors, lawyers, or college professors. These inequities exist despite the passage of federal and state legislation to combat certain forms of sex discrimination. The current status of women under family law shows that laws concerning marriage continue to deny women equal rights. People who suggest that ERA will strip away women's rights are not correct. The legal duty of a husband to support his wife is largely unenforceable. Only 14 percent of divorced wives were awarded alimony in 1975, and fewer than half were able to collect their payments regularly. Similar enforcement exists for collecting child support. ERA will not alter the family structure, but it will give a new dignity to the important roles of homemaker and mother.

Because other legislation is not concrete concerning women's rights Supreme court ruling in sex discrimination cases have been uneven. The court upheld sex based classifications against equal protection-challenges in some cases, while invalidating them in others.

The Equal Rights Amendment will apply to any law, policy, or practice in which government is directly or substantially involved. It is intended to require changes in all sex-based statutes unless the gender lines are based on unique physical characteristics or are necessary to protect other continutional rights such as privacy. This means that the following laws under ERA will be sex neutralized: laws that prohibit women from working in particular jobs, laws that limit the right of married women to control their own property, and laws that make age distinctions on the basis of sex; (such as setting different ages for employment or marriage on the basis of sex). However, laws providing for separation of males and females in public restrooms or dormitories would not be invalidated.

ERA would not damage the special status of women under the law and within society at large concerning domestic relations. In none of the ERA states have laws requiring husbands to support dependent wives and children been repealed. Nor have these laws required a 50-50 breakdown in the financial responsibilities of men and women in marriage or divorce.

The ERA would affect a large number of other major areas. ERA would challenge the assumption that sex alone determines which parent is best suited in child custody situations. The ERA will serve to equalize social security benefits. Presently, if a married woman is employed she pays an equal percentage of social security tax but receives a lower return than men in her income bracket. The ERA would make the social security system more equitable for senior citizens and other dependents. There is widespread evidence of discrimination against women in granting credit by banks, savings and loan associations, credit card companies, retail stores and the Federal government. Married men can also experience hardship, as creditors do not include the working wife's salary as part of the total family income.

Next time you say the Equal Rights Amendment is unnecessary, harmful, or won't affect you, consider these points. The urgent need for ERA is going unnoticed in many states. Be in charge of your own history and support the Equal Rights Amendment so these unequalities can be reversed.

Debbie Wallace is Associate Women's Editor of the Collegian

Letters

No segregation among anti-nukers

To the Editor

I am writing in response to a group of people in this area who I believe are intolerably sexist. This group claims to be dedicated to a cuase we all can at least sympathize with: the abolition of nuclear power.

This organization, however, has the audacity to identify itself as an exclusive group of individuals—women. "Women Against Nukes" is not only a sexist organization, it is an ignorant one. These people don't realize that the image they present to pre-nukers, moderates, and anti-nukers alike is one of reactionary sexism which will only serve to strengthen the pro-nuke stance.

What about men against nukes? Aren't we good enough to be admitted into the common cause of stopping nuclear powbr? Egotistical reactionaries don't contribute to the type of organization that is desperately needed to stop nuclear power. I am against nuclear power as well as organizations like "Women Against Nukes!"

Mark Kolligan
Amherst

Ms. Montes misses the issue

To the Editor

Upon reading Ms. Monte's editorial on the registration of women and the ERA (Collegian 2/12) I was especially struck by her apparent anti-femisist feelings. She seemed to be more frightened by the possibility that she could be drafted than angered by the possibility that she could be drafted without the rights granted by the ERA.

The issue is not really a question of whether a woman has the ability to serve in the armed forces; it's the very real possibility that a woman can be expected to have the same responsibilities as a man, without the equivalent rights. Ms. Montes spent more time tearing apart the objectives of the ERA movement than in realistically dealing with this possibility.

At one point, she comments that women between the ages of 18 and 26 "should not have to inscribe". This is a totally irrelevant point. Currently, only the 19 to 20 year old group is faced with the immediate possibility of registration. Also, her final point that women in the 18 to 26 year age group are of "prime childbearing years" is very sexist, suggesting that women are important only as perpetualters of the American population.

In conclusion, I think that women should spend less time fighting the draft, and more time fighting for the ERA. The draft, or least registration, is inevitable at this point, but the ERA, along with the rights of women, is still in a terribly insecure position.

Jeannine Shelton
Mary Lyon

Where You'll Find It All...
Hampshire Mall
90 Stores & Specialty Shops
Cafe-Square
Stop by for the Loving President's Sale!

Hahjee's Place
For Lovers And Friends
Midway between Northampton and Amherst (Rt. 9)
Sun.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30 pm Fri. & Sat. 4:30-11:30 pm
584-9797

Write Her (or Him)
on stationary
from Hastings
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Where You'll Find It All...
Hampshire Mall
90 Stores & Specialty Shops
Cafe-Square
Stop by for the Loving President's Sale!

IN A CLASS BY THEMSELVES
Lined Leather Funjuns
Soft, supple leather smoothly lined from heel to toe. Fabulous comfort. Classic styling. Unmistakably Bass®.

Bass®
Mathews SHOES
The Village Green, Amherst

A VALENTINE SPECIAL
Good for February 14th
Buy two specials
& one at ½ price
at
The Red Hot Connection
52 Center St.
Northampton
586-3306

TACO VILLA
THE NEW ALTERNATIVE...
Bit tired of Burgers, Pizza and Grinders?
FALL IN LOVE with Mexican Food.

Happy Valentine's Day

TEEBS· Want to play flippums• Sans tout. Happy Valentine's Day! Thanks for understanding and making the past 4 years very special. Love, Ton Petit Chou.

Anlene Shostek Won't you be my valentine• YSA.

Hey Brown 3rd and 4th? Happy V.D spread it around!--Ann and Mitch.

To Smelly Kat? who is this• I love ya, moe.

Al,Happy V.D You know me, I love you ALL THE TIME. Love always, Nanc.

To Mary and Dan L. with love from a not to secret admirer in N.J.

To Dolly (the definitive source) and lee's sister-in-law. From a former client-Lots of love.

Sharon, Nice to know I'm your fantasy. Lots of love.

To bugs,My one and only toods I'll always love you.

ROCKETT,I love you more than you think.....Phredd.

Sixteenth floor Coolidge-memories of cigarette breaks, popcorn, brownie delites, and much love. Always, Merticiful and Monkey.

Birth and Lorshque,Oh it's beautiful, it's gorgeous. We love it. The Gloria Stevenses.

Sixth Dickenson-Glad to be part of you. Happy V.D. Wendi and Mitzi.

Ando-Baby you're a special lady. Thighs!! Later besader, my buddy• Weirdo.

Disco Visco-Sex tonite• psyched• Please sit on my face, Mush. Puss face and A.W.

Tim, Love and happiness are with us always. Happy V-Day. Pixie.

Falker, Will you be our Valentine• Love from 10 GM.

Berger Perks, Happy Birthday and VDay Love, S,E and R.

Rick with the suspenders Personal toast (cinnamon) Love Linda J.

Hills, Shells, Nan and Pen,Happy Valentine's Day to the best friends in the whole world. Love you all. Tammy.

Lori, A special friend like you is hard to find, I'm glad I found you. Happy Valentine's Day. Tammy.

Gary,"There will always be you." Happy Valentine's Day. I love you. Forever Tammy.

R.E.E you are, by far, the very best. With much love. J.B.

K.H. Happy Valentine's Day Bucko! Love you. SAB.

To the dearest friend at Notre Dame, my "sweet emotions" remain the same. A happy day to you always! Mary.

Chuckie and Marcus, You'll always be our "lools" love, SIKWIM JIKWIM.

Jeff, Happy Valentine's Day! Love ya, Judes.

Tommy, Thanks for everything! I.L.Y. your best buddy.

The Semen say it with love to the wet dreams.

Scott T. I couldn't disappoint you--Happy Valentine's! Q.T.

Merrit Man I love you, not a once but a two times. Jo.

Jack in 210,Your singing drives me "crazy" love ya.

Ann? you will always be my Valentine. I love you, Jeff.

To our favorites on 18K, Happy Valentine's Day! Love Cindy and Em.

Ledge Leapers?Roses are Red, Violets are blue, We want your T.O.C. stickers, Instead of you!! Your happy hour honeys-

Connie-Here it is! share it with Tom and 21.

Chaberable-Blappy Blalenblines Blay. Blove, Blyra.

Michael, I love you, Always and Forever, Kath.

Archie, I hope your Valentine's Day is as special as you aWith all my love, Janet.

This here's a message, loud and clear, for all Collegian staff - It's just to say, enjoy your day, and give you all a laugh - You must admit, the words do fit, so leaving out the pranks - I now will close and end this prose with just a simple thanks. Kathy

To Lori L? With all of my love on our second Valentine's Day together, Ed.

BUN? Thanks for fulfilling my life. I love you always! David

Joanie, Even though you're a knucklehead, I still love ya...Thanks for the briefs. Ken

To those wonderful folks on 7 West-Webster, I wish you all a Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Arn.

U is half of Us. Much love and happiness. Pooh Bear

Kate? Never thought it would happen, huh• Happy VD! PJB

NLG? I love you and wish you were here. JJN

Wendi? Thamks for being my sweatness — I love you. Michael Keep smiling and think about round 15. I love you.

Valerie, Marcella, Debbie?Have a Happy Valentine's Day! WCW — Love, Renee.

To MUDPOP?Let's always HKRTP. I love you! Your Huggy!

MARIAN? I try to search for meaning, it can't be done alone — I need you. I need you there to share my dreams. I live through you and you through me. I think it's time you knew, you're my life. Love you forever, John.

Hey Lips Mint chip, volleyball, jellybeans. What more could you ask• Happy V-Day. Love, KR

Dave, I can't bear it without you — EGL.

Trickett?Can I check your receptacle• Did I look respectable• From JA to Brooks with love. JOD!

Creampuff, I love being in love with you. Hugs, kisses, and cheescake.

Baggins, to my fool! I love you. E.

Everyone wish Catherine Marie Cullinan a Happy Valentine's Day!!

Sharon and Karyn? Happy Valentine's Day! With love, Erica.

To my dear friends, the Misses Pirro and Burnett — Happy Valentine's Day! Your "Buddie", JB.

Miel, Love you, need you, and want you — Grand Garcon.

Jane, How about some teeth marks• Happy VD.

Happy VD to my favorites — Pat, Joan, ® Peg. Joe

Jayne — To a very special person on Valentine's Day. Love, Scott.

Candy is Dandy — I'm in love with a green eyed lady. William

John Macurdy? Happy Valentine's Day! (Sorry so original) ALB from FAC.

Kathy, Be my Valentine "when the shark bites". Love, Jim.

Loretta, I found your missing shamrock. Love, Wayne.

To my favorite Valentine, Happy Valentine's Day, Gregg! Love, Mitch.

To my Hull sweetheart, Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Karen.

Larry P — Two years and the magic still grows! To a great semester. All my love, Barbara.

Stan?Sunshine on my shoulders makes me happy. You make me smile. Happy Valentine's Day!! Love ya, Jean.

Is there one here for you?

The Collegian Valentine's Messages follow on the next 5 pages.

Bill's SHOE REPAIR
LOCATED IN THE CENTER OF AMHERST
We repair Clogs, Earth Shoes, Birkenstocks, Frye Boots, Hiking Boots, Leather Jackets, Purses, Dr. Scholl's and Carry-alls.

Luge your heart to the Olympics at Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

BART'S
ICE CREAM & BAKED GOODS
TREAT YOUR VALENTINE... TO THE FINEST SWEETS AROUND!
249 Main St. Northampton
7:30 am-11:30 pm Daily

Where You'll Find It All...
Hampshire Mall
90 Stores & Specialty Shops
Cafe-Square
Stop by for the Loving President's Sale!

MC/Visa accepted
Dwyer Florist
202 Main Street
Northampton, MA
584-3784
Iris $6.95 a bunch Cash & carry
Daffodils $6.95 a bunch Cash & carry
Roses, Daisies, Tulips, Carnations and Arrangements for all occasions

Happy Valentine's Day from the people at Bell's
Bells Pizza House
Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am
65 University Drive
549-1311 253-9051

Where You'll Find It All...
Hampshire Mall
90 Stores & Specialty Shops
Cafe-Square
Stop by for the Loving President's Sale!

COLLEGIAN STAFF AND ASSOCIATES (you to Ken),To all of you from all of me,Happy Valentines Day,Love Uncle Phredd.

To the boys in the band at MIKES WESTVIEW, Jon,-Jere,Ted,Steven,Bo,Harpo,Joe and Trudi.Happy Valentines day...Freddie.

S.S.Pierce-Happy Valentines Day with no lower back pain love Rockett and the Doctor.

PAUL-Be my funny Valentine,Love Donna ox.

To MB.Will love you always,I Love you,St.

Happy Valentines day 6th floor Washington General and the band.

Smegly,Scooch,scooch,hug,hug,grump,grump,
I'll last as long as I can stand the noise.

Stud Happy Valentines day! Love and stuff!Alison.

Happy Valentines Day all you UMOCers Keep on Lonin'.

Dear Billy,With or without your scruffiness,your a cutie.I love you,Wendy.

Hey K.D.Want to slit a sub tonite?Love your neighborhood commie.

COP at PIKE,you're a great big brother,good luck.

Debbie-My love is yours always and forever.Happy Valentines day.

Pidder,Zpv'sf wfsz tqfbjbm up nf j'mm bmxbzt mpwf zpv,pvhipvi.

To Jim Focus Fixer.Wanna take a roll?Let me rotate your crank and sprockets and you can play with my aperature and press my button.Valentine your flashbar makes me shutter with de-light!Ellie Poo.

Terry Marie,A very special and wonderful that I know and I love deep in my heart.Michael S.

Madonna,I promise I wont run out of gas again.You're beautiful.

HEY Sharon,Happy V-Day! one-four-three.Love Bruce.

P.R.Bear-We love that throbber.The pigs of UMASS.

S.Henshaw,I've been thinking about you-I hope you're happy.

Bill Collins,Happy Valentines Day!Love and friends always,Gumper.

41 Squire Village,Happy Valentines Day!Your roomie,Chris.

Becky Louis,Be my Valentine?Your X-217 roomie!

Mary 218—Our times together are so special and hard to find...Thanks, Love JOHN.

To Dottie Clark—I loved your article about me almost as much as I love you. Your candidate forever. Love, John Anderson.

Mel, Darlene, Rose Michele, Sharon—Happy Valentine's Day—Love you!

HILL—Thousands of smiles and love for you now and always—Roo.

Rockefeller and Frito-Lay—My very best wishes for a happy Valentine's Day—Love Rodney

To All the Men in My Life—Happy Valentine's Day—Love Corinne

Sperm—Much love and happiness to you today and always.L.W.

Rick—More than 50 billion arms-lengths. Ily tans. Kid.

Mary—Live, love, laugh. We can do it kid!—Spiel

Athena-Costa—To your first. Have a happy. The Kids

Barb—You can always be my Valentine no matter what par of space you're in. Jim.

To John M.—You are the sunshine of my life!I love you babe—Happy Valentine's Day. Love always and forever—Your "Princess"

To Carol Hanson:—What are friends for? Happy Valentine's Day!—Love always-your "little buddy".

To my Bahama-Mama Roomie—Happy Valentine's Day! Ambrosially yours, Beth.

Nancy—you are a special lady, I miss you so much. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Peter.

Happy Saint Valentine Day to Sara, Sheila, Kathleen, Peggy. From Warren.

Kim Dawkins—Happy Valentine's Day. From your secret admirer.

Kevin—You make me very happy and I love you. Carla.

Snookums—I finally got my student discount coupon book, so we can get a half-price breakfast at Daisy's! Should I call or nudge?—Honeybuns.

Mellow—I love you, and I always will. You're the only one. Happy Valentine's Day! Forever-n-always, Mort.

Happy Valentine's Day—To the Horn Ball in 410. Winey.

To my Toddy, Breaking up is hard to do, especially when I still love you. Happy Valentine's Day. All my Love, the "Q"

KMJ To my best buddy, a happy Valentine's Day. Love, BD

Happy Valentine's Day P. Peg. Daddy Bear & Coot

To my best Face: Happpy First Valentine's Day! From: Max, Tiffany, Maggie, Mikey, and of course, your Pooh Bear.

To Chuckie Chicken, This could be the start of something big. I love you

Rainy, Ironic isn't is that all you bring is Sunshine? Thanks for everything. Happy Valentine's Day! Love you, your wonderful roomie

'L,' 'T,' & 'F,' Keep wishing on a star and never forget your dreams. Happy Valentine's day, Love, 'K'

RAP, Happy Valentine's Day, Love forever, The future Mrs. P.

JK the DJ I send you all my TLA, MA.

Dear Darline Rene, I miss you a ton. Love, Deborah Anne.

Have a helluva Labisha Falicia! Love, Fal and Barfo

Hugh — nothing could be finer. Love, Eileen

Susie Aglieco — Thanks for being such a sweet roommie — Zanne

To the wonderful women in 93 — I love you — Eileen

4th floor — "Don't stop till you get enough." Eileen, Trish, Mary

Brown eyes, Happiness is being with you. Thanxs Sunshine. Don

To the 127 Sunset Household: Happy V-Day. Love, A.P.

Friends: ODAAT — Easy Does It! With Love, Susi

To my Hubby, All my love, BD

Joani — How about X-tra hugs and dimples on V-Day. Love, Mike

Martha, I've got The Fever for ya'! Love always, Southside

Pablo, Pablo, Pablo I love...tsuu! Susie

Kathy, I throw socially aware oranges on Valentine's, Whole Wheat

To my prince, You were worth waiting for! Love, princess

R.P.P. Wish you were here. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, M.A.D.

"Now I am strong enough to accept change" Thanks Den.

Linda A. — Happy V.D. to our bedtime story pal from the weird guys downstairs.

I love Joav, Capt. Energy, Cousin Ken, and Health Aide.

Howie — It's been two years. I still care. Amy

Happy Valentine's Day, Crabtree. Love and kisses, Nancy and Lisa

To My "Plebelings" at Sam. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Moe

To all Sammies: I love you all madly. Always, Moe

Marjorie, Of course I wouldn't forget. What will the men think if we make whoppee in Thatcher? Your secret admirer

Jayson, Just think—Beano Brain—it all started with yucca! Hope to share alot more twenty-thirds together. Lubs, me

Lisa, A thought from my universe of discourse. Together we'll overcome ourselves. Alone we'll crumble and fall...I love you. Craig

Heinie, Preppie, Horny, Ziggy, Mommie, Sleepy. Happy VD! Love, Kinky

Groovy Art—you got it where it counts! Love, Kinky

Jude, Laura, Terri, Randy, very happy Valentine's Day. Love, OB

Janet, Shope, Lisa, Jill, a very happy Valentine's Day. Steve

Zeus: Massachusetts winters are pretty cold but you're doing a great job keeping this California girl warm. I love you.

Andrew: Te amo. Yom-Yom. Oreo. Thanks! Love, Moe

J.D. R,O,G,B—Rainbow. Happy Valentine's Day. Love ya, Chris

Juanita, You're gettin' it straight from my heart. Love, Juan

Yes—last semester was rough, but we can still be friends, okay? Happy V Day, Z

"Leggy," This would be 4! But we're almost 28!!! Love, L.L.G.

Rosa, It's been 3 beautiful years. Only 100 to go. Love forever, Dan

Dear Snookers, I love you much and I'm sure onto June 28. All my love, Stephen

To my little suspendered one, Happy Valentine's Day, Linda J., and here's to studying our way to a 4.0. Love and kisses, Rick TV, Happy Valentine's Day. Sorry I'm not here. Love, P.F.

Linda, Jennifer, Lauren, Happy Valentine's Day! L, Sam

Whale, Happy V. Day! L, "Your Valentine"

Dear Karl, getting to know you and sit with you next to the roaring fire is very special. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Debbie

Dear Chris from N.J. Beneath the pale country sky—surrounded by your warmth I am filled with splendor from certain moments. Happy Valentine's Day to someone I give my heart. Love, Debbie

To my Puppy, Heaven is here with you. Love, Dan

Dave, Let's try on our boots tonight!! Love you! Barb

Mark, Thanks for all the hugs! Happy Valentine's Day. KSM

[T]EDDie, You're always in our hearts! Love, Joanne, Nancy & Matty

Linda, 10 months and still wicked pissa—You still throw too many doubles. Florida, here we come/ Lotsa love, Wayne

Danny—Broad-based constituency? What? H.V.D. Dearie! Esmerelda

Michael, Be my valentine—I love you. Hugs and kisses, Joani

N.M.S.—Happy Valentine's Day. Yo te amo, T.R.B.

Craig, I luv ya, no "Chaa"s about it! Lisa

3rd Floor Coolidge, I love you. Be good to me, Snuffy

Les delta chris ont les plus grands pipes. X Hollander

Asa, Tevwa Bobo Yeeneeboo, Sacbayo!! Birthday and Valentine kisses!!! You Unteve

Sherry, I have a stained-glass valentine that's beating for you! Larry

Buddy, Your present, me and my love. THOATS squirrel head.

BahamaMama Beth, Ambrosia says it with seashells. Happy Valentine's Day!

Little Lori- steamers, geeks and french fries form coffee ship to hatch. Coming soon, luncheon specials and more senior it is. Rocking horse nursery school, snad dunes and apple pie. BTR.

LAGNAF again-with the ski club at Sugarbush Valley, Feb 29-March 2.

Nancy- You feezzing, lagnaf, jank the boing fire wine and the pond. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Brad.

Don- How do I spell valentine• D-O-N! Love Dawn.

To the fabulous fourth of Dwight-you guys are the best. Have a super Valentine's Day. Judy.

Clue 4 enough running around, at last your final clue 304 Puffton holds a surprise, here's to loving you!

Peter, My eyes may smile but my heart is always crying for your company. I'll love your for many moons. Indian.

Vahan, tennis anyone• you can serve forever! Love, Claire.

Jean, Happy Valentine's Day. Lots of love and kisses. Steve.

Martha B. will you be my valentine• Jeff B.

To the redhead that might not like to "make love in the cape" but puts up with her passionate lover. I want to be with you for life. Your Hyde park boy.

Jill Jeri- I'll love you now and forever. Always- EM

To 5-East Dickinson, Happy Valentine's Day! Love Alix.

Spacey, Happy VD! A true friend in need, together we'll fight, with all our might to get out of this zoo, with our sanity.

Or suicide's the only answer? Go for it Duane! Love and friends always, Sprout, AKA mosquito.

Nonnie Pants- Thanks for the flowers. I love you. Kris.

Susie Q- Hope it hasn't been too long! Its been tres orgasmic n'est pas• Signed old faithful geyse,alias Charlie.

Lesley S, If all my loves a circle,we're going around one more time. Let's try to stay sane. Love K.M.B.

Lori and Brandie, free lessons today? the boys from eleven.

OH JEFF, You have the nicest ankles I've ever stroked

Brenda, I love your knee,knee knee knee it's xsulant.

Goonface one, (Happy Valentines Day)'starting over'brings noogie,unlimited to an L seven like you. Love Goonface two.

To the guys in 405 Cashin, You'll always be in the hearts of the girls across the hall.

Jeff, Happy Valentines day now where's mine?Allison (now visit).

Sally-This valentine loves the springtime,romantic fires and you.

404 Cashin,-You're the best,Gary.

D.G.S. I love you mucho bunchies Happy Valentines Day Peaches

Hey Tricia! Happy Valentines Day! All my love--Dave

Chucklet—Don't forget the 9-20tyh and Aquarius! Enjoy! Love, Rosko

CD-A bushel & a peck ILY MA

Chopper, You are beautiful Love, Pablo

From the sick dude in Washington, Love and Happy V-day

To my nutty buddy your place or mine? Holland Love, Michael

Linda, Another crazy semester? Thanks for everything-Happy Cupid! Barbara

Fancy Dancin' Nancy Happy Valentines Day! Love ya, Barbara Smile

Mr. W., to think we've just begun! Love, Aunt Hibou

Love you muchly L, Mmmmm. . .

Honey Bunny, Happy Valentines Day! I love you! Cuddle Bunny

Hey Kenny Happy Valentines Day buddy. Love from your Pal

Happy Valentines Day Peggy and Kermit Love the tough guys

To the Preppie Italian: I love your style. Be Mine

Shirley, I love you--forever. Love, Paul

Ms. H-Thanks for your love and for being you-Scruffy

Barbara Smile—T's & P's forever-I love you-Ben

Rosemary-Ellen, wishing you a special, heartwarming and fun day! Teresa-Boy

To Dottie, Daphne and Danny: Happy Valentines Day! I'm enjoying my living situation. Love, Fran

To Hat Kent Jane Carol Steve Bull Mort everybody else

Dear Marke, you got my heart babe. Love, Megret

To my corny Valentine Paul Briggs Love always, Patti

Mo you are the reason your Tim smiles. . .Happy Valentines Day

Sue I love you still and I always will. Mr. Muscles

My Beautiful Babe, Happy V.D. I love you. Your Hun

Ky—HappyValentines Day from a nameless talking toaster

Ilene—A dear friend. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Always, Linda

To my favorite R.N.,
Longer than
There've been fishes in the ocean
Higher than Any bird ever flew
Longer than
There've benn stars up in the heavens
I've been. . .
Stronger than any mountain cathedral
Truer than Any tree ever grew Deeper than Any forest primeval
I am. . .
Happy Valentines! See you tonite. Love, Ugly

Howie—I love you very much. Happy Valentines Day! Linda

Happy V.D. to Margie, Deb, and Ultee Three American Whoas

Sharon, I love you with all my heart. Happy Valentines Day. Love Always, Dave

To third floor Kennedy guys: We love living with you! Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Julie, Ann, and Terri

Cindee, Tommy loves you. CISOYB Love you, Tom

Dear Laurie, How about some kissy-kissy rubby-bum bum. S.W.L.K. Paul

B.C. I love you,. . .back! R.W.

Steven—Je t'adore, j'ai besoin de toi, je te desire

BIG Steve-Cutie: A HUG would make my day! J.P.

LA JGH-LAF—Be my Valentine—here (68) there (Europe) and everywhere (Alaska) Love to my roomie. Lick me—ACH!

Lee-Ann: Thank you for loving me. I love you. Art

Happy Valentimes Day, Doc, from your Crackie

Happy Valentines Day—you dirty old man! Love, Patty

AJR It's great discovering your new love is your old love. N. Linger

To Maria in Lowell Happy Valentines Day. Love always, Barry

Ruth Friendship is courageous, patient and most of all growth filled. Thanks for all this. Kevin

To the most wonderful person I've ever known, C.R. I love you. Shroom

MUM, You're my one and only. All my love, M.M.

Richie, All my love and future. Love you millions, Val

To Frank and the Bean: Grakle! Who loves you? Herman the Poppyseed does

Mush: Be mine and only mine—Be my Valentine! Mush

Careers are uncertain but our future is not. AMLCM

To Mouse, Love Boy

Keg, To my Valentine dear, our hearts are ever near. Love, Chris

Donna, I'm glas we are roomates. Luv-Joanne

Goddess of Fire to full moons and many more nights of making fire. Love, Firebug

B.B. Happy Valentines Day I love you. Love, B.B.

Therese, Thanks for being such a thoughtful pal, you're really special. Happy Valentines Day. Love, Will

Happy V.D. Susan Love you always, John P.S. and Wally

Diane—If you'll be my Valentine, I'll lick your nose. John

Scralph—You'll always be my special Valentine. Love, Your Mymph

You know you Sophie, your the best. Love always Al

Hay Tex, I love you. All of the time. Love, Al

Henri Happy Valentines Day I love you, yours always Napenda

Michael Shmichael, Mitchy Worms, Have a sunny Valentine's Day! Love Ellen 4s Grayson Gals: Love ya when wet Happy VD Love?

Hey K. What'd ya say, love you Babe. Christopher Robin

Margarita, A notebook, rose, and a date-my love ever since. Esteban

Southall, Sept. 22 was the start of a lifetime. Love, Michael

My Vermont Bear—I'll hibernate with you forever! Monkey Face

To my Honey I will never stop loving you. Hoopa

To the Q. This ones to you Happy Valentines Day Love, Todd

J.A.G.—remember the essance is always the same T.M.P.

Rat, You're so cute, give me a kiss. Love, Puppy

Michael, Promise not to forget that you owe me $4.80, and I'll promise to dork your bartuka daily. Love, Spooky

To Robin, Remembering birds that come from nowhere

Antwa, Oh baby, do it to me oh. Your Fans

Astronauts have good imaginations. Happy Valentine's Day, I love you.

Dear Valentine, I still owe you 3,000 kisses. Love, Chickie

Geese, Treech, Glenn and Preston, my favorite sweethearts. Love Farrah

Suz and Joan I know you'll have a good Valentines Day—Mr. Charlie told me so. Love, Janet

Dearest Andrea Happy new apartment and Valentines Day. Love, Hoycey

To my girlfriens in Melville, Happy Valentines day. Love, Mojo

Paul, Thank you for your love & inspiration! ILY, Koali

SK Maureen, Thanks for being you! You're beautiful! Love, Koali

Dear SC DH PM and all cool. Love ya Al

Cheryl, I love you now more than ever. Love, Scott

Little John will you be my valentine love, Med. Jill

Munchkin you babykins will love you forever Happy Valentines Day

Margaret you are like a rose in springtime from Marke

J.T. Happy Valentine's Day! I love you! P.D.

Augie loves blue!

Kath, Happy Valentines day from your roomie, Dr. Rice

Hey you crazy cat I love you The Bunny Ponce

Paul, I love you so very much! Love always, Shirley Pllllease! David, remember roses this year! Love you anyway, Care

Puppy Dog, Happy Valentines day, your the best BigBear

Nanci Ann—Please stop being afraid of losing me this spring or I'll super glue us together! Love, Michael K.

Pam Get ready for a wild weekend The Mush Face

Dear Puppy Eyes, Your the best, warmest, and cutest friend ever! Be by Valentine FOREVER. I.L.Y.

To Schnookles from Bumm Pick I love you ripped ripped

Dear Marke, You got my heart babe. Love, Megret

Andy 317-9448 Happy Valentine's Day an admirer in the Quad

Karen Have a Happy Valentines Day. Love always, Mark

Riv—I Ruv Rou Rastro

Hi Sweetie! Beeboo beeboo beeboo budgie sees all. Love, PD

To my Sweetheart I'll always love you. Love your Papa

Little Ginny: Be good and have a good V-day. Love, Your favorite brother

Scarecrow and Moose; Who loves ya' baby?!!. . .(ar-ar!) Friz

Another candle?? Oh, don't scratch like that!!

From the capital letter dispensery love and kisses XX°° M.O.

Ca va Mushi—Txiru and Altor are staying for long Xabier

Bumpick, Happy three years. Love you, let's get hitched. Snookles

To Robin KKG you are the best. Love, Big Sister

Would you like to borrow that toothbrush I have an one S.S.

Jim To my Valentine. I miss you. Love your wife

Heatherm your a goon but thats OK with me John L.

Robin Happy Valentines Day to the cutest spastic skier in my life. I love you, love always your Irish Lepracaun, John

Sweetybear Love you, even if you are a creepo. Sigi

Miss Nevada and Cathy! Happy Valentines Day from the Italian guy

Ms. Fox: Dinner at the Pub, walking in the rain. Babe you're in me, you're always with me. Love, Kenny

My Babie Pup, little cue-ball head, I love you more than lasagne. Lambie Chopsles

Anna I hope the arrow hasn't gone through. It's been to long an arrow. love B-man Happy Val.

Dear Honey-Bunch—I'll love you forever and longer.—Honeybuns

Charlie & Arthur the Wonderdog Love you both Valentines, Karisima

Toby Rock with you! All my love forever!! Steve

Frey, It seems to me that #3 was truely meant to be. Luff Vic

To KC and BR and JH, loves ya muchly JB

Give me a K-R-U-M-P-E whats that spell? Yeah, Krumpe! Love you anyway, J.A.H.

Duke of Dak and King Come—Happy VD you strangers in the night. Love the High Priestess of fleshy desires and your temptress of vulgar delights

Queen of Hearts sparks can fly join me in a royal flush we'ed be an unbeatable pair—King of Hearts

To Evelyn, You're very important to me. Happy Valentines Day. Love, Pedrin

"Happy Valentines Day Martha Snow, Love you today and always. Dan"

God loves you so that He sent Jesus for you

To the I.B. You may be a jerk but I still love you. Your N.W.

Kat, you are my one and only forever. B.

Sandra Lee, You have my toothbrush and love always. Peter

David, Happy Valentine's Day sweetheart! I love you and always will. Love, Sharon

Nacoma, Who loves ya? I do, Terry

R, One cat's purr is another mouse's squeak! Happy Valentines. S

136E, chalk up another bong this Valentines Day. (that makes 9979 since Jan) your ex

Sweets—zthings certainly are happier this time than last—Thanks for all your love, and stay MELLOW. Love, Cutes

"Love you Coke" with love, Nance

Rosco—Happy Valentines Day, Your Pirate.

Bear, 10-19-79 Hope your still my valentine! Spaceshot.

Dear Babs—Happy Valentine's Day, Love Always, Jim.

Love Always. 1-7-78 Be My Valentine? Love Ya.

4th Floor Cashin—All come to 409 with lips puckered!!!

Rose & Carolyn, Happy Valentines Day. Love, Roy.

Sully, Hi Kath—Happy Valentines Day! Love your ML Roommate.

Richard—I love you more! Jackie

Happy Valentines Day Eileen—you've got my heart the whole year round. Love Jim.

K Kimbo—Happy Valentines Day! You've waited long enough!

Sarah S—Happy Valentines Day! C

Diane & Diane—Happy Valentines Day! C.

April—Happy V.D.! From from brother who loves you—Jeff

Charlie, My heart is with you while I'm without you! Happy Valentines Day, and happy first semester! Much love, Cindy

To Connie, Bert and Eileen (the 151-H women!) Happy, happy Valentines Day! Let's live it up! Love, your fourth

KHM I love you NHS

Our litle sisters are the cutest Pi Lambda Phi

Dickinson 3-West Happy Valentines Day! Love, Donna and Nance

David Starbuck Biff goofka Tobin Cole: E.B. to all of you. W.C.

SydMay my cup run over with java. And you be there to catch the overflow. Love, The Prince.

Kathy-The Moonlite Hotel was great! Alan

Hi Manx-I love you will you be my shmalentine

Dan,Here's to a Happy Valentine's Day with you. Love MAD.

Josephine,Let's work out together. Don't forget the whip cream. Love always, John Henry

CSCN-I love you always JATROT-Me

To my sinful lover;A Happy Valentine's Day Greeting as soon as I can get this smile off my face.

Mimosa, you're music to my ears. All my love, Mike

Dougie-The "wise one" was right-we are one! Happy V-Day to a lovable wimp, from the Grasshopper.

Cathy P. my best friend. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Curt

Chuck If you'll be my dixie chicken I'll be you're Tennessee lamb. Love, Drugs, Sex, and Rock and Roll. Unicorn.

My Angel, Screw politics! I love you always. Pooh

New Haven's Finest VALENTINE NUMBER FOUR-don't ever 'copout'. Love always, light chocolate.

Mickey Love you always and thanks for everything. Your roomie Marge.

Circular motion is very, very nice- a secret admirer.

I love you Horntood

To my dearest Selena, From your dearest Jon. Love always.

Suesito, Yesteday is a memory and tomorrow is a dream...Forever, Kirkito.

Eddie, You're my favorite valentine! All my love on this day and forever. Love Claire.

Dear Joanne, Jean, and Vicki, Welcome to Pierpont, Love Ken.

Mara and Lisa, Thanks for everything love you a lot Lisa.

Kitty? You're a very special and beautiful person. I love you Happy V-Day. Bud.

My Bob, Oh what you mean to me! Love Carol.

C.S.S. "Dammit Chris I love you" Happy Valentines Day. S.E.T.

Cat I even love you more than popcorn. Nee Kitten.

Jim, Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow and Forever. I love you. Marilyn.

Treech, Grit and Deb•• Happy V-Day to the best roomies!!! guess who••

Ice cream, Lollipops, Balloons have a Happy Valentines Day! Love Lorinca.

Hope this is the best Valentines Day yet! Love Lorri.

Debbie D.- KKr Happy Heart Day! Your roommate, Linda Mary.

Mary- It's all very simple I love you- Jeff.

Matt- Happy Valentine's Day to my dream come true. Love Connie.

Mandy, You're someone special. Hope you'll by my valentine. Whatever.

Hey, B13, Happy Smurfs and Rats. Mazda wreckers.

Love is "me" Happy Valentine's Day, Wanda. I love you! Danny.

Sadie "Love is a rose" Happy Valentine's Day love you Suke.

Puppy, You are my valentine, always and forever. B.G.

Donna? For times we've had and times ahead. Love, Zebe.

Nancy You're very special to me. Have a Happy Valentine's Day Love Kurt.

Rat, I'm back to stay. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Moe.

It was grand on the Steinway, Lover. Te Quiero, Sweetheart.

I love you and cannot live without you Christine.

Spawn, To the girl with the big brown eyes. Love Ed.

To the girls in 403 Brown, Have a Happy, Ed.

Missing you this Valentines Day Babe, I love you, Mikey.

To the forward women, from the possive man, good luck.

Diane and Doreen, Have a Happy Valentine's Day from your roomie Barb.

To my sweetheart Ed I love you, F.B. Happy Valentine's Day Love, Debbie.

Bev-I'm gonna make you love me. Yes I will. Rich.

D.C.K. Whatever the future holds, I LOVE YOU. You'll always be my valentine! B.J.

B12, House of Whales, you're something else. Your sweatheart.

MA. I don't know! Love you more everyday. Dave.

Happy Valentine's Day to Al, George's Mother, the goat, Barry P., and the 1000 flies. All of which are on the bus. Love Alice.

Julie Butterfield-you maniac! H.V.D. to a swell FRIEND!! Roomiefart.

Princess? Happy Valentine's Day. All my love forever Lohengrin.

Marcella, Renee, Val? WCW forever! Happy Valentine's Day. Love Barbie.

Babe, What's up• Thanx for being mine. Happy V.D. Luv Slim.

Poop Queen-thanks for being so good.

Kirk, remember how much I'll always love you, babe! Susan.

To G? Not EVEN Shakespeare could do justice to the beauty in thine eyes! Love, Charlie.

Robin, Happy Valentine's Day pumpkinhead. Your long distance lover.

Ann, Good luck in the future. I love you. Moon

To my Squishable Ed on this day only special thoughts of you. Happy Valentines Day. Love you, Julie

Ginger, Happy Valentine's day to the best roomate. Love, Allison

Rock and Roll Accountant I'll never be a rocker, huh? Send a tape, I'll learn. I miss you. —Daffy Broad

Marc—I love it when we're cruising together. Stay forever mine. Happy Valentine's Day—love always, Syd XO

Red Fox—Even though I'm away I love you more every day.

Michael, You're th only Valentine I want, and I still have a wicked crush on you. Remember I.L.w/o Y.L., P.

Peter S. You still make my heart throb!! Coolidge 7

Babycakes, So I'll flunk out, keep the bed on 7. Sugarlips

To everyone that's been there. Fisdom. Shami

Magoombette My loves increases for you each day. Your Magoomba

Van Meter 4th women. You're the best. Love, 4th Men

Barry Happy Valentines Day 143 "Me"

Sheba, Be my perpetual Valentine. I love you forever. SKWA

Lorraine?PLEASE DON'T GO...Jeffrey.

Bobo, May this valentine by one of many. I love you. Loni

Jan, A great weekend to come. Love forever, Phil.

Dear Michael-I hope you have an especially nice and Happy Valentine's Day-Your star story fan. Theresa M. Keeler.

Mark-I love how you make me smile. Love, Anne.

Muffin (Cindi)? Yes I really do love you! T.W.

To Chris? I love you! F/E/A/E/A/A/W/A/A/DAY! Mary.

Julie and Beth, two very special roomies happy heart day.

Precious, Special moments...May there be many more. Love Beast.

Mona Victoria, Valentine lets ge married in 83. William.

Who (yes you BMD) Don't despair the soft folds of the nether regions are appreciative of friendships too. Love L.

Poo Psy we're just beginning.

Arlene 448vm Roses are red, violets are blue, lets have a drink, with the toast to you. R.

John, Happy Valentine's Day to a good boyscout. I love you. Judy.

To Joe Scott and John, from 2, I love you. Carmine.

DZACKIE-I love to wrinkle with you.

TO MY BOO BOO· Time has come again and love is in the wind like some music in a dream you made them all come true when you came inside of my life now I'm lost inside you. Love always, Gail.

Kim, Happy Valenine's Day. You were definitely worth the wait. I'll be yours if you'll be mine. Love Mark.

Biddle Iddle Ipp.....Happy V-Day! We all miss you! Love the Fans of Captain Kool-Aid.

Surprise Tommy O. Happy Valentine's Day to my 1st love. Miss you. Munich (MNM)

Geese, Happy Valentine's Day to my favorite sweetheart. All my love, Patty.

S.L Happy Valentine's Day wanna see my stereo• Herman.

ALICIA-Opening the doors of life and love with you has made me so very happy. Love, Your rising aquarian.

Dear Lori, Thanks for a great year. Know there's many more to come. Love Tone-Tone.

To Patty, Role me over in the clover one more time. Quack!

Dear B.B.C.---Cut class together again• Ready when you are...Love, Ortiz.

Soft hands...work would be a bore without YOU! G.Man.

Walt, For two tears you've warmed me with your love and friendship. May we alwways remain Valentines. Je t'aime, Cookie.

To residents of "Camp Pleasant", Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Cookie.

A Valentine to home, to show I remember you Paul. Love, Paula.

QT? Happy VD Day — Ha! The steak was good too — don't forget your toothbrush. Luv ya, me.

Reesie, PeeWee, . Valerie? You just don't know! Mary

Rick How are you feling? I'd like to "stay in touch". Please call. Will you be my Valentine?

Fred-o Will you be my Valentine? (Yes I am crazy!) ILY Con.

Rodger and Ronnie Happy VD! Rock it to ya! KS.

To the Velour Hunters of America+ Happy VD (Velour Day)!

To the 3 boys Logistics don't work and neither does Jack Daniels. Happy VD. Love girls in #2.

To all my friends at "Zee Casbar" Happy Valentines Day! Love Norma.

Nancy Z. My only Valentine, have a beautiful day. Almost Bermuda! Love You, Paul.

Bunny Keep beaming for me. Happy Valentines Day. Pumpkin.

No doubt about it? I'm in love, and I ope and pray it's never gonna end. Happy Valentines Day Claire, Love Eddie.

To John May June 5 mark only the beginning of a lifetime of happiness for us. Love, Diane.

Pee Wee Happy V.Day. 5-4ever. The big guy.

Loretta Love is happiness and happiness is you. Happy Valentines Day. Love Always, Wayne.

To M.J. • Patty Happy V-Day. From Chris.

K.C.—Happy Val Day. Luv Ya, M.C.

Little One,—Those cops will get you every time. Love Tom.

Ann E.—Your flowers so bright really light up my life but what I really would like is you on valentines night. Love Rob.

Margaret,—Your dinner is waiting—and so am I. Love Qui.

Phil—Magister discipulo canique cerevisiam saepe dare debet. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Latin 140

S.G.H.—Remember I take rejection poorly. Be mine? Love—D.E.G.

Raina—Did you send Bruce a valentine? All Night Long.

Valerie Bassett, Happy Birthday to a very special valentine. With love from your roommates, Juju, Mary and Rosie.

To "the Snob"—Please talk to me! Love, Ski Bum.

Temptress of Delight, and High Priestess of Desire Meet me on the Berlin Turnpike, Love, Duke of Dak.

R.R.R.—Tatoosh miss you lots! Do it in threes NEM.

Bosley—Heard you were a good time. Happy Valentine's Day.

Caroline—You knew it'd be here, so...Happy Valentine's Day. Let's have some more together—for me? Love, Bob.

Jimmy-Fleetwood Mac/Eagles was long ago: We've both changed alot. I'd like to try again, how about you? Will you be my valentine? A.L.

Dear Gabe—Wo Baby! I adore Latin lovers! Happy Valentines Day! Love your secred admirerer.

Happy V-Day to all the Homo's at the Pub. signed The Woman.

Happy V-Day to Linda and the creepies.

To Bear Baby—A garden of love to you I shall bring. Because of the feelings that set my heart to ring. Happy V-Day! Love Sir Gaie.

To Jenny Taub—I'm glad you're my new friend. The Cowboy.

Roy D. Booth—Words express passing feelings. I love you. Cuddles.

Per-boo—have a happy V-day. Still friends. Terry.

Sarah P. from Southwood Apts.—Looking forward to a long and productive semester of Management 301. Best of luck. P.

Conman, DMAC, Michellea Bella, Happy V-Day. From your fellow excommunicadoes.

D.E.R.—The better part of one's life consists of his friendships. Love M.E.E.

Tam—A friend is one who walks in when the rest of the world walks out. Thanx—Have a happy V-Day your Roomie

Bob Happy Valentines Day thinking of you always Love, Green Eyes

07040—Love you kid. Let's make this semester unforgetable. Hope our relationship continues to grow for a long time to come.—The Kid

Spike: To my bestest buddy. I love you. M.M.

L.P. You're a child, a girl, a woman, you are everything I choose. Lotsa love forever. David

To Patty R.—Happy VALENTINES Day. Love, The Purple Heart

Tiger Eyes, Happy Valentines Day! I love you. M.G.

Mes amies, Let's love one another! And let the sun shine! Twinkie

Donna "Scarsdale"—Happy Valentine's Day—Gloria Stevens.

Kyle—Happy Valentines Day from 71! Carol—I've admired you from both near and afar. Please be my valentine! love, 15.

Amy & Lou—Again, I'm glad that you, are my favorite two, Happy Valentines Day. Love Always, Roy Christine K.—you're really something special to me. Al.

Hi Jo, Roses are red, violets are blue, and I do love you. Joe.

To 4th sunset and especially the staff of Cance—I'm psyched! Happy Valentine's Day! Anne.

Rick—Valentine's messages for yourself are just as pretentious and banal as those for anyone else! Love and Bullshit, Rick Doug L.—Will you be by Valentine?!

To the crew of 22 Happy Valentine's Day. Love Mooch.

Happy Day and good luck To Pi Lambda Phi! Much love, the sisters of Kippa Kippa Chi. KKX.

I'm tickled to death sharing Valentine's Day with you, TMK.

L.C. - Moore Happy Valentine's Day. With all my love, CLS.

Jerry Thanx with all my heart. Love Sandy. P.S. No stuff!!

Ten words aren't very much. Happy Lovin' Y'all. Norma B.

To Alice, Debby, Dawn, and Maureen The best roomates any guy ever had. Happy Valentine's Day. Gery.

Ann, Doreen, Maureen and Lynn Happy Valentine's Day. Gery.

ND the best sister ever. I love you Kiddo. Libby.

"J" — Who loves ya• "J". XO

Ellie R? The times, the closeness, and the intimacies we share are my most precious items. I love you. Ray Cance Basement? You're great! Happy Valentine's Day! "10".

HEY? My heart's smiling too! Happiest Groundhog's Day! Love and smoochies —

Lorene? Thanks for the last year and a half. You've been great! Love always, Michael.

To K.J.C. It is easy to say "I love you" to a person as special as you are. With Love, L.C.B.

Happy Valentine's Day "Gram" Thanks for all the help with Bunny. You're the best little sister I n(ever) had. With love from. . .Mouse

Barron and Jo Happy Valentine's Day Love Bruiser and Company

Maryellen, Thanks for everything. I love you lots. Love, Me

To Gobs, Clam, Titmouse & Cind, Happy Valentines Day. "Buddy"

To Ellie and Lafavour, Happy Valentines Day you radicals, Block

PG — The last six have been great. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, PB

MOF This past year was great. I love you. HVD and Happy anniversary babe. ILY, Gail. P.S. Toes?

Joseph Remember my promises, silly bear; I love you! Jan.

Sarah Happy Valentine's Day, Love Tim (Tu me manques)

To my smootchems, keebems, cutie pie, honeybunches...ILY.

Joseph Be the one, my beautiful greeneyes. I love Du.

Norm did you get my card? I love you! HVD Dumpster friends, bet you can't wait till spring! Love, Cyn.

3rd Center Patterson Happy V-Day. The guys in 335.

Patty H. The world is so full love since we started sharing our love together. Happy Valentine's Day Darling. Love Michael.

KENB You are the love of my life, forever. Cicie.

So you think you're a Romeo, To Paul, my Romeo—E.

607 UGLY's Lighted towers and singing commercials. A real GUFFAW! Love voluptuous nymph and Mother UGLY.

Little Bemo To a valentine who's not to big or too small-just perfect! Love forever PeeWee.

Olive, I'm not there but my heart is! Love ya, Sparky.

Baby Doll, lambs lettuce, bundle of joy; you've got a friend.

Lambda Chi Alpha, Happy Valentine's Day. Love ya Sarah.

Spaceshot, will you still be GJB in eight. Love, Babe.

Irene and Joan-If the tweeter fits-woof it! Janice.

Simon, Happy Valentine's Day! Jackie has somethig for you. Ann.

Anna, Happy 20th and V-day. Stay happy! Love, Pooh.

To J, the (and S), the best, the beautiful (and the dancer)...it isn't over. From California.

Cupid How about Jamica for pina coladas• Happy Valentines Day. V.E.

LAMBDA DELTA PHI Sorry about Christmas, but Happy Valentines Day. See you all soon. Love you all.—Captain Buzz

First Mate Nancy B.½It's been smooth sailing so far. The best is yet to come. Happy Valentine's Day! I love you!—Captain Buzz

To Pat½I write this poem to you, on this Valentine's Day. I want to break the silence, MAYBE this could be the way. I hope that you know, that I still feel the same, so, please let's get together, and end this foolish GAME.—Love, Rick

To the manwho works the "Harbor Lights" Happy Valentine's Day and thanks for a beautiful beginning...

To Jane and Evan Happy Valentine's Day!—Love a special friend

You are my only Valentine. Sweetheart, I love you. Happy Valentines Day from your UMass pumpkin.

To LAMP You're the greatest!! Love you always.—Love CSCN

Kennedy 8th guys Happy Valentines Day!—Love Kennedy 8th girls.

Kel½No headaches this time! How about we try Fitzwilly's this year, at you health's convenience?—Love always, Ed.

I½:T:C: I opened the bottle join me for one—we'll toast to it all—Bring CUKE too—S.T.N.E.

Michael, I love you—Joanne

Mary W., One for twenty-two.

C½C½Let's tweak till the end of time—C.P.

Val, I love you. Be my Valentine.—Rick

Carol R. You've got me wondering. Happy Valentine Day—Love "Jim"

To Lori of Gorman Here's the personal that you wanted but no flowers. Happy Valentine's Day—from Brittany Manor.

To RG Coeds, Happy VD Day!

Gary—All I want is you (and a Harley)! Sweetcakes.

Bob—Seasons will pass us by, and Bye. Love, me.

Michael—To my best buddy, all my love-always, Twee.

J.J.—I believe in what we have found together. So glad you are my friend—Wanna be my honey? HVD Andy.

To 121 B from 121F We love you! XX OO

Don't worry Max—I still love you and we'll continue. Kathy.

To Mark in 809—It's a boy!Love Dannah

To Spawn, Spleen and Co., Happy V.D.

To the bitches in 803. Happy V.D. Love Rich, Bob, Kevin, Jim, Paul, etc...

Dearest Juliette I love you for always. Glenn.

DTG—Hearts, Smiles, Squeezes for Tush & Goldy forever!

To the Village Trio—You touched our hearts with your aluminum parts. Happy Valentines Day. Love, Your Happy Hour Honeys.

D.J.P.—Much love and friendship on Valentines Day. Love. C.A.M.

Happy Valentine's Day, Felicia? Luigi.

Paddmsky See, I really did do one. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Maryosky.

223 1½? This add is to officiate your removal from the market because I've always wanted a jock of my own. Remember, bald is not beautiful. Love, Ellen.

Cuteface, you make me feel chouette. Peel me a rug.

Pom-Pom, you make mess• Where is the baby•

Vin, things are so good and will only get better. Much love, Jackie.

Moshe, Aram, Christopher (whatever he's doing there), you can lub my dub anytime! RTh

MR? You are the field I sow with love and reap with thanksgiving. NR

Happy Valentine's Day to Killroy and LC from Mike.

Attention, Sisters of Alpha Alpha Alpha: Happy Valentine's Day!!! With Love, TB.

Dear SM? Kitty cries only for you honey! Love, LaVern

To my Teddy Bear? Happy Valentine's Day! Am I forgiven• Love ya lots. Dumb Bunny

DWB? Valentine's Day is made for those in love. I'm glad I have you. Love, kisses, • hugs, MB.

Jill Korsakov?I love you. Kisses and hugs, your ex-roomie.

To Jack, my favorite bartender, you make my Sloe Gin Fizz! From your secret admirer in SBA

To CAI in Wheeler? If "10" is the highest, you are a definite "12"! You have a secret admirer — ME. Happy Valentine's Day.

Collegian Photo Editor? Don't burn yourself out either! Summer in Amherst, eh...• Lady of the lake (well, Campus Pond!)

Joel, Good Girls Don't. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Anonymous.

Ken, Happy Valentine's Day. Love ya, Merrill.

Jack, admit what you are! Happy VD!

Tom Elwell, I love you sooo much! Abbie.

Weedy, If I have to have only one friend, I'm sure glad it's you. Love, your only friend.

I love you Vin, Bill.

To the most fabulous woman in the world, I love you Denise. Vincent Happy Valentine's Day to my Mountain Man with the magic hands!

Michelle and Donna Ooooh baby! I thought it high time you received a Valentine message. Sorry its not from R or B only me. Conman.

Pjk in JFK Crazy said Red. goozhe. Love Frank!?!

Jill the apartment hunter can my "appearance" become a staring role?

Jimmey You're alright for a flounder. I love you. B.T.

LVJ loves clarkie, even though she gets mad at him.

Trace, Jules, Robin Happy alentine's Day. Love, Norman, Charles, Amedeo.

Peg Happy Valentine's Day little sweetie. Love, Big Puss.

L. Lamanya We're still waiting! Love the Glowworm society.

Laurie L Time has come and time has gone. But your eyes still flash green. Your smile is still bright. My love is undimmed. For you are my light. Love G.

Sweetie—The bank says our credit checked out! Love, P.J.

Love to all who love, Love to all who may. Love to all who won't, That all might love again.

Castle — Rashes are best when shared. Happy Valentine's Day. Leslie

To Rod, Mo, Ester, . Marie, Let's get the fourth going. Happy VD. Love, Lydia.

To Mr. Gumby, Happy Valentine's Day. You've got me forever and you'll like it. All my love, Mrs. Gumby.

Sweet, silly Susan, Caring, crazy Cynthia, Sensitive, scrounging Steve, Lovable, ludicrous Les, Happy Valentine's Day! I LOVE YOU ALL!

My Tootsie Pop girl, Happy Valentine's Day. Love ya, Mark.

To Mark Miller? Boys don't make passes at girls with red glasses. Just some advice from an enemy...

Davey — To my favorite roommate and my best semester. Love, Jill

Donna, Happy Valentine's Day to the best roommate and friend. Thanks for four great years. Love, Nancy Babydoll, I still need you. Double hhhhmmmm.

MaryAnn Thanx for four beautiful months. I love you. Jon

Keith, je t'aime—Lauren

Dear Johnny Bovo Happy Valentine's Day!—Love your senuous woman

Lew and JQA's V-Day wishes—from Costello and St. Pauli Girl

P½G¼ To the world's best cuddler. Happy Valentine's Day (still looking for a squaw?)—Love, Kath

Hey Paul Tomich Happy Vallentines Day! (Did you send your sista some flowers?)—Love the Xeroid

Maryanne Kowalski Thanks for the good times.—The U½. Marines

Roshi You are the fox of my heart. I can't think of any other lady on earth.—Twice love, Dave

Perry Happy, Happy Valentines Da. I love you, always—Tricia

G. Happy VD. I love you lots of bunches. Your Rainbow—N.

Kirk Be my valentine and pray for my sanity—Beth

To the Chinese Masseuse Lady You light up my life. I love you. Signed one—Bald Eagle

Christie, Je t'aime!—Boobie

To My Lady The Woman that frees my mind of all others.—Love Stan

Scampering Bears Occasional Tears Te Quiero You Know Su Osito

Dorothy Whalen I think you're wonderful. Be my valentine!—Love John

Bren—What can I say but I love you. Eric

Nancy, You can go to Metheun, but you can't escape the ex-police. Happy Valentines Day.

To J.M.: Hey Shnook, Happy Valentines Day! I love you! Love & Kisses, Love Always...Wook.

Ellen S.—My fantasy for Valentines day is to spend it with you. Gordon Lightfoot.

Whiplash loves G.P.G.

Pretty Peaches, Monster Ed, Mary-Mary, Chickie, Birds: Happy V.D.! I won't say "that" word, but it's been fun. Let's get together for wild sex soon. Love The Beautiful Queen of France.

Michael D.—A friend of my heart and a joy in my life. Happy Valentine's Day, cutie! Love, Susan.

Joel, Steve, Benny, Russ and Bobo: Go 4 Q Dogs Gentlemen.

St. Pauli Girl and Master: Happy Valentine's Day Babe.

Neil: Bunches and bunches and bunches and bunches! Forever, Me.

To Frish—See I told you I wouldn't forget! Happy Valentine's Day. Love Phil.

Fred will always love Thelma. Danny will always love Janis.

Lisa Natick A cosmic thought from my universe of discourse. Together we'll overcome ourselves, alone we can only lose. Be my Valentine. Love always, Craig.

Rita You got your wish! Happy Valentine's Day. Get psyched! Chet.

Jon and Robin We're thinking of you on this Valentine's Day. Enjoy it! The guys at 25.

To Madaline There isn't a woman who comes close to you. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Danny J.

Big Guy Two great days in one! ILY-Little tick.

Dear Julie Please be my Valentine! Or you'll see the grass from a different view! You're intense. Love Mack.

Vinny My Fratboy, the best PIKE ever! Love, Sorority Sue.

Mr. Right Will Will be my Valentine? Love Terese.

THLRH Happy Valentine's Day from the one and only V-Bear. Love You. THLBH.

Toby You can be my Valentine any day! Love Nancy.

Hey⁷² Touch, kiss and feel: Happy Valentine's Day. Love "Look."

Hey Stinkface I'll listen for horses with you anytime. Elizabeast.

Gale happy 20th B-day and V-Day. Let's play Bonggammon. Beth.

To Steven Sodekson Think wit your head...if you know what we mean. Happy Valentine's Day! Love L&M.

Lynne Congratulations! You're now a member of the (ULF) United Llama Federation. Perhaps you're not my Valentine, but you are my llama. Hugs, Dean.

To the sisters of S.D.T. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Julie.

Hippy and Hiney Next time we'll take you wherever we go! 16T is the best! XO, Mom and Dad.

Mr. JWR thanks for being there. Sorry for many hassels, but friends forever right! Love J.

My Man and MY Eunuch ILY ILY ILY! Your QTP.

Pam Call Happy VD and best wishes from AJS.

Fluffy⁷² you are my catnip, I love you. Frisky.

Sir Happy Valentine's! Spicuosly, it's still quarter of eleven! Sanie.

Shark Happy Valentine's Day! From a lucky guy.

Stacy You know how I feel. T.B.

To Sadie-dogs master: Sweet time and times remembered anew. All my care. All my love, and everythng with you. Love, Beans.

A boffomegawicked Valentine's Day to an adoreable red-headed producer (and his magic rabbit). I love you, Pierre. Kisses from the other Pk, your sentimental lady.

K.A.B. Happy Valentine's Day. I love you. S.A.J.

Have a pissa day Beck, Loretta and Barb.

Happy VD to the coalminer, gentleman and hoop star. Love T.

Debbie W. I loved you the moment I met you, Please be mine forever. C.W.

Happy VD you Tools from your's truly who's nobodh's fool.

To Lisa ,C.—that spiffy person. From a spiffy-watcher.

Ltopher—Happy Valentines. Thirty-two to go.

Scruffy—Hi! Keep smiling. I love you. Hermie.

Sue—I know we'll make it. Love Rich

Hubbs—Happy Valentines Day. Do you still see little red hearts? I.L.Y. Andy.

Happy Valentine's Day Colleen Good Luck, Tyler.

ELRyan you nut! How's your PHO? Thanks for a helluva "year!" SAmerica or bust! Love you! KD.

Rachel, Robin, Emily, Ed HAPPY LUPERCALIA! (Pagans try harder.)—Carey

Emily To the wildest nice Jewish girl I know." From one green-eyed Pagan to another, abysses of love,—Rachael.

Hun Happy Valentine's Day. I love you always, forever.—Nee

Hey Herman I love ya. How about a game of Chutes and Ladders? Love always, Mabel

Hey Mom We'll give you your choice: Rocky Shriffe or us for your Valentine. Unless, of course, you want to wait and break open the J.D. Love, Huggy, Monkey, and Joan.

Nancy Happy Valentine's day. Missing you in N.Y. Love always, Bob

Nifty Basically I love you totally—Sherlock

KAF Here's the V.Day message I said you weren't going to get! When do I get some cookies?—CCM

Carol You're sweeter than all the candy and prettier than all the flowers.—Your Neighbor

Cathy We all love you very much—Petey, B. Mouse and Billy

Donna Thank you for making everyday brighter." Happy Valentines Day. I love you!—Tom

MY DEAREST CHETTIE Je N'aime que toi! LOVE FOREVER PENNY

To Cindy, Daphne, Carol, Betsy and Tracy Love ya, Mark

Jinja I hope your having a good valentines day. Be good.—Dean

Betsy and Ann Hope your having a good Valentine's Day. Super Excellent.—Kooch

Nina and Robin Have a sweet sweet Valentine's Day—Dean

To sweet Cindy with much luv forever. The Bandit and Me.

Hi Paul B., Thanks for being my valentine. It never would have been so special without you. I'm looking forward to getting to know you better. Love, Sandy.

Hey Roomie, Happy Valentine's Day to a very special friend. I'm really going to miss you nwzt semester. It will never be the same without you. Lets always keep in touch. Lots of love, San-San.

Happy Valentine's Day to Donna, Karen, Ann, Andrea, Teri, Julie, Sue, Mary-Ann, Miaka, Nancy, Mickey, Jodie, Emily, Cindy, Michelle, Joyce, Lisa, Debbie, Sandy and of course Mom-Love Joe 207JFK.

Lynn, All joking aside I really do love you. Mike.

A.N. Everyday is V. Day when with you. Love, C.L.

Amy W—Happy Valentine's Day, would you come to spring training with me? Love, Dennis Eckersley.

Danny—Hawaii in July...How about it? Let's play house! It's the game of eternal love. Love, Your Pussy Willow.

To Roy—"Will you marry us? Love you always, A & L.

Happy Valentines day Sweetchops & Kiddo Love Pinky & Paddington

Paul Joseph, Will you be my Valentine? Love always Patti

Ladies on 7E Webster: Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Jay

TCP, Mt one and only special Valentine. I love you! DLWP

To my favorite Suzy-Q, it's benn an enchanting 4 months. I've loved every moment. Where had you been hiding my whole life? Love, your man from Weston

Dearest Marcy. You don't know how much I like you. Here's to a happy Valentines. Catch ya soon. Love, Gary

Puppy, I love you more than Lasagna! Forever, Babie Pup

ANP¼Am I whipped or in love• Only my heart knows for sure! This years' been the best, TYFBAF. Love ya always-E

Dearest Charles Charming, I love your body! Your secret admirer.

To Paul and Jeff, "Come live with me....." Happy V-Day! P Duke Astin.

Pam Cooke Happy Valentine's Day from your American gigilo.

WVZE YRT YZOFPZ¼ DV SZEV LFI HKSGH YFG NZPRMT FK RH UFM VHKVXRSOOB U LM Y'H. OLEV, ORG-GOV YZOFPZ.

Happy Valentine's Day to my fellow sexy lobotomy patients,spidey folowers and especially NFL's, suz the fluzz at fram state, bethie boo at B.C. and Tricia (allias poops).

Beah, I love you silly ole! We'll make it! Osita.

B.G. Here's the answer. You can be my valentine sweetheart. Love D.D.

Hi Bugs! Here it is. I love you. Harney.

To all the women of the UMASS chorale Happy V.D.! Love Rich.

151H Hell of a good time. Happy Valentine's Day. 167A1.

Savage Woman, Bubbles, goonface, keeper of forbidden fruits, Va-Va queen, hot mama, spicy vixen, tardhead, reese: Happy Valentines Day! It's a phase and it's over. Bye. Pieces.

Sandy, I still don't know your major. Happy Valentine's Day. R :k.

RJK-Mush, mush, mush! (thanks, Aunt Mary!) P.S. this message brought to you thru the inspiration of the "buffoon" Love,BJC.

Moss, Sheri, and Cathy Happy Valentines Day from Jim and Ken.

To Queeny and Marfa- Happy Valentines Day from Kev and Jim.

To MacKimmie third long and friends, From the Hippie Commune.

Mr. Bolevia, A valentine kiss awaits you....

Happy Valentines Day, Tim and Jay keep those baby blues sparkling.

To Walt From whitman we belong together."

Devoid punk twins: with love and lust send money, B52TZ

To: Brothers of AXA: What thing was that? Happy VD

To Tobey, Wishing you a happy Valentines Day love Tony

Happy Valentines Day Jenny Lou love the blue-eyed country boy

Eiteews ym ot yad senitnelav yppah ?ykcul teg annaw

Mil and Max and Roo, Happy Valentines Day! Love Ellen.

Steven Happy Valentines Day, Hon. These past months have been the best and I hope there are many more to come. All my love forever, Dorito

Hi Lois, Told you I would! Where's mine? 722 Roomie

To M.A.M.: Here's to new beginnings! I love you sweetheart! Mimosa

To the Poop of my life Happy 1½ year I.L.Y.

TGL, One year & 29 days since my chili. What am I gonna do wich-you? AMS

Dear Marjorie with the nice duper please be my hyper valentine

Dennis—Isn't this silly?!? I love you—seriously! Sarah

Krissy—Happy Birthday! You know the kids really miss you. Remember—you do have visitation privileges!!! Please don't get mad at your B-D present. It's just 'cause I love ya. Mush

Steve and Donna, The best roomies ever. Happy V-Day! Love, Karen

Anne—Remember Section 18? Don't ever forget. All my love. Steve Rodger Cohen, You're the most irresistable man on campus. If we can't have you separately...foursomes can be kinky!!! Happy V-Day Love Karen, Jeri, Ariela.

Rox...you are mine...I am yours...forever. Steve. Collegian.

Happy Valentine's Day to the girls in 191 Love your roommate.

Rose and Flynn Happy Valentines and lots of love. L.F."

Josh C. You're the best. Happy Valentine's Day.

Let's face it Trunf you're past your peak. Keep smiling!!

Dear Drippy, Let's do it in the woods! Love D.D.

JLS II Happy Valentine's Day to my favorite teckie—Cabdriver

Beth You always make me smile. Happy Valentines Day.—Clair

Hiya Kid We've been high and we've been straight and through all the months I think it's been great. I LOVE YOU. Won't it be neat to meet in the back seat.—G-D☆

Arwen Evenstar Have a happy V-Day. Much love, Legolas

Jean B. Happy Valentine's Day, you lucky! Love, Peter W.

Laurie Three more months to go. Happy Valentine's Day! Phil.

Snyds—You're the greatest. "My old flames can't hold a candle to you." Gerry

Around campus

Enter essay contest

The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest in celebration of International Women's Week, March 2-8. In 750 words or less, tell how the Women's Movement has affected your life, either directly or indirectly. Both men and women are encouraged to participate.

Essays will be judged by individuals of varying backgrounds from the UMass community. Five winning essays will be published in the Collegian during International Women's Week. First prize is $20, and the four runner-ups will be awarded $5 each.

Send entries to Lisa Capone, Women's Editor, Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, UMass, no later than 12 noon, Monday, February 25. Entrants must be full-time students to qualify.

Cambodia discussion

"Cambodia: From Present Tragedy to Future Hope" is the subject of a talk by Russell Johnson, which will be the feature of an Amherst Interfaith Service Monday, February 25, 7:30 at Grace Church. Members of all churches and all others who are concerned about Cambodia are invited to attend. Dr. Johnson, a staff member of the American Friends Service Committee for the past 28 years, is one of the most knowledgeable people in the United States on South and Southeast Asia.

§The Interfaith Service on Cambodia is being sponsored by the Amherst Clergy Association and the Laymen's Academy for Oecumenical Studies (LAOS). Planning the service are Nancy Forster of Hillcrest Place, President of the Unitarian Society of Amherst; Janet Morgan of Snell St., Deacon of Grace Church and Vice President and Program Coordinator of LAOS; Ed McGlynn and Rick Dodge of Meadow St.; and Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Phreaner of Emerson Court. Their first meeting was held January 25 at Grace Church.

Win 'pleasure chest'

One very lucky and very clever University of Massachusetts student, with guest, will enjoy an expense-paid spring break vacation in Daytona Beach, Florida from Busch beer, as the winner of the Busch Pleasure Chest hunt on campus.

A series of anagrams (clues) will be published in the school paper, The Daily Collegian, tomorrow, and final clues will come in the form of 60-second radio messages on WAQY-FM (102) on February 22, between 4 and 7 p.m.

The first student to solve the clues and to call the designated telephone number will be proclaimed the winner of the Busch Pleasure Chest, and will receive all the sun and fun he/she can handle during the school's spring break, March 15-22.

Prof visits England

Dr. Robert L. Rowell of UMass, an internationally renowned physical chemist, has been appointed Unilever Visiting Professor for 1980 at the University of Bristol in England.

Rowell will teach two postgraduate courses in colloidal and surface chemistry while at the University of Bristol. He will spend six months in Bristol as part of a split appointment that will allow him to continue his research at UMass and to work on his graduate text, "Introduction to Colloid Science."

The visiting professor program was set up at the University of Bristol in 1964 to enable a distinguished foreign scholar to take part in the graduate program there each year. Of the previous 15 appointments to the position, seven have been from the United States.

Women's group forms

A support group for older and non-traditional women students is forming this month, sponsored jointly by Everywoman's Center and the Student Development and Counseling Center at UMass. Meetings will be weekly on Monday or Wednesday evenings or afternoons. Call 5-0333 for more information.

St. Valentines talk

Professor Edmund Leites, of the Department of Philosophy at Queens College (N.Y.) and this year at the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton, will speak on Thursday, February 14 in Herter Third Floor Lounge at 4:00 p.m., on "Modern Love and the Classical Traditions of Friendship: A Talk in Honor of St. Valentine's Day."

Workshop for women

The UMass Student Development and Counseling Center announces a two-part workshop focusing on issues facing women entering a career field, to be held in 120 Berkshire House, February 26 and March 4, 7-10 p.m. "From College to Career: A Special Workshop" will give specific attention to refining career choice, increasing coping skills, chances for success, and integrating life and work.

Interested Junior and Senior women should contact Lynda Moore, SDCC, Berkshire House, UMass, by mail by February 20.

Project fights racism

The anti-racist Team of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocasy invites all people interested in working on projects designed to combat racism at UMass to visit Marea Wexler in the SCERA office, 420 Student Union Building.

Women's Dept. is seeking reporters to write on women's issues and cover events

Show him you care ...with a pipe.

Let our specialists help you choose the pipe and tobacco to maximize his smoking pleasure.

A pipe — the gift he will cherish for a lifetime!

CLIFFORD M. CLARK TOBACCONIST

Hampshire Mall Ingleside Mall

— Fine smoking accoutrements and more! —

Free gift!
Face Factory fashion lipstick, $3 value ...
with precision cut. $12

REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
Mt. Farms Mall

Wednesday's Special: Shampoo, Cut & Blow Dry $8.00. Good Until Feb. 27th

2 GREAT DINNERS, 2 SURE WINNERS!

Imagine, either of these delicious entrees plus a steaming hot baked potato or french fries and a slice of grilled Texas toast. And salad you can pile a mile high as often as you like . . . fresh greens and vegetables from our "Discovery" Salad Bar.

SIRLOIN TIPS

2 for $5.99

BONANZA®

Valid with Coupon Only Expires MARCH 15/80

Cooley & Allen Sts. Springfield | 138 Westfield St. W. Springfield | 80 Lamb St. So. Hadley | Mountain Farms Mall Hadley

NEW YORK SIRLOIN

2 for $6.99

BONANZA®

Valid with Coupon Only Expires MARCH 15/80

Cooley & Allen Sts. Springfield | 138 Westfield St. W. Springfield | 80 Lamb St. So. Hadley | Mountain Farms Mall Hadley

★ Couples

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

five months. She is a junior at UMass and he attends Boston State College. They began dating the summer after they graduated from high school. They saw each other every weekend but one last semester, trading off visits, until Thanksgiving, when he decided they should put more time into school. Jenny said, "We are stil in love, but we are trving to make the best of our individual selves. We need time apart to grow."

She said they did not have a fight and she is sure they will get back together. While she said, "I think it's a healthy reason to break-up," she said she didn't want to see him as a friend. "I couldn't pretend that parts of myself and that some of the feeling aren't there."

Break-up patterns

There are patterns to breaking up, especially where college students are concerned. A sociological study of college dating relationships revealed that the beginning, end, or vacation time during a semester is when most break ups occur. Often couples do not want to maintain a relationship when they are separated for a summer of find they do not have the same feelings they once had after they are rejoined. Often couples are separated if one completes college before the other and wants to move to a different state to pursue a career. Compromises have to be made if the relationship will endure.

For couples at Umass who are accustomed to privacy, going home for the summer produces many problems. Barbara and Bill live in the same dormitory, share similar friends, and eat all of their meals together. They began dating in high school, and have been dating for two years. They said in the summer they have no place to go for privacy. Barbara said, "We don't get enough time alone."

Tina and Morry have also been dating for two years. They met in high school.

They see one another at least two hours daily. She attended Syracuse University her first semester, but transfered to UMass to be with him. Morry said, "I have to split my time between Tina and my friends." They had one break-up when Tina dated another person, but it only lasted three weeks. Tina and Morry said they do not go out with others, but "If someone wanted to walk out they could." They also agreed that living at home during the summer leads to privacy problems.

Fighting

Couples fight about petty differences but often a major difference in values or ideals lead to tension in male/female relationships. Tina said they fight about his use of drugs which she does not approve of. They also disagree about their sexual relationship. "He thinks it is a more important part of our relationship than I do." He said they fight about her not liking his friends.

Most of the couples interviewed said they would consider co-habitating.

Paul and Lisa maintained a long distance relationship for one semester. They saw one another every weekend. The were introduced by a mutual friend. Like many other couples, Paul said that he pays for more dates than she does. While many couples share the expenses 50-50, often whoever has money at the time they are going out is the one who pays. But more often than not it is the man. Lisa and Paul are engaged now that she has graduated from UMass. Most other couples have discussed marriage, but cannot consider such a step until they complete their education.

Marriage

Domm and Dot, however, were marrried in their junior year of college, and have been married for four years. They do not often socialize with their unmarried friends. Domm is attending UMass as a graduate student while Dot works. She contributes more money, but he said, it "doesn't matter who is providing the money." Domm said the major difference in their relationship once they were married is, "now we have much better insight into one another. There is much less formality." They share the domestic responsibility but he said, "She does more than I do. We do the shopping together, but she does most of the cooking." They argue about not owning their own home. Dot said, "He is more mobile than I am, I would like to settle down." Dot plans to work until she has children, something they are planning for the future.

Those involved in relationships said a wide range of things make them think of their partner. Flower vendors, jewlery, everything, anything, when they see another couple together, photographs, anything beautiful, or nothing in particular were named by those interviewed.

Most of the couples said their lives revolve around one another. Those couples who ended their relationship before this series of interviews was completed, said there was a great sense of loss.

★ Voters

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

Amherst group, headed by an 18 or 19 member Board of Directors.

The first branch "deals with the national organization and keeping the mechanics working," Motts said. Studies are done and positions are taken on natural resource issues and human resource issues, including housing, welfare, and the Equal Rights Amendment, she said.

The second division is the legislative arm. The League "comes to a consensus" during general meetings on issues pertaining to local, state and federal upcoming legislations, and take their positions to town boards or the state legislature, hoping to influence voting. The League is currently working on the state level issue of improving the quality and quantity of state water supplies. "Contamination is a big problem," said Motts.

The third branch of the League is the voter service which is involved in getting the vote out and publicizing registration dates, said Motts. The voter service members register UMass students in the Campus Center, take mobile vans to area apartment complexes to register young mothers with children who can not get out to register, and go to Amherst high school to register the 18-year-olds, Motts said.

The League also has "observer corps," who observe town boards and report back to the League on current local level concerns, she said.

The League of Women Voters national organization started in 1920 as a direct outgrowth of the women's suffrage movement.

★ Caucuses

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

fend their position; "all you do is flip a lever." The caucus is preferable to the primary because "in a healthy democratic system, people ought to give reasons. Citizenship ought to require a greater responsibility," he said.

Mileur suggested that in the electoral strategy for the primaries, students are the greatest resource to the candidates because they have no commitments or obligations to interfere with their ability to travel and work. The nature of the primaries requires that the candidates concern themselves with sheer numbers. Students are utilized to canvass neighborhoods to get people out to vote. "It's an absolute numbers game," Mileur said.

The Iowa caucuses, held on Jan. 21, were important for two reasons. First, they were the initial delegate selection event of 1980 preceeding the leadoff primary in New Hampshire by five weeks. Second, they have served as a springboard for the last two Democratic presidential nominess. Both George McGovern in 1972 and Jimmy Carter in 1976 used strong showings in Iowa to propel their dark horse candidacies to the Democratic nomination.

In the upcoming election, 76 percent of the Republican delegates and 71 percent of the Democratic delegates will be either elected in primaries or bound to reflect the primary results. As the number of primaries has grown, the importance of the early ones has increased. The upcoming New Hampshire primary could draw so much national attention that a candidate demonstrating early strength might be able to launch a bandwagon that would be difficult to stop.

★ Love sickness

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

and Sciences."Student participation on campus, such as folkdancing, would add greatly to the festivities."

Lamb said she plans to spend Valentines Day with a friend in Virginia reminiscing about French Naval officers over a glass of mulled wine. She also sends a special Valentine's greeting to students in both her past and present French classes, she said.

If you have the symptoms of amore morbus—but fear not. Almost all of the Balentine's Day cards in the University Store are sold out. But you you still have the opportunity to dream up your own token of your affection. Whether it be sending a card, a flower, a kis or wining and dining you beloved, let the spirit be with you—love is in the air.

FREE! Reusable
20 oz.
Olympic Commemorative Cup

When you buy a
20 oz. cup of COKE

Available at the
Coffee Shop Bluewall Hatch Cafeteria
Campus Center Food Service

FAST
ECONOMICAL
& FREQUENT FREQUENT
FREQUENT

TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer service to Boston, New york and many other destinations.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

Gymmen lose, women win against S.Conn.

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

All around Mario McCutcheon earned a 56.95, including an outstanding 9.75 on the high bar, in leading Southern Connecticut State College to a 273.55-242.00 victory over the UMass men's gymnastics team last night at the Cage.

The mighty nationally ranked Owls, behind Olympic trial qualifiers McCutcheon and Carl Antoniolli, swept all six events and breezed to the 31-point win.

The Minutemen dropped the floor exercise event by a slim two-point margin, 45.35-43.35. Dave Buegler led the UMass squad, scoring a 9.20, behind a double-somi. McCutcheon tallied a 9.45 and Antoniolli added a 9.25 to give the Owls their first event.

The SCSC duo continued to impress the good-sized Cage crowd on the pommel horse, as McCutcheon scored a 9.45 and Antoniolli earned a 9.40. Tim Barry had an 8.45 for UMass, but the Owls were up by nine points after the frist two events.

SCSC continued to dominate the match as it handled the Minutemen by six points in the still rings competition. McCutcheon once again tallied a 9.45, while Antoniolli and teammate Bob Coco chipped in with 9.35 each. Co-captain Hugh O'Neall gave the best performance for UMass as he scored an 8.20. Bob Donahue and Dave Felleman added 8.05 each, but Southern was in command at the halfway point 135.05-119.40

The Owls continued to show why they are among the top teams in the country in the vaulting event, as they downed the UMass gymnasts 46.55-43.30. McCutcheon performed another spectacle, to score a 9.40. Antoniolli and Coco earned a 9.35 and 9.30 respectively. O'Neall was the top performer for the Minutemen with a 9.05.

Southern swamped the home club on the parallel bars by the biggest margin of any event, 45.35-37.35. McCutcheon scored yet another 9.45, while Antoniolli tallied a 9.30 as the Owls nailed down their fifth consecutive event victory. Donahue led the Minutemen on the bars with an 8.15.

In the final event, the high bar, McCutcheon capped off the evening with a stunning 9.75 performance, which featured a high twisting dismount. Byron Knox earned a 9.45 and Antoniolli added a 9.40 for the Owls. Donahue and Bob Lamb led the UMass squad with an 8.55 and 8.50 respectively.

UMass' Hugh O'Neall performs in the floor exercises in last night's meet against Southern Connecticut (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

Last night, in a dual meet at the Curry Hicks Cage, the UMass women's gymnastics team defeated the Owls from Southern Connecticut by the slim margin of .8 of a point.

It was an exciting meet which was close throughout. This is exemplified in the post-event scores: 34.75-33.15, 66.30-65.65, 95.85-95.35, and the final 128.45-127.65.

In the vaulting event, Christie Clark of the Owls was the top performer with a 9.1. However, UMass' Liz Marino scored a 9.0 and teammate Lisa Martin an 8.6 to give the Minutewomen the advantage in this event.

Coach Virginia Evans felt that if her team had not performed as well as it did vaulting, it would not have won the meet.

Southern Connecticut won the balance beam event with an 8.85 from Christie Clark and an 8.25 from Sue Hopkins. Top performer for UMass was Lisa Martin with an 8.0.

"The beams were dismal." This statement by Evans told te whole story. The top score in this event was an 8.2 by Karen Ginsberg, who was the only performer who did not fall off the beam during her routine.

UMass' Janice Baker gave a good performance in the floor event, scoring an 8.55, but once again Clark took top honors with an 8.6.

Clark was the number one all-around performer, winning three of the four events with a 34.60 total. For the Minutewomen, Ginsberg was second with a 32.65 and Chris Wilson a close third with a 31.75.

Sophomore Ginsberg, who is a liberal arts major from North Miami Beach, Fla., felt that the win was important for the team. "We should have won by more, and we need a lot more practice," she said.

Evans was also disappointed with her team's showing. She expects a better performance next time out for her squad, now 6-2. She thinks that the "team has a great deal of work to do before it is to become one of the top four teams in the East."

So while it was the men who put up a gallant struggle against the powerful Southern men's team, it was the UMass women who brought home a win for their school.

Collegian Sports

Mike Estrada

Athletic change

If you are a freshman or sophomore, you may be around long enough to witness the biggest change in the University's athletic program since 1972.

After losing much of their competitive potency in terms of scholarships, men's sport teams face possible further cuts in light of recent decisions by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Federally funded educational institutions will be asked to provide men and women athletes with scholarship money in equal proportion to the number of participants. That means the athletic department will have to come up with some money, money that it simply does not have. Football is the sugar daddy here, and attempts to exclude revenue producing sports from the auspices of Title X have failed. The result, men's teams may get the axe, but UMass may be granted one of the biggest and best women's programs in the East.

The history of Title X on this campus is not filled with happy remembrances for the men's teams that suffered. Men's baseball, track, wrestling and gymnastics all lost their scholarships, but the biggest heartbreak was the UMass hockey team. After claiming the Division II nationall championship in 1972 (with out its own rink), the hockey team lost its scholarships. Whte team, with Coach Jack Caniff, stuck around, largely on the promise by department officials that a hockey facility would be built on campus. The question of a hockey facility is still open-ended, but budget cuts forced the elimination of the team last year. After waiting patiently for fourteen years, Caniff was suddenly out of a job.

With what was left, the men's teams have done well. The football team has been a national consideration, as has been the lacrosse team. Soccer Coach Russ Kidd continues to come up with talented squads through recruitment only.

But when it comes down to which are the best in their class here at UMass, the women's teams come out on top. With little hoopla or fan support, the field hockey team has finished fourth nationally for two straight years. Last year the women's lacrosse team lost in the national tournament to the eventual winner, Penn State. The women's soccer team went into the regional playoffs undefeated last year and the softball team finished the regular season at 24-2-1.

Use as a case study the respective basketball teams. After biting more than it could chew by joining the Eastern Eight, the basketball team has done poorly. A post-season tournament involving all eight teams gives the team their only shot at national competition. The school was expelled from the ECAC because of a television contract connected with this venture, expelling teams such as baseball, track and soccer from post-season competition other than the NCAA tournament.

The women's basketball team stands a 13-6, the number one rated team in New England. It will probably make the Easterns and should not be overlooked for the nationals.

If UMass follows Title X recommendations and allocates 19 new scholarships to women, look for the women's program to be even stronger. UMass will become a women's sports university, somewhat like Temple, whose field hockey and women's gymnastics teams attract large crowds.

Athletes like Sue Peters and Natalie Prosser would finally get the recognition they deserve, but it will be the money lost through football that willnave to be a consideration. If the quality of the football team decreases, there will be fewer gate receipts and television contracts. The athletic program would be asked to run on a constant deficit, a vicious circle instituted through scholarship fairness.

Though women's sports here at UMass are more competetive on a post-season scale, they do not produce the revenue of football. It is just the nature of society that women's athletics are just plain not as popular among fans. HEW's recent decision is an attempt at bringing back the status of "amateur" that should be associated with intercollegiate competition. It's too bad it just can't be that way.

The 27th Lancer Drum and Bugle Corps of Revere march before the crowd during the official opening ceremonies of the thirteenth Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

At the Olympics

By FRANK PAPSADORE
Collegian Staff

I would like to take this moment, if I may, to thank ABC sports for televising the 1980 Winter Olympic games. The 51½ hours of television coverage slated for the next two weeks should certainly curb my desire to spend time and money travelling to Lake Placid, as it probably will to many others, hence the incredible amount of tickets still available. But the main reason I'm not going to the Olympics is because I value my life.

You see, the Gilbane Construction Company has been working on all the additional facilities needed for the 1980 Winter Olympics. And now I hear that Gilbane has come across a problem with the $16.2 million skating arena. It seems that due to some ventillation error in the building, the carbon monoxide that is emitted from cooling the ice is being chanelled back to the ice area, thus, both athletes and spectators could be subjected to potential carbon monoxide poisoning.

Paul Choquette, Vice President of Gilban, was quoted earlier this week in the Boston Globe saying that the federal engineers and building inspectors are just being a pain in the neck. He claimed that they just want to "spoil the Olympics". But in fact, the Economic Development Administration has passed none of the Olympic projects as safe by federal inspection even though the games nave already begun.

But the Gilbane company will think of something. They're not new to architectural disasters. They've produced such building beauties as the recently re-constructed Hartford Civic Center, whose roof, for those of you who don't remember, completely collapsed a short while after a Minuteman basketball game had just taken place two years ago.

But wait, another flop in Gilbane's bag of fiascos is the window popping John Hancock tower in Boston. That's an architectural wonder that loses windows faster than our own library is supposed to be losing it's bricks. I just hope that there's no glass on the 90-meter ski jump.

All the dangers at the Olympics do not lie completely within the buildings. You have just as much of a chance being hit by a frantic bus driver trying to keep on a schedule made for about 300 buses, but that is actually being served by about 200. And if you don't get hit by a bus, you could freeze to death waiting for one. It's sort of a Winter Olympic Catch-22.

All these hazards add up to an interesting, if not profitable Olympiad. We may not come away with much gold, we may not fill the arenas, (there's still 50-odd thousand tickets available), even ABC will lose money by televising the games instead of its regular prime time fare, but if a building collapses, or a figure skater faints from lack of oxygen, we'll have the typical Olympic controversy that the newspapers can harp on for weeks, even months. And you can rest assured that ABC will be right there too with Jim McKay, Dick Button and the rest giving their best dramatic accounts, descriptions and general soap opera coverage of events "as they happen"

Hoopsters host Huskies; hope to end streak two

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

Expect a fast-paced, break-and-bomb game at Curry Hick's Cage tonight (at least on the opposition side) as the UMass men try to put an end to Streak II against Northeastern University, starting at 7:30.

The Huskies are ranked fourth nationally in rebounding in division 1, according to NU's sports information office, and the team uses it's skywalking ability to spark a good transition game. Chip Rucker, a six-foot, seven-inch junior forward leads the team and the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference (north division) with 9.7 rebounds per game.

"We get an awful lot of second shots," said NU coach Jim Calhoun. "We do get the ball up the floor quickly...and get the the glass awfully quick."

Northeastern, coming in with a 17-5 record, scores an average of 75 points per game while giving up 68, Calhoun aid. The Huskies boast two wins over the University of Maine (whom UMass plays Saturday) and most recently a one-point win over the University of New Hampshire (69-68) last Sunday.

NU's last loss was Friday against Boston University (85-78) in a game where NU outrebounded the Terriers 43-26, Calhoun said. As of Tuesday, BU (17-3) as ranked first in the UPI N.E. poll with Northeastern ranked fourth.

"I think we can play with any team in New England," the NU coach said. "We think we're as good as Holy Cross (ranked second)...and URI. We know we're as good as BU. I'm definitely not selling my team short."

But neither is he selling UMass short, a team that holds a 30-9 series margin including five wins in the past five years.

"They can certainly beat us, that's for sure," Calhoun said, adding that he thinks UMass had "the toughest schedule in New England" this season.

"If we played their schedule we might not be 17-5," the coach admitted. Calhoun also felt UMass was improving, noting the West Virginia game Monday which UMass lost by five. "They're starting to turn the corner, somewhat, psychologically," he said.

UMass has lost three games since their lone victory against Harvard in the Colonial Classic. The first loss was to the University of Connecticut, after which co-captain Bill Morrison said, "We start over...We just can't live the rest of the season off one win."

"We're gonna win, hopefully," said UMass leading scorer, Curtis Phauls. But Phauls added, "I'd say that for any team."

NU guard Peter Harris leads the Huskies with 21 points per game with Rucker scoring 11.4 and guard Perry Moss third with 11.1. Forwards Eric Jefferson and Dave Leitao, both six-foot, seven-inches tall, contribute to NU's 41 rebounds per contest.

We found SNOW
Hunter Mt. Sat. Feb. 16
$13 Lifts-Transportation & More
($8 non-refundable deposit)
Sign-up 106 CC
Ski Club Office
Departures:
Hasbrouck 4:45 AM
Southwest 5:00 AM
UMass Ski Club

the
SPC PRODUCTIONS presents
PAT METHENY GROUP
Sunday, Feb. 24 8 p.m. - Fine Arts Center
Tickets: 7.00, 6.50, 6.00 students
8.00, 7.50, 7:00 non-students
At: TIX, Union Records
Platterpus, FAC Box Office

Happy Valentine's day
from your friends at
THE WOK
48 Russell St., Rte. 9, Hadley
(Across from Hadley Village Barn)
Chinese
Home Style Cooking
Cocktails, Take-Out Service
LUNCHEON SPECIALS
Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. - 11:30 a.m.-1 a.m. Sun. & Holidays
1 p.m.-10 p.m. Luncheons 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Ample parking - 586-1202

201 Student Union
(next to Hatch)
545-0400
Union Records Unlimited
Hours:
Mon-Fri
10-5
Saturday
10--5

Valentine's Day
Special!

Today only
50¢ off every album in stock
* except specials for the week
No rainchecks

We carry Imports, Reggae,
Bluegrass, Jazz, Soul, and Popular.

Your Student-run Record Store

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
The Area's Largest Selection of Imported & American Wines
BEERS
Schlitz..... 12 oz. cans $7.49/case
Schlitz Light..... 12 oz. NR bottles $7.49/case
Falstaff..... 12 oz. cans $5.99/case
Schmidt's..... 16 oz. Ret. Bottles $6.99/case
+1.50 Deposit
Tuborg..... 12 oz. cans $1.99/six
IMPORTS
Moose Head Canadian..... $2.99/six
O'Keefe Ale..... $2.69/six
St. Pauli Girl..... 3.75/six
WINE SELECTION
Trapiche Chardonnay..... $2.99/Fifth
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch..... $2.39/Fifth
Verona Red & White..... $6.59/3 Liters
Folanari Soave Val. & Bar..... $2.39/Liter
Gusati Champagne..... $2.69/Fifth
10% Case Discount Available on Wine
Many Other In Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available
338 College St (Rt 9) 256-8433
Amherst open till 11:00
not responsible for typo errors

UMass sophomore Elizabeth Flanigan shows the agony of a sprained ankle suffered during a co-rec basketball game in Boyden Gym Monday. In this series of photos, Flanigan grimaces and is comforted by a friend (top left), sits back as ice is applied to the ankle (top) and smiles on a stretcher which took her to the UMass infirmary. The business major says she is doing better and expects to be off crutches in a week or so. (Staff photos by Chris Grewe)

CARLO OF NAPLES
foods of Italy
wine beer
45 State St. Northampton 584-9722

Woodstock, Haight-Ashbury, the East Village, gurus, love-ins, tripping – the psychedelic era lives again in this photographic journey into the sixties.
With over 250 color photographs by DON SNYDER. Large format paperback $9.95 at all bookstores
LIVERIGHT 500 Fifth Avenue, New York 10036

SELL IT
SELL IT
in the
Collegian
Classifieds
SELL IT
SELL IT

Chinese Language & Cultural Studies
CLCS offers:
Reasonable expenses
Travel
Concentrated study in Taiwan
Extensive course listing
Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For free pamphlet and counseling
Chinese language & Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563
Long Beach, CA 90815
(213) 597-3361

WHAT'S NEW AT FRANKLIN
MUNCHYS?

FRESH DAILY!
MONDAY - FRIDAY

The Hungry-U
Thursday Night
Pizza & Beer
Special
Buy any large pizza get a pitcher of beer for Half-Price!
5-closing
549-5713
55 University Dr.

Both ski teams continue their winning ways

Men

By ANTONY KUNDERT
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's ski team participated in a series of four races Saturday, Sunday, and Monday at Waterville Valley, New Hampshire. The team skied to three victories and a second place finish in four giant slalom races. The victories solidified the team lead over second place Plymouth State College (P.S.C.) in the New England Intercollege Ski Conference standings.

The weekend started off on a good note for the Minutemen with two wins on Saturday. These races were held on shorter than normal courses to enable two races to be held in one day. UMass seemed to be invincible taking the first five places in the giant slalom. The winner of the race was Kevin Nolan, followed by teammates Pat Downes, Bob Grout, Scott Broadhurst, and Scott Billings. Teamwise, UMass was seven seconds ahead of P.S.C. and Northeastern was third.

The second race was held in the afternoon and UMass came out on top again. This time the margin was less with P.S.C. three seconds behind and Northeastern in third.

On Sunday, the course was set higher on the mountain, making for a longer race. UMass topped P.S.C. by five seconds. Steve Mitchell of Northeastern won the race and co-captains Bob Grout and Kevin Nolan tied for second.

The final race on Monday saw a rarity as P.S.C. edged out UMass for only the second time this season. P.S.C. skied extremely well placing five racers in the top nine. In the team results P.S.C. won by a second over UMass and Northeastern was in third, 13 seconds behind.

UMass Coach Bill MacConnell commented on the races. "We had a good weekend, especially considering Plymouth and Northeastern had the home hill advantage."

Friday, there will be two slalom races at Nashoba Valley in Lowell, Mass...These will be the last races of the regular season, the league championship will be the following weekend.

Women

By STEVE SEGAL
Collegian Staff

The UMass women skiers won four more races over the weekend of Feb. 9, 10 and 11 at Waterville Valley, N.H. All four of the meets were giant slaloms and despite little training in this event UMass still outmatched their competitors.

Two races each having two runs were held on the opening day. The courses were shorter than usual to provide time to hold both races. Sunny skies and spring temperatures provided excellent weather for the competition. Sue Voll once again skied flawlessly winning both races and all four runs. Laurie Valenti and Kim Loftus also placed low which assisted in the UMass victory. In the afternoon, Janet Gelman and Kim Loftus contributed to the second win of the day. Amherst College placed second in both races with Boston College finishing third in the morning and Smith finishing third in the afternoon.

On Sunday, a longer and faster course was set. Poles were strategically placed on bumps which made the runs more difficult and demanding. Voll skied two fantastic runs and easily won the race. Laurie Valenti also skied well finishing second and Barbara Reynard finished fourth. Placing second for the day was Smith College.

The last race was held on Monday. These courses were faster and bumpier than the previous days. Many women from all teams fell or missed gates. The first run proved disastrous for UMass with only two of its five women standing up. Amherst College could almost smell victory. But UMass pulled off the victory, with Voll winning by a large margin and Chris Fraser of UMass finishing second. Barbara Reynards time was also counted despite her fall. With a stroke of luck UMass won once again. Amherst College finished second and Boston College placed third.

DID YOU GET A FLOWER?

here's how you pick it up:

Check the list here...
it's alphabetical in places. Be sure to check nicknames as well as given names or you might miss your valentine!

Sponsored by Newman Club!

Go to our table at the CC. Keep in mind your name exactly as it appears here. The list is divided alphabetically; see the person who's covering your section of the alphabet. Give them your name and they will give you your flower (or flowers!) Want to know who it's from? It will cost you 50 cents! Please bring your ID when you come to pick it up!

Pick up your at the CC table before 5 p.m. today or else you'll miss it!

red means i love you pink means i like you white means i'd like to get to know you

Irmac Aksoy
Dave Albaniesi
Maria Allen
Harriet Alpert
Valerie Ashe
Deb Applefield
Susan Bloksberg
J. C. Bejoian
Norm Bock
Kathy Burke
Carol Brossi
Abe Bjorklund
The Beautiful Greek With The Beak
Jay Buckley
Debbie Black
Lauren Beadle
Ellen Brennemann
Mitchell Buserin
Gail Barry
Dear
Billy Beah
Andrew Brown
Rita Caprino
Joani Carlin
Louise Chauncey
Mike Chuny
Bob Cleary
Moe Crowley
Karen Catalde..
Kim Cousland.
Michelle Cucozzo
Terri Callier
Nicki Callahan
Ilene Cooperstein
Estelle Cole
Timothy David Crory
Pamela Czarniawski
Mary Cowan
Angie Dacus
Dave from Paula
Tim Dunn
Mary E. Driskell
Dave Outhank
Dana 401 Coolidge
Julie Doyle
Robyn Daily
Beverly Day
Denise & D.C.
B.B. (Grayson)
Leslie Ellman
Marsha Eyges
Mark Elbe
Kathy Arsenault
Judy Ariso
Bill Allen
Susan Bloksberg
Patti B.
Mary Ann Booska
Matilde Brown
Jeffrey Bierly
Tina Bastide
Lisa Bussett
Martha Beggstrom
Vandi Barker
Lisa Breslow
Sarah Boynton
Ann Castlebury
Rosa Correia
John Chase
Carolyn Casey
Ralphie Joe Caouette
Pamela Czarnecki
Elizabeth Casper
Anne Castleberry
Rosa Correira
Mickey Crabtree
Jim Doherty from Greeno
Dora and Danny
Fran Devitt
Dennis Doherty
Ellen Devlin
Helen Conway
Steve Earle
Barbara Epstein
Kevin Fowler
Trish Flynn
Joanne Emery
Howard Frim
Matthew Ferri
Michael Galper
Paul Gagnon
Denise Gormley
Marianne Glorioso
Joy Gould
Judy Greene
Lori Galiasso
Jeffie Glynn
Bill Harrison
Trish Heath
Marjolaine Hughes
Doreen Hughes
Fer Jablonski
Jenie the Jewelnian
Jenny 306 Cushin
Penny Johnson
Sam Judson

"Cookie " Kane
Kenneth Kozikowski
Carole Knox
Barbara Kronish
Debby Kushner
Lorna J. Lamana
Beth Lesler
Tracy Leonard
"Lori" V. Levin
Carrie Lee
Kenny Lipman
Laura Ludwig
Sancha Jason Blaze Mandy
Sandy Nastorukos
Martha Mattison
W.C. 217 Cranston
Lisa McCormack
Kathy McDonald
Lisa M. McGrath
David Michelle
Marie Morey
John Moritz
Nancy 215 Chadbourne
Katharine R. Nielson
Phil Norris
Dan O'Brien
Ed Nestor
Patty from Hingham
Sue Peters
Eugene Petit
Debby Platt
The Girls of 323 Puffton
Dennis Prescott
Anita Punzanghero
Suzanne Racette
Paul Radochia
Jeff Ryan
Marie Samiljar
Louise Schwartz
Marjorie Sawey
Stan of Van Meter
Pat Stanislovitis
Jim Staniewski
Michael Stewart
Lori Star
Mary Lou Sullivan
Amylou Swift
Carol A. Titus
John Tomasz
Brian Thomas
Ivy Baron
Gerard Chaarn
Leigh Aldridge
Patti Anderson
Joyce Anderson
Brian Ashe
Ellie Bagli
Beth Barber Chadbourne
Julie Barrette
Mark Bassis
Jennifer Battine
Kelly Beach
Noureddine Benaci
Lisa Berdan
Verilee Berdan
Jennifer Black
Erik Blom
Cindy Boyack
Vicky Bradley
Valerie Brathwaite
Ellen Braun
Vandi Bressan
Allison Brichan
Scott Broadhurst
Eileen Brown
Aaron Brown
Cindy Burke
Patricia Butkiewicz
Jim
Jennie Calvert Linds
W.D. Calvert
Wendy Caron
Joanne Carey
Julie Chernsky
Nikey Corran
Michael Cohen
Lauren Collaccio
Mary Ellen Collins
Nancy Collins
Jim Connors
Pam Cooke
Lynn Coyle
Mary Craig
Billy Cregan
Maureen Crowley
Christine Cunningham
Curis
John Davenport
Michael D'Alessandro
Cathy Daly
Helen D'Amour
David-309 Thatcher
Kim Dawkins
Joe Denaris
Chris Devine
Fran Devitt
Elsbeth H. Didriksen
Chuck DiMarzi
Debby Dallasso
Will Doherty
Mary Donovan
Steve Donolan
Dot at the bookstore
Leslie Dowler
Bing Doyle
Maureen Dreger
Kim Driskell
Jane Duche
Jamie Dunn
Mary E. Dyer

Antoinette Fagan
Linda Feldman
Lou Fesino
Marcy Fink
M.J. Forbes
Stephen Fornari
Betsy Fredrick
Nancy Frye
Matey Gannon
Lisa Geist
Janet Gertsch
Andrew Gibson
Betsi G Gillis
Ellen Gillis
Arnold Glassman
Judi Goldmen
Patty Gorman
Meg Goss
Ricky Goudius
Joy Gould
Virginia Gracy
Mary Lou Grasso
Sean Griffin
Suzanne Guttman
Chris Haller
Kathleen Hakes
Cindy Hallowell
Lynn Hammond
Cathy Hancock
Alice Handfinger
Amanda Hanrahan
Shelly Hartshorn
Julie Hellen
Jay Henry (WAD)
Margie Hernandez
Sandra Hiatt
Ann Hilliard
Gary Hoghen
Nina Holmstrom
Tina Hoyt
John Intorcio
J.D.
Robert J. Kaiserman
KatieSue (BatmanRobin)
Ellen Kelliher
Mark Lipskie
Lisa M.
Tom Lisowski
Paul Lorenzo
David Alan Lovy
Donna Lozier
Lilliian Luna
Edward Jasse Mahoney
Ed Mahoney
Ellen Mahoney
Angela Mangicotti
Marching Band
Brian Martin
Ann Martino
Linda Matonis
Rich Matonis
Kevin McCarthy
Kristen McCarthy
Carrie McCormack
Ross McKay
Terry McGrath
Sally McKnight
Nancy K. Miller
Mary Mills
Moira Monahan
Barbara Moody
Michael Moore
Timothy J. Murphy
My Cuddle Bear
My Wab
Sue Maatz
Brian Magle
Kate Maughton
Renee Mazar
Abby Melterman
Joan Moran
Susan Novak
James A. O'Brien
Brian O'Connor
Rosemary O'Connor
Steve Oliver
Maire O'Regan
Mindy Orlando
Beth Osborn
Dean Ouellette
Ilia Palmer
Bob Peterson & Rich Peteruto
Cindy Phelan
Barry Pillsen
Steve Pothier
Roberta L. Potter
Ilene Prochasak
C.L.M. Furmerstein
Nanette Quigley
Father Joe Quigley
Tati Ramos
Dori Redman
Lisa Rembetsy
Rebop FGJ
Janine Rempe
Trudy Rendall
Mark Prink
Lois Finkly
Jane Punk
Mark Pierro
Robin Flynn
Vicki Fairchild
Sharyn Finkel
Susan Goldstein
Chris Gorham
Jendy Gateman
Richard Goodman
Jane Gould
Michelle Gavarilis
Carol Gillian
Cheryl Geisler

Judi Greene
Elizabeth Harris
Susan Horowitz
Fran Heneeg
Wendy Hodgkins
Lydia Howecroft
Kelly Hall
Ilene 144 Mackimmie
Andrea Jacobs
Sam Judson
Lynne Johnson
Jennifer Jones
Julie Johnson (315 Kennedy)
Merrie Kaplan
Erin Kalagher
Mary Kelly
Richard G. Kushner
Vicki Kingsbury
Andrea Kemelar
Laurie Kosmann
Madeline Kennedy
Sue Kindlund
Leeann Kennedy
Maureen Keough
Chris Kelley
Sue Klassen
Donna Kearney
Karen Marmor
Alisa Langenauer
Amy Loring
Monica Luisser
Norma LaPointe
Lilly-Michelle
John Lertora
Ann Levin
Lynne (140 Gorman)
Paula Kelley
Karen Kelsey
Missy Kilcore
Kevin Kilroy
Sandy King
Klyde
Doity Kimball
Sue Kindlund
Jeannie Kirwan
Kristina Kohl
Lynn Kwiatkowski
Patricia LaBaire
Betsy Lahteine
Robbin Larson
LaureenAngela
Judy Leger
Richard Leo
Jacqui Lesser
David Levenson
Howie Levin
Stew LaVine
Barry Linehan
Lisa and Annie
Jim Loss
Laurie Zelinas
Libby Lurzer
Katrin L.
Chris Mahlon
Shirley Mallett
Mercedes Flemming
Nicole Mayer
Karen Manula
Shirley Moffsan
Bob Humphreys
Michael D'Alessandro
Tom Jacobson
Peter J. Kelley
Scott Kaufman
David Kellogg
Lisa Krikorian
Joe Kennedy
John Kennedy
Kerrie Kaplan
Matt Ledin
Curt Leonard
Celeste LaVoie
Laura McDonald
Marie Morrier
Cindy McGrath
Stacey McDonald
Gary
Gail Mellon
Steve Marceno
Alice Mahoney
Fr. Mike
Carla Moses
Donna Magrath
Alicia Masson
Rene Novis
Devin McManus
Leslie O'Connor
Lisa Owen
Phillip O'Reilly
Kathleen O'Hara
Scott Pfeninger
Sue Renfrew
Allison Riche
Shelley Rice
Maureen Rose
Lilli Ray
Deborah Smith
The Smerka Family
Suzanne Steers
Dave Sullivan
Ann Serpa
Maryann Sadowski
Donna Salvucci
Lori Stone
Sue Repeta
Diane Resendes
Leslie Roberts
John Robertson
Penny Rodrigues
Bob Ross
Christine Rooke

Suzanne Roy
Eddy Russell
Jennifer Russell
Jim Russell
Isabel Ryan and Roomate
Teresa Ryan
Amy Saunders
Carol Savoy
Scumball
Cathy Senger
Margaret Sheehan
Craig Sherwood
Darys Shoneite
Jennifer Shone
Scott Shuster
Robbie Siegal
Colleen Siff
Terry Simpson
Peter Sinesi
Sue Sorrentino
Ellen Sostek
Char Sotolongo
Sharon Spear
Robin Spinner
Carole Springer
Pat Stanisloulis
Debbie Steele
Steve (NAD DOG)
Steve 2nd floor Leach
Daphne Stevens
Amy Stoyanov
Barbara Strehle
Sue in Physics
Bill Sullivan
Christine A. Sullivan
Ellen Swan
Debbie Sweet
Janet Szyszkowski
Peg Tanner
Michelle Teddy
Kay Thomas
Trish Thomas
Stephen Tirrell
Andrew Torgove
Karen Trola
Deborah Lee Turner
Carol Springer
Tom Syman
Erica Steenstra
Karen Steele
Lorraine Saviano
Michele Turner
Katherine Schmarzon
Chris Tomasik
Margaret Tanner
Ann C. Voorhees
Tricia Vaughnel
Paul Veahi
Mark Vartabedian
Robin W.
Adrian "Frankie" Wetmore
Rick Williams
Joyce from Edward Whelden
Dave Young (bus driver)
Randy Lynn Carp
Sue Lyons
Christy Weiss
Jim (405 Brown)
Marilyth Patterson
Rose Sheahan
Gary Kymalinen
Pat Theriault
Karen Trola
Jack Tanner
Temperance
Leslie Johnson
Mark McLellan
Michele Wood
Sam McGill
Mary Martin
Sandy Weskins
Julie Jones
Marianne Abrogini
Joe Meacham
Marsha and Marks
Kathy Johnson & Jean Vogel
Nancy A. Miller
Diane Merbie
Alan Murray
Linda Medlong
Brian Murphy
Sandy Kinerny
Julie Jones
Marianne Hogan
Mary McGrane
Lettie Moses
Jim McMillicone
Betsy Morse
Anne Mann
Nancy Norman
Jay Nestel
Laurie O'Brien
Joyce Ot Kid Knight
Neil O.
Nancy Lilligan
Linda Potter
Andy Pond
Judith F. Phaneuf
Connie Phillips
Catherine J. Pinto
Neil Pluck
Leslie Quinn
Jabberjaw
Jane Weiel
Charlene Rohe
Diane Resendes
Jane Jenkins
Phil Ryan
Mary Donna Swan
Sandy Stark

Marin Sproul
Dave Sullivan
Karen Stifter
Killian Sullivan
22 Southwood
Jeff Shaffer
Shu-a-Babe Tarsart;
Barbara Strehle
Stash 611 JQA
Julie Simonds
Debbie Sardack
S.D.T. "Louse Father
Suzanne "Sparkle"
Sue Thatcher
Daddy Tome
Pauline Tros
Rev. Michael Twardzik
Carol Titus
Stephanie Tice
Velma Thomas
Barbara Troned
Tricia Vincheni
Marilyn Volk
Laurie Vincello
Kara Wood
Lisa Warts
Marissa Weinstein
Teresa Hedegrott
Marolyn White
Freemen Woodson
Lori Wallander
Wendy Witting
Tom Wikos
Karen Zuelk
Lori Zajac
Carol Brossi
Kathy Burke
Dave Ostrenk
Carol Amoroso
Lynne Anderman
Bryce Anderson
Lisa Avnsznto
John Bauman
"Boom"
Judy Brockelman
J.C. Bejoian
Brother Nelson
Mary Bryant
Bun,Bun
Lewis Charnick
Matt Capelens
Stephanie Chester
Steven Cindric
Ruth Cohen
Debra Coleman
Ed Coleman
Marie Connely
Chuck Derville
Barry Entner
Chris Perkes
Charlene Pradette
Pipe Franklin
Ruth Freedman
Lynn A. Gelinas
Terry Gimond
Larry Goldberg
Ed Goldfarb
Lisa Grimm
Jan Wartanian
Tim Wartanian
Deb Violandi
Jean Vogel
Gregory Volse
Loretta Walsh
Alice Wellshlager
Frank Wright
To My Yori-Bear Campground Buddy
Steve Bruno
Monica Lussier
Ruth Freedman
Dave Morgan
Carol Brossi
Karen Stifer
Richard Goodman
Debbie Steele
Sandra Hiatt
Kenneth Stevenson Whitestone
Lynne Andersen
Ed Coleman
Dennis Prescott
Joan Norman
Barry Entner
Steve Oliver
Gary Hoglund
Audrey Zaccone
Ann Wescher
CLM Furmerstein
Keith Westgate
Kenneth Whitestone
Lynn Williams
Tim Woods
Audrey Zaccone
Cindy-Lou Zarlsg
Ellen R. Zieve
Maria Zlotnick
Elaine Valinsky
Doug Vigneau
Debbie Vondal
Ann Wallace
Diane Walsh
Kathy "BUGS" Warner
Richard Waystack
Karen Wagrzyn
Molly Weir

Study: Keep on running for your life

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) — A comparison of blood samples taken from marathon runners, joggers and inactive people provides new biological evidence that exercising may help prevent heart disease.

The study found that the more people run, the higher their blood levels of high density lipoprotein cholesterol, or HDL, a substance that is associated with a reduced risk of coronary heart disease.

The researchers said it was the amount of running, not what they ate, that determined whether the people had high or low levels of this blood fat.

Unlike low density liproprotein cholesterol, which is suspected of causing hardening of the arteries, the high density substance is believed to provide protection from heart trouble.

The study, conducted at Methodist Hospital in Houston, was published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"Results suggest that HDL differences among the three groups were primarily the result of distance run, not dietary factors," the researchers concluded.

The researchers took blood samples from 59 marathon runners, 85 joggers and 74 inactive men, all between the ages of 35 and 66.

HDL levels were 65 milligrams per deciliter in the marathoners, 58 in joggers and 43 in non-exercisers.

Earlier studies have shown that high levels of HDL are associated with a owered risk of heart disease. But researchers were unsure whether people could change their HDL levels by varying what they ate.

There have been reports that HDL levels go up if people drink alcohol moderately or lose weight.

"The marathon runners and joggers did not differ substantially from the inactive subjects in their reported dietary habits, although they had significantly higher HDL-cholesterol levels," the researchers wrote.

They attributed the differences to the men's exercising habits. "Even the joggers, who averaged only 11 miles per week, had significantly higher HDL levels than did the inactive men."

The scientists noted that HDL in the blood of the runners was elevated "to a level associated with a significant reduction of coronary risk."

THINKING ABOUT SPRING BREAK?
BERMUDA!
Air Fare & Accomodations-Beach Party & Booze Cruise
8 Days/7 Nights as low as $249.
(Price includes all taxes & surcharges)
INTERESTED? PLEASE CALL:
Peter Keenan-Gary Bernson 545-0210
or Dan Smith 549-5621

Great Valentine Gifts
Clothing Sale
20-40% off many items
Daily 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Sunday 12-5
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Check the Valentine's in the front section and see what your loved one thinks!

Catholic Marriage Course
1980
"How to Have a Happy Marriage"
Newman Center
Beginning Thursday
February 14th
8 pm
Everyone Welcome

CREEDO'S coffeehouse
GAMES/FOOD/MUSIC
11 Pleasant St. N'hamp. 7pm 2pm Closed Mon.

Monty Python's
And Now For Something Completely Different
"an outrageously funny film"
Tonight Feb. 14th
Mahar Auditorium
7:00, 9:00, 11:00
Admission $1.00

KING OF BEERS.® • ANHEUSER BUSCH INC • ST. LOUIS

In the area

AC frats may take females now

An Amherst College spokesman says the school may force its last four fraternity houses to admit women beginning this fall.

Douglas Wilson, collee news secretary, said Amherst President Julian Gibbs and a committee studying the campus housing shortage met Tuesday night with some 200 students to discuss the fraternities' future.

Last week the committee recommended that Gibbs not allow anyone to be excluded from any campus housing, including fraternity houses, on the basis of sex. Two female students already have filed an anti-discrimination suit against the college.

Wilson said Gibbs favored following the committee's recommendations and integrating the fraternities.

Commission gives King a warning

GREENFIELD (AP) — "Beware the Ides of March," Franklin County Commissioners have warned Gov. Edward J. King.

Commissioner Jack Bassett said yesterday unless the state restores funds for operation of the courts, the commission will lock courtrooms and court offices in Greenfield on March 15.

The county has spent about $100,000 for maintenance of court facilities since the state takeover of the court system last July, he said. The problem is that the state has offered to pay a rent of $1.40 a square foot, which comes to $35,000 for the period since the July takeover.

The county commissioners have said that's not enough, and they've refused to sign a lease.

Pledge broken by N'hamp head

NORTHAMPTON (AP) — Mayor David Musante has broken a campaign pledge and announced that he will remain on the Hampshire County Commission.

Musante, who defeated incumbent Mayor Harry Chapman in November, said Tuesday that he was "mistaken" when he promised last year to resign from the commission if elected mayor.

"I was wrong. I apologize for that statement and I hope to prove by my performance that I am doing the right thing," he said.

Musante said that by holding both posts he could better serve city and county.

Danny Olim, right, prepares to defend himself against Ed Ahola at last night's chess meeting. The club will be getting togeher every Tuesday night in the Campus Center Coffee Shop at 7:30. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

Tufts head invites Olympics

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The president of Tufts University asked yesterday that the United States Olympic Committee designate the colleges and universities of the Boston area as the alternate site of the 1980 Summer Olympic Games.

"I personally endorse the proposed boycott (of Moscow), in protest of the Russian aggression in Afghanistan," Jean Mayer said. "I call on my fellow college and university presidents in New England to see if we can provide an alternative site for the summer games."

Mayer's suggestion was delivered to the USOC at Lake Placid, N.Y., where the Winter Games are underway.

Mayer said the Boston area has 50 schools within a 25-mile radius which handle approximately 100,000 students in dormitories and residence halls. Different schools could host specific athletic events, he said.

"The key to the success of the plan would be an extensive electronic linkage of all of the competitive sites," Mayer said.

Abortion claims contended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal auditors contended yesterday that Massachusetts improperly claimed nearly $320,000 as reimbursement for Medicaid abortions and asked that the state repay the money.

The report on the federalstate abortion program in Massachusetts showed that the state agreed with most of the auditors' contentions that challenged about $320,000 worth of claims.

One of a series of reports on 12 states with large Medicaid abortion programs, the audit statement was prepared by the inspector general for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and covers the period Aug. 5, 1977, to Dec. 31, 1978.

The auditors said Massachusetts' improper claims resulted from clerical errors, inadequate record-keeping and a failure in some cases to adhere to the federal standards for reimbursement. The federal government paid for abortions during the period covered by the audit in cases where a woman's life was in jeopardy, in cases of rape or incest which were promptly reported to authorities, and where physicians certified that a woman might suffer severe and longlasting physical health damage.

VALENTINE'S DAY
is special
AT THE PUB
-Join us for lunch or dinner-serving food 11:30 a.m.-9:30p.m
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

CONSIDER GRADUATE STUDIES AT UNION
The Institute of Administration and Management at Union College

These programs are designed to bring theory and practice together, emphasizing the fundamental tools and techniques essential to the successful specialist or manager. Fellowships and Assistantships are available on a competitive basis. Applications are accepted year round. For more information call 518-370-6235 or write Josephine Morecroft, Assistant Director of the Institute of Administration and Management at Union College.

 MBA ***
- Quantitative Analysis
- Health Systems Management
- Management Planning and Control
- International Management
- Public Systems Administration
- Management Information Systems

 MS ***
- Applied Statistics
- Health Planning and Policy
- Health Systems Management
- Industrial Administration

UNION Institute of Administration and Management
Schenectady, New York 12308

Please send Graduate Studies brochure and program information for (degree, program) _____
I am interested in the ☐ Fall ☐ Winter ☐ Spring term.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State ____ Zip ____
School(s) attended _____

Union College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, religion or national origin.

14 KARAT GOLD GIFTS
Enlarged to show details
14 KARAT GOLD CHARM HOLDER
SEE OUR GREAT CHOICE OF CHARMS for instance:
- Key to my Heart
- 14K Gold Ingot
- My Teddy Bear
- Tennis Anyone?
- Charming Heart
- Ringing Bell
— almost anything you can think of!

Her own Initial in 14K Ring
14K Initial Pendant

14 KARAT GOLD—IT'S WANTED... AND IT'S WORTH IT!

Marcou's Keepsake® Registered Diamond Rings
DIAMOND CENTER
Hampshire Mall • 586-5880

ARTS

Ailey dancers slink and strut their stuff

By SARAH HAMMANN
Collegian Staff

Alvin Ailey Dance Theater quenches a thirst for talent. Opening with a smashing performance, the troupe took the Fine Arts Center stage by storm last night.

To a near capacity audience, the company danced "Later That Day" for the second time within a four-day span of its world premiere in Washington, D.C. choreographed by Kathryn Posin to the music of Philip Glass, the number opens with a solitary man stage left dressed in a dapper suit, balanced by an intimately crouched couple on the right. A chain of peach and silver-sequined costumed cancers slink along the back of the stage in a rolling hip motion with arms clasped overhead, as though part of a chain gang.

Although the meticulously dressed man tries to draw the resisting couple under his influence, the couple escapes through a series of turning and running steps in place. One after another, the dancers execute attitude turns in a ripple pattern.

The piece ends a in a soothing manner as the man tenderly cradles his love.

Following the first, short intermission, the troupe retuned to captivate the audience with Lar Lubovitch's "Les Noces." This wedding scenario opens with a piercing female operatic voice. Parents and friends are gathering to marry son and daughter. Showing anguish and torment, the fiances resist one another.

The wedding party dominates the stage in rustic peasant outfits. In Cossack technique, the dancers move across the stage in flex-footed, hard-brushing, heavy-landing sequences.

After the fiances accept each other, the wedding party leaves and the lights dim.The music softens and the newlywed couple delicately kneels to the floor in a lasting embrace.

After the audience settled into their seats for the final numbers, Dudley Williams eased into one of Ailey's own pieces, "Love Songs." The music of Leon Russell and Jeremy Wlnd, sung by Donny Hathaway and Nina Simone, complimented the director's choreography.

All eyes centered on Dudley Williams as the music sang "We're alone now and I'm singing this song to you." Williams gave an outstanding performance. His versatility and control emphasized his unquestionable talent.

Swaying with supple hand motions, Wiliams seemed to address the piece to his one lifetime love. Emotional, agile, yet consistent, Williams had no trouble capturing this audience's attention.

"Suite Otis," a favorite of dance enthusiasts, concluded the evening's program. Dancing as a tribute to the Late Otis Redding, the troupe vivdly personified a medley of Redding's works such as "Just One More Day," "Lover's Prayer," and "Try a Little Tenderness."

The dancers moves were jazzy, and sensual. To the music of "I Can't Turn You Loose," three men performed erotic sequences with faultless precision and coordination. This vibrant arrangement to Redding's music fulfilled its purpose and left the audience snapping fingers and swinging hips.

The troupe promises to provide equally powerful sequels in tonight's performance. Alvin Ailey's premier performance of "Memoria," to the osng with the same title by Keith Jarrett, will wind up the company's UMass tour.

Tickets are still available at the Fine Arts Center Box Office for the 8:00 P.M. performance. Don't wait until next February to enjoy the remarkably fresh talent of the Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre!

Glass at Hampden Gallery

By DONNA SULIVAN
Collegian Staff

An array of hand blown glass bowls, vases, goblets, animals and other ornaments went on display Thursday in the Hampden Gallery in Southwest. The work of twelve advanced glass blowing students will be shown for two weeks, according to Roberley Bell, a glass blowing instructor at Umass.

"The students wanted to have a show," Bell said. "It exhibits a wide variety of interst in glass." Bell's students have been blowing glass for an average of about two semesters and most of the work on display are peices blown last semester.

Although most of the pieces are hand blown glass, a couple have been cast into molds, Bell said.

One display are some classy goblets, a red dog that took about two or three people to work on, a varitetty of original creations, and more. The show is open from 4 p.m. until eight p.m. Monday through Friday and two to five on Sundays.

"I think it is going to be one of the most successful shows we have ever had," said Bernadette Corbett of the Hampden Gallery.

Eubie Blake, 96 years old veteran composer of over 1500 songs, is the composer of 5 Broadway musicals including his latest hit, "Eubie!," the first musical hit of the 1978-79 season. Some of the hit songs in "Eubie!" are "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "Memories of You," "In Honeysuckle Time," "Charlestown Rag," "Dixie Moon," and "Shuffle Along," among others. "Eubie" will be performed Friday, Feb. 22 in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale now.

Wit, sensitivity mark Going in Style

By SUSAN RING
Special to the Collegian

What causes three semi-run-of-the-mill senior citizens to don Groucho Marx glasses and rob a bank? A preference of caviar to cat food? No, this exaggerates the situation. George Burns, Lee Strasberg, and Art Carney (as the trio) are bored.

Going in Style, writer-director Martin Brest's first feature film, presents the plight of the elderly in an understated manner. The soft-spoken style separates this work from the majority of today's social-issue films. Its effectiveness stems not from the use of heated displays of emotion or blatant examples of the problem at its most extreme. A combination of the excellent performances of the cast, the element of wit, and the importance of the issue dealt with, results in a film which makes a lasting impression without emotionally draining the audience.

George Burns' performance is particularly special. Without the aid of a cigar or his usual schtyk, he everges as a sensitive dramatic actor. Burns plays the idea man:the heist is his conception. Having thoroughly thought the plan through, Burns is able to put this seemingly shocking suggestion into a feasible light for his two house-mates. His "what have we got to lose?" rationale convinces them that they may as well venture out of their home in Queens - beyond the nearest park bench - to look for a bit of excitement.

The least adventurous of the three, Lee Strasberg is a hesitant accomplice. Nightmares of past mistakes trouble him and perhaps jar him into his decision to live the rest of his life to the fullest. When the three follow through with their plan, he enjoys himself immensely. Strasberg's unusually warm performance is a pleasant surprise.

Art Carney is the fun-loving, garrulous third. He's the zippiest of the group, willing to take some risks now and then. He's a loved and loving uncle, whose nephew unwittingly becomes involved in their adventure. Carney gives his character the depth and entertaining qualities that we have come to expect from him.

The rapport of the three is quite well developed. They are evidentlylifelong friends who are spending their last years in constant companionship. Their lives (pre-bank heist) are highly regulated and monotonous. Each has particular household jobs to do, they go to the park to feed the pigeons and pick up their social security checks on their way home. Their problems may seem small, but they are certainly real. An increase in their electric bill (due to Carney's leaving the light on at night after going to the bathroom) may be the least of their troubles in comparison to the larger question of being able to make a contribution, of having something of worth to do.

Their escapade not only provides them with excitement buy enables them to assist Carney's nephew, a decent man holding two jobs in order to support his family. They are able to be wholeheartedly generous and have the fun of causing the authorities great consternation.

Brest relays an image of the predicament of elderly people without making the film overtly political. A broadcast concerning the robbery, mentions the activist group, Gray Panthers. They aren't quoted as condoning the robbery but say that the crime reflected the desperation of the elderly. Brest doesn't suggest that crime is the answer to the problems of the elderly, he simply awakens our consciousness without hitting us over the head.

Going in Style is playing at the Hampshire Mall through Thursday.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 Chevy Caprice. Excellent running condition & body. Must sell. $1300. Call 1-467-3465 after 5.

Comet $300. Runs well. 92000 Call 253-9340

Volvo '72 145E Wgn. Radials AM/FM cass. New clutch. Urgent!! Dave 6-5419

Fix your own car. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'68 Chevrolet Impala runs well and is reliable. Fred 546-3254

1972 Toyota Corona rebuilt engine, little rust, well maintained. Needs engine work. $600 or offer. 584-2062

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Fiat 74 X19 for sale call 549-0146

1970 Olds Delta '88' Exc. running cond. new battery FM-8 track 425.00 or BO Jeff 546-4138

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

CURRENTLY DISMANTLING

1000 Late Model Cars for parts. Lowest prices, Searles Auto Parts, Inc., 85 Easthampton Rd., Northampton, Mass. 584-2832

ENTERTAINMENT

Bike co-opers General meeting Feb. 14 7:00 pm 169 CC New members welcome

Wanted: 2 tickets for good seats at Pat Metheny concert. Call Rebecca. Days 253-5259. Nights 586-6160

Pro soundsystem for rent. Perfect for coffeehouses, discos, etc. MFSound 546-8865, 546-8777

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

ESSAY CONTEST

Win $20 and see your work in print! The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest. In 750 words or less tell how the women's movement has affected you. Contact Lisa at 5-3500 for details.

FOR RENT

1 room in 4 bedroom Apt. in Swiss Village $110 a month. Call 546-8420

Cape Cod summer seasonal rentals W. Yarmouth & Dennis 2, 3, or 4 bedroom; low rates 1-617-528-0404

Room for rent $125/mo plus, on bus route in Sunderland, call after 5 PM 665-7500

FOR SALE

5 cubic foot refrigerator $115. Like new. Call 665-3567 evenings.

Ski parka Women's 9-10, brand new, orange & yellow, zip-off sleeves for vest, originally $90. $45 or best offer 546-8244

Yashica Lynx-500 35 mm Rangefinder $60.00 256-8064

Weimaraner male pups AKC silver thoroughbreds for show, field or distinctive companionship. 1-413-339-6688.

Sofa in good condition. Call Mary 549-0580

Hart express skis. New unused with look 6x bindings unmounted + ski brakes $160.00 Call Tim 665-7711

15" color TV Mexican sweater coat, hiking boots size 7½, leather stitched boots 253-3012 try constantly

Scuba Gear excellent condition U.S. Divers best. Tank, regulator, B.C. call now 546-9631

Stereo--Nikko 30 w/c amp, Sanyo turntable, PR. B.I.C. speakers excellent condition call Leo 546-7769 or 6-7771

Ski Boots 11½ $50, 1967 Pontiac Cat. new snows & timing chain $375 BO 549-4199

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Mittens. Brown with black and white stripe woll knit. Come to the Collegian office. Left here at least a week ago.

HELP WANTED

SPECIALTY COUNSELORS July/August. On campus interviews arranged. For students and faculty who love children. All team sports, tennis, gymnastics, swimming (W.S.I.), small craft, water-skiing, fine arts, guitar, yoga, camping and nature. Camp Wayne 12 Allevard-St., Lido Beach, N.Y. 11561 516-599-4562 or 516-889-3217

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Babysitter must have car, one hr. am 3-4 hrs. in aft. Call 253-5141 ask for Ann days. 584-2197 nights. Good pay, good kids

Tutors Needed for O.H./Central Academic Centers, one or two nights a week. Non work study and work study. Subjects are Chemistry, Math, COINS and Economics. Send or bring resume to academic affairs Macyntire House before 5 p.m. Thursday February 14th

Work study positions available in Athletic Injury Care. Also non-work study positions-must be EMT. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg. Rm. 9, Ext. 52866

INSTRUCTION

Basic auto-mechanics workshop. 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure. Autoskills Box 210 Amherst

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

Blue down jacket at Rusty Nail 2/8. I have yours. Call Anne 256-0669.

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Animal hide mittens lost Chadbourne area. Sentimental value. Return to Campus Center lost and found please.

Lost—Man's gold watch 12/22 near Chenoworth, sentimental value, reward call 6-9794

PERSONALS

Bunny my heart is yours forever, Bunk

Male Gayle: Happy Valentine's Day! Take care of yourself, K?!! Aim (A Kiss)

Anne I told you I wouldn't forget you. I never will! J.C.

Andy (S.A.E.) To a first rate pilot—Happy Valentine's Day. Love, K.S.

Beeshe—Happy Valentine's Day to my one and only mama. Can't wait until Vermont. Love you many heaps always, Gras

Happy Valentine's Day to all the fantastic people on 3rd long MacKimmie and 6 west Webster. (If you're not exceptionally fantastic, this does not apply to you). Have a good day everyone! Love, Laura

Field six south, Suzanne, &the tastebuds &Kristin. Thanks for the great B-Day! Happy Valentine's Day. Love ya, Chris

To the Index Staff, Hope your day is filled with love and laughter.

Happy Valentine's to the girls and guy in 503 Brown from the boys in 502. P.S. Give us our couch back

Female needed to accompany two others to Ft. Lauderdale during March break. Will split expenses. Call 549-5957

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Lurching toward war—can we stop it? Come see Pulitzer Prize winner James MacGregor Burns answer this crucial question on Thur., Feb. 14, 7:00 in RM 102 Thompson Hall

Bofafeyaw says: You are the Holy Spirit of Creation; only you can stop the draft!...Born free!

Announcing The Beatle's Second Annual Benefit Concert at Pi Lam. Food, drink, Yoko and a dynamite home at school. Free admission. Thurs Feb. 14. For info talk to Ezra 256-6837, 549-1347.

Pi Lambda Phi Open Rush Extravaganza Spring 1980. Stop by our table in the CC. Check out The Beatles Valentine's night at our house. Concert time 9:00

GBFin 362 Law III Goldman's exams wanted. Will pay cash. Call Dan 665-7721

Daytona Beach during Spring Break March 15-22. Peter Pan World Travel agents MC130223 want you to leave the driving worries to them. 8 days round trip and accomodations. 1 block from boardwalk. 4 persons per room. $229 each. Optional day trip to Disney World. Deadline Feb. 20. Please call S. Rayner 256-0675 or J. Hyde 1-773-3854

Attention: All UMass University women invited to Spring formal-informal Rush Parties at Sigma Delta Tau. For info call Robin 545-0527

VALENTINE GIFTS:Will trade for silver and gold. Silverscape Designs 264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

Poetry wanted for Anthology. Include stamped envelope, Literary Arts Press, 132 Nassau, Suite 212, New York, New York 10038

RIDE WANTED

Binghamton, N.Y. or vicinity for this Friday or returning Monday. 546-7425

Ride wanted to NYC Fri. 2/15. Call Alison 549-1046

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny rm in house 5 min. to campus & town. Fireplace, TV Kit., sundecks 120/mo 549-4018 346 N. Pleasant

Down to earth roommate wanted for 2-bedroom apt. Sunderland 150/mo. 665-4373

Roomate wanted for Northwood apt. 112.50/month & utilities call 665-4293

SERVICES

Light moving and hauling 584-3976

Tune ups all models $15 Labor 586-3695 5-0427

Attroney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

TO SUBLET

Room in house on bus route close to campus $91.50 + 549-4166.

WANTED

Drummer looking for serious musicians to jam with and form rock band. Call 546-7967

Experienced housecleaner 3 hour/week. References. Call 256-6151

Silver Top dollar paid for silver coins dated 1964 or below 546-9087

A 2 meter amateur radio, Call Steve 6-8880 Nights

UP TO 75% magic SALE

DEB magic clothes

Visa & MasterCharge

CREDIT-FREE Workshops

Typing
Swimming
Figure Drawing
Dream Interpretation
Reading Improvement

Just to name a few of over 130 CREDIT-FREE Workshops to be offered this spring.

FREE CATALOG NOW AVAILABLE!

For further information and registration come to:
Hasbrouck Room 113
University of Massachusetts/Amherst
Or CALL: (413) 549-4970

WORKSHOPS START FEBRUARY 25, 1980!

We accept American Express, VISA and MasterCharge credit cards.

UMass/Amherst
DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:

ACROSS
1 Raised floor
6 Newspaper section: Informal
10 Closing noise
14 Freeway sign
15 So be it
16 Hawaiian city
17 Best-selling parson
18 Penny dreadfuls' relative: 2 words
20 Personality
21 Persian
22 Netter Chris -----
23 Controversial stage play
25 Amuses
27 See
30 Nestegg amassers
31 Allan - -----: Hood's friend
32 Misanthrope
33 Bakery product
36 Of current interest
37 Legends
38 Bell sound
39 Local person: Suffix
40 Sucrose
41 Montreal subway
42 Expiated
44 Mobs
45 U.S.-Mex. desert
47 Put in pitch
48 Accustom: Var.
49 Central part: Prefix
50 Pulmonic sound
54 Jet journey: 2 words
57 Punish in a way
58 Outer garment
59 Small amount
60 Tightly stretched
61 Some greenbacks
62 Look intently
63 Answered reveille

DOWN
1 Devitalizes
2 Apple, for one
3 USSR sea
4 One of 18: 2 words
5 Woolly creature
6 Navigation device
7 Pass over
8 Pro---
9 Individual
10 Pushy person
11 Chloasma: 2 words
12 Watchful
13 Sheds feathers
19 Not ever
21 El ---: Spanish hero
24 Tap drink
25 Stamping device
26 Currier's colleague
27 Where Singaradja is
28 Blue-pencil
29 Yearn to do something: 3 words
30 Side dish
32 Golf's Walter -----
34 With regard to: 2 words
35 Freudian concerns
37 Salad ingredient
38 Army criminal
40 More painful
41 --- and wife
43 Open pies
44 Mire
45 Defense org.
46 Bulbous plant
47 Roof applier
49 Boundary line
51 Italian river
52 Maiden
53 Olympics event
55 Elect. unit
56 Emulate
57 Station: Abbr.

DC menu

DINNER

SUPER SUNDAES
Chicken Cacciatore
Baked Ham/Raisin Sauce

BASICS DINNER

Tofu Nut Loaf/Mushroom Sauce
Chicken Cacciatore

Earthfoods

Soybean Stroganoff
Soy Macaroni
Bulgher/Rice
Green Salad-Herb Dressing
Carrot Bread

JOB APPLICATION PACKAGE

•Letter
•Resume
•Envelope
matching papers & typestyles

Bring this ad for a FREE resume copy with each letter done on our Word Processor

Valley typing
29 S. Pleasant St. Amherst
256-6736
M-F 10-6
Sat. 10-2

Thursday
Two Way Street

This week's special
BUDWEISER
50c mugs 2.50 pitchers

"an Amherst tradition & now with a great new look"

Serving food
11:30 am-9:30 pm
Seven Days
a Week

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Classical, contemporary

Innovation marks Winnipeg Ballet

By SARAH HAMMANN
Special to the Collegian

A multi-talented dance company, Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet, will appear at the Fine Arts Center February 19.

Founded in 1939 under the direction of Gwenetth Lloyd and Betty Farrally, the Canadian company was built with a "pioneering spirit," according to the company's history, and has retained this spirit and enthusiasm throughout its 40 years. In 1945 the troupe started touring in Canada and since 1954 has toured the world.

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet has won two Gold Medals in the international dance competition in Paris. It has mesmerized audiences at the British Commonwealth Festival and received critical and audience acclaim in Russia, Czechoslovakia, Australia and South America.

Most of the 25 dancers have graduated from the company's own professional school. They are youthful and versatile and they dance diverse works with a strong foundation in the classical technique.

The company's major choreographers have included Frederick Ashton, Oscar Araiz, George Balanchine, Agnes do Mille, Hans van Manen and Rudi van Dantzig. Their choreography vividly demonstrates innovation and creativity.

Artistic Director Arnold Spohr has spent virtually his lifetime developing the talents of the ballet company. In 1945 he was the premier danseur for the company buy soon moved on the create roles for more than 20 productions.

The company's repertoire had been destroyed by fire, leaving no costumes or scenery. Spohr launched a massive reorganization program and commissioned new ballets from famous and unknown choreographers. he acquired dancers from major companies abroad such as the Bolshoi Ballet, Leningrad Kirov, and Britain's Royal Ballet and started the the company's own school in Winnipeg. Since then the Saskatchewan-born director has achieved a fine balanced between the classical traditions of Europe and the boldness of contemporary ballet.

The UMass performance will include four pieces ranging from the romantic, classical ballet "Four Last Songs," choreographed by Rudi van Dantzig to the music of Richard Strauss, to a versatile ballet "Pulcinella Variations," choreographed by Michael Smuin to the music of Igor Stravinsky.

The third piece, "Songs without Words," premiered this season. Although van Manen's ballet is performed in bare feet, it is ultimately classical. Danced to the music of Felix Mendelssohn, the four couples stress form more than quantity of movement. The fourth piece, Norbert Vasak's "Belong," is considered by critics to be a powerful and dramatic piece of choreography.

Premiere Danseuse Bonnie Wyckoff, a Massachusetts native, premiered with the Boston Ballet at the age of 10. She has danced with the Joffrey Ballet and dance enthusiasts may remember her role as soloist in Agnes do Mille's "Rodeo" or Araiz's "Rite of Spring."

Joost Pelt, the company's Dutch previer danseur, did not start his ballet training until the ate of 16. He progressed quickly, joined the Canadian company in 1977 and was promoted to soloist for the next season.

This will be the second major dance program in an eight-day span. The Alvin Ailey Dance Company is here February 12-14. Tickets for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet may be puchased at the Fine Arts Center Box Office for the February 19 performance.

Due to R.S.O. Regulations
All Sugarbush Drivers
Must Submit Riders' Names
& SIGN AN RSO FORM
Ski Club Office C.C. 106

5th ANNUAL VALENTINE'S SPORT SALE
Feb 14, 15, 16
30% off everything
with the color red in it
Racquetball—Racquets from Head, Extelon, Leach, Vittert, Aldila.
Squash—Racquets from Brays, Donnay, Cleaves, Manta, Dunlop.
Tennis—Racquets from Rossignol, Head, Swauwaert, Yahama.
Alti Wear Vests & Parkas, Turtlenecks, Hats.
Puma & Pony Basketball Shoes, Head, Pony, Diadora, Converse Tennis Shoes
Running Shoes from Tiger, New Balance, Diadora
178A N. Pleasant Thurs til 8 253-2719

DIRECT FORMULA ENTRY SCIENTIFIC
The 5100.
The incredibly advanced calculator that speaks the language of science. With direct formula entry and rolling writer display for entering up to 80 steps. 24-character dot matrix alphanumeric LCD. Operates in three modes: AER, COMP & STAT. Can compute up to ten variables. Safe Guard™ memory. Edit, correct or test your formula without using a pencil. Recall it at the touch of a key.
SHARP

One of the new Sharp Scientifics.
our price only $91.50
the calculator store
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

'Budweiser
12 oz. cans7.49/cs
unlimited quantities
Monday thru Thursday

Schmidt's Bock 12 oz NR's.....1.75/6
Cartier Blanc de Blancs 750 ml.....2.25 bottle
23.99 case
Giacobazzi Lambrusco.....2.75 750 ml

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

Calendar

Five College Arts

Thursday, Feb. 14
Twelfth Night will be performed Feb. 14-17, and 21-23 at the Performing Arts Center at Hampshire College, 8 p.m., Tickets $2.00 for students; all other $2.50.
Alvin Ailey, in his final performance of three-day run at Fine ARts Center Concert Hall, 8 p.m.
Whale Art Workshop for children 8-12 thru Feb. 16. Two hour sessions in paintings, drawings and sculpture, using the whale (fee). Culminating in showing of these works in Gallery 2 through March 1. Show is free.
"Gone Fission," an original play by George Angell, in Curtain Theter of the Fine ARts Center, Thursday and Friday at 4:30 p.m. Admission free.

Friday, Feb. 15
Art exhibition at Herter Gallery, now thru Feb. 21. Gallery 1 and Sun Gallery: Tom Shepherd "An Installation." Gallery 2: Lorna Bieber "Aerial Views and Floor Plans: Paintings and Collages on Paper."
Ramayana will be sented at Smith College, Feb. 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. An Indian puppet drama.
Last day of Black History Month exhibits in Student Union Gallery, Room 115a. Open 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sunday, Feb. 16
Rosh Hodesh (New Moon) ceremony. A UMass first! Led by Maxine Kronish, Hillel Director at Brown University, 3 p.m. in Dukes Room (Student Union 310). Sponsored by Hillel as part of Jewish Arts Festival.
National Dance Company of Senegal, at Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, 8 p.m.

Monday, Feb. 18
Student Union Gallery will feature the work of Gerry DiCicco and Michael Ledgere, two local artists, from Feb. 18-22 in Room 115a. Open 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Tuesday, Feb. 19
Royal Winnipeg Ballet, at Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, 8 p.m.
Annual Model Railroad Show in Student Union-Ballroom UMass, 1-5 p.m. Sponsored by Amherst Railway Society. Free admission.
Los Olvidados, a Louis Bunuel film in Spanish with English subtitles, to be shown at Northampton High School Little theater, at 7:30 p.m. Free admission.

Wednesday, Feb. 20
Making a Ketubah (marriage document). A workshop with Rabbi Saul Perlmutter, at Herter Hall, Room 207 at 7 p.m. Sponsored by Hillel as part of Jewish Arts Festival.
The Massachusetts Woodwing Quintet, an in-resident group from UMass will perform at Forbes Library in Northampton at 7:30 p.m. Free admission.
John D'Armand, bassist, in concert at Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m. Sponsored by UMass Dept. of Music and Dance.

Club Listings

Blue Wall, Campus Center, UMass—Feb. 15 & 16 "Martian Highway", Happy Hour 3-6 Mon.-Fri., Tues. night "Pogo a Go-Go": new wave and reggae music with Pete.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all happy hours and chicken and wings daily 4-6.

Creedo's Coffeehouse, 111 Pleasant St., Northampton—Feb. 15 Sandy Russell, original blues and flok, Feb. 16 Eric Miller, folk and blues, Feb. 19 Empty Pockets, Irish music jam, Feb. 20 Carolyn Mazel.

Flat Street Club, Flat St., Brattleboro, Vt—Nightclub.

Hot-L Warren, South Deerfield—Drinks served daily.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight—pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview, Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst—Fri. night Happy Hour, free buffet.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 2-7 p.m. Live entertainment by Katie Jay Sat. night.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco and drinks.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Wed. is "Pub Mug Night" and Thurs. is "Two for One Night" with live entertainment by Two Way Street on Fri. and Sat. Disco with Casey Sun. and Jim Plunkett Wed. $1 cover.

Quonset Disco, 239 Russell St., Hadley—Wed. free dance lessons, Thurs.-Sat. disco. $1 cover.

Rahar's, 70 Old South St., Northampton—open at 6 p.m. Happy Hours Mon.-Fri. 4-8 p.m. Sat., Sun. and Mon. free pool and 35 cent Miller draft, half-price drinks.

Rusty Nail, Hadley Rd., Sunderland—Feb. 15 Loose Caboose, Feb. 16 Pousette Dart Band, Feb. 17 A.T. Doe & the Dividens, Feb. 19 and 20 Martian Highway. Closed Mondays.

Rusty Scupper, 539 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m.

Second Fret Coffeehouse, 21 Pleasant St., Northampton—Ken Perlman, finger-style guitarist Feb. 16 at 8 and 10 p.m.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton.

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Wednesday
STEVE SPELLMAN
All Night Balloon Special
6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

THE BAMBOO HUT
LUNCHEON SPECIALS
Mon-Sat served only 11 am - 3 pm
584-0182
No. 1 EGG ROLL Pork Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $2.20
No. 2 EGG FOO YOUNG Pork Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $2.20
No. 3 EGG ROLL Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $2.50
No. 4 FRIED SHRIMP Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $2.95
No. 5 EGG ROLL Scallops Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $3.20
No. 6 GOLDFINGERS 007 Scallops Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $3.50
No. 7 EGG ROLL Beef and Mushroms Pork Fried Rice $3.60
No. 8 BARBECUED SPARE RIBS Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice $3.70
Many a la Carte Specials
Take Out Orders
36 King St. Northampton

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
Only Area Showing
STARTS FRIDAY
at 7:00 and 9:00
"Breathtakingly lovely." —Judith Crist
"ONE OF THIS YEAR'S BEST." —Archer Winsten, New York Post
Lee Remick in THE EUROPEANS by Henry James
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

the soup kitchen
scrumptious homemade soups salads chili quiche lunch specials great desserts beer & wine
150 main st northampton 584-4458

The rusty nail
Presents
Sat. Feb. 16

POUSETTE-DART BAND
Tickets $5.00 in advance & at the door
Fri. Feb. 22

David Johansen
Tickets $4.00 in advance & at the door
Tonight, Feb. 14, FX. 25c Drafts, No Cover with UMass ID
Fri. Feb. 15 Loose Caboose, "Reggae"
Sat. Feb. 23 James Montgomery
Sun. Feb. 24 Root Boy Slim
Thurs. Mar. 6 Steve Forbert
Tickets Available at all Ticketron Outlets
Rt. 47 Sunderland
Open till 2
665-4937
24 hour taped message

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPT MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer Vs. Kramer PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK Dolby Stereo G (5:30 @ $1.50) 8:15
JOHN BELUSHI 1941 PG (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
GEORGE ART BURNS CARNEY GOING IN STYLE PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 5 HADLEY, MASS.
ROBERT REDFORD JANE FONDA THE ELECTRIC HORSEMAN PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN The JERK R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Richard Gere American Gigolo R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
ALAN ALDA THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

Elections to fill vacancies in the Student Senate will be held Feb. 21 & 22. Nomination papers are available in the Senate Office Rm. 420 S.U. Nomination papers due Friday Feb. 15 For an absentee ballot see your H.R. You can make a difference.

Xerox rock wars
Gordon's latest

By BRETT MILANO
Collegian Staff

ROBERT GORDON
Bad Boy(RCA)

Robert Gordon has an obvious love for the rockabilly music that he performs, but sometimes his very sincerety becomes his undoing.

Some of his earlier records sounded like impeccably reproduced versions of his Fifties idols, and such copies never have the power of the originals. Gordon seemed to be working himself into a corner by his refusal to take chances with the material. There's not much need for a Xerox copy of an Eddie Cochran song, when Cochran's own greatest hits can (and should) be gotten for $2.98 in your local cutout bin.

On Bad Boy, Gordon has finally loosened up a bit, and produced his best album. He seems to have realized that he can experiment with his sound, and still be true to his rockabilly roots. The first side of this album has a characteristic 50's sound, but the songs are all obscure enough to merit redoing.

Side two, however, is a gem. Lead guitarist Chris Spedding uses some 70's-style amplification; some additional players are broght in for pedal steel, keyboards and sax; and Gordon sings from the heart. Gordon also includes one of his own songs, "Born to Lose."

Andrew Young is in Iran!
Why? What's He Doing?
Find Out Tuesday Feb. 19th
8:00 P.M. in the Curry Hicks Cage,
when D.V.P. brings him to speak on
"America's Foreign Policy"

Tickets $2.00 UMass students $3.00 Non
Available at TIX Box Office STUDENT UNION

Progressive Hour
Friday & Saturday
Most Drinks
8:30-9 50c
9-9:30 75c
9:30-10 95c
QR available for party rental
Call 253-9214
QR disco
Friday Eric-DJ
Saturday Wizard

Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity
proudly presents
The Beatles
Live, in a benefit Concert
Tonight - Thursday, Feb. 14
9:00 PM
14 Elm St. Amherst
talk to Ezra for info.
256-6837 549-1347

Be My Valentine

NOTES
Dot—
Got a great idea!
Let's get our hair cut together at Great X.
Shampoo, Cut, Blow Dry and Complete Styling is only $10.00
Date? Great!
See you then!
Jim

No Appointments
GREAT EXPECTATIONS®
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
Hampshire Mall
Hadley

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 85 | Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst | Friday, February 15, 1980

Index...

News Digest.....page 2
Black Affairs.....page 4
Editorial/Opinion.....page 7
Around Campus.....page 9
Classifieds.....page 12
Comics, DC Menu.....page 13
Sports.....page 15, 16

Safety program to go into effect this spring

By BRIAN FITZMAURICE
Special to the Collegian

Armed with a $2 million grant from the federal government the Campus Pedestrian Safety Program, which has been in the works since 1978, is scheduled to begin this spring.

In 1978 the University Health and Safety Committee conducted a variety of studies on pedestrian movement in the Southwest residential area and Director of University Planning Jack Littlefield, along with the UMass Board of Trustees and other University officials, developed an extensive plan to re-design the exterior roadways around campus.

Littlefield said the program calls for the following improvements to be made around campus:

— —straightening out Governor Drive back from North Pleasant St., and improving lighting and walkways along the Drive.

— —closing the median strip at the intersection of Massachusetts and Sunset Aves.

— —building walkways from Massachusetts Ave. to the Southwest tunnel.

— —installing a traffic light at the intersection of Commonwealth and Massachusetts Aves.

— —double lanes and improved lighting on Commonwealth Ave.

— —left and right stack up lanes at the intersection on Commonwealth and Massachusetts Aves.

— —eliminating the Northbound bypass on North Pleasant St. or placing a traffic light at the Newman Center.

— —moving the barns from the right side of Commonwealth Ave. to provide better visibility — —installing a traffic light at the intersection of the Campus Center drive and Commonwealth Ave.

— —closing the lower parking lots with curbs, entrances, exits and pedestrian walkways.

Also tentatively proposed, and subject to the approval by several interested groups, is the installation of a fence along the median strip of Massachusetts Avenue from the Southwest underpass to the Whitmore Administration Building, and another fence along Commonwealth Avenue.

The Task Force on Violence on Campus, formed by the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy last year, proposed a three part plan to improve "after dark pedestrian safety." The plan calls for an increased usage of pedestrian walkways, the establishment of improved

TURN TO PAGE 3

Panel hears UMass officials

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

Representative James Collins, D-Amherst, said yesterday that University officials "did a very good job" in a presentation to the state Commission on the Reorganization of Higher Education.

UMass President David Knapp, and Chancellors Henry Koffler (Amherst), Robert Corrigan (Boston), and Robert Tranquado (Worcester) fielded questions from the 25-member commission, on a range of issues and problems confronting the university. These issues included attrition, student-teacher ratios, and operations at the Boston and Worcester campuses.

Yesterday's hearing was the last of five preliminary hearings by the commission, whose aim is to develop a plan to reorganize the structure of public higher education in Massachusetts.

Though no proposals were issued yesterday, Collins said he thought the commission had a feeling of confidence in the new university administration.

During his initial statement, Knapp provided an overview of the university's three campuses and told the commission the university is experiencing "inevitable stress" from "continued inflation, demographic change, and long-term shifts in enrollment patterns."

One commission member queried Knapp about the possibility of consolidating graduate studies in the state at the university level.

"Undergraduate education is, and will remain, part of the university's mission. But it is graduate work, associated with research that distinquishes the university, any university, from a college," Knapp said, stressing the importance for both programs.

When questioned about the Amherst's campus reputation as "zooMass", Knapp said he "deplored some of the things that got publicity" as well as the actions by students themselves.

"With 18,000 students, in a very restricted atmosphere, you're going to have behavioral problems," Knapp said. Chancellor Koffler added he is combating anti-social behavior, and it's relation to alcohol use through control of alcohol.

Koffler also announced the formation of a Commission on Civility and Human Relations to investigate and develop programs to alleviate racial problems on campus.

In response to questions concerning the student attrition rate, Knapp said many students were leaving, or "stopping out" for financial, academic, or personal reasons. He termed it a "complex sociological phenomenon." Knapp said increasing numbers of older students are replacing the decreasing number of younger students.

Knapp said the commission, when considering reorganization, should "maintain a strong statewide system" of higher education. He said the commission should examine institution's structure to insure it can match the needs of the people at the institution.

Dorothy Bush, daughter of Republican presidential candidate George Bush, campaigns for her father in front of the Hatch yesterday. (Staff photo by Richard Allen)

Pulitzer Prize winner George McGregor Burnes of Williams College expresses his support of Sen. Edward Kennedy's position as the liberal-radical candidate in Thompson Hall last night. See story. p. 14. (Staff photo by Themis Parodos)

Program will let students request singles for a fee

By LAUREL HANSCOM
Special to the Collegian

Next semester students will be able to request single rooms for an additional fee under a new program, which has been designated as V.I.R.U.S.—Variably Increasing Rate Utilization Structure

V.I.R.U.S. is a program designed to meet a growing student demand for single living accomodations, said Gerald Quarles, housing assignment coordinator. The Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office (SAREO) has conducted surveys which indicate that 44.4 percent of the students surveyed would like to participate in the program.

Under the new program students who wish to live in a designated single room can pay $50 more a semester. Other rate increases included a double room occupied by one person which will cost an additional $75 and two people living in a triple room will each pay $25 more. The additional money will be budgeted into the Housing Office to help run the system, Quarles said.

Quarles said priority for designated singles will vary from area to area, and will be based on factors such as seniority.

Exceptions to the program will be resident assistants, who are required, where possible, to live in single rooms, and handicapped students. For handicapped students, however, waiver requests will have to be approved by the Handicapped Fee Waivers Board. If the waiver is denied, it can be appealed to the Housing Office for the final decision, Quarles explained.

If for any reason a student is left without a roommate, he must either pay the additional fee, find a roommate, or move in with someone. House staff must consolidate students so that no one can reside in a room without a roommate. This avoids the conflict of some students paying the required fee while others do not, Quarles said.

A memorandum from Quarles stated that other universities and colleges have been using this service for years with favorable results. Quarles also noted that the proposed plan for UMass will be considerably cheaper than at other schools. A double room used as a single is $90 extra at Pennsylvania State in comparison to UMass's proposed $75 extra. The University of Vermont charges approximately $90 more than UMass for a double room used as a single. It was also discovered that a few institutions offered this service only if the stu-

TURN TO PAGE 3

Dan Rather, right, grins as Walter Cronkite answers questions yesterday at a news conference in New York City. The conference was held to announce that Rather, the "60 Minutes" correspondent who gained national attention with his questioning of Richard Nixon during the Watergate scandal, will succeed Cronkite as anchorman of the "CBS Evening News." (AP Laserphoto)

DIGEST

King admits part in loan deal

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Edward J. King confirmed yesterday that he received a fee — as a private businessman — in 1975 for arranging a multi-million dollar loan for a Connecticut dog track owner.

But King said he knew nothing about whether or not his former business client had violated Connecticut financial disclosure laws.

The business deal was arranged long before King even began his 1978 gubernatorial campaign.

King, appearing at a news conference dealing with energy issues, refused to discuss details of the loan he arranged for Edward Keelan, owner of the Plainfield, Conn., dog track.

However, he did not deny a report in The Hartford Courant that he had received $15,000 for setting up a loan — believed to total at least $2 million — from the Home Federal Savings Bank in Worcester for the track.

"I was in business for myself," the governor recalled. "I performed a task, I was paid. I don't discuss my clients."

Asked if he had reported that fee as income, King replied, "Of course, I did."

However, when asked if he was aware Connecticut law may have been violated if Keelan failed to report the loan, King said, "No, I have no knowledge of that." In answer to another question, he added that he would cooperate with any Connecticut authorities investigating the transaction.

King unveils energy plan

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Edward J. King unveiled his energy legislation yesterday, including proposals for low-cost energy "audits" and low-cost weatherization loans for landlords and homeowners.

King said he would ask the Legislature to approve $3 million to $6 million for low-cost loans to help low-and-middle income families pay for large energy-saving improvements to their property.

In announcing the proposed program at a Statehouse news conference, King said it would "finally provide adequate incentive for conservation."

He said it also would "slow down the outflow of dollars to overseas countries" for oil.

Negotiator says U.S.and Iran in agreement

By The Associated Press

A key negotiator on the American hostages in Tehran said yesterday the United States and "the Iranians" have agreed they will be freed with the opening of a U.N. inquiry into alleged crimes of the deposed shah. America's U.N. ambassador said the situation was not yet resolved.

Sean MacBride, former foreign minister of Ireland who has been actively involved in the crisis since the hostages were seized Nov. 4, said the inquiry would "investigate the extent to which the regime of the shah may have committed offenses under international law."

But in a speech in Cairo, U.N. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry said: "We have not gotten a resolution to the hostages question ..."

McHenry, on a two-week, seven-nation Mideast tour, added it was "clear to me" a solution will come "within the framework of the United Nations and using U.N. machinery."

In Washington, the Carter administration called on Iranian officials to clarify their demands. "We are going to have to see some more definition" of what the Iranians want in exchange for freeing the hostages, said Hodding Carter, the State Department spokesman.

Dismissing speculation of their imminent release, a senior State Department official said: "You would die several times over if you held your breath" for it.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

"There are hundreds perhaps thousands of political prisoners in the United States"

What Else Does Andrew Young Have to Say?

Find out Tues. Feb. 19th at 8:00 P.M. in the Curry Hicks Cage

when he speaks on America's Foreign Policy

Tickets Available At TIX - Student Union
$2.00 Students - $3.00 All Others
Get Your Tickets Early!

BUSCH
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #3
ROYUE
FI A GINTNAW
NITCOAVA
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM

IDB TIPS

Monday Class Schedule

On Wednesday, February 20, the University will be following a Monday class schedule.

The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore
545-1555

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course

Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.

MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.

NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824-7888
Ask for Operator 116

JOIN THE SENATE!
Last day for Returning nomination papers to fill Senate vacancies. Nomination papers must be returned today by 5:00 to Room 420 S.U.
YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Safe energy group confronts candidates

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

The Campaign For Safe Energy, a local group opposing nuclear power, has entered the political arena by confronting the candidates on alternative energy policies.

"Our idea is to confront the candidates on nuclear power," said John Pepi, an organizer from the Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (Mass PIRG). Pepi said the campaign is structured to bring the energy issues to the candidates and possible delegates.

"We are bi-partisan," Pepi said, "we don't support candidates, we raise issues." Howard Cooper, also with the campaign, said the leaders are supposed to take the lead and "the lead of America is to turn away from nuclear power".

Apparently the group which has been publicized in Newsweek and The Boston Globe is having an effect on the candidates. In a Feb. 10 ABC-TV slot on "Issues and Answers", Republican candidate Howard Baker said, "in many meetings that I attend, there is a group...protesting nuclear power. And frankly, I dreaded that" Pepi says his group has hit Republican candidate John Anderson four times in two days.

Although CSE is an issues oriented group, and supports no single candidate, the group's views are best reflected in the energy policies of Democratic presidential candidates Jerry Brown and Edward Kennedy. "We're not closet Jerry Brown types," he said.

Last week, of 48 Massachusetts caucuses, 24 localities decided not to recognize the group, but of the remaining 24, 19 voted to recognize to Campaign For Energy. Cooper said candidates do not want to be bound or tied down, and elected delegates just want to go to New York, and don't want to be commited to an issue. "We think we succeeded," he said.

According to Pepi the goal of CSE is to ask specific questions designed to pin down candidates on nuclear issues. Pepi said they have a network of staffers who confront candidates at their every appearance. He also said students were recruited in January to go to New Hampshire and spend time with citizens as well as confront candidates.

Pepi said the crucial part of the campaign is volunteers. He said students should spend time, one or two weekends, at the primary areas going door to door, and confronting candidates. According to Pepi, the group has made significant in-roads at candidate appearances. "There are three entourages at a candidate's speech; the media, candidate supporters, and us," he said.

The Campaign for Safe Energy along with Musicians United for Safe Energy (MUSE) will be presenting a benefit concert Feb. 23 at Concord, N.H. Arlo Guthrie, John Hall, and the Pousette Dart band will be appearing along with a surprise guest. Last July a MUSE concert held in New York attracted thousands of anti-nukers. The concert featured Neil Young, Joni Mitchell, and Jackson Brown.

"The people have to be informed," he said, adding that Americans are being led to believe electric company ads, like the one that asks "do you want to freeze in the dark, if nuclear power plants are abolished?" "This type of thing has to stop."

Tenants win in court case

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Six tenants of the Colonial Village apartments in Amherst won a ruling in Superior Court in Northampton yesterday which reversed a lower court order calling for their eviction.

The six—Harry Cocaine, Carol MacColl, Jeremiah Riordan, Mary Wentworth, Charles Mihle and James Getchell—were ordered out of their apartments last September by Hampshire District Court Judge Sean Dunphy. The order was issued by Dunphy at the request of landlord Louis R. Cohn who contended that the six, along with 36 other tenants, failed to notify him of their intention to remain in their apartments following the expiration of their leases.

The tenants argued that they were not notified of a rent increase imposed by Cohn and that their old leases had contained a renewal clause, allowing them the option of renewing their leases. Also, last September, the tenants charge they were evicted because of their active involvement in the Colonial Village Tenants Union.

In addition to the order allowing the six to remain in their homes, the tenants were also awarded damages equal to one-and one-half months rent. Wentworth and Riordan were each awarded $300, MacColl and Cocaine $150 and Mihle and Getchell $225.

"This is an important decision for tenants in this area," said Attorney Stephen L. Baumohl who represented the tenants.

"This demonstrates that it is possible for tenants to pursue legal rights in the courts."

Baumohl said the 12 person jury agreed with the tenants' contention that they were evicted because of their tenants union activities.

"It is now possible to fight back and not be pushed around by landlords," Baumohl said.

Gov. Edward J. King administers the oath of office to four appointees to the UMass Board of Trustees who were sworn in during a ceremony in Boston earlier this month. (AP Laserphoto)

Gov. King swears in four to Board of Trustees

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

Gov. Edward J. King swore in four appointees to the UMass Board of Trustees and announced the selection of one other last Friday in Boston.

George R. Baldwin of Wellesley was out of state and will take the oath of office at a later date.

The trustees, who will serve varying lenghts on the 26-member panel are attorney James B. Krumsiek of Longmeadow, Andrew C. Knowles of Bolton, David J. Beaubien of Sudbury, and Einar Paul Robsham of Framingham.

The new trustees are replacing Simon Sawtelle, Gavin Robertson, and Haskell Kassler whose terms expired and Frances McNulty who resigned.

Knowles, 43, has been a vice-president of the Digital Equipment Corporation since 1972. Prior to joining Digital in 1969, he spent nine years with Radio Corporation of America (RCA). He is a graduate of the UMass School of Engineering and Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Sloan Executive Program. His term runs through January 1986.

Krumsiek, 42, a present member of the panel, was reappointed to complete McNulty's term. He is a partner in the Springfield Law firm of Bukley, Richardson and Gelinas. A former member of the Longmeadow School Committee, Krumsiek is a graduate of Amherst College and Boston College Law School. His term expires in December 1983.

Beaubien, 45, has been a vice-president of EG&G, Inc., a developer of environmental instruments, and joined the corporate staff of EG&G through a merger. A graduate of the UMass School of Engineering, he received the University's Engineering Alumni Distinguished Service Award in 1978. His term runs through January 1987.

Robsham, 51, is a real estate developer who has been involved in the development, construction and management of various properties including single and multi-family home units, apartment, motels, restaurants, commercial properties and roads for 30 years. He is a graduate of Calvin Coolidge College and undertook graduate studies at Boston College. His term runs through January 1987.

Baldwin, 36, is group vice-president and director of Kaler Carney Liffler & Company, Inc., an international insurance and reinsurance group. He is president of the Boston Reinsurance Corporation. Baldwin is a graduate of Georgetown University. His term runs through January 1986.

FREE! Reusable 20 oz. Olympic Commemorative Cup

When you buy a 20 oz. cup of COKE

Available at the
Coffee Shop Bluewall Hatch Cafeteria
Campus Center Food Service

★ Safety

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

security, and increased lighting.

The task force also proposed the following specific improvements:

— —improving ten miles of existing pedestrian walkways to and from Sylvan, Northeast, Central, and Southwest residential areas to the Fine Arts Center, Campus Center, the Student Union, and surrounding parking lots.

— —improving lighting

— —establishing security patrols until one or 2 a.m.

— —closing Acedemic buildings at 10:30 p.m.

— —improving lighting and patrolling of dorm parking areas

— —rescheduling late night bus service

This proposal has gone out to special interest groups for comment on security, timing, and the selection of walk and bus ways. The next phase of the proposal, lighting intensity and placement studies, is to be carried out by the University Planning Office. Funds will then be gathered, and the sequence of construction will be determined.

★ Singles

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

dent agreed to pay twice the normal rate to use a double as a single.

For students expecting to live on campus next semester, there is a need to become familiar with the V.I.R.U.S. program before room choosing in April. Literature explaining the program is currently being circulated by the housing office.

Black Affairs

Former US Ambassador to the United Nations Andrew Young will be speaking at the Curry Hicks Cage Tuesday Feb. 19 at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Tix, $2.00 for UMass Students with ID's.

Harlem photographer brings works to UMass

The most comprehensive survey of Afro-American life in Harlem, viewed through the camera lens of a resident photographer, may be seen in the works of James Van Derzee.

The largest body of these photographs was taken in Harlem during the period in which that community was the undisputed cultural capital of Black America. Van Derzee is recognized as the dean emeritus of Black photographers in America. Essentially self taught, he is Harlem's most significant photographic biographer.

The most prolific years of Van Derzee's career may be loosely divided into two periods: the early family years in rural areas of Massachusetts and Virginia, during which he photographed relatives and friends informally in natural setting, and the urban studio years with emphasis on the Harlem Renaissance—that brief cultural phenomenon, dating approximately from 1919 to the stock market crash in 1929. Van Derzee's photographic work continued until the late 60's.

James Van Derzee was born on June 29, 1886, in Lenox, Massachusetts and his photographic career began in the 1900's when American photography was still in its early stages of development. During that period the photographer's basic materials consisted of heavy glass plates and flash power. His idealism was manifested through the perfecting of a retouching technique which was used in almost all of his portraits.

Van Derzee had the distinction of being the official photographer of Marcus Garvey, these photographs comprise a most significant visual documentation of that pivotal period in Afro-American history.

Most of the Black celebrities of the twenties and thirties who lived in Harlem or visited the community appeared to have frequented Van Derzee's GGG studio. They included Florence Mills, Countee Cullen, Jack Johnson, Harry Wills, Kid Chocolate, Ferdinand Q. Morton, Sam Langford, Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, the Mills Brothers, Hazel Scott, Adam Clayton Powell, Sr., his son Adam Jr., Father Divine and Daddy Grace.

Van Derzee was a favorite photographer of Madame A'Leilia Walker, daughter of the hair products tycoon, Madame Washington of the Apex School of Beauty Culture was also one of Van Derzee's distinguished clientele.

Van Derzee was a master printer with a fine sense for detail and texture. One of Van Derzee's most interesting techniques was the multiple-image photograph which appeared in American photography as early as the 1840's.

Almost every aspect of life in Harlem was investigated by Van Derzee: the frequent rallies and parades, active-duty and returning World War I soldiers, Elks, Masons, Moorish Jews, Greek letter organizations, sporting-life people, fashion plates, children's groups, street scenes, genre subjects, athletic teams, elaborately furnished interiors, and numerous church groups and activities.

James Van Derzee, pictured above is said to be Black America's foremost photographic historian. A collection of his works will be on exhibit until Feb. 25 at the Agusta Savage Memorial Art Gallery on the first floor of the New Africa House from 9-5 p.m. on weekdays.

Alvin Ailey brings audience to its feet

A capacity full audience at the Fine Arts Center, furiously clapped its hands as the curtains closed for the final time, last night on the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre.

For the past three nights, the Alvin Ailey Dancers have succeeded in doing more than merely entertaining their audiences. Not only does one sit in awe of the tremendous control and agility of the dancers, but the music and the movements presented allows the audience to become enmeshed into the world the dancer is created.

The first performance was entitled "Memoria," dedicated to the memory of choreographer/teacher, Joyce Trisler. The movement was very poetic and flowing, although the ending produced a delightful twist. The dancers moved quickly into a jazzy beat, which ended the piece in uptempo.

Following a short intermission, the troupe entered a brassy number entitled "Flowers." Maxine Sherman superbly played the part of a street woman, turned model, followed constantly by cameras and flashing lights. However, she is also followed by a pimp (Alistair Butler) who succeeds in making her a dope addict.

The troupe exhibited the talent that they are so famous for as Sherman moved through a type of hell while tripping on drugs. Her agility and control brought one into the agony of a junkie's world.

The final scene was so realistically done, that it tempted one to climb on stage and help her. Sherman adopted even the facial expressions of a junkie and amazingly had very poetic convulsions as she tore about the stage in a drunken frenzy.

As she laid dead in the middle of the stage, roses were strewn over her body as the cameras once again flashed about her. The saddest part about the number is that the pimp has cooly stepped off the stage and probably on to his next victim.

Dudley Williams danced to "A Song For You" by Leon Russell sung by Donny Hathaway. The versatile Williams exhibited expert control, convincing the audience that he was truly dancing for his love.

The final movement of the night was dedicated to Otis Redding. The troupe moved in funky, jazzy beats to Redding's "I Can't Turn You Loose," "Satisfication" and "I've Been Loving You Too Long." The movement provided very comical movements when Masazumi Chaya and Marilyn Banks played that silly game of hard to get.

However, yesterday conveniently being Valentine's Day, the number ended with all couples happy and getting good ole "Satisfication."

Those that didn't attend the Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre have missed one of the finest performances that have ever been performed on the Fine Arts Center Stage. An article about the dance troupe will never fully tell a reader the beautiful experience of watching Third World dancers perform to black music choreographed by a black (Alvin Ailey). The experience is definitely unique and the talents and people involved are ones that should be admired, awed and enjoyed everywhere.

Karen Thomas
Black Affairs Staff

Blooming Oneness

Brothers
In the firey mellowness
of your lions
Born black to be strong and proud turn to who is darker than gray
Allow our natures to merge it's sweet whiteness
For my lions too roar for the free merging beauty of our oneness
As we turn

Annie Carpenter
10-7-75©

Watch out for the upcoming Black History Month Crossword Puzzle in the next issue of Black Affairs. There will be a $10.00 prize for the winner!

Announcements

Drum

Drum invites you to join in the interpretations of the Black Experience. Poetry, essays, fiction, photography, and artworks are now being considered for the Fall-Spring '79-80 edition of Drum. Deadline is Wednesday March 12, 1980.

Film

Black History: Lost, Stolen, or Strayed—Bill Cosby guides us through a history of attitudes—black and white—that have shaped the life of Black Americans. Explores the complex feelings that the black and white people have for each other, discusses black achievements that went unrecorded in American history, and reviews the traditional nonrecognition of Africa's influence on Western culture, Tuesday, February 19 at 3:30 p.m. Dwight Lounge and at 7:00 p.m. at Crabtree Music Room.

Open House

Everywoman's Center Open House Wed., Feb. 20 at 4-6 pm at Wilder Hall, 2nd floor. Staff will be available to provide information about: Counseling, training, advocacy, resource and referral, support groups, skill development, organizing and workshops. For further information call 545-0883.

Concert

She's back again Semenya McCord in Concert February 20 at 8:30 p.m. She will be performing at the Iron Horse on 20 Center Street, Northampton. Tickets will be on sale at Tix.

Dance

The National Dance Company of Senegal will appear at the Fine Arts Center Sunday February 17, 1980. For further information on time and ticket prices call 545-2511.

UPC making contacts for possible concert acts

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON—Eight members of the UMass Union Program Council, the student producer of the Spring Concert, Blue Wave acts and other campus performances, are attending a conference here to make contacts for possible acts for this semester's Spring Concert and other dates.

This spring, the program council probably will not attempt to get last year's big attraction, the Grateful Dead, and will strive to get smaller groups of similiar quality, Art Edelstein, program council coordinator, said yesterday afternoon.

Edelstein, one of the eight students here, said that the Dead has expressed interest in another spring performance, but the program council would prefer new groups—and not any that Amherst residents would be "leery of."

The conference is organized by the National Entertainment and Campus Activities Assoc. The trip began Tuesday at the Washington Sheraton Hotel and ends Sunday morning. The trip is costing the program council about $1,500, Edelstein said.

This spring, the program council probably will not attempt to get last year's big attraction, the Grateful Dead.

Groups, both new and established, audition nightly at the conference, which has attracted about 2,500 student producers nationwide, Edelstein said.

Last year, the program council signed Roy Ayres, the leadoff group in the 1979 Spring Concert, Robert Gordon and several Blue Wall acts, Edelstein said. Edelstein has participated in this confeence the past two years.

The conference is held at a time when most groups' schedules are complete through April, but serves as a place to make contact for future deals and trains new members of the program council, Edelstein said.

The council, totally student run, handles an operating of about $350,000, $60,000 of which is subsidized by various student funds.

Also in Washington, are UMass Student Government Assoc. Co-presidents Brian Burke and Rich LaVoice, who were invited to attend a White House briefing today.

Salesman Don Bush defies buyers to reap the benefits of his "fresh flowers" yesterday in front of the Student Union. (Staff photo by Richard Allen)

Coalition plans anti-nuke session to be held here this month

By JEFF BAGLEY
Special to the Collegian

The Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN) last evening finalized plans for the New England Student Conference for a Nuclear Free Future to be held at UMass February 22-24.

The Conference will provide a comprehensive education on the technological, social, economic, and political aspects of the nuclear power issues. Speakers and workshops throughout the weekend will provide both expert and grass roots knowledge of these topics.

The conference will provide information for organizing campus resources on nuclear issues in conjunction with other campuses nationwide and to learn about specific contributions that can be made in the fight against nuclear power during the spring.

Feb. 22 will be devoted to "Messages of Solidarity." Speakers will include Bob Gustafson, a Native American activist, who will speak on "Uranium Mining and Native Americans (Indians), and Daniel Sheehan from the Karen Silkwood Memorial who will speak on "The Significance of the Silkwood Family's Successful Fight with Kerr-McGee." The day will end with the film "The War at Home" produced and directed by Glen Silber and Barry Alexander Brown.

Saturday will be devoted largely to workshops which will include "The Nuclear Fuel Cycle," a slideshow by the Boston Clamshell Alliance; "Alternative Energy," solar slides by Dr. Robert Case, Prof. of Engineering at Northeastern University; and "Energy Crisis" by Joe Allen of UMass/Boston. At 7:00 p.m. Barry Commoner, possible Citizen's Party presidential candidate and Anna Gyorgy, author of No Nukes, will speak.

BUSCH
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #5
LAWTEL
URYO DNFI
ROF UYO
NACVAT
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM

Brandeis University
JACOB HIATT INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL
What does it offer you?
- a semester of study in Israel in the Fall term
- coursework in English on the political, economic and social development of Israel and in its language, history and archaeology
- a strong program of Hebrew language study
- important internship opportunities in social service agencies in Jerusalem
- field trips, study trips, interviews with prominent Israelis, a kibbutz visit
- financial aid is available

Application deadline: March 15
For further information, see your Study Abroad advisor or write:
Office of International Programs
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02254
(617) 647-2422

Stockbridge School of Agriculture, UMass
Presents: The Third Annual
Professional Development Day
9:00 to 5:00
Wednesday February 20, 1980 in the CCA
Guest Speaker: Mr. Frederic Winthrop Jr.
Commissioner
Massachusetts Department of Agriculture
Speaking On:
Is There a Future for Massachusetts Agriculture?
All Agricultural/Horticultural Students Welcome
ADMISSION FREE

WARMUPS
A special purchase of first quality warmups in all sizes and many colors.
in our Sportswear Shop!
ONLY $9.95!!
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

do it with a smile!

Winter Woes Sale
No snow & warm weather are bringing smiles to runners and oil bill payers, but are causing us to frown about our winter gear sales. So take advantage of the situation by redeeming the sales coupons below — Northampton only.

X-C Skis ½ price
Save on any purchase of ski, poles, boots or clothes when you buy $50 minimum. net.
expires 2/29/80

Timberland Boots $20. off
Save on these 6" or 8" tall insulated and waterproof boots. Men's & Women's expires 2/29/80

Class 5 Down $25. off
Save on any parka regularly priced at $75.00 or more. Lifetime warranty.
expires 2/29/80

Lita or Jelenk Underwear $5. off
Save on either brand when you buy a complete set — tops & bottoms.
expires 2/29/80

runner'shop
15 Strong Ave. Northampton
159 N. Pleasant Rear Amherst

Concert set for March

Lene Lovich at Bowker

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Arts Editor

Lene Lovich, described as the "High Priestess of New Wave" will be coming to Bowker Auditorium March 13, for an 8 p.m. concert, sponsored by the Union Program Council of UMass.

The Stiff recording artist is perhaps best known for her innovative "polka rock" arrangements, jumpy vocal style and for her association with the "Be-Stiff Tour," which included such artists as Rachel Sweet, Nick Lowe and Elvis Costello.

Her 1979 album, Stateless, brought her much public acclaim on FM radio with such hits as "Say When," "Lucky Number" and a cover of Tommy James and the Shondells' "I Think We've Alone Now."

Lovich, is a mystical figure, a possesor of an Eastern European aura. In fact, Lovich grew up in a low-income Detroit neighborhood, daughter of a second-generation American father of Yugoslavian stock, and an English mother. Her "strange" state presence and original deliveries, coupled with a Victorian sense of dress fashions make her a sight to behold.

Lovich will be here to promote the release of her new album, "Flex" and the Amherst gig on this, her first American solo tour, promises to be a unique and exciting evening of music for those who are "really into" the new wave genre.

Appearing with Lovich will be Columbia recording artist Bruce Wooley, whose latest album has just been released.

Tickets for these performances go on sale Feb. 26 at Tix, Union Records, Platterpus, and For the Record.

Seeking Immortality?

The Collegian Arts Department is soliciting manuscripts from students for literary contributions to our monthly arts and features magazine. Poems, short stories and essays will be considered for publication. Interested students should type all contributions at 67 characters, double space and should include their name, address and phone number in the upper left-hand corner of each manuscript page.

All manuscripts for the Feb. 27 issue of the magazine must be received by no later than 12 noon on Wednesday, Feb. 20, and should be sent to: The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, c/o Arts Department, 113 Campus Center, Amherst, Mass. 01003. Students should keep their original copies, as we cannot guarantee submissions will be returned.

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents— Fri. 15
Two for One Special
Steve Spellman Happy Hour
3-6 p.m.
Grab Bag Special 6-10 p.m.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

OPEN RUSH
KAPPA SIG
Weds. 8-10 Feb. 20th
70 Butterfield
Terrace
(Right next to
Gorman House
Central Residence Area)

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden
Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Be My Valentine

NOTES
Dot—
Got a great idea!
Let's get our hair cut together at Great X.
Shampoo, Cut, Blow Dry and Complete Styling is only $10.00
Date? Great!
See you then!
Jim

No Appointments
GREAT EXPECTATIONS
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
Hampshire Mall
Hadley

Highlander
C-90
3 in a bag
only $3.99
our reg low price $5.99

SPECIAL PRICE
SALE
As long as supplies last, buy three Scotch Brand Highlander C-90 cassettes at a reduced price.
"SCOTCH"
RECORDING TAPE
The Truth Comes Out
your store for "sound economy"

in the campus center umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

BLUE WALL
campus center
at umass
Fri. Feb 15 & Sat. Feb 16
MARTIAN HIGHWAY
Space music
$1 cover charge

UPCOMING
Fri. Feb 22
Loose Caboose
Sat. Feb. 23
The Elevators
ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

Editorial/Opinion

Any questions for Andrew Young?

The Collegian, with the aid of the Distinguished Visitors Program, has tentatively secured an interview with Andrew Young, former U.S. Ambasador to the United Nations.

What I would like to do, rather than place the usual random phone calls to students throughout the university, is ask that anyone interested in proposing questions to Andrew Young come by the Collegian office located downstairs in the Campus Center or submit them in writing.

I will choose as many possible, and in the students' name who developed the question, pose them to Young on Tues. Feb. 19. The interview will be published the following day in the Collegian.

To date, the following questions are being considered. They were formulated by Collegian staff, family and friends.

— What action, at this point, would you recommend to secure the release of the American hostages in Tehran? Should the Shah be brought to an international court of justice, as has been suggested by many? Is the Ayatollah any better a leader, any more humane than the Shah, in light of his governments attitudes toward women and homosexuals?

YOUR VOICE...

...by Steve Klein

— It is commonly understood that most nations carry on intelligence surveilance at the United Nations. Who do you believe had you bugged, if anyone? Some feel it was this country and others feel it could have been Israel. As was reported in an article in The Nation[9/18/79] the reason the U.S. might be so quiet about the truth is the Foreign Intelligence Act of 1978 making it illegal.

— Your involvement with the civil rights movement and, more specifically, with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has led you to take some strong stands on the issues of oppression and racism. Has the direction of the black movement in this country taken a more positive or negative direction, in your opinion, since the death of Dr. King? Do you feel that there may be an attitude of separatism and reverse-racism among blacks? If so, can that attitude be justified without being hypocritical?

— What are your feelings toward the black-Jewish reaction which your resignation caused to snowball? Personally, do you feel it is justified and if so, why?

— Why did you apologize for your initial remarks in which you called Presidents Ford and Nixon "racists?" Was there any pressure placed upon you to do so, and if so, from who?

[Steve Klein is the Collegian's editor-in-chief.

Buried under work stress

Several days ago I sat at my typewriter, empty headed and distraught. The column was due Friday but, to my chagrin, the part of mv brain that usualy sends poignant prose oozing out onto pages was utterly and inexplicably paralyzed. As would be expected, I decided to kill myself.

Not being at all familiar with the finer points of passing away, I thought it best to contact the family mortician, Barry M. Proper.

"Hi Mr. Proper, Bill Hallisey here. There's been a death in the family. Can you give me the run-down on prices, procedures, that sort of thing?"

"Certainly Bill," said Proper. "Would you like something ornate, elaborate, and exceedingly reverant, or something drab, simple, and shamefully inconsiderate?"

"Quick, simple, and inconspicuous was what I was hoping for." I have no shame. "What's the cheapest casket you've got in stock?"

BILL HALLISEY

"Well, we've got plain pine board covered with gray cloth for $250—wouldn't be caught dead in one myself. Couldn't I interest you in something a bit more becoming, like solid cherry with gold inlay and bronze fittings?"

"Pine is fine," I said. "What other charges might I expect to incur?"

"Hmm, let's see," said Proper real business-like. "There's the service charge, embalming, use of facilities, body removal, use of the embalming room, and a burial vault. Then, of course, there's flowers, telephone calls, gratuities, newspaper notices and death certificate. Oh yes, you'll be paying for the mass, coach trip to and from the mass, flower car, limos, and offerings to the sexton and organist as well."

"And how much is all this going to cost me?" I asked, dumbfounded.

"Let's see...plus casket, about $4,000, give or take a few grand, not including the headstone, of course—that's not my department. You have made arrangements for a burial plot, haven't you?"

Realizing I couldn't afford a proper Proper burial, I confided to him that I was planning on being the funeral's main attraction. He was unimpressed.

"Can you have me dead and buried by Friday morning—no embalming, no funeral, no headstone?"

"Nope, gotta let the body sit around for a couple days—state law. Can't leave you laying around unembalmed—stench's enough to wake the dead."

I had visions of sniffing corpses wandering aimlessly through his house.

"I'll tell you what, Bill. The cheapest thing you can do is get a partial embalming, a pine box, and a cremation. With urn, transportation, and service charges, the costs shouldn't run you more than $1,000—provided you die on Monday."

"I've got to be dead by Friday! For God's sake, can't a person choose the hour of his own demise?"

"One must choose one's hour with a little more foresight," says Proper real proper-like. "Allow me to explain. Let's say you die on Thursday afternoon. Like I told you, the body's gotta wait for 48 hours. By the time the 48 hours is up, it's Saturday, and crematories aren't open on weekends. Can't have you rotting away over the weekend—gotta freeze you or give you a total embalming. These things cost money. I suppose I could put you on a lay-away plan. Then we could squeeze you in by..."

After telling Proper that his service would no longer be necessary, I returned to my typewriter with an idea.

Bill Hallisey is a Collegian columnist

Letters

Words misconstrued and ethics abused

To the Editor

"Dean Bill Field candidly admitted to being secretive about what exactly his office does."

To avoid bureaucracy, he pointed out, the function of the office has to remain highly flexible and therefore somewhat hard to describe.

"We handle a wide diversity of individual cases," Dean Field siad. "We're the first point of contact for individual cases, students with unusual needs which don't fit into bureaucracy. We're the last of the generalists in student affairs."

If someone wanted to parachute into the middle of Southwest, they'd go to the Dean of Students Office for permission, for example.

"We're willing to poke around in almost everything."

The preceding paragraphs are what actually appeared in the newsletter Conduit concerning the Office of the Dean of Students. The non italicized parts are what Student Attorney General Ann Bolger took out of context in an imbecilic attempt to paint the man and the office as some kind of cloak and dagger, clandestine operation.

Come on Ms. Bolger. Irregardless of your opinion of the so called "Field Document" your irresponsibility and complete lack of ethics lead me to believe, despite the current well-intentioned attempt of student leaders to establish some element of credibility among their peers, that at least part of the "leadership" still practices the self-serving, childish antics that caused the SGA to lose any credibility it had at one time.

I didn't know John Mitchell taught a course here. You must have aced it.

Sincerely,
John Hunneman
Sunderland

Threats to profits the threat of war

To the Editor?

Having read Professor Holesovsky's letter (Collegian 2/5) I am moved to write and express my views on draft registration, and more specifically, draft registration in a capitalist society.

I believe it is impossible to make a distinction between the interest of capitalist society, and society in general when discussing most, if not all, vital issues.

To take up arms during the Vietnam War was a move to support the interest of corporations. Likewise, to not oppose draft registration is to remain silent for war preparations directed by corporations feeling their profits threatened. The sad truth, Professor Holesovsky, is that no soldier since World War II has died for his people. He has died for the interests of capitalism. Even World War II was a war which was motivated by the interests of the corporate sector, although the war against Hitler's fascism tended to obscure this fact.

Let's face it. The U.S. Government didn't give a damn with Hungary in 1956 and it didn't give a damn about Czechoslovakia in 1968, and the reason it didn't give a damn is because the corporte-capitalist sector didn't perceive its interest being threatened.

Finally, let me add that I am disgusted with the talk of women registering for the draft. The Government has a really shoddy record on issues concerning women, but now wants their support and, possibly, their lives. Same old story: when women are needed they are pushed to the front lines in the factories and so forth. When they aren't needed, its the kitchen and the babies. Hell no, I won't go!

Mark Alper

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

NEFERTITI'S
POTIONS FOR FACE AND BODY
Introducing SABINE of Boston
FREE MAKE UP INSTRUCTION Sat. 16th with Sabine's Own Cosmetologist!
THORNES MARKET / 150 MAIN ST. / NORTHAMPTON / 584-0906

Save $150.00
STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON BOOK
TODAY is the LAST Day to purchase a
Student Discount Coupon Book
Today Only - Campus Center Concourse

256-8587
whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
Free Cokes Free Delivery
Now Delivering 11 am-3 am
7 DAYS A WEEK
HAVE A WHOLE WHEAT PIZZA FOR BREAKFAST

TOP of the CAMPUS
Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Sunday Sunset Buffet
5 - 9 PM 5.95
Featuring:
Tender Steamship Round of Beef
Piping Hot Entrees
Garden Fresh Salad Bar
Tasty Vegetables
Delicious Desserts
Validated Parking
Reservations Recommended
549-6000, Ext. 639

'Gone Fission' a must

By DAVID AMBOS
Collegian Staff

If there's one thing I hate, it's articles that start: "Hey, kids, wouldja believe atomic pizza, exploding islands, a spectacular steamchair wreck, the Hardly boys trapped beneath the sea by 40 dwarves and a deadly bean, the wonders of the Underwater Lost City, the horrors of Bill Boat's dungeons, speedboat chases, and the end of the world all performed live on stage? Golly gee, you say (or words to that effect) where can I go to see all these wizard things? Well, pilgrim, you need not seek further than the Curtain Theater at the UMass Fine Arts Center, where a madcap director/playwright and his crazy cohorts, along with a zany troupe of nine actor/loonies, have concocted a comedic casserole of puns, wordplay, schtick, mime and all-around outrageousness such as would make your head spin." Like I say, I hate things like that. Imagine my mortification as I read from the top and find that I have written just such an opening for this review of "Gone Fission," a radio play in one act being performed by members of the University Acting Workshop at 4:30 this afternoon. Written by George Angell, Chuck Hall and Jeff Hill, three young men bound together by the same straitjacket, this experimental comedy, mutant offspring of a bizarre marriage of F.W. Dixon, Firesign Theater and the Marx Brothers, is all that I imply above and more. Abounding with offbeat humor, fine ensemble acting, and more bad jokes per pound than Jackie Gleason, the performance is a must for all who have funny bones to tickle.

Originally created with no thought of performance in mind, the play, according to Angell, director as well as one-third playwright of the piece, went through many versions and much editing before it was given over to the acting ensemble. Then the actors and the director went to work trying to figure out how they were to create such strange objects as fountains, time-lock vaults, submarines and pizza reactors using no props, scenery or special effects equipment other than their own voices and bodies. "It was the challenge of solving impossible problems," explained Angell, "That made production so interesting."

The acting ensemble was so uniformly good that it would be unfair to single out one member. That, together with the innovation, vitality and genuine desire to entertain that the production has makes stuff like "Gone Fission" the type of things that gives experimental theater a good name.

HEY YOU

Have you ever wanted the thrill of seeing your name in print? Do you enjoy classy nights at the symphony? Do you scribble "Bird Lives" in lavatory stalls compulsively? If you answer all or any of these questions positively, you can be a Collegian classical or jazz concert reviewer. And you should be!

For more information, contact Norma Coates at the Collegian office, or call her at: 545-3500, that's 545-3500.

the presents
PAT METHENY GROUP
Sunday, Feb. 24 8 p.m. - Fine Arts Center
Tickets: 7.00, 6.50, 6.00 students
8.00, 7.50, 7:00 non-students
At: TIX, Union Records
Platterpus, FAC Box Office

FOUR SEASONS

Molson Golden Ale	12 oz. btl. ------ case	10.49
Miller Beer	12 oz. btl. ---------- case	7.49
Mr. Boston Vodka	---------- 1.75 litre	8.99
Old Crow Bourbon	---------- 1.75 litre	11.69
Riunite Wines	---------- 750 ml.	2.49
LeRoux Coffee Ameretto	------ 750 ml.	5.69

Open 9 am - 11 pm
Mon. - Sat.
Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

Around campus

SGA head to run

UMass Student Government Association Co-President Richard LaVoice yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of Amherst Selectman. LaVoice, a 20-year-old Political Science major, is also a member of the UMass Board of Trustees.

PVTA holiday change

Due to the Washington's Birthday holiday, Monday, Feb. 18, the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority announced the following changes in Mondays schedule.

—In the Amherst-Belchertown-Sunderland area, PVTA buses will run on Sunday's schedule.

—Bus service along route 9 between Williamsburg, Northampton and Amherst will run on Saturday's schedule.

Everywoman's Meeting

Everywoman's Center will hold an open house on Wednesday, Feb. 20, at Wilder Hall.

Anti-Soviet Rally

A rally to protest Soviet Imperialism will be held tomorrow at noon in front of the Student Union Building. The rally is sponsored by The Collegiate Association For The Research of Principles.

Mock Convention

A Mock Convention will be held Sunday, Feb. 17 in the John M. Greene Hall, Smith College at 7:30 p.m. Co-sponsored by the Smith Student Lecture Committee and the Democratic Club, the Convention will attempt to predict what will happen at the Democratic National Convention next July in New York City. Contact Marilyn Howard (586-2570) or Lori Cianciulli (584-2700, ext. 383) for further information.

Energy group meets

A Campaign For Safe Energy group will be leaving tomorrow at 9 a.m. for a Ronald Reagan speech in Keane, N.H. The group will depart from the MASS PIRG office, located in the Carriage Shops in downtown Amherst. Also, an organizational meeting will be held today at 4 p.m., Campus Center, room 907.

5th ANNUAL VALENTINE'S SPORT SALE
Feb 14, 15, 16
30% off everything
with the color red in it
Racquetball—Racquets from Head, Extelon, Leach, Vittert, Aldila.
Squash—Racquets from Brays, Donnay, Cleaves, Manta, Dunlop.
Tennis—Racquets from Rossignol, Head, Swauwaert, Yahama.
Alti Wear Vests & Parkas, Turtlenecks, Hats.
Puma & Pony Basketball Shoes, Head, Pony, Diadora, Converse Tennis Shoes
Running Shoes from Tiger, New Balance, Diadora
SPORT STORE
178A N. Pleasant Thurs til 8 253-2719

WINTER SALE

SALE
$49.00
medium widths
$39.00
AA widths
Heartfelt. Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10 to 00 Mon. Sat. 253-5126

BUSCH.
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #8
EKMA RIPT
TIGXNANU
ROYU
LIWL
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM

Free gift!
Face Factory fashion lipstick, $3 value · · ·
with precision cut. $12
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
Mt. Farms Mall
Wednesday's Special:
Shampoo, Cut & Blow Dry
$8.00. Good Until Feb. 27th

Evelyn "Champagne" King
comes to Dartmouth!

Friday 22 February at 9:30p.m.
Spaulding Auditorium - Hopkins Center - Hanover, N.H.
with special guest Hypertension
Reserved seats $8 on sale at the Box Office
Credit Card reservations: (603) 646-2422

Tech Hifi's Biggest Sale.

Monday.

Our annual Washington's Birthday Sale.
The lowest prices of the year, for one day only.
Open 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Monday, George Washington's Birthday, is the best day to buy stereo at Tech Hifi. Our prices are never lower all year. For this one day only, everything in the store goes on sale – including many brand-new, brand-name components at dealer's cost! This Washington's Birthday, as always, Tech Hifi will not be undersold.

15 East Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3100
Stores also throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Michigan and Ohio.

Program deals with male contraceptives

By DENISE GORMLEY
Special to the Collegian

New and more effective methods of both male and female contraceptives are continually being researched, tested and developed. As our society has become more conscious of changes in norms concerning sexuality, a great deal of attention has been focused on the responsibilities of both men and women.

According to a University of Washington study, men want to take more responsibility for birth control. Dr. Alvin Paulsen, a researcher at that university, reports "500,000 men per year undergo vasectomies, and others might be interested in a birth control device which is easily reversible." Paulsen admitted while there is an upsurge of interest in developing a contraceptive for men, the efforts are "small potatoes compared with the amount of effort" put into female birth control research.

What has become evident in contraception information is that a great many men have recognized the importance of shared responsibility concerning birth control. Although research and development of both male and female contraceptives is continuing, the issue of responsibility is pertinent now.

The Peer Sex Education Program at the UMass Health Services, under the direction of Ron Mazur, has organized a program called Men's Awareness of Sexual Health, MASH, which is concerned with educating men in sexual health issues. Mazur said the objectives of the program are to "raise awareness of the complicated definition of man's sexual health, to provide a supportive context for group learning and communication, and to recognize the male's increased responsibilities in contraception." The workshop stresses that men are able to take an active role in birth control now and that enlightened male attitudes are very important for healthy relationships and effective contraception. MASH educators stress that this requires knowledge of contraception technology and practicing communication skills. The program's goals of contraception education for men include their responsibility to initiate conversation about prevention of pregnancy, before intercourse, assisting with the effective use of the woman's contraceptive method, and sensitivity to the issues of pregnancy, abortion or parenting.

The program for men only is available on Tuesday nights, Feb. 12, March 4, April 8 and May 6 at 7 p.m. in Rom 304 at the Health Center. Further information concerning the program may be obtained by contacting the Peer Sex Education Program at the Center.

UPC Productions PRESENTS

THE
Jerry Garcia Band
with
John Kahn
Johnny D'Fonseca
David Ozzie Ahlers
with special guest Rachael Sweet
Wed. Feb. 20, 7 & 10 PM
TWO SHOWS

Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets: $7.50, 7.00, 6.50 - Students
8.50, 8.00, 7.50 - Non students
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX, Union Records, Platterpus

Photo by Matt Fasberg

Tickets for The Pat Metheny Group on Sun. Feb. 24 are still available at FAC Box Office, TIX Union Records Unlimited and Platterpus

BUSCH
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #9
VELOS
HACE NILE
NEHT DAN
OYU NEWH
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst
LIQUORS

KEGS–
BEER– LIQUORS
WINE–

Miller bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk 7.49 cs
Bud bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk. 7.49 cs.
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls..1.60 6 pk. 5.90 cs.
Schlitz 12 oz. n/r.....2.00 6 pack 6.90 case
O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl.2.75 6 pack 9.90 case

Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre.....11.49
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch.....3.99
Gallo 3 litre Chablis, Pink Chablis, Burgandy, Red Rose, Rhine.....4.95
Donelli 1.5 litre Soave, Valpolicella, Bardilino 2.99

Catch Our Weekly Specials

500 — Parking places
Soda — Ice — Munchies

Save money — Save gas — Save time
10 a.m. – 253-5595 – til 11 p.m.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 Chevy Caprice. Excellent running condition & body. Must sell. $1300. Call 1-467-3465 after 5.

Comet $300. Runs well. 92000 Call 253-9340

Fix your own car. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'68 Chevrolet Impala runs well and is reliable. Fred 546-3254

1972 Toyota Corona rebuilt engine, little rust, well maintained. Needs engine work. $600 or offer. 584-2062

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Fiat 74 X19 for sale call 549-0146

1970 Olds Delta '88' Exc. running cond. new battery FM-8 track 425.00 or BO Jeff 546-4138

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

Chevy Impala good condition $300 call for details Dave 6-7421

66 Dodge Dart Convert. $450/256-0680

1970 Dodge Dart needs repair 150 or BO 546-8089

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro soundsystem for rent. Perfect for coffeehouses, discos, etc. MFSound 546-8865, 546-8777

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

For the best in Party Entertainment anytime call Dave at GATS Sound-253-7177, DJ's for over a fiftieth of a century

ESSAY CONTEST

Win $20 and see your work in print! The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest. In 750 words or less tell how the women's movement has affected you. Contact Lisa at 5-3500 for details.

FORGOTTEN VALENTINES

To Carla my little one. I love you Bill

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer seasonal rentals W. Yarmouth & Dennis 2, 3, or 4 bedroom; low rates 1-617-528-0404

Room for rent $125/mo plus, on bus route in Sunderland, call after 5 PM 665-7500

Hotel Warren So. Deerfield rooms daily, weekly, monthly rentals call 665-7093

FOR SALE

5 cubic foot refrigerator $115. Like new. Call 665-3567 evenings.

Ski parka Women's 9-10, brand new, orange & yellow, zip-off sleeves for vest, originally $90. $45 or best offer 546-8244

Yashica Lynx-500 35 mm Rangefinder $60.00 256-8064

Weimaraner male pups AKC silver thoroughbreds for show, field or distinctive companionship. 1-413-339-6688.

Sofa in good condition. Call Mary 549-0580

15" color TV Mexican sweater coat, hiking boots size 7½, leather stitched boots 253-3012 try constantly

Stereo--Nikko 30 w/c amp, Sanyo turntable, PR. B.I.C. speakers excellent condition call Leo 546-7769 or 6-7771

Ski Boots 11½ $50, 1967 Pontiac Cat. new snows & timing chain $375 BO 549-4199

Woman's 10 speed Bicycle almost never used, $100. or BO 323-4077 after 6 pm

For Sale Turntable Phillips 212 semi-automatic $85 or BO Pair of AR2 Speakers $150. 323-4077 after 6

Olin Skis used 2 seasons, 160 cm, Solomon bindings, Nordica boots & poles good deal, $130 Steve 549-6769

Gut-string Guitar good shape, call 549-1766

Mens ten-speed bike Mercier by Peugeot excellent condition, 200.00 or BO call 323-4077 after 6:00 pm

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Mittens. Brown with black and white stripe woll knit. Come to the Collegian office. Left here at least a week ago.

Martial Arts Belt about Jan 30, 1980 call Tim 546-4203 and identify by color

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Babysitter must have car, one hr. am 3-4 hrs. in aft. Call 253-5141 ask for Ann days. 584-2197 nights. Good pay, good kids

Work study positions available in Athletic Injury Care. Also non-work study positions-must be EMT. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg. Rm. 9, Ext. 52866

JUST SAYING THANKS

Hope everyone had a great Valentines Day It was lots of fun. Thanks again to everyone who said it with a flower

INSTRUCTION

Basic auto-mechanics workshop. 28 hours of instruction including classroom thbory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure. Autoskills Box 210 Amherst

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Animal hide mittens lost Chadbourne area. Sentimental value. Return to Campus Center lost and found please.

Lost gold wire frame glasses Reward call Chris 546-7703

MARIA PARINO

Welcome to UMass!! Schedule of events: the party starts in McKimmie 3rd long, goes to Thoreau, then to N.Y. and take it from there! Whips and chains optional. Please dress accordingly-the less the better. Grasshopper you'll never be the same. Neither will UMass. Keep it kool and kinky! Love ya Marion and Laura

PERSONALS

Female needed to accompany two others to Ft. Lauderdale during March break. Will split expenses. Call 549-5957

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Bofafeyaw says: You are the Holy Spirit of Creation; only you can stop the draft!...Born free!

GBFin 362 Law III Goldman's exams wanted. Will pay cash. Call Dan 665-7721

Daytona Beach during Spring Break March 15-22. Peter Pan World Travel agents MC130223 want you to leave the driving worries to them. 8 days round trip and accomodations. 1 block from boardwalk. 4 persons per room. $229 each. Optional day trip to Disney World. Deadline Feb. 20. Please call S. Rayner 256-0675 or J. Hyde 1-773-3854

Attention: All UMass University women invited to Spring formal-informal Rush Parties at Sigma Delta Tau. For info call Robin 545-0527

Poetry wanted for Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Literary Arts Press, 132 Nassau, Suite 212, New York, New York 10038

Are you interested in service and fun? Come find out about GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA the National Service Sorority. OPen Rush 2/19, 21 at 6 pm and 2/25 at 7 pm in SU 304

Peeper Patrollers! K saves the day! The sanctity of V.M. is preserved

Jane-2 Happy Birthday glad we got to know you, you geek, sleep at home tonite! Love, Jane 1 and Lois (and Bobodnumnum)

Shahs live in mansions Kings live in castles I live in Sex-o-sex and it's well worth the hassles break out the Mazola Happy V-day I love you all—Chico Mysterious Wallet Returner you're a terrific person. Thanks again!

Marketing Club guest speaker Francis Lucier, Pres. of Black & Decker, Tues. Feb. 19th at 7:00 pm in CC 168

Amy les adieux mon cher

Ph Lamba Phi congradulates its new Potential Brothers. Remember: "Not four years, but a life time"

Pi Lambda Phi fraternity extends thanks to the Beatles for making last nights party a success

Attentions I.G.U.'s to J.L.T. Happy V. Day sorry about everything M.P.M.

Have you bought your Student Discount Book yet? Stop by our table in the Campus Center and see why hundreds have bought. Don't be left out. This is the las tday.

Thanks to Pi Lamb Fraternity I had a fantastic Thursday night. Bring back the Beatles anytime

RIDE WANTED

Need ride to near Potsdam N.Y. call Karen 586-1491

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny rm in house 5 min. to campus & town. Fireplace, TV Kit., sundecks 120/mo 549-4018 346 N. Pleasant

Down to earth roommate wanted for 2-bedroom apt. Sunderland 150/mo. 665-4373

Roomate wanted to share a nine room farmhouse with four others. Own bdrm semi-coop $60 plus 586-3959

Female roomate 3 bedroom house Belchertown Rd. bus route $92 month fireplace 4 acres Laurie 546-7424

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

TO SUBLET

Room in house on bus route close to campus $91.50+ 549-4166.

WANTED

Drummer looking for serious musicians to jam with and form rock band. Call 546-7967

Silver Top dollar paid for silver coins dated 1964 or below 546-9087

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

Plan for Summer
to avoid
High Fuel Costs
Rail Passes &
Youth Hostels

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

Show him you care
...with a pipe.

Let our specialists help you choose the pipe and tobacco to maximize his smoking pleasure.

A pipe — the gift he will cherish for a lifetime!

CLIFFORD M. CLARK
TOBACCONIST
Hampshire Mall Ingleside Mall
— Fine smoking accoutrements and more! —

RUN FOR PRESIDENT

On Thursday Feb. 21 nominations will open for President of the Student Government Association.

The President shall be responsible for relations between the S.G.A. and the Administration, Faculty, and Board of Trustees.

Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the presidency. Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. They must be signed by at least 250 constituents and returned to 420 S.U. by Thursday March 38 at 5:00.

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

1 Extorted money from
5 Hindu group
10 Sweetsop
14 Devotion
15 Noted Can. doctor
16 Social org.
17 On the ocean
18 Coins of Iran
19 Take-out order phrase
20 Holy ------
22 Tell all: Slang
24 Mountain: Prefix
25 Buenos -----
27 Trampled heavily
29 Protections: Brit.
32 Animal park
33 Desert one's comrades
34 Heating devices
36 Bind
40 Kind of auto
42 Didn't go to bed: 2 words
44 Hep
45 Superior quality
47 Old It. playing card
49 Ignoble
50 Ump
52 Of a Roman tyrant
54 Farewell word
58 Bold
59 Shem's son
60 Deal out
62 Trees
65 Fail to include
67 Disdain gesture
69 Mastery
70 Large bag
71 Suspenseful
72 Gutter site
73 Inside: Comb. form
74 Tracts
75 Killed

DOWN

1 Sheep's cry
2 Rid oneself of
3 For all time: 2 words
4 Darling: Informal
5 Amends
6 "--- - was going to St. Ives"
7 House foundation
8 William and son
9 Substitute
10 Toward the stern
11 Go as a throng
12 Tidal bore
13 Remained aloof
21 French river
23 Dismiss: Slang
26 Fr. upper house
28 P.I.Moslem
29 "Flower ---- Song"
30 Reduce pressure
31 Man's great adversary
35 Affirmative answers
37 Lacking complete accuracy
38 Greek colonnade
39 Seeded
41 Evil
43 Certain transfers
46 School period
48 Impl- ment
51 Festival
53 Pushes against gently
54 Near
55 Of mankind
56 Command
57 Opposite
61 Irish river
63 Cleave
64 Eject
66 Ring decision: Abbr
68 All 50: Abbr.

Thursday's Puzzle Solved:

STAGE		ROTO		SLAM
ARROW		AMEN		HILO
PEALE		DIMENOVEL
SELF	CAT		EVERT
	HAIR	DIVERTS
BEHOLDS	AVERS
ADAGE	HATER	PIE
LIVE	TALES	DONG
TIE	SUGAR	METRO
	ATIONED	MASSES
SONORAN	HUNE
ENURE	MID	RALE
ALR	TRAVEL	STRAP
TOGA	MITE	TENSE
ONES	PEER	AROSE

DC menu

LUNCH
Torpedo Grinder
Tuna Noodle Casserole

BASICS LUNCH
Flat Bread Sandwich
Tuna Noodle Casserole

DINNER
Roast Turkey/Dressing, Gravy
Cranberry Sauce
Baked Haddock/Lemon Slice

BASICS DINNER
Polynesian Vegetables
Baked Haddock/Lemon Slice

Earthfoods

Pizza!
Bulgha/Rice
Tamari-onion-gingerroot Soup
Green Salad
Non Dairy Bran Muffins

FPC PRODUCTIONS presents
THE KINKS
IN CONCERT
Thursday, March 6, 8 pm
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on Sale Thurs. Feb. 21!
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX & Union Records (UMass)
Platterpus (Northampton) Students - $8.50, 8.00, 7.50
Non Students - 9.50, 9.00, 8.50
For Info Call 545-2892 No Bottles, Cans or Alcohol

BUSCH
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #10
RIDCLEC
SONE ETH
ANIGA
SEVOL
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM.

SELL IT
SELL IT
in the
Collegian
Classifieds
SELL IT
SELL IT

Prof. stresses importance of election year

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Williams College History and Political Science Professor James McGregor Burnes, in a speech last night on behalf of Senator Edward Kennedy stressed the importance of this election year above his support of Kennedy as a candidate.

This particular year is important, Burns told a small audience in Thompson Hall, because student participation and influence is potentially greater now than ever before, especially from Kennedy's viewpoint. "Students hold the key," he said. "Don't sit on the sidelines of history."

Burns said large student turnouts in Maine have given him the impression that student populations—could be a major influence in New England, particularly with a New England candidate.

"I was impressed by the willingness of so many students to do hard, tough political drudgework for Kennedy," he said.

With the Republican party settling itself into a conservative or moderately conservative platform, it is important for the Democrats to set a platform and stick by it, Burnes said.

Citing Britain's Labor party as an example of adopting and standing by a platform regardless of public opinion, Burnes said the Democratic party is long overdue for the kind of liberalism promised by former party leaders such as Franklin Roosevelt.

The party leaders in the urban areas of the east should not support a President who gives up what the party has and should stand for, he said. It is a "slow and tortuous process" to find a candidate 40 years after Roosevelt who "has repudiated the Democratic party," he added. Burnes said he believes Kennedy is that man.

This election is also important because, "The possibilities are greater for the election of a Liberal Democratic candidate," he said. Burnes described Kennedy as a "Liberal-Radical candidate."

With his back to the wall, Kennedy did not try to broaden his appeal by becoming a concensus candidate, Burnes explained. He made public the kind of man he was all along, Burnes said.

On Afghanistan, Burnes said he believes Carter "overreacted" and cited Hungary, Cuba, and Korea as examples where the Soviets used the same tactics.

Burnes has authored several books and is most noted for his political biographies. Soldier of Freedom, a biography of FDR, won a Pulitzer Prize for history.

Pleasant St. Theater
"Rainer Werner Fassbinder's
"THE MARRIAGE OF MARIA BRAUN"

"A MASTERPIECE. I strongly suggest you catch 'Maria Braun.'"
—Andrew Sarris, Village Voice
"AN EPIC COMEDY AND A ROMANTIC BALLAD. Hanna Schygulla's performance is sweet, tough, brilliantly complex...splendid and mysterious."
—Vincent Canby, New York Times
6, 8:10, 10:20
27 Pleasant St./Northampton 586-0935

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Now, Exclusive Area Showing Ends Feb. 28
On Screen at 7:00 and 9:00

"A jewel of a film."
—Gene Shalit NBC-TV
"ONE OF THIS YEAR'S BEST."
—Archer Winsten, New York Post
Lee Remick in THE EUROPEANS based on a novel by Henry James
A Levy-Boeman Release
• • • AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE • • • •

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW—LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9 HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN

Kramer vs. Kramer
Fri-Sun (4:45 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Mon-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:00
PG
STAR TREK
THE MOTION PICTURE

Fri-Sun (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15
Mon-Thur (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:00
G

KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3
Fri-Sun (4:45 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Mon-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:15
R
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
Fridays & Saturdays
12:00 Midnight
All Seats $2.50
R

THE FOG
Fri-Sun (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 9:45
Mon-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:15
R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
Fun in the dark!
THE MOST FUN YOU'LL EVER HAVE...

Midnight Madness
Fri-Sun (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Mon-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:00
PG
STEVE MARTIN

The JERK
Fri-Sun (5:30 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:00
Mon-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:15
R
DO NOT EAT.
DOM DeLUISE ANNE BANCROFT

Fatso
Fri-Sun (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:00
Mon-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinees Sat-Thur 2:00
PG
Richard Gere
American Gigolo

Fri-Sun (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Mon-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
R
TOM SAWYER
Sat-Thur 2:15
G

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
"Special Opening"
Saturday 1:00 pm
Big Screen
* Hockey U.S. vs. Norway
*Women's Downhill
Special Brew Prices
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

$S = \sqrt{\frac{\sum_{i=1}^{n} x_i^2 - \frac{\left(\sum_{i=1}^{n} x_i\right)^2}{n}}{n-1}}$ OR the choice is yours

LCD PROGRAMMABLE SCIENTIFIC
The 5813
30-step programmable calculator with 15 parentheses and 9 statistical functions. High visibility 8-digit, scientific notation, 8 mantissa/2 exponent LCD. 7 memories plus Safe Guard.™
only $35.95
the calculator store
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Gymnasts prepare for Springfield

By BOB MITCHELL
SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The UMass gymmen, with a record of 4-3, host the Chiefs of Springfield College Saturday at 2:00 p.m., in the Boyden auxilary gymnasium.

The Minutemen have performed well in their last four outings, earning victories over Dartmouth, MIT, and Navy. In their last meet however, the gymnasts lost by 31 points to the nationally ranked Southern Connecticut Owls.

The Minutemen however, must now turn their attention to Saturday's meet against the tough Chiefs. Springfield has a squad much like the UMass team. The Chiefs, like the Minutemen, have both depth and balance.

All arounds Hugh O'Neall, Bob Donahue, and Bob Lamb, as well as specialist Dave Buegler will be the chief Umass competitors in the dual meet. It is still unknown if floor and vaulting specialist Steve Craig will see action in the dual meet. He is still suffering from an ankle injury.

Sunday the women's gymnastics team will travel to Springfield to face the Indians of Springfield College in a 1:30 meet.

The gymwomen, now 6-2, have won their last four meets defeating Rutgers, Cornell, Temple and most recently, Southern Connecticut.

The last time these two squads met was last year, with UMass overwhelming the Indians 136.20-128.50.

For the Minutewomen, Liz Marion is expected to be back at full strength in the all-around competition. Because of the flu, she was unable to practice all last week and subsequently failed to make a large contribution to her team's efforts in its two previous outings.

Lynn Perry and K. Hungerford are the top All-around gymnasts for the Indians.

UMass coach Virginia Evans ranks the Springfield team on par with Southern Connecticut who the Minutewomen barely defeated Wednesday evening 128.45-127.65.

"Our team goal is to improve our total score by 5 to 6 points. How much we practice will be the key to achieving this," Evans said.

Bill Koch, 1976 silver medalist for the U.S. in the 30-kilometer cross country ski race, dropped out of that race yesterday after 25 kilometer to save energy for Sunday's 15-kilometer event. (AP Laserphoto)

The Hungry-U
Join Us For Sunday Brunch 10:30-2
55 University Dr. Amherst 549-5713

BUSCH
PLEASURE HUNT
Clue #12
MALSOT
TON
TEQUI NOW
VOYUE
Get Clues 13 & 14 on Station WAQY-FM 102 on February 22 between 4 & 7 PM.

The place to be for the Olympics is
Time out

TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE
Free popcorn at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

Plumbley's
off the common in Plumbley's Pub
Sunday Happy Hour
4-8 p.m.
with guitarist
Steve Spellman
4-6 p.m.
Bar Drinks 99¢
Draught Beer 50¢
no cover no minimum
proper I.D.
30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst Ctr. 253-9586

DESIGN YOUR FUTURE.

Engineering

Electronics

Laser Technology
TECHNOLOGICAL CHALLENGES: Lasers. Space systems design. Nuclear energy. Air Force engineers and scientists are at the forefront of today's fast-moving technological frontiers.
WANT TO JOIN THE TEAM? If you're graduating with or have a degree in engineering, computer science, mathematics, meteorology, or physics, Air Force Officer Training School could be your first step.
Air Force officers receive good salaries, medical care, 30 days paid vacation a year, and often postgraduate degree opportunities.
Air Force ROTC scholarships may be available if you have at least two years of college remaining. They offer full tuition, fees and $100 a month tax free.
TALK TO YOUR AIR FORCE RECRUITER OR AFROTC CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE. Mail in the coupon. Or call toll free 800-523-5000 (PA 800-362-5696).
It's a great way of life!
AIR FORCE
Air Force Opportunities ACN020
P.O. Box 1776
Valley Forge, PA 19481
Please send me information on engineering opportunities and becoming an Air Force Officer. I am especially interested in:
Air Force Officer Training School (maximum age 29 college degree required)
Air Force ROTC (age 16-28)
Name Sex Mo. Yr.
Address Apt #
City State
Zip Phone
Date of Birth
Engineering Discipline
College Attending
Date of Graduation Degree

Hoopmen fade during stretch; it's NU 67-59

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

The men's basketball team couldn't hold on to a four-point second half lead despite some slam-dunk magic by Pedro de la Cruz as the Northeastern Huskies came away with a 67-59 victory last night at the Cage.

Northeastern came back from a 39-35 deficit with less than 13 minutes left to play on the strength of 15 second-half points by Pete Harris and some timely hoops by Jeff Gordon and Chip Rucker. After Gordon tied the score at 41-41 with just over 10 minutes to play, Harris put the Huskies ahead by one on a foul shot and then made the score 45-41 on a three point play at 9:08. Harris, who lead all scorers with 25, gave NU it's biggest lead with five minutes left, 57-47, and UMass couldn't come closer than six the rest of the game.

But the sparse UMass crowd of 1,400 wasn't too unhappy with what it saw as it was given a glimpse into the promise of the future in the play of one Pedro de la Cruz. The freshman had the crowd rockin' in the stands as he rocked the backboards with two dunks that would have brought a smile to the king of chocolate thunder himself.

The first one came off a feed from guard Tom Witkos after Witkos broke a full court press to spring the six-foot, eight-inch center for a tomahawk string-buster from the left side to make the score 47-43 with 7:48 remaining. The second and by far the more spectacular jam came a couple minutes later when the big man snatched a UMass rebound coming off the right side of the basket and redirected it with herculean force through the net, much to the delight of the audience. The score was 55-47 after this at 5:20.

Coach Ray Wilson felt "Pedro had one of his better games," but he wasn't happy with the team's overall performance.

"No, I'm not pleased with it," the coach said. "Our offense broke down, the defense broke down. Coming down the stretch we didn't play together." The coach felt this was because the team lacks "an experienced leader" in this situation.

UMass was within striking distance after the first de la Cruz dunk, 47-43, but a 17-footer by Eric Jefferson (10 points) and another bomb right after that by Jefferson after NU stole an inbounds pass brought the score to 51-43 with 5:48 remaining. UMass came with six, 57-51, on a fast break two-footer by Bill Morrison at 4:22 but the Huskies again raised their lead to 63-53 with less than two minutes left in the contest.

The Minutemen's last real chance for a comeback was seen when Tyus Nedd (eight points) hit a jumper from the left of the circle and was fouled. But Nedd missed the free throw and the score at 1:05 was 63-57.

UMass outrebounded the Huskies 35-26, which isn't bad considering NU has one of the best rebounding averages in the country.

Curtis Phauls led all UMass scorers with 14 points while de la Cruz had 12 and Morrison finished with 10. NU went to the foul line 17 times in the second half while the Minutemen went to the free stripe 12 times in the whole contest.

UMass started slow but came back from a 19-10 deficit in the first half to take a 22-21 lead and go into locker room tied 29-29 at halftime.

UMass' Tom Witkos drives around Perry Moss of Northeastern and Amherst in last night's game. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

Swimmers down UNH

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's swim team turned in by far its best performance of the season, Wednesday as it piled up ten first place spots to emerge with a 67-46 victory over UNH in New Hampshire.

The Minutemen smothered New Hampshire in the first half of the meet, as they reeled off four victories in the first five events.

The 400-yard medley relay team of John Mulvaney, Howard Abramson, Jib Bowers, and Steve Samuel opened things with a 3:53.4 finish, six seconds in front of the New Hampshire foursome of Mike Hirst, Steve Ferranti, Frank Ludvigsen, and Mike O'Brien.

Mike Boucher duplicated the performance of his mates with a 10:45.70 time in the 1000-meter freestyle. Boucher finished a full 16 seconds ahead of UNH's Doug Sampson. It was Boucher's second straight 1000-free victory.

Tom Dundon extended his unbeaten streak to six as he picked up individual wins in the 50-yard freestyle (22.8), 100-yard free (49.0), and a combined victory in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3.22.0).

Bowers posted three wins in the meet, as he was part of both relay victories as well one in the 200-yard IM with a winning time of 2:09.7.

In the diving competition, Dan Anthony continued his amazing season with yet another victory, amassing 219.75 points in the one-meter event.

Anthony did not participate in the three-meter dive, and as a result UMass picked up only one point, finishing third, fifth, and sixth.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m., the Minutemen will travel to Maine to face the Black Bears. Maine comes into the meet sporting an 8-2 record, while the UMass mark stands at 2-5.

Pole vaulter Jim Larabee shown here while attempting to clear 14' 1" during last weekend against UMaine in Orono. Today both the men's and women's teams are in New Hampshire to take on UNH. (Staff photo by Jane Wolfson)

Streaking Minutewomen visit Maine tomorrow

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

The playing status of junior center Julie Ready is still in question as the UMass women's basketball team rolls into Orono tomorrow for a 5:30 game against the University of Maine.

Ready is still nursing a stress fracture in her foot, an injury that has creeped up on her over the course of this season. Ready will probably not start, said UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, and will only play "if we need her."

The 6 foot 2 inch Ready, second on the team in scoring with 19.0 points a game, sat out the Minutewomen's victory over West Virginia last Monday. She was dutifully replaced by her sister Martha, who scored 21 points. Martha will again be the probable starter tomorrow.

Against the 8-4 Bears of Maine, the Minutewomen will come up against one of the East's most talented women in Wendy Farrington. The 6 foot 3 inch center has lead the East in scoring much of the season before her recent dip to an even 20 points per game. The senior is also second in the east in rebounding with a 13.3 per game average.

Outside for Maine is 5 foot 8 inch guard Sharon Baker, who has hit for 12.5 points per game.

Ozdarski has had to deal with injuries for all of this season. After Martha Supinski was written off with her ankle injury, sophomore Sherry Collins and freshman guard Marlene Susienka were both lost for a time. Now Ready is out for an undetermined period. Doctors have said she can play, but the major consideration at this point is her health for the upcoming Massachusetts tournament.

But the Minutewomen through it all are 13-6; on the wings of a seven-game winning streak while still the number one ranked team in New England.

NOTES: Senior co-captain Sue Peters is simply having a fantastic season. She leads the team in scoring with 20.4 points per game; is the team leader in assists with 100, and is shooting .798 from the foul line...Don't overlook the game-to-game consisitency of sophomore Tricia Corcoran and Freshman Valerie DePaolo. Corcoran has a 5.6 points per game average and DePaolo has 9. DePaolo is also second on the team in assists with 95.

At the Olympics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y.:

There were no American medal winners on the first full day of competition in these problem-plagued Games. The administration of New York Gov. Hugh Carey contacted the Greyhound bus company and asked for buses and a top-level management team to come to Lake Placid to solve the transportation mess that has almost completely fouled up logistics in the Olympic valley.

Buses that were supposed to ferry 50,000 spectators a day didn't do the job. There weren't enough of them and the dispatch system collapsed, leaving thousands stranded for hours. Many spectators did not get to the events for which they had bought tickets.

One of the most intense confrontations of these Olympics comes Friday when U.S. figure skating pairs team Randy Gardner and Tai Babilonia go up against Soviet stars Irina Rodnina and her husband, Aleksandr Zaitsev. The Soviet Union has won the last four Olympic pairs titles. Babilonia and Gardner won the world championship in 1979 when Rodnina and Zaitsev took the year off to have a baby. Now the two pairs appear very close in skill and style.

The men's downhill race captured most of the attention Thursday. Canada's Ken Read, one of the favorites, and Karl Anderson of Greene, Maine, a U.S. hope, both fell near the top of the course but neither was hurt.

Canada's Steve Podborski claimed the bronze medal behind Wirnsberger of Austria and Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, took a surprising fifth place in 1:47.04.

In the women's 1,500-meter speed skating event, the silver medal also went to a Dutch competitor, Ria Visser, who finished in 2:12.35 behind Borckink's 2:10.95. Sabine Becker of East Germany won the bronze in 2:12.38. Mary Docter of Madison, Wis., finished 12th and her younger sister, Sarah, was 13th.

Racing to a silver medal behind Zimjatov in the men's 30- kilometer cross-country event was Vasily Rochev, another Soviet. Ivan Lebanov of Bulgaria took the bronze.

Stanley Dunklee, 25, of Putney, Vt., turned in the best American performance, finishing 30th with a time of 1:33:48.02. James Galanes, 23, of Brattleboro, Vt., was 41st and Doug Peterson, 26, of Hanover, N.H., was 45th.

Although cross-country skiing is gaining in popularity in this country, U.S. teams have never been really competitive in international competition. Since the 30-kilometer race was introduced in the world championships and the Olympics in 1954, only four nations have won the races: the Soviet Union, Finland, Sweden and Italy.

Eric Heiden, the U.S. speed skating superstar, hopes to start his sweep of five gold medals Friday when he competes in the 500-meter event. Heiden will compete later in the 1,000, 5,000, 10,000 and 15,000-meter races.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 86 — Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst — Tuesday, February 19, 1980

Index...

News Digest ..... page 2
Editorial/Opinion ..... page 7
Around Campus ..... page 6
Classified ..... page 12
Comics, DC Menu ..... page 13
Sports ..... page 15, 16

Library architect sued

By RICHARD NAGLE AND ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

The state Attorney General's office filed suit Friday against the estate of the architect of the UMass library, Edward Durrell Stone, for "ommissions and errors" in the design, said Paul Good, Assistant Attorney General.

The defendants, Sone's widow and executrix of his estate, Violet Stone, and Stone's business partners, are charged with breach of contract, breach of warranty and tort for negligence, Good said.

In each instance, Good alleged, Stone "did not exercise proper care, during the preparation of the design, as a result damage occurred," he said.

Stone died in 1978.

The suit hopes to recover the costs of the investigation, the cost of repairing the building, the cost of removal and return of the contents and compensation for depravation suffered by the students and commonwealth through lack of use of the library, Good said.

The actual dollar amount "will be determined by the court" Good said, adding there is a possibility of an out-of-court settlement.

Although the defendants have twenty days to respond to the complaint, Good said he had no idea how long it may take to reach a final settlement.

Good said that although neither C.E. McQuire, the design engineer, or Daniel O'Connell's Sons, the general contractor, were named in the suit they may become involved if Stone's estate decides to sue them. The State cannot sue the other parties since Stone is the only one with a direct contract with the state, Good said.

The state investigation indicated "strong probability" that Stone evaded a state statute which restricted state contracts to firms which have a majority of its partners licensed in the Commonwealth. Stone, the only member of his partnership licensed in the State, signed the contract independently, Good said.

The suit follows a final engineering report on the library by Simpson, Gumertz and Heger of Cambridge, which Good said forms the basis of the attorney general's investigation.

Stone's estate is also involved in a federal suit as a result of his design of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. Stone filed suit against the government for balance of payment on the architectual contract. The General Services Administration in turn sued Stone for "imperfect design," Good said, adding that the case is still pending.

Good said the architect is liable because the design of the library is "one of a kind."

"This building was supposed to be unique. The unique feature is the expansion joints and the problem is the expansion joints," he said.

According to Good, Stone's plans "failed to provide for the expansion of the brick veneer and removal of moisture from behind the bricks.

"The plans and specifications called for expansion relief joints not fit for the purpose intended," he said.

Neither the defendants nor any University officials could be reached for comment yesterday.

The library has been experiencing problems with falling brick chips since it was completed in 1973. It was temporarily shut down on Aug. 31, 1979 after an engineering report by Loomis and Loomis Inc. of Windsor, Conn. concluded the building was unsafe and a danger to "life and property."

The suit was filed by William A. Mitchell, head of the Attorney General's new public construction unit, which Good said will be a watch dog against design and construction problems.

Carter: Draft not imminent

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON—President Jimmy Carter told student government leaders invited to the White House Friday that there is "no prospect" (under present circumstances) for the draft.

His statement, called a reevaluation of policies that led to his call for military registration last month, surprised most of the student leaders, especially those who travelled to the conference armed with questions and statements condemning military draft. More than 250 student leaders attended the White House briefing.

Carter said his administration is against the draft, is satisfied with the strength of the volunteer armed forces and is proud of its record in keeping the United States out of military confrontations.

But, while outlining their peaceful intentions, Carter and his aides defended their call for revitalizing the selective service process as a measure of preparedness and a symbolic sign to the Soviet Union, whose forces invaded Afghanistan.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security advisor, also told the students that he does not accept as justifiable the Soviet's claim that their Afghanistan invasion was prompted by United States covert action in that country. The United States and the Soviet Union each have their own covert operations all over the world, Brzezinski reportedly told the students during a briefing closed to the press.

Selective Service official Bernie Rostker, in a smaller briefing that afternoon, said the Carter Administration is "absolutely committed to an all volunteer force."

Rostker said the administration wants to revitalize registration to provide a sufficiently large manpower pool to "meet the needs of the defense department" in case of a confrontation.

"For four or five years, our selective service was a domestic joke and an international joke," Rostker said. "It did not have the credibility to mobilize the country."

Rostker also said that 18-year-old males

TURN TO PAGE 4

Lake Panic busily hosts Olympics

By CAROLYN MOONEY
Collegian Staff

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. It hasn't been exactly placid here these last few days before the opening of the XIII Winter Olympic Games. Perhaps the title of a local magazine "Lake Panic" best describes how a tiny Adirondack lake town with one traffic light pulled together a $100 million operation at the last moment.

But the "Welcome World, We're Ready" banners hoisted up all over town finally approached the truth when thousands of spectators, athletes, coaches and personnel began arriving for a continuous winter carnival cocktail party/ceremonial tribute.

Here in Lake Placid (population 3,000), the hustling almost overshadows the games. They are all hustling the foreign reporters hoping for a hot story on a Moscow boycott; the sponsors whose product names are splashed on every t-shirt, ski hat and keychain in town; the local ski bums trying to get jobs on the slopes so they can be completely outfitted from goggles to skis; and the restaurants and nightclubs whose dinner prices and cover charges have been climbing steadily.

American commercialism has peaked in Lak Placid, home of the official olympic contact lens and margarine.

And while the elegantly framed posters of batteries and

TURN TO PAGE 4

Mark Johnson of Duluth, Minn. tumbles in the snow as he hits the ground after falling off the 70-meter ski jump at the Olympics. The Games, like Johnson, have had their share of problems. Johnson was testing the track. (AP Laserphoto)

Young visit off

Former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's campus appearance scheduled for tonight has been cancelled. Page 4.

Collegian sponsors essay contest

The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest in celebration of International Women's Week, March 2-8. In 750 words or less, tell how how the Women's Movement has affected your life, either directly or indirectly. Both men and women are encouraged to participate.

Essays will be judged by individuals of varying backgrounds from the UMass community. Five winning essays will be published in the Collegian during International Women's Week. First prize is $20, and the four runner-ups will be awarded $5 each.

Send entries to Lisa Capone, Women's Editor, Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, UMass, no later than 12 noon, Monday, February 25. Entrants must be full-time students to qualify.

DIGEST

Indians of the Mohawk Nation and the Iroquois Confederacy demonstrate peacefully in downtown Lake Placid calling for protection of their land rights. (AP Laserphoto)

Two cross over Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — At least two East Germans made a daring escape over the Berlin Wall during the weekend at one of the most heavily fortified sections of the East-West dividing line, sources reported yesterday.

West Berlin police said two men pulled off the escape early Sunday close to the American sector's Checkpoint Charlie, the Allied guard post at one of the crossing points into East Berlin. Police gave no further details.

But newspapers in West Berlin and West Germany said two men and a woman slipped out through a publishing company headquarters that forms part of the wall. The three worked for the publishing house, which is operated by the Christian Democratic Union-East.

Afghans report Soviet losses

(AP) — Moslem Afghan rebels killed 200 Soviet troops during a 10- day battle that culminated with the rebels retaking the airport in a provincial capital in northeastern Afghanistan, a Pakistani newspaper reported yesterday.

The Daily Jang of Karachi said the rebels suffered 50 killed during fighting in Faizabad, but they also claimed to have captured 15 Soviet troops, shot down two Soviet fighter planes, destroyed 17 tanks and four helicopters, and seized rifles, machine guns and ammunition.

Fighting for control of the city 195 miles north-northeast of the capital of Kabul was still going on, the newspaper said, but the rebels had the city surrounded. Faizabad is located in Badakhshan Province where, Western analysts have said, rebels are providing some of the stiffest resistance for Afghan government and Soviet troops.

Israel opens Egypt embassy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Israel quietly opened its embassy in Cairo yesterday, its first in an Arab nation. The sight of the blue and white Star of David was greeted with some smiles, some tears — and loud wails of mourning.

A dispute over Jewish settlements in occupied lands, the Arab boycott of the Egyptian-Israeli peace and questions about the speed of the normalization of relations loomed in the background.

"I am sure that other Arab leaders will join our peace process," Syrian-born Israeli charge d'affaires Yosef Hadass said in a statement he read in Hebrew, Arabic and English. He then uncovered a brass plaque that said "Embassy of Israel" in the three languages.

King's tax goal falls short

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Edward J. King has promised an accounting of his unsuccessful campaign promise to reduce the property tax levy statewide by $500 million.

The final figure is in. The state Revenue Department reported Friday that the levy is down $29,936,376 from last year's level — $480,063,624 short of the governor's goal.

King, on several occasions, has said he looks at the figures differently, and his accounting likely will differ from the view held by many taxpayers.

U.S., Iran agree on members of shah crimes commission

The Associated Press

The United States and Iran have accepted the membership of a commission to investigate the former shah and the panel will go to Tehran in a few days, the United Nations announced yesterday, but there was no word on how or when this might bring release of the hostages held in the U.S. Embassy there.

In Washington, State Department officials said the diplomatic plan for release was "on track," but with no firm timetable. The officials, speaking privately, said the United States probably will not be certain about the freeing of the hostages "until we see the whites of their eyes."

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was quoted by a Vienna newspaper as saying the hostages would be released "in the course of the commission's work. Otherwise one would not have received the agreement of the sides."

According to Die Presse's Tuesday edition, Waldheim said the commission's report would be handed over to him and he would forward it to the U.N. Security Council for whatever action it saw fit.

The commission to investigate Iranian grievancese has been considered one of the steps that would lead to release of the approximately 50 Americans who have been held hostage at the occupied embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4

U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar, who announced U.S. acceptance of the members on Friday, said a Tehran official has given Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim Iran's acceptance by telephone from Tehran. He said Waldheim was awaiting telexed confirmation before officially announcing the panel members' names.

Stajduhar told reporters the timing of the hostages' release as part of a package deal had not been finalized, but the commission's guidelines had been completed.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who indicated last week the hostages might be freed when the commission begins its work, was quoted in Tehran on Sunday as saying the inquiry would not be sufficient to ensure their release. He also repeated his demand for a U.S. admission of guilt for alleged misdeeds during the reign of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The United States so far has refused to apologize for for past U.S. actions in Iran.

Iran's president Bani-Sadr addresses a crowd at Ahwaz, capitol of Khuzestan Province in Southern Iran. He reportedly repeated his demand that the United States admit guilt for alleged misdeeds during the Shah's reign as a condition for the American hostages release (AP Laserphoto)

Officials scared too

Nuclear war fear grows

FRAMINGHAM, (AP) — Massachusetts civil defense officials say they don't have much advice for those wondering what to do in case of a nuclear war, except drive north.

Officials at the state Civil Defense headquarters here say they have been getting a flurry of calls every day recently from people wondering how to cope with The Bomb.

But Civil Defense planners thus far have focused on mapping a general strategy, rather than developing instructions for individual households. Their overall goal in the event of a nuclear emergency is to move most of the state's urban population into rural areas.

With limited funds, the Massachusetts CD crew admits it has made only modest headway in the past two years.

"We've just gotten to the point where we know where everyone is supposed to go," state CD director Robert Cunningham told the Boston Herald American. "Now we have to figure out how to get them there."

Boston residents, for example, would be expected to relocate to the Augusta, Maine, region. People from the Springfield-to-Amherst belt would be directed to Hillsboro, N.H.

However, the planners say they have not yet tackled the traffic problems involved in moving entire populations at once, or arranged for food and shelter in the hide-out regions.

Although some people object that civil defense preparations raise false hopes of survival, others see it as a necessity to deter hostile action by the Soviet Union.

Samuel P. Huntington, Harvard professor of international affairs, is one who subscribes to the second view.

"If we are weak and uncertain about what we would do, the Soviets will take advantage of us, whether it is in the Persian Gulf or at home. Clearly, the Soviets do place value on civil defense and take us less seriously if we do nothing," he said.

Reagan regrets joke

HILLSBORO, N.H. (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan publicly apologized yesterday for an ethnic joke he told about Poles, Italians and a duck.

"No slur was intended and I apologize to anyone who was offended by it," Reagan told a news conference in a voice alternately halting and sometimes rising in anger.

Asked if it would hurt his camapaign with the New Hampshire primary a week away, Reagan replied, "It will if people try to make something of it and probably should if a number of people that I can't get to personally to tell the truth to and explain who don't know what my feelings are.

"But I will match my stand against prejudice and bigotry against anyone's in the country because I've been at it a long time, before there was ever a civil rights movement."

Presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy. Reagan got into hot water this weekend for slips of the tongue. (File photo)

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—

Olympics Big Screen

2 for 1

Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

OPEN RUSH
KAPPA SIG
Weds. 8-10 Feb. 20th
70 Butterfield
Terrace
(Right next to
Gorman House
Central Residence Area)

Rights commission begins work

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

The 18-member Commission of Civility in Human Relations, will begin organizational work this week, UMass Chancellor Henry Koffler said yesterday.

The Commission is "charged with identifying incidents and expressions of racism, sexism, anti-semitism and other inhumane actions and attitudes on the Amherst campus," stated a press release.

Provost Jeremiah Allen released the name of 16 commission members including Zoology Professor Vincent Dethier, chairperson of the commission. The two remaining positions will be filled by two students; an undergraduate and a graduate.

The commission is composed of "distinguished faculty members," said Koffler who added "minority members and women were appointed to make the commission more representative."

There was great deliberation over the 18-representation, Koffler said. Because the two student members are still to be chosen, more deliberation is needed to round out the commission, he added.

mission, he added.

Although newly formed, the commission was deemed "essential" by Koffler in December, 1979. In a speech to the Faculty Senate, Koffler indicated the commission he desired would "formulate public statements that can be endorsed by the entire academic community and (would) recommend actions that will improve attitudes and foster social decency on campus."

Koffler was speaking in response to reports of several anti-semitic incidents. At that time, in deeming the committee's creation necessary, he drew support from a group of more than 30 Professors concerned with the anti-semitic behavior.

In addition to "assisting the Chancellor and other members of the academic community in fostering a high level of discourse and behaviour," said Provost Allen, the commission "will assist in the formulation of campus policies opposing antisocial attitudes and actions."

The commission will begin organizing this week and Koffler said he plans on sitting in on one of the early meetings. Once it gets underway, the commission will find their own direction and pace, he said, but if they need anything, he will be there to help.

Women rate abortion, draft as top issues

By KAREN ANGELINE
Collegian Staff

A presidential candidate's position on legalized abortion, the registration of women for the draft, and ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment may determine how some UMass women will vote in the 1980 primary election, according to Collegian interviews conducted this week.

Of 25 women interviewed, 22 said abortion was the most important consideration in their choice of a candidate. Registration for the draft was second in importance, and the ERA was third.

"Keeping abortion legal is important to me. Any candidate who would go back to making it illegal is stupid. That would mean returning to back room abortions, and that would cause a lot of deaths," said Jill Muse, 20 of Amherst.

Paula Bucca, 20, of Amherst, said, "Abortion would be one of the major points I would consider because I think it affects me, but it goes beyond women's rights. I think it shows the social consciousness of the candidate."

"If a candidate was against abortion, it might affect me negatively. It would depend on how consistent he was. If Kennedy said that he was against it because of religion, I would expect him to take it one step further. You can't say you're against lives and then end living, breathing ones," said Trisha Rowe, 22 of Montague.

However, Sharon Banks, 19, of Amherst, said, "I don't thing abortion should be legal, and that definitely affects how I feel about a candidate."

Ann Rothman, 20, of Belchertown, said she was concerned with reproductive rights, but was also interested in medical care programs.

"Right now, I'm for Carter, because I don't see any other candidates with solid, strong ideas. I liked Kennedy's health plan better," Rothman siad.

Fifteen women said that they favored draft registration for women, but the consensus was that most of them did not want to go to the front lines.

"The draft would be the major voting issue for me," siad Gail O'Donnell, 21, of Amherst, "I don't think anyone should go."

Suzanne Phelan, 21, of Amherst, said she felt compulsory government service other than combat might be a solution. "I feel that citizens should serve their country in some way. This is done in other countries. If it ever happens here, I think women should be involved in this, too," she said.

Donna Orsi, 20, of Amherst, predicted some changes in population if the draft is reinstated.

"If they draft women, there's going to be a big baby boom," she said, "I think women should be drafted, but all of a sudden, because of the draft, women are considered equal."

Darlene Coulombe, of Amherst, said she was worried about the relationship of the ERA to the draft.

"The one thing that worries me about the passage of the ERA is the possibility of the draft. I don't think we're up to it, physically and mentally," she said.

Three women said that they did not feel adequately informed about the Equal Rights Amendment to make

TURN TO PAGE 10

Brzezinski

'It's ten of ten, and 20 minutes of my speech is 'down the drain'

Brzezinski

White House staff briefs student leaders

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON — Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security advisor, looked out at his college audience, saw that the conference had been delayed, and said that when he was a professor and his class started at 9:30, the doors were shut and no one else entered.

"'It's ten of ten, and 20 minutes of my speech is down the drain,'" Brzezinski said.

With that comment, the national security advisor began the first of several briefings offered by President Carter's staff to about 250 student government officials nationwide.

Representing UMass were student government co-Presidents Brian Burke and Richard LaVoice, who recapped their briefings from Brzezinski and Carter's domestic advisor Stuart Eizenstat. Those briefings were closed to the press.

In the afternoon, reporters were allowed to cover smaller seminars and a speech by President Carter.

White House staff claimed that the conference had been planned for months, but Burke, LaVoice and many other student leaders said the speeches were meant to diffuse campus unrest over Carter's call for military registration.

Carter, Brezezinski and several lesser aides each said the Administration is against the draft, and their desire to bring back registration is to keep the country prepared.

They did not apologize for military registration.

"'How many people would like to see a volunteer army?'" Burke and LaVoice recalled Brzezinski asking. Almost everyone raised their hand. But when Brzezinski asked how many of the student leaders would volunteer for the army, only several hands were counted. "'Now I don't have to answer any questions about registration,'" he said.

Brzezinski's briefing was very similar to a college lecture. He told the students he would give "3 A's, 8 AB's and numerous other grades" to a class like the audiencn.

Carter, following Brzezinski's lead, opened his remarks by saying Army recruiters were waiting in the back of the East Room for the seven students willing to volunteer.

In Brzezinski's session, the national security advisor said he was sure that the Soviet troops will leave Afghanistan

TURN TO PAGE 10

Media spots Burke

WASHINGTON — UMass co-President Brian Burke, who has not been in the media limelight as much as his counterpart, student trustee Richard LaVoice, was interviewed by several television and newspaper reporters after his White House briefing Friday. LaVoice apparently was not.

Burke was interviewed for Boston's Channel 2 "Ten O'Clock News" and also by an ABC White House correspondent, who finished with her interview with the UMass student leader by saying "I went to Smith."

President Carter, when asked by one student what he thought of national civilian service as an alternative to the military, first remarked that the military is good. "I was in the military for 11 years, and I ultimately did OK."

The West Point cadet at the White House conference, former Wayland High School wrestler Bret Dalton, attracted hordes of television and radio reporters, including the ABC (Smith College alumna) correspondent, when they heard that Dalton likes Carter even though Sen. Edward M. Kennedy sponsored his military academy appointment.

It must have been the ruffled blue suit, or the untidy hair, or something else that prompted a White Hosue staffer to hound the Collegian reporter out of the White House and off its porch after Carter's speech to students.

Burke

Student president Burke, feeling at ease inside 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., requested that the White House pianist play "I Only Have Eyes for You." He did, and Burke sauntered through the crowd, listening to the

TURN TO PAGE 10

Snowfall

Campus pond skaters found their sport difficult to perform after weekend snow covered most of the ice. Ice which was cleared had the added nuisance of snow piles for the skaters to avoid as they skated along. (Staff photo by Paul Price) vitamins which line the walls of "Sponsors' Hall" may be too much at first, it's really not so bad when you consider that the private sector is helping foot a considerable portion of a bill that typically leaves host cities in debt. Before the buses started running, journalists and staffers were being driven around in 500 blue vans donated by Ford, and Kodak is processing and guaranteeing for free all film for accredited photographers, and all the press center personnel wear sportswear donated by Evan Picone.

★ Olympics

CONT FROM PAGE 1

It's a sharp contrast and an obvious one when such an economically depressed town is infiltrated by the biggest of businesses, but some Lake Placid locals should make out nicely from the games.

If the competition isn't overshadowed by the games, it is by the press. 3,200 strong. The main Olympic press center itself, located in the four-story Lake Placid High School, has to be the most incredible accomplishment of the organizing committee. Jan. 25, local students were given a month's vacation and within one week, some $750,000 worth of overseas telephone equipment, TV monitors, typewriters in 20 languages, darkroom labs and brand new office furniture was installed for journalists from 35 countries.

While the late comers waited to have their Telexes connected and their terminals delivered, the official Olympic camera distributor had thrown open doors of its plush lounge and AP and UPI were sending photos out to the world. Everybody in the press center was soliciting and swapping pins and logos from the agencies and national delegations. When the journalists weren't setting up their bureaus or trying to communicate with their foreign neighbors down the hall, they were out doing features on dog sled rides across Mirror Lake or catching a downhill practice run at Whiteface Mountain, where Sousa marches blasted from speakers along the slopes.

With the official opening of the games the press center has become a hotbed of international politics, and will become even more so as the International Olympic Committee continues meeting on the Moscow boycott. By now it's possible to connect most journalists—by face or by disposition—with a nationality. The Japanese like to have everything written down. The Swedes drink beer at breakfast; the Russians drink vodka, period (There's a bar on every floor). The Germans run their agencies with 17-jewel precision.

And the Americans?

They say we're materialistic and our coffee is "degeulasse" (French slang for disgusting), but they also say we're very friendly, we're relaxed, and we smile a lot.

They like us.

They're surprised.

★ Draft

CONT FROM PAGE 1

were required to register for the draft until 1975, and no one was drafted during those post Vietnam years.

Rostker said that the selective service would require persons to register their addresses, sex and age.

Rostker said that by revitalizing military registration now, the selective service would be able to train draft board officials so that persons seeking exemption as conscientious objectors would receive a fair review. He called draft board procedures of the sixties a "hodge-podge process" based on "personal biases" and not the law.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Turbine break shuts Yankee Rowe nuke

By ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

ROWE — An accident last Thursday at the Yankee Rowe Nuclear power plant in which a turbine blade broke was termed a "minor accident" by a Nuclear Regulatory Commission official.

Wayne Hodges, of the NRC in Philadelphia, said there was no radioactive leakage of any kind and it was totally a "mechanical malfunction," at the plant, situated 40 miles Northwest of Amherst.

The accident occured at 11:50 a.m. while the plant was being restarted after a refueling shutdown, Hodges said.

"It's a major repair job," Hodges said Saturday.

The plant will have to be shut down for at least 20 days while the $20 to $30 million repairs take place, a NRC spokesperson said.

While the plant was being restarted, workmen noticed "excessive vibes which tripped the turbine and caused the plant to coast down," Hodges said.

"This type of mechanical problem is very similar to problems in a coal fired plant," he said.

The accident follows an engineering study of the nearby Deerfield River earthen dam which authorities say poses a potential threat to the plant should the dam break and flood the plant.

Andrew Young cancels foreign policy speech

By STEVE KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Andrew Young, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, has cancelled his scheduled appearance this evening at the Curry Hicks Cage due to an illness in the family.

Howard Goldman, head of the Distinguished Visitors Program, said yesterday he is attempting to reschedule the performance, which was to deal with "America's Foreign Policy."

"Before we start refunding the event," Goldman said, "I want to reschedule it in the Fine Arts Center."

He said the ticket refund policy will be announced no later than Thursday and anyone who bought a ticket will have no trouble getting their money back, even if the event is rescheduled.

Young's advance people have cancelled his Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday engagements in the area, which included speeches the University of Rhode Island and Wellesley College.

Goldman said he will renegotiate the honarium from $6000 to $3000. He said due to advertising, security and janitorial expenses the event would incur a $1000 loss.

Free gift!
Face Factory fashion lipstick, $3 value . . . with precision cut. $12
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
Mt. Farms Mall

Wednesday's Special:
Shampoo, Cut & Blow Dry
$8.00. Good Until Feb. 27th

What's forecast for your day? Dial New York direct!

Aries (March 22-April 20)	1-212-936-5050
Taurus (April 21-May 21)	1-212-936-5151
Gemini (May 22-June 21)	1-212-936-5252
Cancer (June 22-July 23)	1-212-936-5353
Leo (July 24-Aug. 23)	1-212-936-5454
Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)	1-212-936-5656
Libra (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)	1-212-936-5757
Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)	1-212-936-5858
Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)	1-212-936-5959
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 20)	1-212-936-6060
Aquarius (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)	1-212-936-6161
Pisces (Feb. 20-March 21)	1-212-936-6262

Hear your horoscope in a minute.

Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-5 p.m.	43¢
Sunday-Friday 5 p.m.-11 p.m.	27¢
Sunday-Friday 11 p.m.-8 a.m.	17¢
Sunday 8 a.m.-5 p.m.	17¢
Saturday All day	17¢

Tax not included

*A service mark of Horoscopes-By-Phone, Inc.

New England Telephone

A Real Washington's Birthday Sale

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE FEB. 19-23, 1980

Louis FINE FOODS
76 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MASS.

ARMOUR ★ 5 STAR VERIBEST PORK BLADELESS EXTRA LEAN PORK SALE!

RIB HALF ROAST LB	$1.29
LOIN HALF ROAST LB	$1.39
CENTER CUT CHOPS LB	$1.59
LEAN MEATY SPARE RIBS LB	$1.09
BONELESS PORK ROAST 2-3 LB AVG	$1.89
U.S.D.A. CHOICE SHOULDER CLOD LONDON BROIL LB	$2.09
U.S.D.A. CHOICE BONELESS BLADE STEAK LB	$2.09
PREMIUM QUALITY OSCAR MAYER BACON 1 LB PKG	$1.79
PREMIUM QUALITY OSCAR MAYER WEINERS 1 LB PKG	$1.59

CHOCK FULL O' NUTS COFFEE 1 LB CAN	$2.69
SWEET LIFE COOKIE JAR APPLESAUCE 50 OZ JAR	99¢
PLANTERS DRY ROASTED PEANUTS OR SALT FREE 16 OZ	$1.49
MORNING SUN NO CAFFEIN HERBAL TEAS 16 CT PKG	69¢
CARNATION HOT COCOA MIX 12 ENV PKG	$1.09
SNOW'S CORN CHOWDER 15 OZ CAN	59¢
WHOLE KERNEL OR CREAM DELMONTE CORN 3 17 OZ CANS	$1
35¢ OFF DETERGENT WISK LIQUID 64 OZ BTL	$2.69
EXTRA ABSORBENT PAMPERS 24 CT	$2.89
FRANCO-AMERICAN SPAGHETTIO'S 3 14.7 OZ CANS	$1
S.O.S. SCOURING PADS 18 CT PKG	69¢
HOMESPUN NAPKINS 160 CT PKG	59¢

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU90
SWEET LIFE UNSWEETENED GRAPEFRUIT JUICE 46 OZ CAN 39¢
VALID FEB. 19-23 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU91
EMPRESS SOLID PACK WHITE TUNA 7 OZ CAN IN WATER 69¢
VALID FEB. 19-23 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU92
HUNT'S TOMATO CATSUP 14 OZ BTL 19¢
VALID FEB. 19-23 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU93
IVORY LIQUID 20¢ OFF LABEL DISHWASHING DETERGENT 22 OZ BTL 69¢
VALID FEB. 19-23 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU94
SUPER OR PLUS TAMPAX TAMPONS 40 CT PKG $1.49
VALID FEB. 19-23 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

CELEBRATE THE CHINESE NEW YEAR WITH US
The Year of the Monkey ...4678

FIRM STYLE ORGANIC TOFU LB PKG	89¢
MEDIUM STYLE ORGANIC TOFU LB PKG	79¢
STEAMED COOKED NOODLES LB	89¢
BEAN SPROUTS LB	59¢
ALFALFA SPROUTS 4 OZ PKG	49¢
EGG ROLL SHELLS LB	79¢
CHINESE CABBAGE NAPA	3 lbs. $1
CHOW MEIN VEGETABLES Farmer Brown 20 oz. pkg.	99¢
SALAD MIX 4 OZ PKG	49¢
WHEAT 4 OZ PKG	35¢
AZUKI 4 OZ PKG	39¢
LENTILS 4 OZ PKG	39¢

Around campus

UCF offers workshop

A ONE-DAY EXPERIENCE in the dynamics of a couple relationship will be offered Feb. 23 from 9:30-4:30 by Ginny Sabey, R.N. and Chaplain Pete Sabey of the United Christian Foundation at UMass.

For further information and registration telephone 545-2661.

A 'sexual dysfunction' service

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES Center is initiating a program for the Treatment of Sexual Dysfunctions. Therapeutic services will be provided to individuals or couples presenting with problems in the area of sexual functioning. Fees are charged according to a sliding scale and no one will be refused services due to an inability to pay. Persons interested in such therapeutic services should call the Psychological Services Center at 545-0041.

Soviet Jewry Awareness Week

UMASS B'NAI B'RITH Hillel is pleased to announce Soviet Jewry Awareness Week at the University from February 20-29.

All interested persons are urged to participate in the lobby. For more information, call Bob Geffen, 545-0060 (day), 527-7858 (evening).

China-talks at Hampshire

WOMEN FOR SURVIVAL, a local alliance of women against nuclear power and armaments, has called for a demonstration to protest the United Technologies Corporation.

The demonstration gathered last week in front of the Student Union building at noon and proceeded to the UMass Placement Office at Hampshire House where the interviews with United Technologies are being held. Women for Survival is calling for this protest, as well as future actions, to call attention to all aspects of the dangers of nuclear production and to encourage people to work against nuclear power on all levels. All local women are invited to join Women for Survival. The next general meeting will be Wednesday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m., location to be announced.

Women's group against Nukes

A FATHER AND DAUGHTER will speak on successive nights at Hampshire College with first-hand impressions of China. On Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the main lecture hall of Franklin Patterson Hall on the campus, Deja Leonard, a current Hampshire student, will talk and show slides on the topic "Views of the Chinese Country-side." The following evening, at 8 p.m. also in the main lecture hall, Prof. Graham Leonard will speak on "Higher Education in China Today." Both of these presentations are open to the public without charge.

SENIORS

it's time to make your appointment for your senior portrait for the 1980 INDEX.

Please call 545-2874 or stop by the INDEX office, Room 103 Campus Center sometime this week..... this is your only chance

Reggae, Rock and Calypso

Party with THE BERMUDA STROLLERS

Wed. and Thurs.

Feb 20 & 21

QR Rt. 9 Hadley

$4.00 (includes one free drink)

ALL AGES WELCOME

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas

MIDASIZE YOUR BRAKES

And never again buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car.

Once our professionals reapir your brakes, you'll never have to buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car. If they become defective, they will be replaced absolutely free in any one of the 1000 Midas shops around the world.

THE LOW COST WAY TO END IMPORT CAR SHAKES

McPherson Strut Cartridges Installed The Midas Way

$119.95 installed

Midas has the right shock for the way you drive.

We'll save you trouble at Midas because our 20 years experience means the right shocks for your car no matter how you drive.

And if anything ever goes wrong with a Lifeguard Superguard or Springuard shock we'll replace it free for as long as you own your car from 8.95 ea. installed

143 King St. Northampton

MIDAS®

586-4840

Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30

Sat. 8-2:00

Editorial/Opinion

On judging a homophile by its cover

"Shall I compare thee to a summer's day? Thou art more beautiful and more temperate..."

These words, recited many times since Shakespeare wrote them, were addressed to a younger man. Many consider this sonnet to be a sublime expression of a pure love—and neglect to remember that that love was a homosexual one.

JOHN C. PARKER

Although there are some signs of changing attitudes, by and large there is still rabid reaction against homosexuality as sick, perverse, unnatural, immoral, degenerate and pitiable. These attitudes have done absolutely nothing to stop children from growing up to be gay or bi-sexual no matter what their family circumstance or upbringing. All they have done is to alienate homophiles from society and its other values.

Myths and misconceptions about lesbians and male gays are littering the minds of many people. Stereotyping and failure to understand are the order of the day, and the last thing most people consider doing is looking at homophiles as people, real people. You meet homosexuals every day, walking around this campus, and nothing necessarily calls their sexuality to your attention. You often assume they're straight; sometimes you may wonder, but this questioning also extends to people whose sexual interest is directed entirely towards the opposite sex.

There is no, repeat, no, distinguishing characteristic which marks homosexuals and bisexuals. No generalizations exist which can be applied to all homophiles: Absolutely none. People who think they can tell, infallibly, just who is gay or bi are sadly mistaken: What allows them to believe so is that they never check their suppositions against the truth. When someone passes, they self-confidently assert, "There's one!" "He's got to be gay!" or "Get her!" Probability being what it is, they are sometimes right. And, to be fair, there are sometimes cultural clues: But these clues are ambiguous and are becoming more so. The simple fact of the matter is that you can't be sure on the basis of appearance, mannerism, speech, walk, political opinion or anything else whether the person sitting across from you at lunch, or next to you in class is absolutely straight or not. The Valley Advocate's Personals certainly attest to that: "GWM, straight appearing and acting..."

I write all this not to stir up a thousand minor inquisitions; I say this not to upset or annoy those who disapprove of homosexuality or bisexuality. I say these things only to convince you that when you speak of homophiles, you speak of people that you know, that you see every day—whom you may have as friends or see in a straight relationship. You are not speaking about an entire class of people all of whom lisp and dance or dress in leather and wear chains. You are not talking just of the flamboyant, the butch, the effeminate, or the otherwise extreme; you are also talking about people a lot more like youself than you may think.

For instance, you speak about ME.

John C. Parker is a Collegian columnist

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Let's liven it up a bit, folks!

I am often quite amazed at the fact that there is suich a great lack of humor within the columns of this newspaper. Oh, please don't misunderstand me, for there are those individuals who do attempt to make a joke every now and then, and yes, they do try hard. However, I would find it much more amusing to urinate upon my own foot, although I must say that I am not often in the habit of doing so.

JIMMY ALLISON III

Why must the students of this university be bored to death by reading those topics which have time and time again been beaten into the ground? True, it does give those with fern-like intelligence more than enough material to work with; however, the student body should not be made to suffer.

Okay, so we know that Teddy Kennedy is by no means a lifeguard. We know that Jerry is attempting to solar power Linda's undies and that Ronald Regan was embalmed in 1976. Of course there is also the draft, the draft, the draft, the draft and the draft. This is fine, yes, fine and dandy, but could we not spend just a little less time on these subjects and direct some of our attention to subjects of a lighter, satirical and more creative nature?

I am sure that subjects which are considered to be important current events must be fairly dealt with, for after all it is news. However, one or two serious, all knowing, ever so worldly, God-inspired writings by enlightened indivduals regarding a specific topic would more than suffice.

There is no doubt in my mind that if a poll were taken the majority of the student body would be in total agreement with what I am saying. Of course those who do not agree are indeed entitled to their own opinion. I, however, feel they should be killed.

Let us face the facts. This world is depressing and boring enough as it is. There is no reason to add to this depression and boredom by constantly writing depressing and boring editorial columns.

I would like to conclude this writing by appealing to the UMass student body. Let's loosen up a bit and get away from writing too many of the same ho-hum articles. Let's add a little spice to this paper, liven it up a little. And most of all, don't forget to neuter your cat. You will both be much happier.

Jimmy Allison is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Field vs. SGA: One more time

To the Editor:

SGA Attorney General Ann Bolger has worked most cooperatively and effectively with the Dean of Students Office throughout this year to upgrade and re-vitalize the student-staff judicial system and to strengthen student participation in the disciplinary process. She has, however, in her Collegian article of 2/11/80, moved outside her sphere of competence and assumed the uncharacteristic role of apologist and spokesperson for the "Tamany Hall" members of the SGA or for the leaders of its "let's keep out heads in the sand" group of politicians. Ms. Bolger overlooks the very simplest of truths: that things that don't work need to be fixed, and practices that are wrong need to be made right. As Attorney General her anger should be directed not at a document which records conflict and corruption nor to those who call attention to these failures, but rather to the correction of all violations of sound, legal and reasonable governmental behavior.

The student government leadership has not challenged the accuracy of the report which documents weaknesses in the Student Activities' system. Not one fact or matter of substance has been refuted or even effectively addressed. Even the Attorney General has chosen to ignore any of the real issues raised and concentrates instead on spurious issues, such as who received the report and how.

Late in the first semester I gave a draft of the report to Stephen B. Klein, then Executive Editor of the Collegian (referred to curiously by Ann Bolger as "editor-in-chief of a public newspaper"). The report was to have been presented to and discussed with student officials of the SGA in my office. Mr. Klein had undertaken to arrange such a meeting. Unfortunately the meeting did not occur as planned. The SGA officials did not arrive on either of the scheduled dates 11/16/79, 11/21/79. When Ann Bolger asked for a copy at mid-semester break it was immediately given to her in her role as Attorney General. She seems now to be devoting her energies to deploring the existence of the report rather than deploring the irresponsible and confused actions which are recorded in the report.

Ms. Bolger is correct when she points out that the report primarily calls attention to areas which need improvement and does not report the many excellent services rendered by student organizations and the many creative programs underway. It is the nature of government of any kind in a free society that one is supposed to do things right and one is expected to be honest and effective in a position of leadership. All of us who hold positions of public responsibility realize that compliments are not likely to be received. Failures will be identified and one must expect to respond with positive action.

The "good," the "effective" activities of SGA are detailed in the thousands of copies of University Directions given to UMass students, and in publications received by every applicant to the University, as well as those from SGA's own P.R. people. Surely a few pages of critical comment intended to draw attention to continuing deficiencies is not the ultimate heresy.

Finally, Ms. Bolger reports that all such matters of fiscal impropriety are safely in the past: "that our procedures are now clear and effective and our accounting system accurate." I am afraid that the Attorney General is either ill-informed or is intentionally misleading her readers. She works closely enough with the attorneys in the Legal Services Office to realize that at least one police investigation into allegations of falsified state records, and possible illegal payment of state and federal money in a student-run business was blocked by the removal of these state records to the Legal Services Office's files where they were held for several weeks before being returned to their rightful place.

In my letter of 4 February 1980 to one of the Legal Services staff, in which I insisted upon the return of these records, I concluded with the following paragraph: "There is finally a comment I wish to make which is not in direct response to your letter, but which seeks to address the obstructional stance you seem so frequently to assume. Why you should wish to seize and hold records which may contain evidence of violations of law or regulation in an activity which is in direct service to students and the University, I cannot understand. Insuring the honesty and integrity of all student involved activities and enterprises is clearly 'protecting' student interests. Shielding from open examination the behavior of any individual or system which may violate ths standard of integrity contributes to an atmosphere of distrust which ultimately weakens the very fiber of student enterprise."

William F. Field
Dean of Students

More on draft: Beware the fiat

To the Editor:

This is the first time in the history of the United States, either peacetime or wartime, that draft registration was ordered by a president, without a vote of Congress! It is only the third peacetime draft registration in U.S. history, all since 1940.

A computer survey (data source, Statistical Abstract of the U.S.) shows that in peace years prior to World War II, the active armed forces were 0.14 percent of the U.S. population. Since World War II, the percentage has been 1.47.

It is tragic that we have ignored the Founding Fathers' fears of standing armies, George Washington's farewell address warning of the danger of entangling foreign alliances, and Eisenhower's admonition of the military-industrial complex.

Sixty million barrels of oil are produced in the world each day. Russia has more oil than Saudi Arabia. America now consumes 18 million barrels of oil a day, of which eight million are imported. America is in a vulnerable position right now and we should give long and careful thought before rushing into the war that a peacetime draft registration will almost surely bring.

No good can come from anything as immoral as enslaving our children to kill, be maimed, and/or die for our gas gluttony. Or, as a New York City psychoanalyst wrote me, "Every draft is a holocaust."

The young should recall two truisms, "A peacetime draft is un-American," and "Conscription causes war," as we rally to volunteer for Congressman Anderson and/or Senator Kennedy in the rapidly approaching March 4 Massachusetts primary.

Yours for Peace,
Paul W. Walter, Jr.

Photo courtesy of Union Program Council

Taj Mahal—feelin' good

By ROB HUFFMAN
special to the Collegian

The packed Student Union Ballroom was feelin' good Thursday night as Taj Mahal transmitted his timeless good vibrations to friends old and new.

The Stockbridge graduate (real name—Frederick Henery) sang, whistled, and played guitar and piano on popular selections such as "Ain't nobodies Business", "Going up to the Country, Paint My Mail Box Blue", and an eclectic version of Elizabeth Cotten's classic "Freight Train". The enthusiastic audience sang along and clapped with many of the tunes, while some shaked, shuffled, and strutted to the rhythmic music in the dancing space that the Union Program Council was considerate enough to provide.

The tight, often funky, occasionally spacey band consisted of Bill Rich bass, Jumma Santos, percussion, Kester Smith, drums, and Rudy Costa, saxophones and kalimbas (also known as thumb pianos). They are in the midst of a tour that will, ultimately, take them to Hawaii and Fiji, which they are obviously looking forward to. Last fall, Taj and his musicians were fortunate enough to make an extensive tour of Africa, where they picked up quite a few native musical instruments, including some of Rudy's Kalimbas, and Jumma's percussion instruments. A lengthy standing ovation brought the group back for an exciting five-song encore, which included the reggae "Johnny Too Bad", and the folkie "Fishin' Blues".

Blues Guitarist Jimmy "Fast Fingers" Dawkins opened the show, envigorating the Valentine's evening crowd with his matching suit and guitar licks.

In an interview after the show, Taj spoke candidly about UMass, the recording industry, guitars, the common cold and more. Read what the man has to say in the premier issue of the Collegian Arts Magazine, appearing one week from tomorrow.

'Ramayana' poorly done

By MICHAEL MARTINEAU
Collegian Staff

My mother once said to me a long, long time ago, "If you don't have anything good to say, don't say anything at all." Perhaps, out of deference to Mom, I should avoid any further discussion of Smith College's production of Valkimi's "Ramayana."

The story of Ramayana is a simple one. Rama is a poor hermit, unjustly exiled to the forest, though he is rightfully heir to the throne of Ayodhya. His wife, Sita, is stolen from him by Ravana, the ten headed demon king. (Honest!) Eventually, through the assistance of his brother, Lakshmana, and Sugriva, the king of the monkey kingdom, good does triumph over evil, but not without some anxious moments for all.

Smith College student Lenore Platt deserves immense credit for her clever production concept and design, and most especially, her script. Writing an adaptation of an ancient Sanskrit epic is indeed an ambitious undertaking, but on seeing that Ms. Platt was also responsible for the direction, it appears that she tried to wear too many hats.

Right away, we are presented with the possibility of an intriguing evening, with actors dressed in black, wearing masks, with life-sized puppets strapped to their bodies. While a nice idea, it virtually demands that the cast be that much more interesting and imaginative with their bodies and voices. Unfortunately, the performers, down to the last individual, were unable to rise to the challenge.

The script offers many possibilities for some tongue-in-cheek playing, but only a few of them are actually recognized, and are attacked so heavy handedly that they die of overkill. While that was a major flaw, the most fatal mistake was the incredible misuse of the incidental music.

The play is constructed in short scenes, which ends in a blackout, during which mood music was provided in an appropriate Hindu motif. Now the use of music to cover an elaborate scene change is a common theater convention that most of us are familiar with but there are no changes extensive enough to warrant us sitting in total darkness for several minutes, several times during the course of the evening.

The small ensemble was not selective enough in their choices to keep those blackouts from becoming an ordeal of numbing dirges. This dragged the pace of the play, which is not intended to be overly-fast anyway, down to a crawl. Ms. Platt's work deserved a better fate than the one that she and her cast provided it.

Youth is our Concern

The Piarists are a Catholic Order of priests and brothers who dedicate their lives to educate the young. They work in schools, CCD programs and parishes. For more information write:

Vocation Director
The Piarists
363 Valley Forge Road
Devon, Pennsylvania 19333

Want a fun summer job?

We've found it for you in the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States — camps, dude ranches, commercial resorts, summer theaters, amusement parks and more. Paperback, 208 pages. $6.95. Get a copy today from your campus bookstore, write to Dept. CA Writer's Digest Books 9933 Alliance Road, Cincinnati, OH 45242 (include $1.25 for shipping and handling)

Enter an Essay Contest sponsored by the Collegian and the Massachusetts Press Assoc. Win $20! See your essay in print! Contact Lisa Capone at the Collegian for details. Deadline: Feb. 25.

"Jazzy Oxford"

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course

Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.

MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.

NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824-7888
Ask for Operator 116

Party

with the World's Greatest Reggae, Rock, Calypso and Comedy Band!

THE BERMUDA STROLLERS
Wed. and Thurs. 8:00 PM
QR Rt. 9 Hadley
$4.00 (one free drink with ID) All Ages Welcome
ONE FREE TRIP TO BERMUDA 5 days 4 nights for two - all expenses paid Raffled off each night

Tickets available at: Platterpus Records, For the Record (FACES) and Union Records Unlimited

Catholic Marriage Course
1980
"How to Have a Happy Marriage"
Newman Center
Beginning Thursday
February 14th
8 pm
Everyone Welcome

2 for 1 SALE
Two prints for the price of one!

Now, Stop & Shop will give you...with all 110, 126 or 35mm color print film brought in for processing...FREE, one complete set of extra prints! Yes! You'll automatically get 2 sets of prints for the price of 1...beautiful prints from our own photo lab. You won't have to ask for your free prints either. They'll be right in your envelope every time you bring in color print film...right through May 31, 1980.

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — K29 — 89¢ 8.2 ounce tube AIM TOOTHPASTE — Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23. Limit one per customer — GROCERY 296

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — K28 — 59¢ Stop & Shop Sliced CINNAMON 14oz. pkg. COFFEE CAKE — Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23. Limit one per customer — BAKERY 298

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — K27 — 49¢ Stop & Shop GRADE A LARGE EGGS DOZEN — Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23. Limit one per customer — DAIRY 297

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — K26 — 10¢ Kraft. 7¼oz. pkg. MACARONI & CHEESE — Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23. Limit one per customer — GROCERY 296

Stop & Shop — ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES — SUPERMARKETS

Values for Lent

More ways to save on good eating meals at Stop & Shop.

seafood For Lenten meals!

Save on a variety of delicious seafare for tasty Lenten eating.

Fresh Cod Steaks $1.69 lb
Fresh Cod Fillets $1.99 lb
Fresh Trout Dressed Whole $1.99 lb
Fresh Flounder Fillets $2.99 lb
Frozen Haddock Schrod Fillets $1.79 lb
Cooked Shrimp Jumbo Size, Tails On $1.89
Matlaws Clams 30oz pkg. Stuffed Frozen $1.79
Cooked Haddock or Flounder Fillets Stop & Shop Butter Dipped 16 pkg. Frozen $2.29

self service deli Specials!

1 Pound Package Colonial Bacon Sliced $1.19
Meat Bologna Stop & Shop Sliced 1 lb. Package $1.19
Kielbasi Hickory or Garlic Smoked Polish Sausage $1.99 lb.
Extra Mild Franks 1 lb. pkg. $1.19 corner deli Meats & Salads!

Available in stores with service deli.
Domestic Cooked Ham Sectioned & Formed $2.19 lb
Swiss Cheese Imported Australian $2.89 lb
Turkey Breast Oven Roasted Whole Cut $4.49 lb
Potato Salad Regular or Oil & Vinegar 55¢

bakery You'll enjoy everything!

Stop & Shop Hot Cross Buns 15 Ounce Pkg. 99¢
Cherry Pie 1.39
Pepperidge Farm Apple Bread With Cinnamon 16 Ounce Loaf NEW! $1.25
Table Talk 1.29

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — Save 30¢ on any STOP & SHOP PIZZA Sold Fresh in our Meat Dept. — Coupon Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23 — MEAT ★ 225

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon — K30 — SAVE 25¢ STOP & SHOP SHARPCHEDDAR Cheese or Danish Havarti Random Wt. Pkg. — Coupon Good Tues. Feb. 19-Sat. Feb. 23 — DAIRY ★ 295

Stop & Shop USDA Choice "Great Beef"
Beef Bottom Round Roast $1.79 lb up to 5lbs.
To roast to medium, cook 25 mins. per pound at 350—it'll be tender, juicy and lean!
Rump Roast Beef Round USDA Choice $1.99 lb
Beef Bottom Round Steak For Swissing $2.19 lb
Beef Eye Round Roast USDA Choice $2.49 lb

Cooked Ham Shank Portion Water Added 79¢ lb
Cooked Ham Rump Portion Water Added 89¢ lb
Cooked Ham Steak Water Added $1.59 lb
Cooked Ham Whole 16-18lbs. Water Added 99¢ lb

PERDUE Roasting Chicken Perdue Oven Stuffer 5-6 Pounds 79¢ lb
"White Gem" Chicken Thighs 79¢ lb
"White Gem" Chicken Drumsticks 99¢ lb

Shoulder Lamb Chops New Zealand Frozen $1.39 lb
Whole Lamb Legs Oven Ready New Zealand Frozen $1.59 lb
New Zealand Lamb for Stew Frozen 79¢ lb produce Fresh from sunny Calif. growing areas.

Pick & Choose Jumbo Sunkist Citrus Sale!
Mammoth 48 Size Navel Oranges
Jumbo Mandarin 84 Size Tangerines
Jumbo 75 Size Lemons
6 for $1

Lenten Fresh Salad Sale!
Lettuce Red or Green Leaf 49¢ ea.
Tomatoes Large Slicing 59¢ lb.
Cucumbers Fresh Crisp 4 for $1
Fresh Mild Scallions bunch 3 for 79¢
Crisp Tangy 1 lb pkg. Radishes 3 for $1

Snow's Clam Chowder New England Style 15 Ounce Can 79¢
Sunshine Oyster Crackers 12 Ounce Package 79¢
Muellers Egg Noodles Fine, Medium or Broad 12 Ounce Package 2 for $1
Mushrooms Stop & Shop Stems & Pieces. 4oz. Can 2 for 89¢
Stop & Shop Potato Chips 12 Ounce Package 79¢
Starkist White Tuna Solid in water. 7 ounce can 99¢
Kraft Dressings Creamy Italian or Cucumber. 8 ounce btl 65¢
Nestle's Lunch Time Tuna & Celery Plus 4 Varieties 69¢
Economy Spaghetti Regular, Thin or Elbows. 16oz package 3 for $1
Hunts Prima Salsa Spaghetti Sauce. Plain. Meat or Mushroom. 32oz. jar 99¢
Hi-C Fruit Drink Flavored Orange, Grape or Fruit Punch. 64 ounce bottle 79¢
Nescafe Coffee Instant. 10 ounce jar $4.99
Vanity Fair Bath Tissue Print. 375/2ply Sheet Roll 4 Pack 99¢
Nescafe Decaffeinated Instant Coffee 8 ounce jar $5.29
Vanity Fair Tissue Print, Facial 134 2/Ply Sheet Box 59¢
Skippy Dog Food Chunk Beef, Three & One or Burger & Cheese. 14½oz Can 3 for $1
Light Bulbs Amplex Inside Frost 60-75-100 watt bulbs 4 for 79¢
Kleen Kitty Plus Cat Litter 10 pound bag $1.39
Cotton Swabs Stop & Shop Package of 180 2 for $1
Anacin Tablets Bottle of 100 $1.39

frozen foods Plan good Lenten meals with these buys!

French Fries Stop & Shop 2 Pound Bag Reg. or Crinkle Cut 69¢
Minute Maid Orange Juice 12 Ounce Can 89¢
Macaroni & Cheese Stop & Shop 2 Pound Package $1.29
Mrs. Smith Cherry Pie 26 ounce package $1.79
Banquet Pot Pies Beef, Turkey or Chicken. 8oz pkg. 3 for 89¢
Newton Acres Carrots Sliced 24oz. package or Whole 16oz. package 69¢
Green Giant Vegetables 10oz pkg. LeSueur Peas, Brussel Sprouts, Rice & Broccoli or Corn 69¢
Sara Lee Rings Blueberry, Raspberry, Maple or Almond. Varied Weight pkg 89¢
Pet Whip Topping 9 Ounce Container 59¢
Hood Ice Cream Asstd. Flavors ½ Gallon Container $1.59

dairy Everything's dated for freshness!

Tropicana Orange Juice From concentrate. 64oz Carton $1.09
Hood Sour Cream 16 Ounce Cup 89¢
Kraft Philadelphia Whipped Cream Cheese. Plain or Onion. 8 ounce pkg 89¢
Light n' Lively or Seaforest Cottage Cheese. Small or Large Curd. 16oz cup 79¢
Kraft Cheese Processed American Slices White or Yellow. 12oz. pkg $1.39
Kraft Swiss Cheese Sliced. Individually Wrapped 8 ounce package $1.29
Sweet n' Low Yogurt Strawberry, Raspberry, Blueberry or Lemon 3 8oz cups $1
Mrs. Filberts Margarine Golden Quarters. 1 Pound Package 2 for $1

Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

★ Issues

CONT FROM PAGE 3

sion. Karen Vogel, 21, of Amherst, summed it up.

"I'm not sure what the ERA is all about," she said.

Trisha Rowe spoke about the importance of having a president who was responsive to women who hold political offices.

"I would not vote for someone like Carter who has shown that he can't work with women and accept criticism from them," she said.

"I wish one of the candidates would pick a woman as his running mate," said Lynn Connors, 21, of Amherst.

President of the Amherst League of Women Voters, Dona Motts, told The Collegian that her organization provided a forum for campaign issues, and encouraged participation in the electoral proces..

"One of the best things women can do is talk to the candidates and their staffs," she said. "There's no need to be afraid. It's at the time of the primary that the candidates are most interested in listening to their constituents."

"It is important for us to have meaningful questions ready, and when a candidate is here, go to the microphone," she said.

★ Burke

CONT FROM PAGE 3

music.

The first student selected by President Carter for a question jumped up and proclaimed "I'm from the University of Texas in Dallas, and I want you to know that there's a big group of us that support you." A staged question?

The Collegian was considering a story about the Tune Inn, a Capitol Hill bar with a southern flavor and a lot of politicians for clients. But the UMass daily was beaten by the New York Times, which mentioned the Tune Inn in a recent review of Washington nightlife, and by Omni magazine, whose two-page spread last month was written by William Stuckey, father of UMass student Marie Stuckey.

—Joe Quinlan

★ Briefing

CONT FROM PAGE 3

without any United States military involvement.

Answering another question, he said Yugoslavia would not succumb to Russia if Marshall Tito dies.

Turning the questioning on the students, Brzezinski asked what is unique about the Yugoslavian constitution. When several students failed to answer his question, Brzezinski told them that it is unconstitutional to surrender in Yugoslavia.

Carter defended his call for registration and other decisions in his term as president. He reminded students of his peaceful tenure.

He said he is the first president in 56 years to not have a soldier killed in combat. "It's not easy for a country like our's to avoid combat," Carter siad.

In an answer to a question by a student from a Black southern college, Carter said his administration is committed to a permanent role for black colleges in American higher education.

PREPARE FOR:

OUR 41st YEAR

MCAT • DAT • LSAT • GMAT • GRE
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • PCAT
OCAT • VAT • MAT • SAT • TOEFL
NMB I, II, III • ECFMG • FLEX • VQE
NDB I, II • NPB I • NLE

Flexible Programs & Hours

Visit Any Center And See For Yourself Why We Make The Difference

In Amherst:
264 N. Pleasant St. (413) 253-5108
Classes Begin:
MCAT 2/16 & 3/23/31
LSAT 3/1 GRE 2/23

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Please call the Center for details
Outside N.Y. State Only CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782
Centers in Major US Cities, Toronto, Puerto Rico and Lugano, Switzerland

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating

TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer — 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG

STAR TREK — 2:00-(5:45 @ $1.50)-8:15 G

THE FOG — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R

KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.

THE MOST FUN YOU'LL EVER HAVE Midnight Madness — 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 PG

STEVE MARTIN The JERK — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R

Richard Gere American Gigolo — (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 R

DOM DeLUISE Fatso — 2:00-(6:15 @ $1.50) PG

UPC Productions PRESENTS

THE
Jerry Garcia Band
with
John Kahn
Johnny D'Fonseca
David Ozzie Ahlers
with special guest Rachael Sweet
Wed. Feb. 20, 7 & 10 PM
TWO SHOWS

Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall

Tickets: $7.50, 7.00, 6.50 - Students
8.50, 8.00, 7.50 - Non students
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX, Union Records, Platterpus

Photo by Matt Fasberg

Tickets for The Pat Metheny Group on Sun. Feb. 24 are still available at FAC Box Office, TIX Union Records Unlimited and Platterpus

RUN FOR PRESIDENT

On Thursday Feb. 21 nominations will open for President of the Student Government Association.

The President shall be responsible for relations between the S.G.A. and the Administration, Faculty, and Board of Trustees.

Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the presidency. Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. They must be signed by at least 250 constituents and returned to 420 S.U. by Thursday February 28 at 5:00.

Slimline TI-35.™

Economical LCD scientific calculator with Constant Memory™ feature. From Texas Instruments.

For students and professionals on the move. The pocket-portable Slimline TI-35 makes short work of problems in algebra, trigonometry, and statistics. 54 functions plus TI's Constant Memory feature that retains data stored in memory even when the calculator is turned off. Large, easy-to-read liquid crystal display. Two miniature batteries provide up to 2 years of normal operation. Includes handy vinyl wallet case and detailed owner's manual. See the Slimline TI-35 today. ...only $21.95

the calculator store
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

STADIUM

KEGS— BEER— U. Mass. Amherst LIQUORS WINE—

LIQUORS

500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl. 2.75 6 pack 9.90 case

Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre..... 11.49

Donelli 1.5 litre Soave, Valpolicella, Bardilino 2.99

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

Amherst Store Now
Delivering for Lunch at 11 AM

4 FREE 12 OZ. COKES WITH A LARGE PIZZA
2 FREE 12 OZ. COKES WITH A SMALL PIZZA

584-7583
143 Main St.
Florence
5 PM - 1 AM

256-8587
Corner Main & Triangle
Amherst
11 AM - 3 AM

Your Pizza will arrive hot and within 30 minutes

This certificate entitles the bearer to a reduction
$1 OFF
Any size two-item Pizza ordered
Sunday thru Thursday in February
256-8587 584-7583 one coupon per pizza

We're looking for a few good college men and women, with enough back-bone to grab responsibility, enough pride to be Marine Officers. Prove to us you have what it takes to become a Marine Corps Officer through the platoon leaders class "PLC" program. The primary college officer commissioning program of the Marine Corps.

PLC has no on-campus drills or grooming standards. PLC allows you to experience Marine training with no obligation.

PLC's can receive $100 monthly, for up to three years. PLC is the only commissioning program which provides pay credit for "time in service" during college.

PLC guarantees pilot training for those that qualify.

Interested? See us when we're on campus or call collect in Hartford 244-2168/244-2169 we will be visiting your campus on Wed. and Thurs. Feb. 20 and 21 and will be located in rooms 171 & 173 in the Campus Center. Your Marine representatives are Capt. Schultz & Gysgt. Posey.

UMASS

FRESHMEN
SOPHMORES
JUNIORS

GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR COLLEGE YEARS

Please return form to:
United States Marine Corps
Officer Selection Office
135 High Street
Hartford, CT 06103

_____I would like to arrange a personal interview with a Marine Representative
_____I would like additional information about Marine Corps Officer Programs
Call me at (Area Code)_____
Name_____
Last First Middle
Address_____
City State Zip
Date of:_____
Birth College Graduation
University _____ GPA _____

THE FEW, THE PROUD, THE MARINES

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

A LATE VALENTINE

To My Best Face: Happy first Valentine's Day! Love from Maximillian, Tiffany, Maggie, Mikey, and of course your Pooh Bear.

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 Chevy Caprice. Excellent running condition & body. Must sell. $1300. Call 1-467-3465 after 5.

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'68 Chevrolet Impala runs well and is reliable. Fred 546-3254

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $40^0 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

'75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

Chevy Impala good condition $300 call for details Dave 6-7421

66 Dodge Dart Convert. $450/256-0680

1970 Dodge Dart needs repair 150 or BO 546-8089

Tha car that takes you where you want to go Plymouth Fury II runs exelnt just $375 call early or late 549-4063

1973 Pinto Wagon 40,000 miles, automatic, $1295 253-7967

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

ENTERTAINMENT

Pro soundsystem for rent. Perfect for coffeehouses, discos, etc. MFSound 546-8865, 546-8777

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

For the best in Party Entertainment anytime call Dave at GATS Sound-253-7177, DJ's for over a fiftieth of a century

ESSAY CONTEST

Win $20 and see your work in print! The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest. In 750 words or less tell how the women's movement has affected you. Contact Lisa at 5-3500 for details.

FORGOTTEN VALENTINES

To Carla my little one. I love you Bill

FOR RENT

Hotel Warren So. Deerfield rooms daily, weekly, monthly rentals call 665-7093

FOR SALE

Yashica Lynx-500 35 mm Rangefinder $60.00 256-8064

Weimaraner male pups AKC silver thoroughbreds for show, field or distinctive companionship. 1-413-339-6688.

Woman's 10 speed Bicycle almost never used, $100. or BO 323-4077 after 6 pm

For Sale Turntable Phillips 212 semi-automatic $85 or BO Pair of AR2 Speakers $150. 323-4077 after 6

Olin Skis used 2 seasons, 160 cm, Solomon bindings, Nordica boots & poles good deal, $130 Steve 549-6769

Gut-string Guitar good shape, call 549-1766

Mens ten-speed bike Mercier by Peugeot excellent condition, 200.00 or BO call 323-4077 after 6:00 pm

Hi speed cassette & duplication service-rumote recording Wholesale prices on Quality Blank Cassettes (no min.) Our quality the same as Maxell UDSL at ½ price. Lifetime guarantee. Free brochure, spec sheet, Omni Cassette & Duplication Mfg. P.O. Box 156, Northfield, MA 413-498-5851

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Martial Arts Belt about Jan 30, 1980 call Tim 546-4203 and identify by color

Found: a young grey cat wearing a pink collar in Brandywine Apts. Call Kim 549-5063

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

INSTRUCTION

Basic auto-mechanics workshop. 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure. Autoskills Box 21\) Amherst

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Basic Auto Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure: Autoskills, Box 120, Amherst

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Need Help with Spanish? Call Mary 256-6719

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Lost gold wire frame glasses Reward call Chris 546-7703

PERSONALS

Female needed to accompany two others to Ft. Lauderdale during March break. Will split expenses. Call 549-5957

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

GBFin 362 Law III Goldman's exams wanted. Will pay cash. Call Dan 665-7721

Daytona Beach during Spring Break March 15-22. Peter Pan World Travel agents MC130223 want you to leave the driving worries to them. 8 days round trip and accomodations. 1 block from boardwalk. 4 persons per room. $229 each. Optional day trip to Disney World. Deadline Feb. 20. Please call S. Rayner 256-0675 or J. Hyde 1-773-3854

Poetry wanted for Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Literary Arts Press, 132 Nassau, Suite 212, New York, New York 10038

Are you interested in service and fun? Come find out about GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA the National Service Sorority. Open Rush 2/19, 21 at 6 pm and 2/25 at 7 pm in SU 304

To three poor Cramptonites without Valentines: Sorry, but there's always next year

Men interested in forming a group to combat violence against women first meeting Wednesday February 20 at 7:30 Campus Center room 905-909. For further info call Louie at 546-4554 or Bill at 546-4562

Buying Silver—Pre 64 coins and Sterling paying current market prices 546-6291 ask for Dave

Charismatic Prayer and BS CC 804-808 Tues Feb 19 8-10 pm

To the ignorent goons in the A-D line at Bursar's 2/14/80. How it feel to have the mentality of a zucchini? Especially Scott Crow! YOU ALL SUCK! Line cutters in Bursar's are as well liked as Russians in Afghanistan!

Mike in my Psych 150—you remind me of someone!!!

R.W. Sorry about the typo in the Valentine. It was a dumb message anyway. I love you back too. B.C.

Good at Stats? Take a course, salary commensurable 549-5934 Paul

RIDE WANTED

Wanted: ride to Wash DC will share expenses weekend of 22nd Carolyn 253-5394

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny rm in house 5 min. to campus & town. Fireplace, TV Kit., sundecks 120/mo 549-4018 346 N. Pleasant

Down to earth roommate wanted for 2-bedroom apt. Sunderland 150/mo. 665-4373

Female roomate 3 bedroom house Belchertown Rd. bus route $92 month fireplace 4 acres Laurie 546-7424

Male roomate wanted Puffton Village $75/mo includes heat 549-6146

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Tune ups all models $15 labor 586-3695 50472

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Experienced housecleaner 3 hours/week references Call 256-6151

WANTED TO RENT

All or part of a house in Amherst for fall 1980 2-4 bedrooms call Rick nights 546-6561

Highlander
C-90
3 in a bag

only $3.99
our reg low price $5.99

SPECIAL PRICE
SALE
As long as supplies last, buy three Scotch Brand Highlander C-90 cassettes at a reduced price.
"SCOTCH"
RECORDING TAPE
The Truth Comes Out

your store for "sound economy"

in the campus center umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
All for $5.50
with this coupon only

With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only,
limited to new customers only

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549 5610
Shirmack
62 Main St. Easthampton, Ma 527 2411

Tropical Party with
The BERMUDA STROLLERS
A unique combination of Reggae, Rock, Calypso and Comedy
Weds. and Thurs. Nights
QR Rt. 9 Hadley 8:00 PM $4.
(includes one free drink with ID)
all ages welcome
tickets at URU, For the Record, BKO

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks
8-9 p.m. 50c
9-10 p.m. 75c
10 p.m.-closing $1.00
Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Enjoy
6 Treater
10 "Away!"
14 Quick
15 Foot pt.
16 Poi source
17 Strongboxes: Slang
18 Refined
19 Bard of — 20 Inclines
22 Amaze
24 Equivocated
26 Dors
27 Garments
31 Yr. parts
32 Mr. Shaw
33 Weary: 2 words
35 Plunge
38 Discovery
39 Languish
40 Unusual
41 Greek letter
42 Ribs, e.g.
43 Imp
44 NaCl
45 Dregs
47 Filaments
51 Flower
52 Insects
54 Mood
58 Skating —
59 Housetop
61 Demean
62 Church part
63 Corrupt
64 European river
65 Reward
66 Depend
67 Went astray

DOWN
1 Fools
2 Fish sauce
3 Life; Latin
4 Superimposed
5 Rest
6 Haunch
7 Burden
8 Scour
9 Electronic music-maker
10 Beginnings
11 Bicker
12 Got up
13 Shades
21 Notice
23 Lowly one
25 Haggard
27 Secure
28 Legal paper
29 Volcano
30 Plums
34 Mislayer
35 Titled one
36 Metal
37 Confined
39 Flux user
40 Recall
42 Shore
43 Sickness
44 Fired
46 Period
47 "Beat It!"
48 Trash
49 Wash
50 Range
53 Dirt
55 Brace
56 Serf
57 Rattan
60 Go by jet

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved:

DC menu

Lunch
Roast Beef Grinder
Pork Fried Rice/Duck Sauce
Soy, Sauce
Basics Lunch
Tofu Salad Plate
Vegetable Fried Rice
Dinner
MARDI GRAS
Ham l'Orange
Lousiana Chicken
Basics Dinner
Creole Eggplant
Louisiana Chicken

Earthfoods
Tofu Lasagne
Rice/Bulghar
Split Pea Soup
Spinach Salad with Poppy Seed Dressing

UPC PRODUCTIONS presents
THE KINKS
IN CONCERT
Thursday, March 6, 8 pm
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on Sale Thurs. Feb. 21!
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX & Union Records (UMass)
Platterpus (Northampton) Students - $8.50, 8.00, 7.50
Non Students - 9.50, 9.00, 8.50
For Info Call 545-2892
No Bottles, Cans or Alcohol

TUESDAYS
2 for 1 Night
(All Mixed Drinks)
9-11
Disco/Oldies
No Cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

NOTICES

THE STUDENT UNION GALLERY is still accepting submissions for the Staff Women's Show February 24-29. Women with original arts, crafts, photos, sculpture, etc. are encouraged to participate. Please bring in photograph or description of work to the Gallery room 115A Student Union. For more information call 545-0792.

PRE-MED SOCIETY MEETING today at 6:30, CC Rm 904-908. Important: Elections for next semester will be held. All are welcome.

HAVE A CONSUMER COMPLAINT? The UMass Consumer Action Center can help you get results. Available to all Five-College Students, faculty, and staff. Open Monday through Wednesday from 9-5. Located on the second floor of the SU in room 423B. For more information or assistance call 545-0199 or 545-0781, or stop by anytime.

SECOND SEMESTER SOPHOMORES wishing to design individualized majors should contaqct the Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration Program (BDIC) in 15 Bartlett Hall well before pre-registration for Fall '80. Call 5-0736 for information.

UMass MARKETING CLUB presents its first speaker program guest of the semester, Francis P. Lucier, president of Black & Decker, today at 7pm in room 168 of the Campus Center. All are welcome.

FREE PHYSICAL FITNESS WORKSHOP for students and student dependents: Tuesdays, March 4th and 11th, 7 pm to 9 pm, at the University Health Services in room 208. Pre-registration required. Pre-register in Health Education at UHS. Deadline February 20th. First come, first served. For More information, phone 549-2671 Ext. 181

Persons interested in the possibilty of sponsoring refugee families from Southeast Asia are invited to an informational meeting sponsored by the Hampshire Association of the United Church of Christ, the United Church Board for World Ministries, Church World Service, and the U.S. State Department. This meeting will be held on Sunday, February 24, at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Northampton.

HOUSE CHURCH NOTICE and a simple candlelight (real bread, real wine, real communion) each Sunday evening from 7-9 in 428 Student Union. Open to all. More info 545-2661.

AMATUER RADIO. The UMass A.R. Club will hold its next meeting on Tues. Feb. 19th at 7:30 pm in ELAB Bldg. Rm. 109. Everyone interested in amatuer radio is invited to attend the meeting.

THE PRE-VET CLUB will be having their second meeting of the semester Tuesday Feb. 19 at 7 pm in Paige 202. Election of officers will be held and Dr. Robert Dube will be speaking on the future of dairy farming.

THE PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE weekly meeting will be held Thursday in Campus Center 804-808 at 8pm. New people are encouraged to come and find out about gay events in the area. People who are on committees or who would like to be, should attend. Our political activism, social, education, speaker's bureau and publicity committees welcome your energy.

THE CHESS CLUB will meet Tuesday at the Campus Center in room 905 at 7:30. New members are welcome.

HUNGER TASK FORCE will meet Tuesday from 4:30 to 5:30 in Commonwealth Rm. (Earthfoods) in SUB. Everyone who wants to work on the issue of food and hunger issues is welcome.

James H. McManus Eating Place

Cup of Coffee 15¢
Each refill 15¢

BREAKFAST SPECIAL
2 Eggs, Homefries,
Toast or Muffin,
Juice and 1 cup of coffee $1.30

Coffee and Breakfast Special
Good 7 days a week, 7 AM to 10 PM

Hrs. Sun-Thurs till 3 AM — Fri and Sat open 24 hours

Zayre Shopping Center
Rt. 9 Amherst Hadley line

DOVES NEST RESTAURANT
RT. 116 AMHERST ROAD
SUNDERLAND, MASS.
NEXT TO BUS STOP
MON.-SAT. 6 AM - 8 PM SUN. 7 AM - 2 PM

coupon
FREE COFFEE with any Br akfast Special
or
FREE BEVERAGE with any Luncheon Sandwich

The Fine Arts Magazine of the Collegian will premier on Wed. March 27 Look for it!

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Plan for Summer to avoid High Fuel Costs
Rail Passes & Youth Hostels
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

Noreste, Admissions
August '80 applicants 4-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education small classes experienced teachers modern facilities
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

Do you live off- Campus?
Do you find the Bus Service adequate?
What do you think about:

- ★Rent Control in Amherst
- ★Child Care
- ★Senate Budgets
- ★Access to Services on this (your) University
- ★The Administrations attacks on Student decision making power

These questions and more await your input as a student senator. If you live Off-Campus, get involved!!
Pick up Nomination Papers at the Undergraduate Student Senate Office, 420 S.U.B.

The American Right to Choose:

Choose glasses: Choose designer frames . . . From Cardin to Von Furstenberg, you'll find them all.
If you're looking for budget frames . . . value starts as low as $5.00

Choose contacts: Bausch & Lomb or American Optical soft contact lenses are yours for only $89
Regularly $99.

One hour service for most soft contacts and glasses only at American Vision Center.
The largest inventory of soft contact lenses of all types are in American Vision Center all the time.

American Vision Center
Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Texas
HAMPSHIRE MALL
HADLEY
584-7958
American Express and all major credit cards accepted

PRESIDENT'S SALE
American Vision Center
Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Texas
SAVE $10. with this ad
$10. off any frame over $25.
Offer expires February 29.
HAMPSHIRE MALL
HADLEY
584-7958

Sports Notices

RUGBY — Practice starts Tuesday. There will be a meeting at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in Boyden 251. Come dressed to run. Newcomers are welcome.

The Intramural Wrestling Tournament will begin February 20 at the Boyden Wrestling Room. WEIGH-INS WILL BE HELD ON THE 20th FROM 6-7:00 PM. Wrestling Matches will begin on Thursday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 PM.
Additional Matches will be held in the Boyden Wrestling Room, 7:30 PM: February 25 & 26. Finals will be held at the Auxiliary Gymnasium on Wednesday, Feb. 27, 1980 at 7:00 PM.

UMass gymmen drop Springfield College

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

Bob Donahue earned a 51.60, his highest all around score ever, in leading the UMass men's gymnastics team to a 243.80-243.25 come-from-behind victory over Springfield College Saturday, in the Boyden Auxilary gymnasium.

The Minutemen were trailing the Chiefs 203.20-201.00 going into the last event, but came through with an excellent performance on the high bar to nip the visitors. Donahue scored an outstanding 9.25 and Hugh O'Neall tallied a 9.10, as Umass won the bar battle 42.80-40.05 to take the meet.

The UMass gymnasts held a slim three-point lead after the first event, as Dave Buegler and Bob Lamb scored a 9.20 and 9.10 respectively in the floor exercise competition. Donahue added an 8.70 and O'Neall tallied an 8.35. Jim Chin gave the best performance for Springfield, earning an 8.80.

Donahue scored a 7.55 on the pommel horse to aid the Minutemen to a one-point advantage and their second event win. Bob Ross earned a 7.45 while Tim Barry chipped in with a 7.40 performance.

With UMass leading 79.00-77.75 after the first two events, the Chiefs made their move, taking a three-point victory in the still rings competition, to gain a 119.90-118.05 overall lead. Mike Viola led the way for Springfield with a fine 9.40. Dave Felleman was tops for UMass with an 8.65.

The Springfield lead remained the same after the next event, as the squads tied at 44.25 in the vaulting competition. Lamb tallied an excellent 9.40 for the Minutemen, while Donahue contributed a 9.00.

The Chiefs then added to their lead, scoring a 39.05-38.70 victory on the parallel bars. Chin recorded a fine 8.75 for the visitors and Donahue added an identical score for the home club. Frank Cohen was next in line for the Minutemen with an 8.55.

Springfield was boasting a 2.2 edge going into that final event, but it wasn't to be, as the UMass gymmen came up with the exceptional high bar effort. Donahue's bar set was the best of his career.

"I felt Lamb's and Donahue's vaults kept it close," said UMass Coach Roy Johnson. "If we hadn't tied them (Springfield), they would have had a bigger lead, and more momentum."

The Minutemen, now with a record of 5-3, close out their season Saturday, when they travel to Temple University for a dual meet.

Maine dunks UM

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

ORONO, Maine — Okay, let's be realistic.

Maybe the Maine men's swim team isn't as famous as Maine's potatoes, but to the folks up in the north country, it must be pretty close.

The UMass swimmers rolled out of Augusta Sunday morning after coming out on the wrong end of a 90-23 decision to the Black Bears, still bewildered after an eight inch snow fall extended their stay in the Pine Tree State a full day.

With the victory, the Bears (now 6-0 versus Yankee Conference opponents) have clinched their fifth straight Conference title ahead of runner-up Boston University.

Under Coach Allan Switzer (68-23 since 1972), Maine now awaits the Eastern Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championships at the University of Pennsylvania, scheduled between March 6-8. Sixteen of Switzer's 18 man squad has qualified for the ESSDC.

In 1978, its first year in the Eastern's, the Bears finished eighth out of a pack of 24 teams. Switzer's clubs were victorious in the New England Intercollegiate Swimming Association Championships in 1976 and 1978, finishing second in 1977.

The UMass cast is now 2-6. Facing Central Connecticut on Tuesday and Amherst College on Thursday, the Minutemen are expected to fare well.

The Black Bears swarmed on UMass from the early stages of Saturday's meet, and when it was completed Maine had captured all 13 events in the competition, in addition to collecting 10 second place marks.

The Minutemen could do little to stifle Maine's potent assault, as with every event the Bears seemed to become more difficult to defeat.

Freshman Steve Samuel was UMass' stalwart performer, as he racked up six points with second place tallies in the 100-yard freestyle (50.92), and the 1000-free (11.09). It was the first time that Samuel had competed in the 40 lap race.

What the Minutemen are gearing toward now is preparation. To this point their record has not shown the potential which exists on the squad, and with the two remaining meets UMass is hoping to prepare itself for the New England Championships which will open in Springfield on March 6.

EUROPE by CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
45 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
☐ RENTAL ☐ LEASE ☐ PURCHASE
☐ EURAIL PASS & YOUTH PASS

IDB TIPS
Monday Class Schedule
On Wednesday, February 20, the University will be following a Monday class schedule.
The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore
545-1555

Stockbridge Presents
The Third Annual PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT DAY
Wednesday Feb. 20, 1980
9:00 to 5:00
IN THE CCA
WHO SHOULD ATTEND?
anyone interested in any way in Agricultural/Horticultural related fields
ADMISSION FREE

Win One Free Trip For Two (5 days 4 nights) to BERMUDA at the Bermuda Strollers
Feb. 20 and 21
QR Rt. 9 all ages welcome

WHAT KIND OF PERSON BECOMES A NAVY PHYSICIAN? DOCTORS JUST LIKE YOU.

Navy doctors start their medical careers just like you. As civilians, they come from all parts of the country with wide-ranging medical experience. From Park Avenue to Main Street. From new interns to 20-year doctors. In truth, the Navy doctor is you.

A Navy practice would be as varied and challenging as any you'll find in a civilian setting. From infant care to geriatrics, you'll treat dependents, retired personnel and those on active duty.

And, for a Navy physician, paperwork is kept to a minimum. There are a lot of great advantages to Navy medicine. Good pay. A family life. Even 30 days' paid vacation a year.

Get all the details. Call or write your nearest Medical Recruiter.

Lt. Jim Wayne
Medical Programs Officer
Navy recruiting District
O'Brien Federal Bldg.
Albany, NY 12207
Phone: 518 472-4462

Space For Recruiter Name & Address & Phone #.

BE THE DOCTOR YOU WANT TO BE. IN THE NAVY.

WINTER SALE

SALE
$49.00
medium widths
$39.00
AA widths
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
10-6:00 Mon. Sat. 253-5315

Jobs! Lake Tahoe California!
Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referals. LAKEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

Consumer Complaint? call Consumer ACTION CENTER at 5-0199 or 5-0781 or stop by at our office 423 SUB we are open M-F 9-5 You can get Results!

SELL IT
SELL IT
in the Collegian Classifieds
SELL IT
SELL IT

Goten OF JAPAN
STEAK HOUSE
SPECIAL
$5.45
Sunday-Thursday
open 5:30 p.m.
Steak or Chicken Dinner included with each dinner soup, salad,
vegetable w/noodle, rice & tea
Rt. 116 Sunderland
665-3628

Hoopmen whip Wildcats after losing to Maine

By DAVE BRADLEY and JIM DEGNIM

Bill Morrison led the team with 17 points and four other Minutemen hit double figures as the UMass men's basketball team won its second game of the season, a 69-63 semi-rout over the University of New Hampshire last night at the Cage. The win comes after a 76-63 loss to the University of Maine on Saturday.

UMass worked its way to a 42-21 lead with just under 17 minutes left in the game on some good outside shooting and board control. But as time wore on the Minutmen's stamina wore down and UNH was able to pull within five, 62-57 with 1:57 remaining.

At this point UMass Coach Ray Wilson called time out in hopes of cooling off the hot hand of UNH guard Paul Dufour, who hit for 18 points in the second half, many of them from downtown.

There was no big strategy in Wilson's mind at this point. "There's not a helluva lot you can say to them (UMass players) except 'hang in there.' I knew they were tired," the coach said.

The rest seemed to be all the Minutemen needed. UMass took the ball out of bounds under its own basket with New Hampshire pressing. The ball went into Dan Wright (14 points) who spotted Tom Witkos (14 points) down court on the left side. Witkos shoveled a pretty pass to center Jay Stewart cutting down the middle and it was dunk city to put the home team up 64-57. Stewart (12 points) then snatched a rebound at the other end and sent Morrison in for a fast-break lay-up to make it 66-57 at the 1:25 mark.

A couple more bombs by Dufour brought the Wildcats to within four, 67-63, but the timer was against them.

Witkos blamed the close score on "fatigue. Fatigue hit us," the guard said. "We got out of our offense. Everyone was going one on one."

Witkos played the entire game, as did Wright, Tyus Nedd went 35 minutes.

UMass increased it's lead in the opening minutes of the second stanza and was able to maintain a 48-28 margin with 13 minutes remaining. But things started to turn a little sour for UMass as UNH cut the lead to 15 at 6:21 on the clock on consecutive jumpers by Robin Dixon (15 points).

The lead continued to decrease until UMass finally pulled itself together.

UMass travels to Pennsylvania State University Wednesday.

In Saturday's game, it was Rufus "The Franchise" Harris who did the Minutemen in as he scored 31 points. The capacity (2300) crowd at Memorial Gym was uncharacteristically quiet, owing to the unexciting basketvall game which unfolded before it.

Maine twice squandered large leads. Maine led 35-28 at the half. UMass outscored the Black Bears, 8-2, as the second half began, on a pair of hoops by Curtis Phauls (18 points) and baskets by Dan Wright and Ty Nedd. But as good players will do, Harris surfaced to quell the Minuteman uprising, scoring two baskets in less than two minutes.

With 11:31 left to play the game, Maine had 53-40 lead. But the Bears did not score for more than four minutes. Meanwhile, UMass was going to town. The Minutemen scored 11 straight points, six of which came from Phauls. Tom Witkos had a three-point play. A Jay Stewart tip-in cut the Maine lead to two at 7:57, but Mr. Harris of Framingham apparently took the second Minuteman surge as a personal affront, and went on a tear of his own. He scored ten points in a two-minute span, while all UMass could get was a Phauls lay-up. So with it 4:48 to play, Maine had a 63-53 lead. After that , ten points was as close as UMass would get as a three-point play by Nedd made it 66-56 with 1:56 left.

The Black Bears have now defeated the Minutemen three seasons in a row. The last UMass win was in 1977.

Tom Witkos led UMass with a career-high 19 points on eight of 11 shooting from the floor and three for four from the line.

UMass' Bill Morrison had 17 points last night for the Minutemen in their 69-63 win over New Hampshire. (Staff photo by Peter Berry)

Track teams split at UNH

Women down Wildcats

By JIM GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's track team defeated UNH 56-44 last Friday in close meet held on UNH's indoor track. The meet was held concurrently with a UNH-UMass men's track meet.

The highlight of the women's meet was in the long jump where Micki Callaham won with a leap of 16'9" Angie Caouette finished second jumping 16'4" and Julie Horgan finished third, jumping 15'9" to give the Minutewomen a sweep in that event. "The long jumpers really won the meet for us," said captain Karolyn Shea. UMass was only slightly ahead of UNH near the end of the meet before the UMass long jumpers took over. Other UMass point scorers in the field events included Julie Horgan who took second in the high jump and Sue Fallon who placed third in the shot put with a throw of 31'11".

UMass's top performer in the running events was sophmore Judy McCrone who won both the mile and the half-mile. McCrone won the mile in 5'02 with UMass's Julie Burke taking third in 5'14. In the half-mile McCrone's winning time was 2:22.5. UMass picked up points in the two-mile which Tricia Moores won in 11:29 and Kathy McGurty, a newcomer to UMass track, finished third in 11:32 in a close and exciting race.

Minutewoman Dianne Sealey, recently returning to competion, took first in the quarter mile in 61.3 followed by Cyndi Martin who placed third in 7.8. Callahan again scored in the 60 yard hurdles where she came in second in 9.1 followed by UMass's Donna Quinn who took third in 9.15.

In the 4x176 yard relay UMass won with the team of Caouette, Budrow, Martin and Sealey with a time of 1:28.5. UMass was not as fortunate in the 4x880 yard relay where the team of McGurty, Dally, Shea and Burke lost to UNH who's team ran to a new UNH record of 9:53, a full 18 seconds ahead of UMass.

"We thought we had a good chance of winning when we came, but the long jump and the half-mile really helped. Our people were in shape but the track was bad. If there were a better track, there would have been better times," assistant coack Ken Banda said.

Recently the women's team has been plagued by injuries, but as the season continues each meet is an improvement for the Minutewomen. In all, 22 Minutewomen traveled to the UNH meet which was up from a low 17 at the URI meet held on February 2. "We should do really well in the New Englands," Martin said.

Men suffer another setback

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

"The sign of a good team is when key individuals come up with their best performances when they're called upon to do so, and today the performances we needed weren't there," said tri-captain Mickey Baugh following the UMass men's indoor track team loss to UNH, 75-61, Friday afternoon in Durham, New Hampshire.

The Minutemen won six of fifteen events on the afternoon. Paul Beaulieu captured the two mile race with a time of 9:09.6. This was Beaulieu's first two mile race of the season. Rick Walls won the 1000 yard run at 2:16.8. Freshman John Marr finished third in that race with 2:22.

Tri-captain Steve MacDougall and C.J. Reitenbach combined for a one-two finish in the 880. Their times were 1:56.8 and 1:59.7 respectively.

Injured junior Rick Cady and junior Bob Pearson took first and second in the 440 yard dash. Cady's winning time was 51.6

Sophomore Bill DeVarney won the 60 yard dash with a time of 6.35, his fastest time on the season. Freshman Francisco Ginja placed second in that race with a time of 6.6.

UMass was shut out of both the pole vault and the 35 pound weight throw.

Freshman Steve Hyder finished second in the shot put with a throw of 45'7". Kirk Skinner took third place for the Minutemen with 42'7". New Hampshire's Joel Dennis, a Newton native, won the event with a throw of 50'8", which set a new UNH record.

In the mile run UMass was able only to salvage a third place showing from freshman Rick Doiron, making his debut in the mile with a time of 4:20.6.

In the 600 Baugh and Steve Gorman finished second and third with times of 1:15.2 and 1:18.1.

A nasty spill in the high hurdles cost UMass as two of their top hurdlers Paul King and John Wright fell in the final heat. A hurdle fell the wrong way and knocked another hurdle over.

Maine halts hoopwomen streak at seven, 70-59

By JIM DEGNIM
Collegian Staff

Everything was going so well. The Minutewomen were riding the crest of a seven game win streak and appeared to be hitting full stride just in time for the upcoming playoffs.

Until Saturday.

The University of Maine women's basketball team, on the strength of a 23-point, 18-rebound performance from center Wendy Farrington, dropped UMass, 70-59 in Memorial Gym.

The Minutewomen were actually much closer than the 11-point final difference would indicate. In fact, UMass trailed only 59-57 with four minutes to play in the game. But over the final four minutes, UMass could muster only a Sue Peters hoop, while Maine scored 11 points.

UMass started slowly, trailing 13-5 after eight minutes had been played. Two minutes later, the Minutewomen had pulled to within 16-13 on hoops by Sue Peters, Tricia Corcoran and Martha Ready, and a pair of Ginger Legare free throws.

Maine responded with eight straight points and UMass would get no closer than six in the half, which ended with Maine up, 30-24. Both teams shot poorly in the first half, UMass making just nine of 32 shots from the floor, while Maine hit on 11 of 33 tries.

Julie Ready scored two baskets at the outset of the second half to bring UMass to within 30-28. The teams traded baskets for the rest of the half until the four-minute mark when Maine won the game with its 11-2 spurt.

Sue Peters led UMass with 19 points. She had six rebounds and four assists. Ginger Legare had 18 for UMass along with 14 rebounds. Center Julie Ready, still bothered by a stress fracture in her ankle, played mostly in the second half, and scored 10 points.

As in the first, neither team was sensational in the shooting department in the second half. Maine finished the game with 30 field goals on 70 attempts, 43 per cent. The Minutewomen made 25 of 62 for 40 per cent.

Turnovers hurt the Minutewomen, as they gave away the ball 20 times, compared to 12 for Maine.

While the loss won't help the hoopwomen when playoff selections are made, it probably won't hurt them much either. The Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women playoffs begin March 7 and will include eight teams from Region 1A, of which UMass is part.

The top four teams will play the other four at home, with the winners advancing to Harvard. The two winners there go to the nationals.

It appears that UMass will be selected for the Easterns. But it is uncertain where the Minutewomen will be seeded, which determines whom they play in the first round.

U.S. combined entry Walter Malmquist of Post Mills, VT makes his last jump yesterday in the Nordic Olympic event. (AP Laserphoto)

NUMMO

volume 8 issue 16 19 february 1980

HISPANIC COMMUNITY RESPONDS TO GOLDFARB'S CHANGES IN WFCR

"Que Tal Amigos , sil Goldfarb, no!" was one of the chants at a picket held in front of Hills South last Thursday, protesting program changes being imposed at public radio station WFCR by General Manager Robert Goldfarb. Inside the building Goldfarb was attending a lunch meeting which was discussing his decision to move the time slots of programs in Spanish and in French. Que Tal Amigos , and Tout en Francais are being shifted to time slots which will limit their accessibility to their listeners.

The protesters were mainly (but not limited to) members of the Latinamerican community at Umass, both students and staff. The moving of Que Tal Amigos, the Spanish—language program, from its slot every weeknight from 7:30 to 8:30 pm to a new position at 11pm on Tuesdays and Thursdays , has been of particular concern to the Latinamerican community of western Massachusetts and the Hartford area, which is WRCR's listening region. Certain staff members of WRCR,as well as community people, have repeatedly insisted to Goldfarb that the new program time would be too late in the evening for the program's listeners. A protest was held in January where people from the Hispanic community expressed their outrage that a significant portion of the region's population is being deprived of a rare radio program that presents a variety of Latinamerican music and infromation in their native language.

Golfarb, in face of this latest protest, remained unwavering in his decision, stating at the lunch meeting at Hills South that the program changes are a necessary part of the direction in which he wants to take the station's programming. The reasons that Goldfarb has been giving for his decision are: (1) that too much of the total staff's working time was being taken by one program, (2) that he has recieved a large number of complaints from listeners that prime time is being taken up by a program which is in a language that they do not understand, (3) that he personally feels that the program discriminates unfairly against people who do not speak Spanish, (4) that he wants the station's programming to include "higher art" music and the program's music is "too popular", and (5) that there is already a station in Hartford that has all—Hispanic broadcasting.

A group of people from the picket went upstairs to the lunch meeting with their protest signs in hand and challenged Goldfarb's rationale for the program changes. From inside the demonstrators outside could be heard chanting, "Goldfarb is a racist clown!"

The people inside, including some people from the lunch meeting, told Goldfarb that there was clear evidence that the foreign language programs have many more supporters than people who are annoyed by them. Not only Hispanic people, but also Northamerican people who study Spanish, it was said, listen to the program. "For people from Latin America it is an especially important means of connection with their culture," said one of the people present. Goldfarb was also told that WFCR, as a public station, has certain responsibilities to its listening community and should provide an adequate amount of programming for Hispanic people and that the Hartford station is a commercial station which cannot provide the quality programming that programs like Que Tal Amigos bring to the air waves. ■

Carlos

About 40 people demonstrated in front of Hills South on campus last Thursday where Robert Goldfarb, General Manager of public radio station WFCR, was at a meeting. They were protesting the reduction in foreign-language programming at the station and expressed their particular concern that a program in Spanish could eventually be taken off the air completely.

Chancellor Henry Koffler creator of the Commission on Civility in Human Relations

TONY CRAYTON

on civility in human relations

It has been my experience while a student on campus and now among the supposed "professional" ranks, that civility in human relations has been sorely lacking. I write this out of a long standing frustration with Amherst in particular and America in general. Having survived America's racist environment to succeed to the age of thirty, I find that for so called minorities, their ability to gain "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" is still in extreme jeopardy. It is with this in mind that I must register my concerns over the Chancellor's Committee on Civility in Human Relations.

On February 14, 1980, Arthur Clifford of the UMass news bureau announced the creation of a special commission by Chancellor Koffler, to "identify incidents and expressions of racism, sexism, anti Semitism and other inhumane actions and attitudes on the Amherst campus." It was the third such pronouncement by a Whitmore official in a year supposedly evidencing their "firm commitment to combating such ills."

The first came March 9,1979 as a 2½" X 4½" note from our Chancellor. "It came as a statement of response from the Chancellor (Bromery) and Vice Chancellors to the "increasing number of racially motivated incidents on campus." It stated that they wanted to reaffirm their position against such incidents If this was intended to demonstrate their commitment to combatting racist writings, physical harassment and verbal assault it was not communicated to those who needed it.

After repeated racial slurs against black women from the dormitory across the street from New Africa House the offices of the Afro-American Studies Department were burned. This ilicited another Whitmore response. May 7,1979, Jeremiah Allen, Acting Provost, Randolph W. Bromery, Chancellor, Dennis Madson, Vice Chancellor, and George Beatty, Acting Vice Chancellor for Administration and finance, all signed a letter to the University Community. Accompanied by now familiar jargon about the Administration's commitment to pluralism and how prepared they were to take swift action, they ended by writing a most peculiar comment. It said: "We stand ready to act decisively, and we call upon the entire campus community to join us in our crusade to eradicate racism, sexism and violence of any sort." They asked us to "join" them in their "crusade" against racism, sexism and violence! Now either they suggested to go back to the 11th century or as the text book definition suggests, it would mean "any vigorous aggressive movement for the defense or advancement of an idea or cause." Needless to say nothing came out of it.

Here we are now, at round three, and I think all the sincere dedicated people who busted ass to take an educated and programmatic approach to dealing with these concerns have been knocked out of the entire process of this Civility Committee.

The Jewish Faculty Interest Group that met with Koffler about anti Semitism had to be forced to include racism and sexism in their concerns to the Chancellor. If it was not for a few intelligent people in the group those issues would have been ignored. The "interest" in anti-Semitism on the part of some members of the faculty group is suspect since they failed to address any of this as a concern before. Yet when they got no where with the Judaic Studies program, all of a sudden Jewish students are subjected to "intimidation and fear." No Jewish student has been assaulted by mobs or intimidated in any way. If this Commission would like to come to my office and see every*Nummo News* over the past two years you will see the charges against it are false. Why did not these faculty show interest when blacks and Hispanics were being continually assaulted, abused and victimized? I am sure that if we made a tally sheet: 2 dead, numerous assaults in Washington dorm; the Crampton incident, the fires and damage to New Africa House twice; the Malcolm X Center; the Center for Racial Studies; Northeast Dorms and elsewhere; my claim would not seem as absurd as it has been treated.

Yet let me not draw attention to the Faculty Interest Group for they still have made a sincere effort despite all to stay on the case however late. They have among them very distinguished persons who I am pleased to have made an aquaintance.

The major issue/problem is the creation of the Committee, not its members per se. My concerns can be listed in the following manner: One, the Chancellor, although no doubt briefed over the summer and fall, failed to recognize what is at issue. It was stated from the start that the Committee would not have students and basically now does not (one undergraduate[questionably picked] and one graduate is an insult.) No committee of that sort should be created without a healthy representation of those who are the victims of the violence, racism, sexism and intimidation. Students are the victims yet they are not represented [illegible] committee. Most of the faculty and staff on the [illegible] have never had, nor desired, a working relationship with the large numbers of students who actively tried to convince this so called anti-social behavior. [illegible]

They Sought Their Brother

Last Thursday night UMass was honored by the appearance of Dr Allen Counter, a neurobiologist, and Mr. David Evans an engineer who is currently the admissions officer at Harvard. These two brothers rapped informally with students at the New Africa House and later in the evening showed a film, regarding their visit of Africans, deep in the bush of the Surinam jungle. These Africans, called Djukas (a collective term describing several tribes of African origin), are descendants of West Africans who were abducted onto slave ships that set sail for the Americas in the 1600's. They were to supply the slave labor force for Dutch plantation owners. However, these brothers and sisters did not adjust to slavery and fought bravely against their captors and with the aid of the Indians, they were able to escape into the dense jungle. Here they established their homes and waged guerrilla warfare against the Dutch government procured them favorable peace treaties, providing annual tribute to Surinam blacks in the form of tools, weapons, food, tobacco, and cloth. Today, these Africans still preserve old customs and skills that have long since disappeared in the African villages from which their ancestors came. These people are very proud and religious and they attribute their survival to the spirits. Both Counter and Evans have marveled at the fact that these black people refused slavery and fought a successful guerrilla war. To Counter, that fact alone has important psychological implications for blacks of North America. "We have never read in our history books of any of us winning". The Djukas question of what might have happened if black slaves in this country had fled into the Everglades --and fought and won." (Newsweek 1974) Dr. Counter recalled some of the questions that the tribesmen asked him when they found that there were other Africans who had gone through the same plight they had. They wanted to know if we were still slaves or if we were free. When they discovered that we had gained our freedom they wanted to know if we had found our way back home. Dr. Counter had dificulty explaining the results of emacapation from slavery of the Blacks in North America.

Today, the question of the Djukas survival has become a prominant one. They have been forced, by the growth of technology to flee deeper and deeper into the bushy There crops are getting scarce and the animals that they hunted are beginning to disappear. Some of the young ones have been lured to the cities. It is sad to have to believe that when, and if these beautiful people have to assimilate into modern society blacks will have lost yet another link to a glorious and proud past.■

Three centuries ago, escaping slaves established a stronghold in the South American jungle. Aided by aboriginal Indians, they secured their freedom after a hundred years of guerrilla warfare against European soldiers. Today, despite the incursions of an alien culture, both Afro-Americans and Indians are preserving the traditions of their ancestors.

THE SANTEE MASSACRE

Relatives of 9 year-old Kevin Gadson share a quiet moment of grief during his funeral services in Santee last week. Gadson was one of two Black children who were shotgunned to death in this Orangeburg County town. A 13 year-old white youth has been charged with the slayings.

SANTEE, S.C. (Maroon Information Service)-- A 13 year-old white youth has been arrested and charged, with the shotgun attack on four Black children in South Carolina last wek. Two of the children were killed and two wounded in the attack which took place in the Orangeburg County town of Santee. All of the children were related, and all of them lived in a small settlement within several hundred yards of the scene of the attack. Local resident are calling it "the Santee Massacre."

In spite of the arrests, relatives of the victims are afraid that they might not get justice in the case.

Melvin Gadson, father of one of the dead children and the first person to find the bodies, says there is no doubt in his mind that the shootings were deliberate.

"They was shot down like dogs," Gadson said, "it looked like the children were trying to run away, but they was shot before they could get away."

Gadson said that he had gotten home from work on the evening of January 21 when he got a call from a neighbor's house that there was "some shooting going on." Gadson said he ran to the neighbor's house and found 14 year-old Ronnie Shingler lying in a puddle of blood at the foot of his front steps. Shingler was able to tell Gadson where the shootings had taken place.

When Gadson arrived at the bushy area on the edge of the road about 200 yards from the Shingler house, he found the dead bodies of his 9 year-old son, Kevin GAdson, and 8 year old Juanita Summers. Gadson said his son had a shotgun wound to the back of his head, and said "it looked like he just dropped right where he was hit. I knew he was dead as soon as I picked him up." He said that Juanita's body was several yards away, with a shotgun blast in her back side. "She looked like she was running toward the road when she was hit," Gadson said.

According to Gadson, Shingler was shot as he came back to help Kevin. Although badly wounded in the arm and chest, Shingler was able to make his way back home to alert his family about the shootings. The fourth child, 6 year-old Tonia Carver, was only lightly wounded in the leg and was also able to run home.

A preliminary autopsy report from the Medical University of South Carolina at Charleston stated that the two dead children were shot from less than 25 feet away.

Orangeburg County Sheriff's deputies report that they arrested the 13 year-old white youth at a skating rink in the county seat of Orangeburg after he was identified by Ronnie Shingler. A 12 gauge shotgun, believed by police to be the murder weapon, was recovered from a septic tank near the home of the boy. Relatives of the victims fear, however, that the youth was the only person responsible for the killings, and think that Orangeburg Couth law enforcement officials may be allowing the real killers to go free.

The name of the accused murderer was released by local newspapers and television stations. However, a family court ordered news media to stop publishing the white youth's name, citing a South Carolina law which forbids using the name of accused criminals under the age of 17.

An informed source in the county sheriff's department gave the following account of the shootings:

Shortly after school of the afternoon of the shootings, the white youth returned to his house from the nearby home of a friend. The youth lived with his family in a trailer behind the P and J Truck Stop, located near Interstate 95 not far from the scene of the shootings. According to Mrs. Jeanette Avinger, the mother of the youth's friend, the accused murderer was going home to change clothes so he could attend a church-sponsored party at a skating rink in Orangeburg.

Police believe that the boy picked up his shotgun and went to the lightly-wooded area just behind the trailer where the Black children were playing. Police are not certain why; but they believe he walked into the bushes and opened fire on the four children.

After the shootings, police say that the youth ran back home. He reportedly told his stepfather, John Wyatt, and his grandmother, Hewel Sanders, about the shootings. Police believe that it was the youth's uncle, 23 year-old Patrick Sanders, who took the shotgun and hid it in the septic tank. The boy then returned to the

TURN TO PAGE 6

The following selection in honor of Black History Month, is excerptd from a speech by leading abolitionist Frederick Douglass in April 1883. The address marked the 21st anniversary of emancipation in the District of Columbia.

It is easy to break forth in joy and thanksgiving for emancipation in the District of Columbia. It is easy to call up the noble sentiments and the startling events which made that grand measure possible. It is easy to trace the footsteps of the negro in the past, marked as they are all the way along with blood.

But the present occasion calls for something more. How stands the Negro today: What are the relations subsisting between him and the powerful people among whom he lives, moves and has his being: What is the outlook and what is his probable future•

You will readily perceive that I have raised more questions than I shall be able to present to answer. My general response to these inquiries is a mixed one. The sky of the American Negro is dark, but not rayless; it is stormy, but not cheerless...

As the war for the Union recedes into the misty shadows of the past, and the Negro is no longer needed to assault forts and stop rebel bullets, he is in some sense, of less importance. Peace with the old master class has been war to the Negro. As the one has risen, the other has fallen. The reaction has been sudden, marked and violent. It has swept the Negro from all the legislative halls of the Southern States, and from those of the Congress of the United States. It has, in many cases, driven him from the ballot box and the jury box. The situation has much in it for serious thought, but nothing to cause despair. Above all the frowning clouds that lower about our horizon, there is the steady light of stars, and the thick clouds that now obscure them, will in due season pass away.

In fact, they are already passing away. Time and events which have done so much for us in the past, will, I trust, not do less for us in the future. The moral government of the universe is on our side, and cooperates, with all honest efforts, to lift up the downtrodden and oppressed in all lands, whether the oppressed by white of Black...

Let any man now claim for the Negro, or worse still, let the Negro now claim for himself, any right, privilege of immunity which has hitherto been denied him by law or custom, and he will at once open the fountain of bitterness and call forth overwhelming wrath.

It is his sad lot to live in a land where all presumptions are arrayed against him, unless we except the presumption of inferiority and worthlessness. If his course is downward, he meets very little resistance, but if upward, his way is disputed at evey turn of the road...

NO JUSTICE FOR BLACK

It is a real calamity in this country, for any man guilty or not guilty, to be accused of crime, but it is an incomparable greater calamity for any colored man to be so accused. Justice is often painted with bandaged eyes. She is described in forensic eloquence as utterly blind to wealth or poverty, high or low, white or black, but a mask to iron, however thick, could never blind American justice, when a Black man happens to be on trial. Here, even more than elsewhere, he will find all presumptions of law and evidence against him. It is not so much the business of himself to prove his innocence. The reasonable doubt which is usually interposed to have the life and liberty of a white man charged with crime, seldom has any force or effect when a colored man is accused of crime.

A still greater misfortune to the Negro is that the press, that engine of omnipotent power, usually tries him in advance of the courts, and when once his case is decided in the newspapers, it is easy for the jury to bring in it verdict of "guilty as indicted."

In many parts of our common country, the action of courts and juries is entirely too slow for the impetuosity of the people's justice. When the Black man is accused, the mob takes the law into its own hands, and whips, shoots, stabs, hangs or burns the accused, simply upon the allegation or suspicion of crime. Of such proceedings Southern papers are full. A crime. Of such

TURN TO PAGE 8

editorial

PROGRAM CHANGES AT WFCR HURT LATINAMERICAN COMMUNITY

The actions by Robert Goldfarb, general manager of public radio station WFCR, to cut down the hours of Spanish-language program Que Tal Amigos and to put it on the air at a time when most of the program's present listeners are not awake, is robbing the Hispanic population of western Massachusetts and the Hartford area of an important means of connection with their culture.

For Latinameican people in this country there are few cultural spaces which they can call their own. Having a cultural space is important for making a connection with one's heritage and ancestry. Hispanic people need this kind of space. They need to be able to hear music which is theirs and Spanish being spoken.

But of course what is constantly being told to Hispanics on the streets, in school, and on the job, when they speak in Spanish, is "Why don't you learn English if you're in America•" As if Hispanics arriving in North America didn't struggle to learn English. As if Hispanics weren't struggling to adapt to a an environment hostile to them and other third world people.

The majority of Latinamerican people in the U.S. struggle to survive economically and socially, together with other third world people get schools, and the worst jobs that the "Melting Pot" USA has to offer. For Puerto Ricans, Chicanos and other Hispanic people it is a struggle to maintain a cultural and national identity in a country where the dominant culture presents itself as superior everyday in the media, in the schools and in daily life.

In the United States the cultures and peoples of Africa, Asia, and Latin America are not given importance and are treated condescendingly or even with hostility. The people who listen regularly to Que Tal Amigos have to deal daily with the fact that Most people in the U.S. know of the reality of Latin America.

Most of the Latin American countries are in a sense colonies of the United States. Dictators propped up by the Pentagon and the CIA give the U.S. banks and multinational corporations free rein to plunder the countries of their natural resources while most of the people live in poverty. Dark-skinned workers and peasants and workers are told by corporate billboard signs, Cosmopolitan magazines on the newsstands, and James Bond movies that they are inferior people. Whatever is made in white-skinned, technologically advanced, politically-powerful, and civilized U.S.A." label means it's better.

Thousands of Mexicans, Puerto Ricans and other Latinamericans conditions, since ITT, Chase Manhattan and Exxon are sucking their countries dry. Here they are called spics and taco-benders. Or if Hispanic aren't deliberately insulted they have to deal with demeaning stereotypes like Frito Bandido, Speedy Gonsales, hot-blooded Latins etc...

The Latinamerican community needs Que Tal Amigos because culture is an important part of their lives and they need as many spaces as they can get which they can all theirs, in this society. Non-Latinamerican people also need the program because it is an opportunity for them to experience other cultures.

Despite the protests and the stream of letters written in support of the program, Robert Goldfard continues to stick with his decision. He is making the station's programming geared to upper-middle class people. His actions and his instransigence of the world, as well as a lack of a sense of social responsiblity. His actions are an affront to the concept of responsiveness to the listening community on the part of a public radio station (or any means of communication). His actions are racist. They are especially racist in the larger context of racist U.S. society (and also in the world context)

The program changes as WFCR are an insult to Latinamerican people and they are a setback of gains made by third world people. They serve to perpetuate the racist and sexist status quo in this society.■

A NEW SHAH IS BORN

The Camp David accords concerning the disposition of Israeli-occupied Sinai, and the Palestinian areas of the West Bank and Gaza are not the first Arab-Israeli accords nor are they likely to be the last. Previous accords included the Weizman/Faizal agreement of 1919, the Armistice agreements of1949/1950, and Israel's accord with the late King Abdullah of Jordan; these agreements ended in the ashes of five Arab-Israeli wars. Is fate likely to be kinder to this latest accord?

Accommodations as a political style is not alien to Arab history and politics. Contrary to Western historians, Arab tribes, even before Islam, often engaged in a process of accommodation in order to resolve their differences. The image of warring Arabs which the West likes to dwell upon has never been an accurate portrayal of Arab history and of Arab political culture.

In modern times and, more specifically, in relation to the Arab-Israeli crisis; Arab political style has not been uniquely confrontational. In reality, confrontation as well as accommodation seem to have governed the way the Arab countries have tried to deal with Israel and the United States. President Nasser of Egypt, who was portrayed as the epitome of Arab intransigency by most Western historians and politicians, often engaged in accommodation. Among other things, he kept his lines of communication with the United States always open; he resorted to the United Nations on frequent occassions; he accepted Resolution 24 of the U.N. Security Council. In his dealings with Arab countries, Mr. Nasser was the greatest accommodationist, interacting, at once with such regimes as Saudi Arabia and South Yemen, patching things up with Hussein of Jordan and trying to mediate between the Palestinians and the Jordanian monarch.

Indeed, the accommodationist style is intrinsic to any political process, regardless of how modern or how traditional it may be. Yet, at times, confrontation is also necessary for the protection of one's rights. In fact, one is hard put to find any political entity which has not at one time or another engaged in both of these techniques to achieve its best interests.

The Americans as well as the Israelis have always argued that the only stumbling block to peace in the Middle East lies in the Arabs' intransigence and lack of moderation. Arab psychology, consisting of a failure to be reasonable and to try moderate alternatives, coupled with a lack of flexibility, was held to be the major obstacle to peace. In essence, the Arab-Israeli problem was defined solely in terms of psychology, with the Arabs appearing as the deviant party and the Israelis appearing as the party which has supposedly understandable security concerns.

The question is what compelled Mr. Sadat (so called President of Egypt but in reality the Police Chief of the Americans' interest in Africa, Middle East, and the Islamic world in general) to accept this vulgar psychological definition of the problem. What compelled him to accommodate himself to such a self-serving diagnosis? The fact is that Mr. Sadat does not speak only for himself or only for Egypt. Rather, he represents a school of thought in the Arab and the Muslim world, one backed by social and political forces which are willing to accept this definition of the problem and the logical consequences that ensue from it. This overzealousness to accommodate the American definition and by nature of Arab and Muslim history and psychology.

For the lack of a better term, let us call this school of thought the "American party" in the Arab and Muslim world. This party grew out of the historic pattern of relations between the Muslim and Arab world and the U.S. students who receive their education in the U.S., officials who interacted with Americans, newspaper editors who came to the U.S. on frequent visits sponsored by the State Department, businessmen and merchants who are hooked into the lucrative structure of trade with the U.S. The list could go on and on. This party's definition of the nature of American foreign policy has been fairly inaccurate and yet fairly consistent over the years. We are told that the U.S. is seduced into a pro-Israeli position largely because of the impact of the pro-Israeli lobby in the U.S. We are also told that were it not for the distortions of this powerful lobby, the U.S. would be more neutral and more even-handed in its approach to Arab problems. We are also reminded of a supposed natural affinity between the U.S. and the Arab world. This thesis of the Zionist lobby has been brandished very efficiently to explain away all matters of official and private malice towards the Arab world. When the media is saturated with racist anti-Arab and Muslim programs, we are told that the media is controlled by the Zionist lobby. When every other textbook on the Arab and Muslim world is filled with distortions about their history and culture, we are told that Zionists control the publishing business in the United States. In almost all cases, Americans are nearly always absolved of the moral responsibility for their racism and their hatred of the Arab and Muslim worlds. Orientalists, missionaries, academicians and others have fashioned this exploitation which has constituted the single most important basis for the Arab and Muslim modes of dealing with the U.S.■

To be continued next week.

IN THE NIGHT SKY OF ZIMBABWE

In the brown marshes,
the storms remember the dark waters and the dry grass that they could not tame.
And in the outback,
in the back of beyond,
in placeless places,
freedom fighter from the people of Zimbabwe talk to each other.
Their whispers are the only sound,
in the comfort of darkness,
in the night sky of Zimbabwe.

2.

Soon in the valley
children will visit the colonial cow, dying of fever
and the terminal disease known as the mission culturel
and apartheid.
And in the backyard of African homes, settler colonialism
will lie in winter puddles like cigarette butts in the rain.
Everyday the blood of memory and the passion of dreams are delivered by the midwife of revolution.
From now on children will rise,
like birds,
from the womb of Africa,
and fly down the dirt tracks,
along the lakes
where the water no longer trembles.

3.

Elsewhere in the Third World, where they have emptied out our pockets of our names and our humanity, and left us a collection of shrivelled up memories and the pungence of nameless pain...
elsewhere in the Third World,
there are freedom fighters lying in marshes
and bushes and valleys and hills, singing a chorus of revolutionary fury at the cruel finger of ten centuries of oppression...
elsewhere in the Third World
the whispers of freedom fighters are reaching out for tough argument, and maidwives are delivering babies,
who will continue to rise like birds,
who will be satisfied with the ravenousness of vision,
like lovers in foreplay,
touching the flesh of dreams of liberation,
in Zimbabwe and the whole of Africa,
in the West Bank and the whole of Palestine.
Elsewhere in the Third World,
oppressors will disintegrate,
breathing asthmatically,
at the stubborn pull of our angry gods.

Jersalem February 12,
Menachen Begin, Prime Minister of Israel stated that he will not agree to any more "concessions" in the Palestinian Autonomy Talks. Begin states in explaination that "autonomy is not Sovereignty," thus the Camp David Accords of 1978 remain a failure.

Menachen Begin was reported to have granted citizenship to 1400 Black American Jews living in the Negev Desert towns of Israel in Legal limbo. The offer was later retracted by Begin's press secretary Dan Patir leaving many of the Blacks without citizenship after 10 years of living there, ineligible for subsidized housing and unable to work.

Washington February 16,
United States National Security Council assigned the C.I.A. with Carter approval in mid-January, to supply infantry weapons to Afghan insurgents groups. It is the largest such covert operation since the C.I.A. support for UNITA and South Africa against MPLA in the 1976 Angloan War of Liberation.

ECO LATINO

AFTER 10 YEARS ON THE AIR

"QUE TAL AMIGOS?" FINDS WFCR'S GOLDFARB NO AMIGO

Sonia Vivas, producer of Hispanic program Que Tal Amigos at WFCR

INTERVIEW WITH SONIA VIVAS

By Jose Trejo

"His next step will be to get rid of the program altogether."

Question: What has been the situation with your program Que tal Amigos after Mr. Goldfarb assumed his position as a General Manager of WFCR•

Answer: Since he took charge in November, he made very clear through letters and memorandums to the staff, his intention to "disapear Que tal Amigos from the air". As a result, Julio Torres resigned in December from his position as a co-producer of the program when he realized the grim future it had in Mr. Goldfarb's plans.

We had been working for many years in the program without any problems and always had the support of our listeners, until the new management started questioning the very existence of the program. Since the beginning, we felt that Goldfarb's perceptions of the cultural values of the Hispanic culture were in fact very narrow minded.

Q: What effect will the schedule changes have in the program after is reduced to only two hours a week and moved to late in the evening

A: This drastic change will soffocate the program to death, because our audience which is basicaly made up by families, children, students, professors and workers, won't have the opportunity to listen to us any more. Besides, the advisory committee that Mr. Goldfarb intends to form with only volunteer positions, won't have the support of a paid professional position with experience, because after I leave in June, the position will be frozen. The next step then could be that the program will be taken off the air completely.

Once the program is put at a time when not many people can listen to it, it will make it easier for him to say that there's no need for the program because it doesn't have any listeners. When he first took the job here he said the program would have to go. He only started talking about merely changing the time schedule after there were protests.

He criticizes the content of the program, saying that the music is 'too popular'. But we play different kinds of music, including what is called the New Latin American Song, which is played by young artists who often put music to poems by highly respected poets.

Q: What has been the respose from the Third World Community after they learned of mr. Goldfarb's decision

Q: We have recieved a lage amount of letter from our listeners and general public clearly supporing the program. Many, many organizations and groups from all the valley have expressed their concern and dislike of the changes made by Goldsfarb in the programing. We felt that our community is very united in this issue by sending letters and calling, letting us know that they are going to fight all the way to preserve what had been gained in the past through many, many years of hard work and dedication in this program.

Q: What is the importance of continuing the program

A: This program has been the link among the Hispanic community in the Connecticut River Valley area for more than ten years now, always presenting quality material: different varieties of music, poetry, and information from Latin America and Spain. Our Hispanic community is made up of people from different countries. Our audience is not only Hispanic, but also includes English-speaking people who are learning Spanish or are interested in Latin American music as well.

The program is one of the few things that the Hispanic community has. Although I will be leaving the job this year, the program is important to me because of what it means to people. That is why, together with the rest of the community I will keep up the struggle.

INTERVIEW WITH JOSE TOLSON

By Carlos Valdes

"With a lack of cultural diversity at WFCR everybody loses."

Jose Tolson is the director of the Commuter Collective at UMass, and for a number of years has produced programs of black classical music on WMUA and WFCR. Jose resigned this year from WFCR because he felt that General Manager Robert Goldfarb has an attitude toward third world programming which made it difficult for him, as a third world person, to work at the station. Goldfarb also wanted to make some stylistic changes in Jose's programming, which Jose felt that he could not work with.

Together with the resignation of Julio Torres, former co-producer with Sonia Vivas of WFCR's Spanish-language program Que Tal Amigos, Jose's resignation leaves Sonia as the only third world person working at the station. She has recently submitted her resignation which will be effective this summer.

'I could see changing *Que Tal Amigos*to another time on the schedule, but how many of the listeners will be able to stay up till midnight to listen to the program• Maybe a few college students will stay up from 11 to 12, but most people who have jobs have to get up early and can't afford to stay up that late. Children especially have to be in bed early.

§First Goldfarb cuts down the number of hours that the show will be on and he puts it at a late time in the evening. Later he could say that there aren't enough people listening to it and then his next step could well be to get rid of it altogether.

§His decision is a negation of the important role that foreign language programs play. It's a negation of the world situation where a large number of people in the world are Spanish-speaking, and right here in the US there are so many people who are Hispanic. There are also a lot of people who speak English as their native language but want to learn Spanish.

Goldfarb's move is racist.

Goldfarb's argument about the station in Hartford that has all their programming in spanish isn't valid. If anything, Hispanic people need more programs in Spanish. In fact, everybody loses by what's happening at the station. The station will lack cultural diversity and the music will be only western European in origin and geared toward upper-middle-class white people.

Goldfarb is against the programs *Que Tal Amigos*and*Tout en Francais* because he says that most people don't understand them. But what about operas which are in another language Well, he says you can have an explanation at the beginning and that besides, it's a higher form of music. But it's obvious from the protests and the number of letters written to the station in support of the foreign-language programs that there are more people who support them than are against them.

What we have, is a white individual deciding what is good for Hispanic people. In this society third world people aren't in the position where they can make decisions about things that affect them. It's a racist move that Goldfarb has made.

A big problem with radio in general is that there are so few third world people involved in it. There might be third world music or a program about third world people, but it's generally done by white people.

People need contact with other cultures

What Goldfarb is doing is dividing people. Gains made by third world people are really not given buy are taken, by means of struggle. His assault on these gains will make it necessary for third world people to take up this issue. It will cause a slot of people around to say, "Oh, no, the minorities are at it again, making unrealistic demands."

This makes things more difficult for third world people and leads to more struggle and we have a vicious cycle. Thus what he's doing furthers racism and breeds ignorance.

People need knowledge of other cultures. If they're isolated from them, then the few times that they do come into contact with them they will not often react with understanding and respect.

INTERVIEW WITH ROBERT GOLDFARB

By: Jose Trejo

Question: What have been the latest developments over the controversy in the WFCR programing towards the Third World Community

Answer: The schedule that was announced on February 1, it's still the schedule that would go into effect in the month of April, and I expect that we can make changes in the months afterward.

Question: What changes•

Answer: It seems that an awful lot of people have said that the time now (at 11:00 pm on Tuesdays and Thursdays) is too late for Que' tal Amigos• and it seems to be the prevailing opinion. And if the station staff feels the same way, specially the Program Director, then I could see that very quickly we will take it out of that time period and put it at a time that will be more suitable to the audience.

Q: Will it be on "prime time"

A: I would say, it's not likely to be back at these times, but I could easy see it being at a weekend time and would not be late into the evening. We don't have the specifics worked out, but by July it would very easy to make the change.

Q: Would that be after Sonia lives in late June

A: Yes, We're putting together an advisory committee so the program can continue.

Q: What kind of people will form the committee

A: Well, I'm going to turn first to the Spanish departments of the Five-College area, since we are a Five-College radio station. I hope that also we will be able to use people within the community here who can volunteer. I think they can help us with the program.

Q: How many hours a week will be that committment•

A: Two hours are going to remain at least for a while. Sonia's experience has been great and she is very professional in what she does, but we won't have that experience starting in July and I think we have to make sure that this program has to develope without taking too large load. I think two hours a week is more reasonable.

Q: What have been the reaction from the audience to these decisions

A: We received a large amount of letters from listeners and people who are interested in our programing about the program Que tal Amigos , and the overwhelming sentiment was that the people wanted some kind of programing in a foreign language and felt that we should keep our programing in French and Spanish. But at the same time, they said that there was too much Spanish programing in prime time and that meant that both, the timing and the number of hours were wrong.

Q: What is your response to the people who feel this as a "racist" decision

A: I have been surprised that the decision has been called racist, because it certainly doesn't reflect any feeling about the value of the Hispanic culture. As a matter of fact, the reason that we committed our selves to continuing the program and to forming this advisory group is because we think that the culture of the Hispanic speaking countries is important enough to deserve time of its own, and because of the Hispanic population of the Connecticut river valley, that we have the responsibility to present their cultural material as part of our services as a public radio, so they can feel a part of it.

Q: Why the cuts in hours and changes in the programing then•

A: It was based in the content of the program, not in the philosophy. I think that a lot of the music now used, is not really used as an educational tool.

Robert Goldfarb, new General Manager at WFCR

Photo by Ed Cohen

" Too much Spanish programing in PRIME TIME "

Este periodico te pertenece

Nummo News es es el periodico de la comunidad de tercer mundo en UMASS. El Eco Latino es la seccion especial de la comunidad latina en el periodico. Se necesitan articulos, poemas o dibujos que expresan la experiencia latinoamericana. Puedes escribir un articulo, ya sea en ingles o en espanol,sobre tus experiencias en UMASS o Norteamerica; un articulo sobre los sucesos sociales y politicos en el hemisferio; un poema, un cuento, un dibujo o tomar una foto.

Todas las contribuciones deben ser entregadas en la oficina de Nummo News en el salon numero 103 de New Africa House (en la ultima reunion de AHORA, equivocadamente se dijo que era el salon numero 319) Es preferible que las contribuciones sean entregadas los martes antes de las 7pm; de lo contrario puedes entregarlas antes del sabado,llamando al numero 256 8611 entre las 8 y 8:30am. Hay posibilidad de pago a los contribuyentes que tengan 'workstudy'.

NICARAGUA SOLIDARITY WEEK

sponsored by the western mass latin america solidarity committee

MONDAY	FEB 18	"Nicaragua Yesterday and Today: the Literacy Campaign and Agrarian Reform" Prof. Carmen Diana Deere, just returned from Nicaragua. Mount Holyoke College, Andreola Rm, Willits-Hallowel Center, 4:00 PM.
TUESDAY	19	"Nicaragua Yesterday and Today" Prof. Carmen Diana Deere UMass Campus Center Rm. 168C 4:00PM Smith College Nielson Browsing Room 7:30
WEDNESDAY	20	"Nicaragua: Anatomy of the Revolution," slide presentation and talk UMass Campus Center Room 162 – 175 4:00PM
THURSDAY	21	"Nicaragua: Anatomy of the Revolution," slide presentation and talk UMass Campus Center Room174 – 176 4:00PM "Central America in the Post Somoza Era" Roger Burback of NACLA, UMass Thompson 104 8:00PM
FRIDAY	22	"Nicaragua: Anatomy of the Revolution," slide presentation and talk UMass Campus Center Room174 – 176 4:00PM Latin Fiesta – music and dancing –watch for the time and place
SATURDAY	23	New England Regional Conference on Nicaragua Keynote Speaker Hilde Sequeira Nicaraguan consul to the U.S. 11:00AM Boston University workshops followed by evening entertainment

All donations to go to the Nicaraguan Literacy Campaign

Reunion importante de AHORA

jueves 21 a las 7:30 en el BCP

La situacion de los programas en espanol y frances en WFCR hace necsario que la comunidad latina tome la iniciativa en unir a diferentes grupos en la universidad en una campana para impedir que se quiten los programas. No podemos permitir que se robe a la poblacion hispana de esta area un programa como88qzTal Amigos, que es una parte de lo poco que nos mantiene en union y contaco con la cultura latinoamericana. Nosotros los universitarios tenemos una obligacion a las comunidadas latinas del oeste de Massachusetts y el area de Hartford. En esta sociedad la gente hispana tiene que luchar por los pocos beneficios que tiene porque no se les regala nada.

No podemos permitir que se cometa esta injusticia a causa de un solo hombre que es Robert Goldfarb. Tenemos que unir con el resto de la comunidad de tercer mundo en UMass y con grupos aliados en el resto de comunidad universitaria. Pero la iniciativa tiene que ser nuestra. En la asamblea de AHORA esta semana debemos formular una estrategia para llevar la lucha que se ha estado efectuando a un nivel mas alto. Es una situacion que nos afecta a todos y cada uno debemos participar.

Otra cosa muy importante que tnemos que hacer en la reunion es eligir a la nueva directiva de AHORA. En la reunion del martes pasado se hicieron las nominaciones de los candidatos a presidente, vice presidente, secretario y tesorero.

STUDENT HEAD OF RESIDENT OPENINGS

Applications are available in Cance, Moore, John Adams Upper and John Adams Lower.

We are an Affirmative Action / Equal Opportunity Employer.

Information Package and Applications are available in each house

Qualifications: 2.5 CUM or more. For next School Year

JAMES VAN DER ZEE

James Van DerZee, widely recognized as Dean Emeritus of Black photographers in America, was born on June 29, 1886 in Lenox, Massachusetts. His parents had moved there from New York City after working as maid and butler for General Ulysee S. Grant.

His photographic career began in 1900's with a small camera outfit won as a premium for selling twenty packages of sachet.

However it was not until 1915 that Van DerZee landed his first job in photography. He was an assistant in a small concession located in Gertz Department Store of Newark, New Jersey.

In 1916 he was able to open his first studio on 135th Street in Harlem. Van DerZee's studio continued at various locations until 1969, when his Lenox Avenue studio closed.

James Van DerZee has received many distinguished awards. Among them include the founding of the James Van DerZee Institute in New York with Van DerZee being named as Honarary Director. He was also elected Fellow of Life of the Metrolpolitan Museum of Art which acquired sixty of his photographs for it permanent collection.

At ninety three years of age Mr Van DerZee is a man who has captured Black life in America and has kept it still for future generations to admire.

Amongst his subjects are Marcus Garvey, Jack Johnson and Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, to name three.

Mr Van DerZee will be on campus on Monday, February 25, 1980 in Campus Center Room 101 at 8:30 p.m. His photographs are also on exhibit at the Art Gallery in New Africa House for one month. The exhibit began on February 11.

This is a unique opportunity to see Black History in pictures. Do not miss it, for the occassion may not present itself again. ■

MARCUS GARVEY James Van DerZee

CONT FROM PAGE 2

THE SANTEE MASSACRE

Avingers and was taken to the Orangeburg skating rink, where he was eventually arrested.

According to the police source, the youth has admitted shooting the children, but claims that it was an accident. Reportedly, the youth said he was shooting at what he thought were dogs.

But Melvin Gadson says that the boy must be lying. "It wasn't no accident," Gadson said. "The children wasn't all bunched up together when they was shot. He had to track them down to shoot them. It looked like he meant to kill all of them."

Jesse Summers, the father of Juanita Summers, said he couldn't understand why the children were shot. "I don't know of any trouble between them," he said. Summers said he knew that nothing could bring his daughter back, but he said that "something's got to be done" to get justice in the shootings.

Orangeburg County sheriff's deputies arrested the white youth's uncle, stepfather, and grandmother, charging them with accessory after the fact of murder. But the stepfather and grandmother later had their charges dropped, and they were released by Orangeburg Magistrate Rupert Fogle on $2,000 surety bonds as material witnesses in the case. Police said that they were given a bond to make sure that they would be present to testify at the trial. An employee of the grandmother's was also released on a $2,000 surety bond as a material witness.

Relatives of the victims have sharply criticized the releasing of the stepfather and grandmother. Although they say they are certain that the white youth was involved in the shootings, they say they are not sure whether or not he was "put up to it by some of his people," or even if he did all of the shootings by himself. The relatives say they fear that the Sanders woman and Wyatt may leave the area now that they have been released on bond. None of the youth's family is from Orangeburg County.

Suspicions of the relatives increased after two trailers owned by Mrs. Sanders were removed from their spots two nights after the shootings. The relatives say the trailers were pulled away by trucks, and were accompanied by South Carolina Highway Patrol Officers. They do not know where the trailers were taken, or who authorized their removal.

The relatives also say that the local news media is trying to give a "Sympathetic picture" of the white youth accused of the shootings.

"The Times and Democrat," Orangeburg's only daily newspaper, ran an article healined, "He Was The First Victim," in their January 23 edition. The article gave an account of the youth's life, calling him a "neglected youth, lonely and desperate for affection and attention." Most of the article contained the opinion of the boy that was held by the Avinger family, including a quote from Mrs. Avinger saying she did not believe the boy committed the murders. The Avingers said they were close to the boy, and said they had tried to assimilate him into their family. No Black People in the area were asked their opinion of the youth, although several local residents said they were familiar with him long before the shootings took place.

The victim's relatives also said that one cause of the trouble was the presence of the P and J Truck Stop in the community.

The truck stop was a converted gas station that was bought by Mrs. Sanders when she moved to Santee about a year ago, according to community residents. They say they believe that the truck stop was a front for prostitution activities. They say they made several complaints about the truck stop to local authorities, but had no success in getting it closed down. Residents called the truck stop a "bad influence on the community," and most said they had forbidden their children to go near it.

The white youth lived in one of the trailers in back of the truck stop along with his family.

Relatives of the four Black children have begun a petition drive to make sure that the youth is tried as an adult when he eventually comes to trial. At the present time, the youth is under the jurisdiction of Family Court Judge Alvin Biggs. Under South Carolina law, a juvenile is generally tried in family court. Convictions in this court usually mean a much lighter sentence than for similar convictions in general sessions court. A family court judge may transfer a juvenile to general sessions court in murder cases if the judge feels that the youth k"acted as an adult," according to police spokespersons.

Funerals for the two Black children were held on seperate days at the Chapel Hill Baptist Church in Santee. Ronnie Shingler remains in stable condition at the Orangebury County Regional Hospital, and has not yet given a full statement about the killings to police. Mrs. Margaret Shingler, Ronnie's mother, said that her son finds it "very difficult" to talk about the shootings. "He is very upset about it all," she said, quietly. The mother of Tonia Carver, Mrs. Dorotheselle Carver, said that her 6 year-old seems to have blocked the entire incident from her mind. "She wouldn't talk at all on the first night," Mrs. Carver said. "She was just numb. Now she talks a little bit, but not much." Mrs. Carver said that the only clear memory Tonia has of the incident was of trying to get her cousin, Juanitá, to run with her. "Juanita's nickname was Coonie,' " Mrs. Carver said. "Tonia told us that she grabbed Juanita's hand and kept shouting, 'Come on Coonie, let's run.' She didn't know that Coonie was dead. She said she almost pulled her hand off."

This was the fourth time in 12 years that Black People in Orangebury County have been shocked and angered by "brutal, racist killings.."

In 1968, three Black students were killed and several more were wounded by white South Carolina Highway Patrol officers at South Carolina State College in Orangeburg. "The Orangebury Massacre," came at the height of the Black Power Movement, and brought national attention to Orangeburg. In 1975, an unarmed Black youth named Emmanuel Fogle was shot and killed while hiding in a ditch by Orangebury Deputy Sheriff Clark Ryder. The killing took place in a Black Community just outside of the Orangebury city limits. Local Blacks held several marches to protest the killing, and several unlity sticks of dynamite were discovered at the Orangeburg County Courthouse during the deputy's trail. And in May of 1979, 7 year-old Diedre Amaker of North died of a reaction to a drug given her while she was undergoing dental work at the Orangeburg office of Dr. Victor Hill. Local Blacks believe that Dr. Hill gave the Amaker girl and her brother an overdose of drugs to keep them from struggling while their teeth were being fixed.

In all of the previous cases, the accused killers were freed by Orangeburg County courts. ■

For those who dance to natural music

Disco daddy demons
spinnin' wild white sounds, electric flames that burn our ears
while the natural sounds get drowned.

What happened to the natural sound — —
Kuumba?
Kuumba is creativity
an' y'all don't even know.
. . . disco, freaky – deakin'
with white folks peekin' ritual is sacred, joyous region.
dancing's some niggers' only religion.
and y'all should know
white people can't dance.
Johnnie T. and the BeeGees robbin' bucks from you and me
Ben Vereen, Ailey,
Rahsaan, John and Charlie,
our needy black community.
while brothers: not for money but only on the street, you see playin' drums, bells, flute, saxophone, cause they know it will take them home.
They have always known:
White people?
Can't dance.

We ain't got no time
i say, we ain't got no time to be goin' forth then fallin' back patronizing white not black.
(economics)
No time for the Dream Weaver
No time to catch Saturday Night Fever
OR spend $4.50 at the movies either!!

Got to move ahead
Blackness ain't dead never has been, never will be and better not be said
'cause we got soul
know how to use it . . .
got power, should not abuse it.
and at the BIG dance, disco, stomp – down — — no Dusic!
'cause we gon' be jammin' off some
NATURAL Music!!!

(We will see who can dance)

amina

As it is used here, "dance" is not only a word for physical activity, but also to mean; the ability to endure, tolerate, or survive. In Black English it is used in the same ways as "hang". e.g. "You can't hang!"

asian affairs

Wing Chee Lee

Chinese New Year

A Short History

The Chinese traditional calendar, is lunar. It consists of twelve months. Each beginning with the new moon and reaching its midpoint with the full moon. These twelve lunations total 354 days. This means that each lunation has a length of 29 or 30 days.

The major problem with the lunar Chinese calendar is to adjust the incommensurate movements of the sun and moon.

The Chinese solution has been to insert an intercalary month, at three-year but sometimes at two-year intervals. The Chinese intercalary months may be inserted between any two months. (except the first, eleventh, and twelfth). In doing so, it would insure that Winter Solstice always falls in the eleveth month, the Spring Equinox in the second, the Summer Solstice in the fifth, and the Autumn Equinox in the eight. The result is a calendar whose lunar New Year fluctuates from year to year anywhere between January 21 and February 20.

The Han scholars recognized the existence of more than one beginning of the year. There are five beginnings of the year. There are five beginnings of the Year. They are:

1. Fiscal New Year Month 10, day 1: October 24)November 22.

2. Winter Solstice or Solar New Year Month 11: December 22

3. The La or People's New Year Month 12, 3rd (hsu) day of the Winter Solstice: :January 16)27

4. Lunar of Official New Year Month 1, day 1: : January 21, February 20.

5. Springs Beginning or Seasonal New Year Month 1 or 12: :February 5.

The "Beginning of the year" that will be discussed is The La of People's New Year. Of the five beginnings of the year, the La was regarded by Han Chinese as being the real New Year. The People's New Year was the progenitar of the observances which in later times became associated with the lunar New Year. The first mention of the People's New Year is made in the Tso Chuan under a year corresponding to 655 B.C. The next historical reference occurs in the Historical Records, which tells that the state of China celebrated the La in 326 B.C.

The Shu-wen dictionary and the Monthly Ordinances says that the La was a sacrifice to the many spirits. The Monthly Ordinances says that those who received sacrifice were the family ancestors and the five spirits of the household. In the Han period these were the duties of the Outer Gate, the Inner Door, the Well, the Hearth, and the Impluvuin. The Hearth God is the primary God. It is primary because it ascends to Heaven and reports on the family's behavior.

The La was celebrated secularly as well as religiously. It was celebrated by visiting and feasting with friends and relatives. ■

Ming – Fung Cheung

"Kung Hay Fat Choy" is the colloquial cantonese greeting which means "Wish you happiness and wealth (in the coming New Year)"

The Chinese see their lunar New Year as important as Americans see their Thanksgivings.

During New Year's Eve, which is usually around mid or late February of the Western calendar, all the members of the family go home.The married sons with their family and the unbetrothed daughters join their parents in the "dinner" "family reunion feast". Whereas, the married women usually join their parents in – law. The Chinese greatly cherish this dinner, for it is a sign of good will, continuity of heritage, and exchange of good wishes.

Before the arrival of the New Year, the Chinese families usually celebrate "the departure of the kitchen god" by cooking small dough nuts with stuffing of sweet preserve and peanuts or seasame. This is a rite and superstitution to induce a favorable report of the family's previous conduct before the chief God.

The decoration of the homes with bright colors and auspicious flowers like peach blossom narcissus and chrysanthemum, expresses the chinese's hope for a good start in the year..Moreover, red posters with expressions of good will are put up on the walls and the front door. For instance, "great Luck for the Spring", "Peace be with you in and out", "Blessing for the four seasons." On New Year's Eve some poor children will go knocking at people's doors with small red papers written "Ts' ar Shen" (the god of wealth), and the people will give these children some pocket money. Nobody is expected to work in the first few days of the New Year. In the morning of the first day, Children wake up early to greet and offer tea to their parents and elders, they they are give "lucky money" in small red envelopes. It is a custom for the married and elderly adults to give away these red envelopes. To the kids on the first day of the New Year members of the same family stay home to enjoy closiness and laughter.

When receiving the customery presents from their relatives or friends the hosts will return a portion of the gifts to express deep thanks for the generosity.

The meals cooked for the visitors also have auspicious meaning.In Kwangtung Province, there is a dish of black dace fresh water mussels and oysters which means riches and goodwill.

After a few days people resume work joyously and cheerfully. ■

Hong Ki Paik
Cha Yun Vang

Korean New Year

The Korean New Year originated from China. In Korea it adopted it's own form and developed into it's own national holiday.

New Year's Day is the most important gala day for Koreans. On this day, Koreans express gratitde to their ancestors. Koreans prepare different kinds of food and fruits for their ancestors to show respect and appreciation. This is similiar to Thanksgiving in the United States.

Koreans visit relatives and friends to talk about the past year, to play folk games together, and to share each others happiness.

Some of the folk games are Korean seesaw, Korean shuttle cock, a spinning top, a flying kite, and the yoot-game.

Most of the people are dressed in native dress call the Han-bok.

The Koreans celebrate their New Year's gathering together to share customs, eat good food, and to worship their ancestors. ■

自由 Freedom

平等 Equality

團結 Unity

african affairs

LESOTHO

EXILES WARY OF SOUTH AFRICAN INTERFERENCE

MASERU [AN] As a tiny black nation completely surrounded by South Africa, Lesotho is proud of its newly-established air service that overflies South African territory and links the airport here directly with Swaziland, Botswana and Mozambique.

When an Air-Lesotho flight in December encountered a report of bad weather on its approach to Maseru, however, the pilot apparently had little option but to land the plane in nearby Bloemfontein, the judicial capital of South Africa. There the passengers were loaded into a South African Airways bus to complete the trip overland.

Ordered to disembark and to produce their luggage for searching at the border, several passengers protested. According to the sworn statement of a senior Lesotho government official who was on the flight, they were then threatened by gun-wielding South African police "in a manner calculated to intimidate and terrorize them," and one of the passengers was suddenly seized "and hustled into a nearby office at gunpoint."

Zinjiza Nkondo, exiled since 1977 when he fled South Africa a few months after his release from 394 days in solitary confinement, was travelling under the name Victor Matlou, presumably for security reasons since he is an official of the outlawed African National Congress (ANC). His continued detention in Bloemfontein is seen by the Lesotho government as a serious violation of international air travel regulations.

The incident also heightened the feelings of vulnerability of the several hundred South African exiles here.

Lesotho has formally protested what Prime Minister Leabua Jonathan calls "a naked violation of our overflight rights."

"This act once again brings into focus the arrogance of the white rulers in South Africa, not only in dealing with the subject people of that country, but also in their contact with neighboring countries such as my own," he declared in written answers to questions from AFRICA NEWS.

Once an advocate of dialogue and cooperation with South Africa, Jonathan has now joined almost all other African leaders in strenuous condemnations of the white government's racial policies. As a result, Lesotho is receiving large amounts of aid from the United Nations in addition to the assistance it gets from Western powers.

"Lesotho is very active internationally," Foreign Minister C.B. Molapo says. "We are committee members of quite a number of international organizations, and this must be annoying to our neighbor, which is so isolated."

Last month Lesotho hosted both a senior United Nations official and the Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity. Both told AFRICA NEWS they were taking action to support Lesotho's case. "We will mobilize all the diplomatic strength at our disposal," the OAU's Edem Kodjo said.

The South African government maintains it is "not in breach of customary international law nor of applicable treaties," and there is no indication that Nkondo will be released. With other crises consuming world attention, this affair has gotten little notice, and a court case brought in South Africa by Nkondo's brother, Curtis, a prominent black activist, has been stalled by legal technicalities.

For the exiled community here, however, the incident and the lack of reaction is a worrisome matter. Two other political exiles intending to visit Lesotho, Barney Pityana and Ben Khoapa, both senior officials in the recently established Black Consciousness Movement (BCM) had also planned to be on the flight taken by Nkondo, changing their plans only at the last minute.

Most refugees believe South Africa's Security Police were behind the plane's diversion, schemes envisioned have yet been realized.

Burundi, Rwanda and Tanzania form the Kagera Basin Development Organization. The basin, which includes 40% of Burundi and 80% of Rwanda, is rich in both agricultural lands and in hydroelectric potential. The Kagera basin rivers are a major source for Lake Victoria, which in turn provides water to the Nile.

The Economic Community of the Great Lakes joins Zaire with Rwanda and Burundi. The three heads of state have met annually since 1966, but no projects have yet gotten off the ground.

For both the Kagera River and the Great Lakes efforts, as well as for the Burundi economy as a whole, the principal problem is transport. The mountainous country is far from the sea, and its present costly trade routes cut deeply into export revenues, keeping development at a slow pace. ■

announcements

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

How can a Chancellor with only a few months on campus now who to appoint? How can an administration that has done literally nothing except call on cops and curfews to solve an extreme moral problem, pick a committee to combat it.

Why aren't the groups approached who have the information which is sought? The Third World Women's Task Force, The Committee Against Repression, The Committee to Combat Racism, The Center for Racial Studies all have actively worked on these issues yet none were asked. Whitmore just approved, less than a month ago, a personnel action on the Antiracism Program Coordinator of SCERA yet they were not contacted.

And to top it all off, after all the talk about "Zoo Mass", a Zoology professor is placed as chair of the Committee without their consultation and without him knowing anyone who has worked on Antiracist and antisexist activities. The appointment was a poor joke.

It is not merely a problem of civility on campus among students. With the past administrative responses remaining invisible, impotent or ignored clearly there is a problem also in Whitmore. The two committees that they created (much in the same haphazard way) the Task Force on Violence Against Women, and the Retention Study seem already to be first-class candidates for the apathy file. A great deal of study goes on yet, when recommendations are made you want to study them; study them and study them out of sight--out of mind.

Studies will not keep racists from assaulting us, talk will not stop 18,000 students a year from being given a eurocentric education that reinforces the racist views of Third World people. It is not Third Word students who are culturally deprived or educationally inferior. It is this sick educational system that is deprived and has not yet, even in 1980, created a curriculum that civilizes the traditional student.

Let us be open and honest. When you cut "special programs" you are cutting those areas that are designed to combat racism and sexism. When you consolidate for the "traditional" programs and departments you are speaking of those traditionally created for the white majority. Civility must come from the top as well.

I intended to end with a number of positive suggestions,but I feel constructive criticism is sufficient unto itself. This can be taken as irresponsible or irrelevant, the choice is yours. I however, do not intend to allow Third World students' interests and aspirations to be buried under another mountain of studies, budget concerns and consolidation schemes. Deal with us honstly and openly and you will not hear this type of complaint. If you truly want to "foster a high level of discourse" then remember that only actions--concrete and substantive--will bring it. ■ proceedings Southern papers are full. A crime almost unknown to the colored man in the time of slavery seems now, from report, the most common I do not believe these reports. There are too many reasons for trumping up such charges.

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

Another feature of the situation is, that this mob violence is seldom rebuked by the press and the pulpit, in its immediate neighborhood. Because the public opinion which sustains and makes possible such outrages, intimidates both press and pulpit.

Besides, nobody expects that those who participate in such mob violence will ever be held answerable to the law, and punished. Of course, judges are not always unjust, nor juries always partial in cases of this class, but I affirm that I have here given you no picture of the fancy, and I have alleged no point incapable of proof, and drawn no line darker or denser than the terrible reality. The situation, my colored fellow citizens, is discouraging, but with all its hardships and horrors, I am neither desperate nor despairing as to the future.

One ground of hope is found in the fact referred to in the beginning, and that is, the discussion concerning the Negro still goes on.

The country in which we live is happily governed by ideas as well as by laws, and no Black man need despair while there is an audible and earnest assertion of justice and right on his behalf. He may be riddled with bullets, or roasted over a slow fire by the mob, but his cause cannot be shot or burned or otherwise destroyed. Like the impalpable ghost of the murdered Hamlet, it is immortal. All talk of its being a dead issue is a mistake. It may for a time be buried, but it is not dead. Tariffs, free trade, civil service, and river and harbor bills may for a time cover it, but it will rise again, and again, and again, with increased life and vigo. Every year adds to the Black man's numbers. Every year adds to his wealth and to his intelligence. These will speak for him...

In a word, until truth and humanity shall cease to be living ideas, and mankind shall sink back into moral darkness, and the world shall put evil for good, bitter for sweet, and darkness for light, this discussion will go on. Until all humane ideas and civilization shall be banished from the world, this discussion will go on.

There never was a time when this great lesson could be more easily learned than now. Events are transpiring all around us that enforce consideration of the oppressed classes. In one form or another, by one means or another the ideas of a common humanity against privileged classes, of common rights against special privileges, are now rocking the world. ■

DRUM

You are invited to join the staff of the Black Literary experience. Writers, photographers, interviewers and graphic designers are needed. Check us out every Tuesday at 7pm room 115 New Africa House. 545-0768

Poetry, photos, artwork short stories and essays are now being considered for the 1980 edition of DRUM. Submissions should be addressed to:

DRUM
115 New Africa House
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts
01003

Dealine dates:
12 March 1980
All submissions become property of DRUM

ACCEPT THE INVITATION AND "SHARE YOUR MIND WITH THE WORLD"

EVERYWOMANS CENTER OPEN HOUSE

Refrescos y musica
Refreshments and Music!

Wed., Feb. 20. 4–6 PM Wilder hall, 2nd Floor, UMASS Behind Morrill Science Center West of the Health Center
Wilder Hall, segundo piso, UMASS detras de 'Morrill Science Center'
Meet New Staff!
Staff will be available to provide information about: counseling, training, advocacy, resource and referral, support groups, skill development, organizing, and workshops
Conozcan al personal nuevo!
Enterense sobre los servicios disponibles

For further information call: 545–0883
Para mas informacion llame 545–0883

Smith College News

Northampton, MA Veronica Maz, founder and president of the House of Ruth, a Washington, D.C., organization that provides emergency shelter for homeless, destitute, and battered women and their children, will be the speaker at Rally Day Wednesday, February 20, at Smith College.

Ms. Maz, who was educated at the University of Pittsburgh and is a research associate in the the sociology department at Georgetown University, has been involved in several community action and social service projects in the Washington, D.C., area. She was named Washingtonian of the Year in 1976 and received the national volunteer activist award from the National Center for Voluntary Action in 1977.

During Rally Day exercises, which are Smith s traditional celebration of Washington s Birthday, Ms. Maz will be awarded an honorary degree, and five Smith alumnae will receive Smith medals, which are awarded to women who exemplify in their lives and service to the community or the college, the true purpose of a liberal arts education.

Those who will receive the medals are? Dorothy Allensworth, 29, of Mamaroneck, New York, founder and director of a non profit corporation that helps severly disadvantaged young people gain an education; Barbara Bates, 49, of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, physician, and, until recently, faculty member at the University of Missouri Medical School; Lucile Curtis, 13, of Columbus, Ohio, first woman foreign service officer with the U S State Department 1922, and long time volunteer worker for social service and cultural organizations in Columbus, including the Columbus Public Health nursing service and the city s Philharmonic; Katherine Fanning, 49, Anchorage, Alaska, editor and publisher of the Anchorage Daily News; and Barbara Washburn, 35, of Belmont, Massachusetts, explorer and cartographic researcher with her husband, Bradford Washburn, director of the Bostion Museum of Science.

An exhibition of photographs of Mt. McKinley taken by Washburn will be on display at the Smith College Museum of Art from February 14 through the end of March.

Rally Day exercises will be held at 10 a.m. in John M. Greene Hall at Smith.

Health reach

(2 intro articles)
NEXT WEEK MORE INTRODUCTIONS....

Health Scavenger Hunt

Friday February 22 1pm
H-10 North Village
For Family Housing Residents
Ages 7 - 12 years

REFRESHMENTS PROVIDED

Michelle L. Laney

HOTLINE TO HEALTH

Here's a prediction. Water is going to be harder to get in the 1980's. More is being used for all kinds of purposes, not just drinking. Farmers are pumping up "fossil water" for irrigation – the collected rain – drops of a million years that aren't being replaced fast enough by today's rains. Whole sections of the West will feel the pinch when the water table below ground sinks so deep that water can no longer be reached with reasonable energy use. The new synfuel projects require water. So do nuclear plants – for cooling. Just to get enough to drink, we'll soon be forced to use water of even lower quality than we're getting today.

The public's lack of concern about what poor quality water can do to health will soon end – in a flood of publicity about new water – related health discoveries. Water will be seen more as a big factor in nutrition – not just something to wash clothes with and boil up for tea. Whether or not you feel good and live to a rip age will depend more on the kind of water you can ge. Almost everyone will finally realize that basic fact of health, and there'll be a sudden end to the water ignorance we now suffer from.

"To my way of thinking, the biggest problem with water today is that the public doesn't really believe there's anything wrong with it. Should tap water develop a bad taste or smeol, or an odd color, there's a great outcry. But the really harmful and insidious pollutants usually don't make water taste or smell bad.

"The general public – and many water treatment folks still believe chlorination is the solution to any contaminants in water. Not true. We know now that chlorine interacts with naturally found humus and humic acid (in other words the products of decaying plant matter) to form THM s (trihalomethanes), which are carcinogens. The public is unaware of this. Too bad, since THM,s are found in virtually every water supply in this country. Many water utilities seem unruffled by the fact that their standard operating procedure puts a cancer – causing substance into every glass of water we drink."

What should you do about it? Political pressure on the people responsible for water policy is important. Get to your local waterworks people and make sure they know the facts, and know that you're watching what they do, and are worried.

There are things you can do on your own, even if your local water system is delivering a bad product. One approach is to filter your water through a unit containing activated carbon. In theory, at least, that will chemically grab hold of chloroform as well as other carcinogens. But there has to be enough carbon in the filter to do a good job, and the water must run through the filter slowly enough for the filtering effect to take place.

Once you know how bad the situation is, and make the decision to take matters into your own hands, you can find constructive things to do. The tools needed to improve water are becoming more widely available, and are being improved.

Fortunately, sophisticated but rather simple ways to check the condition of your water – and even what water is doing to you – are now available. The Soil and Health Foundation has been a leader in providing those services to members, at moderate cost. The Foundation now has two programs that can reveal the mineral content of water, which is one important way to confirm purity or expose problems.

Always remember that water flows. It falls as rain in one place, but may travel hundreds or even thousands of miles both above and below ground before it gets to your kitchen sink. Where has it been? Has it flowed past the Love Canal near Buffalo, that infamous industrial chemical dump? Has it trickled through any of the other places like Love Canal which are spotted around the country? Or has it been through the bowels of a large city upstream from you?

We have to ask ourselves questions like that, and try to find the answers. For if we don't, and keep drinking water that is not pure, our efforts to become healthy by improving our nutrition and living healthfully in other ways are [illegible]. ■

Research by Robert Rodale of PREVENTION MAGAZINE.

To have your water tested by The Soil and Health Foundations, mail a check or money order for $25 (no cash please) to: The Soil and Health Foundation, Water Test, 33 East Minor Street, Emmaus, Pa. 18049. They'll send you the directions and equipment you need for collecting a water sample and mailing it to the laboratory for analysis. Within four weeks you'll know how your water stacks up according to the latest Environmental Protection Agency standards for drinking water.

Next Week A Look at Fats!

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 87 Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst

Index...

News Digest ..... page 2
Editorial/Opinion ..... page 7
Around Campus ..... page 6
Classified ..... page 12
Comics, DC Menu ..... page 13
Sports ..... page 15, 16

Why do they turn down the UM proposition?

By FRANK PAPSADORE
Collegian Staff

Why did you come to UMass? Was it the low tuition, academic reputation, or was it just a back-up school? This year, UMass admissions accepted 9348 students. Of these, 4,752 would-be students declined Umass' offer. Why?

A random sampling of the students who didn't come to UMass were polled by the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office, (SAREO). The survey found that most students applied to Umass as a "back-up" school in case they were rejected by a "higher choice" school.

Low tuition was the runner-up reason for applying to UMass. Other reasons, in declining order of usage, included good academic reputation, special education programs, and, at the bottom of the list, was family pressure to come to UMass.

More important are the reasons why students declined to enroll. The top excuse was the student had been accepted by their first choice school. Students said their chosen school was "smaller and more personal", "had more research opportunity," or "had a better financial aid program." Some students merely said their chosen school was more "desirable" or a better all-around school.

Some of the schools these students chose over UMass included Boston College, Boston Univeristy, Northeastern, UNH, UMaine, SMU and the University of Lowell. More than 60 percent of the students surveyed placed UMass fourth, fifth or lower behind these schools in "special education programs or special majors" and general "academic reputation."

The final question of the survey asked, "What was one thing that UMass could have done so you would have chosen it over the college you will attend?". The most frequent answer given was "absoulutely nothing." Most students felt that UMass could in no way compare with their "first choice" school.

But some answers given by the student were rather interesting – such as "improve violent reputation," "re-install hockey program," and "have less concrete."

Some students said to "have less partying," "lower tuition," or be "more challenging." Some replies even asked UMass to "improve their skiing location," "omit language reqirement," or "accept a brother at UMass Medical School." One non-enrolled said if UMass offered him free room and board, he would have attended here.

These tree shadows cast a scenic pattern on the snow. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

America at the Olympics – fun, frisbees, and inflation

By CAROLYN MOONEY
Collegian Staff

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. – In a popular little candle lit restaurant on Mirror Lake, a representative for a well-known ski distributor explains how he was able to hang his company's banner from the beams above.

"In this country you can have anything for a price," he says, smiling.

The banner, cost 14 pairs of cross-country skis and boots, one set for each employee. Meanwhile, the same banner was tacked up on the wall of a less popular restaurant down the street for five pairs of skis and boots.

A press center accreditation (not to have that tag around your neck is to be a persona non grata here – you can't go anywhere) can be had for three cross-country ski sets. The ski representative figures that even a much sought-after, limited-edition parking sticker (only a handful of private cars are allowed into Lake Placid) must have its price, but he won't reveal his contacts. "Bartering," he simply says, "will be the way of the future."

The distributors, who have taken over shops along Main Street and made the village look like a Hynes Auditorium ski exposition, barter with the athletes especially.

"We're always looking for young, talented skiiers to make a contract with," the representative continues. But because U.S.

TURN TO PAGE 5

Soviets Valeri Yakushin and Sergei Danilin spill during finals competition in the Olympic mens doubles luge event yesterday in Lake Placid. The pair managed to get back on their sled and complete the run safely.

Town democrats endorse prof for state committee

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Democratic Town Committee voted last week to endorse the candidacy of UMass Rhetoric Professor Florence Frank to be the area's elected member of the State Democratic Committee.

The economic importance and prestige of the University are being stressed in her campaign, said Frank. The area and state have not acknowledged the University in these areas, she said.

Frank cited the University's $137 million economic contribution to the area as a point legislators are not recognizing. The University's economic impact is second only to General Electric of Pittsfield, she added.

Of the $137 million, $108 million is return-

TURN TO PAGE 5

Frank seeks party vote

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Florence Frank, a Democratic Town Committee member since 1972, is running for her first elective office, the State Democratic Committee.

Frank first became politically involved as a steering committee member for Eugene McCarthy in upstate New York. At that time, she was a member of the New Democratic Coalition in New York.

In 1969, she moved with her husband Joseph and five children to Amherst. She became involved in the Democratic Town Committee in 1972. She has served on the committee since then, and is a former treasurer.

Two years later, she was a delegate to the state convention. At that time, she was the Executive Director of the Democratic Women's Caucus of Western Massachusetts. She held the position for four years.

Later, in 1976, Frank was appointed by former Mass. Governor Michael Dukakis to the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women. The 40-member group was dismissed earlier this year by King, who expressed a desire to make his own appointments to the Commission. Her original appointment had been that of a consultant.

Frank has also served as an elected member of the Amherst Town Meeting since 1974.

She has been a rhetoric professor at UMass for two years, and plans to hold the positon regardless of the election's outcome. Frank is active in the Massachusetts

TURN TO PAGE 6

DIGEST

Supreme Court decides on CIA and other vital issues

WASHINGTON (AP) —ExCIA agent Frank Snepp must hand over to the government all profits he made on a 1977 book he wrote without the spy agency's approval, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices rejected Snepp's arguments that the secrecy pacts he signed before taking his CIA job represented an impermissible prior restraint on his free-speech rights.

In an extremely busy day following a four-week recess, the court also took these actions:

—Agreed to decide whether a 72-year-old man accused of serving as a Nazi death camp guard must face deportation. The justices said they will study Feodor Fedorenko's attempt to remain in the United States, where he has lived — in Connecticut and Florida — since 1949.

—Refused to limit how far the Federal Election Commission can go in determining whether a presidential candidate qualifies for taxpayer matching funds.

The court left intact a ruling in the case of former U.S. Labor Party candidate Lyndon LaRouche that allows the commission to contact individual contributors for verification and to enforce subpoenas as part of an investigation into possible violations of federal campaign law.

—Left intact federal court rulings that saved the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from financial ruin. The justices refused to force the civil rights group to pay a group of Mississippi merchants $1.25 million in damages while it appeals the money award.

—Agreed to study a ruling that most federal judges — including the high court's nine justices — are entitled to thousands of dollars in back pay. The case tests Congress' power to suspend previously approved annual pay hikes for federal judges.

—Refused to order the FBI to hand over to a newspaper its files on reputed New England crime boss Raymond Patriarca of Providence, R.I.

European nations call for Afghanistan neutrality

ROME (AP)—The nine-nation European Common Market called yesterday for an international guarantee of Afghanistan's neutrality to induce Moscow to withdraw its troops from that country.

At the same time, the foreign ministers of the nine countries decided to postpone any joint response to the proposed boycott of the Moscow Olympics until the Soviets reply to the neutrality plan, conference sources said.

In a joint statement following a day-long meeting here, the ministers declared that the Afghan crisis "could be overcome constructively through an arrangement which allows a neutral Afghanistan to be outside the competition among the powers."

Fed chairman promises halt in inflation by interest hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Paul A. Volcker of the Federal Reserve Board said yesterday that rapid growth of the nation's money supply has been fueling inflation in the United States, and he vowed the growth will stop even though it means "horrendous" high interest rates.

He also said there isn't any evidence that the economy has been "brutally squeezed" by high interest rates. On Friday, the board raised its key bank lending rate by a full percentage point to a new record high of 13 percent.

"As horrendous as those interest rates are, people are telling you they are willing to borrow at those rates because of the seriousness of inflation," he told the House Banking Committee.

Supreme Court temporarily reinstates welfare abortion

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Supreme Court on yesterday ordered the federal government to pay for most abortions wanted by women on welfare — at least until the court decides the emotion-laden issue later this year.

In a one-sentence order, the justices refused to sidetrack a federal judge's order forcing the government to pay for medically necessary abortions for poor women.

U.S. District Judge John Dooling in New York City last month struck down as unconstitutional the so-called Hyde amendment, a congressional restriction on Medicaid spending for abortions. The restriction is named after its original sponsor, Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill.

Dooling's order that the spending restriction end now is in effect after the Supreme Court, on a 6-3 vote, refused to overturn him.

At the same time, the justices voted 6-3 to expedite their consideration of the New York City case by consolidating it with a Hyde amendment case from Chicago accepted for review last Nov. 26.

The court ordered that all briefs in the New York City case be submitted by April 10, an indication that the justices will schedule oral arguments in the Chicago and New York cases for sometime in late April.

The spending restriction makes money for abortion available only to women whose lives are endangered by their pregnancies and women who are the victims of rape or incest. Congress first imposed the restriction in 1976, and has passed similar versions of it since then.

HyDde predicted the court's action would give new spirit to anti-abortion elements who want a constitutional amendment to limit abortions.

But the American Civil Liberties Union and the Center for Constitutional Rights hailed the court's action as marking "a great day for liberty. Poor women all over the country can once again get Medicaid-funded abortions."

In his decision, Judge Dooling said Medicaid money for medically necessary abortions must be available to eligible women as is money for childbirth costs.

The judge's broad definition of "medically necessary" went beyond physical health to include the best interest of a woman's mental and social well-being.

The Carter administration and persons opposed to expanded government spending for abortions had asked the justices to postpone the effect of Dooling's order until the controversy is resolved.

Justice Thurgood Marshall had granted a temporary postponement of Dooling's decision in order to allow the full court to consider the emergency requests.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr. voted to allow the government to continue denying Medicaid funds for most abortions. They also voted against consolidating the New York case with the Chicago case.

Campaign '80

Kennedy hurting for financing

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy's New Hampshire campaign apparently continues to experience financial difficulties, although Kennedy staff members deny there are problems.

A top official of National Telephone Advertising, the company that did Kennedy's telephone canvass for potential voters in Iowa, said yesterday his company has stopped canvassing for the Massachusetts senator in New Hampshire because the company is owed more than $105,000.

In addition, the Merrimack Hilton Hotel has canceled the Kennedy organization's reservation for primary night for the hotel ballroom and 15 rooms because the campaign did not pay the hotel a $1,500 deposit in time.

Anderson knocks GOP's attitude

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Republican presidential candidate John Anderson says the GOP "is still pretty much the party that has ignored the interests of the average person."

The Illinois congressman, campaigning Monday for the March 4 Massachusetts primary, billed his candidacy as "an opportunity to bring my party into line with the thinking of the majority of the persons in this country."

Anderson called for deferment of many federal grants-in-aid for projects such as hotels and convention centers.

Reagan oil claim found incorrect

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) —Ronald Reagan made an apparent misstatement yesterday when he claimed that Alaska has more oil reserves than Saudi Arabia.

Reagan's claim befuddled the Energy Department and the American Petroleum Institute, which both said the Saudis have some 18 times more oil than the Alaskans.

On a campaign swing through southeastern Massachusetts, the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination told a crowd: "This is an energy-rich nation. Alaska alone has a greater oil reserve than Saudi Arabia."

"I cannot explain where he got that," said Petroleum Institute spokeswoman Lane Johnston, citing studies that show on Jan. 1, 1979, "Alaska's estimated, proven crude oil reserves were 9 billion, 247 million barrels."

She said the same figure for Saudi Arabia was 165 billion, 700 million barrels.

"That's about what we have too," said James Griffin, a spokesman for the Energy Department, referring to Ms. Johnston's figures.

Reagan, who was unavailable to comment on the discrepancy, has made similar comparisons between Alaska and Saudi Arabian reserves before in his campaign.

On Feb. 5 he said, "Alaska is believed to have geater oil reserves than Saudi Arabia," blaming the Carter administration for failing to actively develop the reserves.

Reagan aides at that time said the information had come from a report by the U.S. Geological Survey.

But O.W. Girard, in the survey's Office of Energy Resources in Washington, said his agency had "nothing that would come close" to supporting Reagan's contention. "The reserves of Saudi Arabia far exceed the reserves of the United States, not just Alaska," he said.

Carter sets deadline for Russian retreat — today

President Jimmy Carter escapes the Rose Garden for a run along the Cheapeake and Ohio Canal. Above, he seems determined to show the Soviets who's in Olympic shape.

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press

WASHINGTON —President Carter refused to back away from his demand that the Soviet Union get out of Afghanistan by today or risk U.S. refusal to participate in the Summer Olympics.

The "deadline is tomorrow — and it will not be changed," Carter told a loudly cheering convention of the American Legion. The president also told the organization's annual conference that as many as 100,000 Russian troops were occupying Afghanistan.

The Soviet Union has given no signal that it would remove its forces during month that has elapsed since Carter first issued the demand on Jan. 20.

Asked what would happen today, when the deadline arrives, White House press secretary Jody Powell said "we have made our position very clear. The question now addresses itself to the United States Olympic Committee."

"We would like for them to reach a decision as soon as they can," he said at a White House briefing for reporters.

One White House, source, asking not to be named publicly, said: "There's nothing new. No one expected the Soviets would be out by the 20th. I don't think the day has any particular significance."

The source, who has been involved in the international effort to round up support for Carter's Olympic stand, said "about 50 governments publicly and privately seem to be in favor."

The White House source would not list those nations, but said they include several in Africa, most of the Islamic nations—upset over the occupation of fiercely religious Afghanistan—and allies in Europe, as well as Canada, New Zealand and Australia.

He said discusions are under way with other nations to pick sites for an alterantive sports competition this summer.

Here, President Carter covers his face as a photographer spots him. He heads into his limousine, away from the pressures of the economy and Senator Kennedy.

Shared custody of children new solution in divorce court

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Special to the Collegian

As man of the house, his morning is unusual. Instead of waking up to breakfast, he is scrambling eggs while fixing his tie. He has even gotten into the habit of making an extra sandwich for himself and skipping the executive lunches he used to frequent. Now he needs the time to do a lot of other things he rarely used to do, such as grocery shopping, visiting the laundromat and holding appointments with doctors, dentists and teachers.

This man is a single father whose daughter and son are two of an estimated 1,123,000 children involved in divorce or annulment annually, according to the most recent figures from the U.S. Vital Statistics Record. The custody arrangement he shares with his wife is becoming an increasingly popular means for deciding custody in divorce cases. The arrangement, know as joint or shared custody, involves shared and equal time with both parents separately on an every-other-week basis.

The current box-office success of "Kramer vs. Kramer,"the story of an estranged father raising his son and fighting the ensuing court battle for custody, has left audiences raving about exquisite acting and heart-wrenching emotion. But what about believability? If the film were real life, certainly under the circumstances Ted and Joanna Kramer would have considered the contemporary solution of shared custody.

In the case of the single father interviewed, he and his wife mutually decided on shared custody. "My wife and I both loved the children and still wanted to share a lot of time with them and knew that if they were only with one us most of the time it would be a great loss. We agreed the children were the best thing that came out of the marriage," he said.

Many fathers, however, are revolting against restrictive custody laws in which woman are consistently considered the parent most qualified to serve the "best interests of the child." Because a women's primary role was that of wife and mother until about 15 years ago, the question of custody rarely arose in divorce cases. Mom got the kids. It was always in their best interest. And her honor as a mother rested on her insistence of custody.

In the earlier history of western civilization, it was fathers, not mothers, who had the exclusive right to custody of their legitmate children. Only over the past 100 years, according to Henry H. Forster of the Family Law Section of the American Bar Association, as women assume more independent roles in society, has this attitude shifted. Since it was the mother who had borne and nursed the baby, she was then considered most qualified to raise the child.

But regardless of these narrow legal male-female roles, men and women are changing, and women seek a different identity than they did 25 years ago.

With more women realizing that their self-esteem and social status does not depend on having full custody of their children and with more men facing a great loss by not living with and fully enjoying their children, the law has begun to acknowledge that parenting is not necessarily a sex-determined function. Currently, 11 of 50 states still hold to the gospel of a "presumption in favor of the mother" as being always in the best interest of the child.

The U.S. Bureau of Census concedes that change is under way. According to Statistical Abstractions, a census report, "a transformation appears to be predicated largely on the restructuring of the roles which men and women play within the traditional boundaries of marriage and family living." While through all of this you may be thinking, "What about the child?" there are sound economic and psychological reasons for the change.

Psychologists believe that what has real meaning for the child is the "psychological parent;" the one with whom he or she has or will have day to day interaction, companionship and shared experience. The child will see not only the mother in this role but the father also and come to know them both in this important capacity. Both parents have the chance to share in the physical and psychological growth of the child.

Certain stipulations come into play in shared custody. Questions arise such as: How financially capable is the parent to care for the child on his or her own? What is the physical proximity of both parents' homes? How many siblings are involved in the divorce? These questions complicate the decision.

As shared custody becomes a more common solution in divorce settlements, we will find more fathers jointly raising children and taking on the new responsibility this role requires. Women are now free to think twice before asking for full custody of children. And our conception of the nuclear family—one husband, one wife, and one set of children—as the the only environment for the loving and caring of children, will have to change. Through the hardship of divorce or annulment, single parents are proving that they can do it separately—but together.

Elderly women of Amherst join ranks with council's help

By LISA MAREGNI
Special to the Collegian

In Amherst, a college town focusing largely on student's and young people's needs, there exists an active community of women aged 60 and over with particular needs and issues peculiar to their sex and age group.

Steven Stander of the Amherst Town Hall Planning Office estimates there are more than 1,000 women over the age of 60 in Amherst, comprising over 4 percent of the population.

The Amherst Senior Center, home of the Amherst Council on Aging, provides facilities for classes, workshops, and a daily lunch for the elderly. Located in the Bangs Community Center, the Senior Center is also a place where elderly men and women can drop in to browse through books, play cards, or simply talk and be with others.

The Council's Executive Director Barbara Griffith estimates there are about 350 elderly area women who use the Senior Center for regular or occasional classes, meetings, and drop-in purposes.

Some elderly women in Amherst, after retiring from full-time jobs or suddenly finding themselves alone after the death of a husband, volunteer their services and skills. For these women, volunteering provides a sense of usefulness, allowing them to contribute and use their skills while maintaining contact with other people.

For former schoolteacher Gladys Reed club activities, volunteer work in the Senior Center dining room, and making hats for Indian children are some of the activities which fill her life. President of the local Crafts Club, member of a monthly study group, and an occasional cross-country skier, Reed's philosophy is, "you keep young when you keep busy."

Katie Leadbetter, 73, also works in the Senior Center dining room, and fills in as dispatcher for the Council's Senior Transportation services.

Signing off a "Senior Surrey" driver with a "ten-four," Leadbetter, a former Florida resident, said she regrets moving to Amherst and feels the town does not adequately meet her needs in some respects. One example she gave was that the area merchants' overwhelming focus on young students makes it difficult for her to find stores with clothing styles suitable to her tastes.

Family ties brought Leadbetter to Amherst, but now she says, "I have proven to myself that I can make it on my own." An active, outgoing woman, she is a member of the Council who has taught remedial reading and religion classes in Amherst, and is proud of the fact that she put her two sons through college. "I'm proud of everything I've done," she said.

Loraine Kenney, 61, works full time as the Council's Veteran's Agent. She is ambivalent about retiring: while she looks forward to free time to travel with her husband, she is not sure if she is willing to give up the responsibilities of her job. Kenney raised four children and ran a home-based typing business for 17 years before returning to work outside the home. She has always been independent, having left home to work at age 18.

Kenney feels having her business at home during her child-raising years made the transition to the outside work force easier than it may have been for women who have devoted themselves solely to their husbands and children. For such women, the departure of children and divorce or death of the husband can be doubly devastating because they must suddenly return to the work force after many years' absence, or, as is the case for many elderly women, simply fill their lives with other people and activities.

Seventy-two year old Margaret MacCrory says that she spends much of her spare time socializing with others at Bangs Community Center. She thinks that the senior surrey is wonderful and the accomodations at Bangs are "out of this world." (Staff photo by Paul Price)

The fact that Kenney is married is an aspect which sets her apart from many women of her age and older, who are outliving their husbands. She said, however, that some women have always "had things done for them" and when widowed, become lethargic and disinterested. "I couldn't let myself go like that," she said.

Barbara Slovin, Coordinator of Community Affairs at the Senior Center, feels a possible conflict for elderly women may be the loss of the primary roles of wife and mother if they are widowed, or if they must face life alone without their children. Many elderly women must get by on limited incomes, she said, whether they're still working or receiving retirement benefits. When an older women is widowed, she may fear she is unable to deal with financial responsibilities or she may be ignorant of investments her husband may have made, Slovin said. This is not the case for all elderly women, many of whom have been in the work force throughout their lives, have taken an active role in household finances, or never married.

Another issue older women may face is the simple transference of caring for the husband and family to focusing one's attention on oneself. Slovin suggests this can be a major adjustment for many women who are used to "doing for others."

Student senate to refill seats

By DAVE KELLOGG
Collegian Staff

Elections for 26 vacant Undergraduate Student Senate seets will be held Thursday and Friday in the eligible dorms at times determined by the Heads of Residentce.

Separate senate elections for 17 commuter vacancies will be held by the Commuter Collective in the near future. Nine Third World senators will be appointed by the Office of Third World Affairs.

The decision to hold mid-year elections was made over intersession, Senate Speaker David Routheir said. "We usually have elections only once a year," Routhier explained, "but going along with our renewed interest in out reach we decided elections would get more students involved."

"As part of out reach we want to increase the involvemnet of Heads of Residence and House Councils," said Merrill Green, co-chairperson of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committtee. "Without their support, the SGA does not really have any importance."

Dorms with single vacancies are Cashin, Colliidge Upper and Lower, Crabtree, Dickinson, Grayson, Greenough, JQA Upper and Lower, Kennedy Lower, Leach, Mackimmie, Patterson, Pierpont, Washington Upper, and Webster. Field and McNamara each have two seats vacant.

More women finding benefits in Army ROTC

By SIOBHAN C. BREEN
Special to the Collegian

In the face of possible future draft registration of women, students may notice there are already some women on campus wearing a military uniform.

The number of women in the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) has been growing steadily since women entered the program in 1973.

Captain Phil Turner, Assistant Professor of Military Science, said the cadet battalion this year is approximately 25 percent female, an increase of about 10 percent over last year.

Brenda Mierzejewski, a sophomore at UMass , said she believes that through her involvement with the program, she has developed skills she would not have been exposed to otherwise. "The main thing is leadership ability—getting up before a large group and taking command," she said.

Women have been successful in the program, according to Capt. Turner, an ROTC graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. One of the top juniors in the battalion this year is a woman, and last year the Cadet Battalion Commander was a female," Turner said.

Though no female graduate of UMass has entered a combat branch, presently only two branches, Infantry and Armor, are closed to women. This year's senior women are entering the Military Intelligence, Medical Service Corps, Ordinance, and Signal Corps branches.

Female cadets have taken part in all the battalion activities and their training, Mierzejewski said, is almost identical to that of their male counterparts. The only difference is the Physical Training tests, which are modified because of physical differences, she said.

Cadet Captain Kathleen Bradford, a senior four-year scholarship student, is the Commander of the Bay State Special Forces Unit, the ranger company of the UMass Battalion. "Baystate provides the Battalion with tactical expertise and leadership through small unit tactics," she said.

"All ROTC activities ate open to women," Bradford said. These activities include mountaineering, drill and ceremony, marksmanship, winter survival, and orienteering.

Women can also attend the special army schools such as Airborne and Air Assault school, she said. One senior women, Cadet Wendy Frenkel, is airborne qualified.

Both Bradford and Mierzejewski believe women should be included in draft registration, however neither think they should be put into combat positions. Mierzejewski said that "for each combat soldier there are eight support people needed."

Mierzejewski is the only female cadet participating in the new Simultaneous Membership Program in which she is both and ROTC cadet and a member of the National Guard. She is affiliated with the 26th Military Police Company based at Westover Airforce Base.

Faculty senate tackles safety

By BRIAN FITZMAURICE
Collegian Staff

The Umass Faculty Senate voted last week to reject the administration's proposed construction of fences along Commonwealth and Massachusetts Avenues. The adopted resolution will be forwarded to UMass Chancellor Henry Koffler for further consideration.

The senate also advised the University Health and Safety Committee to reconsider Mass. Ave. reconstruction, other than the bus bypass. The administration's lease lighting project, included in the Pedestrian Safety Program, came under close scrutiny by the Senate. The project calls for a 15-year contract with Western Electric Co., as well as acceptance of materials available in stock and and an

TURN TO PAGE 14

UPC Notice

TICKETS FOR THE MARCH 6 KINKS CONCERT, SCHEDULED TO GO ON SALE THURSDAY, FEB. 21 WILL NOT GO ON SALE UNTIL MONDAY, FEB. 25.

Black Affairs

Below is a Black History crossword puzzle. Test your knowledge of African and Black American history. You can win $10.00 in cash if you are correct. Entries must be in no later than Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 3:30. Drop them in the Black Affairs Box in the Collegian on the bottom floor of the Campus Center. Members of the Black Affairs staff and the Office of Third World Affairs may not apply.

ACROSS
1. U.S. conflict between the North and the South
2. Mandingo nation of the 17th century
3. King of Mali noted for his Hajj
4. African country east of the Sudan, north of Kenya
5. The "Louisville Lip"
6. Most ancient name for Africa
7. 1936 Olympic gold medalist
8. First Balck brigadier general
9. One reason for the explointation of South Africa
10. 20th century painter of pictoral histories
11. Agency most responsible for the murder of Patrice Lamumba
12. Large black organization in U.S. history (initials)
13. Bill Robinson
14. Author of God's Trombone

DOWN
1. Capital of the Republic of South Africa
2. Black ancient Egyptian Queen
3. First independent Black nation in the western hemisphere
4. Satchmo
5. Black capital of the world
6. Derived over 300 products from the peanut.
7. Muslims belong to the Nation of ...
8. Africa is one of seven...
9. Black Americans are descendents of ...

Food for Thought

One local case of repression that has been silent for a few years is the Craemen Gethers case. Brother Gethers, along with the author, was imprisoned in 1975 for allegedly robbing the MacDonald restaurant on Route 9.

The incident occurred on August 7th, 1974, around 11:30 p.m., when three blacks walked into the restaurant. One of the two individuals who approached the counter from the east door asked for Grape soda. When the counter women replied that MacDonalds does not sell this item, another man, who approached the counter from the west entrance pulled out a shotgun. This was immediately followed by the former two men jumping the counter to reach the safe. The robbery which took less than two minutes was witnessed by seven to fifteen individuals.

The uniqueness of this case, was the total control of the police in convicting Earl Brown and Craemen Gethers for the crime. First, the number of witnesses were reduced to three, based on their description of the incident. The three witnesses were taken to UMass campus, because of its large Black population in the area. Earl Brown was accused based on an original identification of another Brown from Boston, Mass. Persuasion by UMass and State Police investigators assisted two of the witnesses in retracting their earlier choices.

The change dropped the police concentration on Robert Brown from Cambridge Mass. to Robert Earl Brown of Elmira, N.Y.

Gethers was selected by one of the witnesses while mealing in Kentucky Fried Chicken (now Amherst Kitchens on Route 9).

The police obtained a summons, and Gethers was arrested.

The strange surroundings of his case, was the fact that only one picture was shown to two of the three witnesses. Naturally, this process would easily pinpoint the pressure to convict someone. Thus, based on this information Brother Brown and Gethers were accused of robbing MacDonald.

The Jury was unable to come to a decision.

Gethers was tried again in July of 1975. He was convicted and sentenced eight to twelve years. His conviction was based on an all-white jury who disbelieved his witness of his whereabouts that night; Brother Brown was convicted in October 1975 based on the previous mis-identification apparent in his case.

He was imprisoned, paroled, and still is pursuing an appeal, Gethers is still in prison.

The current struggles facing Brother Craemen, relates to the effort of all Blacks removing the chains of slavery. Our neglect of this brother only indicates the brainwashing we have constantly received in Higher Education. But if we take a moment and contact Brother Van Jackson (Director of the Cultural Center or Brother Crayton—Office of Third World Affairs) and asked what can be done? We will be helping ourselves at the same time.

Severe sentence for Black teen

TYLERTOWN, Miss. (AP) — The armed robbery trial of a black teen-ager, who once was sentenced to 48 years in prison with no parole, drew toward a close Thursday with the defense portraying him as a mildly retarded youth of good character.

Defense witnesses included workers at Hudspeth Mental Retardation Center near Jackson, where defendant Robert Earl May Jr. has lived since shortly after his release from prison last April.

Program director Jacqueline Fleming said he was a good student but had made "very minimal progress." Associate psychologist Deborah Lovell said he was in the "mild retardation" range.

May, who was 14 at the time of his arrest last January, is on trial before Circuit Judge Joe N. Pigott for one of four 1978 Christmas holiday robberies in his hometown of Brookhaven. If convicted, the maximum penalty would be life imprisonment.

The 100-seat Walphall County Circuit courtroom was full as the defense presented its case in the trial's third day. Dozens of spectators lined hallways and stairs leading to the second-floor chamber.

On Wednesday, prosecution witnesses Mark Malone and Darrell Davis testified that May was among the three people who held up their fireworks stand on Dec. 26, 1978. They said he was the one who took the money.

The case drew national attention last year when May pleaded guilty and Pigott sentenced him to four consecutive 12-year sentences without parole.

State and national civil rights leaders criticized the severity of the sentence, claiming that May, who is black, had been "railroaded" into making his guilty plea. They also said he was in danger from older inmates at Mississippi's penitentiary.

At one point, President Carter was asked to intercede in the case and former Gov. Cliff Finch was asked to grant a pardon.

Finch, under pressure from black groups, ordered May moved from the penitentiary to a satellite facility in Jackson. However, before the transfer could take place, Pigott allowed May to withdraw his pleas and stand trial. May was found competent to stand trial in a hearing last week.

In other defense testimony, May's pastor and Little League baseball coach told the jury they had known the teen-ager for some time and did not consider him capable of robbery.

Lewis McDaniel said he had coached May in baseball and found him easy to get along with. He said he also had May in his Sunday school class and he could not believe May would be involved in a crime.

"Sunlight on a winter's night"

By FRANK SHEFTON

Curse me for a square, but up until last Sunday, I'd never heard of Semenya McCord. Now that's not really as bad as it sounds, because now I know; it's been my loss, for Semenya has the most enticing voice I've ever heard.

Semenya performed Sunday, November 12, at the Emanuel Church, 15 Newbury Street backed up by the Charles "Majeed" Greenlee Quartet, she gave Boston Jazz lovers one of the most memorable evenings of the year.

Semenya came to us by way of UMass—Amherst, by way of Monimouth, Ill. She came to national attention when she recorded with Archie Shepp on "There's a Trumpet in my soul," on which she wrote several of the cuts. Over the summer she performed with Sunlight 'n' Shade, a jazz fusion group, for Boston Jazz celebration series and the 1978 All Night Jazz Concert sponsored by the Boston Jazz Coalition.

On Sunday's show Semenya opened with a musical autobiography starting with a moving medley of "A Child Is Born" and "Infant Eyes" (an original).

Before going into the next number she paused to rap to the audience, to tell us where she was taking us. "This...you could say it's my life, or, at least I Perceive it to be." She then treated us to a saucy scat version of Thelonious Monk;s "Straight No Chaser" then, sweetening the pace again, she did an eleven minute version of Jan Lucien's "Dindi" (my favorite) after sharing more light banter with the audience she rolled into "Lush Life" and "Tin Tin Joe" completing the musical book of her life.

The second half of the show, Semenya concentrated more on original material with the exceptions of the old Billie Holiday tune "I know about the Life."" "Stream," "Don't Ever Doubt It," "I promise," and "Samba Ebony" were all due to Semenya's creative talent.

Within every song Semenya's lovely voice completely enshrouds you. She actually lifts you up into the song. It's as if she breathes every note. The Charles "Majeed" Greenlee Quartet was the perfect complement to back her. Trombonist, Majeed, another Shepp alumni who also worked with an innumerable college of Jazz greats, blends just the right sweetening to Semenya's voice. His notes lead into her voice as if it were the same instrument. Other members of the Quartet include: Alvin Terry, drums; Avery Sharpe, bass. Both played with Semenya in Sunlight 'n' Shade. The fourth member is Jim Bridges, guitar. He's young, but he sounds like Wes Reincarnated.

There are no current plans for this master group to play together again in the near future, but when they do...TREAT YOURSELF! Because her voice provides sunlight on the stormiest days.

From Dec. 13, Sporting Life

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Announcements

Semenya McCord

She's back again, Semenya McCord in concert at the Iron Horse on 20 Center Street, Northampton, Wednesday February 20 at 8:30. If you missed her performance before here is your chance to catch her for the last time!

Every Woman's Center open house

Everywomen's Center is sponsoring an Open House, Wed., February 20, 4-6 p.m. at Wilder Hall, 2nd floor. Staff will be available to provide information about: counseling, training, advocacy, resource and referral, support groups, skill development, organizing and workshops. Please come and meet the new staff.

CABBS workshop

The Committee for the Advancement of Black Business Students (CABBS) is giving a role-playing interview workshop Thursday February 21 at 6:00 p.m. at the New Africa House room 109. All are invited.

Rededication

Thursday February 21 at 8:00 the Malcolm X Center will be sponsoring the Sixth Annual Rededication of the Malcolm X center. Special guest speaker will be Asia Mohammed Toure, also Freida Jones will be reciting poetry. All are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

★ Olympics

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Olympic Committee rules stipulate that the athlets can't receive payment for endorsements, contract money—with and added bonus depending on how well the skiier places—goes into the team budget.

Later the same eveing, the distributors will host a reception honoring skiiers under their contract (mostly Austrians) who competed in the men's downhill that morning. And those skiiers, hard as they are even for the press to track down, will attend.

Here in Lake Placid, where there are 125 "official" distributors for the 1980 Winter Games, if it's not a Kodak cocktail party it's an "I love New York" breakfast. The American athletes have been well taken care of. With hairdryers and comeras and frisbees and LifeSavers and over 100 other small gifts.

For the opening ceremonies, the American team wore blue jeans, fleece-lined suede coats, and cowboy boots and hats—fairly typical attire for Americans. They strolled casually and out-of-step around the stadium (other teams resembled armies going off to war), in a style that one European journalist sitting nearby described as being "typically American."

The Russians showed up in superbly elegant nutria fur coats. But, advised the same journalist, "Don't be intimidated by the coats—they belong to the state."

Now, as the XIII Winter Olympic Games approach the final day, Main Street in Lake Placid is alive with swarms of spectators and enterprising visitors—a pretzel vendor from Brooklyn hawks gold medal facsimiles and photos of Eric Heiden. Little children sipping from styrofoam cups of hot chocolate ($1 a cup) wear ski bibs printed with their names. In the slanted afternoon sunlight, 100 rowdy American college students chant "U.S.A.! U.S.A.!" from the balcony of a beer garden overlooking the speed skating oval.

The games are almost over, and the U.S. hasn't won nearly as many medals as the East Germans or Russians.

But to see the U.S. hockey team play Romania in an Olympic Arena overflowing with madly loyal American fans who blast trumpets and wildy applaud goalie Jim Craig on every save and toss frisbees around the stands between periods is to believe that the overall count is not that significant.

Frosty takes a beer break from his busy UMass schedule. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

★ Frank

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

ed to area retailers through purchases made by the University and its students, Frank said.

"The importance economically of the University is unquestionable. It's time to let people know." she said.

Another concern of Frank's is the prestige of the University. Much of the state has the wrong impression of UMass, she said. Relatives of students are not aware of what the rest of the academic nation thinks of the University, and many legislators in Boston are also unaware, she said. If elected, Frank made it clear her priorities would include an effort to remedy this problem.

The job as State Democratic Committee member is a nonpaying position entailing participation in town and state meetings. Frank said she would act as a spokesperson for the University at these meetings and would lobby for the University to make sure employees did not lose jobs.

Faults in the statewide caucus are evident from the voting held last week, she said. As it stands, the caususes are not representative of the towns involved, Frank said.

Instead of allowing the candidates to choose the towns to be voted in, thereby enabling the candidates to "use" the twon caucus. Frank says each town should have a caucus of its own. IF the delegates selected from such a caucus were in close proportion to the town's voting, the overall results of the caucus would be more representative, she said.

Frank is running for the seat against incumbent Helen Doyle of Ashfield and Helen Cullen of South Hadley. Frank is hoping for support from the University's voters. Many of her campaign staffers are students.

The election is March 4, but is not part of the Democratic primary held the same day.

Jobs!
Lake Tahoe
California!
Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600-$3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application/Info/Referals. LAKEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

David Whitman Hair Shack
Precision Hairstyling for Men & Women.
20% off any Haircut.
124 Amity St., Amherst
549-5111
COUPON
1 COUPON PER PURCHASE
COUPON GOOD THRU 3/31/80

Stockbridge School of Agriculture, UMass
Presents: The Third Annual
Professional Development Day
9:00 to 5:00
Wednesday February 20, 1980 in the CCA
Guest Speaker: Mr. Frederic Winthrop Jr.
Commissioner
Massachusetts Department of Agriculture
Speaking On:
Is There a Future for Massachusetts Agriculture?
All Agricultural/Horticultural Students Welcome
ADMISSION FREE

Tonight and Tomorrow Night
you can find out about a Summer or Fall Internship
7 PM Room 163 Campus Center
Students from all disciplines welcome or Call the Office of Internships
16 Curry Hicks 545-0727
for information on the daily introductory meetings.

A career in law—without law school.
After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.
As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.
The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 3,000 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.
If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.
We will visit your campus on:
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12
The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Para-legal, Inc.
Approved by the American Bar Association.

RUN FOR PRESIDENT

On Thursday Feb. 21 nominations will open for President of the Student Government Association.

The President shall be responsible for relations between the S.G.A. and the Administration, Faculty, and Board of Trustees.

Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the presidency. Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. They must be signed by at least 250 constituents and returned to 420 S.U. by Thursday February 28 at 5:00.

★ Frank — Bani-Sadr reports acceptance of commission by Khomeini

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Society of Professors as the faculty representative for "part-timers" in the rhetoric department.

"I have worked and lobbied for many issues over the years. There is no question that you are in a better position to make your voice heard from an elected position," she said earlier this year.

In addition to all her political activity, she has raised five children, one of whom, Nat Zartman, is working as a close campaign aide.

Associated Press

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr of Iran said yesterday that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the country's revolutionary leader, has approved the final terms of a U.N.-appointed commission and its convening in Tehran to investigate charges against the ousted shah.

Bani-Sadr told reporters in Tehran following a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council that a cable was to be sent to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who chose the five-member commission, informing him of Iran's decision.

Two members of the commission were reported in Geneva, Switzerland, and the other three were expected to arrive this morning, U.N. officials there said. They said the commission members and a small U.N. support staff could leave Geneva for Tehran this morning.

Earlier yesterday, Khomeini turned over his post as commander-in-chief of the armed forces to Bani-Sadr, stirring speculation that troops might be moved into the U.S. Embassy in Tehran to replace militants holding American hostages there.

Tehran Radio, announcing Bani-Sahr's strengthened authority, quoted the ailing 79-year-old-Khomeini as saying the appointment was aimed at "consolidating power in Iran at this critical moment."

The president has been more moderate in his stand against the United States than have the militants, who have steadily insisted they would not release some 50 Americans from the embassy until the deposed shah is returned to answer charges of corruption.

Since his election Bani-Sadr has spoken out strongly against the militants' independent power. His new job should give him the muscle to deal with the crisis at the embassy, which the militants took over Nov. 4.

An indication the militants were softening their stand came in a report from the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug. It said a statement yesterday from the militants was for the first time not explicit in demands the shah be returned before the release. Tanjug did not elaborate, but it quoted the militants as saying they had neither accepted nor rejected the international commission being set up to investigate the shah. That, too, appeared to be a marked change in tone.

As commander-in-chief, Bani-Sadr may be able to put down ethnic unrest in Iran, where rebels have been battling the central government for more autonomy in the provinces.

The army was in chaos during the revolution and has remained badly disorganized, leaving most power with the Revolutionary Committees and Revolutionary Guards, which often clash with the rebellious minorities in many of Iran's provinces.

No timetable has been announced, but Waldheim was quoted by Vienna's Die Presse newspaper as saying the investigation would take one to two weeks.

Got a complaint? Don't hold it in— write a letter to the editor today!

How To Get A $1,615 A Week Job In Alaska

Even If Totally Unskilled Start At $1,020 Weekly

Anchorage, Alaska (Special)—Jobs in Alaska are now among the most highly paid in the world. And by high paying we mean big money—$1,020 to over $1,600 a week, plus room and board, either free or at nominal cost. The key to all this is overtime—plenty of it. If you don't mind working about 70 hours a week at a relatively unskilled job, $12 to $19 an hour with time-and-a-half and even double time adds up to those big fat checks you've always dreamed about. So no matter whether you can run a dozer, weld, handle a shovel, fly a helicopter or even wait on tables, local and multi-national corporations will be quite eager to forward transportation. And that is where we come in. We are the experts on the companies who are hiring. We developed the ALASKAN EMPLOYMENT KIT, a complete instruction manual and directory listing 1,320 current employers in the Arctic. Plus sample inquiry letters, resumes, application letters with pre-printed labels and procedures. And the jobs will go to those who know where and how to apply. This kit can be obtained by sending $9.95 cash, check or money order to ALASKA EMPLOYMENT, Dept. 133-894 National Press Building, Washington, D.C. 20045. On COD's add $1 goodwill deposit (deductible). Keep it for 90 days. If for any reason you do not obtain Alaskan employment within that time, or are not satisfied with the employment offered, simply return the ALASKAN EMPLOYMENT KIT and your money will be refunded promptly and without question. Do not delay. Tear out this message as a reminder. Send for your NO-RISK copy today.

1978 Personal Affairs Agency Inc.

SELL IT SELL IT in the Collegian Classifieds SELL IT SELL IT

'New' Trudeau ousts Clark govt.

TORONTO (AP) —The return of the "new" Pierre Elliott Trudeau to power may herald a perceptible Canadian shift to the left and away from the United States.

The two North American neighbors remain the "greatest friends," Trudeau says. But he has made clear that his Liberals will not necessarily hew to the staunchly pro-U.S. policies pursued by Prime Minister Joe Clark's Conservative government, ousted in Monday's parliamentary election.

Final returns from the election show the Liberals won a majority of 146 seats in the 282- seat House of Commons, to 103 for Clark's Progressive Conservatives and 32 for the socialist New Democrats. The race for one seat is postponed until March because of a candidate's death.

Clark had gained power only nine months ago, ending Trudeau's 11 years as prime minister in an election that gave the Conservatives a 136- 114 minority edge in Commons. But Conservative tax increases led to a no-confidence vote in Parliament and a new elections.

With all but one percent of Monday's popular vote counted, the Liberals had 4,749,886 votes, or 43.9 percent, the Conservatives 3,568,361, for 33 percent, and the New Democrats 2,142,054, for 19.8 percent.

Trudeau, 60, comes back to the prime ministry at a time when such U.S. presidential candidates as Ronald Reagan and Edmund G. Brown are touting a U.S.-Canadian-Mexican "Common Market" as a solution to some of the continent's economic woes — particularly energy problems.

Many Canadians view this as a plan to raid their vast resources.

Friction already exists in U.S.-Canadian relations over economic and environmental issues.

Canada is threatening to go to the World Court if the Senate refuses to ratify newly negotiated fisheries and boundary treaties. And Canadian ecologists, fearful of coastal oil spills, are outraged over the Clark goverment's agreement to allow increased traffic of U.S. tankers carrying Alaskan oil down Canada's west coast.

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

ACCOUNTING, ECONOMICS, PHYSICS, MATH, STATISTICS, SPANISH, COMMUNICATION STUDIES, CHEMISTRY, POLITICAL SCI, BUSINESS LAW, PHILOSOPHY, MARKETING, BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.

WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)

QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary.

APPLICATIONS: are available in New Africa House, room 217.

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—

Wednesday
STEVE SPELLMAN
All Night Balloon Special
6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

"A JOY!" — Judith Crist, New York Magazine

Paramount Pictures Presents
HAROLD and MAUDE
starring
RUTH GORDON
BUD CORT
Co-starring
Vivian Pickles, Cyril Cusack, Charles Tyner, Ellen Geer
Produced by Colin Higgins and Charles B. Mulvehill
Executive Producer Mildred Lewis.
Written by Colin Higgins
Directed by Hal Ashby
With Songs by Cat Stevens
Color by Technicolor
GP PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
A Paramount Picture

Thurs. Feb. 21
C.C. Auditorium
7, 9, 11 P.M.
$1.00

WHAT'S NEW AT FRANKLIN MUNCHYS?

FRESH DAILY!

MONDAY - FRIDAY

It's all here at UMass, Chancellor Koffler

News Item—"UMass Chancellor picks anti-bias task force" (The Morning Union, Feb. 15, 1980). According to the article, UMass Chancellor Henry Koffler is assigning a task force to "investigate all types of discrimination and to make policy recommendations."

News Item— "KOFFLER: Anti-social views are the most serious problems I have faced as chancellor." (Collegian Dec. 7, 1979). "Koffler announced he will form a committee, composed of faculty members, to combat 'derogatory attitudes' on campus."

News Item—"Dear Mom and Dad; Koffler writes home." (Collegian Jan. 28, 1980). "The chancellor will also be creating a special commission comprised of faculty, students and staff to assess the general climate of the campus."

We commend you, Chancellor Koffler, on your attempts to alleviate the problems of "anti-social behavior" on this campus, but we must question what prompted you to act on these problems when you did. How did you become aware of the problems plaguing this university, Dr. Koffler?

After Megan Marshall's "UMass Horrors" infamous article was printed in Boston magazine, you reacted with an open letter to students. By this, we knew you were aware. But, did it take this outrageous propaganda to make you realize we have a problem? And, more importantly, did you believe all the article said?

Have you attended student rallies, Dr. Koffler? Have you climbed the stairwells of our crippled library and read the sexist, racist, and otherwise "anti-social" comments scrawled on the walls? Have you read the editorial columns gracing this page in which students attempt to bring about positive social change?

If so, you would have noticed, long before a cock-eyed "journalist" had the nerve to print that "Boston" article, that this university has problems. But, more importantly, we, the students, are attempting to solve those problems. Witness the Student Government Association's rally last semester, witness campus groups such as The Campus Committee to Combat Racism and the Violence Against Women Task Force.

We, the students, don't learn about our behavioral inconsistencies from the trustees. We don't learn about isolated moronic acts from slick publications. We learn about these problems by being subjected to them every day. We have known of these problems for quite some time, and we are doing our best to eliminate them.

Perhaps what we are asking, Chancellor Koffler, is that you use your eyes and ears as we do. Don't rely on outside sources for your information. All you need to know about this campus exists right here—on this campus. Our problems exist in the words of an overheard conversation, they exist in the dimly lit paths that traverse our grounds, they exist in the shattered pane of glass of a dormitory window.

The problems, as well as the solutions, are all here on this campus. See for yourself.

There is a difference between action and reaction. So act, Dr. Koffler. We support you.

In closing, perhaps we could all benefit from the words of Samuel Johnson who, in the 18th century, said, "Criticism is a study by which men grow important and formidable at very small expense."

All unsigned editorials represent the view of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Editorial/Opinion

UMass living a taxing affair

There have been many issues of world import on my mind lately (like how I'm ever going to finish ten credits worth of incompletes by May). With all the happy news our modest paper brings you, I thought it would be a public service if I kept this column on the light side. Then again, it would be an injustice not to get these pressing issues off my chest. So here goes:

I was not aware that this school was building ten new dormitories to house all the people that don't want roommates. I hold painful memories of innocent freshmen being stored in the Campus Center Hotel for half a semester waiting for the more fortunate students to drop out. Now, that was before juniors were officially permitted to move off campus, but the problem of inadequate space still remains. And there are just so many apartments in the Amherst area to absorb the excess.

DEBORAH WAYNE

So what will happen if appropriately titled V.I.R.U.S. afflicts us? Room choosing will be further complicated, a few seniors will get singles that they would have gotten in the first place, a lot of students will be disappointed, and housing will get a few extra dollars. What will they think of next?

And speaking of money, there's that bill proposed by Rep. Barney Frank of Boston that would give cities the power to impose an excise tax of up to $75 on the "privilege of attending an institution of higher education." Just a few short days ago a top level meeting was scheduled in Boston between the governors of a few neighboring states concerning the ramifications of this landmark proposal. I feel it my duty as a journalist to report the fictional highlights of that meeting:

"Do you seriously think this bill has got a chance, Ed?"

"Of course, Carey," he replied to his counterpart from New York. "Think of the money Boston alone would receive. Now let those dimwits in Amherst try to scream austerity."

"But is such a proposal ethical?" squeaked a timid Ella Grasso from Connecticut.

Ed seemed surprised. "Of course it's ethical. I can do whatever I please. There are plenty of rights the spineless youth of this country take for granted. It's about time they paid for something."

Ed was suddenly hit with a bolt of inspiration. "When this bill passes, think of the other privileges we can tax! There's health care, police protection, you name it."

The others looked at Ed kind of doubtfully, but he didn't seem to notice, for it was not often that he was inspired.

"How about the privilege to watch a Red Sox game, or to go right on red? And how about the right for 18 year olds to drive all the way to Albany for a six pack? The possibilities are endless!"

"Ed, aren't you getting a big carried away?"

"Look, Carey, you can't even host a two-bit amateur skiing competition without calling for a state of emergency, so keep out of this."

Ella felt her courage building.

"Ed, it's bad enough that people have to pay to use the toilet. Next thing you know you'll be demanding that they pay for the right to move their bowels."

"Now you've got the idea. Just think, if we ever have to go to war against the Russians, the local draft boards can tax Americans for the right to fight for the rights that we have to pay for...!"

Oh, well, I knew I couldn't keep a straight face. I feel a whole lot better now, don't you?

Deborah Wayne is a Collegian columnist

Letters to the editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

All letters are subject to editing.

All information contained on the Editorial pages is the viewpoint of the author. Unsigned editorials represent the viewpoint of a majority of the Board of Directors.

Letters

Filling Anti-Nuclear niche helps power the movement

To The Editor

This is in response to Mark Kolligan's 2/14/80 letter to the Collegian. There are many different Anti-Nuke Organizations comprised of a variety of people with different ideas on the groups' intent, methods and dynamics. The group is united with the common goal of eliminating nuclear danger. Naturally, for a group to work well together, it is important that they agree on such issues as group dynamics and methods so members are comfortable in dealing with the group. And since nuclear destruction is such a dangerous threat which must be confronted and stopped immediately, it is doubly important that each person choose the group most comfortable for her or him to work in.

Many women have expressed extreme discomfort in working in male/female groups because of the power dynamics of the group. Many other women have chosen the all-women group for personal and political rasons. Obviously, this group was needed and is appreciated since about 150 women attended the first meeting.

I don't believe this splits the Anti-Nuke Movement. These 150 women haven't caused other pre-existing organizations to stagnate, and we haven't excluded anyone from the Anti-nuclear Movement. Find the group that you are most comfortable in, or create a new one, and join us in the common cause of saying NO to nuclear destruction.

Liz Bennett
Northampton

Equal Rights Amendment: Rights, morals, and mortars

To the Editor

In her guest column February 12 Lucy Montes propounds the remarkable thesis that a male-only draft could still be instituted following ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Ms. Montes evidently fails to grasp the implications of her own quite correct statement that the preposed amendment "prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex." Exactly: the categorical exemption of women from a military draft obviously discriminates against men, solely on the basis of their sex. Most men, like most women, would prefer not to be drafted. But the exclusion of women from the draft "pool" approximately doubles each eligible males's chances of being conscripted, thus rendering maleness an automatic legal liability.

The ERA certainly would require that any draft [or draft registration] apply to both sexes—not because [as Ms. Montes, inexplicably, seem to fear] forced military service is perceived as a preivilege which must be extended to women, but rather because conscription is a thoroughly undesireable experience which could not be inflicted solely upon men without plainly violating the ERA's operative injunction: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

The point which Ms. Montes misses is that the amendment's language does not protect only women's rights. It protects men's rights, as well. And what could be a greater abridgement of my rights, on account of my sex, than for the United States to increase my risk of becoming cannon-fodder by placing Ms. Montes beyond the reach of the born-again Selective Service System, merely because of her gender?

I support ratification of the ERA; and I believe that it will, on balance, benefit women more than men—which is as it should be, considering that most [though not all] governmental sex discrimination has been directed against women. But both supporters and opponents of the amendment should understand, and acknowledge, what it is: an equal rights amendment, not a women's rights amendment.

The constraints of space prevent me from analyzing Ms. Montes's radically anti-feminist arguments concerning the social consequences of drafting women, except to note that she hopelessly confuses the policy question of whether women should be drafted with the altogether different legal question of whether they would be drafted if the ERA became law. However, I would be happy to discuss the matter with her if we ever meet in a foxhole in the vicinity of the Khyber Pass.

T. Joseph Loy

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisments lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Twelfth Night: an organic approach

By DAVID AMBOS
Collegian Staff

Trying to imagine beforehand what a production of Twelfth Night at Hampshire College would be like, the phrase that immediately leapt to mind was, "Organic Theater."

I envisioned duels fought with frisbees, granola and herb tea served at intermission, a bongo roll when Shakespeare got really "deep", the hero doing a bone ("Hey, man, like if music be the food of love...Vvvoot! Wow, good shit, man...Like, let it flow, man, let it flow..."), and so forth.

As it turns out, this production, like Hampshire itself, has an ingenuous way of not disappointing one. The characters in this version do, indeed, get high, play guitars, dress funny, do interpretive dance and all them other "weird" Hampshire things.

The performance is all you might expect from a play at Hampshire; and, surprise, much more. By updating the play, while keeping firmly in mind Shakespeare's primary intention—entertainment—director Jenkins and cast have created a production that is funny, alive, and really affecting; a lovely, enjoyable love story, which is, ironically, just what the playwright originally conceived his play to be.

The theatergoer is prepared for something unusual before the lights go down. First, there is the cozy situation of the audience, seated on an astroturf lawn in the middle of a mythical campus, surrounded on all sides by various collegiate locales, including a bar, a dorm room, a cafeteria and an apple orchard. Drippy love tunes spin on a jukebox in the bar, playing everything from "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" to "Johnny Angel."

Looking at the program, one sees Olivia, one of the main characters, listed as "a dance concentrator (apparently Hampshirese for "major") and Countess." Reading on, one finds Toby referred to as "her cousin and a 'seven-year man'." (I was confused by this term, until a Hampshire student next to me explained it, confiding that she herself was an eight-year student, with no end in sight.)

At this point, it is clear to the audience that this production will bear no relation to Laurence Olivier or the Old Vic, and the only question in their minds is: how far will they go, and how cute? It is probably this confusion at the beginning, combined with the standard Shakespearean clutter of short scenes which pile up, that makes the opening minutes seem weak and muddled.

Once the momentum gets established, and the characters fully materialize, the play really starts to get enjoyable. For one of the really outstanding things about this produc-

TURN TO PAGE 10

Kate Brower as Viola in Hampshire College's production of "TWELFTH NIGHT". Performances continue this weekend February 21-23.

THE CAREER-OPPORTUNITY COMPARISON TEST

- Can you be working as a civilian in the most state-of-the-art environment in the world?
- Will your professional responsibilities be challenging and career-building in an entry-level position?
- Will your initiative be encouraged and your capabilities visible?
- Will you be offered a fine selection of accessible institutions where you can continue your education tuition free?
- Will the comprehensive training program you receive immediately accelerate your pay level?
- Can you be shown exactly how far your potential will take you in 5 years?

Check Out These
PERFECT SCORE
CIVILIAN ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES
AIR FORCE SYSTEMS COMMAND ACTIVITIES

Electrical — Industrial
Mechanical — Electronic
Aerospace — Materials

The Aeronautical Systems Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base has an assignment worthy of all the nights you've spent burning the midnight oil—the planning, research, development, testing and acquisition of all U.S. Air Force aeronautical weapon systems. Immediate civilian positions exist in turbine and ramjet engine technology, flight vehicle aerodynamics, structures, flight control and control design, materials research, navigation, communications, surveillance, recon- naissance and weapons de- livery. These areas offer unrivaled opportunity for innovation ...for setting precedents ...and for stretching your abilities.

Our civilian team of pro- fessionals have found Dayton, Ohio, a super place to live. If you like to breathe the open air, it's all around. If city hustle suits your style, you can have it in Dayton. Everything from King's Island to his- toric Fort Meigs is tucked into a short drive. And Cincinnati with it's professional sports, culture and night life is right next door.

There's no red tape in coming on board. We can hire you without Bureaucratic delay. The Aeronautical Systems Division has been mighty good at getting places fast. Let us tell you how we can do the same for your career.

WE ARE INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS
February 26, 1980
IN THE PLACEMENT OFFICE.
SIGN UP FOR AN APPOINTMENT
OR CONTACT: Charles E. Witchett
Air Force Civilian Career Recruiting Counselor
Aeronautical Systems Division

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AIR FORCE BASE, OHIO 45433
(513) 255-3945 255-3796

We Are An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

Rolling Rock Premium Beer

Mike's Westview Cafe No. Amherst

Wed. February 20th
Rolling Rock Nite
12 oz. Bottle 75c
Raffles with T-shirt Prizes
9 pm til closing
Still the Best
HOME COOKED LUNCHES
In Town

David Whitman Hair Shack

Permanent for $30, includes the haircut. Also, a free Jhiramack product w/the perm.

124 Amity St., Amherst
549-5111

COUPON

1 COUPON PER PURCHASE — COUPON GOOD THRU 2/29/80

Need a study break?

So did Einstein

Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am
65 University Drive
549-1311 253-9051

Bells Pizza House

ENGINEERING GRADUATES

Open House
Saturday And Sunday, February 23 and 24, 10 AM to 5 PM

Explore opportunities in Advanced Electronics During Our Automated Systems Open House for New Graduates.

RCA Automated Systems in Burlington, Massachusetts has facilities that invite creativity and stimulate professional growth. This integrated design, development and manufacturing facility produces a broad range of electronic systems for government applications. If you have a degree or are acquiring a degree in -

- Mechanical Engineering
- Electrical Engineering
- Computer Science

we invite you to join us at our Open House.

You will be able to talk with our technical managers and technical personnel about careers with RCA. If you are unable to attend, please contact our Professional College Recruiter, D. Denaro at 272-4000, Ext. 3276.

RCA Automated Systems
P.O. Box 588
Bedford Rd., Rts. 3 and 62
Burlington, MA 01803
An Equal Opportunity Employer

RCA

A Tradition On The Move!

Have a Pea Pod Popping Party!

Here's an idea to end those cold weather doldrums at your house. Have an old-fashioned pea-pod-popping party. Here's how:

1. Buy one or more full boxes of Fresh Green Peas at Finast this week. The quality and price will never be better.
2. Invite several couples to come and share in popping the pea pods.
3. Add pea pod popping music & refreshments as needed.
4. At the party's end split up the cost of the peas, and the peas.

Fresh Green Peas 59¢ lb.
28 lb. box $13.99 net weight
(that's less than 50¢ per lb.)

finast

Prices effective Wed., Feb. 20 thru Sat., Feb. 23, 1980.
We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors. Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

Fresh White Medium Eggs 2 doz. $1

Finast Low Fat Milk gallon plastic jug $1.39

Jif Creamy or Extra Crunchy Peanut Butter 18 oz. jar 99¢

Vanity Fair Paper Towels roll of 125 59¢

Beer and Wine at Hadley Finast
12 oz. Non-Returnable Bottles
Schlitz Beer ..... case of 24 $6.59
Soave Valpolicella Donelli Wine ..... 1.5 liter bottle $2.99
Cartier Blanc de Blanc Wine 25.4 oz. bottle $2.25

Hood Regular, Country Style or NuForm Cottage Cheese 16 oz. cup 69¢

Tyson Grade A Cornish Hens Frozen Gourmet Favorite 69¢ lb.

DINNER BELL Boneless Ham Fully Cooked Whole-End Portion 5 lb. avg. Halves lb. $1.69 $1.59 lb. water Added

Weaver Chicken Party Pak Frozen Batter Dipped or Dutch Frye $1.99 28 oz. pkg.

Weaver Thighs and Drumsticks Frozen Batter Dipped or Dutch Frye Chicken $1.99 28 oz. pkg.

Virginia Style Baked Ham Freshly Sliced 99¢ half pound
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli!

Calif. Large Navel Oranges Sunkist 72 Size 8 for $1
Buy the case of 72 - $7.99

★ Shakespeare

CONT. FROM PAGE 8

tion is the way the characters become, by the end of the play, so solid and authentic that one gets the impression one has met most of them before. This is partly Shakespeare, who can make the most absurd characters and the most ridiculous situations seem genuine, and partly the result of the actors obvious enjoyment of themselves and the Jenkins/Shakespeare collaboration.

The production does, of course, have faults. While the production as a whole is light and warm without ever being obnoxiously cute, there are some bits or scenes that are taken too far; almost to the point where they become self-indulgent. Only a little, though; in general, the restraint shown by director and cast is admirable. Offsetting these are many very funny innovations and directorial conceits relating to the undying deceptiveness of love, some of which I will never in your life mention here, in order not to spoil your enjoyment of the show, which continues, by the way, this weekend, Feb. 21-23.

The cast is, by and large, extremely good. Outstanding are Kateryn Brower as Viola, who is convincing as the admirable and endearing go-between, and Dean Hubbard, who is marvelously fruity and malevolent as Malvolio. Mention should be made of the songs, which are terrific, with music written originally for the show, and some nice lyrics by Bill Shakesomething.

It is likely the overall warm feeling that the show imparts is aided by the intimate dimensions of the theater. What these people do with a tiny space, and very limited material resources, is something. With none too many lighting instruments and few candles, in a theater building which, next to a cathedral like the University's Rand, sits like a little chapel, they are able to do Shakespeare.

I don't mean to give the impression that the Hampshire Theater Department is destitute, mind you. Judging from what I saw on stage, they must warehouse truckloads of imagination, enthusiasm, and devotion. It that sounds really sappy, I'm sorry. Seeing this show just makes you feel that way. Three and a half hearts.

I need you WRITE Away

Tired of dragging yourself out of bed at six in the morning to fight for a spot in line for those ever-sought-after Mikhail Baryshnikov tickets? Even though he hadn't come her yet!

Treat yourself to an evening of dance; join the Collegian Dance Staff. Interest and enthusiasm, not experience, necessary. Attend a performance, compliments of us, and simply write the review.

Simple, yes! Do drop down the Collegian office, Arts desk, and speak with me, Sarah Hammann, or call at 545-3500.

The Fine Arts Magazine of the Collegian will premier on Wed. Feb. 27 Look for it!

BOOK SALE

75% OFF back to old time prices

Many books were reduced previously which means extra savings because we're discounting 75% off the lowest price on the book

Hundreds of Books
paperbacks and hardbounds

Two Weeks Only
Feb. 18 - Feb. 29

on the Campus Center Concourse
special tables across from the store
a super sale from
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Around campus

Panel topic: United Nations

"The United Nations at 35 Years of Age: Illusions and Realities," will be the topic of the third Great Decisions 1980 panel discussion tonight at 8:30 in the main lounge of Noah Webster House in Orchard Hill residential area. The panekists include political scientists from UMass, Mount Holyoke College, Smith College and Amherst College.

The program will be broadcast live over WFCR (88.5 FM).

WAVAW presents slideshow

Women concerned about violence against women in the media are encouraged to attend an organizational meeting of Women Against Violence Against Women (WAVAW) tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Bang's Community Center in Amherst.

SCANN shows war movie

On Friday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide is sponsoring the film, "The War at Home." The film was produced and directed by Glenn Silber and Barry Alexander Brown. Silber will give a brief introduction to his film before the showing.

Production crew needed

A rpoduction staff for the musical play "Special Cases," is being recruited by the Women's Community Theater. The play, wrjtten by Sarah Alleman, will be produced in late October 1980.

The following staff are needed: musical director, choreographer, lighting designer, costume designer, stage manager, head carpenter, head electrician, and musicians. A production meeting will be held on February 28, 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. in the Amherst Room of Jones Library in Amherst.

The Women's Community Theater is a non-profit organization.

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course

Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.

MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.

NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824 7888
Ask for Operator 116

Enter an Essay Contest sponsored by the Collegian and the Massachusetts Press Assoc. Win $20! See your essay in print! Contact Lisa Capone at the Collegian for details. Deadline: Feb. 25.

University & Office Supplies
Typewriter Ribbons
Carbon Paper
& Typing Paper
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

OPEN RUSH
KAPPA SIG
Weds. 8-10 Feb. 20th
70 Butterfield
Terrace
(Right next to
Gorman House
Central Residence Area)

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark	6:00 PM	supper (potluck)
	7:00 PM	Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays	1:15 PM	At Newman

Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

We Need Recruiters!

If you would like to get a team together for a night of phonothon, come by Rm. 8 Memorial Hall, or call 545-2317, ask for Ed, Lisa, or Steve.

STUDENT PHONOTHON '80

WE NEED YOU!

The 7th Annual Phonothon will be held
Monday thru Thursday 6:00-10:00 P.M.
March 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 24, 25, 26, 27, 31
April 1, 2, 3, 7, 8 ,9, 10
HAVE DINNER and BEER ON US!

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 Chevy Caprice. Excellent running condition & body. Must sell. $1300. Call 1-467-3465 after 5.

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'68 Chevrolet Impala runs well and is reliable. Fred 546-3254

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best betnights or mornings.

'75 VW Bug runs well needs minor body work but gets great mileage B.O. 253-7096

Chevy Impala good condition $300 call for details Dave 6-7421

66 Dodge Dart Convert. $450/256-0680

1970 Dodge Dart needs repair 150 or BO 549-8089

That car that takes you where you want to go Plymouth Fury II runs exelnt just $375 call early or late 549-4063

1973 Pinto Wagon 40,000 miles, automatic, $1295 253-7967

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

1970 VW Squareback 22+ mpg, runs great, good tires, battery, has rust $475.00 253-5178

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

For the best in Party Entertainment anytime call Dave at GATS Sound-253-7177, DJ's for over a fiftieth of a century

ESSAY CONTEST

Win $20 and see your work in print! The Collegian Women's Dept. is sponsoring an essay contest. In 750 words or less tell how the women's movement has affected you. Contact Lisa at 5-3500 for details.

FOR RENT

Hotel Warren So. Deerfield rooms daily, weekly, monthly rentals call 665-7093

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

FOR SALE

Weimaraner male pups AKC silver thoroughbreds for show, field or distinctive companionship. 1-413-339-6688.

Woman's 10 speed Bicycle almost never used, $100. or BO 323-4077 after 6 pm

For Sale Turntable Phillips 212 semi-automatic $85 or BO Pair of AR2 Speakers $150. 323-4077 after 6

Olin Skis used 2 seasons, 160 cm, Solomon bindings, Nordica boots & poles good deal, $130 Steve 549-6769

Mens ten-speed bike Mercier by Peugeot excellent condition, 200.00 or BO call 323-4077 after 6:00 pm

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Martial Arts Belt about Jan 30, 1980 call Tim 546-4203 and identify by color

Found: a young grey cat wearing a pink collar in Brandywine Apts. Call Kim 549-5063

Man's gold ring found in the vicinity of Lincoln Apartments call 549-0516

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Need a part-time job? Students needed to hand out flyers on campus week of Feb 24-29 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. $3.00 per hour. Call immediately collect (203) 877-5593 after 3 p.m.

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Basic Auto Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure: Autoskills, Box 120, Amherst

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Need Help with Spanish? Call Mary 256-6719

Central Area Craftshop is now open Mon-Thurs 7-10 PM Sat 12-4 Free Instruction

Guitar Lessons masters in Music

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk of call 584-9338

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Pair brown plastic glasses please call John 6-6505

Lost a lg. flat silver earring in the shape of a leaf. Please return to CC info desk or call 256-6344

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Are you interested in service and fun? Come find out about GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA the National Service Sorority. Open Rush 2/19, 21 at 6 pm and 2/25 at 7 pm in SU 304

Men interested in forming a group to combat violence against women first meeting Wednesday February 20 at 7:30 Campus Center room 905-909. For further info call Louie at 546-4554 or Bill at 546-4562

Buying Silver—Pre 64 coins and Sterling paying current market prices 546-6291 ask for Dave

Charismatic Prayer and BS CC 804-808 Tues Feb 19 8-10 pm

Good at Stats? Take a course, salary commensurable 549-5934 Paul

Julie if you really think you can outdrink me I'll see you at the Pub Wed. night Bill

Jenny Taub—you traitor. The Indian

Jim, Matt, Paul Thanks for the kisses! Love, the Women of Van Meter

To that special person I forgot on Valentines—have a nice day—Puffton

Happy Belated V-Day to the ladies of the K.D.C. (Joan, Sharon, Marcia, Suzi, Amy, Jennifer, Rene, Wendy, Janice and of course—Sue) Love Joel

Systems 2000 organizing to get money back call Jennifer 546-5226

To the Little Devil—Belated Happy Valentines Day I love you now and always Love Goofy

Hey Sugar Cookie, you have the sweetest I've ever tasted. H-Man

The Boltwood-Belchertown Project is recruiting volunteers to work at Belchertown State School. Information meeting Thurs. Feb. 21 from 7-9 pm in C.C. room 802

RIDE WANTED

Wanted: ride to Wash DC will share expenses weekend of 22nd Carolyn 253-5394

Ride needed to Tuscon Az for spring break, share gas, expenses call 253-3090

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny rm in house 5 min. to campus & town. Fireplace, TV Kit., sundecks 120/mo 549-4018 346 N. Pleasant

Down to earth roommate wanted for 2-bedroom apt. Sunderland 150/mo. 665-4373

Female roomate 3 bedroom house Belchertown Rd. bus route $92 month fireplace 4 acres Laurie 546-7424

Male roomate wanted Puffton Village $75/mo includes heat 549-6146

Roomate wanted for Brandywine Apt 103 per month utl incl call 549-5847 after 7:30 PM

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Tune ups all models $15 labor 586-3695 50472

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Female nonsmoker for 2 bdrm apt Sunderland 110+ ut call 665-7923 btwn 4-7 PM ask for Lynn or 665-7564 ask for Susan

586-3880

CAMPUS PIZZA

Delicious Pizza-Grinders
Spaghetti-BQ Chicken
A1 Roast Beef-Lasagna
Come In - Try and Compare

Beer & Wine
Sun-Thur 11 am-1 am
Fri-Sat 11 am-2 am
206 Russell St Hadley, Mass

COUPON
A pitcher of Beer for half-price with any large Pizza except Plain offer expires Feb. 29, 1980

UPC Productions PRESENTS

THE
Jerry Garcia Band
with
John Kahn
Johnny D'Fonseca
David Ozzie Ahlers

Wed. Feb. 20, 7 & 10 PM
TWO SHOWS

Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall

Tickets: $7.50, 7.00, 6.50 - Students
8.50, 8.00, 7.50 - Non students
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX, Union Records, Platterpus

Photo by Matt Fasberg

Tickets for The Pat Metheny Group on Sun. Feb. 24 are still available at FAC Box Office, TIX Union Records Unlimited and Platterpus

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

B	A	V	O	N		H	O	S	T		S	C	A	T
A	L	I	V	E		I	N	C	H		T	A	R	O
P	E	T	E	S		P	U	R	E		A	V	O	N
S	C	A	R	P	E		S	U	R	P	R	I	S	E
			U	T	E	D		S	E	E	T	L	E	S
S	W	E	A	T	E	R	S		M	O	S
A	R	T	I	S	T		A	L	L	I	N		D	I	P
F	I	N	D		S	W	O	O	N		R	A	R	E
E	T	A		B	O	N	E	S		D	E	M	O	N
			S	A	L		S	E	D	I	M	E	N	T
S	T	R	A	N	D	S		R	O	S	E
C	R	I	C	K	E	T	S		T	E	M	P	E	R
R	I	N	K		R	O	O	F		A	B	A	S	E
A	P	S	E		E	V	I	L		S	E	I	N	E
M	E	E	D		R	E	L	Y		E	R	R	E	D

ACROSS
1 Heads
6 Pollutant
10 Hit hard
14 Knocked for — —
15 Mata —
16 Type size
17 Pelt
18 Some exams: 2 words
20 Tree
21 — and crafts
23 Slave
24 Solidifies
26 Gliders
28 Verified
30 Gape
31 Mackenzie or Mississippi
32 Sea spray
36 Verse
37 Tableware
38 Born
39 Dying
42 German state
44 Glisten
45 Solicitous one
46 Quips
49 Roman garment
50 Outcast
51 Color
52 Wine cup
55 Sat astride
58 Chemical compound
60 Jog
61 Leisure
62 Perch
63 Vendition
64 Kinsmen: Abbr.
65 Atomize

DOWN
1 El —, Texas
2 Can. prov.
3 Hid: 2 words
4 Time period
5 Talker
6 Injections
7 War god
8 Mouths
9 Baseball's Hodges
10 Hurrier
11 Thread
12 Player
13 Poles
19 — baseman
22 Color
25 "Hail!"
26 Smart
27 Girl's name
28 Support
29 Harass
30 Body part
32 Leg parts
33 Pointer
34 Charges
35 Marquee
37 Memo
40 Set apart
41 Vestige
42 Golf hazards
43 Biblical lion
45 Paragram
46 Relaxes
47 Surplus
48 Alpine region
49 Ebb and neap
51 Spanish coin
53 Costa —
54 Bohemian
56 Socialite
57 Spirit
59 Bribe

DC menu

Lunch
Tuna Boat
Southern Beef and Noodle Casserole

Basics Lunch
Curried Red Kidney Beans
Tuna Boat

Dinner
Veal Parmesan
Baked Fish/Newburg Sauce
Chili Cheese Puff

Basics Dinner
Baked Fish/Newburg Sauce
Chili Cheese Puff

Earthfoods

Eggplant casserole with cottage cheese rice, bulghar, potato soup, spinach salad poppy seed cake

WARMUPS
A special purchase of first quality warmups in all sizes and many colors.
in our Sportswear Shop!
ONLY $9.95!!
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

TONIGHT
PUB MUG NIGHT
with
JIM PLUNKETT
AN AMHERST TRADITION AND NOW WITH A GREAT NEW look
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

★ Safety

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

estimated$200,000 annual cost.

The proposed fence construction is part of a $2 million federally funded Campus Pedestrian Safety Program scheduled to begin this spring.

As well as redesigning exterior roadways around campus, funds will be used to correct the campus-wide lighting problem, according to UMass Director of University Planning,Jack Littlefield.

According to Physical Plant spokesman Herb Moltian, the lighting problem stems from the age-old problem of vandalism.

With the flu bug biting and the first round of exams approaching it's a dog's life as 8-week-old Beaux, the property of Dayle Clarke, has already discovered. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

UMASS FINE ARTS CENTER
and
RONALD A. WILFORD ASSOCIATES INC. PRESENTS

Marcel Marceau
Wednesday, March 5, 1980 8 p.m.

Tickets Now On Sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office and Ticketron outlets

General Public $8.50, $7.50, $6.50
Senior Citizens $7.50, $6.50, $5.50

Special UMass Student Half-Price Tickets
$4.25, $3.75, $3.25

Phone Reservations and Mail Orders Available
For more information, call the Box Office at (413) 545-2511, M-F, noon-5 p.m.

HOT-L WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757

Thurs. February 21
Paradise Rythmn Shoes
$1.50 cover
Fri. & Sat. February 22 & 23
"Leroy Descon and his Alien Playboys"
Western Swing Music
featuring
Kenny Kosek on the fiddle also Jimmy Heffernan
$1.50 cover
Sun. February 24
"Coy Dogs"
Blue Grass
$1 cover
Mon. February 25
Western Mass Dart Assn.
Open Tournament 8 pm Sharp
Tues. February 26
Al Fuller MC on the open mike
Folksingers & Acoustic Musicians
Welcome
Wed. February 27
Moe Dixon
$1.50 cover
Enjoy Our Happy Hour 4-6 pm
with Domestic Beer 50c
and Bar Liquor 50c

The IRON HORSE
20 Center St. Northampton
Coffeehouse
Semenya McCord Quartet in concert
(formerly with New Unity Ensemble, Sunlight and Shade, and vocalist with Archie Shepp)
TONIGHT AT 8:30
tickets $2.50
available at For the Record in Amherst or at the door. Phone 584-9725

The Olympics at Time Out

TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE
Free popcorn
at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50- Special Engagement's Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. - RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer — 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG
STAR TREK — 2:00-(5:45 @ $1.50)-8:15 G
THE FOG — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R
KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT Saturn 3 — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
THE MOST FUN YOU'LL EVER HAVE. Midnight Madness — 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 PG
STEVE MARTIN The Jerk — 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R
Richard Gere American Gigolo — (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 R
DOM DeLUISE Fatso — 2:00-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 PG

Beachcomber Tours PRESENTS ITS 11th ANNUAL
daytona beach
FLORIDA college spring break
FROM 179* QUAD OCCUPANCY

JET TOUR
- Round Trip Direct Charter Flight to Daytona from Boston or Hartford
- Inflight Meals and Beverages
- Transfers and Baggage

BUS TOUR
- Round Trip Deluxe Motor Coach to Daytona
- Coaches are Air Conditioned and Lavatory-Equipped
- On Campus Departures

SURF SUDS SUN FUN

ALL TOURS INCLUDE:
- First Class Oceanfront Accommodations for Eight (8) days, Seven (7) Nights at the Ramada Inn/Silver Beach, Days Inn or Inn On The Beach. All located directly on the strip
- Hotel features include Air-Conditioned Rooms, Private Bath and Shower, Color TV, Maid Service, Swimming Pool, Restaurant and Live Entertainment.
- Welcome and Farewell Parties with plenty of FREE BEER
- Exclusive 11th Anniversary ID Card for discounts at Shops, Restaurants, Night Clubs, etc.
- Services of the Beachcomber Staff
- Limited Space Available — Reservation Required

OPTIONAL: Walt Disney World Tour, Kitchenettes, Deep Sea Fishing, Cancellation Protection and more

PRICE DOES NOT INCLUDE ADDITIONAL 15% FOR T.A.X. GRATUITIES AND SERVICE FOR THE AIRPORT

BY JET 8 Days/7 Nights $275 March 15 - 22
BY BUS 10 Days/9 Nights $179 March 14 - 23

CONTACT Mike Bruha 256-8625

MEMBER DAYTONA BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Beachcomber Tours, Inc.
1305 Motorport Highway
Gasport, N.Y. 14067
716-630-3723 ICDMC #12014
Name ____ Tel ____
Address ____
Tour Date ____ Bus Jet ____ Deposit $ ____

Skiers end regular season

By ANTONY KUNDERT and STEVEN SEGAL
Collegian Staff

The men's ski team finished its regualr season last weekend at Nashoba Valley in Lowell with two second place finishes. These finishes were enough to give the Minutemen the league title over Plymouth State College (P.S.C.) for the 11th time in the past 12 years. The order of finish of the remaining teams was Northeastern, Boston College, Amherst College, Brown, and UConn.

The race day was a beautiful one and courses held up nicely. Two slaloms were held, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The small mountain made for short courses, fast times and an all-around exciting day of races.

In the first race, UMass lost to P.S.C. by only one-tenth of a second. P.S.C. was led to victory by a strong performance from Peter Dill, who won the race by over a second. Second and third went to UMass skiers Bob Grout and Scott Billings. Other UMass racers contributing to the teams effort were Pat Downes, Steve Segal, and Kevin Nolan who were all in the top eight.

The final regular season race saw the Minutemen falter slightly as P.S.C. put in a solid showing to win the race by two and a half seconds. northeastern finished third, just edging out Boston College by two-hundreths of a second. Individually, P.S.C. racer won the event, UMass skiers Pat Downes and Kevin Nolan were second and third.

UMass women skiers wrapped up the Osborne Division Title last weekend by winning two more races on Feb. 15 at Nashoba Valley in Mass. This season's high performances qualified all five women for competition in the Easterns at Cannon Mt., N.H., Feb. 22 and 23.

Two short slalom races were held at Nashoba, each having two runs. The snow for the first race remained firm, unaffected by the early morning sun. The start of the race trail was very flat, making quick skating and poling crucial in order to win.

Barbara Reynard did just that and skied to her first victory of the season. Laurie Valenti finished third and Kim Loftus finished fifth, which placed UMass well in the lead followed by Boston College and Amherst College.

In the afternoon the snow began to soften, making poling and skating even more essential. As strong as ever, Sue "Sweepy" Voll recovered from her morning's spill and skied to her ninth victory of the season. Barbara Reynard placed second and Kim Loftus finished fifth. In this race Amherst College took second, followed by Smith College.

Freshman Sue Voll of UMass won nine of the ten league races this season. (Staff photo by Bill Ferris)

Gymnasts down Chiefs

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's gymnastics team increased its record to 7-2 as they downed Springfield College 130.20-126.35 at Springfield Sunday.

"We looked better than we did against Southern Connecticut," said Minutewomen coach Virginia Evans. "Our performance in this meet marked a definite improvement over our past two outings."

The gymwomen took first and second place in three of the four events; vaulting, balance beam, and floor exercises.

The Minutewomen outclassed the Chiefs in vaulting accumulating a 33.55 total with Lisa Martin scoring an 8.85 and Liz Marino an 8.5. Martin's 8.85 was the highest individual score of the afternoon. The best Springfield could do was an 8.4 by Monica Peeples.

Liz Marino and Amy Riuli turned in fine performances on the balance beam, an 8.55 and 8.45 respectively, to give UMass the edge over the Chiefs 97.05-95.30 after three events.

The gymwomen proved their superiority as they took the top three places in the floor exercise. Janice Baker scored an 8.65, Liz Marino an 8.6, and Lisa Martin an 8.4

"We had a lot of trouble on the bars," said Evans. Springfield College won this event on the strength of Ann Marie Harrington's first place score of 8.3. Chris Wilson tied the Chiefs' Sue Seemon for third with an 8.2.

Lisa Martin won the all-around competition with a 33.05. Teammate Liz Marino took second with a 32.60.

Karen Ginsberg and Karen Clemente were unable to participate in the meet for UMass due to injuries. Ginsberg sprained an ankle in Friday's practice, and Clemente suffered a muscle pull on Thursday. It is not known if they will be ready for the squad's next meet which is this Saturday vs. UNH at home.

UPC PRODUCTIONS presents
THE KINKS
IN CONCERT
Thursday, March 6, 8 pm
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on Sale Mon. Feb. 25!
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX & Union Records (UMass)
Platterpus (Northampton) Students - $8.50, 8.00, 7.50
Non Students - 9.50, 9.00, 8.50
For Info Call 545-2892 No Bottles, Cans or Alcohol

HAHJEE'S PLACE
AFFORDABLY UNIQUE
Delicious and Exotic Dining
For Friends and Lovers
Midway between N'hampton & Amh. (Rte. 9)
Sun.-Thurs. 4-10 p.m., Fri. & Sat. 4-11:30 p.m., 584-9797

JOB APPLICATION PACKAGE

- Letter
- Resume
- Envelope

matching papers & typestyles

Bring this ad for a FREE resume copy with each letter done on our Word Processor

Valley typing
29 S. Pleasant St. Amherst
256-6736
M-F 10-6
Sat. 10-2

Mike's Westview Cafe No. Amherst
Watch the U.S. Olympians
Go for it!
Schlitz makes it great.
at Mike's
10 oz. glass of Schlitz light or dark
30¢ a glass. 60 oz. pitcher $1.80
During all 12 day T.V. broadcasts of the Olympics.
Same Great Place
Thurs. Nite Penny Nite
Every Third Drink 1c

25c Pool Table
Two T.V.'s
Bowling Machine
Friday Afternoon Free Smorgy During Happy Hour 4p to 6p
Old Milkaukee Pitchers
$1.95 Most Bottles
Domestic Beer 75c
THIS MEALS 'S FOR YOU

Heiden wins 3rd gold

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor
LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)

Eric Heiden won his third speed skating gold medal in the Winter Olympics Tuesday and Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden came from behind to win the giant slalom medal that has so long eluded him.

Those two giants of the ice and snow games dominated the action on the eighth day of these Winter Games and marked themselves as all-time Olympic greats. Heiden appeared unbeatable and on his way to an unprecedented five gold medals.

Stenmark, the world's top giant slalom skier, put on a risky, spectacular run down Whiteface Mountain to beat his nearest competition by three quarters of a second and overcome a .32 second deficit he had after Monday's first run.

Ulrich Wehling of East Germany raced to a record third straight Olympic gold medal in the Nordic combined event Tuesday and Frank Ullrich, another East German, won the 10 kilometer biathlon event.

The East German team of Hans Rinn and Norbert Hahn defended their 1976 Olympic title Tuesday by winning the gold medal in the men's doubles luge with a combined time of 1:19.33 in two runs down the 744-meter course. The Italian sled of Peter Gschnitzer and Karl Brunner were second and Austrians Georg Fluckinger and Karl Schrott were third.

Heiden, the 21-year-old from Madison, Wis., who already had won the 500 and 5,000-meter medals, raced first Tuesday and posted an Olympic record time of 1:15.18. Gaetan Boucher of Canada was second in 1:16.68 and Frode Roenning of Norway and Vladimir Lobanov of the Soviet Union tied for third and each got a bronze medal.

Heiden had an excruciating wait while 20 other pairs skated to see if his lead would hold up. "I was still kinda concerned because Peter Mueller was still coming up and he has been skating some very good 1,000- meters," Heiden said. Mueller, of Milwaukee, who won the gold medal in this event in the 1976 Olympics finished fifth Tuesday.

The personable Heiden said in a jammed interview room that he stumbled on the last backstretch "because I kicked myself in the back of the heel." Otherwise, he said, the race went well and he wasn't bothered by the wind gusts that pushed some other skaters around.

Asked about the prospect of winning five gold medals, he said "I'd like to, but there are still two races to go. The 10,000 meter (Saturday) will be the last race. I'm concerned because I haven't skated against any of the competitors this year that are going to be skating in it and I'll be skating it after four hard races. I might be a little bit tired."

What worries Heiden about the 1,500-meter event Thursday is that it is a middle distance that must be skated like a sprint. "The biggest thing you have to do is get prepared to really suffer. When you're done, it hurts a lot."

Heiden joins Norwegians Ivar Ballangrud and Hjalmar Andersen and Ard Schenk of the Netherlands as triple gold medal winners in speed skating. Schenk did it in 1972, Ballangrud in 1936 and Andersen in 1952. No one has ever won four men's speed skating events.

American Eric Heiden waves to the crowd after being awarded his third gold medal of the Winter Olympic games yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

Olympics still plagued by monumental foulups

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP)

A veteran Italian newspaperman, frustrated with transportation, security and other headaches at the XIII Winter Olympic Games, grumbled, "This is the second worst event I've ever been associated with."

"Really?" said a companion. "What was the worst?"

"World War II."

The hard-bitten, cynical international press corps has reverted to humor in its effort to weather the bus delays, police arrogance and other organizational foulups that have turned Lake Placid's winter wonderland into a nightmare.

The more suffering spectators have found it less funny.

Around the press center, set up at a high school, newsmen have made a game of describing their problems of the mismanaged spectacle. Sometimes their subtle complaints sound like a duel of one-liners between Don Rickles and Rodney Dangerfield in Las Vegas.

Some British newsmen are housed in the Hillside Sanitarium, a former TB hospital where the legendary baseball pitcher, Christy Mathewson, died.

"How do you like it?" one was asked.

"Oh, it's jolly OK," was the reply, "but we hear phantom coughs in the night."

Arrows at the opening ceremony stadium point to the grave of John Brown, the abolitionist.

"He must have died waiting for a bus," somebody cracked.

East Germans, reputedly dour and uncommunicative, came up with one of the more hilarious observations.

"The only amateurs around here," one of them was quoted as saying, "are the organizers."

A Dallas newsman is datelining his dispatches, "Lake Panic, N.Y."

Two New York columnists left the Olympics last weekend, apparently headed for the warmer climates of Florida and baseball training.

"How did they get out of Lake Placid?" someone asked, recalling that this is a sealed off city.

"They were smuggled out by the Canadians," another quipped.

One fabricated report was that the luge competition was postponed because of a head-on collision on the chute.

One pundit suggested that, now that the Iranian situation appears near solution, President Carter should address himself to freeing the hostages in the Olympic press center.

A power failure just as competition started on the ninth day of XII Winter Olympic Games threatened to delay some events Tuesday but there were already been so many problems that this one seemed brief and almost inconsequential to the harried but happy Lake Placid Bus People.

Warmer weather and more effecient transportation helped those who had faced impossible bus shuttle schedules get to events on time and in relative comfort. But it looked for a few minutes as if they wouldn't have much competition to watch.

A transformer in the beefedup Lake Placid electrical system failed at about 10 a.m. while biathlon competition was in progress and just before the start of the final run of the men's giant slalom and finals in speed skating.

Emergency generators restored current at the biathlon but the electric scoreboard, public address system and television went dead. Only the six best times were posted on the scoreboard after power was restored and all results were declared unofficial until hand timing could be checked. Other events did not start until backup generators were producing electricity. The damaged transformer was replaced by midafternoon.

UM meets Owls

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

The UMass Minutewomen will try to recapture some semblance of consistency tonight when they travel to Southern Connecticut State College for a 7:00 game, their last game of the regular season.

Players and coaches have said this season's Minutewomen are the most physically talented ever seen. Making the national tournament was an internal if not overt goal for the season.

"It all depends on how much intestinal fortitude you have," Ozdarski said. "It all depends on if you are ready to play."

UMass had a seven-game winning streak before losing a poorly played game to Maine last Saturday. And for the second time this year, UMass has dropped to second place this week in the New England College poll behind Providence College at 17-5.

At 13-7, the Minutewomen look now to the Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women tournament - an eight-team affair starting a week from Friday. The top two teams qualify for the nationals. From a mental preparedness point of view, the Minutewomen are notready.

"We haven't played well all year as far as putting together four or five games in a row," coach Mary Ann Ozdarski said.

Even during the winning streak, one of the only consistencies UMass showed was spotting the opposition deficits of over ten points before letting them back into the game. At Maine, UMass shot a paltry 24 percent from the field in the first half. Martha Ready was ineffective as a starter, while Maine's Wendy Farrington controlled the boards.

UMass faces an uphill climb, indeed to the Nationals this year. The Maine loss and tonight's game will definitely have a bearing on their seedings in the Easterns, loaded with powerhouses such as Queens and Fordham. From here on in for UMass, the ability to win must come from within.

MINUTEWOMAN MINUTIAE: UMass will have a one game playoff to decide the Massachusetts AIAW Champion this Sunday at the Cage at 1:00 against Northeastern. The game has no bearing on the Easterns, but should be a close one. The Minutewomen won the game between the two this season 78-74...Center Julie Ready will not play tonight, at all. Her stress fracture is still not better.

Sue Peters will lead the Minutewomen into their final regular season game tonight when the team visits Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven. The senior guard leads the 13-7 hoopwomen in scoring with a 20.4 average. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

...and Penn St

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

It did not resemble a New Year's eve party—there were no noisemakers or balloons—but the mood in the men's locker room after the Minutemen won their second basketball game of the season Monday was certainly more jovial than the depressed silence one is accustomed to after most games.

Tyus Nedd seemed confident; Tom Witkos was on his way to compensate for forty minutes of court hustle at his favorite bar; assistant coach Ray Ricketts had a handshake for anyone who would take it and Dan Wright had a big grin on his face as he told the Collegian to print the whole story.

"It boosts you a whole lot, gives you something to look forward to," Nedd said about the 69-63 win over the University of New Hampshire.

So look out Pennsylvania State University, the 2-21 Minutemen are going for their second consecutive win tonight on your home court beginning at 8:10.

The Penn State season's statistics would indicate that the Nittany Lions are favored to win in today's contest (and for my next understatement...). Penn State has won 17 games while losing nine. West Virginia University has fallen to the Lions twice, the University of Pittsburgh has seen defeat once, as has the Duquesne University quintet. Each of these teams has beaten UMass.

Lion losses have come at the hands of Syracuse University, Villanova University, Pitt, Duquesne and others.

A curious ingredient in tonight's game is whether UMass' leading scorer, Curtis Phauls, will play. Phauls, averaging 15.9 points per game, sat on the bench throughout the entire New Hampshire game. Coach Ray Wilson would not say why the forward did not play, deferring the question to Phauls. "He would have played if we needed him," the coach said.

Phauls, while running laps around the indoor track at Curry Hick's Cage during practice yesterday (while the rest of the team shot around), only shrugged his shoulders when asked about the situation.

A source close to the team said Phauls had missed a shooting practice Monday, thus the benching.

Will he play tonight? "It depends," Wilson said.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 88 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Thursday, February 21, 1980

The GOP fight in N.H.

Republican candidates call for military increase

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)

—Ronald Reagan, the reluctant debater, joined George Bush and the rest of the Republican presidential field last night in a seven-way chorus of criticism directed at President Carter's foreign policy.

The candidates offered assorted proposals to deal with inflation at home, and spent more time agreeing than arguing during the forum that preceded next Tuesday's New Hampshire presidential primary.

Reagan confronted his rivals for the first time, declaring that the United States must signal the Soviet Union "that there could be a confrontation down the road" if Russian adventurism continues. He said one such signal would be new weapons systems so potent that the Russians "would not dare lift a hand" against the United States.

Bush — who shares top billing with Reagan in the New Hampshire public opinion polls — said he thinks the Russians are "confused by our president." He said Carter promised in his 1976 campaign to cut defense spending, and was doing so until the current crises over hostages in Iran and Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

Sen. Howard Baker recalled Theodore Roosevelt's admonition to "Walk softly and carry a big stick," and accused Carter of "cutting the stick in two."

The debate drew a capacity crowd of 1,200 — 275 of them reporters.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas needled the others, saying at one point that all he hears about is campaign momentum, not issues.

"I hear talk about Little Mo and Big Mo and I don't know who's who," he quipped. His barb was directed at Bush, who used the phrase "Big Mo," to describe the lead he gained by winning the two early Republican contests in Iowa and Puerto Rico.

Dole said it is time to go beyond simplistic answers.

In economic policy, Bush said he would blunt inflation by holding the growth of federal spending. He also said the income tax should be amended so that people will not be thrust into higher brackets when wages increase because of inflation.

Baker said he didn't favor the latter change because that way, "inflation feeds on itself."

Reagan said the government is causing inflation and can end it. He said that on his first day as president, he would freeze the hiring of federal employees. He added he would then seek to reduce taxes by at least 30 percent over a three-year period.

Rep. John Anderson of Illinois said the Carter administration's voluntary wage and price guidelines were being violated even before "the ink was dry."

"What we need is a president courageous enough not to just leave Mr. Volcker standing there like a Dutch boy plugging the hole in the dike," he said in reference to Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker.

Six of the seven debaters agreed that the nation's military budget should be boosted to signal the Russians that the United States will not tolerate further Soviet expansionism.

None of the candidates who advocated more defense spending offered specific dollar proposals.

Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally said, "I think we have no choice but to make a very, very substantial increase in military appropriations."

Rep. Philip M. Crane of Illinois said, "This nation better rebuild its defense capability."

All the debators except Reagan debated in Iowa on Jan. 5. At that point, Reagan was the man to beat. In the Jan. 21 Iowa GOP caucuses, Bush beat him.

The League of Women Voters sponsored last night's 90-minute debate. A panel of journalists asked questions. A candidate got two minutes to reply, and each of the others got one minute to comment.

The panelists were Howard K. Smith of the Public Broadcasting System, Eileen Shanahan of the Washington Star, and columnist Joseph Kraft.

The debate was televised on a delayed basis by PBS, CBS and ABC. It also was broadcast by National Public Radio.

Reagan and Bush will meet again in debate Saturday night in Nashua.

Bush—who shares top billing with Reagan in opinion polls—said he thinks the Russians are 'confused by our president.'

'What we need is a president courageous enough not to just leave (someone) standing there like a Dutch boy plugging the dike.'

—Anderson

'We've got to send some signals to the Soviet Union that there could be a confrontation down the road if they continue.'

—Reagan

While Soviets get secrets

WASHINGTON — The United States made major "errors in judgment" by selling computers which the Soviet Union used to help make Army trucks and other military equipment, a senior Defense Department official said yesterday.

William J. Perry, the Pentagon's research chief, said government officials have known for three years that U.S.-supplied computers were used in the Kama River manufacturing plant to build trucks for the Soviet Army.

Baker recalled Roosevelt's admonition to 'walk softly and carry a big stick,' and accused Carter of 'cutting the stick in two.'

Students seek building authority membership

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — In a plea for student membership on the UMass Building Authority, Arvid Muller told state education committee members the lack of student members is "a classic case of representation without representation."

Muller, legislative research assistant for the UMass Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, testified before the committee on a bill proposing student members on state university and college building authorities.

"The students who pay the fees have no representation," Muller said.

The Building Authority sets dormitory, dining commons athletic, and Campus Center fees to pay off the bonds used to finance the construction of university buildings.

The bill proposes student membership on the Building Authorities of the University of Lowell and state colleges.

The committe normally holds a public executive session where it decides whether the bill is passed on. Because of another lengthy hearing, the committee chose to hold its executive meeting next Monday.

In other action student government co-President Brian Burke and Assistant Greek Area Director Kurt Kruger testified before the Taxation committee in favor of a bill which would exempt fraternities and sororities in Massachusetts from paying property tax.

In their association with the university, fraternities provide "educational and social benefits" as well as "learning experiences for members," Burke and Kruger told the committee.

In addition to the non-profit status of fraternities, Burke cited the rising costs of food, energy, education, and property tax as justification for the proposed tax bread.

Kruger said the fraternities and sororities paid $126,400 in property tax to the town of Amherst in 1979. This sum amounted to 1 percent of the town's budget and about 2 percent of Amherst's total property tax revenue, he said.

Both Burke and Kruger suggested a compromise if total tax exemtion is not viable.

"Complete tax exemtion would put a burden on the town. We would be willing to accept part of that burden," Kruger said.

Instead of a complete tax cut, fraternities could pay at a reduced rate, under the state's new property tax classifications.

Students from MIT were also present to testify in favor of the legislation.

DIGEST

The Associated Press

BOSTON—House Speaker Thomas McGee is expected to endorse President Jimmy Carter in a State House press conference this afternoon, and political observers anticipate the endorsement could cause problems between McGee and the state's Kennedy establishment. The endorsement by McGee would be the second boost Carter has received from a leading state official in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's homestate. Gov. Edward J. King, who received substantial support by Carter in the 1978 gubernatorial race, has been stumping for the president since his endorsement earlier in the campaign. Three top assistants in the House Democratic hierarchy paved the way for McGee with their own endorsements of Carter.

WASHINGTON—Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt, died yesterday of bronchial infection at age 96. She was also cousin of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

BOSTON—Heating oil secured by Joseph P. Kennedy, will be available at low cost for poverty-level families in the Bay State next week.

The oil is owned by Kennedy's Citizens Evergy Corp., and will sell for 39 cents less than the current average retail cost in Massachusetts. Up to $400 in fuel assistance also will be available for eligible families. Kennedy is the nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

BOSTON—A group called the Student and Youth Coalition to Defend Democracy yesterday asked for young Americans to register for the draft. Group leaders criticized antidraft groups and said they plan to run seminars on military preparedness at college campuses across the country.

BOSTON—Dissident faculty members and students from Boston University urged the Massachusetts Legislature yesterday to investigate their institution. The group attacked BU President John Silber and warned there could be another teacher's strike. Efforts earlier this month failed to get the Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti to investigate Silber.

QUINCY—Many workers of the General Dynamics shipyard were examined by doctors and were found to have abnormal X-rays which indicate a high risk of asbestos-related cancer and other diseases a researcher said yesterday. The exams were part of study which illustrated an "immense problems in the shipbuilding industry" one doctor said.

COVINGTON, KY—A federal jury found yesterday that old technology aluminum wiring was not responsible for the fire which killed 165 people at the Beverly Hills Supper Club on Memorial Day in 1977. The jury deliberated for five hours after hearing 36 days of testimony before reaching its decision.

CONCORD, N.H.—Republican presidential aspirant John Anderson swims some laps in a hotel pool prior to last night's debate with the other GOP presidential contenders. (Debate story, page 1) (AP Laserphoto)

Jerry Garcia does it up last night at the Fine Arts Center. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

Carter remains firm on Olympic boycott

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—As President Carter maintained his strong stance that the United States will boycott the summer Olympics in Moscow if Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan, Russian leaders ignored Carter's deadline yesterday and may even send additional troops to fight Afghanistan rebels.

Western diplomats in Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, said the Soviet troops and the Soviet-supported Afghan government will require reinforcements to put down a 21-month rebellion by rebels.

"The Russians are in a trap. They cannot retreat without losing face and they cannot go forward without getting more and more embroiled in an inextricable situation."

Desertations reportedly have decreased the number of Afghan troops, and they have not shown much desire to fight the rebels who engage in sabotage, sniping, bomb attacks, hit-and run raids and ambushes against the better-equipped government forces, observers in Kapul reported.

Western intelligence reports claim at least 3000 Soviets have been injured and 600 to 800 killed since the invasion began last December.

Carter's call to boycott the summer games has drawn support from Congress, the public and 50 other countries, but not the international committee which governs the atheletic events. The committee has insisted on holding the Moscow games, despite numerous lobbying efforts by presidential aides to boycott the Russian capital and hold the games elsewhere.

As the Olympic situation continued, a Pentagon research chief testified to a Senate committee that the United States made major "errors in judgement" by selling computers to the Soviets in the past three years. The computers, research chief William Perry said yesterday, were used to help make Army trucks and other military equipment.

In New York yesterday, United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim delayed the departure of an investigatory commission that could settle the Iranian hostage crisis through hearings.

Waldheim said he delayed the trip to Iran because Iranian leaders requested additional time to prepare for the inquiry. One commission member said there was a "gentleman's agreement" that the hearings would lead to the release of the Americans held captive inside the American embassy in Tehran since November. The date of the release was unclear and the hearings procedures were also uncertain.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associate Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Why manage for Magic Pan?

We know a professional restaurant manager looks for personal career potential, professional responsibility and company stability. At Magic Pan, we provide all this and a restaurant you can take pride in as well. All of our locations have the charm of a European Country Inn — light, cheerful and friendly. A very important ingredient in our continuing success.

It's no surprise that we've expanded to over 100 restaurants since 1965. We're committed to building an organization that will last for many years. In addition to our comprehensive 14-week training program, we offer very competitive salaries and benefits including life, health, dental and disability insurance, profit sharing and retirement plans.

If you're interested in a career in restaurant management, are willing to relocate and appreciate strong company support, contact the Department of Hotel, Restaurant and Travel Administration.
We are an equal opportunity employer.

We'll be on campus February 27.

The Magic Pan®

The Campus Center Program Council, Hillel, and the UMass Arts Council Present

THE RAVINE

A dramatic meditation based on the poetry of Nellie Sachs
Performances: Saturday, February 23, 8 PM
Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass
Sunday, February 24, 8 PM
Hampden Theatre, Southwest Residential College, UMass
Workshop: Sunday, February 24, 3 PM
Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass
both performances and the workshop are free to the public

Thursday
Two Way Street
This week's special
Vodka Drinks
75c
"an Amherst tradition & now with a great new look"
Serving food
11:30 am-9:30 pm
Seven Days
a Week
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

COUPON
College Pizza
Grand Opening Offer
clip this ad and save
50c on any size pizza!
Free Delivery
549-6073 549-6098
located across from Southwest

First provost hopeful here for your scrutiny

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

A public question and answer session with provost candidate Colin Bull will be held today from 9 to 10 a.m. in Campus Center 917 as part of a three-day series of interviews by the Provost Search Committee.

Bull, who has been the dean of geophysics at Ohio State University since 1972, will be meeting with a host of committees and special interest groups on campus, according to Undergraduate Student Government co-President Brian Burke, who announced the public sessions during the student senate meeting last night.

In addition to Bull, the search committee will evaluate at least three other candidates for the position, including Everly Fleischer, dean of Chemistry at the University of California at Irvine; Wallace Russell from Iowa State; and Allen Marr from Davis University. Burke said that another candidate may be added to the list pending further action by the committee.

Jeremiah M. Allen, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, has been acting provost since January, 1978 when then-chancellor Randolph W. Bromery fired provost Paul L. Puryear. Purvear was dismissed during a power struggle with several deans. Puryear had also been embattled in a lengthy dispute over his proposal to shift liberal arts faculty positions to business and science programs with high student demand.

Burke said the committee should select a final candidate sometime in early April. Its recommendation then will go to Chancellor Henry Koffler for approval, Burke said.

A previous search committee, which had been underway for about a year and a half, was suspended last April when members of the Minority Faculty Association accused the committee of non-compliance with affirmative action policies of the UMass Board of Trustees. That action followed the resignation of the only two committee members who represented minorities.

In other business, the student senate passed a motion to endorse the anti-draft movement in the five college area. The senate will assist in circulating petitions to be sent to President Jimmy Carter opposing the reinstatement of the military registration.

Some senators questioned the wording of the motion. Some advocated support of registration for the draft while opposing the actual drafting of civilians into the armed forces. Others suggested that support for registration is equivalent to support for the draft.

Greeks seek pledges

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Rush is a time in the UMass Greek system that fraternities and sororities entertain and get to know people interested in Greek membership.

The Panhellenic Council and individual fraternities have had tables on the Campus Center Concourse the past three weeks advertising Rush. At these table, information about houses, and the Greek system has been dispensed.

The fraternities have the prospective member sign for various activities and then seek the person out through mailings or phone calls.

Names compiled by the sororities are given to the eight all women houses near campus. It is up to each house to seek the women who wish to join.

"During informal rush, the rushees get to visit all the houses to find out what makes each house so individual and so special," said Panhellenic Rush Cairperson Nancy DiMauro.

The rushees are the ones to decided if they

TURN TO PAGE 4

Dennis Wade, farrier, visits Tillson Farm yesterday and a resident, Teddy, gets a new set of shoes. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Center provides for elderly women

Editor's note: This story is the second of two parts on elderly women in Amherst.

By LISA MAREGNI
Special to the Collegian

A major concern for some elderly women is the desire to remain self-sufficient, and not require nursing home care. At the Amherst Nursing Home, Parker Hubbard is director of the Amherst Adult Day Center, whose objective is to "enable adults to remain within their own homes and the community as long as their health permits." Hubbard said the day center is about two-thirds women, and provides a health maintenance program, various therapies, daily lunch and snacks and other personal services.

For many elderly women, remaining in their own homes and maintaining self-sufficiency is essential to their well-being.

There are several apartment facilities for the elderly in Amherst. The Amherst Housing Authority is currently at work converting a former fraternity house near the UMass campus into housing for the elderly.

Dorothy Howard, coordinator for the UMass Older Student Service Network, deals with older people returning to or beginning college. The network, which is one aspect of the larger Resource Network at UMass, works as a referral system for older students who may feel out of place or alienated on such a large, youth-oriented campus as UMass.

Howard works with older men and women to determine particular problems and needs they may have as students, and she functions as an advocate for older students with possible problems in areas such as financial aid and housing.

The Older Student Service Network exists for students who feel they don't fit into the traditional 18-to-21-year-old group. It is not designed exclusively for the elderly.

Howard said Elder Hostel is a worthwhile service specifically for the elderly which has existed at UMass for the past few years. Elder Hostel is a week of classes and activities during the summer for men and women aged 65 and over.

Barbara F. Turner, coordinator of the Gerontology Planning Project at UMass and a national authority on gender and aging, said because women live an average of eight years longer than men, and tend to be healthier than men, they are "likely to survive to be very old, alone and ill." Whereas 73 percent of all men over the age of 65 are married, only 37 percent of women in this age group are married.

Turner said men are more likely than women to remarry, due in part to men's tendencies to rely solely on their wives for intimacy and social life. Women, on the other hand, tend to have more "social skills," and thus may adapt easier to the death of their husband.

Turner said poverty is more often a problem for elderly women than for elderly men, but predicts this will diminish as more women work full-time and work longer, and consequently will receive more retirement benefits. In the past, women tended to work for fewer total years, and have traditionally been paid less than men for equal work, so they have been receiving less retirement benefits.

Turner said many women over the age of 65 have never learned to drive, therefore are more dependent on others for transportation. She predicts this too will diminish as more women learn to drive out of the need and desire for increased mobility.

Turner said Amherst deviates from these national trends because there are more older women here who never married than in the rest of the country, and work has always been more available in the Amherst area due to the college campuses. However, Turner sees a problem in the lack of "pre-retirement training" available for women in Amherst, training which would prepare them to deal with post-work years.

Happy Hour
at Barselotti's
Every Friday from 3-6
Draft Beer 50c
Most Bottled Beer 75c
Pitchers of
Old Milwaukee $2.00
Most Drinks 75c
& Free Peanuts
2 T.V.'s
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

TACO VILLA
Authentic Mexican Food from Scratch
Quick and Inexpensive
Down the narrow alleyway in Downtown Amherst
and
Center St., Downtown N'hampton
Mon-Thurs 11-9 Fri and Sat 11-11
Sunday 3-9

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION
PRESENTS
HITCHCOCK
IN
39 STEPS
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1980
7:00 9:00 11:00
CCA $1.00

Add experience to your degree.

It's unfortunate. Many college graduates don't find meaningful employment in their chosen career fields.

For others Army ROTC provides an edge. The margin of difference. Most call it "leadership ability". It's the special skill that all civilian employers seek.

If meaningful employment after college looks doubtful for you, look into Army ROTC. Find opportunities for leadership and management experience. Full-time or part-time.

You can complete 2 years of ROTC in 6 weeks this summer, and add experience to your degree. Contact

Captain Phil Turner
545-2321 or 545-2322

Army ROTC.
Learn what it takes to lead.

Career planning

The Student Development Center at UMass announces two workshops to be held this week and next. "How to Market Your Skills," a two-part program for Women's Studies students will be held on consecutive Thursdays, February 21 and 28, 7 to 9 p.m. "Career/Life Planning for B.D.I.C. Majors," will be on Monday, February 25, from 7-10 p.m. For information and to sign up, call 5-0333.

Group plans wkend

Bring the safe energy message to New Hampshire on this last weekend before the primaries. Some of this weekend's events include: a candidate debate in Nashua, the anti-draft rally in Manchester, the MUSE benefit concert, candidate appearances, and a massive canvassing drive.

Call 256-6434.

Grant Awarded

The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded a grant to Amherst College and the University of Massachusetts for an Emily Dickinson symposium and celebration to be held in Amherst on Friday and Saturday, October 3 and 4, 1980.

★ Greek rush

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

wish to return to a certain house or attend another sorority function. Though the rushees are granted freedom in their choices, the final decisions whether the rushee becomes a pledge is decided by the sisters of the house.

Informal sorority rush closed Tuesday, February 19, when bids to the pledges were issued at 10 pm. It is up to the rushees to choose they wish to join.

UMass fraternities have been seeking members through open or closed rush. Open rush is open in the fraternities to all university males and closed rush is by invitation only.

Beta Kappa Phi Vice President Gary Bernson siad, "Spring is the best semester for rush. The freshman have gotten to know the campus and may want to make a change in their living situations."

For the first time in recent years, Theta Chi fraternity has opened their rush to all university men.

"We've always had a jock image and we want to get more versification of people," said President Ronald Annand.

The open rush has been "new to us, the present members of the house have all been invited to pledge," Annand said.

Other fraternities on campus such as Delta Chi and Pi Lamda Phi have been recruiting rushees from the concourse tables.

WORK FOR THE MAN WHO HAS A PLAN!

JOHN B. ANDERSON

for President

Volunteers Needed:

—To canvass in New Hampshire
—To canvass in Massachusetts

Stop by the Anderson table on the CC Concourse, or come to the Staff Meeting Thurs. Feb. 21, 7:00 P.M. CC 169

Paid for and authorized by the Anderson for President Committee, Frank P. Maggio, Chairman, and Hugh D. Hammerslag, Treasurer. A copy of our report is on file with the Federal Election Commission and is available from the Federal Election Commission, Washington, D.C.

Top of the Campus Lounge
Presents

ED VADAS

Fri. Feb. 15 & Sat. Feb. 16

TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Evelyn "Champagne" King

comes to Dartmouth!

Friday 22 February at 9:30p.m.
Spaulding Auditorium - Hopkins Center - Hanover, N.H.
with special guest Hypertension
Reserved seats $8.50 on sale at the Box Office
Credit Card reservations: (603) 646-2422

Editorial/Opinion

Columnist is vicious on laugh-getting

Y'know, being a columnist isn't all fun and games. Sometimes it's damned hard to come up with ideas. So, you can imagine how delighted I was when I read Jimmy Allison III's incredibly insightful guest column on Tuesday.

Humor! Wow, why didn't I think of that before! What a nifty way of dealing with life!

MICHAEL MARTINEAU

And, hey, better yet, how about using humor in a newspaper column? While it might be too revolutionary an idea for some, it could catch on!

In a flash, I tore up my column on my early years in the orphanage, put some spanking new paper into my Olympia, and stared. It is sobering to ponder that last week, while 25,000 Collegian readers were considering my suggestion that all vegetarians give up Russian dressing until the Soviet Union pulls out of Afghanistan, somewhere, someplace, Mr. Allison was urinating on his sneakers.

Food for thought, indeed. The erudite Mr. Allison, neutered cat, smelly shoes, and all, has raised some important questions. How much humor is too much? Humorists, by nature, are a very vicious group of people. The desire to "Kill them with laughter," or to "Make them bust a gut," are the driving motivations in comedy, and the inevitable result is some unfortunate individual being "put in stitches." Records show that over five hundred people "died laughing" on the campus alone at a single performance of "Now You See It, Wish You'd Seen It Last Semester," last December.

Is this the type of violence that Mr. Allison wishes to perpretrate? Or, moreover, is this the kind of ugly situation that we, as students, want to see on this campus? I think not. Comedy junkies are a problem that society has chosen to ignore for far too long. I am speaking from personal experience. It was a sordid affair, but I can talk about it now. I currently find it necessary to laugh at least once a day. For as long as I can remember, I had to laugh. Finally, thanks to the counseling of friends, I am now taking hypnosis in an attempt to get it down to a few giggles a day.

I'm sure that there are others like myself that need help. If we band together, we can stop humor-mongers like Mr. Allison and others. Comedy is serious business!

There you go, Jimmy. Go piss on your foot.

Where should the finger point?

Recently the administration, largely through the efforts of (our?) Dean of Students, William Field, released a draft of a report concerning the Student Government Association entitled, "Student Activities on the Amherst Campus." This report which contains a cumulation of grievances and abuses that have occured in past administrations of the SGA, can only have two purposes. One, to unite the administration in its attempt to limit what they consider too great a power in the hands of the students, and two, to turn the student body against its student government and thus take away its essential supporting foundation. Why else would they produce a document that dwells in the past?

HOWARD GOLDMAN and PAM MALUMPHY

But how can the administration turn the student body against the SGA? For the student body is the SGA and vise versa. The problem is that we students tend to overlook this relationship and thus lose the true understanding of its importance. Let's put this into perspective.

The system that we have consists of House Councils, Area Governments, residential resources, the Student Senate, SCERA (the student advocacy group), a legal services office and academic committees that all have students organizing the students for the betterment of students. There is also an impressive list of services that are offered like the Photo Coop, People's Market, Economic Development Office (which oversees the 20 student run businesses on campus), the Union Program Council, the Distinguished Visitors Program, the Bike Coop, People's Gay Alliance, Office of Third World Affairs, Earthfoods, the Collegian, Union Video Project, Stereo Coop, the Print Shop, the Auto Pool—the list goes on and on. This sounds impressive and it is, but it is not enough. For we all participate in this system financially by paying our $84 Student Activities Tax, but how many of us actually participate physically? The Field Report claimed that, "participation in Student Government remains at a disturbingly low level." In a way it is true for the same 10 to 20 percent of the students are doing most of the decision making and student turnouts for elections have been almost non-existent.

But it doesn't have to be this way. As students we can all play a role in improving the quality of life on our campus. Of course there are deficiencies in the SGA, but instead of always pointing a finger at the leadership, isn't it about time we pointed a finger at ourselves? In this transitory world of higher education only we can assure the continuation of a responsive, low cost, high quality education. Let's not be treated like second class citizens at a University that should be designed around our needs. Get involved. Each of us has unique talents and resources that can be utilized by student organizations from dorm councils to student cooperatives. Let us not allow the administration to teach us that sad lesson of life that you only appreciate what you got when it ain't no longer there.

Howard Goldman and Pam Malumphy are Student Senators.

Letters

Forum sponsors blame Kennedy

To the Editor:

In regards to Jim Moran's Analysis (Collegian, Feb. 14) of Joseph Kennedy's appearance on behalf of Presidential Candidate Ted Kennedy:

The Undergraduate Political Science Association (UPSA) is a politically non-partisan group interested in the study and promotion of public affairs. Our aim in sponsoring a forum for presidential candidates and/or their representatives is to give the students a perspective on the obviously important Presidential Campaign of 1980. In the sponsorship of such candidates and their representatives, we in no way necessarily endorse their candidacy.

Mr. Kennedy's appearance at the University was sponsored jointly by the UPSA and University of Massachusetts for Kennedy. The Kennedy people knew and agreed beforehand to our ground rules concerning the forum—no "rah rah" spirit or solicitations for campaign workers inside the lecture hall. Unfortunately, they directly disobeyed our rules and actively recruited help in Hasbrouck for the upcoming New Hampshire and Massachusetts primaries.

Getting down to cases, Mr. Moran's essay was both interesting and thought provoking. However, it's last paragraph was erroneous and misleading. In that paragraph, Moran indirectly accused the UPSA of partiality towards Senator Kennedy's candidacy—"This (Joe Kennedy's speech) event must be deemed a planned tactic of opportunism rather than a legitimate forum for dialogue on the issues of the current presidentia campaign." This charge, as stated above, is absolutely wrong. If Jim Moran had done his homework (i.e. research for his charge) we would have discovered that the blame for the manipulation of our presidential forum system should be laid on the door of the Kennedy people not the UPSA.

Tom Geoffine
UPSA Vice President

Political reporting on Rep. remiss

To the Editor:

Having attended John Anderson's speech on February 6, I read Ellen Davis's article in the next day's Collegian with interest. While she covered the major points involved, I found that Ms. Davis misphrased two sentences and left some of Anderson's stated views incomplete and open to misinterpretation.

Representative Anderson said he feels "no compunction in trying to draw support from...Democrats and Independents"—not "no regrets." He accused Ambassador Bush of "running as a moderate in some areas of the country and as a conservative in others." He reproved—not "accused"—Bush for his opposition to the SALT II treaty, and for making the blithe assumption that the Soviet Union would be willing to renegotiate the treaty. Consider the length of time it took to negotiate SALT II.

The congressman said he opposes Senator Kennedy's gas rationing plan on the grounds that it "would be too expensive to administer, too slow to implement, and would lead to a black market" in driver's licenses.

Finally, what Anderson said was that no new nuclear power plants should be licensed unless a reliably safe method of managing and disposing of nuclear waste is found within a specified period of time (by the end of next year, for example) and the accompanying legislation is passed.

In political reporting, accuracy of phrasing is vital to those who were absent from the meeting and wish to form an opinion about the candidate's platform.

Martha A. Hayes
Geology/Geography Dept.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor in Chief. JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor. FREDERIC M. KELLOR, Business Manager. JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor. ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor. LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor. RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor. JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor. SUZETTE COURTMAN, CHE, Graphics Manager. JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor. JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Calendar

Five College Arts

Thursday, Feb. 21
"Kipot (Yarmulke) Crocheting Workshop," led by Jamie Rusek. Bring small crochet needles and yarn. 7:30 p.m. Student Union Room 302. Sponsored by Hillel Foundation as part of Jewish Arts Festival.
Film: Harold and Maude, sponsored by Fencing Club. $1 admission, shown at 7, 9 and 11 in Campus Center Auditorium.
"Birds of Prey"—An Exhibit of Prints by David Lewis, now thru Feb. 29 Campus Center Music Library, 8-11 p.m.
"From Moscow to Jerusalem," an art exhibition featuring the work of Soviet Jewish artists. Reception on Feb. 24, 6:30-8 p.m. at Hampden Gallery. Sponsored by Hillel as part of Jewish Arts Festival.

Friday, Feb. 22
Film: 39 Steps, sponsored by International Club, $1 admission, shown at 7, 9, and 11 p.m. in Campus Center Auditorium.
"Spirit Weaving," violin/cello duo with Gail Dixon, Akua Dixon and Betty Neal, sponsored by Duke Ellington Music Series, 8 p.m.—close, Cae Cod Lounge, Student Union.
"Eubie!," Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m.
"Happy Ending and Day of Absence," a play by Douglas Turner Ward will be performed at Amherst College's Kirby Theater Feb. 22 & 23 at 8 p.m.

Saturday, Feb. 23
Shiela Bushman, soprano and Stanley Charkey, lute, in concert at Benzanson Recital Hall, 8 p.m.
UMass Art Club "Art Bus" to New York City leaves Campus Center Circle at 7 a.m. and returns at 9:30 p.m. Price $15 annual membership. Sign up in room 439 of Fine Arts Center. Refreshments served.

Sunday, Feb. 24
Brunch: "Sephardic Folklore" with Maria Esformes of UMass Spanish/Portugese Dept. collector of Jewish folklore from Spain, Greece etc. 11 a.m. in Commonwealth Room of Student Union. Food fee. Sponsored by Hillel, Jewish Arts Festival.
"The Ravine," a drama based upon 16 poems of Nobel Prize winner Sach's personal experiences in the Holocaust, will be performed at 8 p.m. in Hampden Theater. Sponsored by Hillel and UMass Arts Council as part of the Jewish Arts Festival.

Monday, Feb. 25
UMass Vido Center Video Exhibition, Feb. 25 thru Mar. 1 in Campus Center Rooms 162-165 daily from 1-4 and 7-11 p.m. Sponsored by UMass Arts Council.

Tuesday, Feb. 26
Film: Fear Strikes Out, starring Anthony Perkins and Karl Malden. Sponsored by Northampton's Free Film Program, in Northampton High's Little Theater, 8 p.m.

Wednesday, Feb. 27
Film: Take the Money and Run, starring Woody Allen, Louise Lasser, Forbes Library, Northampton, 8 p.m.
Estela Olevsky, piano in concert at Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

Club and bar listings appear on page 10

Budweiser
12 oz. cans 7.49/cs
unlimited quantities
Monday thru Saturday
all week

Dawson's 12 oz NR's $5.49
Cartier Blanc de Blancs 750 ml ..... 2.25 bottle
23.99 case
Giacobazzi Lambrusco 750 ml $2.75

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

Committee for the Collegiate Education .ack Students

TUTORS NEEDED:
ACCOUNTING ECONOMICS PHYSICS
MATH STATISTICS SPANISH
COMMUNICATION STUDIES CHEMISTRY
POLITICAL SCI BUSINESS LAW PHILOSOPHY
MARKETING BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary.
APPLICATIONS: are available in New Africa House, room 217.

THE BOLTWOOD PROJECT
is still recruiting volunteers for their Spring Programs. Gain valuable field experience. Credit is available.
Information meeting, Thurs. Feb. 21 1980
7-9 p.m. Campus Center rm. 802

You'll be amazed at all the opportunities and advantages the Army offers men and women with BSN degrees:

- Excellent starting salaries and benefits, including a liberal vacation policy.
- Real opportunity for advancement and professional growth—every Army Nurse is a commissioned officer.
- No basic training for nurses; just a basic orientation course to familiarize you with the Army Medical Department.
- The chance to travel; time to do the things you enjoy.
- Opportunity to qualify for specialized roles, teaching or additional education.

See if you qualify.
Call collect to 301-677-4891
The Army Nurse Corps.

For more information, write:
The Army Nurse Corps.
Northeast Region, U.S. Army Recruiting
Fort George G. Meade, MD 20755
Name ____
Address ____ Apt. ____
City, State, ZIP ____
Phone ____ Age ____
CASS/NERRC

HELLO TO GOOD BUYS
More Sound & Music February Specials (While Supplies Last!)

ONKYO TX-2500II Receiver
JVC L-A11 Turntable
Shure M95HE Cartridge
Clarity Sonic Prelude Speakers
$550.00

PIONEER KP-5005 In Dash AM/FM. $129.00
PIONEER KP-8500 In Dash Pushbutton AM/FM w/Dolby 175.00
JENSEN C-9994 4x10 Coax 39/PR

TEAC CX-211

Dolby cassette deck including "set-up" $159.00

ONKYO TX-650II (100 w/ch) $385.00
PHILLIPS 7831 (20 w/ch) $135.00
HARMON KARDON CITATION 16a Power Amplifier (150 w/ch) $409.00

FIDELITONE de-magnetizer $6.00
DISCWASHER 16oz. D 3 Refill 10.00

Sorry, no layaways on sale items.

SOUND & MUSIC
90-92 King Street (Rte. 5) Northampton
"Good Advice — Honest Price"
VISA
Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547

Beautiful and Comfortable, 100% cotton madras shirts -

THE PAVILION
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, Mass.
Mon.-Sat. 10-9

Bring in this advertisement and get "2" shirts for $15.00
Regularly $11.99

Today is Ken Grand Pre's Birthday!!

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

18-watt AM-FM 8 track Recorder Stereo system with two speakers $125 call 6-9552

Craig AM/FM Stereo Tape Player BSR 260 AX Turntable and Regency speakers call Doug after 6 pm 6-9569

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

1970 Dodge Dart needs repair 150 or BO 546-8089

Tha car that takes you where you want to go Plymouth Fury II runs exelnt just $375 call early or late 549-4063

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

1970 VW Squareback 22+ mpg, runs great, good tires, battery, has rust $475.00 253-5178

Auto for sale 1974 Firebird good condition call 5-2591 ask for Ron

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

For the best in Party Entertainment anytime call Dave at GATS Sound-253-7177, DJ's for over a fiftieth of a century

FOR RENT

Hotel Warren So. Deerfield rooms daily, weekly, monthly rentals call 665-7093

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

FOR SALE

Weimaraner male pups AKC silver thoroughbreds for show, field or distinctive companionship. 1-413-339-6688.

Woman's 10 speed Bicycle almost never used, $100. or BO 323-4077 after 6 pm

For Sale Turntable Phillips 212 semi-automatic $85 or BO Pair of AR2 Speakers $150. 323-4077 after 6

Olin Skis used 2 seasons, 160 cm, Solomon bindings, Nordica boots & poles good deal, $130 Steve 549-6769

Mens ten-speed bike Mercier by Peugeot excellent condition, 200.00 or BO call 323-4077 after 6:00 pm

Ski parka Women's 9-10, brand new, orange & yellow, zip-off sleeves for vest, originally $90. $45 or best offer 546-8244

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Skates—Bauer Black Panther bought 3 wks ago size 11½ $50.00 call Martin at 256-0512

Ski Boots wmns 8½ Nordica used 2X, asking $40 549-4049

Get ready for Spring! Assorted fashionable sunglasses for men and women on sale at 30-50% off! Come ? check it out at 203 Dwight N/E or call Dan 546-5518 or Barry 546-5521

4 new 4 in tires $100 also brand new 4 bl carb for 330Cl Olds $50 Paul 546-5549

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Martial Arts Belt about Jan 30, 1980 call Tim 546-4203 and identify by color

Man's gold ring found in the vicinity of Lincoln Apartments call 549-0516

Set of keys in Quad Thursday Feb 14 call Charlie 546-9416

One black leather right mitten next to Berkshire House Tues Feb 19 call Kathy 545-3500

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Need a part-time job? Students needed to hand out flyers on campus week of Feb 24-29 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. $3.00 per hour. Call immediately collect (203) 877-5593 after 3 p.m.

Specialty Counselors July/August. On campus intervies arranged. For students and faculty who love children. All team sports, tennis, gymnastics, swimming (W.S.I.), small craft, Water skiing. fine arts, guitar, yoga, camping and nature. Camp Wayne 12 Allevard St, Lido Beach, N.Y. 11561 (include phome number).

Work-study office positions available in Soithwest area. Contact Jean Steiner, Southwest Business Office, 5-1552 We are an Equal Opportunity Employer

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Need Help with Spanish? Call Mary 256-6719

Central Area Craftshop is now open Mon-Thurs 7-10 PM Sat 12-4 Free Instruction

Guitar Lessons masters in Music

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Pair brown plastic glasses please call John 6-6505

Lost a lg. flat silver earring in the shape of a leaf. Please return to CC info desk or call 256-6344

Lost—gold wire rimmed glasses between Louis and S.W. Mark 546-9196

Wallet (blue) lost on N'hampton bus, return to Chris 253-2086

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Are you interested in service and fun? Come find out about GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA the National Service Sorority. Open Rush 2/19, 21 at 6 pm and 2/25 at 7 pm in SU 304

Buying Silver—Pre 64 coins and Sterling paying current market prices 546-6291 ask for Dave

Good at Stats? Take a course, salary commensurable 549-5934 Paul

The Boltwood-Belchertown Project is recruiting volunteers to work at Belchertown State School. Information meeting Thurs. Feb. 21 from 7-9 pm in C.C. room 802

Happy Birthday Monsieur Grand Pre
You thought we'd forgot
But we haven't you see
Have a good one

Lady Madonna—What can we do for ya???

$15.00 limited ed. Parker jean split crotch pants for-no time to drop 'em quick meeting with 'special someone'. Gift Idea: Lent, Easter, Truman Capotes B'day. Call now 546-6293 ask for Mr. A

Dear Sylvia Don't you know that Barry Manilow only likes natural blondes?

Happy Birthday Ken! Hope you are wearing your Valentine underwear! Seeing is believing! We're all waiting.

To L.C. from C.I.—Please identify yourself! I'm very curious

80 btr Deathspins Arabianknights double toe loop and a spinning camel illegal leg lifts and tons of fried spaghetti hot rum & cider dead batteries shoveling snow and wonderful times never forgotten Thanks for everything love Little Lori

Scott and Russell friendship is better than flowers thanks for everything Love Lori

A limited number of Student Discount Books are left. They will be sold on the Campus Center Concourse Thursday and Friday only!

Female cat needs a home! She is housebroken & very playful. Please contact Ki Hong at 546-4980 for more information

Hey Ken, you Knucklehead! Are you wearing your Birthday costume today? You can use my darkroom for free today. And remember Ken—sell ads!

Laura Jean O'N. (alias: Mr. Jawsl: Rumor has it you have "no idea" just how good you really are!!!

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Tuscon Az for spring break, share gas, expenses call 253-3090

Syracuse on 2/22 and return on 2/24 call 546-5067

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny rm in house 5 min. to campus & town. Fireplace, TV Kit., sundecks 120/mo 549-4018 346 N. Pleasant

Female roomate 3 bedroom house Belchertown Rd. bus route $92 month fireplace 4 acres Laurie 546-7424

Male roomate wanted Puffton Village $75/mo includes heat 549-6146

Roomate wanted for Brandywine Apt 103 per month utl incl call 549-5847 after 7:30 PM

Roomate wanted central N'ton 586-4487

Roomate wanted immediately for Brittany Manor Apt. Own room. $98.50/month. Call 253-5268

Female to share one-bedroom Puffton Apt call Kathy 549-3677

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Tune ups all models $15 labor 586-3695 50472

TO SUBLET

Want to sublet your 3 bedroom apt for the summer? We must be able to take over Sept. lease too! Call 6-6371 after 6 pm

1 bedroom efficiency bath and kitchen $175.00/month available now or March 1 Amherst call James 253-5707 after 6

Room Swiss Vill 110 a month everything bus route, open immead 253-2653

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Female nonsmoker for 2 bdrm apt Sunderland 110+ ut call 665-7923 btwn 4-7 PM ask for Lynn or 665-7564 ask for Susan

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NEW EXTENDED HOURS
MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.
FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.
SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

IMPORTANT DVP MEETING TONIGHT. ALL MEMBERS AND INTERESTED STUDENTS INVITED. MAIN TOPICS ELECTIONS—ANDREW YOUNG RM 911 CAMPUS CENTER 7 PM

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Pant
5 Excuse
10 Cuspid
14 Can. prov.
15 Imp
16 Hero
17 Kind of tone
19 Sport
20 Peaceful
21 Dubliners
23 Average
25 U.K. native
26 Abuse
30 Warns
34 Get up
35 U.S. cartoonist
37 Canadian rebel
38 Mom and —
39 Medicine applicator
42 Music syllable
43 Dill seed
45 Mountain: Prefix
46 Corundum
48 Distress
50 Bathes
52 River duck
54 Marsupial
55 Road pits
59 Type style
63 As to: 2 words
64 Aperture
66 Cicatrix
67 Dais
68 U.K. school
69 — and haws
70 Engine
71 Hollow

DOWN
1 Spaces
2 Out of the wind
3 Headliner
4 Family members
5 Stick
6 Meadow
7 Kaffir warriors
8 Dutch colonists
9 Point out
10 Combatant
11 — and Eve
12 Alaska city
13 Valley
18 Slept noisily
22 Sun
24 Mansion
26 Title
27 Asians
28 Factions
29 Bandages
31 Ceremonies
32 — Haute
33 Kills
36 Gush
40 Monarchism
41 Supplies again
44 Ties up
47 Changed
49 Old auto
51 More just
53 Music direction
55 Interjection
56 Formerly
57 Vehicle
58 Office copy
60 Mineral suffix
61 Picture
62 Penny
65 Id

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

P	A	T	E	L		S	M	O	G		S	L	A	M
A	L	O	F	T		H	A	R	I		P	I	C	A
S	T	O	N	E		O	R	A	T	E	S	T	S
O	A	K		A	R	T	S		H	E	L	O	T
		C	A	K	E	S		S	L	I	D	E	R	S
P	R	O	V	E	D		S	T	A	R	E
R	I	V	E	R		S	P	I	N	D	R	I	F	T
O	D	E		C	H	I	N	A		N	E	E
P	E	R	I	S	H	I	N	G		B	A	D	E	N
			S	H	I	N	E		P	U	R	I	S	T
R	E	T	O	R	T	S		T	U	N	I	C
E	X	I	L	E		P	I	N	K		A	M	A
S	T	R	A	D	D	L	E	D		E	S	T	E	R
T	R	O	T		E	A	S	E		R	O	O	S	T
S	A	L	E		B	R	O	S		S	P	R	A	Y

DC menu

Lunch
Hamburg/Roll
Quiche Lorraine

Basics Lunch
Oatburgers
Quiche Lorraine

Dinner
Simmered Corned Beef/Steamed Cabbage, Horseradish
Chicken Fillet/Supreme Sauce, Cranberry Sauce

Basics Dinner
Manicotti/Sauce
Chicken Fillet/Supreme Sauce, Cranberry Sauce

Earthfoods

Wok Fried Veggies
Rice/Bulghar
Borscht
Green Salad
Apple Cake with Brazil Nuts

Join the Students for Carter!

Get involved in the '80 campaign! All interested persons are invited to an organizational party, sponsored by the Carter/Mondale Committee, on Thursday, Feb. 21 at 7:00 P.M. in Campus Center Room 1001-1002. Beer and refreshments will be served.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
Free off-campus delivery
Costa Do Sol.....$2.25 qt.
Portuguese Rose
Almaden
California Burgandy
750 ml. was $3.49 now $2.49
Giumarra
California Wine
1.5 l Mt Vin Rose,
Mt Chablis, Mt Burgandy was $4.49 now $3.99
Vodka 80° special$4.95 qt
CHECK THESE PRICES!
Growers Wines
Red, White, Rose
.99 750 ml.
2.99 ½ gal.
4.99 gal.
Schlitz
12 oz. NR's.....$7.49
Tuborg
12 oz. NR's.....$6.99 case
1.99 per six

Calendar

Club Listings

Blue Wall, Campus Center, UMass—Feb. 21 "New Alan Este Band," Feb. 22 "Loose Caboose," Feb. 23 "The Elevators," Feb. 26 "SonaSeals," Happy Hour 3-6 Mon.-Fri. Tues. night "Pogo a Go-Go": new wave and reggae music with Pete.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all happy hours and chicken and wings daily 4-6.

Creedo's Coffeehouse, 111 Pleasant St., Northampton.

Flat Street Club, Flat St., Brattleboro, Vt.—Nightclub.

Hot-L Warren, South Deerfield—Drinks served daily.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight—pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview, Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst—Fri. night Happy Hour, free buffet.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 2-7 p.m. Live entertainment by Katie Jay Sat. night.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco and drinks.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Wed. is "Pub Mug Night" and Thurs. is "Two for One Night" with live entertainment by Two Way Street on Fri. and Sat. Disco with Casey Sun. and Jim Plunkett Wed. $1 cover.

Quonset Disco, 239 Russell St., Hadley—Wed. free dance lessons. Thurs-Sat. disco. $1 cover.

Rahar's, 70 Old South St., Northampton—open at 6 p.m. Happy Hours Mon.-Fri 4-8 p.m. Sat., Sun. and Mon. free pool and 35 cent Miller draft, half-price drinks.

Rusty Nail, Hadley Rd., Sunderland—Feb. 21 "Loose Caboose," Feb. 22 "David Johansen" & "The Elevators," Feb. 23 "James Montgomery" & "Martian Highway," Feb. 24 "Root Boy Slim & The Sex Change Band," with "The Rootettes," Feb. 26 "Reprise"—1960's music, Feb. 27, "The Elevators."

Rusty Scupper, 539 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m.

Second Fret Coffeehouse, 21 Pleasant St., Northampton.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton.

The Five-College Arts listings appear on page 6

SELL IT
SELL IT
in the
Collegian
Classifieds

EUROPE BY CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
45 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
☐ RENTAL ☐ LEASE ☐ PURCHASE
☐ EURAIL PASS & YOUTH PASS

UPC PRODUCTIONS
presents
THE KINKS

IN CONCERT
Thursday, March 6, 8 pm
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on Sale Mon. Feb. 25!
AT: FAC Box Office, TIX & Union Records (UMass)
Platterpus (Northampton) Students - $8.50, 8.00, 7.50
Non Students - 9.50, 9.00, 8.50
For Info Call 545-2892
No Bottles, Cans or Alcohol

CHINATOWN
CCA $1
SATURDAY FEB 23
showings: 6. 8:30, 11

Consumer Complaint?
call Consumer ACTION CENTER at 5-0199 or 5-0781
or stop by at our office
423 SUB
we are open
M-F 9-5
You can get Results!

JOB HUNTING?
Executives/ Students/ Housewives
It's The Interview That Counts
Personnel executives have assembled valuable data on interviewing techniques. Learn how to conduct yourself during an interview. For info on prepara ion, do's and don't's, the right questions and answers, send $2 to
Career Guidance Services
210 Boylston St., Suite 204
Chestnut Hill, MA 02167
copyright pending

Back by Popular Demand
We'll have a few more Student Discount Coupon Books on sale Thursday & Friday only!
Campus Center Concourse
Save $150.00

There's no place like home, and we make it easy to get there.
TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer convenient express service to Boston, New York, and many other points.
TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

"A JOY!" —Judith Crist, New York Magazine

Paramount Pictures Presents
HAROLD and MAUDE
starring
RUTH GORDON
BUD CORT
Co-starring
Vivian Pickles, Cyril Cusack, Charles Tyner, Ellen Geer
Produced by Colin Higgins and Charles B. Mulvehill
Executive Producer Mildred Lewis.
Written by Colin Higgins
Directed by Hal Ashby
With Songs by Cat Stevens
Color by Technicolor
GP PG Parental Guidance Suggested
A Paramount Picture
Thurs. Feb. 21
C.C. Auditorium
7, 9, 11 P.M.
$1.00

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
Thursday, Feb. 21
The Bobby Watson Band
rhythm, blues, and funk
Free Admission
Friday, Feb. 22
Loose Caboose
boogie to the reggae beat
$1 cover charge
Saturday, Feb. 23
The Elevators
Arista Recording Artists
New Wave
$2 cover charge
Tuesday, Feb. 26
Son Seals Blues Band
blues with a commanding style of its own
$3 cover charge

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC Productions info: call 545-2892

Senegal stuns FAC audience

By SARAH HAMMANN
Collegian Staff

Postponed one night due to tempermental New England weather, the National Dance Company of Senegal, an African dance ensemble, stunned a Fine Arts Center audience last Monday Evening.

Opening with "Return of the Prodigal Son," the Sengalese reenacted the Biblical story. Both men and women were costumed in floor-length, sun-patterned dresses. Moving arhythmically with arm and leg motions unnatural to classical ballet, the dancers demonstrated the African lineage of American dance.

The folkloric troupe returned in the "Pilgramage" to use steps like those of the Scottish and Irish jigs that were later imported to this country. The village people and a medicine man character sang a dialectical conversation in resonant nasal tones with the echoing congo drums.

Fast-footed and heavy pounding, the Sengalese demonstrated faultless balance, particularly when two dancers, covered from head to toe in shredded crepe paper outfits, danced across the stage on six-foot high stilts.

Well trained in dance, acrobatics, and contortionist feats, the troupe chose to stress folk heritage and presented a primarily theatrical program. The musicians, playing wooden flutes with a conga triplet in the background, softly expressed the spiritual message of the Sengalese.

The Sengalese tecnique was certainly more a celebration of dance as life than as art. Particularly timely, the company's visit served to highlight Black History month.

Got a complaint?
Don't hold it in—write a letter to the editor
today!

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
Presents—
Thursday
Beat the Clock
6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

TONIGHT! Come to an Introductory Meeting to begin your Summer or Fall Internship
7 PM Room 163 Campus Center
Students from all disciplines welcome or Call the Office of Internships
16 Curry Hicks 545-0727
for information on the daily introductory meetings.

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG
STAR TREK 2:00-(5:45 @ $1.50)-8:15 G
THE FOG 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R
KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL Route 9 HADLEY, MASS.
THE MOST FUN YOU'LL EVER HAVE Midnight Madness 2:00-(6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 PG
STEVE MARTIN The JERK 2:15-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 R
Richard Gere American Gigolo (6:00 @ $1.50)-8:15 R
DOM DeLUISE Fatso 2:00-(6:15 @ $1.50)-8:30 PG

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks
8-9 p.m. 50c
9-10 p.m. 75c
10 p.m.-closing $1.00
Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

The Olympics at Time Out

TWO TV's
A REAL FUN PLACE
Free popcorn at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
MASS. PIKE Exit 4 To INT. 91-Exit 15
STARTS FRIDAY
Limited One Week Engagement the ultimate trip
STANLEY KUBRICK'S
2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY
MGM presents the STANLEY KUBRICK PRODUCTION of 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY STARRING KEIR DULLEA · GARY LOCKWOOD · SCREENPLAY STANLEY KUBRICK AND ARTHUR C. CLARKE · PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY STANLEY KUBRICK SUPER PANAVISION and METROCOLOR
G
1:00-6:45-9:15
Student Discounts with ID
Movie-Phone 538-7510

The rusty nail Inn
Presents

Fri Feb. 22
DAVID JOHANSON
with special guests The Elevators Tickets $4.00 in advance and at the door

Sat. Feb. 23
JAMES MONTGOMERY
with special guests Martian Highway Tickets $3.00 in advance and at the door
Sun. Feb 24
ROOT BOY SLIM
and The Sex Change Band with the Rootetts Tickets $3.50 in advance and at the door

Thurs. March 9
STEVE FORBERT
Tickets $5.00 in advance and at the door
Rt. 47
Sunderland 665-4937

Hanni Wenzel of Liechenstein on her way to clocking the fasting time in the first run of the women's giant slalom yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

Hoopmen fall to Lions; Owls defeat women

STATE COLLEGE, Penn - The men's basketball team dropped its 22 game of the season last night to Pennsylvania State University, 50-36, as Nittany Lion Mike Edelman hit five bombs in the second half to wipe out a 24-23 UMass lead at halftime.

With the score tied at 28-28 with just under 14 minutes left in the game, UMass went into a scoring dirth for over seven minutes, allowing the Lions to go up 42-28 with six minutes remaining. UMass could only manage 12 points in the second stanza while shooting a miserable 17.4 percent (four for 23) from the field. Curtis Phauls put in four field goals and Tom Witkos had four free throws, accounting for UMass' second-half scoring.

Penn State held a 17-12 margin in the first half before Jay Stewart and Witkos hit from the field and Phauls put in two free throws to put the Minutemen up 18-17. Both teams then hit two jumpers to make the score 22-21, UMass, with 3:47 left in the half. UMass then went into a stall offense until Bill Morrison was fouled and hit both ends of a one-on-one with 17 seconds left. Penn State hit with one second left to give the halftime count, 24-23.

Penn State is the third best defensive team in the nation.

Meanwhile, Cathy Inglese scored a school record 40 points to lead Southern Connecticut State College to a 84-76 win over the Minutewomen in New Britain, CT. in the hoopwomen's regular season finale.

UMass trailed the entire game. The Owls broke out to a 6-0 lead in the opening minutes and the closest the Minutewomen would get after that was 28-23 with 9:10 left in the first half. At halftime, Southern led 48-37.

The Owls increased their lead to 55-37 by scoring seven straight points at the start of the second half. With five minutes remaining in the game, UMass trailed 76-58, but the Minutewomen scored 11 straight points to pull to within seven. But Southern held on.

Ginger Legare led the 13-8 Minutewomen with 21 points, while Sue Peters had 20 and Val DePaolo had 14.

The hoopwomen play Northeastern University Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Cage for the Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Championship.

A UMass gymnasts shown on the balance beam against Penn State earlier this season at the Curry Hicks Cage. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Collegian Sports

Swimmers dunk Devils

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

With the help of co-captain John Sleeman's record breaking performance in the 1000-meter freestyle event, the UMass men's swim team defeated the Central Connecticut College mermen, 59-54 Tuesday night in New Britain, CT.

In a 10:27.29 time, Sleeman broke Ben Crooker's old mark (set in 1976) by five seconds.

The Minutemen broke out to a 7-0 lead with a victory in the 400 medley relay, as the foursome of John Mulvaney, Dave Stevens, Ted Candiloro, and Tom Dundon raced to a 3:53.73 finish, a shade in front of the Connecticut team.

Bob Deconinck broke out of a long slump with a second place mark in the 200-yard freestyle and a third place finish in the 100 freestyle.

Sleeman extended his meet streak to two with a victory in the 500-yard freestyle, scoring a time of 5:09.19, to lift the UMass lead at that point to 53-35. Freshman John Kruse was right behind Sleeman, at 5:22.86

Dan Anthony came off a weak performance in Maine where he placed only second and third, to take first place in the three-meter diving event (237.8), and second place in the one-meter competition (220.65)

John Mulvaney prepared himself for the New England Championship with a strong first place finish in the 200-yard basckstroke (2:11.64)

With the victory the Minutemen are now 3-6, and will take on Amherst College in the final dual meet of the season tomorrow at 7:00 p.m. at Boyden Pool.

Spikers visit Springfield

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The men's volleyball teams will pay a visit to the Judd East Gymnasia on the Springfield College campus for a match against the Chiefs tonight.

Coming off a split at New Hampshire last weekend, in which UMass snuck past Rhode Island and fell to UNH, the varsity have been practicing with many members out with the flu.

"Out of about thirty guys on the team, only 17 have shown up for practices," said coach Al Morel.

Despite the rash of illnesses, Morel said that preparations for the Springfield match are going well.

"We've been practicing service reception," said Morel, "as well as offensive and defensive setting."

"I know the team will do well against Springfield, because we've been stressing basics, while Springfield is already going through more elaborate plays. This shows a lack of concentration on their part, and it's dangerous to lose cocentration in a game like this."

Springfield College is the defending New England Open champion; the chiefs defeated UMass in their only encounter last year, 16-14, 15-5, 15-3.

This match marks the first of four contests between the two teams, as both squads will be meeting each other at several tournaments to be held later this season.

"Of all the matches against Springfield this year, this is the most important," said Morel, "this match will determine the pace for the rest of the season, to see which team is going to intimidate the other."

Co-captian Pat Ryan is expected to return to the starting lineup after missing the trip to Durham last weekend, due to the flu.

Following the match against Springfield, UMass will host Eastern powerhouse Penn State Saturday morning at NOPE gym.

The junior varsity will face Springfield College tonight, and then travel to Amherst College Saturday for a quadri-match against the Lord Jeffs, Williams College, and Middlebury.

Chris Schmitt

Bored with Olympiad

It might not be a popular view held among sports fans, but I think this whole Olympic thing's a big bore. A real ho-hummer.

From the events at Whiteface Mountain four miles outside of town, to the village of Lake Placid itself, the whole event — known to precocious sports fans as the "Olympic experience" — is nothing but a tedious amalgamation of events equally as boring telecast at other times throughout the year.

ABC Sports is devoting huge blocks of time and many hours to its Olympic programming, but all this does is heighten the boredom. We sit back and are forced to endure watching 10 figure-skating couples all repeat the same set of compulsory figures. After the sixth time around, the music accompanying the mandatory waltz sounds a lot like Top-40 Donna Summer on the radio: You feel like it's the 30th time you've heard it that day.

In a sense, I think ABC is a victim of itself. Throughout the year, the network telecasts so many sporting events from so many places throughout the world that the novelty of the lesser-known events — such as bobsled, ski-jumping, and the like — has worn off and lost its luster by the time the "Olympiad" rolls around. "What?" you say, "bobsledding and ski-jumping are not well known? Sure they are." My point exactly.

And even the international shine of the Games is no big deal either. Most of the medal winners in the tough events are Eastern Europeans who have won the event the last three Olympics in a row because of massive training support from the government. My point is, the names are the same and the competition unfair.

Even with all these things aside, the Games are still a bore. How many times can we take a replay of Joe Blow falling in the downhill, or hear the sob story of how Franz Klammer failed to qualify for the event this year. Joe had his problems, and Franz is a good athlete, but not the 43rd time we hear it. Add to the replays the smiling visage of Jim McKay, and it's almost too much to take.

Now don't get me wrong. I'm not a sports hater, or someone who disdains athletics. On the contrary, I like sports. I was in Little League and Babe Ruth baseball, and I was third string for the Mariner basketball team at Narragansett High School back home in Rhode Island. It's just that the Olympics are a textbook example of overkill. But, I guess the name of the game is to make money.

Speaking of which, let me turn my cynicism to the commercials being televised during the Games. I think most of them are an insult to not only my intelligence and yours as well. I really resent sitting back in my easy chair (it's not really mine, it's my roommate's) and seeing commercials tell me that if I drink Pepsi-Cola I will be filled with love and joy, and also possess some superior athletic talent. Most of the commercials are useless sentimental drivel, having nothing to do at all with the product. But agian, I suppose that's what Madison Avenue says works.

I have a solution to both problems, though: Have the Games telecast on public TV, which doesn't have commercials, and which won't be able to air much of the action due to budget difficulties anyhow.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 89 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Friday, February 22, 1980

Melting snow floods Gorman; University slow to react

By MARC FAGELSON
and BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

Three rooms were evacuated, and one bathroom closed yesterday in Gorman Dormitory in Central Residential Area after melting snow flooded three stories of the four-story building.

Flooding began at 8 p.m. Saturday in the fourth floor's south bathroom, said Assistant Cluster Coordinator Fred Winer. The leaking was "mediocre," he said, "but it kept getting worse until the floor's north bathroom was closed by the Environmental Health and Safety Department of the University.

Resident rooms 208, 308, and 408 were evacuated yesterday afternoon, as Physical Plant workers began pumping the water out of the rooms. Workers also installed tarps on one of the ceilings and removed sections of the bathroom roof.

The leaking roof is nothing new to Gorman, said resident Rich Murray. "Last year, it was worse," he said.

According to Winer, the University has been slow in acting on the drainage problem. "I called the Physical Plant on Saturday, and they said they would send someone here on Tuesday," he said.

Winer said the date was then pushed back to Wednesday, then Thursday, and finally to next Wednesday by the company contracted by the Physical Plant to fix the leaky roof. Winer said he asked the UMass Legal Services Organization to intervene and force the contracted company to complete the work today. The company contracted to do the work is Inter-City Roofing Co. of Worcester.

"I talked to everyone who is anyone, including John Finlay of the Berkshire Housing Administration," he said, adding "nothing seems to be getting done."

Winer said Brett Dormitory in Central is a good example of University-contracted work done correctly. "The job they did on our roof was shit," he said.

20-year old economics major Hether MacRae, one of the students whose rooms were evacuated said, "I'm disgusted the University can't get people to do a job right," adding she was "totally horrified" by the flooding of her fourth-floor room. Murray said, "This has been going on as long as I've lived here (four semesters). They say they'll get things done, but they never do."

Carl Dittrich, 20, said, "It's the fault of the company who did the work, but look who hired them."

Dittrich said water began leaking into his third-floor room yesterday afternoon. His rug was soaked, his books and notes ruined, and water was leaking from his light switch, he said.

Dave Peterson, 19, said the water began seeping into his second-floor room at about 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Peterson and his roommate Patrick Hennessy also 19 were evacuated from the room with little loss to personal items because "We were just waiting for it to happen," Hennessey said.

The evacuated students are now living in their floor's study areas. "I hope something is done soon," said Winer, "because we can't keep them in there forever."

The top floor of Gorman dormitory in Central Residence Area has been plagued by leaks due to delays in repairing faulty roofing. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas)

Freshman theater major Kristin Devlin of Brown Dormitory chuckles at the sign on the door to the entrance of the University Library. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

Task force begins fight against campus racism

by SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

An Anti-Racism task force formed at the beginning of this semester is attempting to combat racism on campus, according to Task Force Supervisor Marea Wexell.

The force is currently working on a newsletter to be published in three weeks by the Horace Mann Bond Center for Racial Studies, located on the 22nd floor of the University library. Four thousand copies of the newsletter will be distributed throughout New England.

The force is also putting together a proposal which will be submitted to the administration concerning a G-core which would require all students to take two semesters of courses in racism or sexism.

Wednesday night, the force presented a proposal to the Collegian Board of Editors asking them to take a stand to inform the UMass community on racism by devoting a weekly column to the subject. The Board said they would consider the proposal.

Other projects of the force include a proposal to have certain campus buildings renamed and a minor program in Racial

TURN TO PAGE 11

Faculty Senate group speaks out for women

By BARBARA LEBLANC
Special to the Collegian

Campus women's concerns can only be met through the establishment of a unified voice, and the reactivated Faculty Senate Committee on the Status of Women can provide that voice, Chairperson Alice Eagly says. To meet that end, women's issues and concerns are being solicited through a letter circulated to staff and faculty.

With diminished University resources, women's issues can get lost without an effective voice," Eagly said. "This is not an optimistic period, but it's a crucial time. If we don't speak out, we will not receive much attention."

The committee, instituted in 1973, concerns itself with issues such as the adequacy of University Affirmative Action proceedures, sexual harassment, the endorsement of the Women's Studies Major, and University policy.

"Ours is a policy-proposing role; the committee is a line of communication to the Faculty Senate," Eagly said. "In some cases, proposals that are approved only go up as proposals to the administration. We are only part of the chain that keeps things moving, but we are one official voice women have."

Eagly cites the last decade as a period of optimism and growth where change took place, though the group was less active during the past three years. A salary review reduced the wage discrepancy between male and female faculty members, there was a slight increase in the percentage of women faculty members, and the committee provided the groundwork which led to the provisional establishment of the WOMEN'S Studies Program. During the 1978 women's occupation of the Collegian, the committee served a mediating role, worked to prevent the eruption of violence, and to insure the rights of the occupying students.

"There has been progress in the last decade, but there's room for so much more," Eagly, a member of the Psychology Faculty, claims. "Some departments are without any women faculty and I am disappointed that the percentage of women faculty hasn't changed more in the last five years."

The group anticipates a significant response from University staff personnel, because they feel rampant job discrimination is built into the Massachusetts Job Classification System, Eagly said. But, the committee is also seeking student opinions. While there are two graduate students in the eighteen-member group, as well as four men, an invitation to the Undergraduate Student Senate for nominations to the committee yielded no response, and undergraduates remain unrepresented.

The difficulty in obtaining part-time graduate student status (of special interest to women raising a family), equal encouragement and sponsorship of all graduate students, and support for undergraduate women to pursue nontraditional courses of study are issues currently being addressed by the committee.

"We are not trying to take over these issues from other groups. We want to work cooperatively with groups who are concerned," Eagly said.

With campus support, the committee is investigating the establishment of formal grievance proceedures for sexual harassment complaints.

The committee cannot answer specific grievances, but Eagly said she feels that it can be an influential body if all groups agree on the issues and are audible.

"There are lots of little and big issues lying around. They will be with us for a long time, but there will be change," she said.

DIGEST

The Associated Press

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin addresses an election meeting in Moscow yesterday, his first public appearance since last October. During a 45-minute speech, Kosygin, who suffered a heart attack and stroke last fall, said the "mian goal" of the Soviet Union was to raise national living standards. See story p. 9. (AP Laserphoto)

CALIFORNIA — Floodwaters gushed over the tops of overloaded dams and broke through levees Thursday across Southern California, sending thousands of people fleeing the desert resort region of Palm Springs and inundating a hotel and shopping district in San Diego.

New rain from the sixth in a series of Pacific storms over the past nine days, which have left at least 31 people dead and damage in the hundreds of millions of dollars, also threatened dams in Arizona, Idaho and Utah.

A seventh storm was heading for the coast Thursday night.

Water cascading off the desert mountains about 100 miles east of Los Angeles tore through four levees and swirled through chic resort communities that are home to 9,000 people.

WASHINGTON — Vice President Walter Mondale said Thursday the United States expects to announce a site for alternative Olympics in about two weeks, but the president of the U.S. Olympics Committee said he feels the adminstration's boycott decision is not irrevocable.

"Only the foolish and dead say anything irrevocable," USOC President Robert Kane said Thursday, appearing on NBC. "The Games don't take place until next July, the first part of August ... conditions may change, and we hope that something will happen to permit our athletes to take part."

Mondale, campaigning for himself and President Carter, said 23 nations now support the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Games and others were "leaning" against sending teams.

Kabul merchants close shops in protest of Soviet invasion

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Almost every merchant in Kabul shut down his shop Thursday in the most dramatic demonstration thus far of Afghan opposition to the Soviet military occupation in this capital city.

"We have won a great victory today," one shopkeeper told a group of Western reporters. "We have shown the Russians what the Afghan people think of them."

The protest, bringing the commercial life of this city of one million people to a halt, was staged in response to leaflets in which Afghanistan's anti-communist rebels urged the shopkeepers to show their "unanimous condemnation" of Moscow's 2-month-old military intervention.

Merchants said the shutdown was "indefinite" and would continue Saturday. Shops are normally closed on Friday, the Moslem sabbath.

In block after block of downtown Kabul, all but a handful of shopfronts were boarded up or closed by iron shutters, and thousands of civilians gathered in the streets to observe the success of the protest with obvious enjoyment.

Afghan police and army units were on alert throughout the city, and the Soviet-sponsored regime of President Babrak Karmal made some frantic efforts to force shops to stay open.

At several points, plainclothes police were seen trying to force shopkeepers to remove boards from their windows. The shopkeepers generally obeyed, but when the police had gone they replaced the shutters.

A large black limousine escorted by police toured the main shopping areas. Senior officials, including the governor of Kabul, were inside, observing the effectiveness of the commercial strike with looks of consternation.

The Soviet troops entered Afghanistan in December to try to help put down the Moslem tribesmen who have been in rebellion against the Marxist central government here since 1978. The Soviets first replaced the existing regime with another Marxist administration led by Karmal.

U.S. officials estimate that some 70,000 Soviet troops are in Afghanistan at any one time, with an additional 30,000 providing support from across the border in the Soviet Union.

Afghan resentment of the foreign troops heightened after Soviet commanders decided to replace Soviet Central Asian soldiers, who are related to the Afghans ethnically, linguistically and in their Islamic religion, with soldiers from European Russia and the Baltic states.

A family is rescued from their home in San Jacinto, Cal., by helicopter after a levee broke and the San Jacinto River flooded the town. Much of California and the Southwest has been beset with flooding this week. (AP Laserphoto)

Vance fails to gain support for Olympic boycott decision

LONDON [AP] — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said at the end of a European tour yesterday he failed to win unanimous support among America's major allies for a boycott of the Moscow Olympics in protest of Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Concluding a tour that began Tuesday night in Bonn and then took him to Rome and Paris, Vance could count only Britain as a firm public supporter of President Carter's decision to boycott the Summer Games in the Soviet capital.

The secretary encountered the stiffest opposition in Paris, where he had talks earlier in the day with French Foreign Minister Jean Francois-Poncet. France has arguing that a boycott would disrupt East-West detente, and Vance apparently failed to alter that position.

At a brief news conference on the steps of the Foreign Office after conferring with British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington,

Vance refused to be drawn into a discussion of the French stance. He would only say, "The French have not yet arrived at a final decision. I said I was seeking a coordinated response, not that everybody had to agree with the United States."

He described his European talks as "very useful" and said he found "general agreement on the nature of the (Soviet) threat and on the general objectives." But, he added, "There are differences of opinion on how to carry them out."

Vance told reporters in Paris, "There was a great degree of similarity on the analysis and origins" of the situation in Afghanistan, "but some differences on actions remain." He refused to say what the differences were.

Despite the French opposition to an Olympic boycott, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter told reporters the United

VANCE

States has only just begun the process of enlisting backers for the boycott. "This is an idea that has come to a number of countries and that number will grow," he said.

Visit
TACO LINDO
At Cafe Square
at
The Hampshire Mall
SPECIAL THIS WEEK
2 Tacos & Soft Drink $1.85

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
Union Video Center
featuring tapes by:
Frank Gillette
Skigako Kobuto
Nam June Paik
and many others

Mon. Feb. 25—Sat. March 1
on the Advent Video Beam
Hours: 1-4 pm and 7-11 pm
Rooms 162-9 Campus Center
Public Invited—No Charge

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

ACCOUNTING ECONOMICS PHYSICS
MATH STATISTICS SPANISH
COMMUNICATION STUDIES CHEMISTRY
POLITICAL SCI BUSINESS LAW PHILOSOPHY
MARKETING BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary
APPLICATIONS:are available .n New Africa House, room 217.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associate Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.
USPS 333-220

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NEW EXTENDED HOURS
MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.
FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.
SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

NUKES:
Safe Energy group campaigns in N.H.

By DEBBIE ASHBRAND
Special to the Collegian

UMass volunteers working for the Campaign for Safe Energy, a New England area coalition of public interest groups, will be canvassing much of New Hampshire this weekend in an attempt to make voters aware of the safe energy platform.

According to UMass CSE organizer Cliff McCarthy, "Our goals are to hold the presidential candidates accountable to public opinion on the nuclear issue and to establish their positions on the public record."

KENNEDY

Campaign workers said UMass volunteers have consistently been in the forefront of the effort to raise the safe energy issue in the New Hampshire primary. Campaign worker Howard Cooper said, "The CSE kicked off its organizational effort on Jan. 7 in seven New Hampshire cities. Most of our 30 full-time New Hampshire workers were UMass students."

CSE, which includes consumer and alternative energy groups was formed in December 1979 to give political focus to popular concern over the dangers of nuclear power.

"There is no role for nuclear power in my energy future."

—Kennedy

The New Hampshire primary, on Tuesday, Feb. 26, is the first Democratic primary in the country. The Puerto Rican primary last Sunday was the first GOP contest.

The CSE announced earlier this week that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy had endorsed the campaign's safe energy platform. Kennedy's endorsement makes him the second presidential candidate to endorse the full platform, following California Gov. Edmund G. Brown's endorsement on Jan. 31.

Yesterday The New Nork Times quoted from Sen. Kennedy's endorsement letter, "There is no role for nuclear power in my energy future."

Brown stated in his endorsement letter that, "I commend your (CSE) efforts to build a constituency for a non-nuclear future in the 1980 campaign."

Republican candidates John Anderson and Sen. Howard Baker have both acknowledged the group's impact also.

On the February 10 broadcast of ABC-TV's Issues and Answers Sen. Baker commented, "In many meetings I attend now there is a group there protesting nuclear power...(campaign for Safe Energy) is contributing to the quality of the dialogue on the nuclear debate. And they ought to be watched."

MassPIRG staffer John Pepi called this weekend "the critical stretch in the race to elect safe energy in the 1980 campaign."

BROWN

Pepi also said, "A massive three day canvass leading up to the Tuesday N.H. primary will be launched tomorrow morning. UMass students will be bused to Nashua, Manchester, and Keene to distribute the CSE platform and the positions of the various candidates to the N.H. voters."

The Musicians United for Safe Energy (MUSE) is sponsoring a benefit concert in Concord, N.H., tomorrow to raise money for the CSE. The Pousette Dart Band, John Hall, and a special appearance by Arlo Guthrie will provide the entertainment at the concert.

Anti-nuke activists to speak at conference

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Authors and activists, Barry Commoner and Anna Gyorgy, heading a list of speakers and events planned by the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN) this weekend at UMass.

The speakers are part of the New England Conference for a Nuclear Free Future, which is expected to draw students from 40 schools in New England and on the East Coast.

According to a newsletter published by SCANN, the purpose of the conference is twofold.

"One is to help educate students to various problems and aspects of nuclear power and alternative energy," it says. "In addition, various plans for organizing SCANN and other students into a collective force for the spring will be discussed."

Registration for the weekend begins today between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Tomorrow between 10 a.m. and noon, the schools will participate in workshops held on the first floor of the Campus Center. Glenn Silber, director of "The War At Home," will conduct a workshop entitled "Working with the Media" in C.C. 169.

Northeastern University Professor Bob Case will also conduct a workshop in C.C. 101. Case's book, Alternative Energy Plan for the Nation Council of Churches is read by 800 students in courses at UMass. He will discuss alternative energy.

Author Anna Gyorgy will hold a workshop tomorrow in C.C. 168-170 on "Women and Nuclear Power." Her book, No Nukes... is described by a SCANN spokesperson as "the best at what it tries to do. It touches all the bases."

There will be several other morning workshops, some of which will be repeated in the afternoon. Organizational workshops will also take place between 1 and 3:30 p.m.

Mike Morin relaxes in his infirmary room last night with his sister Linda. With Mike are Pat Collins, Bill Merrigan and Chuck Govostes. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney

Student suffers burns as bed catches fire

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

A UMass student suffered second-and third-degree burns on his back yesterday morning when his bedsheets caught fire as he was sleeping.

The student, Michael Morin, 22, was taken first to Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton and transported later to the campus infirmary. Infirmary officials would not disclose Morin's condition, but he was in good enough condition last night to see friends from his dormitory, Pierpont House in Southwest.

The fire started at about 5 a.m., and was caused when a lamp fell on the bed and its lit bulb burned the bedsheets and covers.

Morin fell asleep reading, his roommate, Chris Bellini, 18, said.

"He jumped up and yelled fire," Bellini said later yesterday. Bellini said they used "hands, feet, pillows...everything" to put out the flames on Morin's back, the sheets and covers and the room carpet.

The fire triggered the hallway smoke alarm, alerting other dormitory residents, campus police and the Amherst Fire Department. Bellini said he called for an ambulance as soon as the flames were smothered.

The room smoke alarm did not work because of a short circuit in some of the room's wiring, UMass Fire Marshall Keith Hoyle said. Hoyle said the initial investigation showed that the short circuit was caused by an overloading on the plug near the detector.

Hoyle said the fire did not shortcircuit the electricity. The reading lamp, usually attached to bedposts on the upper level of their bunkbed, was plugged into a separate circuit.

Last night, Bellini said his roommate appeared "a lot better" when he visited Morin yesterday afternoon. The burns were not as bad as people first thought and Morin should be discharged from the infirmary within four days, Bellini said.

Several friends were planning to visit Morin last night and bring him cards and other gifts, his roommate said.

Their room, 464 Pierpont, was not damaged.

Freshman business major Rick Adams works on the cover design of the "Led Zepplin 2" album on the 16th floor of John Adams Tower in Southwest Residential Area. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Black Affairs

Food for Thought

In recent pages of Black Affairs, two areas have been constantly overlooked by the community. One proposal was in the form of a survey, to determine the type of concerts the community wanted. The second area was the need for volunteers in Drum, Black Affairs, the Third World Caucus, Malcolm X Center and other groups.

On Wednesday, January 30th, the "Food For Thought" article was concentrated on the new Duke Ellington Music Series Committee. This was in the form of a Disco-Jazz survey.

The survey was in response to complaints by members of the community concerning concerts. The listing of individual singers and groups was based on their present rating. But the response from the community totaled fifteen. But recently, the committee has come out with a Solos and Duos series. The problems of concerts will be placed on four or five individuals to make the decision.

The problems related to the Duke Ellington Series, are also part of the same syndrome that faces the present groups. During the early part of February, there were a number of requests by the newspapers (Black Affairs and Nummo News), the Drum magazine, the Third World Caucus, and Third World organizations.

The main problems faced by organizers in these groups are the concerns for future leaders, the allocations to our groups, and the continuity of our community in the 80's. The lack of volunteers to check out our organizations denote the severity of this concern. Thus, another complication presented in the Spring is the budget call. Besides the individuals going before their various budget committees, there seems to be little community support, which dims the possibility that our community will be able to handle our present weight.

Basically, this would mean that the struggles of brothers and sisters during the late 60's and early 70's will be in vain for the 80's.

The conclusion one would have to reach, is that the few leaders we do have are gradually leaving. They are frustrated because on all levels, the community shows they have other things to do. It's nice that every weekend we can party, but when we consider the priorities we need to deal with (supporting groups during Budget hearing, informing the Duke Ellington Music Committee on our concerns, and checking out the skills available in our community), it is sad.

Earl Brown

Pictured above is Marcus Garvey in Regalia in 1924, photo by James Vanderzee.

The Black Cultural Center and The Drum cordially invites you to a reception to welcome James Vanderzee on Monday February 25. Vanderzee, a renown photographer, since the 1920's was an official photographer for the United Negro Improvement Association. His work is now being shown at the Augusta Salvage Memorial Art Gallery in the New Africa House. A slide presentation will be shown at 8:00-9:00 p.m. at the Campus Center room 101. A reception at the New Africa House will be held from 9-11 p.m. For more information on the exibit call 545-3604.

Black Affairs offers $10 to winner!

Below is a Black History crossword puzzle. Test your knowledge of African and Black American history. You can win $10.00 in cash if you are correct. Entries must be in no later than Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 3:30. Drop them in the Black Affairs Box in the Collegian on the bottom floor of the Campus Center. Members of the Black Affairs staff and the Office of Third World Affairs may not apply.

ACROSS
1. U.S. conflict between the North and the South
2. Mandingo nation of the 17th century
3. King of Mali noted for his Hajj
4. African country east of the Sudan, north of Kenya
5. The "Louisville Lip"
6. Most ancient name for Africa
7. 1936 Olympic gold medalist
8. First Balck brigadier general
9. One reason for the explointation of South Africa
10. 20th century painter of pictoral histories
11. Agency most responsible for the murder of Patrice Lumumba
12. Large Black organization in U.S. history (initials)
13. Bill Robinson
14. Author of God's Trombone

DOWN
1. Capital of the Republic of South Africa
2. Black ancient Egyptian Queen
3. First independent Black nation in the western hemisphere
4. Satchmo
5. Black capital of the world
6. Derived over 300 products from the peanut.
7. Muslims belong to the Nation of ...
8. Africa is one of seven...
9. Black Americans are descendents of ...

Demand continues for return of Shah

By The Associated Press

Inspired by a message of support from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the young militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran vowed anew Thursday they will not release their American hostages until the "fugitive" shah is handed over to Iran.

The militants' reaffirmation of their tough stand raised new questions about the prospects for an early release of the hostages.

Iran's president and foreign minister both insisted there is no deal guaranteeing freedom for the hostages in exchange for the U.N. inquiry. And both Khomeini and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr reiterated Iran's demand for extradition of the ousted shah.

According to a U.N. spokesman Waldheim will meet with Algeria's U.N. Ambassador Mohamed Bedjaoui Friday. Presumably they will discuss the obstacles that caused Waldheim to delay the commission's departure. Iran's foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, indicated Thursday they might now arrive even later than the weekend, telling the Iranian news agency they would be coming to Tehran "early next week."

Well-placed sources at the United Nations who asked not to be identified said the delay was necessary because Bani-Sadr needs more time to marshal various groups in Iran behind a settlement of the crisis.

In statements Wednesday demanding return of the shah, neither Khomeini nor Bani-Sadr said the hostages' freedom was contingent on it. But the embassy militants made the connection clear.

In a statement broadcast on Tehran Radio, the militants said the United States "must deliver up fugitive Mohammad Reza and the assets he has stolen.

Exchange Program to Nigeria

If you are interested in learning about traditional Nigerian culture, or if you want to study the political and economic situation in West Africa, while taking courses in Communications, Business Administration or other fields, then you may want to find out more about the UMass Year Abroad Program with the University of Lagos in Nigeria. Lagos, as the capital city of one of Africa's leading and most culturally diverse nations, provides the UMass and Five College students a chance to study in a wide variety of academic fields, as well as learn more about Africa. Interested students should contact International Programs, 239 Whitmore. For more information and application forms, please contact Sterling or Marylise Lamet (545-0746) or Prof. Dovi Afesi – New Africa House (545-2751).

Announcements

African Dance

The Art of Black Dance presents the African Dance Troupe. They will be performing at the Malcolm X Center Saturday, February 23 at 8:00.

Slide Show

If you were wondering what happened to the presentation of Children of Africa that was to be shown February 19, it has been changed to February 27 at the New Africa House at 8:00.

Discussion

There will be a film and panel discussion on Soweto, South African and Zimbabwe. There will also be a speaker Majakathata Mokoena. He is a South African student and he will speak on the Soweto rebellion and the future of South Africa. Also Robin Khosah will be speaking on Zimbwabwe in the struggle for a neo-colonial solution. This will take place February 26 at the Center for Racial Studies in Southwest at 7:00

Concert

February 22, at 8:00 there will be music and poetry for everyone to enjoy. This event will take place at the Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union with guests, Akua Dixon on cello, Pat Dixon on violin and Betty Neal. This concert will be free.

Alpha Phi Alpha

Alpha Phi Alpha is having a "Smoker" interest meeting Sunday February 24 at 7:00 in the New Africa House at Yvonne's. All brothers are invited to attend.

Royal Winnipeg Ballet

'Sheer joy of dancing'

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Images of lovers clinging, caressing, and playfully flirtatious, best describes the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's dancers' exuberant interaction.

The young company performed four pieces at the UMass Fine Arts Center, a tasteful evening of dance both classical and modern. Their movement conveys their sheer joy of dancing. Their seemingly-effortless lifts and steps enabled them to live up to their reputation as Canada's finest.

Most noteworthy, was their third piece, entitled "Belong," a Pas de Duex from the ballet "What To Do Till The Messiah Comes." Norbert Vesak's choreography put extra fire into this powerfully dramatic interplay between two pale-blue clad lovers.

Bonnie Wyckoff, a native of Natick, Mass, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's most popular dancer, performed rich movements with her partner Joost Pelt. "Belong" begins with the lovers laying, entangled, flowing into one another like a rushing fountain to the accompaniment of xylophone music.

The closing piece, entitled "Pulcinella Variations," choreographed by Michael Smuin is a delightful alternation of wit and lyricism performed to music by Igor Stravinsky. This series of short vignettes involving the whole company gave them an opportunity to show their versatility as performers.

The spirited dancers, clad in pink dresses, embroidered in red for the women, and grey jumpsuits, also trimmed with red, for the men, well-incorporated rigid puppet-like movements as well as novel turns and twists to convey numerous playful jokes.

The opening piece, "Songs Without Words" is a ballet in which four couples, the women each in a different shade of a chiffon dress, go through a courting ritual. Each couple has their own style – flirtatous, bold, subtle, and teasing.

Choreographed by Hans van Manen this classical piece is performed in bare feet. It is a ballet in which quantity in movement is reduced to a minimum and at the same time the wealth of form is inexhaustible.

The second piece, "Four Last Songs" is a new work in the company's extensive repertoire. It is a graceful classical ballet ultimately romantic and highly inventive in its style. Set to four songs by Richard Strauss, the piece effectively deals with the themes of death and separation. Against a brown cloudy backdrop, four couples are taken-over by the man in black, John Kaminski. The first three couples reluctantly give into his power until the last couple finally becomes mystified by his presense and the surrender.

The Royal Winnipeg consistently leave the audience feeling the emotional fervor of their movement, both uplifted and warmed by their sensuality.

COUPON
College Pizza
Grand Opening Offer
clip this ad and save
50c on any size pizza!
Free Delivery
549-6073 549-6098
located across from Southwest

BARRY COMMONER
noted author, environmentalist, leader of Citizen's Party
"The Politics of Energy"
also:
Anna Gyorgy - author of NO NUKES, activist
Linda Geary - UMass student, member of SCANN sponsored by DVP and Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide
7 PM SUB SAT FEB 23
Dr. Commoner's speech is part of a weekend long Conference for a Nuclear Free Future sponsored by SCANN

OPENING MONDAY 25TH
Finest Chinese Chef
from 3-star New York Restaurant
SZE'S CHINESE CUISINE
MANDARIN SZECHUAN CUISINE
Lunch $3-$4
Dinner Specials
"Steamboat" for two
Sunday-Thursday 11 am - 10 pm
Friday-Saturday 11 am - 11 pm
586-5708
50 Main St. Northampton

Metheny to perform

Pat Metheny, the progressive jazz guitarist, will be performing at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Sunday, February 24 at 8 p.m.

The Union Program Council said today good seats are still available for the appearance by Methany and his group, on tour to promote the release of their new album American Garage.

Tickets for Sunday's concert cost $7, $6.50 and $6 for students, $1 more for non-students, and may be purchased at Tix, Union Records Unltd., Platterpus Records, and the Fine Arts Center Box Office.

Pat Metheny Group

Dance critics needed

Meet other writing enthusiasts this afternoon, Friday, at the TOC lounge. Please join us at 3 and ask for the COllegian Dance group. Bring all novel and creative ideas that have been stowed away in the back of your mind. Now is your chance to put these brilliant ideas to work. See you at 3, Sarah Hammann, Dance Editor.

Rubber DUKS

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Today Only!
We have a few more Student Discount Coupon Books for distribution. Today Only! Campus Center Concourse
Save $150.00

CHINATOWN
CCA $1
SATURDAY FEB 23
showings: 6. 8:30, 11

HP-34C
ADVANCED PROGRAMMABLE SCIENTIFIC WITH CONTINUOUS MEMORY

HEWLETT PACKARD

The HP-34C offer you an impressive array of advanced programming features: up to 370 programmable keystrokes; label, line and direct branching; 6 subroutine levels; indirect data storage; insert/delete editing; 4 flags; 12 labels; 2 user definable keys; loop control; and more
New "solve" key—can search for and find the roots of an equation with keystroke simplicity.
New "integrate" key—any function you can evaluate on the calculator by a keystroke solution, you can integrate.
Comes complete with an introductory booklet, and owner's handbook, and a free standard application book containing 10 useful programs.

all at our discount price of $134

at the calculator store

the UNIVERSITY STORE

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—
Friday
Steve Spellman Happy Hour
3-6 p.m.
Grab Bag Special 6-10 p.m.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

CREEDO'S coffeehouse
GAMES/FOOD/MUSIC
11 Pleasant St. N'hamp.

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass

Thursday, Feb. 21
The Bobby Watson Band
rhythm, blues, and funk
Free Admission

Friday, Feb. 22
Loose Caboose
boogie to the reggae beat
$1 cover charge

Saturday, Feb. 23
The Elevators
Arista Recording Artists
New Wave
$2 cover charge

Tuesday, Feb. 26
Son Seals Blues Band
blues with a commanding style of its own
$3 cover charge

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

-KENNEDY-
Be a part of history
Help Ted Kennedy win in New Hampshire
Come to a New Hampshire Primary Party
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1980 6:00 pm
KENNEDY FOR PRESIDENT HEADQUARTERS
UMass/Amherst; Campus Center
Amherst, Massachusetts

Buses will leave directly from Headquarters that evening for the weekend in New Hampshire (bring warm clothes and a sleeping bag)
For Further Information Call:
Sean 549-4600 ext. 267

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course
Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.
MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.
NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824-7888
Ask for Operator 116

Editorial/Opinion

The spinning finger of fault

In answering Howard Goldman's and Pam Malumphy's question yesterday on "Where the finger should point" for Student Government Association misconduct, there can be only one answer: At the SGA itself. It is extremely important that various statements in their piece be responded to and cleared up lest the impression be given that student government on this campus is decent and honest. It most assuredly is not. This is not my opinion; sadly, the facts speak for themselves.

CHRIS SCHMITT

Briefly, to summarize: Goldman and Malumphy were referring to the now-infamous "Field Document," a compilation of misconduct in the Student Government Association assembled by Dean of Students William F. Field. Abuses he cited include: Hiring of student senators by student government agencies that depend on the senators for budgetary allocations; gross violations of University affirmative action policies; harrassing student attorneys general; disappearance of $13,000 from the Union Record Shop during its first six months of operation; and much more. What emerges is not a random pattern of events but, instead, a consistent pattern.

Goldman and Malumphy say there can be only two purposes in Field's actions: To "unite the administration in its attempt to limit what they consider too great a power in the hands of students, and (to) turn the student body against its student government and thus take away its essential supporting foundation." Here is where the SGA mentality malarky begins.

Goldman's and Malumphy's actions are indicative of the typical SGA defense mechanism reaction. Rather than addressing the problems at hand, they instead attempt to divert attention from the issue and focus on clearly irrelevant matters. It may be true—which I doubt—that the administration has some evil purpose in all of this. But that does not at all diminish the severity and magnitude of the charges.

The two next turn to a lengthy diatribe on the wonderous good that the existing student government/activity system allows. They point to House Councils, Area Governments, the Undergraduate Student Senate, all the various co-ops, the Auto Pool, Earthfoods, Student Center for Education Research and Advocacy (itself one of the shady areas in the report), and many others. This is step two of the defense mechanism: When confronted, point to what's there already.

What this rambling does is ignore the pitifully low student participation in government and many activities. Voter turnout traditionally hovers between 10 and 20 percent (which in all fairness, the two do point out), and some elections go as low as 5 percent turnout. Government without participation can in no way be representative, and certainly not the "essential foundation" Goldman and Malumphy claim it is.

And finally, step three of the defense: A call to rally 'round the flag. Yesterday, the two told us "It doesn't have to be this way." They waxed eloquent as they continued: "As students, we can all play a role in improving the quality of life on our campus." They conclude triumphantly: "Let's not be treated like second class citizens at a University that should be designed around our needs."

The point of this is that through it all, Goldman and Malumphy, as well as nearly everyone else in the SGA, continue to attack the report and not tackle the problems it identified. Even the Student Attorney General, Ann Bolger, used editorial space in the Collegian to attack the document and not the deficiencies it cited in student government. The administration may indeed have some ulterior motive in mind with the "Field Document"—I certainly don't know. By failing to attmept to correct abuses, current SGA leaders in a sense condone them. Student government will never regain credibility until it seeks to put its own house in order—regardless of the source or motivation of its attackers.

Chris Schmitt is a Collegian guest columnist

Activating student's advantage

As we near the first anniversary of the Three Mile Island accident, there is a new development taking place in the anti-nuclear movement. This is the first time since the protests against nuclear power began that students have begun organizing themselves as a real force in the movement. The importance of student involvement should not be taken lightly. In recent history, students have displayed their power as a collective force for change, as witnessed by their working in and with the civil rights movement, the black liberation struggle, and their involvemnt in the Vietnam War resistance. Far from dying at the end of the 1960's, student activism has continued, and in the past several years it has increased—focusing around such issues as South African liberation, racism, the women's movement, cutbacks in education, and now nukes.

ALAN COMPAGNON

It is in the interests of the American people to demand economical, reliable, and healthy renewable energy sources such as solar, wind, hydro, cogeneration, and responsible incentives for conservation. As the old addage goes, nuclear power and weapons have no business being here, except big business.

In the wake of the Three Mile Island accident, and in light of both government and industry failure to accept the responsibility for the multiple dangers of nuclear power and weapons, we have no real choice other than to organize ourselves and take action. The Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN) was formed to organize students on the nations campuses around the issues of nuclear power and weapons because we saw the need for, and recognized the potential of, organized student groups. Students are tommorow's wage earners and it is essential that we organize now. The understanding we gain today will help us obtain greater control and power over our lives in the future.

Students, as a result of their unique social positions, have the opportunity to play a strategic role in helping to educate and activate other students, as well as be a catalyst in bringing about social change and a No-Nukes understanding to wider segments of society.

With this in mind, we urge students to become actively involved in organizing against the dangers of nuclear power and weapons.

Alan Compagnon is a member of UMass SCANN

Letters

What counterfeit have I given thee?

To the Editor:

This letter is by way of apology to those who noted the commission in my column yesterday of a gross impropriety: The misquotation of Shakespeare. The opening should, of course, have read: "Thou art more lovely and more temperate."

The blame is mine, in assuming that corrections to a first draft which had been dictated over the phone could have been followed perfectly, and in checking twice what I should have gone over in its entirety three times or more.

I apologize to all the purists (in which category I place myself) who have been offended. I assure you, no one could possibly be more mortified by this inexcusable error than I, and I would encourage those so motivated to make the correction, which I had tried to make, themselves.

John C. Parker
Dwight House

Danger of CARP not a fish story

To the Editor:

Did you know that there are 'moonies' on campus? They are going under the name of C.A.R.P. (Collegiate Association for the Research into Principles). This semester, they have a table in the Campus Center that is trying to recruit new people into the organization.

This religious cult, for a long time, has been continually building up a large membership of deceived good, loving people. Sun Myung Moon (believed by his followers to be the Messiah) is using the First Amendment of the Constitution to back up the organization from any attacks that might hurt it. Aside from being a religious cult, the Moon Organization is a multinational corporation with assets over $200 million. They already have power in congress and own many large industries. Moon is not to be taken for a fool. He knows what he is doing.

If you want to help stop this Moon Organization from spreading to our campus and elsewhere, then spread the word about what C.A.R.P. really is. If someone should come to your door selling a newspaper called Student World Times, please do not buy it and please do not harass the vendor. Also, I urge you not to take an invitation to their house in Pelham for dinner. Their recruitment techniques are very subtle and playing along with their game will not work.

Steve Snyder
N. Amherst

I don't like your attitude

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. Loy's comments (Equal Rights Amendment: Rights, moral, and mortars; Collegian 2/20/80) I would like to say that your feminist intentions are clearly misguided. Your apparently magnanimous attitude toward the equal rights issue is nothing more than an attempt on your part to decrease your chances of becoming "cannon fodder."

In my article I attempted to separate the issues of the ERA and the drafting of women since the two have nothing to do with each other. The Equal Rights Amendment is a guarantee of legal rights. The draft is not your right; it's your obligation. Your rights have nothing to do with it, nor do the rights of women.

Moreover, my responsibilities will never be, and can never be, the same as yours. The day you bear my children for me I will be willing to discuss this further with you in a foxhole in the Khyber Pass.

Lucy Montes
Amherst

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisments lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

UMass campaigners affect NH primary

By PETER BOVENZI
Special to the Collegian

NASHUA, N.H.—Unlike the 1976 Presidential campaign, students are coming out this year in numbers and the impact is making headlines.

According to leading Democratic politicians, college students were a significant factor in the Democratic caucus in Maine last week. The N.Y. Times reported Senator Edward Kennedy did well in those areas where college students pounded the pavement and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. also did well where the student turnout was large. Now there is speculation and controversy on the impact students will have in New Hampshire next week and the rest of the country.

A poll taken by CBS showed that student efforts in New Hampshire have not helped Kennedy, who is still trailing Carter substantially. Kennedy organizers responding to the article said the poll was premature and did not take into account "the pre-election push for support," where the students are instrumental.

Last weekend, this reporter was in New Hampshire to assess the importance of students to the campaign. Jimmy Carter's office in Nashua was staffed with a small group of ten phone solicitors and no students were present. College Students Supporting Carter are waiting until this weekend to go to New Hampshire.

At Kennedy headquarters there were 40 campaigners, of which about 75 percent were students. Another 20 students were out canvasing.

While this reporter was there, Kennedy's New England Coordinator, Massachusetts Lt. Governor Thomas O'Neill III showed up. Walking in the door, O'Neill yelled, "Who's here from UMass!" The crowd of students reacted enthusiastically with cheers. O'Neill told them it was their effort, speaking to the students as a whole, that put them neck and neck with Carter in Maine.

On the lighter side, the students appeared to be having a great time. Saturday night the Kennedy camp had a party at the Nashua YMCA, where they stayed throughout the weekend.

Kim Kirschner, UMass Campus Coordinator for the Carter campaign said that although no bus would be going to New Hampshire from UMass, a bus would be leaving Northampton. Kirschner, a Carter delegate, encouraged Carter supporters to go along.

So, the New Hampshire primary has a dual significance. It will be not only a test of the candidates, but a test of renewed student involvement in presidential politics and a measure of the impact students can make.

So, the New Hampshire primary has a dual significance. It will be not only a test of the candidates, but a test of renewed student involvement in presidential politics and a measure of the impact students can make.

Bruce Cleare took advantage of the unseasonable warm weather yesterday. The senior was catnapping outside Mahar Auditorium while waiting for his wife. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

Service to be held for UM grad

Special services for a 34-year-old Rutland, Vt. native, who died in a head-on collision on Route 9 in Belchertown at 1:30 a.m. last Saturday, are scheduled today at 12:15 p.m. at the Newman Center Chapel.

David Carbine, former associate director of the School of Business Administration's Center for Economic Development, was a UMass student who had recently received his masters degree in Business Administration. He was waked and buried Tuesday in Rutland.

SBA Dean Harry T. Allen is expected to speak briefly at today's services.

Friday Happy Hour
3 til 6
A Continuing Amherst Tradition
35c Pub Mugs - 75c Bar Drinks

Serving Food 11:30 am-9:30 pm
Seven days a week

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

ONE DAY ONLY
SALE SALE
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22
ENTIRE INVENTORY OF LP'S

$4.49
798 series

$5.49
898 series

Every Famous Label! Every Musical Category!
All other series at comparable savings

TDK BLANK CASSETTES

D: C60 MINUTE
99c $1.98 package of two
EACH limit 12 per customer

D: C90 MINUTE
$1.49 $2.98 package of two
EACH limit 12 per customer

record village HAMPSHIRE MALL HADLEY
STORE HOURS: 10-9:30 VISA M/C

Soviet Premier raps US, cites 'sheer madness'

MOSCOW [AP] —Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, surfacing in public after an unexplained four-month absence, chastised the United States on yesterday for tending toward "sheer madness" in a get-tough policy around the globe.

Smiling briefly as he acknowledged congratulations on his 76th birthday, Kosygin appeared well but faltered slightly at several points while he delivered a nationally televised speech at Moscow's glittering Bolshoi Theater.

The Soviet premier was last seen in public at an airport ceremony Oct. 17, seeing off visiting President Hafez Assad of Syria.

Kosygin reportedly suffered a heart attack or stroke. However, there was no official word about his absence, and Kosygin himself made no mention of it when he reappeared yesterday.

The occasion for Kosygin's 45-minute address was his pro forma candidacy for a deputy's seat in the parliament of the Russian Federation. President Leonid I. Brezhnev, the topranking Soviet leader, is set to make his own election campaign speech Friday.

Kosygin asssailed "reactionary U.S. circles" which he said are striving "to undermine detente and provoke conflict situations."

He said the Soviet Union and its Communist allies are dedicated to "the cause of detente, ending the arms race and peaceful cooperation."

"Another approach, the course of using military force, of attaining military superiority — supporters of which are most active in the United States and China — would be sheer madness because it cannot but lead to a growth of the danger of a universal war," he said.

Alluding to President Carter's declared willingness to defend the Persian Gulf and its oilfields by military means if necessary, Kosygin criticized Washington for labeling any region a sphere of vital interests "if the mainstays of imperialist influence or domination become unsteady there."

If you live Off-Campus

The Student Senate needs YOU.

Nominations for Commuter Seats CLOSE
Tuesday, Feb. 26, 1980 5:00 pm
Get Involved!!
Nomination Papers can be picked up at 420 S.U.B.

Come Early and Come Often!
BOOK SALE
New Books Added Daily!

75% OFF back to old time prices

Many books were reduced previously which means extra savings because we're discounting 75% off the lowest price on the book

Hundreds of Books
paperbacks and hardbounds

Two Weeks Only
Feb. 18 - Feb. 29

on the Campus Center Concourse
special tables across from the store
a super sale from
the UNIVERSITY STORE

SOLDIERS START COLLEGE RICHER.

UP TO $14,100 RICHER

The Army can help you save a lot of money for college. In a two-year enlistment, you can accumulate up to $7400. In three years, up to $12,100. And as much as $14,100 in four years.

It's the Veterans' Educational Assistance Program (VEAP, for short), and it gets you two dollars for every one dollar you save for college (see chart).

And now, if you qualify, it can include educational bonuses of up to $2,000, $4,000 and $6,000 for two-,three-, and four-year enlistments respectively.

A WEALTH OF EXPERIENCE

As a soldier, you'll have seen and done things most college freshmen only dream about.

You'll have handled responsibility, faced challenges, and lived and worked with people from almost every background imaginable.

This experience will give you more than the money for an education. It will teach you the value of having one.

LEARN MORE

Now's the time to learn more about VEAP, and to decide whether you want to take advantage of it.

For more information, just call the toll-free number below. Or call your local Army Recruiter.

	Per Mo.	2 Yrs.	3 Yrs.	4 Yrs.
You save:	$75	$1800	$2700	$2700
Gov't. adds 2-for-1:	$150	$3600	$5400	$5400
Total:	$225	$5400	$8100	$8100
Education Bonus:		$2000	$4000	$6000
Total Benefits:		$7400	$12,100	$14,100*

*Up to $3000 more is available in a bonus, if you enlist for four years in certain skills.

FOR MORE INFORMATION
CALL TOLL FREE 800-431-1234
Locally, consult the Yellow Pages under Recruiting

Around campus

Women's group meets

The UMass Women's Support Group will hold an introductory meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 26 at 7 p.m. in the Southwest Women's Center. For further information call the center at 545-0626.

WFCR holds open meeting

Western Mass Broadcasting Council (WFCR) will hold an open board meeting Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 1:30 p.m. in room 903 of the Campus Center. Those interested may address comments to the board if they register no later than Monday, Feb. 25. For more information. call 545-2560.

Readers needed

Volunteer readers are needed to read for blind and visually impaired students this semester. Those intereseted can contact the Office of Handicapped Student Affairs, 231 Whitmore, 545-0892.

HRTA career day

The UMass Hotel, Restaurant, and Travel Administration Department is sponsoring it's fifth annual Career Day, Tuesday, Feb. 26, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Campus Center, first floor.

New group meets

A new campus organization, the Jewish and Anti-Semitism Group, will meet Monday, Feb. 25, in the Campus Center, room to be announced. All interested are welcome to attend.

Women's workshop

The UMass Health Education Department is sponsoring a Menstrual Pain Workshop, Monday, March 10, from noon to 3 p.m., in room 304 of the UMass Health Center. Preregistration is required, and attendence is limited to 15. For more information, contact Health Education, 549-2671, ext. 181.

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

"Special Opening"

Saturday 1:00 pm

Big Screen

TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION
PRESENTS
HITCHCOCK
IN
39 STEPS
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1980
7:00 9:00 11:00
CCA $1.00

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst

KEGS— LIQUORS
BEER— WINE—

LIQUORS

Miller bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk 7.49 cs
O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl. 2.75 6 pack 9.90 case
Bud bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk. 7.49 cs.
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls.. 1.60 6 pk. 5.90 cs.
Schlitz 12 oz. n/r.....2.00 6 pack 6.90 case
Old Milwaukee.....12 pack 3.10

Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre.....11.49
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch.....3.99
Gallo 3 litre Chablis, Pink Chablis, Burgandy, Red Rose, Rhine.....4.95
Taylor California Cellars
Chablis, Rose, Rhine, Byrgany 1.5 litre.....3.59

Catch Our Weekly Specials

500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Collins unveils tax plan

AMHERST, (AP) — State Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst, has proposed a revision of the state's tax system which he says is necessary to offer property taxpayers relief.

Collins this week unveiled a state sales tax increase proposal which he said would raise $366 million that would otherwise come from property taxes.

His proposal has five provisions:

— Raise the sales tax from five to seven percent and expand it to include clothing for adults, but not for children. The result: a $366 million increase in revenue.

— Send $216 million of the money back to localities for property tax relief.

— Use $100 million to cut state income taxes, allowing increased exemptions for individuals and family dependents as well as the blind, disabled and elderly.

— Put the remaining $40 million toward sales tax credits on income taxes.

— Develop an income tax withholding system that would reduce withholding according to projected sales tax credits in order to soften the burden of increased sales taxes on the poor and middle class.

Collins said his goal was "to stimulate a serious discussion of tax reform in the state now, and not leave it until next year."

★ Racism

CONT FROM PAGE 1

Studies.

The task force, which is part of the Student Center for EducationalResearch and Advocacy, includes one full-time paid supervisor and four part-time work-study students.

The group was formed, Wexell said, from a full-time anti-racism position created last summer by SCERA but which was not funded last semester. The original position was created in response to two Third World students being found dead and continual harassment of Third World students, Wexell said.

Top of the Campus Lounge
Presents

ED VADAS

Fri. Feb. 22 & Sat. Feb. 23

TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

RUN FOR OFFICE

*****

NOMINATION PAPERS ARE AVAILABLE FOR PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION 10 OPEN SEATS ON THE CAMPUS CENTER BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

ANY FULL-TIME UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT MAY RUN FOR THE PRESIDENCY OR B.O.G. NOMINATION SHEETS MAY BE OBTAINED IN RM. 420 STUDENT UNION. NOMINATION PAPERS ARE DUE FEB. 28 FOR PRESIDENT AND FEB. 29 FOR BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY...
SATURDAY, FEB. 23

100% COTTON
SHIRTS

If Perfect... $12-$18
Almost Perfect...
$2.50 each 3 for $6.50

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
- Come to Collegian Office CC 113
- 8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

18-watt AM-FM 8 track Recorder Stereo system with two speakers $125 call 6-9552

Craig AM/FM Stereo Tape Player BSR 260 AX Turntable and Regency speakers call Doug after 6 pm 6-9569

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

1970 Dodge Dart needs repair 150 or BO 546-8089

Tha car that takes you where you want to go Plymouth Fury II runs exelnt just $375 call early or late 549-4063

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

1970 VW Squareback 22+ mpg, runs great, good tires, battery, has rust $475.00 253-5178

Auto for sale 1974 Firebird good condition call 5-2591 ask for Ron

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

Hotel Warren So. Deerfield rooms daily, weekly, monthly rentals call 665-7093

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

FOR SALE

Woman's 10 speed Bicycle almost never used, $100. or BO 323-4077 after 6 pm.

For Sale Turntable Phillips 212 semi-automatic $85 or BO Pair of AR2 Speakers $150. 323-4077 after 6

Olin Skis used 2 seasons, 160 cm, Solomon bindings, Nordica boots & poles good deal, $130 Steve 549-6769

Mens ten-speed bike Mercier by Peugeot excellent condition, 200.00 or BO call 323-4077 after 6:00 pm

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Ski Boots wmns 8½ Nordica used 2X, asking $40 549-4049

Get ready for Spring! Assorted fashionable sunglasses for men and women on sale at 30-50% off! Come & check it out at 203 Dwight N/E or call Dan 546-5518 or Barry 546-5521

4 new 4 in tires $100 also brand new 4 bl carb for 330CI Olds $50 Paul 546-5549

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Martial Arts Belt about Jan 30, 1980 call Tim 546-4203 and identify by color

One black leather right mitten next to Berkshire House Tues Feb 19 call Kathy 545-3500

Found—Alden L. Miller—to be living at 825 Main Street in Amherst. In light green duplex one block down from North East Street on right Phone: 253-5580

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Need a part-time job? Students needed to hand out flyers on campus week of Feb 24-29 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. $3.00 per hour. Call immediately collect (203) 877-5693 after 3 p.m.

Work-study office positions available in Soithwest area. Contact Jean Steiner, Southwest Business Office, 5-1552 We are an Equal Opportunity Employer

Shaklee—Positive salespeople wanted. Natural products. Exceptional opportunity to earn. Call Emily 549-3582

Counselors: Camp Waziyatah for Girls, Harrison, Maine. Openings: Tennis (varsity or skilled players); Swimming (WSI), Boating, Canoeing, Sailing, Waterskiing; Gymnastics; Archery; Team Sports; Arts & Crafts; theatre Director (musicals), Pianist; Pioneering & Trips; Secretary. Season: June 21 to August 21. Write (Enclose Details as to your Skills, etc.) Director, Box 153, Great Neck, N.Y. 10022 Telephone: 516-482-4323. Faculty Inquiries Invited Re Dept. Head Positions In Above Activities

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Central Area Craftshop is now open Mon-Thurs 7-10 PM Sat 12-4 Free Instruction

Graduate Math tutor for probability course. Call Lou after 11 PM 546-9956

Kundalini Yoga Club offers basic instruction. All welcome. M-Th 4-5:30 in Campus Center. $1 per session. 256-0391

LOST

LOST Please return my roundshape, American Indian-style pin. Of little $ value. Leave at CC infor desk or call 584-9338

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

Pair brown plastic glasses please call John 6-6505

Lost a lg. flat silver earring in the shape of a leaf. Please return to CC info desk or call 256-6344

Lost—gold wire rimmed glasses between Louis and S.W. Mark 546-9196

Wallet (blue) lost on N'hampton bus, return to Chris 258-2086

Lost orange nylon daypack loaded with important stuff will pay cash reward please call Ben 6-7141

P.C. FROLICS

Boom Boom is 44 your chest size or IQ? NWP & Fuzzhead

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Tuscon Az for spring break, share gas, expenses call 253-3090

Ride needed to NYC or LI any and all weekends will share driving and $ call Roger 549-5184

Feb 22 to Medfield or vicinity will share expenses call Dee 6-9876

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Puffton Village $75/mo includes heat 549-6146

Roomate wanted for Brandywine Apt 103 per month utl incl call 549-5847 after 7:30 PM

Roomate wanted central N'ton 586-4487

Roomate wanted immediately for Brittany Manor Apt. Own room. $98.50/month. Call 253-5268

Female to share one-bedroom Puffton Apt call Kathy 549-3677

Wanted one person to share one bedroom in 2 bedroom apt in Townehouse $75 plus. Call 549-4920 after 5 pm

Roomate wanted Brittany Manor begin 3/1 253-2402

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Buying Silver—Pre 64 coins and Sterling paying current market prices 546-6291 ask for Dave

A limited number of Student Discount Books are left. They will be sold on the Campus Center Concourse Thursday and Friday only!

Donna A baby boom? I'd rather be drafted.

Jill—tell us why is abortion important to you? I know, abortion been bery good to you.

P.C. Happy Birthday Its gonna be a great one! Love always Zoozie Emmy Pammy Ray Karl and Dish

MWAH?!!?!!?

Kooky-Nanooky Do it up, you deserve it. But most of all have a great birthday. Stay happy always and keep laughing

Gary K: Happy B'day. Party hearty tonight and live it up we're sure to be there. Love 304A

Steve Happy Birthday 3/7/80. Love ya kiddo. Diane

The Boltwood Belchertown project is recruiting volunteers to work at Belchertown State School. To join call Belchertown State School 323-6311 ext 449

John P. Dowd for President Put the heartbreak kid in the White House

Mel & -Theresa I hear they have excellent parties at Patterson!

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

To my bestest cutie I love you SLHB

To a Secret Admirer: Thanx for the white carnation. How about another hint. RLC Nuke the Muppets! Remember Three Mile Kermit! Nuke em till they glow!!

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom efficiency bath and kitchen $175.00/month available now or March 1 Amherst call James 253-5707 after 6

Room Swiss Vill 110 a month everything bus route, open immead 253-2653

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Female nonsmoker for 2 bdrm apt Sunderland 110+ ut call 665-7923 btwn 4-7 PM ask for Lynn or 665-7564 ask for Susan

UMass students looking to rent house for fall '80 easy access to bus route necessary contact Cindy 253-7132

FOUR SEASONS

Michelob Beer 12 oz. btl.	case 8.49
Budweiser Beer 12 oz. btl.	case 7.49
Falstaff Beer 12 oz. cans.	case 5.69
Cossack Vodka 1.75 liters	8.99
Canadian Rare 1.75 liters	10.99
Dewars White Label Scotch qts.	11.69
Giacobazzi Lambrusco 1.5 lrs	4.99
750 ml	2.69

Open 9 am - 11 pm
Mon. - Sat.

Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

Today Is the First Day of the Rest of Your Life

You've heard that famous quote many times before, but it will probably never be more meaningful than it is right now . . . as you decide what to do with your future. Because, what you decide now—both the career you select and the company you choose—can influence the course of your entire life. It's not an easy decision to make.

You want an opportunity that's challenging and rewarding. You want recognition. You want to learn. And you want to contribute right from the start. That's why we believe you'll want to investigate the exciting career opportunities available with Keydata Corporation.

We're a young, professional, computer services company, located in major cities, making our mark in the fastest growing segment of the computer industry. If you have a degree in computer science, math, engineering, business administration, accounting, or marketing, you may qualify to train for a career in:

• Marketing • System Design
• Application Programming

If you'd like to make the first day of the rest of your life a meaningful step—not just for today, but for your future—we'd like to talk with you on Mar. 3, 1980, our interview date on your campus, or contact our College Relations Department directly.

KEYDATA CORPORATION
College Relations
20 William Street, Wellesley, Mass. 02181
An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

keydata

Atlanta • Boston • Chicago • Clifton, NJ • Hartford, CT • New York • Philadelphia • Toronto • Montreal

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Behaves
5 Quote
9 Regimens
14 Large moldings
15 Agave
16 Bar legally
17 Prayer word
18 African river
19 Blackboard
20 Sane
22 Climbs
23 Hastened
24 Existed
25 Emaciated
28 Of dinner
32 Exotic
33 Abrupt
34 Numerical prefix
35 Stag
36 Crests
37 Profit
38 Coast bird
39 Feel
40 Throb
41 Annual Calgary do
43 Had fun
44 Fraternity
45 Lacerate
46 Sport
49 Most noble
53 Water body
54 European river
55 Notion
56 Pamphlet
57 Wicked
58 Opposed
59 Peru winds
60 Depend
61 Fastener

DOWN
1 Perfume essence: Var.
2 Stupor
3 Waste allowance
4 Ominous
5 Preserved
6 Homer work
7 Peal
8 Shoe width
9 Lineage
10 Key
11 And others: Abbr.
12 Haul
13 Hope goddess
21 Candid
22 Withers
24 Penniless
25 Sloshes
26 Vigilant
27 Tuscany town
28 Aspect
29 European nation
30 Get up
31 Wrinkled
33 Dispatches
36 Brief looks
37 Warden
39 First-aid devices
40 Diagram
42 Threat
43 Nacre-like
45 Footpath
46 Young ones
47 Color
48 At
49 Donated
50 Girl's name
51 Bristle: Prefix
52 Shadow
54 Asian weight

DC menu

Lunch
Fishburger/Roll, Tartar Sauce, Cocktail Sauce
Pizza

Basics Lunch
Carrot Lentil Bake
Pizza

Dinner
Roast Beef/Onion Gravy
Italian Shrimp and Rice

Basics Dinner
Colache
Italian Shrimp and Rice

Happy Hour at Barselotti's
Every Friday from 3-6
Draft Beer 50c
Most Bottled Beer 75c
Pitchers of Old Milwaukee $2.00
Most Drinks 75c
& Free Peanuts
2 T.V.'s
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

Do it ?

— Seniors —

starting next Monday, feb. 25 the official senior portrait photographer will be on campus for yearbook photos.
We will be taking appointments today till 5 pm in Room 103 Campus Center. Please call if you can't stop by 545-2874

Massachusetts House Speaker Thomas W. McGee announces in his statehouse office yesterday that he is endorsing President Carter. McGee said Carter has been a good president and good for Massachusetts, especially his home city, Lynn. (AP Laserphoto)

Ford to warn buyers of potential defects

WASHINGTON (AP) —Ford Motor Co. agreed yesterday to notify customers about potential problems they otherwise might not know about until their cars break down, the Federal Trade Commission said.

FTC officials said the consent agreement signed by Ford is a major break in an auto industry practice of maintaining "secret warranties" to cover manufacturing defects.

The FTC officials said car owners are not informed about these warranties, which are invoked only in unusual cases where the consumer complains vigorously.

The automobile industry maintains there are no secret warranties because car dealers are notified about the extra warranty protection.

Ford Executive Vice President William O. Bourke called the term "an inaccurate description" even as FTC officials said the agreement means that Ford no longer will maintain secret warranties.

FTC official Tracy Westen said, "Ford will no longer issue 'secret' warranties for certain repair problems. Instead, Ford will directly notify each car owner, by mail, when it extends warranty protections.

Ford also agreed to make available to car owners the Technical Service Bulletins that describe major engine and transmission problems. The bulletins tell of extensions in the new-car warranty for systems later found to have problems.

These bulletins previously were sent to dealers but not to owners of the cars. The owners usually did not ask for repairs covered by the warranties because they never were told that the warranties existed.

Under the consent agreement, the bulletins will be provided to car owners on request and will be available to the public by subscription.

In addition, Ford agreed to advertise the bulletins' availablity and giving a toll-free telephone number for repair questions.

Under the agreement, at least 84 full-page ads will appear in such publications as Time, Newsweek, U.S. News & World Report, Sports Illustrated, People and Reader's Digest containing the information.

After a 60-day period for public comment, the five-member commission will decide whether to make final the agreement.

Find it all— find it fast in Collegian classifieds

OPEC member predicts calm in oil market

LONDON (AP) — Representatives of six OPEC members opened a strategy session yesterday, with Venezuelan Energy Minister Humberto Calderon, Berti predicting calm will return to world oil markets by June.

Calderon spoke at a news conference at the Venezuelan Embassy before the start of a two-day meeting of the longterm strategy committee of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countres. The session was held behind closed doors and under tight security at a London hotel.

The conference was expected to take up a recommendation by OPEC technicians for regular quarterly or semiannual price hikes pegged to currency market fluctuations, economic growth rates and inflation.

The system would replace the past year's leapfrogging price hikes that began in the wake of a seven-week Iranian oil industry shutdown during that country's revolution.

OPEC prices have more than doubled to around $30 per 42- gallon barrel in the past year. Eleven of the 13 OPEC members have posted price hikes since Saudi Arabia kicked off the latest round of increases with a $2-a-barrel jump to $26 on Jan. 28.

The strategy committee comprises the oil ministers of Algieria, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Nigeria and Venezuela. Its chairman is Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, oil minister of Saudi Arabia.

Yamani arrived here at the beginning of the week, but returned Tuesday to the Saudi Arabian capital city of Ryiadh because of the hospitalization of King Khaled. The oil minister was expected to return to London yesterday to preside over the talks.

Calderon told the news conference several months would be needed to restore stability to oil markets and reach an accord on prices because consuming countries have substantial oil supplies in storage.

Agreement could come at the next scheduled OPEC oil ministers' meeting June 9 in Algiers, Algeria. The strategy panel could call for an earlier meeting but Calderon, president of the oil ministers' conference, yesterday rejected previous calls for a special session.

"World reserves of oil normally run at around 4 billion barrels," he said. "Because of the mild winter we have had, it (the reserve) now is estimated at 5 billion barrels, which means that there is a surplus in world oil inventories of about 1 billion barrels.

"Until this surplus is absorbed, it is impossible to revert to a traditional unified basic price on which to operate the system of automatic price increases we are now discussing," Calderon said.

OPEC oil production is 30 million to 32 million barrels a day, about 98 percent of the cartel's capacity and half the world's output, Calderon said.

JOB HUNTING?
Executives/ Students/ Housewives
It's The Interview That Counts
Personnel executives have assembled valuable data on interviewing techniques. Learn how to conduct yourself during an interview. For info on preparation, do's and don'ts, the right questions and answers, send $2 to
Career Guidance Services
210 Boylston St., Suite 204
Chestnut Hill, MA 02167
copyright pending

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Chinese Language & Cultural Studies
CLCS offers:
Reasonable expenses Travel
Concentrated study in Taiwan
Extensive course listing
Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For free pamphet and counseling
Chinese language & Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563
Long Beach, CA 90815
(213) 597-3361

If I should Die. . . . . an experience you'll never forget!

Smith-Corona® Enterprise

Mfr. Code - 3 LRD

An intermediate priced electric portable. Quality compact with cartridge ribbons, 84 character keyboard, repeating keys and on/off signal. Wide power return; many helpful features.

Discount priced at $199.99

in the campus center at umass

We rent SCM typewriters, also

the UNIVERSITY STORE

CLOG SALE

12 STYLES

reg. $24.95 to $38.95
SALE

$14.95
Limited Sizes

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

Gymwomen host UNH

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Boyden Auxiliary Gym, the women's gymnastics squad will take on a strong University of New Hampshire team in a crucial meet.

The Wildcats come in with an impressive 11—1 record, losing only to the University of Pittsburgh. After winning their last five meets, the gymwomen are now 7—2, with two more outings after Saturday before the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women meet at Penn State in March.

UM has lost to UNH the last three times the two teams have met. The Wildcats defeated the Minutewomen last year 132.15—129.00 in the final meet of the season. They were also victorious at the UM Invitational Meet in December.

Top all-around gymnasts who are expected to see action for the Wildcats are Gail Sweeny and Helen Fahey.

Swimmers lose

Despite Mark Vernaglia's sweep of the diving competition, the UMass merman dropped their seventh and final dual meet of the season, 62-51 to Amherst College last night at Boyden Pool.

Vernaglia captured both the required one-meter event and the optional one-meter with scores of 138.85 and 203.6 respectively.

UMass, finishing the season at 3-7 will now await the New England Swimming and Diving Championship March 6-8 at Springfield College.

The Campus Center Program Council, Hillel, and the UMass Arts Council Present
THE RAVINE
A dramatic meditation based on the poetry of Nellie Sachs
Performances: Saturday, February 23, 8 PM
Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass
Sunday, February 24, 8 PM
Hampden Theatre, Southwest Residential College, UMass
Workshop: Sunday, February 24, 3 PM
Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass
both performances and the workshop are free to the public

HAHJEE'S PLACE
Delicately herb seasoned dishes at reasonable prices.
ROUTE 9, HADLEY 584-9797
Located ½ way between Northampton and Amherst
Mon.-Thurs. 4-10
Fri. & Sat. 4-11:30 Sun. 3-10

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW - LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9 HADLEY, MASS

DUSTIN HOFFMAN
Kramer vs. Kramer
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:45
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:00
PG

STAR TREK
THE MOTION PICTURE
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15
Sun-Thur (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:00
G

KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT
SATURN 3
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.50) 7:30 9:45
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:15
R

THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
Midnight Shows
Friday & Saturday
All Seats $2.50
R

THE FOG
Fri-Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 9:45
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:15
R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS

DOM DeLUISE
Fatso
Fri-Sat (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-9:55
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:15
PG

James Caan
Marsha Mason
Chapter Two
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-10:15
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:15
PG

STEVE MARTIN
The JERK
Fri-Sat (5:30 @ $1.50) 7:45 9:55
Sun-Thur (6:15 9 $1.50) 8:45
Matinee (Fri-Sun) 2:15
R

THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME
LED ZEPPELIN
Fri/Sat Midnight
All Seats $2.50
PG

Richard Gere
American Gigolo
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30 10:15
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
R

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
The Area's Largest Selection of Imported & American Wines
BEER SPECIALS
Heneken Light or Dark.....$3.99/six
St. Pauli Girl.....$3.75/six
Genessee Bock.....$2.00/six Non. Ret.
Tuborg.....12 oz. cans $1.99/six $7.49/case
Falstaff.....12 oz. cans $1.65/six $5.99/case
LIQUOR SELECTION
Nuyens Vodka.....$8.49/1.75 liters
Seagrams 7.....$5.69/fifth
Gordon's Vodka.....$5.25/quart
WINE SELECTION
Trapiche Chardonnay.....$2.99/fifth
Rosegarden Liebfraumilch.....$2.39/750 ml.
Cartiers Blanc de Blancs.....$2.49/fifth
Folonari Soave, Bardolino, Valpolicella.....$2.39/liters
Verona Red & White.....$6.59 3/liters
Breckenridge Cellars.....$5.99 4 liters
10% Case Discount Available on Wines
Many Other In-Store Specials
Ice, Kegs & Soda Available
338 College St (Rt 9) 256-8433
Amherst open till 11:00
not responsible for typographical errors

CINEMA 1-8
HOLYOKE MALL AT INGLESIDE
MASS. PIKE Exit 4 To INT. 91-Exit 15
Starts Today!
One Week Only!

STANLEY KUBRICK'S
2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY
G
MGM presents the STANLEY KUBRICK PRODUCTION of 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY STARRING KEIR DULLEA · GARY LOCKWOOD · SCREENPLAY STANLEY KUBRICK AND ARTHUR C. CLARKE · PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY STANLEY KUBRICK SUPER PANAVISION® AND METROCOLOR®
1:00-6:45-9:15
Student Discounts with ID
Movie-Phone 538-7510

Final Cage game for senior men

Hoop: Women host NU; men take on Colonials

By JONATHAN HAMILTON and MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

As the Minutemen gear up for their last battle of the regular season against the Colonials of George Washington University at the Cage Saturday night at 7:30, they also will be looking ahead to the Eastern Eight playoffs which begin next Thursday. UMass, with its dismal 2–22 mark, will play either Villanova or Duquesne. If Duquesne defeats Dayton (which they are likely to do) the Minutemen will travel to Duquesne. If they lose, Villanova will play host to UMass.

Since all Eastern Eight teams qualify for the league playoffs which determine a NCAA Tournament berth, UMass could conceivably get hot, win the playoffs and go to the East Regional. Conceivably, That's some food for thought when you consider a team can enter a prestigious tourney with twenty-two losses under its belt.

As for the game Saturday night that George Washington's Assistant Sports Information Director Andy Mcleod terms "a much needed victory to even our record at five and five and give us the opportunity to face Pittsburgh instead of Rutgers," it presents both teams a chance to gain needed momentum into the playoffs. UMass coach Ray Wilson yesterday talked about the team showing "signs of fatigue." In the Penn State game we had agood first half but they just wore us down and we tired. All the traveling lately has made us extremely tired."

He also spoke briefly on the EAA playoffs. "We would probably like to play Villanova just because they're not as physical as Duquesne, but they do have good speed."

The Colonials came off a disastrous loss to Georgetown 98–74 Wednesday night. They have lost five out of their las* six games, posting a 14–10 overall record. They are led by senior guard Brian Magid's 15.2 points a game average.

The Minutewomen begin their post-season play Sunday when they meet Northeastern for the championship of the Massachusetts Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women at 1:00 in the Cage.

If coach Mary Ann Ozdarski could have chosen any form of readiness for the Northeastern game and the upcoming Eastern Tournament, she would have chosen any other form for the downtrodden Minutewomen. At 13–8, UMass has lost its last two games, largely without the services of Julie Ready, who had been scoring 19 points per game.

Sunday's game has no bearing on the Eastern selections and seedings (also Sunday) but the game should be a dandy. After an astronomical sixty fouls were called when the teams met earlier this year, UMass won 78–74. Four Northeastern starters fouled out in that game including 5 foot eleven inch Vicki Sparks, who finished the game with 21 points.

UMass' Rick Walls on his way to winning the 1000 yard run last weekend at the University of New Hampshire. This Saturday the mens track team will be at the University of Rhode Island to compete in the Yankee Conference Championships. (Staff photo by Jane Wolfson)

US speed skater Eric Heiden performing yesterday in the Olympic 1,500 meter speed skating race in which he set an Olympic record of 1:55.44. (AP Laserphoto)

Heiden wins fourth, sets two more records

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Incredible Eric Heiden swept to his fourth speed skating gold medal of the 1980 Winter Olympics today, smashing another record with a winning time of 1 minute, 55.44 seconds in the 1,500-meter race.

Norwegians took both the silver and bronze medals with Kai Arne Stenshjemmet and Terje Andersen finishing 2-3.

Heiden thus became the first man in history to win four gold medals in a single Winter Olympics. The powerful 21- year-old from Madison, Wis. has one more race in these Games, skating in Saturday's 10,000-meter event in a bid to complete a five gold medal sweep.

Only one full U.S. Winter Olympics team has pulled in more medals than Heiden has won thus far in these Games. The 1932 team won six, and the 1952 team won four.

Tiny Liechtenstein claimed its first Winter Olympic gold medal ever when Hanni Wenzel won the women's giant slalom in a combined time of 2:41.66. Irene Epple of West Germany won the silver and the bronze went to Perrine Pelen of France.

It was the third medal of these Games for Liechtenstein.

In the women's 4 x 5 kilometer cross country relay race, East Germany captured the gold medal with the silver going to the Soviet Union and Norway winning the bronze.

Heiden's younger sister, Beth, finally has her own Olympic medal — just in time — and the fired-up, undefeated United States hockey team is in position to claim one of its own as the 1980 Winter Games head into the homestretch.

Beth Heiden, overshadowed until now by her superstar brother, finished third in the 3,000-meter speed skating, her final Olympic race, Wednesday and then emotionally revealed ever so briefly just how much the pressure of these Olympics have affected her.

The U.S. hockey team faces its biggest challenge today as medals competition began in that sport. They meet the tough Soviet team which beat them 10-3 in an exhibition game in Madison Square Garden before the Olympics.

Coach Herb Brooks' team beat West Germany 4-2 Wednesday night and joined the Soviets, Sweden and Finland in the medals competition Friday and Sunday. They play under a complicated system in which their records in pre-medal play still count. The Americans have only a tie with Sweden marring their record.

Gymmen end with Temple

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team, coming off a slim victory over Springfield, ends its season tomorrow, with a dual meet at Temple University.

"I think their team is taken too lightly; they haven't been scoring well, but they'll be tough to beat," said UMass Coach Roy Johnson.

The Temple squad is lead by all arounds Keith Avery, Hank Horn, and Rob Tagge. Specialists Joe Villarosa, Ron Perry, and Scott Bram add strength and depth to the team.

Past statistics indicate that Temple's best event is vaulting. Avery and Tagge have been scoring especially high in the event this season, and Temple should take the event. But Temple has been having a tough season, and the Minutemen should sweep the remaining five events and take the meet.

The Minutemen, behind the forces of all arounds Frank Cohen, Hugh O'Neal, Bob Lamb, and Bob Donahue, will be seeking their sixth win of the season, against just three loses.

Temple's best score this season came against Southern Connecticut on February 9, when they tallied a total of 217.85. UMass' best performance came on February 2 against Syracuse, when the Minutemen earned a 244.80.

Mike Estrada
Sport shorts

It is the end of February, usually not a good time weather wise unless you are one of the devoted few who make the three-day-a-week trek to Berkshire East. February is for the armchair athlete and the hot-stove league; a time to watch a lot of television and read alot of sports magazines.

This time of year I am caught up in talking about my beloved baseball and college basketball, the most competitive organizations around. Hence, I offer some of the things to keep in mind.

The Big East basketball league is a godsend. It should be called the ACC north. The Big East has the best college basketball talent in the East, never mind in the country. It's too bad UMass couldn't have gotten involved in a "big league" that is more local. With the exception of St. Bonaventure, UMass is the northern most team in the Eastern Eight. I find it difficult to get interested in a league that has only one team within 200 miles. Especially when your local entry isn't doing very well.

Syracuse picked an opportune moment to join the Big East. Roosevelt Bouie is the backbone of one of the strongest Orangemen squads ever. One other thing—Syracuse just played its last game at Manley Field House; a dirt floor facility built in 1961. Curry Hicks Cage was built in 1931. See you there in 1990.

Mike Gminski of Duke will probably be the next "Great White Hope" to come out of the nation's colleges. He will be a good catch for any NBA team. Besides playing four years in the tough ACC, Gminski is 21st in the nation in scoring, 18th in free throw percentage and 14th in rebounding. He may not have the shooting touch of Larry Bird, and is not quick, but look for him to go in the first round of the draft.

After having the pleasure to see the University of Maine play UMass last weekend, I can understand why Rufus Harris is seventh in the nation in scoring with 26.6 ponts per game. To the chants "RUUUUFUS", the 6 foot 4 inch guard was hitting with consistency from an incredible range. He actually had a four-point play at one time in the game. He set up his shot about 25 feet out (which at UMaine is about three steps from midcourt) and hit over the defense of Ty Nedd. After the shot, Harris was fouled by Nedd, affording him a one-and-one situation from the foul line. He hit them both.

The happiest news out of professional baseball this week is that Roger Moret has been signed as a free agent with the Cleveland Indians. I like Moret, mostly because he is an effective pitcher. When the Red Sox gave up Moret for Tom House in the winter of 1976, his lifetime winning percentage was still over .600. Moret was just another victim in the line of grossly mishandled black players on the Sox. Say hello to New York, Bob Watson. When Moret was having his mental problems, the Sox should have stuck with him. I hope he starts, wins 20 games, and beats the Red Sox 4-0 in Fenway Park in September.

Seeing Joe Morgan in an Astro uniform again is going to make me read Jim Bouton's Ball Four for the fifth time. The best line in that book comes when Bouton was traded to Houston late in 1969 when they were in the middle of a pennant race. (trivia: who eventually won the NL west that year) Morgan has just struck out and as he approached Bouton he said "There are your normal curve balls and then you have your mother /#$%/ curveballs. That was a mother /#$%/ curve ball."

And Ron Leflore is on the Expos. Where, you ask, will the speedster play in the talented outfield of Cromartie, Dawson, and Valentine? "Let him play anywhere he wants," Bill Lee said.

Collegian

Monday, February 25, 1980 — Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst — VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 90

Caucus Tuesday for Amherst Board

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Four out of seven candidates running for two openings on the five-member Amherst Board of Selectmen will be chosen in a non-partisan caucus held tommorrow.

The four chosen candidates will then run in the general election in April.

A listing of polling places appears on page 4.

Of the seven candidates, only one could be called an incumbent. Donald Routh of 41 Lincoln Ave. served one year of Nathaniel Reed's unexpired three-year term when Reed left the area last spring on sabbatical from UMass.

Candidate Background

Since 1965, Routh has served as Dean of Financial Aid at Amherst College. He is a former chairman of the Landlord—Tenant Relation Committe and served for two years on the Board of Health before he was elected to fill Reed's place on the Board of Selectmen.

Clive L. Dym, 65 Overlook Drive, a self-described "political novice," is seeking his first public office.

A resident of Amherst since 1977, Dym is head of the Department of Civil Engineering at UMass. He has experience in management and budgeting as head of a 25-member department whose annual state budget is "around $8000,000."

William Ezbicki, 711 West Street, an Amherst resident of 35 years and a retired realtor, is another newcomer to town politics. Exbicki stresses economics in his campaign. In a piece submitted to the Amherst Morning Record he said "We must seriously analyze our priorities and temper our indulgence with greater discipline."

Richard LaVoice, 306 Pufton Village, is seeking his first town position. He is co-President of the UMass Student Government Association and serves on the UMass Board of Trustees. A past president of the Massachusetts State Students Association, LaVoice is currently New England representative to the United States Student Association Board of Directors. A native of West Springfield, he now resides in Amherst year-round.

Francesca Maltese, 45 High Street, is an Amherst resident of seven years. After graduating from UMass with an economics degree, Maltese served three years with the United States Separtment of Housing and Urban Development and the Local Redevelopment Authority in Washington D.C.

Frank W. Sanders 30 Railroad Street, has lived in Amherst almost 20 years and has worked for the Amherst College plumbing department for nearly 15 years. "My experience as a working man qualifies me to introduce to the Board of Selectmen a new perspective," he said.

Chauncy T. Simmons Jr., 810 Main Street, is running for the third time as a selectmen candidate. He is an Amherst resident of 35 years and served as a Town Meeting Member for five years. Simmons is also a former member of the Amherst Finance Committee. "We must avoid any tendency toward isolationism," as a town, he said.

The Issues

All candidates were asked the following:

Should the existing free bus system be expanded? If so, who should pay for the expansion; the town or the University? Should a fare be imposed if the expansion merits it?

Should the town hold a moratorium on apartment building or should more housing be constructed for senior citizens and students?

What do you (the candidate) think of Rep. Barney Frank's, D-Boston, proposed bill to tax students between $70 and $80 for attending a university or college to be paid to that school's municipality?

Should the area colleges and the Town of Amherst try to interract more or less than they do presently? If so, in what direction should the interraction be emphasized?

Routh said he supports the bus system because "mass transit is the obvious solution to many of our energy problems." Expansion of the line, he said, would be "an appropriate expenditure." Routh added a fare could be charged "at first to test the willingness of the public to pay such a fare."

The success of new senior citizen housing in the area is encouraging, said Routh. The problem could solve itself with time, he added.

Routh does not want to alienate students and siad he would not support Frank's bill.

Interraction between the schools and the town is important, he said. Police protection has been one of his strongest points, he added.

If the bus system is to be expanded, said Dym, the town and University should strive to pay for it in cooperation. Dym is not certain of whether or not the lines need to be expanded, though, he added he thought the best aspect of the line now is that it is free.

On the housing issue, Dym said he had not taken a close enough look at the problem to comment.

Dym said he does not understand the reasoning behind Frank's bill and added, "It stand little chance of surviving."

"Interraction between the schools and the town has been largely intellectual," Dym said. The relationship may be healthier this way but added he'd like to see more cooperation at the departmental level.

Expansion of the bus system would help the town "within reasonable means," Ezbicki said, "if the increase could be used." He did not think a fare should be imposed.

If the town needs more housing, they should provide it, he said, and declined further comment.

Ezbicki said he was not familiar with Frank's bill and declined to comment on it.

The town and University should strive to interract more economically, he said. "In the past, the town and schools have used each other well."

The bus system should gradually be expanded, said LaVoice, either by extending routes or increasing their frequency. "But," he added, "it is the choice of the federal, state, and town governments as well as that of the students."

More housing is necessary because there is currently a shortage, LaVoice said. Prices are being driven up and out of the range of senior citizens and students, he added.

Frank's bill discriminates against students and towns such as Sunderland, that house students, but wouldn't receive benefits from it said LaVoice. "It won't pass," he added.

Interraction between the University and town is essential," said LaVoice. More cooperation would cut out duplication of resources, he said.

Maltese stressed the importance of the bus system because "it enhances the area and makes more activity

TURN TO PAGE 3

A flag-carrying student runs through the Southwest Residential Area yesterday as part of a spontaneous celebration of the U.S. Olympic Hockey gold medal victory. (Staff photo by Richard Newman)

Olympics '80

US hockey brings home Gold

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The dynamic, young United States hockey team came from behind twice to beat Finland 4-2 yesterday and capture this country's first Olympic hockey gold medal in 20 years. It was truly an Olympic feat and the triumph generated more excitement across the nation than even Eric Heiden's record five gold medals in speed skating.

Later Sunday, the Soviet Union routed Sweden 9-2 and won the silver ice hockey medal. Sweden won the bronze.

An outpouring of nationalistic fervor followed the U.S.-Finland game in which Phil Verchota and Rob McClanahan scored third period goals 3:40 apart to break a 2-2 tie. The gold medal climaxed the XIII Winter Games, probably the only Olympics in which an American team will compete this year.

The crowd of 8,500 poured out of the Olympic Fieldhouse, chanting "We're No. 1," "U-SA" and "Bring on Iran." A band struck up "God Bless America" and the crowd sang along.

TURN TO PAGE 4

UMies cheer hockey win

The way students were running around, shouting and waving flags yesterday in the Southwest Residential area, it would seem the U.S. Olympic Hockey Team found the only way to snap the University into a nationalistic frenzy.

Starting with the predictable anti-Soviet shouts, the growing mob began chanting "U-S-A! U-S-A!" Soon flags sppeared in windows and over 100 people began drifting out of the towers and low-rise dormitories to celebrate.

Minutes later, the flags began appearing at ground level carried by several people at once. A group of ten sprinted with a huge flag down the main path in the area shouting "We're number one!" When they slowed, this reporter tried to get a comment from one of the flag-bearers but he was too busy yelling "Whoooooah!" to give any decipherable answer.

After half-an-hour of general chaos, some trumpeteers appeared in the Kennedy tower and, standing next to another large American flag began playing "The Star-Spangled Banner" as well as other patriotic favorites to a growing and singing crowd.

Soon after the crowd decided to celebrate by covering the Prince Dormitory with a barrage of snowballs, according to an eyewitness.

—MARC FAGELSON

James Craig, USA goalie and Boston University student from North Easton holds the American flag yesterday after the USA team beat Finland 4-2. (AP Laserphoto)

DIGEST

The U.N. Commission investigating the former Shah of Iran confer on their first working day in Tehran. From left to right: Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, Iranian Foreign Minister, Mohammed Bedjaoui, Algeria, Andre Aguilar, Venezuela, and Syria's Adib Daoudy. (AP Laserphoto)

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—President Josip Broz Tito's doctors said yesterday the 87-year-old leader's condition remained grave and they are continuing intensive treatment. They made no mention of a disclosure Saturday that he developed pneumonia. Tito, who has ruled Yugoslavia for 35 years, had his leg amputated Jan. 20 and is suffering from heart and kidney weaknesses.

NEW DELHI, India—Soviet troops have blocked access to bridges over the river through Kabul, splitting the Afghan capital in two in an apparent attempt to protect the Soviet Embassy after three days of street violence. Meanwhile, in Bonn, West Germany, a magazine said President Carter asked former Chancellor Willy Brandt last week to act as mediator in the Afghan conflict.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.—The trustees of Wesleyan University Saturday endorsed a five-year program that will boost tuition next year by 13.8 percent, increase the student population and cut some faculty positions, while 150 students and faculty members rallied against the proposals of Wesleyan President Colin Campell. The students claimed the move was premature.

BOSTON—The head of the state library here says he has been "invited to reapply," for his $30,000-a-year job but the Boston Globe reported the position may go to someone other than A. Hunter Rineer, 39, who was recruited for the job in 1973 after a nationwide search. The newspaper reported yesterday the job would go to Gasper Caso Jr. of Belmont, a 25-year library employee who worked for Governor King's election.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Henry M. Jackson predicted last weekend gas will be close to $2 a gallon by the end of 1980. Jackson, the chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, believes the high price of gas and inevitable shortages will swing public opinion toward gas rationing. Jackson also said the Congress is ready to give President Carter broader rationing authority.

IRAN—The work of the U.N. commission in Tehran is in no way connected to the release of the hostages in that city according to Iranian officials. Mansour Farhang, Iranian Ambassador to the United Nations, said "there was no linkage between the formation of the commission and release of the hostages." According to Ayatollah Khomeini the fate of the hostages will be decided by the Iranian Parliament.

PARIS—Exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn has warned the West against arming the Chinese. Writing in a Paris language weekly Solzhenitsyn said the West will defeat Russia with the help of China but then will not be able "to contain Chinese communism and stop it on its way to world domination." According to Solzhenitsyn the way for the "free world" to resist communism is to ally with the peoples under communist domination.

WASHINGTON—The Pentagon has opposed a study of the effect of Agent Orange on 2 million soldiers in Vietnam. The defense department rejected the idea of a study on the chemical defoliant on the grounds that it would be too expensive. A New York attorney is demanding a study as part of a $44 million suit brought for 3,000 veterans. In recent years, veterans have complained of disorders which they blame on Agent Orange.

NEW YORK—A member of the New York Times was awarded a George Polk Award in Journalism. John Kifner of the Times was awarded for his coverage of the fall of the shah and the rise of the revolutionary government in Iran. Kifner conducted the first interview with American hostages from within the embassy compound.

Statute may block state attempt to recover damages for library

Though the state Attorney General's Office has filed a lawsuit against the estate of the architect who designed the UMass library, an "ambigous statute" could block the Commonwealth's attempt to recover damages for alleged design flaws of the 28-story structure.

Paul Goode, assistant attorney general, was quoted Thursday by The Associated Press as saying he hoped an exception to the three-year statute could be found that would allow the suit to continue, though the library was built in 1973.

Formerly, the statute allowed 20 years before lawsuits involving building construction could be limited. The state Legislature, however, recently passed a bill allowing a restriciton of three years after detection of such problems, or six years after construction began—after extensive lobbying from an association of architects.

Presently, the state is attempting to sue the estate of the late architect Edward Durrell Stone and his New York firm, which designed the library—which was closed last year after studies showed brick facade panels were insecurely attached to the building's walls.

A spokesman for the sucessor firm, Stone Associates, told AP that the Stone partners who had a hand in the library's design "are scattered throughout the country"—which could pose another legal problem in the state's suit.

Female theater prepares musical

By SIOBHAN C. BREEN
Special to the Collgian

The only all-female theater in the Pioneer Valley, the Women's Community Theater has begun preparations for its 1980 musical production "Special Cases."

According to Sarah Alleman, author of "Special Cases" and a member of the theater's board of directors, the musical will be the theater's first production under the group's new title.

The organization was formerly named the Amherst Feminist Repertory Company. "Women were being frightened by the politics and professionalism that the name implied," Allmen siad, citing this as a major reason for the change of the group's name.

Written by Sarah Alleman and composed by Frenia Shrewsbury, "Special Cases" is about the Women Army Corps. Alleman, who has been with the theater since 1975, has acted in, written, and directed productions for the theater.

Only scripts with all-female casts are utilized by the theater. "Shows which have women presented in a positive light as opposed to women in the general media," Alleman said.

In the past, the theater has worked in comedy, satire, a one—act musical and a play based on two mothers during World War II.

Auditions for "Special Cases" will be March 4th in the Student Union from 7 to 10 p.m., Bangs Community Center on the 5th, and on the 6th in the Theatre Building at Smith College. There are 11 major parts in the show.

The group is also recruiting a production staff for the musical. The first meeting will be held Thursday February 28, 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. in the Amherst Room of Jones Library in Amherst.

Volunteers besiege NH towns and residents to push candidates before Tuesday's primary

DERRY, N.H.—It was almost impossible for anyone in New Hampshire to watch the Olympics, have Sunday dinner or do anything else without being interrupted by some part of the presidential election process.

With fewer than 48 hours remaining before Tuesday's primary, the state was blanketed with the incessant ringing of telephones and door bells as the thousands of volunteers who have inundated the state, frantically rushed to make a last-minute pitch for votes for their candidates.

In scores of communities, at major intersections, ski areas and in front of churches and movie theaters, motorists, skiers, church-goers and those just trying to get out for the day were besieged by placard waving volunteers. Those who abandoned their homes to flee non-stop TV commericials just found more on their car radios.

In Nashua, zealots for Ronald Reagan and George Bush got into a shoving match on a snow-covered traffic island in the middle of a highway. Motorists honked and cheered until a volunteer for John Anderson broke up the fight and restored peace to the 15-foot-long island.

However, the brief conflict in the Nashua snow was a drastic departure from the less exciting tedium that marked the duties of most campaign workers.

In crowded rooms throughout the state, people hunched over telephones, pouring over computerized lists of voters, trying to find people who hadn't been called before, or those who had earlier said they were undecided.

"We presume at this stage that those identified as undecided have, in fact, made up their minds and simply do not want to tell us or anybody else who they want to vote for," said Ellis Woodward, one of Jimmy Carter's senior staffers.

The Carter campaign increased the number of calls it had planned to make and Woodward estimated that about 30,000 households would be called this weekend.

"The last weekend is always critical, but for us it has become even more important to remind people to vote," he said. "We're afraid that people will see today's (Boston) Globe poll which says we're 25 points ahead of Kennedy and feel they don't have to vote.

Correction

Fred Winer—Central Residential Area assistant cluster coordinator—has not contacted the Legal Services Organization concerning leaking roofs in Gorman Dormitory, as was reported in Friday's Collegian. Winer said the University "is doing the best it can" to repair the roofs, contrary to the Collegian story.

HEY KID!
Let me tell ya' something
"Happy Twentieth"
—The Kid

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—
Mondays
Rock & Reggae &
White Lightning Specials 6-10 PM
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

PRETERM
If you have an unwanted pregnancy... talk with one of our counselors about your decision.
Abortion/Gynecological Care/Vasectomy/Tubal Ligation
A licensed non-profit Reproductive Health Center
1842 BEACON ST. BROOKLINE, MASS. 02146
(617) 738-6210
PRETERM

Visit
TACO LINDO
At Cafe Square
at
The Hampshire Mall
SPECIAL THIS WEEK
2 Tacos & Soft Drink $1.85

IDB TIPS
Last Day to Drop Course with a "W"
Today is the last day for undergraduates and Continuing Education students to drop a course with a "W" (withdrawn)
The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore
545-1555

Assembly of anti-N activists

By JEFF BAGLEY
Collegian Staff

The Northeast Student Conference for a Nuclear-Free Future sponsored by the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide came to what SCANN members called a "very successful" conclusion yesterday after a shaky start Friday due to organizational problems and inclement weather.

The conference, the first of its kind, attended by students and anti-nuclear advocates from all over the eastern United States, began in the Student Union Ballroom with a series of speakers and a film "The War at Home." The film documents the anti-Vietnam War movement.

Bheki Langa, director of the Center for Racial Studies at UMass, began with a message on the necessity of setting racism aside so that people can "unite in the movement against nukes for moral reasons." Langa was forced to flee his native South Africa after organizing oppressed workers in strikes against the multi-national corporations in his homeland.

The expatriate said that the "U.S. sees everything as an East-West conflict" when in reality much global tension, including South Africa and the Persian Gulf, is caused by multi-national corporate interests that profit from the nuclear industry.

Bob Gustafson, 44, of Newburyport, Mass., a citizen of the Mohawk Indian Nation said, "Statistics show that at least 55 percent of the uranium deposits in the U.S. are under Indian land. The Indians are determined to hold onto their land. For my people Mother Earth is sacred, and you do not rape your mother."

Gustafson's talk included accounts of Indian mutant offspring, children of uranium miners born without facial features and mouths in their throats.

Daniel Sheehan, council for the Silkwood family, spoke about their successful fight with Keer McGee, a nuclear industry. Karen Silkwood was killed in a car accident while delivering evidence to a New York Times reporter about safety violations by Keer-McGee. The Silkwoods have received $10.5 million, the largest personal injury settlement in U.S. history. Sheehan said the fight will not be over until we prove "who is responsible for Karen Silkwood's death."

Later in the conference, Sheehan spoke of the Barton Report prepared for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission which recommended that the President be allowed to declare a state of emergency if nuclear materials are missing. The report suggests allowing the President to circumvent the judicial process in the ensuing investigations including mass round-ups of dissidents and the use of torture, Sheehan said.

The conference became less formal Saturday in the Campus Center as emphasis was placed on workshops that ranged from "Alternative Energy" to "Working With the Media." Participants gained ideas to be taken back to their schools and communitie

In the "Atoms for War and Peace" workshop Marvin Kalkstein, a physics professor at UMass, said that until recently the first country to initiate a nuclear strike would lose because accuracy was not good enough to destroy all the victim's weapons. Thus, a return volley aimed at people and property would have still been possible. As a result, a kind of stability existed between nuclear powers, Kalkstein said.

But U.S. developments in target accuracy and multi-warheads capability destroyed that stability. A first strike can now destroy weapons as well as people and property. Kalkstein said that the nuclear warhead numbers game "could lead to nuclear confrontation" because there is now "an incentive to strike first."

A meeting of about 150 people was held Sunday morning in the Student Union Ballroom comprised from colleges and universities from the entire east cost to discuss anti-nuke activities planned for the coming spring.

Michael Bedford, of Somerville, speaking at the "Nuclear Technology and the Third World" workshop said "the third world issues is traditionally excluded in anti-nuclear discussions." Using the Philippines as an example, Bedford said a nuclear power plant is being planned for construction within 10 miles of the active volcano, Natib. Safety standards in third world countries are lax Bedford said.

A Philippine Energy board study in 1966 determined that 24 geothermal generating plants could be powered directly from Natib, Bedford said.

Only 30 percent of the energy from the nuclear plant will be used by the Philippine people. Bedford said the rest would be used by military bases and "run-away shops," businesses that have left the U.S. to escape taxes and to exploit labor.

Philippine workers are not allowed to strike. Women, as young as 14 work for as little as 80 cents a day in U.S. owned businesses, Bedford said.

Saturday night the conference moved back to the Student Union Ballroom where speeches were heard. Anna Gyorgy, local activist and author of "No Nukes Everyones' Guide to Nuclear Power" spoke on the anti-nuke movement in Europe which is very strong, she said.

Barry Commoner, a possible presidential candidate on the Citizen's Party ticket, spoke to an enthralled audience of over 6,000

A call for Citizens

By JEFF BAGLEY
Collegian Staff

Barry Commoner, vying for the Citizen's Party presidential ticket, spoke to an audience of over 600 people in the Student Union Ballroom Saturday night.

The Citizen's Party goals include a program to put the multi-national corporations under public control, rapid phasing out of all nuclear power, transition to solar power, and a reversal in military spending for weaponry to useful production.

Commoner's witty speech, sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program, was geared to the anti-nuclear movement that continues to gain nationwide momentum.

Commoner praised the anti-nuclear movement. As a result of it there is now a moratorium against nuclear power, he said. "The anti-nuclear movement has turned the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the government into a liar."

Commoner brought cheers from the audience when he said, "Nuclear power is an inherently stupid way to boil water." But he warned that a half of the nuclear power industry will cause new problems. Commoner said that people must be ready to pay a high price for the change to alternative energy.

The success of the anti-nuclear movement "will raise the rate of electricity," Commoner said. "A lot of people will suffer, particularly the poor." Coal conversion will cause a sulphur dioxide pollution problem, he said.

The winners of the movement "will have the moral responsibility to solve the problems that will be the consequence of victory," Commoner said.

Commoner, author of "The Politics of Energy", criticized the Carter Doctrine. "Wouldn't it be better to take over the Texas oil fields rather than the Iranian oil fields?" he said.

The anti-Vietnam War movement made an "enormous accomplishment by getting rid of Johnson and Nixon" but the victors failed to take control of political power, the 63-year-old Washington University professor said. He said the U.S. is going through a period in history similar to that just prior to the Civil War when the two controlling parties, then as now, didn't have the capability "or guts to approach the problems."

"We need our own political party" to stand against multi-corporate interests and for such things as public funded railroads and alternate energy sources. "You've got a party," Commoner said, "The Citizens' party."

★ Election

CONT FROM PAGE 1

possible for the town." Keeping the service free should take precedence over expansion, she said.

"Apartment construction must be taken in context," she said, and and overall policy of what the town must be like is also needed.

"$70 to $80 is a lot for a student to pay when one considers tuition hikes," said Maltese. The bill has little chance of surviving, she added.

Students should participate more in town surveys, she said, the town and University need to know about themselves, and to interract more with each other is the best way.

Because students benefit most from the busses, Sanders said, andy expansion of the system should be paid for by imposing a fare.

The town should not attempt any more apartment construction on their own, he said. "If everyone puts in their share, then it would be OK."

Frank's bill is not fair to outlying towns and Sanders also believed it would not pass.

The town and University should try to help each other out. The University's size is important and it could benefit both to concentrate their resources.

Mass transit is important, stressed Simmons, but to provide additional service is "an intricate process." Much discussion would be needed, he said, before a fare could be imposed.

The town should begin construction on new housing, Simmons said. Although the costs would be great Simmons said he wants the town to regain the momentum of expansion.

"I can't buy that," said Simmons of Frank's bill. His reaction was "negative" and he said it will probably go down to defeat.

Simmons called the University "a great addition to the community" and hopes the town and college can work together more in the future. "They shouldn't get too close administratively," he added.

The candidacy for a selectman position can be as satisfying as winning the post itself. As one of the candidates said, "You see what's going on and it makes you want to see what you can do. It's very rewarding."

Pratt Museum monitor Laurie Wirt, a geology major at Amherst College, finds herself within drooling distance of a very big friend; a giant mastadon. The museum boasts one of the best collections of prehistoric restorations in New England. (Staff photo by Bill Sample)

House reviews drinking age

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Three bills calling for changes in the State's drinking age will be heard by lawmakers in the State House in Boston this week.

This afternoon the full House of Representatives will consider Rep. James Collins', D-Amherst, bill to repeal last year's action which raised the drinking age from 18 to 20. The bill, House bill H-2990, was previously rejected by the joint Governmental Regulations Committee, said Ken Mosakowski of the UMass Student Center for Education Research and Advocacy.

The House will be asked to decide whether or not to accept the recommendation of the Governmental Regulations Committee.

"I suspect they will vote to approve the report," which would defeat Collins' bill, Mosakowski said.

Tomorrow two more bills affecting the drinking age will be heard by the Governmental Regulations Committee, Mosakowski said. The first, House bill H-5351, calls for the lowering fo the drinking age to 19.

The other bill toi be considered, House bill H-5946, would raise the drinking age to 21. Mosakowski said the Committee will hear testimony on both bills Tuesday.

Mosakowski said he urges all students to call their legislators to express their sentiments on the bills. He said students seeking the names of their legislators can call SCERA's Public Policy Team for the information. He said a SCERA representative will be sent to Boston on Tuesday to address the Governmental Regulations Committee.

Yesterday's victory by the U.S. Olympic Hockey Team brought a wild and patriotic reaction from campus residents. Here three flag groups run back and forth through the Southwest Residential Area. (Staff photo by Rich Newman)

★ Olympics

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

While fans snake-danced through Lake Placid's Main Street to the strains of "When the saints go marching in," goalie Jim Craig was telling newsmen "Everybody on this team played their hearts out. We knew we'd have to wear that gold. The price of gold keeps going up, you know."

The two main celebrities cheering the U.S. hockey team to victory Sunday were Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Eric Heiden, who Saturday became the first man to sweep five gold medals in any Winter Games. He set a world record in the men's 10,000-meter speed skating event after setting Olympic records in the four earlier races.

"This is one of the greatest moments I've been through in my life," said Mondale, who comes from Minnesota—hockey country—and admitted to being "sort of" a hockey freak.

Amherst polls open Tuesday

Amherst polling places vary by precinct, but all will be open from 12 to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Precinct one voters report to the North Amherst Parish Hall—opposite Watroba's Store.

Precinct two voters report to the North Fire Station on East Pleasant St.

Precinct three voters report to the Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Pleasant St. Precinct three includes all UMass residential areas with the exception of Southwest.

Precincts four and five voters report to the Bangs Center. Precinct four includes the Southwest Residential Area.

Precinct six voters report to the Fort River School on South East St.

Precinct seven voters report to the Crocker Farm School on West St.

Precinct eight voters report to the Munson Library. on South East. St.

Ellen Frank and Wendy Cohen cut sheepskin from which they will make slippers. They are working in the Student Union Craftshop which offers free instruction to all students in many crafts. (Staff photo by John Bunting)

Vote tomorrow in the Amherst town elections, and let the student voice be heard!

OPENING MONDAY 25TH
Finest Chinese Chef
from 3-star New York Restaurant

SZE'S CHINESE CUISINE

MANDARIN SZECHUAN CUISINE
Lunch $3-$4
Dinner Specials
"Steamboat" for two

Sunday-Thursday 11 am - 10 pm
Friday-Saturday 11 am - 11 pm
586--5708

50 Main St. Northampton

From Disco to Dorm
Our Perfect Perm $22.50
Wed. Special - Haircut & Blow Dry $8.00
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL 584-0111
od Feb. 25-Mar. 1st

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

Amherst Store Now Delivering for Lunch at 11 AM

4 FREE 12 OZ. COKES WITH A LARGE PIZZA
2 FREE 12 OZ. COKES WITH A SMALL PIZZA

584-7583
143 Main St.
Florence
.5 PM - 1 AM

256-8587
Corner Main & Triangle
Amherst
11 AM - 3 AM

Your Pizza will arrive hot and within 30 minutes

This certificate entitles the bearer to a reduction
$1 OFF
Any size two-item Pizza ordered
Sunday thru Thursday in February
256-8587 584-7583 one coupon per pizza

JOIN THE MILLER PICK 'EM UP PROGRAM

Miller Brewing Company
Invites your Dorm, Fraternity, Sorority President and Social Chairman to a

MILLER PICK 'EM UP PARTY

2/25/80
Date

Charlie's 1 pray St. Amherst
Place

7:30 PM
Time

Kevin Buckley 253-9987
Lori Schlagen 549-1869
RSVP

Information will be provided concerning the Miller Pick 'em Up Contest

Food, Drink — Miller High Life — & Lots of Fun.

Notices

SUSAN DARKE, the Coordinator of ORPHAN VOYAGE, an adoptee Search and Support Group, will be speaking tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the MacKimmie House lounge in the Southwest Residential Area. Susan will speak on adoptee's roots and rights and all are welcome. Call 549-1114 for more information.

PSYCHOLOGY MAJORS - Important Meeting of The Council of Undergraduates in Psychology (CUSP). Monday February 25, at 4:00, in toom 423 Tobin. Plans for spring semester will be discussed as well as preparations for fall. Membership open to all interested students.

OUTING CLUB MEETING, Mon. Feb. 25, at 7:00 in Rm. 168, CC. Adventure to the wilds of the Arctic with Jim Able. New members always welcome. Trips announced and Smoke Signals cometh...

HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE meets every Monday Night Brett Lounge at 7:30 PM. All are welcome!

BICYCLE CLUB meeting Rm. 176, CC. Topics will include spring break tour plans, repair demonstration and club activities for the spring. People planning to go on the spring trip are urged to attend.

STUDENTS AGAINST SEXUAL HARASSMENT (SASH) will meet tomorrow in Campus Center Room 168 at 7:00 p.m. All interested students are welcome.

THE CAMPUS PARKING OFFICE, Room 1, Munson Hall, will be closed on February 28, 1980, for repairs, until 1:00 p.m.

PRE-DENTAL CLUB: General meeting February 28, at 7:00 p.m. in room 165 c.c. Discussions will be field trips, upcoming speakers and general issues. All Are Welcome!!

SECOND SEMESTER SOPHOMORE wishing to design individualized majors should contact the Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration Program (BDIC) in 15 Bartlett Hall well before preregistration for Fall '80. Call 5-0736 for informaiton.

THIRD WORLD STUDENTS interested in doing a summer or fall internship. Attend a meeting on Thursday at 7:30 New Africa House.

MEN AGAINST VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN-All area men interested in working to combat violence against women, there will be a meeting Wednesday at 7:30 in romm 174 Campus Center. For more info call Louie at 546-4554 or Bill at 546-4562.

STUDENTS UNITED FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION will be holding its Organizational meeting on Wednesday, February 27, 1980 at 9:30 p.m. in Machmer W-23. New members welcome.

STUDENTS AGAINST THE DRAFT (SAD) will be holding their weekly general meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 27 at five o'clock in the Campus Center, rooms 904-908.

WOMEN OF SOUTHWEST—ASupport Group is forming where you can openly discuss issues pertinent to your own life with other interested women! You are invited to an INTRODUCTORY MEETING Tuesday, February 26, at 7:00 pm in the Southwest Women's Center.
The group will focus discussions on issues of sexuality, realtionsnips, jobs, school and the future.
For more information call Southwest Women's Center 545-0626

PHOTO CONTEST DEADLINE EXTENDED to March 14. For B&W and color prints. Cash prizes and possible gallery display. Details available at CC 817, and entries are due at the Print Shop at 225 Campus Center. Open to any UMass student.

THE KUNDALINI YOGA CLUB sponsors yoga instruction for all M-Th 4-5:30 in the campus center. $1 per session. (see CC schedule for room number) Members must meet Thursday Feb. 28 at 5:00 in CC rm 911 to vote on the constitution.

MASSPIRG will be holding an organizational meeting on THURSDAY MARCH 6th, NOT Monday March 3rd as stated in original notice. Please make this correction.

MON., FEB. 25: UMASS HUNGER TASK FORCE, 4:30-5:30 in Commonwealth Room (Earth Foods). If you can't make the meeting, call Pete at 545-2661.

WED. FEB. 27: 2PM ECUM (Ecumenical Council of UMass) meets from 2-3:30 in the Duke's room.

WED. FEB. 27: UCF Board Winter Meeting at 7PM Student Lounge at the Immanuel Lutheran Church (Just north of School of Ed.). Keynote speaker Dr. Charles Lake, Minister/Coordinator, Massachusetts Commission of United Ministries in Higher Education. Meeting is open. For information or transportation call UCF, 545-2661.

SUN., MARCH 2' HOUSE CHURCH. Small group experience of biblical search, personal encounter, and candle light communion is open to all regardless of denomination or theological position. 7-9pm, in 428 Student Union, meets every Sunday. For more infor call 545-2661. UCF Chaplain Pete Sabey is facilitator and celebrant.

THE STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD will meet on Wednesday, February 27, at 6:00, in the Employees Lounge of the University Health Services.

MASSACHUSETTS PUBLIC RESEARCH GROUP (MassPIRG) will be holding an organizational meeting on Thursday, March 6 at 7:00 p.m. in the Campus Center. Issue areas for new projects are auto repair rip offs, consumer problems, and alternative energy. All students are welcome.

Do you have a CONSUMER COMPLAINT?
The UMass Consumer Action Center can help you get results.
Center services are available to all Five College students, faculty, staff, and area residents. Open Monday through Friday from 9-5. Located on the second floor of the UMass Student Union in room 423B.
For more information or assistance call 545-0199 or 545-0781, or stop by anytime.

COMMUNTIY FORUM
Inerested in learning more about Intimacy and Interpersonal Relationships? Then plan on attending the upcoming COMMUNITY FORUM, sponsored by the Health Education and Mental Health Divisions, University Health Services, March 3rd, 7:00-8:30 p.m., Campus Center room 804, UMass.
Ron Mazur, Coordinator of Peer Sexuality Education Program at UHS, will make an informal presentation on "Interpersonal Relationships: Intimacy, Communication, and Change." Among the topics to be discussed in this educational program will be :male and female roles, expectations of others in relationships, risk-taking, and breaking-up.
This program is open to the UMass community without charge.

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Mondays
Rock & Reggae &
White Lightning Specials 6-10 PM
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

EUROPE by CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
45 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
☐ RENTAL ☐ LEASE ☐ PURCHASE
☐ EURAIL PASS & YOUTH PASS

Selling something? Do it in the Collegian classifieds

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Twi Lite Show Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP MALL ON CAFE SQ RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG
STAR TREK (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15 G
THE FOG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS
James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG
STEVE MARTIN The JERK (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Richard Gere American Gigolo (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
DO NOT EAT. DOM DeLUISE ANNE BANCROFT Fatso (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 PG

Jobs! Lake Tahoe California!
Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600 $3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application Info/Referals. LAKEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

JEANE DIXON'S HOROSCOPES BY·PHONE*

What's forecast for your day? Dial New York direct!

Aries (March 22-April 20) 1-212-936-5050
Taurus (April 21-May 21) 1-212-936-5151
Gemini (May 22-June 21) 1-212-936-5252
Cancer (June 22-July 23) 1-212-936-5353
Leo (July 24-Aug. 23) 1-212-936-5454
Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) 1-212-936-5656
Libra (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) 1-212-936-5757
Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) 1-212-936-5858
Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) .. 1-212-936-5959
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) ... 1-212-936-6060
Aquarius (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) 1-212-936-6161
Pisces (Feb. 20-March 21) 1-212-936-6262

Hear your horoscope in a minute.

Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-5 p.m. ... 43¢
Sunday-Friday 5 p.m.-11 p.m. ... 27¢
Sunday-Friday 11 p.m.-8 a.m. ... 17¢
Sunday 8 a.m.-5 p.m. ... 17¢
Saturday All day ..... 17¢
Tax not included

*A service mark of Horoscopes-By-Phone, Inc.

New England Telephone

Fabrics of Life inc.
SALE
Feb 25 - Mar 1
20% off all Interfacing, Batting, Linings & Trim
50% off all Vogue Patterns in stock
Authorized Swiss Bernina dealer
Open 10-5:30 Mon.-Fri. 10-5 Sat.
110 King St., Northampton (the yellow house) 584-3596

Monday night is
"Mug Night"
25¢ Beers
with a Barse's Mug
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

University & Office Supplies
Scotch Highlander/low noise Cassettes
Special Price: 3/5.35
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Around campus

New bus route begins today

The Pioneer Valley Transit Authority has announced that experimental bus service to the Cushman area of Amherst will start operating today.

The UMass Student Senate Transit Service will operate six trips daily between the Cushman area and the campus, according to the following schedule: Leave UMass 7:20 a.m., 8:20 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 4:40 p.m., and 5:40 p.m. Leave Pine and Henry Streets: 7:30 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 11:40 a.m., 1:40 p.m., 4:50 p.m., and 5:50 p.m.

Buses will operate via Henry St., Bridge St., Pine St., East Pleasant St., Eastman Lane, and North Pleasant St. to UMass campus.

Women to plan week tonight

The next planning meeting for International Women's Week will be held tonight at 7:30 in Campus Center rooms 804 808. All women interested in preparing for the week, which takes place March 3 thru 8 at UMass, are welcome.

Chemist to speak on RNA

Dr. Robert J. Cedergren, of the Department of Biochemistry at the University of Montreal, will speak on "The Evolving RNA Molecule," at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 27, in room 203 Graduate Research Center. Coffee will be served at 3:20 p.m.

Abuse victims to form group

Two support groups for women will begin the week of March 2nd at Everyewoman's Center. A support group for adult women who were victims of childhood sexual abuse/assault will begin Monday, March 3rd, and will meet at 6-8 p.m. at EWC. The group will run for ten weeks. To sign up, contact Holly Wheeler at EWC or at 256-0364.

A support group for rape victims will begin Tuesday evening, March 4th, from 7:30-9 p.m. at EWC. The group will run for eight weeks, and is free and confidential. For further information call Everywomen's Center, or contact Lin Morris at 256-0569 (5-6p.m.).

EWC offers support group

There will be a general support group for women under 25 beginning at Everywomen's Center on Wednesday, March 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The group will be for women under 25 who wish to come together regularly with other women to give support to each other and to explore common issues.

Panel discussion planned

The organizing committee of International Women's Week is sponsoring a panel discussion on "Women's Role in Social Change," on Wednesday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. The panel will be representative of women who are involved in various struggles in the movement to change society.

Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Sponsors

FREE UP AN HOUR FOR US AND WE'LL FREE THE REST OF THE SEMESTER FOR YOU!

Always behind?

Tired of studying all night?

Fed up with assignments that would take a super-human to finish?

Sick of having no time for you?

The Systems 2000 Free Speed Reading Lesson couldn't be closer.

The Systems 2000 Free Speed Reading Lesson couldn't be more convenient than it is right now.

It just takes an hour: Systems 2000 Speed Reading wants an hour of your time to teach you how to get more out of your life than the grind of study.

Why haven't you joined the millions of others who have taken a free speed reading lesson and found the answers to the better way.

What's it worth to learn how to
• Study more effectively • Comprehend more
• Retain more information • Get better grades

What would you pay to be able to
• Have weekends free • Have more time for you

We are offering
• FREE diagnostic testing • FREE reading information
• FREE counseling • FREE glimpse of what you can do right

FREE UP AN HOUR FOR US AND WE'LL FREE THE REST OF THE SEMESTER FOR YOU.

Open to all University of Massachusetts students, faculty, staff and friends. All Free Lessons held in the Campus Center at the following times:

MON Feb. 25	TUES Feb. 26	WED Feb. 27	THURS Feb. 28	FRI Feb. 29	SAT Mar. 1
11:30 a 165	12:00 p 905	12:30 p 176	11:30 a 168	12:30 p 165	12:30 p 165
2:00 p 165	2:30 p 905	3:00 p 176	2:00 p 168	3:30 p 165
7:00 p 165	6:30 p 905	6:00 p 176	5:30 p 168	6:30 p 165

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS THE HOUR THAT COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE.

© Lifetime Learning Systems, Inc. Sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity

The Dead's head plays it 'true to form'

By RICK ALVORD
Collegian Staff

The Jerry Garcia Band was true to form last Wednesday night at the Fine Arts Center. Despite a fairly short show, Garcia demonstrated the techinical finese which has made him great.

Never being an avid follower of Garcia or the "Dead," I found that I could easily be convinced after witnessing Garcia's mastery of the fretboard.

Last spring many concert-goers left unimpressed by Garcia and the "Dead," the long solos and jams proved only a backdrop to the primary occupation of partying. However, Wednesday night Garcia proved to be the total center of attention mesmorizing the audience.

Garcia did not get involved at all with the audience, though there was dynamic interaction on the stage between the band members; trading off exquisite solos and jovial expressions of delight and amusement between Garcia and the keyboardist, blank expression by the bassist, and multiple expressions of estranged nature by the percussionist. The bass solo was the only low point of the concert. The audience responded by clapping for ambiguous reasons, either respect and conditioning or mere delight that he was finished. Stripping away the rhetoric: it sucked! This being such a minute portion of an overall tremendous performance, it can easily be overlooked and hopefully forgotten.

Robert Hunter, the warm-up act, could be described as a technical screamer, (Yes, I know who he is). His vocal expression was truly unique and very satisfying, though somewhat hard to understand in respect to reason.

If those folks in this community who have a high disdain for "Dead Heads" had attended this concert, (with an open mind) it is as assured they would understand, and possibly their eyes and ears would be opened to appreciate the source.

Staff photo by Doug Paulding

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

ACCOUNTING, ECONOMICS, PHYSICS, MATH, STATISTICS, SPANISH, COMMUNICATION STUDIES, CHEMISTRY, POLITICAL SCI, BUSINESS LAW, PHILOSOPHY, MARKETING, BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary.
APPLICATIONS:are available in New Africa House, room 217.

David Whitman Hair Shack

Permanent for $30, includes the haircut. Also, a free Jhiramack product w/the perm.

124 Amity St., Amherst
549-5111

COUPON

1 COUPON PER PURCHASE COUPON GOOD THRU 2/29/80

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

If you need a brake job, try to stop at Midas

MIDASIZE YOUR BRAKES

And never again buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car.
Once our professionals reapir your brakes, you'll never have to buy new pads or linings as long as you own your car. If they become defective, they will be replaced absolutely free in any one of the 1000 Midas shops around the world.

THE LOW COST WAY TO END IMPORT CAR SHAKES

McPherson Strut Cartridges Installed The Midas Way

$119.95 installed

Midas has the right shock for the way you drive.

We'll save you trouble at Midas because our 20 years experience means the right shocks for your car no matter how you drive.

And if anything ever goes wrong with a Lifeguard, Superguard or Springuard shock we'll replace it free for as long as you own your car from 8.95 ea. installed

143 King St. Northampton
MIDAS®
586-4840
Mon-Fri. 8-5:30 Sat. 8-2:00

NEED A SUMMER job?

ASSURE YOURSELF OF AN INTERVIEW WITH ONE OF MORE THAN 25 CAMPS TO BE REPRESENTED AT:

CAMP DAY
Monday March 3, 1980
Campus Center Auditorium

Come to STUDENT EMPLOYMENT, rm. 239A Whitmore, and secure an assured interview. Salaries range fromm $400-$2200 plus room and board depending on qualifications and experience. Love of children essential.

People needed with skills in:

Archery, Arts and Crafts, Basketball, Baseball, Ceramics, Camp Craft, Ecology, Fishing, Food Service, Golf, Gymnastics, Ham radio, Horseback Riding, Israeli Dance & Music, Judo, Lacrosse, Leather Working, Metal Working, Maintenance, Music, Media, Mountain Climbing, Nature Lore, Nursing, Photography, Piano, Riflery, Sailing, Softball, Scuba Diving, Small Craft, Soccer, Special Ed for Handicapped, Secretarial Work, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre Arts, Track & Field, Water Safety Instructors, Wilderness Camping, Water Skiing

UMass offenders: victims on trial

He stood there, tapping his summons on the counter of the office of the Clerk of the District Court. He had an idea what was going to happen. First there was the message to call home, and then one of the clerk's secretaries said "Oh, the defendant called and said he couldn't make it today."

But he still stood there, waiting for the clerk, waiting to hear that he, a victim of forgery and grand larceny, would have to wait until the accused decided to show up.

JOE QUINLAN

"You have one of those, too," a voice from behind said. He turned around and saw a woman point at his summons. She placed her own summons on the counter, and said "I don't know why I'm here."

Like him, she was a UMass student, and he saw that her summons listed a campus address. He also saw that she was accused of larceny under $100.

"Missing dormitory furniture?" he asked her.

"No. But I was caught stealing some pens in the (campus) store, but that wasn't even $10."

Shoplifting. She was caught for petty larceny and they were out to bust her. "Were you ever caught before?" he asked.

"No."

"On disciplinary probation?"

"No."

An $8 first offense and a criminal record? He shook his head. It cost more for the secretaries to type and mail the summons.

"Do you have an attorney?"

"No."

He told her what might happen, but qualified his explanation by suggesting that she talk to Legal Services.

"Legal Services?" She didn't know about the student Legal Services Office in Campus Center 922. She didn't know that she could have received some free counseling there. And so she ended up in court unprepared.

She was called into the Juvenile Court Room, where the clerk holds his show/cause hearings.

A secretary came to the counter to tell the other student, still waiting to know why the defendant could not make the hearing, to tell him he could see the clerk after the shoplifting hearing.

The shoplifting defendant walked out of the Juvenile Court Room, visibly upset. "I have to go to court," she said. "He's filing a criminal complaint against me." She said that after the hearing, she had asked the store detective—a student—why the complaint. He said he had the complaint filed because she did not hand over the pens when he first confronted her.

"I didn't, I was scared." She said she hesitated because he had started to read her rights and she didn't know what to do.

She said the store detective said he was sorry. She said she then asked again, why? And he started saying that the store is ripped off $50,000 every year, she said as she started to leave the courthouse to return to campus and classes.

The secretary brought the other student into the Juvenile Court Room to see the clerk. The clerk, upon hearing who the student was, told him the defendant had called the court earlier in the morning and said his car had broken down. The clerk said the defendant asked for a postponement till next week. "Be there a week from tomorrow, at the same time," the clerk told the student.

The student left the courthouse, his head spinning by his vision of the wheels of justice in motion. A student, a first offender accused of petty larceny, was being dragged through the mud of a court proceedings, possibly earning herself an arrest and even a conviction record, when she should have faced a campus judicial process and given a fair shake.

And at the same time, a person accused of forgery and grand larcency was allowed to reschedule his hearing without the victim being consulted.

Joe Quinlan is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Dislike the draft& Write a letter

To the Editor:

To those of you who feel helpless in the face of the impending threat of registration and future draft, we want to remind you that there is something you can do.

The bill to appropriate $20.6 million to fund Carter's call for registration is being considered by the House Budget Committee now. The final decision will be made Feb. 26.

We urge you to write to Rep. Edward Boland, Chairman of the House Budget Committee and Democrat from Massachusetts at: 2426 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515, before this date. We must let him know that we oppose any support he would give to this proposal.

This same bill will be on the Senate floor for funding on March 11. To express your opposition write to William Proxmire(D. Wisc.), Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee at: 5241 Dirkson Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510.

If the funding for this proposal is not allocated there will be no registration. This does not have to be an inevitable part of our future.

We urge you to voice your opinions and help stop the draft.

Laurie Kleinmann
Barbara Fontaine
For the AD Hoc Committee
Against Registration for the Draft and Increased Militarism

IVCF purpose: to provide info

To the Editor:

There seems to be some confusion about the purpose of the table, stocked with Christian literature, that is located in the Campus Center Concourse three days a week. By the behavior of many individuals who pass by the table you would think that it is set up to antagonize the campus community. That is an unfortunate misunderstanding.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship (IVCF) staffs, supplies, and sets up the table for the purpose of providing information. We realize that the nature of the information, concerning Biblical Christianity, is bound to be controversial. Yet we don't attempt to offend anyone, but just seek to open a line of communication that might otherwise not be available to many students.

We would encourage and welcome any sincere discussion and communication. Come by our table if you're interested.

Michael D'Alessandro
Member IVCF

Letters to the Editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

Editorial/Opinion

We have met the enemy—and forgotten him

ERIC JANSZEN

Weeks have passed since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and the President's wreckless restoration of "peacetime" draft registration for 19 and 20 year old innocents. ("Vietnam. That's in Korea, right?") Yet in spite of the national media's success in pushing distant mayhem into visceral contact with the nightmare of American entanglement in the last of the wars to end war, reports of ongoing international crises and their frantic implications fuse into a nagging, evening news tedium.

"Day 114 for the 50 American hostages held in Iran..." begins Mr. Cronkite looking grave and boring.

My last column presented a things-are-not-as-they-seem argument against our zealously or casually accepting the cameo role in Apocalypse for Profit (starring James Earl Carter as "the loud-mouth" and American Multinational Corporate Power as "the dinosaur") which Carter and the national media are pushing on us. Not a hard argument to make considering Carter's adolescent self-contradictions over issues of doom, coupled with the partisan incoherence of the national media.

The column also attempted to point out that there is no effective significance to how factual the present crises are, that even if Charles Kurault were to get on national television and proclaim the abduction of Americans in Iran a hoax, filmed on a set someplace near San Diego (in fact several weeks ago CBS, for lack of pertinent material, reran a video tape of an earlier demonstration outside the American Embassy in Iran) there is an army-sized number of people who would still willingly go to Iran or Guatamala (or Vietnam?) to fight the pernicious have-nots, thereby assuring that the remaining two thirds of the American Century comes to pass, preferably without these vexing interruptions.

Although some are enthralled by events like the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan which threaten the continued reign of America as World Cop—mangling crusader for foreign markets perforce—most hope miserably for a remission, more post-Vietnam grace.

American capitalism pleads insanity, receiving a suspended sentence: ten more years of taut international stability—the rest is anxiety.

And that—anxiety—is the end product of all that's heard of how our country is in The Bind, the one super-powers are in when their underlings begin baulking forcefully and effectively about being exploited. The unspoken international rule is that if you are stupid and careless enough to be noticed exploiting another country's labor and natural resources, then fess-up and leave. Instead, Americans insist on claiming "No, we didn't do that. Maybe a little but, I mean, no more than anyone else—'cause everyone does it, you know? Look at the Soviets. See? So shut up or we'll bomb you into a vast parking-lot." An essentially adolescent response.

Tens of millions of anxious Americans is not a healthy situation; not for America nor for the rest of the world. Tension like this reduces the degree of freedom the nuclear armed have for error, the result of which no sane person speaks. That the Carter administration is so seriously prone to inadvertency doesn't lessen my anxiety—not at all.

There are a number of things we can hope for: One, that the Soviets will have the sense to say, "We've really stepped in some this time..." and pull their troops out of Afghanistan; two, that Carter doesn't get so carried away by his success in gaining popularity through hawkishness that he gets us all char-blown before his re-election; and three, that somehow, by some miracle of intelligent mass effort, Americans figure out just who our enemies are. And yes, fellow adolescents, they are we.

Eric Janszen is the Collegian Assistant Executive Editor

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Energy independence for a sane America

ABBE BJORKLUND

Resistance to draft registration is being played up by the media as a moral failing on the part of youth to serve and help our ailing country. But each of us must question whether registration, the draft, or war would solve any of our country's problems. Who benefits from a war, what resources must be used toward a war, and what would we defend in a war?

Throughout the history of this country, war has been used as a stimulus for the economy. The largest, most capital intensive, high technology industries in this country are those which produce military equipment and bombs. They already get over 50 percent of our tax dollars and President Carter is now giving them even more. But the average citizen does not benefit from these industries, which provide relatively few high paying jobs, and no useful goods. Think of all the human resources (over 50 percent of our scientists and engineers), capital resources (over 50 percent of our federal budget), and natural resources (especially oil and other fuels) that go into making weapons. These weapons don't provide real solutions to our energy problems, inflationary economy, or lack of jobs. They may help us defend our oil interests in the Middle East, but his is only a temporary solution. There is only so much oil, and in the long term, war can only bring us closer to the bottom of the world's supply.

I would like to see this country become energy independent, so that we don't have to depend on unstable Middle East countries to supply us with oil. As an engineering student, I continue to learn more about the alternatives to fossil fuels available to us. These alternatives would provide more jobs, stimulate the economy, and bring permanent solutions to our problems. We could put our human, economic, and natural resources toward a cause that is truly patriotic and something to be proud of: the energy independence of our country.

President Eisenhower said, when he left office, that the military/industrial complex runs this country. I see the registration and heating up of the Cold War as the political and economic ploy of President Carter and military business to increase the military budget, re-elect the president, and cause more problems than ever.

I feel it is time the citizens of this country benefit from and control their own tax collars. The draft registors won't be used and manipulated by the big industries and insensitive politicians that run this country. We are fighting for a stronger, saner United States.

Abbe Bjorklund is a Collegian guest columnist

The Southwest Fence: protection or alienation?

RON MILLER

Ok! Enough is enough. I can take a lot. I feel I've been pretty patient. I've taken English classes with 50 people. I've put up with paperbacks that cost $10.00. I've even put up with D.C. food and skyrocketing tuition, but I'm afraid I have to draw the line when it comes to putting up a fence along Mass. Ave. that divides Southwest from the rest of the campus.

The Campus Pedestrian Safety Program (as reported in the Collegian Feb. 15, 1980) has come up with some viable ways of improving the campus for pedestrians such as closing certain parking lot entrances and installing additional traffic lights. Putting up a fence, however, is blatantly wrong. How much more alienated can we get?

Let's just cut off Southwest from the rest of the community. Maybe there are some people that like the cage effect, but I find that hard to believe. Just think of all the jokes that can be written about the animals in their cages.

Just think of all the jokes that can be written about the animals in their cages.

The part of this whole scenario that really angers me is that the money could be put to many better uses. You don't have to have a Ph.D to know this campus could stand improvement. Two million dollars could be used for a lot more pressing problems than pedestrian safety (not to say it isn't important, only that the University has many problems). Perhaps it could even be used for academics. Hush! Perish the thought.

Classes are overcrowded. Many students can't get into classes that are required for their majors. Buildings are in dire need of repairs. The quality of our education is going steadily downward while the prices go steadily upward, and they want to build a fence.

I realize anybody can complain, but in order to justify my argument I have to come up with some alternatives to the fence. How about if we extend the job descriptions of Heads of Residence and R.A.s to include walking students to class? They would be required to make sure students get safely across Mass. Ave. The H.R. or R.A. would take two students at a time, by the hand, and make sure they get safely across the big street.

This plan, however, would put a great hardship on our burdened H.R.s and R.A.s, so perhaps a different plan is in order. I've got it. We'll set up a street crossing colloque. Every freshman would be required to take a one credit colloque on how to get across a street without getting hit by a car. The final, of course, will be to go over to Mass Ave. and successfully cross the street. If you get hit by a car you flunk. There can even b e an advanced course in crossing at night.

Putting up a fence is not the answer. It's an obvious waste of funds, and manpower, as well as an insult to the students who attend this University, especially Southwest residents. Perhaps the administration might give college age students enough credit to know how to cross a street. The administration always seems to forget that we're adults.

Ron Miller is a Collegian guest columnist.

Staff photo by Judy Weiss

Johansen: style, influence

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Arts Editor

What do you get when you mix Mick Jagger, Motown and new wave together. David Johansen is the answer. And his performance at Sunderland's Rusty Nail Friday night demonstrated those influences, combined with his own unique lyrics and brand of showmanship, are what make him one of the hottest entities on the club circuit today.

Johansen is perhaps best known for his association with the now-defunct New York Dolls. The concert proved Johansen hasn't forgotten his heritage, as he sang the obligatory "Personality Crisis" with the audience cheering him on. But perhaps what defines Johansen's present-day status best is his direction towards the sounds of Motown and soul. Indeed, as Johansen said in an interview (to be published tomorrow), he sees himself as a catalyst for a "revival" of these popular music forms. Johansen performed several numbers which are indicative of this trend; the Four Topsish-sounding "Melody," from the In Style album, a cover of the Foundations' "Build Me Up Buttercup," and the Four Tops' "Reach Out (I'll Be There)."

Johansen ripped through a version of "She" (also from his last album) which made the studio version sound mellow by comparison. This rendering, coupled with his second encore number, "Wreckless Crazy" were the high points of the show in terms of rock deliveries.

In looking at Johansen's stage presence, there is an undeniable aura of Jagger. Johansen's theatrical manifestations serve him well in doing such original hits as "Funky But Chic" and "Frenchette," but there can be no claim to uniqueness with the frisky stageplay he engages in with his fellow band members, i.e.—running around plopping misfit hats upon their personages. Nevertheless, it makes for some visual impact.

Even the vocal intonations and lyrical play upon the Rolling Stones lead singer was evident with "Frenchette." As the song winds down towards the end with its "Let's Just Dance" segment, complete with bassist Charlie Pip's roleplay as a doctor "checking out" Johansen in mime, there is an analogy to be made with the Stones' "Under My Thumb." In fact, the only difference in utilizing the later song's "take it easy babe," is Johansen's prefacing of the lyrics with the "doctor said to." It adds to the song and compliments a rock precursor simultaneoulsy. All in all, a much better and tighter show than his December gig at Hartford's Stage West.

Also worthy of a mention are the fantastic pounding rhythms of drummer Frankie LaRocka and Charlie Pip's bass. They are especially effective on numbers like "She" and "Wreckless Crazy." Ronnie Guy's keyboard work provides a much fuller sound on songs like "Melody" and "Reach Out (I'll Be There)."

Opening the show for the Johansen Band was the Elevators, a Boston-based new wave group who performed a true-to-original cover of Iggy Pop's "Some Weird Sin." The Elevators also played the Blue Wall. Saturday night and can be seen frequently at clubs in the area.

Photo by Judy Weiss
David Johansen at Rusty Nail Friday night.

David Whitman Hair Shack
Precision Hairstyling for Men & Women.
20% off any Haircut.
124 Amity St., Amherst
549-5111
COUPON
1 COUPON PER PURCHASE COUPON GOOD THRU 3/31/80

University of Massachusetts
H.R.S.A.
CAREER DAY

#75 B-1-G COMPANY REPS
FEBRUARY 26, 1980
C.C.A
COME & TALK!

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
Union Video Center
featuring tapes by:
Frank Gillette
Shigako Kobuto
Nam June Paik
and many others
Mon. Feb. 25—Sat. March 1
on the Advent Video Beam
Hours: 1-4 pm and 7-11 pm
Rooms 162-9 Campus Center
Public Invited—No Charge

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Plan for Summer
to avoid
High Fuel Costs
Rail Passes &
Youth Hostels
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

CLOG SALE
12 STYLES
reg. $24.95 to $38.95
SALE
$14.95
Limited Sizes
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10 6-00 Mon. Sat. 253 5135

586-3880
CAMPUS PIZZA
Delicious Pizza-Grinders
Spaghetti-BQ Chicken
A1 Roast Beef-Lasagna
Come In - Try and Compare
Beer & Wine
Sun-Thur 11 am-1 am
Fri-Sat 11 am-2 am
206 Russell St Hadley, Mass
COUPON
A pitcher of Beer for half-price with any large Pizza except Plain offer expires Feb. 29, 1980

"do it"

Senior Portraits Start Today at 12 pm on the 8th floor of the Campus Center. Make your appointment as soon as possible by calling 545-2874.

don't be left out of the 1980 INDEX

If you live Off-Campus

The Student Senate needs YOU.

Nominations for Commuter Seats CLOSE

Tuesday, Feb. 26, 1980 5:00 pm

Get Involved!!

Nomination Papers can be picked up at 420 S.U.B.

USHER IN MARCH WITH A LION OF A SALE!

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE: FEB. 25-MAR. 1

Louis FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

TOP ROUND ROAST
U.S.D.A. CHOICE
$2.19 LB

ROUND TIP STEAK
U.S.D.A. CHOICE
$2.49 LB

FIRST PRIZE
TOBIN'S YANKEE BACON 79¢ LB
SKINNED & DEVEINED BABY BEEF LIVER $1.09 LB
BEEF ROUND CUBE STEAKS $2.39 LB
ARMOUR VERI BEST CENTER CUT PORK CHOPS $1.69 LB
SAVE ON READY COOKED COMMODORE FISH CAKES 89¢ LB
COMMODORE READY COOKED HADDOCK FILLET $1.89 LB

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASF OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU95
VIVA PAPER TOWELS JUMBO ROLL 39¢
VALID FEB. 25-MAR. 1 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU96
SWEET LIFE LIQUID BLEACH GAL JUG 39¢
VALID FEB. 25-MAR. 1 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU97
REGULAR OR THIN 16 OZ PKG PRINCE SPAGHETTI 39¢
VALID FEB. 25-MAR. 1 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU98
HAWAIIAN RED PUNCH 46 OZ CAN 49¢
VALID FEB. 25-MAR. 1 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

KEN-L-RATION TENDER CHUNK DOG FOOD 5 LB BAG $1.89
KEN-L-RATION DOG FOOD 6 PACK 15 OZ CANS $1.39
AUNT JEMIMA ORIGINAL PANCAKE MIX 32 OZ PKG 79¢
AUNT JEMIMA PANCAKE SYRUP 24 OZ BTL $1.29

SMALL CAN SALE
DELMONTE
CUT OR FRENCH GREEN BEANS, SLICED CARROTS, CREAM & WHOLE KERNEL CORN, SWEET PEAS
4 8½ OZ CANS 89¢

DELMONTE FRUIT COCKTAIL OR SLICED Y.C. PEACHES 2 8¾ OZ CANS 69¢
NABISCO PREMIUM SALTINES 16 OZ PKG 69¢

BEEF, CHEESE OR NEW SAUSAGE CHEF BOY-AR-DEE RAVIOLI 15 OZ CAN 59¢
APPLE & EVE APPLE JUICE 64 OZ BTL $1.29

Not responsible for typographical errors
We reserve the right to limit quantities

GROCERY
SNOW'S NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER 2 8½ OZ CANS 99¢
GREEN GIANT NIBLET CORN 4 7 OZ CANS 89¢
DINTY MOORE BEEF STEW 2 7½ OZ CANS 99¢
PRINCE CURLY LASAGNA 16 OZ PKG 69¢
GOLDEN GRAIN MACARONI & CHEESE 3 7¼ OZ PKGS 89¢

FROZEN & DAIRY
BREYERS ALL NATURAL ICE CREAM QT CONT. $1.29
SARA LEE ORIGINAL POUND CAKE 10¾ OZ PKG $1.25
LENDER'S PLAIN, BAGELS ONION, EGG 12 OZ BAG 49¢
HOOD ALL NATURAL ORANGE JUICE ½ GAL $1.19
IMPERIAL MARGARINE QUARTERS LB PKG 69¢

FRESH PRODUCE
LARGE HIGH QUALITY SEEDLESS NAVEL ORANGES 8 FOR $1
U.S. NO. 1 MAINE POTATOES 20 LB BAG $1.19
SEEDLESS GRAPEFRUIT WHITE OR PINK 6 FOR $1
DOLE MUSHROOMS 12 OZ PKG 99¢

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

18-watt AM-FM 8 track Recorder Stereo system with two speakers $125 call 6-9552

Craig AM/FM Stereo Tape Player BSR 260 AX Turntable and Regency speakers call Doug after 6 pm 6-9569

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

1970 VW Squareback 22+ mpg, runs great, good tires, battery, has rust $475.00 253-5178

Auto for sale 1974 Firebird good condition call 5-2591 ask for Ron

DO IT!

Seniors--Are you going to graduate without doing it? Get yourself into your yearbook! Call 545-2874

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

FOR SALE

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Tuxedo and 3-piece suits sizes 38-39 call 256-0626 any evening

Womens Figure Skates good quality $20 size 6-7 6-8734

Get ready for Spring! Assorted fashionable sunglasses for men and women on sale at 30-50% off! Come & check it out at 203 Dwight N/E or call Dan 546-5518 or Barry 546-5521

Guitar Gretsch Country Club model in excellent condition with hard case about 2 years old $375 or B.O. Dave 665-7707 eves

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found—Alden L. Miller—to be living at 825 Main Street in Amherst. In light green duplex one block down from North East Street on right Phone: 253-5580

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work-study office positions available in Soithwest area. Contact Jean Steiner, Southwest Business Office, 5-1552 We are an Equal Opportunity Employer

Shaklee—Positive salespeople wanted. Natural products. Exceptional opportunity to earn. Call Emily 549-3582

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Graduate Math tutor for probability course. Call Lou after 11 PM 546-9956

Kundalini Yoga Club offers basic instruction. All welcome. M-Th 4-5:30 in Campus Center. $1 per session. 256-0391

Basic Auto-Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure, Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

LOST

Lost mens gold rimmed glasses near Franklin Commons. Reward upon return call 6-8406

LOST at the QR Saturday; blue, white and orange down jacket with keys + liscense. PLEASE return it—I'm cold! Kathy 549-3768.

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Buying Silver—Pre 64 coins and Sterling paying current market prices 546-6291 ask for Dave

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

Charismatic Prayer and Bible Study CC 171 Tuesday Feb 26 8 to 10 PM

Happy Birthday El, Betty & Theresa Luv Jo

Jenny Taub: What's going on?!! The Sheriff

A very happy birthday, Face! I love you madly my perfect little Pisces. 24 is gonna be a good year! Your P. Bear & "4"

To the Foxy Lady and KK, Keep on celebrating those magnificent achievements! We're great! Love, CZ

Dear Deborah Roth, Happy Birthday. I love you! Ken Sands

Buddy Get better soon interpret and go with me Love Hannah

Lecture—"Sabotaging Organic Lab Results & 99 Other Ways of Getting Into Med School" See & hear John at KDC tonite

Support Senator Kennedy come talk with volunteers at the Campus Center

P.C. Love never dies, love always EM

Gail enid acne? or rugburn? Kegs Galore

Impressionist Pastel Portraits $10.00 moneyback guarantee 253-2983

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to NYC or LI any and all weekends will share driving and $ call Roger 549-5184

Ride wanted to Ft Lauderdale area for Spring Break Will share costs and driving. Call Laurie after 7 256-0637

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Puffton Village $75/mo includes heat 549-6146

Female to share one-bedroom Puffton Apt call Kathy 549-3677

Roomate wanted Brittany Manor begin 3/1 253-2402

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

Female housemate for furnished apartment West Street Northampton call 586-2859

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995; Room 922 Campus Center, UMass

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom efficiency bath and kitchen $175.00/month available now or March 1 Amherst call James 253-5707 after 6

Room Swiss Vill 110 a month everything bus route, open immead 253-2653

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

WANTED TO BUY

Hot Air Popcorn Popper Karmachia Convertible in good running condition call 549-0380 evenings

RUN FOR OFFICE

Nominations are open for President of the Student Government Association. There are also 10 vacancies to be filled for the Student Union Board of Governors.

The President shall be responsible for relations between the S.G.A. and the Administration, Faculty and Board of Trustees.

The purpose of the B.O.G. is to be responsible to the varied needs of the University community through the provision of appropriate facilities, activities and services.

Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the Presidency or B.O.G. Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. The due date for papers is Feb. 28 5:00 for President and Feb. 29 5:00 for B.O.G.

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 — nostrum
5 Disliked
10 Bridge
14 Black
15 School: Fr.
16 Itinerant
17 Scorch
18 Frauds: 2 words
20 Denuded
22 Overthrow
23 Letters
24 Diet
25 Sire
28 Red shade
32 Arab garment
33 Hearsay
35 Stupid one
36 Misplaced
38 Sailors
40 Baked items
41 Some rel. ones
43 Defeats
45 Explosive
46 Spires
48 Criticizes
50 Nuncupative
51 Football's Starr
52 Clergyman
55 Darts about
59 Office seeker
61 Sinful
62 Competent
63 Europeans
64 Bristle
65 Ross and Beaufort
66 Avidity
67 Eelpot, e.g.

DOWN
1 Clutter
2 Support
3 Bellow
4 Add value to 5 Evening star
6 Pains
7 Drove obliquely
8 Building annex
9 River adjuncts
10 Conformed: 2 words
11 Splendor
12 Adam's son
13 Muzzle
19 Pierced
21 "— Gynt"
24 Bastiles
25 Niagara —
26 Near
27 Palate
28 Parts
29 Items
30 Odor
31 Assays
34 Female name
37 Hypotheses
39 Forced
42 Boom
44 Type
47 Thrashing
49 Bear witness
51 Indifferent
52 Tax aces: Abbr.
53 Ear part
54 Girl's name
55 Discharge
56 Continuously
57 Ms. Hayworth
58 Hit
60 Heart

DC menu

Lunch
Hot beef sandwich
Sausage links/Corn fritters,
Maple syrup

Basics Lunch
Vegetable hot pot
Vegetable taco

Dinner
Meatloaf italiano
Baked Ham
Pineapple sauce

Basics Dinner
Carrot loaf
Baked haddock, lemon slice

Earthfoods

Curried Dahl
Three-Bean Soup
Rice Bulghar
Fresh fruit salad
Popovers

PIZZARAMA
355 College St.

PIZZAS GRINDERS SPAGHETTI
NEW GREEK SALAD $2.00

M-Th 11-1:30 AM
F-Sun 11-2:30 AM

FREE DELIVERY

Phone 253-3808 256-0115

presents

LENE LOVICH
Thurs. March 13 - 8 PM
Bowker Auditorium
UMass-$5.50-Public-$6.50
Available at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited (UMass) For the Record (Amherst) Platterpus (Northampton)

THE KINKS - Thurs. March 6 - FAC - 8 PM
Tickets on Sale TODAY!

Gymwomen topple UNH

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The gymwomen avenged three previous losses to the University of New Hampshire Wildcats, squelching them 134.60-131.15 in action Saturday afternoon at the Boyden Auxiliary Gym. They have now won six straight, defeating Rutgers, Cornell, Southern Connecticut, Springfield, and UNH. Their record is 8-2. This was only the Wildcats second loss of the season dropping their record to 11-2.

The Wildcats top gymnast, Gail Sweeney, delighted the crowd with her exceptional talent, scoring an incredible 9.0 in the vault. Lisa Marin's 8.75 and Janice Baker's 8.5 were the top scores for UMass. At the end of the first event the score was 34.15-33.65, UMass leading.

Neither team had much luck staying on the bars, with almost every performer falling off in the course of her routine. The Minutewomen maintained a slight edge over UNH after this event.

The best performance of the day was given by UMass' Liz Marino. Her score of 9.05 on the balance beam was the highest of the meet.

Liz Marino won the all-around competition with a 34.65 total. New Hampshire's Sweeney was a close second, scoring 34.55 in the four events.

Penn St. stops spikers

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Nationally-ranked Penn State used a cönstant attack to the middle to sweep a slumping UMass squad in men's volleyball 15-9, 15-7, 16-14, at NOPE gym Saturday morning.

The Nittany Lions took advantage of UMass' poor passing and spotty concentration to post the win, despite a determined showing in the third game on the part of UMass. Penn State scored many of its points through the middle, an area of weakness for the varsity since a rash of flu caused middle blocker Jim Grosslein and co-captain Pat Ryan to miss matches last weekend. Both played in Saturday's match.

For UMass, this was its second loss of the weekend. Springfield College handed the varsity a 15-3, 15-12, 15-9 setback at Judd-East Gymnasia on the Springfield campus Thursday night.

Coach Al Morel said of the losses, "We've been playing poorly for the last two weeks. Ever since the West Point match (in which UMass lost in five games), our momentum has been going down. We just don't know why we're slumping, even though losing players to the flu may have something to do with it.

"The team will be practicing hard all next week for the New England Open next weekend in Kingston, Rhode Island. Everyone in Division One will be there, as well as Springfield and Yale. We hope to get everything straightened out so we can get out of this slump."

In junior varsity play, UMass snuffed out Middlebury College 15-13, 12-15, 15-4, at Amherst College Saturday afternoon. The key to the victory was in the UMass block, as Middlebury could not sustain any kind of attack, and had to bump or dink the ball over the blockers. UMass, meanwhile, maintained a good set and spike to throw off their opponents.

WHAT KIND OF PERSON BECOMES A NAVY PHYSICIAN? DOCTORS JUST LIKE YOU.

Navy doctors start their medical careers just like you. As civilians, they come from all parts of the country with wide-ranging medical experience. From Park Avenue to Main Street. From new interns to 20-year doctors. In truth, the Navy doctor is you.

A Navy practice would be as varied and challenging as any you'll find in a civilian setting. From infant care to geriatrics, you'll treat dependents, retired personnel and those on active duty.

And, for a Navy physician, paperwork is kept to a minimum. There are a lot of great advantages to Navy medicine. Good pay. A family life. Even 30 days' paid vacation a year.

Get all the details. Call or write your nearest Medical Recruiter.

Lt. Jim Wayne
Medical Programs Officer
Navy recruiting District
O'Brien Federal Bldg.
Albany, NY 12207
Phone: 518 472-4462

BE THE DOCTOR YOU WANT TO BE. IN THE NAVY.

Add experience to your degree.

Facts indicate that you may work in three to five different careers. It won't be unusual to make changes as you go. And it's entirely possible that your final career does not even exist today.

Often in a first job, you are an assistant to the assistant. Your responsibility is limited to a desk and typewriter.

But when your first job is an Army 2LT, you'll have real management experience. You'll be in charge. On a specific job assignment, you could have 30 to 40 people working for you. And you could be responsible for millions of dollars in equipment.

Responsibility for people and resources is exactly the kind of "take charge" experience civilian employers seek. It's a margin of difference in the increasingly competitive job market.

Prepare to rise to the top in your field. Make your first job 3 or 4 years as an Army Officer.

If you have two years remaining in school, you can begin ROTC this summer. You'll be compensated financially, stimulated physically and mentally.

To add experience to your degree contact Captain Phil Turner 545-2321 or 545-2322

Army ROTC. Learn what it takes to lead.

Clip these coupons for savings worth over $7.40

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 89¢ Reg. Oily, Dry or Treated — 16 ounce bottle CLAIROL SHAMPOO — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Grocery ★ 212

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — Save 50¢ — 1 pound can STOP & SHOP COFFEE Regular, Drip, Electric or Automatic — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Grocery ★ 210

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 49¢ — 1 pound pkg. PARKAY MARGARINE qtr. lb. sticks — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Dairy 208

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 39¢ in water or oil — 6½ ounce can CHICKEN OF THE SEA CHUNK LIGHT TUNA — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Grocery 207

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 99¢ Bonus Bottle — 24oz. Plus 4oz. Free LAVORIS MOUTHWASH — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Grocery ★ 211

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 99¢ — OREO 15oz. pkg. CHOC. CREME SANDWICH COOKIES — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Grocery 213

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 79¢ — 12 ounce can TROPICANA ORANGE JUICE — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Frozen 209

Stop & Shop Coupon — With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase — 59¢ Large or Small Curd — 1lb container HOOD OR NUFORM COTTAGE CHEESE — Good Mon. Feb. 25 - Sat. Mar. 1. Limit one per customer — Dairy 206

Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS — Great Coupon Value Days!

self service deli Specials!
one pound package Weaver Chicken Hot Dogs 89¢
Meat Bologna $1.19
Armour Boneless Ham $1.99
Sun Glory Bacon 99¢
corner deli Delectable foods!
Available in stores featuring a service deli
Weaver Chicken Roll Sliced fresh to order $2.29 lb
Cooked Ham $3.79
Cole Slaw 59¢
Custards 89¢
Colonial Bologna $1.59
kitchen Let us cook for you!
Herbs n'Butter Country fine Cooked Chicken or Homestyle $1.09 lb
Cheese Pizza $1.29
Cole Slaw 59
seafood Great values for Lent
Fresh Flounder Fillets $2.29 lb
Absolutely Delicious
Fresh Haddock Fillets $2.79
Squid (Calamari) $1.79
Fish & Chips $1.39
Cooked Fish-nics $1.19
Dressed Smelts 99
frozen meats Top quality!
Beef Liver Maid Rite Brand Skinned & Deveined 89¢ lb
Steak-Umm Steak $2.29

2 for 1 Photo Sale!
Bring in your 110, 126 or 35mm color print film into any Stop & Shop for processing & we will print you an extra set of pictures absolutely free of extra charge. Get 2 sets of prints for the price of one

Super Auto Care Buys!
Arco Graphite Motor Oil Fuel Efficient SAE 10W-40 Quart Bottle Reduces Friction & Engine Wear Improves Mileage Case of 12 $11.88 — 99¢
Windshield Wash 88¢

"Great Beef" USDA Choice Sirloin Steak $1.89 lb
Beef Shell Loin
Boneless Top Sirloin Steak Beef Loin $2.79 lb
26%* Ground Beef Approx. 3 pound chub *Contains not more than 26% fat $1.49 lb
20%* Lean Ground Beef Any size pkg. *Not more than 20% fat $1.99 lb
Big White Gem Chicken Leg Quarters (Perdue Leg Quarters with back 59¢ lb) "White Gem" with back 49¢ lb
Breast Quarters "White Gem" Chicken With Wing (Perdue Chicken Breast Qtrs. Approx. 63¢ lb) 53¢ lb
Fresh Turkey Drumsticks Very meaty. 69¢ lb
Fresh Pork Shoulder Picnic 79¢ lb
Fresh Pork Spare Ribs Broil or bake. $1.19 lb
Fresh Pork Butts Just one small bone. $1.09 lb
Fresh Ham Shank Portion Rump Portion $1.09 lb 99¢ lb
Buy the Whole Way and Save!
Whole Pork Loins $1.19 lb
We'll cut them into chops and roasts for you, at no extra charge. 15-17 lbs.
Boneless Beef Loin Strips Whole or Half 10-12lbs Untrimmed $3.19 lb
Florida Citrus Variety Show!
Indian River White Seedless Jumbo Grapefruit 27 size 4 for $1
Citrus Mix or Match 7 for $1
Temple Oranges 64 Size
Honey Tangerines 80 Size
Juice Oranges 64 Size
Florida Red Potatoes New crop! A powerhouse of nutrients! 4 lbs $1
California Celery Hearts Reach for a stalk when you want a snack! 59¢ pkg.

Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 15¢ — 16 ounce package STOP & SHOP FISH STICKS — Frozen ★ 215
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 25¢ — Random weight pkg. STOP&SHOP CHEESE DOMESTIC, CHUNK SWISS OR MONTEREY JACK — Dairy ★ 214
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — 12 ounce package TASTE O'SEA Butter Dip HADDOCK PORTION — Frozen ★ 217
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — 7 ounce Dinners TASTE O'SEA SCALLOP OR SHRIMP — Frozen ★ 216
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 30¢ — STOP & SHOP 48oz jar SPAGHETTI SAUCE Mushroom Meat Flavored or Plain — Grocery ★ 218
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — 12 ounce bag STOP & SHOP POTATO CHIPS — Grocery ★ 219
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — Package of 20 HEFTY TRASH BAGS — Grocery 222
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — 32 ounce jar STOP & SHOP MAYONNAISE — Grocery ★ 220
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 20¢ — 61 ounce package CLOROX 2 BLEACH — Grocery ★ 221
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save $1.00 — 16 ounce bottle CLAIROL CONDITION II X-Body, X-Protection or Balanced Formula — Grocery ★ 223
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 50¢ — Bottle of 24 DRISTAN TABLETS — Grocery ★ 224
Stop & Shop Coupon — Save 50¢ — Package of 30 'OUR OWN' MAXI PADS — Grocery ★ 225

Banana Tea, Cranberry Nut or 12oz. pkg. Date Nut Bread 89¢ Stop & Shop
Stop & Shop Donuts 99¢
Stop & Shop Reg. or Split English Muffins 12oz. pkg. of 6 2/79¢
Chocolate Cake 1.29

2 liter Cola ECONOMY 59¢ Bottle Reg. or Diet
Long Grain Rice 49¢
Spaghetti Sauce 89¢
Dry Roasted Peanuts ECONOMY 89¢ 12 ounce jar
Peanut Butter 79¢
Chunk Dog Food $3.99

Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Sports

Trackmen impressive at conference championship

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

A stunning performance from sophomore Mark Grasso in the triple jump and a dazzling display of running from tri-captian Steve MacDougall lead the men's indoor track team to an impressive fourth place finish at the Yankee Conference Champioships held at the University of Rhode Island, Saturday afternoon.

The final scores of the meet were URI 126, Boston University 112, Maine 104, UMass 94, Connecticut 27, New Hampshire 26, and Vermont 10.

Grasso, who had been injured for the better part of the season was triple jumping for the first time this year. The New England high school triple jump champion, Grasso jumped 47'8", two and half feet better than the second place jump, and the Methuen native's personal best.

MacDougall won the 1000 yard run with a time of 2:15.8 just edging out Israel Caro of Rhode Island at the finish. An hour earlier, Sophomore Paul Beaulieu and MacDougall ran neck and neck during the mile race with Beaulieu nosing out the win at 4:16.2. Sophomore John Caffrey finished fourth also. In a climatic finish UMass won the two mile relay with the team of Mickey Baugh, 2:01.5, Beaulieu 158.5, CJ Reitenbach 2:00 and MacDougall running the anchor and pulling a come from behind victory, his split being 1:58.5. The overall time was 7:58.5.

"I was very proud of the whole team and the way we came back," said tri-captain Rick Trunfio. "Mac (MacDougall) was awesome, he and Grasso sparked the team. I'm happy that we came through for Coach O'Brien."

Senior Rick Walls ran an impressive 9:02.1 to win the two mile. Junior Mike Doiron finished fifth at 9:12.1, his best time of the year.

"Everybody put themselves on the line today, it was a real team effort," said Walls. "This was our last chance to prove our team potential, to show team pride."

Mickey Baugh finished third in the 880 with a time of 1:58.9. "Everybody that had to run, ran," explained Baugh.

UMass finished fourth in the mile relay at 3:30.7, running that relay was Rick Cady, Trunfio, Steve Gorman and Bob Pearson. Boston University won with a time of 3:24.2, a new Yankee Conference Record.

Jim Larabee placed fifth in the pole vault clearing 14'0. Mark Strawderman and Bill Hartley of URI placed first and second, both, at 16'6". Those vaults qualifying them for the Nationals to be held in Detroit next month.

Paul King and John Wright placed fourth and fifth in the finals of the 50 yard hurdles, with times of 6.6 and 6.8 respectively.

"This was by far our best team performance of the year," said UMass Coach Ken O'Brien. "This was the last Yankee Conference Championship and it was one of the most exciting."

After this year the Yankee Conference will be holding championships in football only.

Colonials conquer Cagers

By JONATHAN HAMILTON
Collegian Staff

The combined efforts of Brian Magid's outside shooting and Mike Zagardo's physical play inside sparked a nine-point late second-half surge to lift George Washington University past the Minutemen, 71-60 before 1200 fans at the Cage Saturday night. Up until the Colonials had finally put the game on ice with that surge, it had been otherwise a tight affair with the lead changing hands several times.

Early iin the second half, the lead shifted as UMass shook off a 32-30 GW halftime lead and ran off a 12-6 spurt largely on the strength of eight points scored by Curtis Phauls (14 points.) At 15:48 Phauls built UMass' largest lead at 42-38 as he took a nifty feed from a speeding Tom Witkos up the floor to lay the ball in.

From then on though, Magid and Zagardo performed dutifully, especially Magid, who scored 12 of his 20 points down the stretch. It seemed as though George Washington caught fire after Magid stole the ball from Witkos in the forecourt and went in for an uncontested lay-up at 9:32. Again just over a minute later, UMass had the ball stolen again. This time Randy Davis made the theft and went in for the lay-up. After a Magid bomb and a Zagardo hoop at 5:48 making it 61-50 all that remained in doubt was what the final outcome would be.

At the outset of the game both teams exchanged the first three baskets. Zagardo and Tom Glenn scored the Colonials first 10 points. Gradually, though, they built sizeable leads in the half (18-9, 22-13) only to see them disappear. UMass roared back to take the lead on the stength of Dan Wright's outside shooting and the ever present hustle of Witkos who converted a three-point play after a pretty move into the lane past two GW players. UMass increased its lead to four, 30-26. But GW scored the last six points which wiped out any dreams of a halftime lead for UMass. Jimmy Stepp's last second basket at the buzzer provided the two-point halftime lead the Colonials enjoyed in the locker room.

Wright was high man for UMass with 16 points followed by Phauls' 14 and Witkos' 11.

After the game, George Washington coach Rob Tallent talked about team's play. "Magid and Zagardo picked us up in the second half. We got better shots offensively and ran the ball better."

Magid echoed the same sentiments as his coach, saying, "After a lakadaisical first half we came together in the second. I don't think we were aggressive enough on offense. But our defense wouldn't let them get it inside."

Witkos talked about the loss. 'We had a great first half but it seemed we left it up to individuals in the second half to try and carry us."

Next Thursday the Minutemen face the Wildcats of Villanova in the Eastern Athletic Association playoffs. It is the second year in a row these two teams have met in the first round.

Women harness Huskies

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

Wearing the game-wrinkled uniform with number 22 that has become her placard, Sue Peters reacted without surprise to the beckoning of the public address system at the Curry Hicks Cage yesterday.

For the 625 fans in attendance, most of whom spent $1.50 for the privilege, Peters smiled only slightly as she accepted the trophy for the most valuable player in the one-game championship of the Massachusetts Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women.

In what was probably her last game at the Cage, Peters scored 23 points to lead the 14-8 Minutewomen past Northeastern University 71-64.

"I would like to be remembered for playing my hardest, playing the best I know how to play." Peters said amid the afterglow of yet another accolade. Despite fouling out with 3:20 left, the game provided glimpses of the vintage Peters, running and shooting her way into UMass basketball history.

In four years she has scored more points than any UMass hoop player ever.

Val DePaolo of UMass battles Northeastern's Vicki Sparks for a rebound in yesterday's 71-64 Minutewomen win. (Staff photo by Carolyn Casey)

And as flowers were presented to Peters and the only other senior, Jen Parker, the only hope that one had for again seeing Sue P. walking with a quiet confidence up and down the floor of the Cage would be an unlikely home-court selection for UMass in the Eastern AIAW tournament.

"It has really hit me," the co-captain said after a game of foul shooting with the Huskies, the second of its quality with NU this season. The second half was slow and tedious, wearing the edges down on UMass, which was slapped with five technical fouls.

Peters herself was the last victim. As she was assessed for her fifth personal, a non shooting foul seemingly away from her, the Southbridge native did her version of the Curry Hicks rain dance to the displeasure of the official. Peters and Legare fouled out within twelve seconds of one anoter, when UMass was eight points in the lead.

Northeastern seems to bring out the worst in Massachusetts, but not in Martha Ready. After a solid game against the Huskies two weeks ago, Ready scored 18 points and ripped the boards for 17 rebounds yesterday. After Peters fouled out, she scored two unanswered points to spot UMass a 12-point lead and ultimately put the game out of reach for the Huskies.

But the list of stars is not just inclusive of Ready. For the first time in ten games, UMass played well the entire game. A 13-point first half lead was not squandered, and the Minutewomen bench rose to the challenge made by the loss of Julie Ready.

Val Depaolo played the driving game as good as anyone yesterday. Her 13 points game largely on baseline moves and breakaways from the left side.

Senior Jen Parker started and did her quietly effective job on defense for most of the game. She hit two of her line-drive bombers to close out her probable last game at the Cage with four points. Julie Ready is expected to return for the Easterns, but the first time the Minutewomen did not seem totally dependent on her.

"Now the team knows what to do without her," Peters said. With her we will be unbelievable."

It was learned late yesterday that the Minutewomen have been seeded seventh in the eight-team Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women tournament. UMass plays Fordham University at Fordham Friday at 8 p.m.

Trackwomen finish sixth in NE's

By JIM GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's indoor Track team finished sixth out of 21 teams in the New Englands last Saturday at Boston University. Despite having only 12 people who qualified for the meet, several UMass runners turned in their best performances of the season.

The highlight of the meet for UMass was in the two-mile where sophomores Judy McCrone and Julie Burke finished second and third. In her best ever two-mile McCrone knocked 15 seconds off her previous best by running 10:45.5. McCrone's time qualified her for the Nationals held at the University of Missouri and Burke missed qualifying by just half of a second.

"We had a game plan going into the race and Judy stuck to it. She ran her own race at a very even pace, going through the first mile in 5';15 and through the second mile in 5:18. If she had gone after St. Hilaire she wouldn't have done as well," coach Arnie Morse said. St Hilaire of Vermont won the race in 10:10.

In another exciting race for UMass was Diana Sealey who finished third in the 400 meter dash in 58.5. It was her best time indoors this season. Competing for UMass in the long jump was sophomore Micki Callahan who finished sixth with a leap of 16'8". Callahan also competed in the 55 meter dash and in the 55 meter hurdles along with Donna Quinn and Jackie Budrow but UMass failed to place in those events.

UMass finished third in both the 4x800 meter relay and in the 4x400 meter relay. The team of Cyndi Martin, Robyn Dally, Karolyn Shea and Judy McCrone combined to run a 9:22.5 in the 4x800. Running the 4x400 were Sealey, Donna Beaudreau, Karolyn Shea and Sally Anderson. Competing in the pentathalon for UMass was Julie Horgan who was forced to drop out of the competition after becoming ill with one event left in the five event pentathalon.

The Minutewomen's next and final meet will be the Easterns held at Harvard next Saturday and Sunday. Only the best competitors in the East who qualify will compete in the Easterns. UMass' Julie Burke, who missed qualifying for the Nationals by half of a second last Saturday, will have her last chance to qualify at Harvard next weekend. She will run the 3000 meters. Five UMass runners, Sealey, McCrone, Burke, Caouette and Callahan, have qualified for the Easterns.

NUMMO

volume 8 number 17 25 february 1980

Curtis Haynes Jr

Malcolm X Remembered

On February 21, 1965 Malcom X was shot down in cold blood. Thursday night the tradgedy of that day was remembered at the rededication of the Malcolm X Center in Southwest. However, Thursday was not a night of mourning but a night of rejuvination of black pride. The crowd that numbered over one hundred was treated to a night of beautiful poetry and music. The rededication started off with a short introduction followed by a short speech by Tony Crayton which reminded the people in audience that the tradgedies of Malcolm X and Martin Luther King still lives in the hearts of everyone of us today. We were also reminded that the plight of the black man and woman still continues all over the world, from Harlem to South Africa. The crowd then settled back and listened to Versifications of the poetic inspirations of Duma Mdlova from Johanasburg, South Africa and Freida Jones, a former student of UMass and Kurt Lanken. The crowd was mesmorized by the feeling and the heart that these poets put into their presentations. The poets covered topics which varied from the state of black men and women in the ghettos, prisons and on the streets, to Disco music the draft, drugs and South Africa. While our ears listened to the music and poetry our eyes took in a slide presentation which had the black struggle, as the basis for its theme. Thursday night was a night to remember as the presenations ended with an arousing offering of unity and defience as the crowd joined Duma Mdlova in chanting and clapping as they personified in each and every one of us the meanings of the words "Same Struggle, Same Fight, Same Enemy." The evening was finally rounded out with the pleasureable and enhancing music of the New Earth Ensemble.

Photo by Ed Cohen

LOLITA LEBRON TO SPEAK AT S.U.B.

Lolita Lebron, internationally known Puerto Rican nationalist is the key speaker during the 1980 International Women's Week at the Univeristy of Massachusetts. She will speak in the Student Union Ballroom at 8pm on Friday, March 7 on the role of women in social change.

Lolita Lebron was born in the historic city of Lares on the island of Puerto Rico in 1919. Puerto Rico is a Caribbean island which had been a possession of Spain until the United States took control of it in 1898, when it was declared a territory. United States corporations took over sugar production and denied the island's native citizens the right to determine their political and economic future. Puerto Ricans' organized themselves to struggle for their independence. Economic hardship forced large numbers of them to leave the island to seek employment on the mainland of the United States. When Lolita Lebron was 28 years old, and living in New York City, she joined with many other compatriots in the Puerto Rican Nationalist movement. She began as a member at large of the Nationalist Party under the leadership of Don Pedro Albizu Campos, a Harvard educated Puerto Rican lawyer. Lolita Lebron was moved to the position of Nationalist Party General Delegate to the United States, a position second only to that of Albizu Campos, in 1954.

On March 1, 1954 Lolita Lebron along with Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero and Irving Flores Rodriguez responded to the repression of the movement for an independent Puerto Rico by attacking Congress. Puerto Rican in Puerto Rico at this time were being imprisoned because of recordings of their speeches in police archives. Lolita Lebron was sent to a United States prison as a special offendor, where she remained incarcerated for twenty-five years. At the trial in 1954 Lolita Lebron and the other nationalists were denied the right to choose an attorney and were prohibited from offering any explanations about the nature language or to have the transcriptions of proceeding translated to Spanish and therefore were severly handicapped in preparing a defense.

Black Panthe

INTERNATIONAL WOMENS WEEK
February 29
March 8

The sentences given the Nationalists totalled 75 years in prison although the standard sentence for their charge was four years. They were treated like criminals rather than prisoners of war, although the independentists were in battle with the forces of United States colonialism. Their long incarceration violated their status as citizen of a sovereign nation and was in direct violation of the United Nations Charter the Resolutions of the General Assembly, and the Declaration of Human Rights.

The Nationalists and their supporters exhausted every reasonable and available means to obtain their freedom. Several delegations met with the United States president's aides; thousands of letters, telegrams and petitions from all over the world were sent to the United States Congress; and thousands of people marched and demonstrated in Washington D.C., Puerto Rico and most major cities throughout the United States.

The continued incarceration of the Puerto Rican Nationalists was clearly a violation of the principles of human rights. On September 10, 1979 after years of public pressure the president of the United States granted clemency to Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda, Irving Flores and Oscar Collazo (imprisoned since 1950). When she was released Lolita Lebron said, "Our personal freedom is not as important as the liberation of our country...if the United States had never invaded our country and denied us our birthright, I would not have been in prison.'"

Note: Further information about Puerto Rico and the Puerto Ricans living in the United States is available from the United States Commission on Civil Rights which in October of 1976 published a report titled "Puerto Ricans in the Continental United States: An Uncertain Future."

Note: The time, date and location of a press conference with Lolita Lebron will be announced before March 5, 1980.

inside

2. Editorial
3. National dance company of Senegal
4. African Affairs Middle East Affairs
5.&6. Eco Latino
8. Hotline to Health

editorial

THE FAR REACHING AFFECTS OF DRAFT REGISTRATION.

The proposed draft registration is only part of a far reaching shift in our countries direction which eventually affects all of us.

The massive preparation for war.:

President Carter, on December 12th, 1979, addressed the Business Council. The Business Council is a large organization composed of the top 100 industrialist and bankers of our country. Carter outlined military spending projections of over one trillion dollars in the next five years. He promised to increase military spending at an annual rate of 4.5 percent above our already rising inflation rate. This means that by 1985 our country will experience an increase of 22.5 percent in military spending.

Meanwhile our economic problems remain unsolved, especially those of minorities. We are told that the gap between minorities and white median income levels are wider now than they were in the 1960's. Unemployment of minorities is twice that of whites. Thousands of workers are losing their jobs by an increasing number of plant closings. Budget cutbacks and tuition increases are shutting the doors of higher education for an increasing number of young people. School systems are on the verge of shutting down. Community schools, public hospitals, and other social services are being eliminated. What can a graduating high school student look forward too in a faultering economy.

The Carter alternitive; A job in the U.S. Army.

Our government officials tell our citizens that our serious troubles are not at home, but of a threat to the oil monopolies sources of supply in the Persian Gulf. We are told that the Soviet Union is threatening U.S. monopoly controlled oil in the Persian Gulf. If we take a closer look one can see that the real threat to Persian Gulf oil is not of the Soviet Union, but rather those people who are getting tired of dictatoral medieval oil rich regimes like Saudi Arabia, Kuwait,Oman, and others. These fuedal societies economy are indirectly controlled by U.S. big business. The repression of revolutionary and liberation movements which threaten U.S. big business are the real interest of our nation. Draft Registration is the first step of preparation to preserve imperialism by means of military force.

For the poor youth, the military solution for unemployment is nothing new. Draft registration only represents an intensified attack on our youths right to a decent job, education, and a secure future. By opposing draft registration we are rejecting a future of war and deprivation and demanding a better life for all the worlds people. Our future national security will be better preserved by spending more to improve the lives of the American people, not the profits of the oil monopolies and defense industries.

We urge all peoples to get involved in some sort of anti draft movement. We must speak out and move against draft registration, because, not only are your personal futures at stake but the future of our country as well. ■

olympic politicking

Muhammad Ali himself called it a 75 percent success, and the Washington Post editorialist concluded that he had won on points in his 5-country diplomatic safari on behalf of President Carter's campaign to boycott the Moscow Olympics. A more common view, whether in Africa or in the US press, seemed to be that the champion boxer turned diplomat had at best managed a split decision by rapidly shifting his positions.

At the outset it must have seemed simple to the government planners who asked the popular champion to detour from India to visit Tanzania, Kenya, Nigeria, Liberia and Senegal. All five countries had voted in favor of the January 14 United Nations resolution on Afghanistan, condemning Soviet intervention in that country. But the results of the trip indicated there were more than a few contradictions between African diplomatic agendas and Carter's effort to rally a crusade against the Soviet threat.

Kenya, a sports power in track events, had already decided to support the boycott call before Ali's visit, as had Liberia, like Kenya a close US ally. Even in those countries journalists raised questions of the US failure to support the African Olympic boycott over South Africa in 1976, and a Liberian reporter voiced a common complaint when he told the Washington Post's Leon Dash that sending a boxer rather than a diplomatic just "because he is black" was an insult.

But the most bruising blows came soon after Ali's arrival in Tanzania, where Ali was cordially received as a sports hero but failed to meet with President Julius Nyerere. At an airport press conference, reporters confronted him with tough questions on the US failure to back African efforts to isolate South Africa, contrasting the American stance with Soviet aid to sountern African liberation movements.

Taken aback, Ali admitted ignorance and speculated that he was perhaps "being used to do something that ain't right." As the trip continued, Ali combined support for African demands for action on South Africa with continued denunciation of the Soviets in Afghanistan. "It's simple," he advised the US government in a characteristic remark, "If you make a move against South Africa then these people will glad to aid you."

Failure to win support in Tanzania, a member of the front-line" group of states directly threatened by South

TURN TO PAGE 4

Tony Crayton

★ BLACK HISTORY MONTH IS NOT OVER ★

Black History Month is not over, nor have the reasons for its existence become obsolete. At this time in History the Black population of America finds itself in a distressing state of affairs. What has been billed as foreboding for the American economy is a disaster for the Black American economy and it neccitates a clear understanding of history to see just how this condition came about. We have failed in America to ensure for the majority of Blacks the simple basic needs of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," it has alluded us. The communities, that we will return to after our college "miseducation" will be worse off today then they were four years ago. These communities are worse off since the Brown decision 25 years ago and worse off since the so-called emancipation 100 years ago. The simple fact remains that America has not changed in 1980; it is still a divided nation, one White and one Black.

Too many Blacks ignored the many events of Black History Month and such an occurance is tragic. Those that consistently attended had the opportunity to see and hear what rarely passes through these institutions of higher learning. They were exposed to the irrefutable facts of Black Achievements and hardships throughout 10,000 years of history.

The month began on a social note with a party in the Student Union building attended by approximately 800 Blacks and given by the brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha as the first party of the semester. Yet the basic tone of the months activities were immediately made clear February 5th in New Africa House with a slide-lecture called "Black History Black Rage." After 800 at a party only 3 days before, the insult of no more than 15 in attendance for the slide-lecture was a hard pill to swollow.

The next event was well attended but again not by the whole Black community; particularly not the faculty or staff who were grossly underrepresented. The lecture and panel on Police Repression was exciting and informative. February 10th there was an all day and night film festival at the Student Union Ballroom. The publicity for this was, to say the least, extensive; the turn out marginal. For the work that people put in, the reward was insulting.

The following events were far more rewarding in terms of attendance and the interest given those who came so far to bring the unsaid of Black History to us. Yosef Ben Jochannan's lecture was beyond interesting. Folks couldn't even leave because they were spell-bound by Jochannon's knowledge of the African past. Dr. Alan Counter and David Evans lecture, a few days later, on Surinam was met with the same enthusiasm by students and the few others who came to hear their world acclaimed talk.

The most memorable event, for those who attended them all, might never be identified. Yet, serious competition for that title was brought by the Malcom X Center's Rededication program. It was ninety nine percent Blacks in attendance and the feelings and spirit were never higher.

Despite all of this however, all of the successes of those events were still defaced by the gross lack of interest by the broader Black community that is up here. There are well over 500 Blacks; students, faculty and staff. The most widely attended event was the party. The poets at the rededication ceremony were astounded by the obvious absence of the rest of the Black Community. The lack of faculty and staff in such a large gathering of students was even more obvious.

Hopefully we won't wait for another corpse of crisis to bring what everyone always talks about: Black Unity. How often that expression is banted about; how common the phrase, "where theres unity there is strength" and how frightful it is that in 1980 we allow our status of students, staff or administrators,to keep us at a distance from each other.

This is a time in history of austerity for the nation; and of increased poverty and repression for Blacks. We cannot afford to maintain the social and class distractions that the broader society rewarded us for to keep us cool and uninvolved. Whether we dress clean or go to a private school, whether we look lean or are the gems of the basketball court-in the final analysis we are still Black and still unfree.

The last few events of Black History Month will give you a much needed glimpse of what we face today outside of this ivory tower environment. At the Black Cultural Center there is an exhibit of the world-reknouned work of James Van DeeZee. Van DerZee was born June 29, 1886 in Lenox Massachusetts. His photographic career is a monument not only to his genius but to the greatness of Blacks in Harlem during the worst years of the 1900's. The brother is 94 years old and still a sharp and exciting figure to hear. It would be the height of ignorance to allow this opportunity to go by. You have the opportunity to hear him and see a rare exhibition of photography. To want until the man dies to say how "heavy" he was is one of the most disgusting habits within this society and hopefully we won't fall prey to it.

On February 26th you will get to see and hear what America doesn't like you to fully understand--barbarism inflicted against Blacks daily in Southern Africa. The Center for Racial Studies is presenting a Southern Africa Syposium. It will include a film entitled "South Africa: a 20th Century Slavery," and two panelists from South Africa and Zimbabwe speaking on "Zimbabwe: The Struggle Against a New Colonial Solution," and the "Soweto Rebellion and the future of South Africa."

The next event will be on Wednesday the 27th in New Africa House. It will be a true family event with a slide presentation on the "Children of Africa." The technical skill utilizing slide projectors, music and poetry will be a very absorbing experience for all that attend.

Lastly, Wilhemena Simpson-Robinson will travel all the way from Florida to speak on the issues of Black Woman in particular and the implications for their lives in the future. It will be a lecture of serious concern for both men and women and it demands your attendance. Ms Simpson-Robinson is a scholar of impecable skills and a member of numerous Historical associations, including, Carter G. Woodson's Association for the Study of Negro Life and History of which she is a life member.

It is the sincere wish of the Black History Month Planning Committee that we all try our best to end this moth with the broadest attendance possible. A lot of work has gone into these events and your attendance is our only reward. As Minister Malcolm X said years ago, and which still is true today, "History is a people memory." don't let ourselves forget it. ■

staff

eugenia a. yuille editor in chief carl e. yates assistant editor graphics editor
carlos valdes assistant editor jose trejo editor eco latino jocelyn lee editor asian affairs eaward cohen photographer columnists tony p. crayton

robert f. teixera
curtis haynes jr.
michelle l. laney hotline to health lorraine cox healthreach robert e. davis jr. proofreader

Curtis Haynes Jr

NATIONAL DANCE COMPANY OF SENEGAL

It was an exciting experience as the National Dance Company of Senegal finally left the stage of the University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center--returning twice for standing ovations amidst enthused shouts and cheers. After a disappointing cancellation of Sunday's performance, the Company, under the direction of Maurice Sonar Senghor and Mamadou M'Baye of French West Africa, returned last Monday night to give the audience what they had come to see.

Both performances were gestic adaptations of folk tales from Senegalese oral tradition. The first, entitled "Return of the Prodigal Son," begins with the return f Keba, the son, to the village in which he was raised. Upon his return he attempts to re-integrate himself with the stability and regularty of daily village life. Here, dynamic motion enshrounds a special versatility in style, ranging from soft poetic movements, to the powerful, more 'traditional' African eurythmics. The musicians as well as the dancers display their talents, using native instruments such as the bata (a closed drum), the akan (a talking drum), and the topoke (a chordophone) in accompanyment with the dancers as well as singularly in individual duets betwen scenes.

The second performance, entitled "The Black Gazelle," is a legend about Gbessa, the beautiful daughter of a king and queen, whose spirit becomes a black gazelle upon her death. One could not help becoming absorbed in the beautiful bodies of the women dancers, the colorful tribal costumes and the wonderfully choreographed acrobatic performances; the rhythm of the drums, and the lively chanting added a memorable dimension of culture to this performance. However, the National Dance Company of Senegal is more than a theatrical troupe or a travelling ensemble of dancers, acrobats and musicians. The African folk music and song spun a transcedental tale about the dancers, who reinterpreted stories that carry centuries of tradition and lore behind them. We can only guess at the underlying beauty, only try to feel the deepness of the rich passions that flow. For many, last Monday night was a festive celebration of color, song and dance. Joyful, we left smiling. ■

TACTICS FOR CHANGE IN SOUTHERN AFRICA- A View from Mississippi

Part 1

"By law and custom blacks...were allowed to hold only certain jobs, mainly as servants. Initially education was denied to them; later schools for blacks were kept separate and inferior to the white schools. Similarly, the right to vote was initially denied to blacks and, once they had achieved that right, thousands of tricks were used to prevent them from exercising that right."

A drowsy or distracted member of the UN General Assembly's Fourth Committee could easily have listened to those sentences in a petition on Namibia last November without even realizing they were part of an historical analogy. But they were. They described not Namibia in 1979 but the southern United States prior to the civil rights movement.

The analogy is as irrestable as the differences are irreducible. Over the years, blacks in South Africa have drawn on the writings and experiences of the American civil rights and black power movements for ideas and inspiration. Over the same years, American politicians, both black and white, have drawn on the history of civil rights struggles to lecture South African whites on the need for change and South African blacks on the need for moderation.

If the lectures have not been enthusiastically received, it is hardly surprising. While considerably impressed and influenced by the theories and spirit of such American black leaders as Malcolm X and Stokely Carmichael, blacks in South Africa also remain acutely aware of those irreducible differences. Most of all, as one member of the SASO executive wrote in 1970, they see an enormous distinction between being an oppressed minority and an oppressed majority. "The Afro-Americans accept that they will never be in a position to change the system in America," a paper delivered to the SASO executive after study of works by Carmichael stated. "Whereas...purely from a consideration of who we are, we realize that it is we who must be allowing others to participate in our system."

South Africa's white rulers, undoutedly with the same glaring differences on their minds, have ridiculed analogies as preposterous. But they haven't managed to do away with them. Late last year, for example, assistant NAACP director Michael Meyers, speaking on behalf of the International League of Human Rights, presented a petition on Namibia to the Fourth Committee of the UN General Assembly. Meyers used an account of the role played by the federal government in the southern United States to argue for "a strong and determined UN role in the elections process in Namibia.

"We believe that a number of important lessons can be learned from the experiences of the civil rights movement in the American South," Meyers stated.

The lesson Meyers pressed upon the UN committee was the fact that "true progress in black registration and voting only came about in the American South with the introduction of supervisions and control from outside." In Namibia, he urged, the UN would have to provide that "supervision and control."

Meyers didn't mention certain other lessons that could be extracted from developments in the southern US-lessons that could prove highly instructive to both sides in the mounting struggle for southern African liberation. For observations during a recent visit to the heart to the region, con-firm that whites in the southern US have relinquished little of their power and have devised effective strategies to ensure that they won't be forced to do so anything soon.

MISSISSPPI REVISITED

Just a week before Meyers presented his petition at the UN, the state of Mississippi was conducting its elections. For blacks in the state, the results marked a major stride forward...along a road that still stretches a very long way ahead. In a state where official census figures say blacks make up nearly half the population (and where many blacks suspect that they are really the majority) 17 blacks were elected to the state legislature-out of a total of 174.

More than fourteen years after passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, hailed as the crowning achievement of the American civil rights movement, whites retain a firm grip on political and economic power in the state which has by far the highest percentage of black in the nation.

Petty apartheid-US style-has more or less disappeared, although activists in Holmes County, just fifty miles north of the Mississippi state capital, point out that signs designating separate "white" and "colored" waiting rooms at a local medical clinic only came down last year. But far-sighted planners in Pretoria want to see how the signs can come down without bringing drastic changes in the realities of power, they need look no further than Mississippi. For the fact is, as civil rights activist Julian Bond told a conference in Mississippi during November, "Black Mississippians and black Americans are worse off in 1979 than they were in 1964." And in Mississippi, as in the rest of the country, there are still two societies, one black one white, separate and unequal.

DISTRICT MANIPULATION

A graphic example of this fact was present by long-time black Mississippi activist Henry Kirksey in describing the election district in which he ran for the state Senate in November. "At one end of my district," Kirksey explained, "you have precincts that are 95 and 98 percent black. At the other end is a precinct that is 100 percent white. The median black income in the district is $3000 a year. The median white income is $9000. The average black voter in the district has completed eight years of schooling. The average white has completed more than twelve years."

Inclusion of two such distinct populations in one election district, didn't happen simply by accident. Kirksey calculates that any effort to draw lines around "compact and homogeneous districts..would unavoidably result in at least 30 to 40 percent of the districts having a black majority." For fourteen years, after passage of the Voting Rights Act, he battled in the courts to reapportion the state along those lines (and replace a system which made it virtually impossible for any black candidate to win a seat in the legislature). A month after a special court decided in favor of a plan based on Kirksey's work, a higher court issued its own plan, carving up the state into strange configurations like "the seahorse district" in which Kirksey ran and won.

Manipulation of voting district boundaries is just one of many tactics used by whites to maintain control. Particularly in rural areas, where blacks often outnumber whites by as much as two or three to one, whites have resorted to everything from outright terror to bribery and casting multiple ballots to win elections.

Continued Next week.

announcements/ drum

We invite you to join us in the interpretations of the Black Experience.
Poetry, essays, fiction, photography and artworks are now being considered for the Fall)Spring '79-80 edition of Drum.
Written material shall be double-spaced, typed, xeroxed copies of the originals.

All material submitted becomes the property of Dfum

All submissions should be addressed to;

DRUM

115 New Africa House

Univeristy of Massachusetts

Amherst Massachusetts 01003

Deadline date;

Wednesday March 12, 1980

"Share Your Mind With The World"

STUDENT COVER DESIGN COMPETITION

For the first time in the history of Drum a cover design competition is being held. The winning photograph, drawing or painting will be used in our format and will be placed on the cover of the Fall)Spring 1979-80 edition of the Black Literary Experience. In addition a framed version of the winning entry will be presented to the winner of the competition.

RULES

All student are eligible

Entrants may not be a professional in the field of art, photography, graphic arts, design or of related fields.

Photography:
Black and whites are to be no smaller that 5"x7" inches prints.
Color photography shall be submitted as slides.

Artwork:
Drawings and painting shall be submitted as slides.

Entries shall include the name, address, phone number of entrant along with title of work submitted.

Entries shall be submitted no later than the deadline of Monday March 3 1980. Entries postmarked and received after March 3 will not be considered.

Limit of 3 works per entrant.

The winner will be notified on Friday March 7 1980.

Entries will be strictly judges by the editors and staff of Drum on adherence to the theme.

THEME

For the children
I want them to have this time of now as their play-ground and future be their new home
For the children
I want them to have this good black earth as a gift. I want them to have this blessing that is the Garden of Eden to run free and grow strong
For the children
I want them to live and love as I do. I want them to sing songs; uhuru chants and freedom suites. Tomorrow is their
O God, I want the children to be free

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

African military power, might not have been a serious obstacle. For while Tanzania's President Nyerere is often termed "Africa's conscience," lack of economic strength limits the impact of that country's moral suasion. But Nigeria is one of Africa's economic giants, and Senegal is a prominent leader of the conservative French-speaking states which generally follow France's line on international issues. Neither proved receptive to Ali's plea.

Nigeria shares Tanzania's concern that a renewed Cold War confrontation should not distract attention from the liberation of white-minority-ruled southern Africa, and it has no desire to jeopardize projects such as its own Ajaokuta blast furnace for steel, developed in cooperation with the Soviet Union. Senegal, for its part, has to think not only of France, itself holding back from falling in behind the American banner, but also of the Supremem Council of Sport in Africa (SCSA), where Senegalese Lamine Ba only in December won the hotly contested Secretary-General's post from long-time incumbent Jean-Claude Ganga.

At the same December meeting African states forcefully expressed their own Olympic concerns with a unanimous resolution urging that Britain be barred from the Moscow Games for hosting a South African rugby team in October and for continuing with plans for a return tour this May. The subsequent furor over the US-backed boycott has eclipse the African demands, but African states and anti-apartheid activists still insist that the sports boycott of South Africa should be maintained.

South African sports authorities and government officials point proudly to the erosion of racial barriers in sport in recent years, and denounce as an irrational political vendetta their continued exclusion from most international sports bodies, including the Olympics. And indeed ther have likely been more changes on the athetic field than in any other area of South Africa life, with "multi-racial" events increasingly common in a wide range of sports, and attempts to build umbrella organizations groups sports bodies of different races.

Critics, however, point out that the changes that have been made have come from the pressure of the international boycotts and that the present situation falls far short of a non-racial sport policy. The guidelines still in effect, says the Johannesburg Financial Mail, are those drawn up in 1976, which call for separate clubs for white, African, Coloured and Indian sportsmen and women. "Multi-racial" events, while increasingly easy to arrange, still require special exemptions from the apartheid regulations which confine the different races to segregated areas.

The South African Council of Sport (SACOS), the militantly non-racial federation in the country, argues that fully non-racial sport demands the dismantlement of the fundemental structure of segregation. SACOS President Hassan Howa claims to represent one and a half million athletes in South Africa, and his group adamantly opposes the readmission of South Africa to international sports without more basic changes.

Overseas, SACOS' case is strongly backed by organizations such as SANROC (South African Non-Racial Olympic Committee), which pioneered the boycotts, and it seems unlikely that South Africa will be able to make any major dents soon in its isolation. Last month sports delegations from France and Britain visited South Acfrica. While the british response is still uncertain, the chairman of the French team stated that "there is still too much discrimination and apartheid" in South African sport. ■

ZAMIA BUY RUSSIAN MIGS:

Unable to get advanced weapons from the West, Zambia has purchased 16 MiG21s from the Soviet Union. The deal, worth some $90 million, is said to be on tough terms-with 20 percent up front and seven years for full payment at normal commercial interest rates.

Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda has chosen to make the dramatic boost in defense spending despite a difficult internal economic situation after the nation found itself virtually defenseless against Rhodesian and South African incursions in 1979 (seee AFRICA NEWS, nowv. 16 and Dec. 7, 1979). Over 200 Zambian air force pilots and ground crew have been training already for over two months to man the new planes, which are equal to the Mirages used by South Africa.

CHALLENGES TO SENGHOR:

A series of ostensibly unrelated disturbances in Senegal has fueled speculation that President Senghor and his Socialist Party may be headed for serious political turmoil. Trouble first flared in the southern region of Casamance, where protests at Dgignabo high school in Zuiginchor led to a demonstration in which one youth was killed by police. Weeks later a sympathy strike by university students in Dakar triggered a confrontation with the gendarmerie. Then followers of Ahmed Niasse, who demands that Senegal become an Islamic republic, claimed responsibility for buring down a hotel in Zuiginchor last month, about the same time that police confiscated at the border more than a thousand cassette tapes of a Niasse press conference in Paris.

In a subsequent speech President Senghor warned of what he termed armed attempts to upset the status quo, and some political observers believe that his recent meeting with parliamentary opposition leader Abdoulaye Wade may mark the beginning of a campaign to strengthen the government by giving rival parties more power. ■

mugabes chances threatened

As Rhodesia's white voters went to the polls February 14, there was little doubt that Ian Smith's Rhodesian Front would sweep to them uncontested. Ian Smith even had time for a jaunt to Reno, Nevada, to address the Mizuri Safari Federation, a conservation group. But with elections for the remaining 80 seats only two weeks off, the atmosphere in Rhodesian was tense. On February 9, former white Prime Minister Garfield Todd was arrested in Shabani district and charged with failing to report guerillas. Five days later, three ZANU-PF officials and the wife of the party's election director were arrested on the same charges. From Salisbury JULIE FREDERIKSE reports:

Salisbury A week of escalating moves and counter-moves by the British governor and the leader of the Zimbabwe African National Union-Patriotic Frorit (ZANU-PF) climi zed in a standoff that could set the stage for a breakdown on the cease-fire.

Following an intense hour-and-a-half meeting with ZANU-PF's Robert Mugabe, Governor Soames has threatened to exclude hundreds of thousands of voters from taking part in the upcoming balloting if, in his view, violence and harassment have made free and fair elections impossible.

Voter intimidation is the issue that brought Soames and Mugabe to loggerheads, but Rhodesia's tense military situation is at the root of their possibly irreconcilable dispute. Lord Soames blames Mugabe's party and the Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army (ZANLA) for a level of violence and fear throughout the country that the administration finds intolerable. In making his case, the governor cites breaches of the cease-fire, Rhodesian Combined Operations Headquarters communiques on "contacts" with "terrorists," and police reports of political crime.

While not denying that his followers have been responsible for some incidents, Mugabe counters that the violations carried out by the security forces themselves are far more serious. He objects strenuously to the governor's continued deployment of the Rhodesian army, air force and 'auxiliary forces' while his guerillas are confined to camp.

Using absolute powers granted to the British interim governing authority, Lord Soames has followed up his charges with tough action. The ZANU-PF candidate in Bulawayo, Central Committee member Enos Nkala, was the first victim of the new ordinance permitting the banning from the campaign of individuals or parties found guilty of intimidation. And ZANU-PF claims that over 2500 of its supporters have been arrested on intimidation charges.

On February 13, Loard Soames went a step further, issuing an "abrogation of elections" order that will allow him to cancel elections in any administrative district or part thereof when he finds that "disruptive activity" has made it impossible to hold free and fair elections. The announcement as to which constituencies might be disenfranchised will not come until just before the February 27 election date, but the governor has pinpointed the specific regions which must shoe a "marked reduction in intimidation" if elections are not to be cancelled.

african affairs

Most worrisome to the governor, according to a British spokesman, are the Tibal Trust Lands of Victoria Province, Manicaland, and Mashonaland East, area generally seen as ZANU-PF strongholds (with the exception of Manicaland, where Bishop Muzorewa is thought to have considerable-if waning-support.

In his stormy meeting with Lord Soames, Mugabe labelled the new law "outrageously unconstitutional" and claimed the governor was bent on "creating unfavorable circumstances for the party he detests."

Mugabe has already warned that he will pull out of the election if his party is banned in any one district. A ZANU-PF spokesperson made it clear that the disenfranchisement of voters in any area would likewise send ZANLA "back to the bush."

The threat from each side are serious, but there are equally serious obstacles to each side carrying them out. The British Conservative Party bias against Mugabe's Marxist leaning is balanced by Commonwealth and international pressure. Mugabe is in turn constrained by the front-line states and the Organization for African Unity, which have no desire to see a resumption of the war.

The man who stands to gain most the current Soames-Mugabe standoff is Patriotic Front leader Joshua Nkomo's conciliatory, a tactic which, he says, is reminiscent of Idi Amin. But Nkomo is careful not to specify whether he supports Mugabe's charge that the Security Forces, especially Bishop Muzorewa's former private army, are responsible for the intimidation.

Meanwhile, British sources say Nkomo is "more forthright" in implicating ZANLA forces when he confers privately with the govenor. In contrast to the "cool" characterization given by a British spokesperson of Mugabe's meetings with Lord Soames, Nkomo's meeting was described as "warm, friendly and positive," and while ZANU-PF delivered a diatribe against the election ordinance, the PF merely labelled the move as "unfortunate."

Observers not that hardly any PF strong-holds would be affected by enforcement of the law, and they speculate that Nkomo could be wooed into a post-election alliance against ZANU-PF

Nkomo is clearly keeping his options open. In the face of OAU pressure on both wings of the Patriotic Front to reunite, Mugabe and Nkomo have begun a series of meetings. There has been no official comment yet from either party on the substance or success of the discussions, but when pressed on the unity issue, Nkomo retorted angrily, "Go to Comrade Mugabe and encourage him." Nkomo also reiterated his complaint that he had been "jilted" by Mugabe.

Should the uity talks fail and isolation of ZANU-PF continue, Bishop Abel Murorewa's United African National Council could resurface as a pivotal factor. The apparent drop in UANC support since the failure of the 'internal settlement' has led many to downgrade the power of the former prime minister. But he is still sure to win enough seats for either Nkomo or Mugabe to reluctantly woo him into a coalition. "The Bishop," commented one observer, "is the unwholsome bride.' ■

middle east affairs

Taleb Bizri

a new shah is born

There are historical parallels to Mr Sadat's willingness to accomodate the United States and Israel. These parallels are not accidental because of the similarity between the way a settler colonial entity,like the US, and another settler colonial entity. Like Israel, intract with their enemies. In dealing with the native American Indians and later with the African Blacks, the US government signed no less than one hundred and thirty seven treaties. Each treaty was then violated. The Indian was asked to make just one more compromise and one more attempt to be reasonable. Eventually the Indian was left with no more land and no ability to fight for his survival. The American Indian may have had few options left and, therefore, had no choice but to surrender. The same is hardly the case for African Blacks in the US.

In the case of the Arab and Muslim's New Shah, i.e. Mr Sadat, however, there are some major differences worth nothing. There is after all the promise, real or imaginary, that Egypt will benefit enormously following a settlement. A country so poor and so ill-develped will always be vulnerable to that kind of appeal especially if the process of confrontation seems to be either too costly or too unlikely to produce the same kind of result. The Egyptian people seem to have been convinced by a heavy barrage of propaganda that following a settlement, their economic situation will be significantly improved. The Egyptian regime can then look to a fairly prominent role within the rubric of American hegemony in the Middle East.

Mr Sadat's willingness to accommodate the United States and its base in the third world Israel differs from that of other equally conservative Arab regimes. Saudi Arabia and others are more susceptible to their Arab constituency than Egypt seems to be. Historically, Egypt has acted on its Arab environment whenever it wished and lapsed into some form of isolation whenever the need emerged. As for Saudi Arabia, hooked as it is in the structure of American imperialism, it does remain at once an Arab and a Muslim country with a fairly well sense of Arab nationalism. Its Arab, Islamic and Third World constituency imposes certain constraints on its political style. Furthermore, the latest events in Iran and the Saudi's internal unstability place additional constraints on Saudi political behavior.

Saudi Arabia and others may have been willing to accept a settlement that would take the rights of the Palestinian people into serious consideration. A settlement, however, based on the Camp David Agreement is not likely to produce the kind of results that would be in the least acceptable to most Arab moderates. This is what makes Mr Sadat's willingness to accommodate so suspect. It violates the basic consensus in the Arab World as well as the basic international consenus on the nature of a settlement. In fact, it constitutes such a departure from the international consensus that it seem like a major step backwards for the Arab World and for the Palestinian people. After all, doesn't the international consensus state that the Palestinians have the full right to national self-determination including the right to establish their own sovereign and independent state• Does it not recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization as the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people• Does it not state categorically that acquisition of territory by force is contrary to international law and civilied procedure• Does it not state clearly and unambiguously that Israeli settlements in the occupied territories are illegal• In other words, Mr Sadat has thrown away all the major achievements of October 1973 and the ensuing accomplishemtns of the Rabat Summit and the United Nations Resolutions. In one fell swoop, he gave Israel the kind of legitimacy which it had been desperately seeking from the Arab world and which it seemed to be losing in the eyes of the international community.

To be continued next week

Continued from last week

eco latino

El Salvador

The popular forces have achieved a high degree of unity and are determined to overthrow the dictatorship The U.S. Government is naturally worried that one of its client-states will fall in the same way as Somoza's regime in Nicaragua Carter has decided to provide the dictatorship in El Salvador with $5 million worth of military assistance

CARTA ABIERTA A LA COMUNIDAD

Chiqui Garcia

Quiero senalar la importancia que tienen la comunicacion entre la comunidad latinoamericana en estos territorios. Esto es esencial. No puede haber unidad ni entendimiento claro; especialmente sobre lo que se ha hecho, como se ha hecho, que se puede hacer en el futuro, donde estamos, como podemos ayudarnos, etc.

Los resultados de una buena comunicacion hace infinidades de cosas, es algo magico que podriamos desarrolar. Si se utiliza constantemente el periodico, programas de radio, boletines, hojas sueltas, y especialmente el correo, muchos de nosotros sabriamos porque, donde, cuando, a que hora, como, etc.

La comunicacion entre nosotros debe enfatizarse ya que somos minoria, americanos del otro lado en la tierra del imperio. Debemos ayudarnos mutuamente, conocernos. En la union esta la fuerza y esta debe ser solida, documentada, tanto cluturalmente como historicamente. Si esto es asi no hay barreras que nos impida desarrolarnos a todos los niveles. La organizacion AHORA es una alternativa real que debe desarrollarse sin vacilos en actitudes positivas. En el pasado se ha hecho con buenos sacrificios.

AHORA es el momento, latino, mete mano. Necesitamos tu presencia, debemos defender nuestros derechos economicos, culturales e informativos; esto es importante para nuestra unidad. Pues se sabe que si somos muchos en esta area, y con capacidad para ejecutar. Si muchos aportamos un poquito de tiempo, a todos nos dara tiempo para todo; pues asi no recae el trabajo sobre dos o tres como en pasadas experiencias. Se acerca un futuro, un nuevo semestre, nuevos estudiantes, mejores ideas. Hay que mejorar nuestra organizacion, tanto individual como colectiva. Hay infinidades de cosas que podemos hacer. . . unamonos pronto, las alternativas estan. . . AHORA!

Demonstration Against WFCR Program Changes Tomorrow

The struggle over Hispanic programming on public radio station WFCR continues. General manager, Robert Goldfarb, has not changed his decision to cut down the hours that the Spanish-language program, "Que Tal Amigos" will be aired. WFCR reaches people in western Massachusetts and the Hartford area. For the Hispanic communities in this region the program is a rare opportunity to hear Latin American music with information in Spanish.

There have been demonstrations in this area by members of the Hispanic community together with other supporters of the program, in response to the WFCR program changes. The Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council will be holding a public hearing on the subject in the campus center, room 903 at 1:30 pm this Tuesday, February 26. Supporters of "Que Tal Amigos" will hold a rally in front of the Student Union Building at 1:00 pm.

Robert Goldfarb's original intent was with the program was to eliminate it completely. He stated this decision to members of the staff. Reasons that he gave were that too much of the program's resources were going to one program and that the program unfairly discriminated against people who didn't understand Spanish.

When Goldfarb was made aware of the number of supporters of the program, through letters to the station and protest by Hispanic people in this area, he began to talk about not getting rid of the program, but putting it at 11 p.m. (instead of 7:30 p.m.) and only two hours a week (instead of five). The program's supporters became very vocal in pointing out that the 11 p.m. time slot would make the program out of reach for most of its present listeners. The latest decision by Goldfarb is to make it an earlier time, but not prime time, and still only two hours a week.

The Hispanic community has expressed its concern that "Que Tal Amigos" could eventually be taken off the air, in view of Goldfarb's attitude toward the program. He has constantly criticized the content of the program saying it is not of high quality. ("The music is too popular.") The fact is that program features a variety of Latin American music, including pieces from the New Song Movement whose lyrics are often words by respected poets.

According to Sonia Vivas, the producer of "Que Tal Amigos", the letters received by the station in response to the program changes have been overwhelmingly in favor of keeping the program. Goldfarb has constantly emphasized complaints he has received about the program.

He has stated that the program should be staffed by volunteers, rather than professionals. Sonia Vivas has said that this move could result in a decrease in the calibre of the program which would give Goldfarb a reason to eliminate it once and for all, which is what he said he would do when he first took the position. ■

PROXIMAS ELECCIONES DE AHORA

En la pasada reunion de AHORA el jueves 21 de febrero en el B.C.P. se discutieron y organizaron planes de trabajo a efectuarse proximamente. En primer lugar se organizo un comite que estara a cargo de planificar la semana latinoamericana en que celebramos y hacemos gala de nuestra identidad como pueblo. Las actividades llevaran un mensaje educativo, cultural y patriotico. Un comite esta compuesta hasta el momento por nueve personas; Gretchen Figueroa, Jose Chiqui Garcia, Jaime Hernandez, Jesus Davila, Milton Brito, Monsi Rodriguez, Ramon Torres, Javier Torres, y Lucy Montes. Este comite se reunira el martes 26 de febrero a las 8:00 PM en el B.C.P. en Wilder Hall. Esperamos asistan todos y se unan a participar con nosotros.

Se le agradece a las personas que estan colaborando en favor del programa radial "Que Tal Amigos" por medio de manifestaciones, llamadas y cartas. Se exorto a continuar brindando el mayor apoyo posible en busca de mantener el programa en el aire para benificio de todos. Se invita a que esten todos presentes este martes 26 de febrero a la 1:00 PM en Campus Center 903 donde habra una audiencia publica. Estara presente el gerente de la estacion WFCR el Sr. Goldfarb. Se tendra la oportunidad de hacer preguntas y participar en un piquete fuera.

El viernes 29 de febrero a las 7:00 PM seran las elecciones para la nueva directiva de la organizacion AHORA. Posiciones que deben comenzar a ejecutar sus labores el proximo ano escolar. Las nominaciones fueron las suguientes:

PRESIDENTE

Gertrudis Garcia
Carlos Gonzalez
Monica Santiago

VICE PRESIDENTE

Jose Chiqui Garcia
Gertrudis Garcia
Julia Martinez

TESORERO(A)

Jesus Vazquez
Gabriel Velazquez
Monica Santiago

SECRETARIO(A)

Monsi Rodriguez

KEEP QUE TAL AMIGOS ON THE AIR!!

The HISPANIC COMMUNITY calls on its supporters in the 5-College area to DEMONSTRATE at the Public Hearing with Western Mass. Broadcasting Council on the fate of foreign-language programing on public radio station WFCR.

On Tuesday 26, at 1:30 pm 903 Campus Center.

At 12:30 pm

RALLY & MARCH !!

In front of the Student Union Building

Alli nos vemos

" UN PUEBLO UNIDO JAMAS SERA VENCIDO "

eco latino

Nicaraguan Revolution receives support at UMass

In a mass uprising last year the people of Nicaragua, under the leadership of the Sandinista National Liberation Front, succeeded in overthrowing the brutal dictatorship of Anastasio Somoza, after a bloody civil war. Today the Central American country is still recovering from the devastion and genocide it suffered at the hands of the U.S. - created repressive military apparatus of Somoza, and the people are now in the process of renewing Nicaraguan society.

Last week was Nicaragua Solidarity Week in the Five College Area and as a result, several educational programs were held. Their objective was to inform people in this area of the reality of the continuting struggle of the people of Nicaragua, and what it means for people in the U.S. and around the world.

Carmen Diana Deere, a professor in the UMass economics department, recently arrived from a week-long stay in Nicaragua and she gave a lecture entitled Nicaragua Yesterday and Today, which primarily dealt with the present efforts of the Government of National Reconstruction in carrying out a literacy campaign and agrarian reform. Robert Burbank, a writer for NACLA, a magazine on Latin America, gave a talk entitled Central America in the Post-Somoza Era, which looked at among other things, the present situations in Guatemala and El Salvador. On Friday evening in Boston the Nicaraguan Consul to the U.S. gave a lecture also part of the Nicaragua Week.

A slide-show entitled Nicaragua: Anatomy of the Revolution was presented on campus at various times. It depicted the horrors of the Somoza regime's saturation bombings of cities and towns in its effort to put down the mass insurrection. The extreme magnitude of the government's attacks occured in the context of the extreme isolation of the government and the desire of the bulk of the Nicaraguan population to be rid of the dictatorship. The U.S.-backed regime served to enrich a minscule minority of the population (mainly the Somoza family) and subjected the vast majority to oppression and poor conditions of life.

Even the Nicaraguan capitalist were, for the most part, against Somoza. They joined in organized opposition to his regime together with labor unions, peasant organizations, students, the Catholic Church, the women's association, and the three wings of the Sandinista Front. Somoza's single base of support in the country was the U.S.-built National Guard.

The Sandinista guerilla armies carried out the crucial military operations which propelled the popular uprising. At the same time, however, all over the country young people (many of them in their early teens) set up barricades in their neighborhoods and fought the National Guard with hand-guns and home-made bombs. "It was a crime to be a young person in Nicaragua," said the slide-show presentation, and it described how the Guard, when it entered towns, it rounded up and indiscriminately executed scores of boys and girls on suspicion of being revolutionary fighters. The government's widespread aerial bombings also indiscriminately hit hospitals, schools, churches and homes. The government consequently received condemnation worldwide humanitarian organizations and many governments.

It is a known fact that Somoza's National Guard was trained and equipped by the U.S. government. The Guard officers were groomed in special U.S. military camps. In one of the slides a mortar shell, one among many which caused the death of thousands of people and widespread destruction, is held up and identified as Made in U.S.A.

The previous government of Somoza's father, when in trouble because of popular unrest, was saved by an invasion of Nicaragua by U.S. marines who fought against guerilla forces led by Agusto Sandino. Somoza himself, a graduate of West Point, has often been called by Nicaraguans The Last Marine, since, like his father, the survival of his regime depended on the support of the U.S. government. In the slide-show a close advisor to Franklin D. Roosevelt was quoted as saying of the first Somoza, "he may be a son-of-a-bitch, but he's our son-of-a-bitch."

But as the Nicaraguan people's victory last July has shown, all the U.S. arms and U.S. training were not enough to keep Anastasio Somoza from being toppled, in the face of the courage and determiniation of the people. ■

A New Society In Nicaragua

When Anastasio Somoza, the dictator of Nicaragua, saw that the National Guard, his only base of support in the country, could not crush the popular insurrection he quietly left for Miami. Before leaving he emptied the central bank of the vast fortune he accumulated at the expense of the exploitation of the Nicaraguan peasants, workers and poor people who make up the majority of the population. This process of exploitation was backed up by a powerful repressive apparatus built up by the U.S. government. What Somoza did leave behind was a staggering foreign debt, as well as ravaged fields and towns, victims of his regime's massive bombings.

It is in this setting that the people of Nicaragua, under the leadership of the Government of National Reconstruction, are presently struggling to rebuild their country and reshape society in such a wav that it will be responsive to the needs and aspirations of the majority of the population. The civil war last year between the people's forces and Somoza's National Guard was torturious and left thousands of people dead. But according to Tomas Borges, the present Minister of Interior, "The war was only the beginning. The most difficult part of the revolution lies ahead."

The process of reconstruction in Nicaragua was described by UMass economics professor Carmen Diana Deere at a lecture which she gave as part of Nicaragua Solidarity Week, held last week in the Five-College area. Professor Deere has recently arrived from a week-long stay in that Central American country where she attended a conference on agrarian reform, to which specialists in issues of rural development from around the world were invited by the Nicaraguan government.

In the struggle to overthrow Somoza different political tendencies joined in an alliance. (Both capitalists and workers had held a strike/work boycott.) The diverse nature of this alliance is today reflected in the composition of the new government, where the top positions are filled by people from different sectors, including both businessmen and also members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front. The Front's guerilla armies led the fight against the Somoza dictatorship.

Professor Deere said that private ownership of land and firms has not been abolished. Only businesses which were previously the property of the Somoza family have been nationalized. Nicaraguan capitalists are allowed to pursue their profit motives as long as the workers receive decent wages and working conditions, a situation which was not prevalent under the dictatorship.

In the countryside, according to Professor Deere, there has not been a redistribution of land. Peasants have not made organized demands for a break-up of large landholdings. Large landowners are allowed to keep their plots as long as they keep up a constant level of production and are responsive to labor demands. Agriculture is given a special importance in the government's development plans.

Under the dictatorship, ownership of land and businesses was largely concentrated in the hands of the Somoza family and this is a primary reason for bourgeois opposition to the regime. (There was little room for capitalist competition.) Only these holdings have been taken over by the government. The objective of the government is to bolster production as much as possible.

Despite the guarantees of private property today in Nicaragua, "the country is in a transition to socialism," says Professor Deere. For the first time workers and peasants are in power in Nicaragua, she pointed out. She said that the broad participation of people in decision-making at all levels in the country is being advanced by the Sandinista Front. People are involved in decision-making in their work-places and communities.

"Women in Nicaragua," observed Prof. Deere, "are in important positions at different levels. Women played a strong role in the struggle against Somoza, many of them as guerilla fighters. They continue to play an important role today and the importance of women's involvement is almost not even questioned."

Professor Deere affirmed that freedom of expression is upheld. "Newspapers freely criticize the government.

But it's usually friendly criticism, since the government's efforts are supported by just about everybody." ■

Coloboradores de ECO LATINO en este numero Lucy Montes Mariano Gutierrez Gretchen Figueroa announcements / third world theater series / smith college news

Third World Theater Series
"I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW"

"I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW" is a documentary play with music, tracing the inner lives of working class women from the early 1900's to the present. It portrays the struggle of working class women, who work because they have to. We also see the exploitation in many industries, in homes as servants, as janitors living in sordid housing conditions It depicts Black, Hispanic, Asian, and White women all with the same basic problems of making ends meet every week.

"I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW" is the first play of the Third World Theater series now in its second season. The play is being offered in honor of International Women's Week and is an original work by the Labor Theater of New York City. "I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW" was written from actual oral histories of working women and has toured hospitals, union halls, and nursing homes in addition to playing at the Labor Theater.

EVENT:
"I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW"

DATE:
Monday, March 10, 1980 at 8pm

TICKETS:
$2.00-Students. $3.00-General public

LOCATION:

Bowker Aud., University of Massachsetts

Northampton, MA - To honor the 400th anniversary of Mantiagne's "Essay," the Five College international colloquim will present a series of lectures and disscussions on Friday and Saturday, February 29 and March1.

The program will begin at Converse Hall, Amherst College, at 2pm, Friday, move to Wright Hall, Smith College, Friday at 8pm, and conclude with Saturday's session, which will open at 9:30am at Converse Hall Amherst, once again.

Topics for the sessions will range from the early reception of the "Essay" to the specificity of language and rhetorial devices. The "Essays" is a unique book in which everyone recognizes himself. As Emerson said, "It seemed to me as if I had myself written the book, in some former life."

Although the official language of the conference is English, a few papers will be given in French. For those whose French is rusty, simultaneous interpretation will be provided by students and graduates of the Interpreter Studies Program within the department of French and Italian at the University of Massachusetts.

Serving as translators will be Katherine Hilton, a graduate student at the University; Beryl Kenney, Amherst College; Betsy Lancaster, UMass; and Sherri Ross, Amherst.

The translation will be carried in Converse Hall through headsets, a limited number of which will be available at the door. The conference is believed to be the first in the area to provide simultaneous interpretation.

Commenting on the colloquium, Paul Mankin of the UMass French and Italian department said: "At a time when technical specialization has dominated the field of literary criticism, it is particularly enticing to reevaluate the humanist message of a great writer whose temperance and modernity have never been questioned. Humanism without Montaigne is unthinkable."

Those registered for the colloquium include scholars from many East coast states and as far away as Utah and Wisconsin. Participants from Canada and France, including representatives of the Society of Friends of Montaigne in Paris, will attend.

Copies of the program may be obtained from the department of French and Italian at the University of Massachusetts or from the organizer of the colloquium, Daniel Martin, Professor of French and English at the Univeristy.

Observers will be welcome at the event.

Service Organizations of Smith (SOS) will sponsor its second annual dance-a-thon to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8, in Scott Gymnasium at the college.

The event will begin as a party for Smith College students and their guests at 9pm Friday and continue as a marathon until 1pm Saturday. Marthon entrants, who will dance for as many straight hours as their stamina will allow, also will be Smith students and their guests.

With two Smith faculty members as recent recipients of MDA grants, Smith College has particularly close ties with the organization.

Sytlianos Scordilis, assistant professor in the biological sciences, and Jeanne Powell, professor in the biological sciences, recently received a $24,000 grant from MDA for research in muscle disorders. This is the fifth year that Smith faculty members have received MDA research grants.

Both Ms. Powell and Scordilis have been awarded previous grants, but this is the first time they have worked together on a project.

In 1979, MDA allocated more than $17.9 million nationally for research, $1.4 million of it in Massachusetts.

The area MDA clinic at Baystate Medical Center, Springfield, covers 40 neuromuscular diseases, including amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, the disease which resulted in the death, recently, of long-time Smith choral conductor Iva Dee Hiatt.

Springfield MDA personnel worked with Miss Hiatt's nurses, and the organization purchased a telecommunicator used by Miss Hiatt.

Last year's MDA dance marathon at Smith involved 26 dancers and raised $3,600.

Those interested in signing up to dance in the marathon may contact Debbie Feldheim, extension 485.

asian affairs

Campus Coalition for Polical Prisoners

The Americanization of Chol Soo Lee

이절수의 자국

Chol Soo Lee came to the "Golden Mountain" from Korea at the age of 12. In Junior High School, Chol Soo was constantly picked on and ostracized for being Asian (something many Asian–Americans can relate to). However, Chol Soo refused to adapt to the stereotypes of passivity inflicted upon Asian people ("Why don't you act like the rest of the nice, quiet, invisible 'Orientals?").

One day, Chol Soo had a fight with a school bully. Both were sent to the principal's office. Chol Soo, unable to articulate his frustration in English, kicked the principal in the leg. The principal charged him with assault and battery, and he was convicted.

He was sent to Juvenile Hall, and then shipped to a mental hospital. There he was a victim of behavior modification drugs. An exhorbitant amount of needles and pills kept him in a lethargic, catatonic state.

He was transferred to a foster home, but ran away and was caught and sentenced to California Youth Authority for 13 months!

Not once, during all this ordeal, was he ever consoled or translated to in Korean, the only language he knew.

In 1973, on a busy intersection in Chinatown on a busy Sunday afternoon, Yip Yee Tak, a tong member, was assasinated.

The mayor pressured the San Francisco police to find a suspect for this murder, as there were already 13 unsolved murder cases in Chinatown. This deeply affected the tourist trade. The tourist trade largely benefitted the elite of San Franciso, as the residents of Chinatown are exploited of their labor and culture. As if Chol Soo didn't have enough problems, the police picked him up as a suspect.

Racism has strongly contributed to every facet of the case that convicted him as the murderer. All the witnesses called were white tourists, although there were many Asians present that Sunday. He was identified from a mug shot that was taken four years ago, at the age of sixteen. The discrepencies of the identification process were ignored. The witnesses said the murderer was 5'6" to 5'10" tall, weighing 145–165 lbs. Chol Soo is 5'4" and 125 lbs. It is obvious that he was chosen from an "All Orientals look alike" mentality.

K.W. Lee, a newspaper reporter for the Sacramento Union, sensed the discrepencies of the case. He wrote an article which clearly pointed out that Chol Soo was a victim of malicious injustice. A nationwide movement demanding the freedom of Chol Soo began to grow, from the impetus of concerned Asian–American communities. There are even defense committees in South Korea and Japan.

The first obstacle to tackle was inadequate legal aid. The assigned public defender refused to investigate the case for ten months. Between Mrs. Lee and about 100 friends, they could only raise $1000.00. However, with the material economic support of the movement, a private attorney was hired. The judge would not allow a postponement for him to review the case more thoroughly.

The trial was set in Stockton, California, which has a heavy Ku Klux Klan influence. Not understanding English, he confusingly watched a white judge, white prosecutor, white jury and white witnesses play with the rest of life. He certainly was not given a trial by his peers, as not one Asian was brought to the stand. Under these circumstances, he was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment at Deuel Vocational Institute, one of the most notorious prisons in California.

Identifying himself with other Third World brothers in DVI, he was inspired by "Nuestra Familia" (a Hispanic prison organization) and decided to form an "Asian Family".

Prison guards taunted Chol Soo with the prospect of an attack on him by white supremecist groups within the prison (e.g. Nazis, KKK, Aryan Brotherhood) who wanted to disrupt this Third World unity.

Prison authorities strive on and encourage intense racism among prisoners to deter them from uniting against the horrendous conditions of prisons, as they did in Attica in 1971.

One day, several members of a white supremecist prison group decided to attack Chol Soo. Needham, wearing a sweatshirt in 85 degree weather, concealed the attack knife. The two men struggled, and Needham later died of knife stabbing.

The man who Chol Soo was playing chess with claimed that Chol Soo was wearing a tight tank top which was impossible to conceal a knife with. The guard who gave him a body check before entering the yard verified this testimony.

Chol Soo practiced self–defense during Needham's attack on his life. However, he was again convicted of murder. Historically, the U.S. does not recognize the right of Third World peoples to self–defense. For instance, Third World women have been incarcerated for successfully preventing or revenging a rape attack (Dessie Woods, Inez Garcia, Yvonne Wanrow, JoAnn Little).

The court refused to postpone the second trial until the habeus corpus of the first trial was completed. California law imposes the death penalty on a first degree murder conviction of a defendant with a prior murder conviction. Since the first murder conviction was not was not yet reversed, Chol Soo was convicted of one murder and charged with another, therefore falling under the California law.

The prosecution was allowed to bring in a witness from the first case to testify that he saw Chol Soo commit the first murder. But, the defense was not allowed to bring in a defense eyewitness to refute this testimony. The judge accused the defense of packing the court with Asian supporters (although it puzzles me as to how this is wrong!). In order to get into the courtroom, the mostly Asian audience had to be searched by a metal detector, produce identification, and be photographed.

Chol Soo Lee was again convicted of first degree murder, and is now on death row.

The case of Chol Soo Lee is very meaningful to the Asian American movement. Asian–Americans cannot passively accept injustices done to our people. Even here in Amherst, we can support this brother by forming a defense committee. Hopefully, the energy, determination, and fighting spirit exhibited in support of Chol Soo Lee will continue to exist in order to strengthen ourselves.

"I wish to assure all of you that I am doing well. Because I know no matter what may happen in the courtroom, people's love for justice will continue to bring courage. This experience of injustice with me for the second time will not discourage me. I will not let yesterday's jury verdict weaken me in any way. I understand this verdict of death penalty means that everyone must get stronger to face the upcoming struggle ahead of us. The most regret I have is to let all of you down. I just wish to say––we better take a closer look at this justice system. This does not serve us. But look forward to the bright future and torturous road ahead."

Chol Soo Lee May 25, 1979 ■

Write to Chol Soo Lee:
Chol Soo Lee, B51845
P.O. Box 600
Tracy, California 95376
For more information and to send contributions:
Chol Soo Lee Defense Committee 633 W115 Street
New York, N.Y. 10025

Ming Fung

TRAINER AND HORSES

"On Horses" is one of the proses written by Han Yee, a scholar and government official in the middle Tang Dynasty.

From the Chines legends, Bole or Sun Yang was an authority on horses, who could identify distinctive horses and gave them special attention.

In "On Horses," Han Yu describes a talented but unrecognized man as a horse with special gifts. To gallop one thousand li (miles), and to fully display its strength and ability, the gifted horse needs extra attention and careful nourishment-"one bushel of grain at a meal." If the horse is not given the right amount of nutrition for growth, it cannot even match the common, ordinary horses. So the role of the groom is important in distinguishing fine steeds and giving them suitable nourishment. Encouragement and opportunity to express are needed for a talented person to display his intelligence and capability. With its neighing and complaints unheard, continued mistreatment and mishandling, the delicate stallion will perish in its stable.

This prose emphasizes the Chinese conservative ideal of good communication between an understanding authority and outstanding intellectuals. Han Yu laments that Bole is rare although exceptional horses that gallop one thousand li (miles) are comparatively common. He implies that not too many authorities understand and fully utilize the people 's talents. On the contrary, the former refuse to listen to advice and criticisms. Finally they unjustifiably yell and complain that "there are no good horses (able people) in this world!" The author concludes asking if there are really no good horses or if there is no one to "understand horses."

So in this prose the writer calls into question the authority's insight and discernment of talents. There are many good steeds and capable people in this world but with few Boles. The development and fostering of skills and aptitude rest on the government's shoulders instead of the individuals' active participation

And this well exemplifies our Asian culture! With the longing to be known than seeking to display, we cherish our hidden abilities under the grand motion of modesty and reticence.

Yes, we may passively grumble about the authority's indiscernment of genius, but do we enthusiastically give opinions and suggestions to improve the society?

Humbleness is greatly applauded and emphasized in the Asian culture. This virtue, when carried to the extreme, may paradoxically inhibit individual development and thus the contribution to the community.

Thus when we reprove the authority' inefficiency, we may as well reexamine our activeness in making this world a better place to live.. ■

自由 Freedom
平等 Equality
團結 Unity

announcements / asian american students association / duke ellington music series companion program

The Companion Program is seeking volunteers who would enjoy sharing 2 - 3 hours per week with a "little brother" from the surrounding community. Those interested in becoming a Big Companion please contact the Companion Program at 253-2591.

The Asian– American Student Association meeting is held every Thursday, from 5 to 6 pm. Place for the meeting is announced on the notice board near the elevator in the campus center. The association is to encourage students develop their socialibility and leadership. Any one interested is welcome.

The Editor of the Asian American Review request contributions for the Spring 1980 edition. Articles of various kinds: essays, poems, art, etc are welcome.

Please send to Asian American Review,
Asian American Student Association, Student Union Rm–415 Campus Center UMass, Amherst M.A. 01003

Duke Ellington Music Series presents

Solos and Duos

Saturday, March1
Hotep Cecil Bernard, solo piano
Friday, March 28
Monnette Sudler, solo guitar
Friday, April 4
Michael Gregory Jackson, solo guitar
Friday, April 11
Buster Williams, bass Kenny Barron, piano
Friday, April 35
Iqua Colson, vocal Adegoke Steve Colson piano and reeds
Saturday, May 10
Chico Freeman, reeds Cecil Mc Bee, bass

Michelle L. Laney
HOTLINE TO HEALTH

DID JACK SPRAT HAVE THE RIGHT IDEA?

nobody thinks fat is a health food, but scientists are saying it's even worse than we think, and that goes double for margarine.

In South Africa, native black women suffer very little from breast cancer, while white women fall prey to the disease much more frequently. Their diets are markedly different, too: the native diet is vegetarian and very low in fat-less than 20 percent of total calories while the whites consume a typical Western diet in which fats provide a big 40 percent of calories.

The association between fats and breast cancer seems even stronger. G.Hems, of the Department of Community Medicine in Aberdeen, Scotland, tabulated the breast cancer rates in 41 countries and related them to local diets.

"It was concluded that variation of breast cancer rates between countries arose predominantly from differences in diet," he wrote in the British Journal of Cancer (vol.37,no.6, 1978). And one place where the shadow of suspicion fell most darkly was consumption of fats. Other studies have confirmed that the disease is less common in poor and developing nations, where rich foods are rarely on the menu, than in the wealthier countries of the West. Like bowel cancer, it increases among Japanese immigrants who give up their low—fat diet for our high—fat diet. And among Seventh—Day Adventists, it has been found, breast cancer mortality rates are only one half to two thirds that of Americans in general. Many members of this religious group are vegetarians,whose saturated fat and cholesterol intake is bound to be well below the average.

The link between fat and breast cancer, scientists speculate, may be hormones. Studies have related the development of the disease to abnormal levels of prolactin, estrogens and androgens; the production of these hormones apparently responds to fat intake. A high —fat diet may disturb hormone levels and that, according to one scientist, "could impose unnatural burdens" on the cells of breast tissue, with cancer as the result.

Beware of Partially Hydrogenated Fats

In fact, some research suggests that polyunsaturated fats may be the more dangerous where cancer is concerned. In a number of studies, animals fed polyunsaturated fats developed more tumors than those fed saturated fats. And when researchers at the University of Maryland correlated human diets with cancer rates, they found a strong association between cancer and vegetable fats.

Their statistics point to one kind of fat, in particular, as worth being wary about-those containing trans fatty acids. Trans fatty acids don't occur naturally in vegetables, but are produced when polyunsaturated oils are partially hydrogenated-when they are processed with hydrogen to make them more solid or to give them loner shelf life. Many kinds of margarine, salad oil, mayonnaise and snack foods contain significant amounts of these substances.

Quite possibly, researchers speculate, these unnatural trans fatty acids alter cell membranes, allowing carcinogens to pass through more easily.

If you want to drop your fat intake down to a significantly low level, you'll have to be aggressive about it. Trimming the fat off the roast is necessary, but not sufficient, because most of the fat that finds its way into your body some 60 percent, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture-is what they call "invisible fat," and likely to be over—looked.

You may think of sweets as primarily sources of sugar, but their less obvious contributions of fat may be even more significant. Nearly half the calories in ice cream, for example, come from fats, and more than half the calories in milk chocolate do. Shortening looks like fat and baked goods don't, but remember that the later is often full of the former: a croissant, for example, owes half its calories to fat.

Some of the most concentrated sources of fat are to be found in fast food restaurants. A meal at MacDonald's is nearly 40 percent fat, while a serving of Kentucky Fried Chicken has 55 percent. Not only do many processed foods harbor a hefty load of fat, but these are often hydrogenated, and full of trans fatty acids.

Foods that are low in fat, on the other hand, are not hard to find.

There is little fat in fruits and vegetables (with the exception of avocados, nuts and coconuts). Whole grains and beans offer a lot of protein without very much fat, as well as chicken and certain kinds of fish.

Cutting fat out of your diet is a process that may take quite a bit of time.You can start by using less butter or margarine. on your toast in the morning or by mixing whole milk with half skim milk when your at the dinning commons.

Research by Carl Sherman of PREVENTION Magazine
Edited and Revised by Michelle Laney

NEXT WEEK A look at how to be alone without being lonely

announcements

international womens week
Please preregister by calling Susan Markman at the Everywoman's Center 545-0883

The International Women's Week Committee is proud to announce a concert to be given by acclaimed folksinger Odetta Saturday, March 8th in the Student Union Ballroom at UMass.

Odetta, who has 19 albums to her credit, specializes in work and prison songs, accompanying herself on the guitar. But she is equally at home with blues, lullabies, ballads and spirituals.

Robert Sheldom of the New York Times said Odetta "has a voice so large and a physical presence so commanding, recordings have yet to do her complete justice."

Tickets to see Odetta are $2.50 if obtained beforehand from the TIX office in the Student Union Building or at the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall. Tickets may also be obtained for $3.00 at the door on the night of Odetta's performance.

Panel Discussion The Role of Women in Social Change
International Women's Week
March 5, 1980 8:00 SUB, UMass, Amherst
Contact: Ellie Bagli 545-0341

Wednesday night, March 5, the organizing committee of International Women's Week is sponsoring a panel discussion--Women's Role in Social Change. Featured on this panel are Madonna Thunderhawk--Representatives of Women of All Red Nations and the Black Hills Alliance in South Dakota, to speak of the role that Native American women are playing in the fight to save their lands from the perils of uranium mining; Bunny King--the Franklin County mother involved in the lesbian custody case; Magnolia Sanders--member of the Willie Sanders Defense Committee in Boston, to speak on the relationship between white women's rape and black men's imprisonment; worker and striker from WESCO to speak on the difficulties of leading a strike.

The theme for this year's conference is Women, Family and Social Change. We have envisioned the panel as being a representation of women who are involved in various struggles in the movement to change society. We areaware of the many difference in priority concerns among the women's community. We would like to present these differences in an attempt to display the diversity of the struggle. But we would also hope to reveal the underlying unity of the various concerns. Although our priorities differ, our ultimate goal remains the same--to strengthen women's role in society. Each participant will speak of their particular relationship to the struggle that they are involved with. Each women will give a brief overview of their situation within a political context. The bulk of the talk, however, will concentrate on the personal effect that their participation has had on their own lives. This part of the presentation will contain information regarding the relationship of the struggle to each individual's family life.

Each speaker will be allowed 15 minutes to relay her information. Following the presentations, the floor will be open for discussion. The program is scheduled to conclude by 10:00.

Monday, March 3

Morning:

10:00-12:00

'Career Development" A discussion assessing career goals, career planning and development. Jean Moss, (of Community Development Center, UMass), facilitator.

Afternoon:

12:00-2:00

"Panel: Perspective on Women, Family and Social Change." A discussion dealing with the changing role of women in society viewed in terms of personal development, inter-relationships, myths and others and the role in bringing about social change. Pat Guthrie, Andrea Rushing, Ann Ferguson, facilitators.

2:00-3:00

"Women and Stress" Lynn Kirk facilitator.

2:30-4:00

"Contemporary Family in Black America" A disscussion on the continued oppression of black people in the U.S. and its impact on the structure and continuity of the Black family. Fran Beale, facilitator.

4:00-6:00

"Jewish Women: folklore (sephardic and Indian)" Slides and tapes depicting Jewish women's folklore collected by Maira Esfornez and Barbara Johnson in Greece, Israel, and India. Barbara Johnson and Maria Esfornez, facilitators.

4:00-5:30

"ERA/Legal Rights" An overview of the Equal Rights Amendment and Legal Rights of Women - organizing activities also. Deb Jung, facilitator.

4:00-6:00

"The Role of Black Professional Women in Social Change" The role of black professional women in social change--problems of a white male dominated society. Sheila Johson and Janice Okuedezeto, facilitators.

Tuesday, March 4

Morning:

10:00-11:30

"Sexual Harassment in the Classroom" A workshop to discuss the problem of sexual harassment in the classroom and organizing to fight back. SASH (Student Against Sexual Harassment) Womens Issue's Team, SCERA facilitators.

10:00-12:00

"Jews and Social Change Coalition Building" A workshop on how Jewish and non-Jewish women can work together for social change. Jennifer Wexler, Myra Hindus and Barbara Johnson facilitators.

Afternoon:

11:30-1:30

"Women's Role in the Anti-Imperialist Struggle in Ireland" An emphasis on women political prisoners and the anti-imperialist struggle. Maired O'Casey facilitator.

12:00-1:30

"Impact of Planned Parenthood on Third World Women" A discussion on the effects of family planning on third world women: genocidal efforts to limit the population of third world people. Suman Bohm and Diane Taylor facilitators.

4:00-6:00

"Union Organizing"

7:00-9:00

"Sexual Harassment in the Classroom" See Tuesday morning 10:00-11:30

Wednesday, March 5

Morning:

11:00-1:00

"The Radicalization of Women Through Social Movements" Socialist Feminist Collective.

Afternoon:

12:00-2:00

"Anti-Nuke Organizing" A discussion of Women's role in student organizing and third world participation in anti-nuke organizing SCANN and Madona Thunderhawk facilitators.

1:00-2:30

"Asian American Women" The role of Asian-American women in American history. Pat Sumi Facilitator.

2:00-4:00

"Rape" A workshop about rape and rape prevention Linda Marchesani and Bed Beaudoin facilitators.

3:00-4:30

"Fighting Two Colonialism: South Africa" The struggle of women in Mozambique and other South African countries in overcoming both oppression from a colonial system and from male dominated societies. Novuyo Gcubeka Gibwa facilitator.

4:00-6:00

"Lesbian Politics of the Family" How lesbians deal with choosing an alternative family lifestyle.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 91 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Tuesday, February 26, 1980

OUCH! Michael Spaulding of Echo Hill area "hides" behind an oak he was using for protection during a weekend snowball fight. (Staff photo by Doug Paulding)

Amherst caucuses ballot in selectmen, housing races

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

A 15 percent voter turnout is expected in today's Amherst town caucus but that figure is a "little artificial," according to Town Clerk Estelle Matusko.

Amherst has 12,500 registered voters but that figure is swelled by people who are voting in the Massachusetts national primary.

"Historically all registered voters are not interested in local politics," Matusko said.

From 1966 to 1977 town caucuses averaged a 20 percent voter turnout while in 1977, the last time a caucus was needed, turnout was 12 percent, Matusko said. In 1966, when the election contained only a selectmen race, there was a 37 percent turnout.

The offices contested are Selectmen and Housing Authority. There are seven persons running for selectman. The field will narrow to four after today's elections while the Housing Authority race will be cut from three to two.

Selectmen candidates, in order of their place on the ballot, are Chauncy T. Simmons, 810 Main Street; Francesca Maltese, 45 High Street; Donald McMillan Routh, 41 Lincoln Avenue; Richard LaVoice, 306 Puffton Village; Clive L. Dym, 65 Overlook Drive; William A. Exbicki, 711 West Street, and Frank W. Sanders, 30 Railroad Street.

Candidates for Housing Authority, in order of their place on the ballot, are Ann Marie Bolger, 97 Belchertown Road; Rosemary Morgan, 141 Columbia Drive and Nancy E. Gillis, 562 Puffton Village.

Precinct one voters report to the North Amherst Parish Hall-opposite Watroba's Market.

Precinct two voters report to the North Fire Station on East Pleasant Street.

Precinct three voters report to the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Pleasant Street. Precinct three includes all UMass residential areas with the exception of the Southwest Residential Area.

Precinct four and five voters report to the Bangs Community Center. Precinct four includes Southwest.

Precinct six voters report to the Fort River School on Southeast Street.

Precinct seven voters report to the Crocker Farm School on West Street.

Precinct eight voters report to the Munson Library on Southeast Street.

The polls will be open from 12 to 8 p.m.

Selectmen affect students through local government

By MICHAEL MASCIS
Special to the Collegian

The town of Amherst is holding a preliminary run-off caucus today to determine the candidates for two positions on the Board of Selectmen and one position on the Housing Authority.

The town caucus is open to all registered voters in the town of Amherst. Town Clerk Estelle M. Matusko said the caucus is being held to reduce the present field of competitors for the positions on the Board of Selectmen from seven candidates to four candidates. The field of three candidates for the single position on the Housing Authority will be reduced to two candidates.

The final election will be held April 8th.

Amherst is one of 19 Massachusetts towns administered under the Selectmen-Town Manager form of government. The Board of Selectmen is responsible for overall policy and general supervision, while daily operations are the immediate responsibility of the Town Manager.

The Board of Selectmen consists of five members who serve three-year terms. The Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts recognizes the Board of Selectmen as a town's chief executive and treats it as the town counterpart of a city mayor.

The Housing Authority is a joint town and state agency which brings state and federal aid for housing to the local level. It is composed of five members, one appointed by the state, who serve five-year terms. The Housing Authority administers funds for rental assistance and for the construction of low-cost housing.

Voting in the caucus is an opportunity for students who are registered to vote in Amherst to have an impact on the Amherst town government. The Board of Selectmen and the Housing Authority make decisions that affect all residents of Amherst.

Any student may vote in the Amherst town election on April 8th. The registration deadline is March 19th. All interested students can register to vote at the Town Clerk's office in the Amherst Town Hall.

Bill seeks end to sexual harassment

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Special to the Collegian

She has been subject to sexual advances from her professor and has been told, in so many words, that if she does not comply it will affect her grade in his class. her future, as well as her rights as a human being, are at stake.

She is a junior in college, anxiously awaiting the possibility of attending law school. After working hard for three years, keeping a high cumulative grade point average, and studying earnestly for her law boards, she is enrolled in a difficult course and wants a good grade. However, this grade depends on far more than a little extra studying. Who can she turn to? What can she do?

This hypothetical situation is one of the many forms of sexual harrassment that occur on college campuses across the country. Other situations may be more subtle but still can be defined as sexual harrassment. if an individual in authority exercises or attempts to exercise authority and power to control, influence or affect the academic success or future career of a student in exchange for sexual favors than that individual is guilty of sexual harrassment.

Ann O'Connor, a graduate student at UMass, is one woman who sees the seriousness of the problem and is working so UMass students will have a means of retribution when they become victims of sexual harrassment.

The Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) Women's Issues Team, and Congresswoman Barbara Gray of Framingham are working to pass House Bill 5172, an act to prohibit sexual harrassment and define it as a criminal offense.

The bill allows for filing of a lawsuit by a victim of harrassment and collection of damages caused by the incident of harrassment. There is currently no Massachusetts General Law that specifically deals with sexual harrassment.

"Our immediate hoal is to raise awareness on campus of the incidents of sexual harrassment," said O'Connor. According to a Graduate Women's Program survery, Spring 1978, of 356 graduate women students, approximately ten percent of the respondents were subject to explicit proposition. Approximately 60 percent of the women surveyed were exposed to milder forms of harrassment. O'Connor said, "It is difficult for a student to grieve now about a problem of harrassment because there is no one to turn to — nothing prevents them from flunking a course if

TURN TO PAGE 6

DIGEST

Where several thousand people sat in stands on Feb 13 to watch the lighting of the Olympic flame, Tom Baughn removes an electrical box yesterday. In the background looms the tower which held the Olympic flame, now extinguished.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court today refused to give a Massachusetts woman a second chance to challenge a state law offering preferences in public employment to military veterans. The justices upheld a ruling that Helen Feeney of Dracut, Mass., is not entitled to another day in court on a lawsuit she first filed in 1975. Last June 5, the nations' highest court used Mrs. Feeney's lawsuit against her state to rule that veterans' preference laws do not impermissibly discriminate against women. Handing the women's rights movement a major defeat, the court upheld a Massachusetts law that provides an absolute lifetime veteran's preference in public employment. Because that law is stronger than a similar provision used by the federal government and laws in 45 other states, the June decision was seen as a strong deterrent to any future sex-bias attack against such laws.

NASHUA, N.H. — While President Carter welcomed the U.S. Olympic team to the White House, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy compared himself to the underdog U.S. hockey team that won an unexpected gold medal at the Winter Olympics. "I'm glad to be an underdog," Kennedysaid in a speech at Rivier College in Nashua. "Just remember the U.S. hockey team. They were underdogs and they pulled it out, and we're going to do it tomorrow." The latest public opinion polls indicate that going into Tuesday's democratic presidential primary election, Kennedy is trailing Carter by a substantial margin. A Boston Globe survey published Sunday showed New Hampshire Democrats favored Carter by 55 percent over the Massachusetts senator, who received 30 percent.

BOSTON — Rep. Barbara E. Gray just wanted to change the terminology in state laws dealing with insanity. But now she'd rather forget one of the bills she filed to modernize the language. A summary appearing at the top of the bill said it was a "petition of Barbara E. Gray relative to the removal of the state treasurer due to being incapacitated by reason of mental illness." She didn't intend it to come out the way it sounds. "What's behind it is, we ran a computer search of the General Laws to ascertain where such words as idiot, imbecile, insane, epileptic appeared," Mrs. Gray, a Republican from Framingham, said in an interview. "These words are archaic, and they should not be part of a statute. So we filed a package, in general insertng incapacitated by reason of mental illness or mental retardation, depending on the statutes."

Hostages sit as Iran unites

By The Associated Press

Thousands of Iranians paraded througn rain and snow past the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran yesterday and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr told them from atop the embassy compound wall they must stay united in the face of potential foreign threats.

Machine gun-armed Moslem militants marched back and forth in the courtyard of the embassy, where approximately 50 American hostages spent their 114th day in captivity.

Bani-Sadr's appearance, part of Iran's "Mobilization Week" ceremonies, was his first at the embassy since he was elected president Jan. 25.

In an interview published earlier yesterday, he praised the militants who have held the embassy and hostages since Nov. 4 as "young patriots." And he made no mention of the release of the hostages in either the interview or speech.

But he did tell the interviewer for the Hong Kong Star newspaper that the militants "must respect the lawful authorities."

The five-member U.N. investigative commission on Iran heard testimony in Tehran Monday from top Iranian jurists about alleged human rights violations under the regime of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The U.S. government said it had understood that the U.N. "fact-finding" mission would lead to the release of the hostages, but the Iranians insist there is no such connection. Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said over the weekend that any decision on the hostages must await the election and convening of a new Parliament, not expected until April at the earliest.

In New York, a spokesman said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim feels the commission "is making progress."

"The secretary-general is confident all these efforts will lead to final solution of the crisis," said spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar. "Obviously more patience is needed."

The English-language Tehran Times newspaper published what was said to be a letter from embassy hostage Bruce Herman, 43, a State Department budget officer, urging that the militants' demands for return of the shah to Iran be met.

The Feb. 13-dated letter, addressed "To the American people," notes that the militants consider the shah to have been a tyrant guilty of many crimes, and says, "We wish to repeat our urgent request that the shah be returned to Iran as soon as possible, by whatever means. His return means our freedom."

Iran's president Adbolhassan Bani-Sadr listens as one of the militants speaks at the embassy in Tehran yesterday. It was Bani-Sadr's first visit to the embassy since his election. (AP Laserphoto)

Brown protests primary ruling

By CHRISTOPHER LINDSAY
Associated Press

BEDFORD, N.H. — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday he will challenge in state and federal courts a ruling that dumped him from the March 25 presidential primary ballot in New York State.

Brown was eliminated from the ballot after a ruling that two-thirds of his petition signatures were invalid.

While campaigning Monday in New Hampshire, Brown called the Kennedy challenge to his petition "the kind of hypocrisy that makes a mockery of the things he stands for."

"We're not going to be troubled by it. We're not going to take it lying down," Brown said during a final swing through New Hampshire in advance of New Hampshire's primary Tuesday.

The action by the state Board of Elections came at the request of supporters of Kennedy, who had feared that Brown would siphon away New York voters who oppose President Carter's re-election.

Afghan strikes sting Soviets

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

KABUL, Afghanistan — The Soviet-backed government appeared to have virtually broken down yesterday in the face ofstrikes and violence protesting the Russian presence in Afghanistan. Medical sources said more than 300 civilians died in street fighting.

Striking civil servants and office workers ignored repeated official broadcasts ordering them to return to work and Afghan government ministries were paralyzed for a third day. A general strike of shopkeepers continued into its fifth day.

Heavily armed Soviet and Afghan troops, backed by submachinegun-toting civilian members of the ruling Khalq (People's) Party, maintained patrols throughout the city.

There were indications the Soviet military commander in Kabul was, in effect, acting as head of the government.

Reports indicated fighting that raged in Kabul on Friday had slowed considerably. One report reaching New Delhi said gunfire rattled through the streets of Kabul through Sunday night, but a Frenchman in Kabul told a Paris radio station during a telephone interview that the center of the city was calm.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said "life in Kabul is now gradually coming back to normal," and claimed an "armed sortie of agents trained by the special services of Western countries led y the CIA" were responsible for heavy street fighting that erupted last Thursday.

A Kabul Radio report monitored in Islamabad, Pakistan, said "the citizens of Kabul have returned to their work and all shops in the city remained open." But diplomatic sources there disputed the report and said the strikes were continuing.

NH votes today

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press

CONCORD, N.H. — After months of being wooed, badgered, lectured and surveyed, the people of New Hampshire take part todayin their final poll — the primary election that could reshape the field of presidential contenders.

"You're choosing not a frontrunner but a president," said Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, one of the seven Republicans in the field. "New Hampshire will have more to say than almost anybody about the nature and type of your next president."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, though running nearly 2-1 behind President Carter in some polls, predicted "we're going to make a strong showing" in the Democratic primary. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California was rated a distant third.

George Bush sent a letter, said to be more explanation than apology, to the four GOP presidential contenders shut out of his debate last Saturday night with Ronald Reagan. Bush was at home in Houston, while Reagan was doing lastminute campaigning in Manchester, the state's largest city.

Baker, who joined the three others in blaming Bush for their exclusion, told a reception in Manchester that "I've had strong words to say about that, but it's time to quiet the harsh words and proceed with the election."

KEGS— STADIUM LIQUORS

U. Mass. Amherst

BEER— WINE—

LIQUORS

Miller bottles or cans	2.10 6 pk	7.49 cs
O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl	2.75 6 pack	9.90 case
Bud bottles or cans	2.10 6 pk	7.49 cs.
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls	1.60 6 pk	5.90 cs.
Schlitz 12 oz n/r	2.00 6 pack	6.90 case
Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre		11.49
Old Milwaukee	12 pack	3.10
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch		3.99
Taylor California Cellars Chablis, Rose, Rhine, Burgandy 1.5 litre		3.59
Sebastiani Mountain Burgandy, Mountain Rose, Mt. Chablis 4 liters		4.95

Save money — Save gas — Save time

10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Nominations available for SGA election

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

Nomination papers for the office of Student Government Association President will be available through Thursday in the SGA office in room 420 of the Student Union.

Any undergraduate including those enrolled in Stockbridge School of Agriculture, who has paid his or her Student Activites Tax may participate in the election, either as a candidate or a voter. Potential candidates must collect 250 signatures which will then be checked against a list of eligible students by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee. It is recommended that candidates collect more than the required number of signatures in case some can not be verified, said David Routhier, Speaker of the Undergraduate Student Senate.

Merrell Green, co-chairperson of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, said yesterday that the office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs will be assisting in the election. Services they are expected to provide include:

- Obtaining ballot boxes from the Town of Amherst.
- Assigning one administrative person to each ballot box to observe the voting process.
- Supplying alphabetized lists of eligible students.
- Helping to coordinate the transport of ballot boxes to Dickinson Hall to be tabulated.

Green noted five voting locations, which will take place March 11 and 12 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

They are Bershire and Hampshire Dining Commons for Southwest Residential Area students, Worcester Dining Commons for Northeast and Sylvan residents, Franklin Dining Commons for Central and Orchard hill residents, the Newman Center for students within the Greek system and the Student Union for commuters.

Since the election will take place only two days before spring recess, the new co-Presidents will not be confirmed until the next regular senate meeting on March 26, although the results should be available the night of March 12, Green said. After confirmation, the incumbent co-presidents will stay on the job for two weeks to assist the new officers in adapting to the job.

"Last year's election ran very smoothly," Green said, "and we're hoping for this one to be just as smooth."

UMass students Mike Dumont and Dean Johnson play "Dungeons and Dragons," while waiting Sunday night for Kinks' tickets. Their fourteen hour wait ended at 9 a.m. Monday when the tickets went on sale. (Staff photo by John Bunting)

Drinking age drop defeated

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Efforts to repeal last year's drinking age hike suffered a setback yesterday in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

The Governmental Regulations Committee rejected a bill submitted by Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst, which called for a repeal of last year's age increase. The House approved the rejection by a 125 to 20 vote.

Today, two bills appear before the Governmental Regulations Committee related to the drinking age.

House bill H-5351 calls for the lowering of the drinking age to 19. House bill H-5946 would raise the drinking age to 21.

Ken Moore of the Student Center For Educational Research and Advocacy will testify today in Boston on the two bills. Moore has a survey conducted last October by the Alcohol Education Project of the University Health Services which shows "raising the drinking age did not do what it was supposed to do," he said.

Of 925 students surveyed, 69 percent have not changed their drinking patterns since the drinking age was increased, the survey stated. Six percent have increased their alcohol consumption since last year's action, it stated.

48 percent have either not changed or have increased their consumption of "other drugs," according to the survey.

Of the students "using drugs already," the survey reported 87 percent have either no change or no increase in their "habits."

Because the survey was federally funded, Moore said, it had to comply with regulations guaranteeing its accuracy. Although Moore expected results close to those obtained, he "was surprised at the final figures."

In addition to the survey, the Registry of Motor Vehicles has evidence that the raise in drinking age is not accomplishing its supposed goals, Moore said.

Since the drinking age was raised, he said, highway fatalities among 19 and 20-year-olds have increased 27 percent.

Artie Lessard, freshman, teaching an Archery class Friday morning at N.O.P.E. In his spare time he hunts with his bow and arrows. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Time occupies LaVoice

By MICHAEL SILVA
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-President, Richard LaVoice, said yesterday his duties in the SGA will not be affected by his candidacy for a position on the Amherst Board of Selectmen since the amount of time required to fulfill the new duties would be minimal.

"Basically, it's a Monday night meeting," said LaVoice. "The time spent would be from 8-12 hours weekly. On Thursday night I would be handed material from the town manager and we would go over it on Monday."

LaVoice said he already deals with the town in his capacity as co-President. Much of what happens in Amherst directly affects UMass and on campus students and those who are tenants in Amherst need representation at town meetings, he said. "We are adults, we pay taxes and we pay rent. It would be beneficial for sure if I could act as liason between UMass and the town of Amherst," LaVoice said.

However, LaVoice is unsure if he will run for re-election for his current SGA position this March.

"It does take up a lot of time," said LaVoice. "I have put in up to 60 hours some weeks, but others have been only 20. Basically, I work about 35 hours a week."

Currently, LaVoice is canvassing the town and the university for today's caucus as well as the April 9 town election. However, "I'm here every day putting in hours and SGA co-President Brian Burke can obviously assist me in my duties," LaVoice said.

"If I do decide to run for re-election I'm sure that I could fulfill my duties," said LaVoice. "In my position as selectman I'll have to worry if the traffic light on Pleasant Street turn green. Someone else does the work."

'Black Comedy' shines at Amherst College

Review

By DAVID AMBOS
Collegian Staff

Most of the time when we speak of "black comedy" in theater, film or literature, we are refering to something like a slapstick farce set in a concentration camp.

The movie "Dr. Strangelove," a ribtickler about doomsday, probably represents the epitome of "black comedy"; while its bipolar opposite, "white comedy," is perhaps best embodied by "Mary Poppins."

I mention these facts to avoid any confusion I might cause by referring to Happy Ending and Day of Absence, two one-act plays presented at Amherst College this past weekend, as "black comedies". They are, as you might guess, not apocalyptic chuckles, but rather treatments of the plight of blacks in contemporary society,which perhaps amounts to the same thing.

Both written by Douglas Turner Ward, the plays are very funny and skillfully-made; two expertly cut comic gems which were given craftsmanlike settings by student director Gloria Marshall and her casts. The hilarious material and the fundamentally competent handling made for a fine, crisp performance and an enjoyable evening.

The first play, Happy Ending, concerned a black family totally dependent on their aunts, two domestics who manipulate their wealthy white employers to unwittingly support the family's exceptionally comfortable standard of living. Suddenly, the family finds their whole way of life threatened when the wealthy couple contemplate divorce. Only the solicitous schemes of the aunts save the marriage and, consequently, their family.

Of the cast, Carlton Floyd was very good as nephew Junie, a smooth, fast-talking, self-righteous eollege kid who complains of his aunts' Jemima-like behavior until he finds out it is such knee-bending which enables him to eat steak and wear expensive "borrowed" suits. The production suffered from the weaker performances of the rest of the cast, who lacked Floyd's energy and persuasive believability.

Day of Absence, the second, longer and better play of the pair, was a modern fable detailing the disastrous consequences of the sudden and unexplained disappearance of all the blacks from a large southern town. The all-black cast played the caucasian roles in "whiteface" and proceeded to act out the comic breakdown of a town suddenly deprived of all its servants and factotums, finding itself totally helpless and unable to tie its municipal shoes.

Exceptional in this cast was Stafford Henry as the town's mayor, who successfully merged all the unlikable characteristics of countless cliche Southern Mayors into a monstrous amalgam more obnoxious than any of the slick Dixie potentates portrayed on TV.

The largest problem in the two productions was the occasional lack of intelligibility of some actors. Problems of audibility and diction are difficulties which are not strange to any cast, and it should have been a directors' responsibility to make sure the cast could, at all times, be heard and understood. In this way, some of the evening's best lines would not have been thrown away.

Give 'til it helps

To some things in life you can "give until it hurts" but in giving blood there can only be the pleasure of knowing you could be saving someone's life.

If you are in good health, weigh 110 lbs. or more and are between 18 and 65 you are eligible to donate. All you have to do is fill out a simple form, answer a few questions and give a little blood. In return you get a back rub from a pleasant nurse, free munchies, and the satisfaction in knowing you have performed an act of humanity. It's not hard to do and it doesn't take much time. The Red Cross nurses will be waiting for you every Tuesday in Campus Center 176, noon until 5, and in various dorms on Wednesdays and Thursdays throughout the semester and in the Student Union Ballroom on April 8, 9, and 10.

Mary Andrews is on hand to help Peter Formanek fill out the necessary form. Lori Bennett relaxes while donating her blood (left) while Libby Jones enjoys Edith Ralph's expert Back rub (right) Below, Jeff Cardwell devours his share of the munchies provided by the Red Cross. (Staff photos by Paul Price)

Dormitory Schedule
(2-8 pm)

Cashin	March 12, 13
Crabtree	March 26, 27
Dwight	April 2, 3
Brett	April 16, 17
Chadbourne	April 23, 24
Butterfield	April 30, May 1
Dickinson	May 7, 8

Visit
TACO LINDO
At Cafe Square
at
The Hampshire Mall
SPECIAL THIS WEEK
2 Tacos & Soft Drink $1.85

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

ACCOUNTING, ECONOMICS, PHYSICS, MATH, STATISTICS, SPANISH, COMMUNICATION STUDIES, CHEMISTRY, POLITICAL SCI, BUSINESS LAW, PHILOSOPHY, MARKETING, BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary.
APPLICATIONS:are available in New Africa House, room 217.

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course

Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.

MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.

NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824-7888
Ask for Operator 116

UNE
Noreste, Admissions
August 80 applicants 4 year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education small classes experienced teachers modern facilities
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

A talk with David Johansen: New York style

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Arts Editor

The following story represents a conflict between a dedication to journalism and an enthusiasm for rock music. In this case the journalist won out.

The story you are about to read is true. The names have been saved to expose the guilty :

SUNDERLAND, Feb. 22—David Johansen and his band of the same name have performed here tonight at the Rusty Nail. The show, by all accounts, was a good one. The band was interviewed after the concert. Here is the partial transcript:

JM: David, please fill in the blank. Blues is to Jagger as blank is to Johansen.

DJ: Uh, Hollywood Squares.

JM: It's oft been said that David Johansen could be a clone of Mick Jagger, with his theatricks on stage, his resemblance, his gimmicks withe the hats etc. How do you respond to that?

DJ: What's that show with Gene Rayburn?

JM: Match Game?

DJ: Match Game.

JM: "Melody" sounds like a good soul song. It could be the Four Tops doing it. What gets you into that type of music?

DJ: The Family Feud.

JM: When you were with the New York Dolls the band used to perform in drag. What was this, a media hype, a gimmick or were you guys expressing some sort of sexual freedom? What was behind that?

DJ: The Dating Game.

JM: You're playing game with me, man. What was the reason behind it? C'mon.

DJ: Chuck Barris talked me into it. I was trying to get a date with what's her name. Oh, what's her name, man? She's on the Gong Show.

One of the band members responds: Jaye P. Morgan.

DJ: Yeah, that (David makes a sound resembling a gun shooting)

JM: One of the ex-Dolls, Johnny Thunders, was rumored to have said at a concert recently, (JM in effeminate voice) "I'm so glad I knew David Johansen before he made 'In Style.'" How do you respond to that?

DJ: Three's Company.

JM: When you and the Dolls were still together, who was the lyricist and who did the music? Who were the brains in the operation?

DJ: Allen Ludden and Brett Summers.

At this point Johansen and his band begin ignoring the interview, which they agreed to do, and start an intellectual discussion on the social ramifications of television game shows. After a few minutes, reality is arrived at again.

JM: I heard you got a new album coming out, what's it called?

DJ: It's called "Bowling for Dollars."

JM: When's it coming out?

DJ: The Ides of March. And that's a good name for a game show, a show where the women assasinate their husbands.

JM: Seriously, man, what's it called and when is it coming out?

DJ: This guy's really nosey. He asks a lot of questions.

JM: I have to, that's the business.

DJ: You just can't go about your business and lead a normal life like your friends, you gotta ask questions, always questions.

JM: Seriously, what's the new album called?

DJ: In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida.

After I informed him that I had no more questions, Mr. J. decided to ask me a few of his own.

DJ: First of all, you've got to print this interview verbatim. Now what's your name? Let's introduce you to the writing public.

JM: Jim Moran.

DJ: All right, now you are writing for particular reasons in your life, right?

JM: Right.

DJ: You want to establish yourself as a kind of "media personality" who interprets rock and roll through their own demented, depraved situation, right?

JM: Yup.

DJ: OK so, you come in here with this collection of retarded questions to ask us so that you could establish as like a Lester Bangish, drug-type, rock and roll critic right?

JM: That's a very good question and now I want to ask you if you read Lester Bangs?

DJ: Wait a minute, wait a minute, now I'm asking you questions. You asked me about twenty questions. Now let me ask you a couple.

JM: All right, all right, fair enough.

DJ: This guy's gonna have the hottest record since the Wrapper and he doesn't even know it. He's gonna go home and say "Oh, I didn't get anything out of these guys." Meanwhile, we have just divulged the secret of the universe. (Laughter by band members and assorted groupies). So, OK let's ask him a few more questions. So by establishing yourself as a media personality, do you feel that it will A.) Pay your speed bill, B.) Pay your rent, or C.)I Find you attractive women in which to share your sleeping han with?

JM: No David, you got it all wrong. I'm interested in you. I want you. Laughter, shouts in the background ranging from "Cruising to "Now we're gonna have a party."

DJ: Now the truth comes out.

JM: Yeah, Yeah. "Cruising" and whole let's get the fags bit.

DJ: Yeah it's gonna read good, though. You gotta print that.

David Johansen speaks freely Friday night. Photo by Debbie Schafer

JM: It's gonna read "well " Use proper English, man.

DJ: I'm what they call Staten Islandese. It's a very valid language, like any language you can think of.

JM: Sylvain Sylvain, another ex-Dolls member has a song on his new album, done as a response to one he worked on with you on the In Style album. He claims "Sowheto Woman" came out sounding like disco, so he wrote one called "What's That Got to Do With Rock and Roll?" What is the story behind that?

DJ: Na, I can't tell you the story. It's too vulgar.

JM: You gotta tell me the story, c'mon.

DJ: Well are you gonna print this verbatim, or am I wasting my time?

JM: No, I may be wasting my time. I wish you'd get serious.

DJ: OK, if you print this whole thing then I'll tell you exactly what happened.

JM: OK.

DJ: Sylvain was living at the Grand Concourse, and his mother sent him out to get a chicken at the live chicken market. So he came back from the live poultry store and he had the chicken under his arm and he was stroking it, caus' he was always pettin' the chicken to keep him calm because he didn't know it was on his way to the dinner table, ya know? So he was walking up the concourse caus' that's what we affectionately call the Grand Concourse. And there is the two-for-a-dollar movie theater, and it's playing Grease and Saturday Night Fever, double-bill, absolute last showing. It was a two-week run and this was the last showing. Everybody at his schule had seen this film and were discussing it in the cafeteria. Except he didn't know what they were talking about because he hadn't seen the film. So he said, "I would like a ticket please," and the guy says, "Not mit dat chicken ya don't." So he said, "Hey come on mister, ya gotta really give me a break, you just don't really know how important it is to my social life." "Not mit dat chicken," the guys says. Mit, M-i-t, mit.

JM: Yes that's German, mit. Deutsch.

DJ: Deutsch you call it. Yiddishi. In New York we got a language called Yiddishi, ya ever heard of it?

JM: No.

DJ: Well, it's kind of an Eastern European language. But anyway, let's get back to the story about Syl. So this film was important to him and he ran around the corner to Jerome Avenue and he stuck the chicken in his pants, he came back and said, "May I please have a ticket, please." And the box office guy said, "Mit pleasure." So he gave it to him. So he went inside, bought a bag of popcorn and went up to the balcony. And he sat down next to these two Yentas, right? So the chicken was suffocating to death. So he opens his fly so the chicken could breath, so, so, so there's two Yentas next to him. One of 'em says, "Sylvia, this vun over hear on left he's got it out." And so Sylvia says, "So vut, ya seen vun, ya seen 'em all." The other Yenta said, "Yeah but this one's eatin the popcorn."

Mr. J. continued by telling me, "Well you should just print that interview and you'll be in business kid, all right?"

Then the fun began. Johansen and his road manager decided that the tape of the interview just might be too embarassing, in light of the fact that he was drunk and had smoked some dope. They wanted a chance to hear it again. So I engaged them in a game of musical pockets, switching my cassette from one pocket to the other.

Finally I confronted the situation. On the one hand, I was within my full legal rights to keep the tape. I bought it with my own money. Johansen knew I was taping it. He even held the microphone for me at certain points during the interview. He agreed to and complied with the interview. But on the other hand, these guys wanted that tape back, and

TURN TO PAGE 6

HP-34C
ADVANCED PROGRAMMABLE SCIENTIFIC WITH CONTINUOUS MEMORY

HEWLETT PACKARD

The HP-34C offer you an impressive array of advanced programming features: up to 370 programmable keystrokes; label, line and direct branching; 6 subroutine levels; indirect data storage; insert/delete editing; 4 flags; 12 labels; 2 user definable keys; loop control; and more
New "solve" key—can search for and find the roots of an equation with keystroke simplicity.
New "integrate" key—any function you can evaluate on the calculator by a keystroke solution, you can integrate.
Comes complete with an introductory booklet, and owner's handbook, and a free standard application book containing 10 useful programs.

all at our discount price of $134

at the calculator store

the UNIVERSITY STORE

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
Union Video Center
featuring tapes by:
Frank Gillette
Skigako Kobuto
Nam June Paik
and many others

Mon. Feb. 25—Sat. March 1
on the Advent Video Beam
Hours: 1-4 pm and 7-11 pm
Rooms 162-9 Campus Center
Public Invited—No Charge

The Umass Arts Council Presents

A Soviet and East European Film Series

WALKOVER
a film by Jerzy Skolimowski

Wednesday, February 27th
7:30 and 9:00 P.M. Showings
Thompson Hall, 106—FREE

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—
Tuesday
Sun Seals
and 2 for 1 night 6-10 PM
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS SALE!!!

Vermont Clogs will close its factory store on Feb. 28th - All stock of Frye Boots, Lighthouse Western Boots, Danform Clogs, Aigner Casual Shoes, etc. will go on sale for 10 days - Feb. 18th - Feb. 28th.

ALL ITEMS $20 OR LESS -
Cash Only

VERMONT CLOGS
CARRIAGE SHOPS, AMHERST
549-0055 MON.-SAT. 10-6

★ Sexual harassment

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

they fail to submit to the demands of their instructor O'Connor said.

"Often a department head or someone in higher authority wants nothing to do with such a problem. They consider it a nuisance and a situation they wold just assume not be involved in. We hope to provide a channel for the victim."

Such a channel would be a grievance procedure on campus where students who are victims of sexual harrassment can bring their problem to a grievance board of nine people. This board consisting of students and faculty, will judge the severity of the harrassment and appropriate punishment.

"This punishment," says O'Connor, "may range from a written reprimand to expulsion from the University faculty if incidents are found to be repeated and severe."

The University of California at Berkeley has established and effective grievance procedure but UMass is a forerunner in the New England college community in attempting to establish such a procedure. Pamela Price, a student at Yale University, brought a sexual harrassment suit against her professor in 1976.

As the first such lawsuit brought against any school under the 1972 Equal Education Amendment, she asserted that "Raymond Duvall, a political science prefessor, offered to give me an "A" in his course if I would go to bed with him and gave me a "C" when I refused." She said she lost the case, primarily because she believes she was a black woman accusing a white man. Yale University has since taken steps to establish a grievance procedure.

While females have primarily reported incidents of sexual harrassment, O'Connor said, "We do not want to make this solely a feminist issue. We believe that men may just as easily be victims of the problem." She agreed that it allows and instructor to wield a power over a student that extends beyond the classroom situation into one's personal life.

A meeting of Students Against Sexual harrassment will be held Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in Campus Center Room 168. Since that bill proposed by Congresswoman Gray is largely concerned with the interests of students, student support at a State House press conference about the bill Monday, March 3 at 11 a.m. will be important said O'Connor. On Tuesday, March 4 a hearing before the Judiciary Committee of the State Legislature will be held for discussion and testimony of students who have been sexually harrassed. O'Connor said students who support the passage of the bill are urged to write to their local representatives and tell them so. A listing of representatives may be obtained from the SCERA office.

★ Johansen

CONT. FROM PAGE 5

but soon. I opted to divest myself of any claim to any legal rights and gave them the tape. But I had a good reason. And I still have my body intact to prove it. The moral of the story: Let them confiscate before they lacerate.

HADLEY, Feb. 23—David Johansen's road manager Peter Flynn was awakened at 9:00 a.m. this morning to answer a telephone call from a reporter who just had his illusions shattered about one of his favorite rock stars. Reporter was told to call back at noontime. Here is how the rest of the Johansen affair went:

I show up at the hotel at around 11:00 a.m., ate breakfast, and went to Room 112 at around noon. Knock-knock. "Oh it's that fuckin' reporter," said Flynn, who saw me through his peephole. "What do you want?" I told im I came to get my tape back, and that he told me to come back at noontime. "I told yoiu to call back at noontime," said Flynn. "Oh, I'm sorry. I misunderstood," I said. I lied. I was told to hang around until 2:00 p.m., when the band would be in the restaurant.

DERKSHIRE EAST
UMASS SKI CLUB

Tues Night 2/26
Lift Ticket
& $6
Bus leaves Boyden at 5 PM
$1 nonrefundable deposit
Payable at Ski Club Office
CC 106 545-3437
before 3 pm 2/26

"The Ultimate in Hair Design"
Ye Curling Iron
239 Triangle St., Amherst
549-4412
3 Hair Cutting Competion Winners on Our Staff!

NOTICES

FIVE-COLLEGE ITALIAN LECTURE Danilo Dolci will speak on "Poetic Education", the development in western Sicily of auto-analisi popolare, the grass-roots consciousness raising method essential to democratic action and peaceful change. In Italian with translator. Public welcome. Sunday, March 2, 7 p.m. Herter 231.

SOUTHWEST WOMEN-SELF DEFENSE PROGRAM is offering 4 1-credit collques 3 introductory, combing techniques and theory. These include consciousness raising techniques along with various films on women's issues: Second Level course-open to all women who have had some form of basic self-defense or martial arts. Participants in this course will be eligible to teach basic self-defense upon completion. Schedule of colloques are as follows: introductory courses: I) March 1st and March 8th 10am-6pm 2 Saturdays II) April 26th and May 3rd 10am-6pm 2 Saturdays III) April IIth, 12th, and 13th Friday 6pm-9pm Saturday 10am-5pm Sunday 12pm-6om. Advanced Course Thursday evenings 7:00pm-9:00pm Feb 28th-April 24th Locations will be specified at a later date. All those interested must sign up in academic affairs in J.A. lobby.

Any further questions-please contact Valerie Young in Academic Affairs or call 253-5270 or self defense coordinator at 546-9877. Southwest women have proirity.

THE PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE will be hosting a Presidential Candidate Night Thursday. Representatives of various democratic and republican candidates will be present to discuss issues of interest to lesbian and gay voters. The meeting is open to all who are interested and will be held at Campus Center 904-908. For more information call the PGA office at 545-0154.

STUDENT PHOTO CONTEST, with possible Gallery exhibition and cash prizes. Information available at CC 817. Late entries can be receive only through March 14 because of the need to prepare the exhibit of semi-finalists.

Don't Squander Your Right To Vote

Absentee ballots will be available to Students who can not vote in the regular elections March 11 & 12. Requests for absentee ballots will be honored if a written signed request including reason for such request is presented to the Governmental Chairpersons no later than Friday March 7. For more information see Merrell Green, Co-Chair Governmental Affairs 420 Student Union.

NATURAL SNACKS
free from chemicals and preservatives only the best raw nuts and dried fruits wholesome and delicious
UNION NEWS & SWEET SHOP

Editorial/Opinion

Watch your native tongue

EVERETT HARMAN

It is often said that the French don't like Americans, that a traveler from the Big 50 is certain to be greeted with rudeness, derision and disdain when venturing into the Gallic state. After making my fourth trip to France during the winter break I must say that such fears are largely unfounded.

As with other countries in which I have traveled I have found that the French people appreciate one's effort to speak their language, and while they no doubt have great price in their own culture they have nevertheless shown interest in, and affection for, many things American.

A great favorite in France for a number of years has been Jerry Lewis, whose adoring audiences have included many people who couldn't understand a word of English. Also extremely popular is Woody Allen, whose latest film "Manhattan" was the best received of all and whose next work is eagerly anticipated. Clearly, one needn't be an American to empathize with the struggles, frustrations, conflicts and triumphs of the little urban anti-hero as he struggles through the litter-strewn obstacle course of modern life.

In general, the American movie industry is still highly regarded in France despite the trash which it is often capable of producing, and the mention of Hollywood often invokes ima of glamour and excitement. Classic films by the likes of Bogart and Gable are frequently shown on the state owned television stations (without commercial interruption) and many books are published which pay tribute to some of the great Hollywood stars of the past.

Jazz is extremely popular in France. Many talented young American musicians, failing to receive attention at home, have gone to France and made names for themselves playing in the smoky little "caves" on the left-bank and in the American style bars. Some have returned to fame and fortune here, while others have chosen to stay in Europe. One of the most listened-to government owned radio stations plays American Jazz more often than any other kind of music, with most playing time given to classic gems by the very best traditional jazz artists. These recordings are seldom heard on American radio stations, though they most certainly should be.

The Western look has caught hold in Paris. There are many specialty shops that sell finely stitched and decorated cowboy boots, buckskin jackets and ten-gallon hats. Levi's jeans (pronounced lay-wees) still hold their own against French-cut denims and command a price of about forty dollars. Jean-style leather pants, increasingly seen gracing the limbs of the fashionable, are an amalgam of French and American design.

Many English words have become commonly used in France despite efforts by the French academy to keep the language free of foreign impurity. Words like weekend, business, sandwich, pullover and steak are frequently heard in conversation.

It seems to me that much of what is perceived as ill treatment of the tourist by the French is often a reaction to the traveler's own insensitivity. One often forgets that he or she is a guest in a foreign land and as such should respect local customs and culture. Case in point: A popular tourist diversion was an inexpensive tour of the Parisian storm sewers in a small boat propelled by a guide who gave a running commentary in French. On one such outing a middle-aged American women suddenly stood up and shouted, "Why don't you speak English?"

The world is becoming increasingly international. In order to function smoothly in an increasingly interdependent community of nations we must produce a greater number of individuals who can speak other people's languages and understand their customs and cultures. The desire by some students to eliminate the foreign language requirement in the University is evidence of a peculiar lack of insight into a changing world.

Everett Harman is a Collegian columnist

The dark side of the 'Moonies'

STEVE HASSAN

A terrible fraud is about to strike the lives of students across the country, probably including at your campus.

The fraud is being perpetrated by a group named Collegiate Association for Researchof Principles or CARP. This group is a recruiting front for Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church cult: The Moonies. It is using the CARP name as a cover to gain entree with unsuspecting students.

CARP soon intends to offer students an attractive, cheap vacation combined with a group seminar. The price will be irresistably low, and it will be made to sound like a lot of fun.

The students who go will discover, too late, that they have been taken to some remote, isolated location difficult to escape from. Every minute of their time will be structured with high intensity lectures and bombardments of close personal attentior. They will discover that they are allowed no time alone to think; that they must share their every thought with their CARP captors; that they must express no doubts about what they are being told; that in fact they are in a brainwashing camp of the Moonies.

The Moonies did exactly this to students from around the country over Christmas vacation. At scores of colleges, Moonies using the CARP name gave out flyers advertising a "fun, sun and surf" vacation seminar in florida. The price was only $20 or $30 depending on the campus, transportation included. About a hundred students signed up. When they got off the CARP buses, the students found themselves in a YMCA camp in the swampy forests of central Florida. Many students only then discovered they were in the hands of the Moonies.

As the "vacation" progressed, local police carried away squad car loads of students desperate to escape. Students told reporters, "It was like a prison." And, "Whenever we stood around talking (they) would be around like spies to hear what subjects you were talking about, what your feelings were. We were pressured to talk about the lectures." One student, described by police as "very confused' under the intense Moonie bombardment, later told reporters her mind had been "tampered with."

Many students who didn't escape in time may have succumbed to the powerful mind control techniques the Unification Church employs. Today they are probably Moonies themselves, believing with dull unquestioning that a Korean businessman is the Messiah.

The next CARP "vacation seminar" may take place as soon as spring break. One will almost certainly be held in June. The CARP recruiters should be on your campus soon.

We know the Moonies inside and out, because we were there. Ex-Members Against Moon is composed of former Unification Church members who regained their freedom of mind. We can testify very personally about the power of Moonie brainrape. We feel a very strong personal responsibility to warn students that the course of their lives, and their very capacity to function mentally, are seriously threatened by CARP's innocent sounding vacation ploy.

Some of us are former leaders in CARP ourselves, and, in our mind-controlled state, recruited other students into the Moon trap. I myself was founder and director of CARP at Queens College (City University of New York) for approximately eight months. During that time, my CARP chapter sponsored a variety of lectures, free films and other programs to get hold of students for the Moonies. We feel a deep commitment to try to undo this destruction of other people's lives for which we were responsible.

Please spread the word about CARP on campus. Most government and law enforcement authorities, and some college administrations, are too intimidated by Moon's wealth, his lawyers and his cries of religious persecution to do anything—even though the Moonies' "vacations" should land them in jail for consumer fraud if nothing else.

Foreign students in particular should be on their guard. The Unification Church has discovered that foreign students are often more lonely and vulnerable than others, and less aware of when Americans are taking them for a ride. Hence the Unification Church is zeroing in on them in particular. But everyone is a potential victim.

Steven Hassan is the president of Ex-Members Against Moon.

Letters

Your vote needed in town election

To the Editor:

I hope this letter will serve to alert people at this University and surrounding community to an important event taking place this Tuesday, Feb. 26. I am referring to the primary elections in and for the Town of Amherst. Since students comprise a large segment of the population and economy of Amherst, and are one of the things that make it a center of distinction, it is important that we have representation.

Currently student input into town government has been minimal at best. Although our needs may have been noted, a vote is what we need! I am rarely party to endorsements, yet I find the apathy of the seventies making disturbing inroads in the eighties. The issues which confront us now and those in the future need our serious attention. Involvement with many student services, organizations, and co-ops have demonstrated for me that our life on and around the campus is greatly affected by town government. My past and present work with the annual Spring Concert has also brought me into contact with the realities of the situation.

The need for increased student involvement is quite evident. Rich LaVoice, a UMass undergraduate and a co-president of the Student Government Association, has entered the primary for Selectman in the Town of Amherst. If we are to affect change and improvement, we have to do it ourselves. Having a student representing students is one step we can take toward creating a valid interchange between ourselves and the Town of Amherst.

Rock On,
Arthur Edelstein

Critic's 'bass' word off key to reader

To the Editor:

Rick Alvord of the Collegian staff showed his bad taste and lack of journalistic skill by describing the bass solo at the Jerry Garcia concert Wednesday night by saying, "it sucked."

Vulgar rhetoric is no way to describe an artistic performance.

When Alvord wrote "it (the bass solo) sucked," it left me wondering, what did the bass solo suck?

The bass solo was a fine artistic performance and added quality to the show.

Alvord wrote that "Last spring many concert goers left (the Spring Concert) unimpressed by Garcia and the "Dead."

I encountered many people who were not "Dead Freaks" who said they were impressed by the Grateful Dead (Alvord also failed to call the band by its full title.)

Alvord failed to mention that Robert Hunter, the warm-up act, writes most of the lyrics for the Grateful Dead.

Rick Alvord proved Dr. Hunter S. Thompson's question in his book Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas to be a valid one, "Why bother with newspapers, if this is all they offer?"

Martin Joyce
Southwest

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the actual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

SGA OVERVIEW

What Has Begun. . .

When you visit the Student Senate Office in room 420 of the Student Union you are quickly absorbed into a group of people carrying on the day-to-day business of the Student Senate. You may not realize that behind all of this activity stretches the most extensive network of student groups and services to be found anywhere in the nation.

Originally, the Student Government Association at UMass concentrated on the planning of proms, parties and movies. But, based upon a sincere commitment to student involvement in all aspects of University life, we all perceived the need to make our voice heard in more important matters.

An initial move toward unionization of University students in 1974 resulted in the formation of many advocacy services and agencies, designed to establish a means by which student improvement could be achieved. Among these agencies is the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy .SCERA, which is resposible for identifying, researching and advocating issues which are of the primary concern to students.

Last semester, for example, the issues of increased lighting on campus and the proposed fee increases for University students were targeted as the major areas of concern. SCERA also maintains a Resource Center which serves as an educational tool for students and other groups requiring information.

In the area of programming and other cultural events, much discretion is left to the individual RSO groups and Area Governments fo planning and implementation. On a campus-wide level, the Union Program Council has gained a nation-wide reputation as an outstanding programming organization. Contained within its long list of credits are such groups as: The Grateful Dead, The Kinks, Rickee Lee Jones and the Talking Heads, among others.

The Distinguished Visitors Program has also contributed greatly to raising the level of awareness among members of the University community.

The Office of Third World Affairs, in conjunction with other Third World media and programming groups, has taken the responsibility for Black History Month this February. Aside from the planning and implementation of cultural events, OTWA has been actively involved in raising awareness by indentifying, publicizing and combating elements of racism contained within all aspects of University life.

The Legal Services Office, The Economic Developement Office, The Student Senate Transit Service and a wide-range of other support and development agencies have also been established – all of this as a result of the $42.00 per semester Student Activities Trust Fund fee.

This fee, which is paid by every undergraduate is the funding source for the nerve center of student services and agencies collectively called the Student Government Association. But the real basis of this network of services and the foundation upon which it all rests, is the student community at UMass. Historically, the bulk of the Student Government's efforts have been directed toward the maintaining the control o f this fee and its allocation. So much energy has been directed to this struggle that our real goal of student empowerment in all aspects of University life has been allowed to fall by the wayside. If recent attempts by the administration to remove or compromise this control of the SATF monies are succesful, the following vision of the SGA in ten years may become a reality.

A Vision of What May Be!

When you visit the Student Senate Office in three years things may be very different than in the scenario presented in "A History". If control of the SATF is taken away from the students when your brothers and sisters visit the Senate Office in 1990 the following could occur:

Student: Is this the Student Government Association Office?

Staffer: Yes. This is it. Can I help you?

Student: Well, my older brother told me about how great and powerful the Student Government Association was at UMass and that I should get involved. So here I am. What can I do?

Staffer: Nothing.

Student: What do you mean? What about the Student Senate? Can't I run for office?

Staffer: No Senate.

Student: Can't I become a paralegal in the Legal Services Office?

Staffer: No LSO. Lawyers don't work for free.

Student: What about the leak in my dorm room ceiling? Can't I get involved in SCERA, to try to effect some action on the issue?

Staffer: No SCERA.

Student: Wait, can't I even help to put on a concert, maybe learn something about lighting and sound?

Staffer: No concerts.

Student: Wait a minute. All this aggravation is making me hungry and I want quick bite to eat. My brother said something about Earthfoods and the Peoples Market.

Staffer: I never heard about any persons' market. I'm afraid you'll have to walk into town, or there's always the Whitmore cafeteria.

Student: Walk into town! But what about "the largest free bus service in the nation" that I've heard so much about. I'll freeze my ass off.

Staffer: No busses. You know when the budget gets tight there's only enough money for administrative salaries; some things have got to go.When the Student Senate was disbanded in 1981 the $175,000 students used to contribute to the busses had to be spent to repair the Campus Center, the Library, the Fine Arts Center and the Parking Garage. Why we almost had enough money to start repairs on some of the dormitories.

Student: This is outrageous! What about theCollegian, WMUA, The Index, The Outing Club, Area Governments, The Credit Union, CCEBS and the Boltwood-Belchertown Project? Isn't there anything left for concered aware students to get involved in?

Staffer: Well, there is always that work-study job in the Whitmore cafeteria, or I think there may be an opening slinging spam in the Dining Commons this weekend.

Student: I don't need a job. I want to participate in carrying the student voice to the Administration. I want to be heard, damn it!

Staffer: It will be falling on deaf ears. I think you should transfer.

Student: Things have changed around here. What about "letting the students decide"?

Staffer: Shhh! Don't say that around here. We don't like to let the students decide anything. We don't want you to become too political.

Student: Well, I've made my decision. I'm splitting this clambake. I've got better things to do!

Draft

President Carter's January 23rd State of the Union Adress calling for revitalization of military draft registration has provoked vehement opposition on college campuses across the nation — including the Five-College area.

Locally, a major protest demonstration was held on Saturday, February 2nd, by a number of of area college groups. The protest which began at noon at the UMass campus pond was followed by a march to the Amherst Town Common.

The Public Policy Office staff has prioritized draft registration as a key issue on its legislative agenda for 1980. Within a week the staff had served the 14 members of the Massachusetts Congressional delegation to find out their views on draft registration. Bulletins recording the positions of individual members of the Massachusetts delegation will be distributed to the UMass community in much the same fashion as in early September, 1979 — before the crises in Iran and Afghanistan when the draft registration issue was being debated by a less "hawkish" Congress. Then, on September 12th, the U.S. House of Representatives voted overwhelmingly, 259 - 155, in support of an amendment by Congresswoman Patricia Schroeder (D. - Colorado) to delete mandatory draft registration provisions from a defense procurement bill.

Once the views of Massachusetts Members of Congress are known, Public Policy Research Director, Ken Mosakowski, intends to organize a series of constituent visits to the offices of individual members in Washington D.C., to express personal opposition to draft registration.

This action will be followed by a massive letter-writing campaign as Congressional debate on the registration issue begins.

Mosakowski, who last December was denied release of a free copy of the Selective Service System's proposed Registration Plan for Massachusetts, after having requested the document under the Freedom of Information Act, is hopeful that the draft registration issue will encourage potentially affected 18-20 year-olds, both male and female, to register and vote in the forthcoming March – h Massachusetts Primary.

Persons interested in organizing opposition to draft registration should contact Arvid Muller at 546-5853 or 545-0341.

Get Involved

If the scenario outlined in "A Vision" upsets you, there are always means by which you can guarantee that it will never occur. The most important of these is to become involved with the Student Government Association on more than a fee-paying level.

The SGA is currently reexamining both unionization and incorporation as possible avenues for increasing student power in other areas of campus life. This is a perfect opportunity for increased involvement of all students; for any direction or goal can only be defined in terms of what the students need at UMass.

Many of you may already be involved, through any one of a number of RSO groups, or by participating in various Senate Activities, but the time has arrived for the students at UMass to assert their rights in more than an advisory or specialized capacity.

When you weigh the services provided for and by the students against any level of decision-making control over our lives at the University, it becomes apparent that the Student Government has only been allowed a "token input". This could never happen if the SGA spoke with a voice 18,000 strong.

There are many important issues to be considered and many important decisions to be reached at a university the size of UMass. But in the Student Government Association, as in all areas of campus life, we firmly believe that we should "Let the Students Decide".

"He always finds some way to arrange himself..."

Lucio O Pasquini/Rio de Janeiro

Office of Third World Affairs

The Office of Third World Affairs was created to ensure full-time advising and advocacy on Campus. It acts as a service orientated office for the development, organization and advocacy of Third World student issues and the needs to strengthen, stabilize and produce the maximum participation possible in non-academic student life.

The office seeks to coordinate campus-wide programs of interest to Third World students and the community at large. In addition, to the resource files on student organizations, and educationally related issues, the office had assisted, and initiated numerous projects such as Black History Month, The Anti-Racism Team at SCERA and the Iranian-American Friendship Committee. It also has been involved with matters having a long range effect on the existence and quality of life at UMass for Third World students.

Numerous problems face the student organization on an almost daily basis that the Office of Third World Affairs has taken an active stand in. The existence of Nummo News has been constantly threatened and the past semester, with close cooperation with Nummo staff we have successfully ensured its existence and respect as a Third World publication. Black Mass Communication also experienced difficulty with WMUA and with persistence the BMCP staff and the Office of Third World Affairs actively sought and resolved problems as soon as they arose.

However, certain things will be ever-present problems. Third World Students' budgets have consistently decreased over the years making life here increasingly more difficult to tolerate. Despite our diverse range of programs and organizations our resourses are diminishing along with other areas of the University.

The mass participation of Third World students is essential to organizational existence. Without the consistent work of dedicated students, all media, programs and political organizations will suffer.

If you want to know what activities and organizations are here and how you can be a part come over and lets talk.

Office of Third World Affairs
308 Student Union
545-2517

Student Affairs

At the present time there is a proposal to the Senate that the Campus Wide Team be renamed Student Affairs to more closely correlate to the commitee set up of the Senate organization. Most of the teams in SCERA are reflected by participation in the senate. For example, the women's team is reflected by the women's caucus. This change will hopefully insure more student input into the work that team will concentrate on. In the past, this team has served as a catch-all for problems on campus. Last semester we worked on investigation of the closing of the library, preparation for a campaign to jpinpoint the problems of financial aid and follow up on problems that were discovered the previous semester in the placement services. Much of the team's time and energy went into building the rally right before Thanksgiving break.

This semester's work will open with a survey distribution to a random sampling of students on financial aid. For a long time many people have been aware of the superficial problems that exist in the Financial Aid Office. This survey will serve to enlighten both the FAO and the students of those areas that are of particular concern. If it becomes necessary, we are prepared to organize a public hearing on the problems. We would like to pay particular attention to the problems that minority and women students have in aquiring aid.

In the midst of today's ever increasing energy crisis, we are preparing a newsletter of energy tips for people in the dorms. It was brought to our attention last semester that students were complaining of over heating in the dorms. This newsletter will include tips on how to regulate the heat in your own room. We will also be following closely all attempts by the university to comply with energy saving programs.

The Campus Wide/Student Affairs Team is in the process of summing up the work done on last semester's library inveastigation. A pamphlet of all the information collected in this case will be available soon. But the library was just the tip of the iceberg in terms of thoroughly investigating the problems confronting building facilities on campus. The Ward Commission revealed corruption in state buildings that does not exclude the University of Massachusetts.

Our team is young and expanding. We need outgoing, energetic people who want to fight to see that changes are made when necessary. If you are tired of seeing services stripped away, dormitories falling apart of tuition steadily increasing, come up and see us. We are learning together how best we can work to satisfy our goals: to make this university a place that serves all people in the most extensive way.

Students who become involved in this team are also encouraged to recruit others to serve on the many councils that need input. Some of thses are health services, athletics, handicapped students office, commutor affairs and older students/non-traditional students councils.

Rents & Fees

The Rents and Fees Team is designed to watch and give input into the fees that students have to pay each year. It also takes an interest in many other monetary issues on campus. This team in SCERA works closely with the senate committee of the same name. Last semester most of our attention focused on the fee review. Members of the committee collected information on all university proposals for fee increases. Members examined reasons for increases given by each group and evaluated them in terms of students' interests. Recommendations were issued by the committee on all of the proposals.

During the fee review hearings, students were able to question groups about their specific proposals. The hearings, last semester, began on the evening of the big rally to protest fee increases on campus, as well as the lack of services available for these increases (such as the library).

This semester the team will continue work on the fee review. We will also be compiling an information list of all the trust funds so that the general student body can be better informed as to where our SATF money goes. We will also spend time watchdogging the trust funds that were not involved with the fee review for a fee increase.

One of the major concerns of students has always been the continually rising cost of tuition. This semester promises to be no different. Already the word is out that plans are in the making for a big increase. We need your help in order to win on this one. Tuition increases affect all of us. It is important that the administration knows that we will stand together to fight for our right to a decent education at a reasonable cost. Please come up and join us this semester. We want to reach out to the community in an effort to clarify the financial situation on this campus.

Programming

The Program Unit of the Student Activities/RSO Office, offers RSO groups the opportunity to sponsor and co-sponsor a variety of programs, ranging form lectures to movies to theater.

During this past semester, outstanding programs were presented such as the Third World Theatre Series which brought Black, Hispanic and Asian art under the umbrella of one series. Plays were presented by the Puerto Rican Travelling Theatre, Pan Asian Repertory Theater and many other theater groups.

The Distinguished Visitors Program, another RSO group has brought to campus well-known speakers, such as Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden, cartoonist Mel Blanc and this semester will present former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

The Program Unit of RSO/SA has also assisted the Union Program Council in coordinating such major concerts as The Kinks, Bonnie Raitt, Hall and Oates, The Grateful Dead, and many other fine performances.

In the future, RSO/SA hopes to continue and broaden it's support for the programming needs of the academic, political, social and cultural aspects of the campus and the surrounding community. In order to achieve this goal, RSO has internships available that help students better understand the programming needs of the campus and surrounding community. It also provides an opportunity for students to actively participate in the development of student programming, paricularly in tieing together the academic and residential communit.'s. These internships, along with course offerings, workshops and lectures in theater, presents students with experiences that fill in the gaps that a standard curriculum doesn't always provide.

The RSO/SA Program Unit actively supports those groups that wish to co-sponsor events using added resources other than their own. For instance, The Duke Ellington Music Series, presented four major Black Classical music concerts at the University. Funding for the concerts came from a variety of sources; Union Program Council, Distinguished Visitors Program, AHORA (the Hispanic student association), The UMass Arts Council, Special Program for the Arts, Southwest Assembly and Meet the Composer of NYC.

As one can see the RSO/SA Program Unit participates in a variety of tasks from assisting RSO groups in choosing and presenting films for their organizations, sponsoring discos, presenting lectures and workshops, programming theater series, & coordinating major concerts. It is also making headway in providing stdents with opportunities to bridge together their social, academic and cultural lives in order to promote services that bring students and their community together.

Academic Team

The Academic Team of SCERA is concerned with insuring the academic freedom and rights of all students. We feel that students should be aware of the workings of the university and how they are effected by the outcomes. We must realize that student involvment in the operations will lead to far more control over the various academic issues confronting them.

The Academic Team works on projects intended to both inform and organize the student body as a whole. We work closely with the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate as a research and advocacy team. The team iscomprised of about eight members, each striving to maintain a close rapport with each other and other SCERA teams. By collectively keeping abreast of relative situations, we are able to be a proactive as well as a reactive organization.

Working from a program of students' needs determined each semester, SCERA organizes students to research the issues and advocate change in the students' interest. The Academic Team divided itself into issues to be covered during the semester. The area the Academic Team has been involved with and plan to take action in are cited below.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

This team monitors the Collective Bargaining negotiation procedures between the faculty and the administration. This semester our hopes are to build off of past working relationships created between the team and and both the faculty and the administration. Issues resulting in clauses to be contained in the faculty/administration contract directly effect the students. We will continue with negotiations as started this fall and create a viable task force in order to research and determine which positions are of students' interest.

CATE

An updated version of the Course and Teacher Evaluation Guide will come out again this spring in order to help students decide on courses and professors for the following semester. Not only must compilation of relevent material be worked on by this team, but they must also solicit faculty, departmental and administrative cooperation in order to put out an objective evaluation guide. Procedural changes have been strived for in the past and continue through each semester.

ACADEMIC WATCHDOGGING

The Academic Team keeps watch of issues and faculty-administration committees that effect the student body. Members of the Academic Watchdogging Team sit in on the meetings and relate pertinent information and proposed strategies. This semester we hope to fill any remaining seats on the committees.

NEW ISSUES

This semester a revision of the Student Academic Survival Guide will be coming out. This guide, completed over intersession, is a comilation and revision of material that will help students overstep traditional pathways to obtain credits. This booklet should be coming out within the next week (watch for it!).

Also this semester, a forum with Provost Allen and Secretary of the Faculty Senate, Kline, is being established. This will be an open forum to all students here and will address academic issues in question in hopes of getting straight answers.

A freshperson survey and forum are also in creation. This research should assess some of the unique needs of freshpersons, and will create a better environment for incoming students.

Other issues we have been working on include establishing a reading period before finals, clarification of language requirements, tenure determination and advising requirements of the faculty.

It is our belief that facilitation of a well organized student body will help move our educational institutions in a progressive rather than a regressive direction. The team is greatly understaffed and in dire need of cooperation throughout the student body. We cannot possibly accomplish all that we set out to do in the period of time we desire to work in without help. New issues crop up every day that the university is in operation, and these issues (whether we realize it or not) directly effect us.

Whether we voice our opinions or not, whether we get involved or not, we are a part of, and effected by this university. It's time to get involved.

Co-ops

Student-run businesses cooperatives and collectives are a vital part of the UMass community. They are a myriad of services provided for students by students, in an attempt to create an alternative economic environment. They represent a variety of students and students' interests.

While all the businesses are non-profit, a distinction is made to indicate differences in organizational structure. Student-run businesses are traditionally organized, with a hierarchically structured decision-making process. There is generally a student manager and a paid staff. Union Records Unlimited and the Print Shop are two examples of this type of student activity. Cooperatives are open organizations, in which all members participate in decision-making. All staffing is done on a voluntary basis and no one is paid. They often have a type of structure amd may have even evolved from a club, as the Bicycle Coop did. The Photo and Sporting Goods Coop are other examples of these groups. Collectives are businesses run by a paid staff, all of whom have an equal share in decision-making and conducting business. Decisions are made by consensus, which means that all members must agree with the decision. People's Market and Earthfoods are the two collectives on campus.

Together, these groups form a network of student-run services unlike any other school in the country. They provide students with goods that they need at prices which they can afford; and we know students' needs because we are students. There are over twenty student-run businesses on campus meeting students' needs in automotive care, food service, banking services, recreational activities, audio and visual needs and many more.

The beautiful part of all this is that the good service and low prices are only a by-product of these student-run ventures. The true purpose of these groups is to provide hands-on educational experience in business management, decision-making and interpersonal relationships in both traditional and alternative workplaces. The wide variety of services we provide give students a choice of work experience which they can select according to their interests.

So now you might ask, "How do I get involved?". The easiest and quickest way is to walk in and volunteer some time at the business which interests you most. There are usually volunteer sign-ups at the beginning of each semester, but you can volunteer any time that you'd like. It's really not neccesary to have a lot of time available, an hour or two a week are just as appreciated as five or ten. But beware, you begin to stay longer each time you go.

Several of the groups also provide student jobs. This is another way to become involved and takes a larger committment. Although you are paid, the compensation rarely equals the contribution. If you are interested, groups hire at the beginning of each semester, work-study and non-work-study. The openings are well advertised and all are urged to apply. The Student Auto Workshop, TIX and The Print Shop hire students in this way. Many of these groups also have volunteer programs. For instance, a student musician can play for tips and lunch at Earthfoods, by signing up in advance in the Earthfoods kitchen. Other groups, such as the Coalition for Environmental Quality offers credit to students who organize bottle collecting in residence halls.

So you see there are many ways to become involved in many different groups. They all provide a service to the UMass community in a unique and exciting way, so come join us.

All of the student-run projects are organized under the Office of Economic Development, a Senate funded office. This office provides financial and organizational support and acts as a liason between the groups and the Student Activities Office. Some of these groups are funded directly by the Senate, thus the students. While others get no direct funding, they are still dependent upon the Student Activities Trust Fund to conduct business.

Many of the businesses are members of the Coop Collective. The Collective is a unifying body which exists to represent the interests of member groups. The Collective is made up of fourteen member representatives and other interested students. It deals with financial stability, space accessibility and administrative harassment. Its strength is in its solidarity, we are hoping to increase our membership to include all student-run services. The Collective publishes a newsletter bi-weekly, which can be obtained at any of our members' establishments. We meet weekly on Wednesdays at 4:30pm, usually in the Dukes Room; all interested people are urged to attend.

The student-run enterprises are proud to the services we provide, and the experiences we make available for both our members and our consumers. The very nature of a cooperative effort stringly implies that all members of the University community should become involved in protecting and supporting these student-run businesses. The co-ops are there for your benefit, and need our input; become involved if you can, but more importantly, support your student-run business.

Residential Team

Out of the 25,000 students enrolled at the University of Massachusetts, approximately 11,000 live in one of five campus residential areas. There are many problems facing we dorm-dwellers, ranging from mandatory housing and dining requirements, to inadequate living conditions to lack of student representation in decision-making. The Residential Team of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) is engaged in research on these concerns, acts as student advocates and works with students to organize around specific issues.

In past semesters, the Residential Team has worked on the establishment of the dormitory housing contract, a precedent-setting form of documentation, insuring our rights as university tenants. Extensive negotiations resulted in the formation of the Residential Committee, designed to recommend on-campus residential policy to the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs, and the Residential Appeals Committee to act on student grievances. Both committees, provided within the guidelines of the housing contract, directly involve students in residential policy, decision-making and grievance arbitration.

In December of 1978, the Residential Team conducted a survey of dormitory services and facilities. We are now involved in a subsequent survey to follow up, evaluate and make recommendations to House Councils, Heads of Residence and University administration. We are also working on the development of solid House Councils. With the developement of empowerment at the Dorm Government level, students have the opportunity to effect positive change in our immediate environments. The Residential Team is also committed to the implementation of House, area and university-wide student judiciary boards to insure student representation in the university disciplinary process.

Using the MacKimmie Humanity House and the Brett House social awareness corridor concepts as models for thematic housing alternatives, the team plans to work toward special interest living space in each residential area. Given the establishment of such dorms/corriders, students with common political concerns, academic interests and career goals will have a choice of options within the traditional residence hall system.

The dorms are fast becoming run-down hotels! The university administration is doing nothing! It is up to students to see that we receive the services we pay for so dearly. The SCERA Residential Team had a vision for an ideal residence hall system. We want to share this with you, the students, and work together to improve our dorm communities. Your commitment is essential. For more information, questions or suggestions, either stop by our office at 422 Student Union Building or call us at 545-0341.

VOTE

Public Policy

The Massachusetts State Legislature convened its 1980 session January 2nd facing a docket of 8,428 bills – many of which, if enacted, will directly affect the lives of thousands of students, faculty and staff at UMass.

Researchers in SCERA's recently-expanded Public Policy Office have been carefully monitoring legislative developments in the following key areas:

- Educational reorganization TheSpecial Commision on the Reorganization of Higher Education, chaired by State Senator Walter Boverini (D-Lynn) and State Rep. Frank Matrango (D-North Adams), has been holding hearings this winter with representatives of the various public higher education segments – state colleges, community colleges and state universities – prior to the Commission's submission of legislative recommendations for reorganization of the state's public higher education system.
- Corruption in state construction projects The Special Commission Concerning State and County Buildings, chaired by former Amherst College presdident John William Ward, has filed a massive legislative package to restructure comprehensively the present system of management of public construction projects in Massachusetts. The Commision has found the present system to be "confused, inefficient, wasteful of tax dollars and susceptible to influence."
- Drinking Age State Rep. James Collins (D-Amherst) has filed a bill to repeal Chapter 15 of the Acts of 1979 which raised the legal drinking age limit to 20. If Collin's bill is passed the drinking age will return to 18.
- FY 1981 state budget A recent Massachusetts policy analysis (MEPA) done by Prof. George Treyz of the Umass Economics Dept. predicts a state revenue shortfall which could result in an austere Fiscal Year 1981 state budget, producing even further budget cuts in public higher education as well as additional tuition increases for the 1980-1981 school year. The seriousness of the fiscal picture should be clearer when the House Ways and Means Committee begins to examine Gov. Edward King's FY 1981 budget recommendations in public hearings.
- "Propostion 2½" fever Several taxpayers' groups are lobbying for passage of a state-wide referendum – as well as a state constitutional amendment – to cut back municipal property taxes by 40 - 50 percent statewide. A coalition of education-affiliated organizations, including SCERA, is opposing the measure, maintaining that the quality of public education at all levels will be destroyed by such drastic tax cuts.

The Public Policy staff will be watchdogging these and related legislative proposals throughout the year to ensure that students' interests are represented on each issue. The staff will also be working for passage of several bills petitioned by Umass students, including legislation to:

— Initiate civil and criminal procedures to prohibit sexual harassment

— Exempt college fraternities from property taxation

— Expand membership of public college and university building authorities to include students

— Add a graduate student to the UMass Board of Trustees

— Classify course/faculty evaluations as public records

— Include students on academic department personnel committees

The success or failure of the Public Policy Office in fighting for students' rights will depend directly on the support of the UMass student body. Concerned students willing to volunteer some time to work on these important legislative issues should contact Ken Moore or Ann O'Connor Room 426 Student Union Building, 545-0341.

Women's Issues Team

The Women's Issues Team at SCERA is one of the newest members of the organization. We have been established to address the particular concerns that women have at UMass. In our first semester working together we were able to put out a newsletter to local women's groups, initiate proceedings on a grievance procedure for cases of sexual harassment, as well as leading a successful campaign for better lighting.

We have a hired staff of three, supplemented by women who are using their time in the fight to change our university towards credits in their majors. Last semester this included a dozen women. Our meetings are held on Tuesday afternoons at 5:00. In these meetings we attempt to analyze each campaign we are involved in. This process involves objective criticism of each others performances. We have tried to establish a pattern of rotating the chair of these meetings in order to give everyone the chance to attain these skills.

This spring, our energy will focus on establishing a new organization, Students Against Sexual Harassment (SASH). Modeled after UBerkley's Women Organized Against Sexual Harassment and WASH, UMass Boston's Women Against Sexual Harassment. SASH will serve as a counseling center for victims of sexual harassment. We are working toward the implementation of a grievance procedure. This means that SASH will also be the base of organizing activity. We need documentation in order to prove the need for a grievance procedure. And we need the grievance procedure to put some weight behind the punishment for sexual harassment. Involvement in SASH will mean work on the actual procedure itself, (this being done with much needed advice from the Legal Services Office), publicity for documentation recruitment, organizing support for the procedure once it has been completed.

We will also be involved in organizing the International Women's Week conference, March 3-8 — Women, Family and Social Change.

We will follow up on last semester's promises for better lighting.

We will continue to put out our monthly newsletter.

We encourage all women to come up and find out how they can help.

Anti-Racism

The establishment of the Anti-Racism Coordinator position and the Anti-Racism Team within SCERA signals a positive step forward for the SGA, SCERA and, we hope, for the University community as a whole. The positions exist due to a prolonged effort on the part of many students and staff who fought long and hard all last semester to obtain adequate funding for these positions, as well as the recognition that campus-wide anti-racist programs must be developed, implemented and strengthened.

This view reflects the understanding that racism is a social force which effects each and every one of us. As students, and members of the University community we have a vital interest in the quality of life on campus, the curriculum content in our classes and the overall atmosphere here at UMass.

If the University administration promotes racism, or neglects to deal systematically with this huge problem, then we as students must initiate change, and reject waiting as an option.

Too often administration responses to racist attacks on Third World peoples have been nonexistant, ineffective and crisis-oriented. We are interested in developing on-going, implementable programs which address racism within the University over time. Presently, racism is inherent to the institutions in this country, and the University is no exception. Racism did not appear yesterday and will not be wished away today or tomorrow. But we will need an everyday effort to do away with it. We must address institutional racism with institutionalized programs in all areas; academic, dormitory, the arts, etc.

Thru activating the following programs we hope to contribute to the ongoing process of addressing racism at UMass. Some of the projects we will be working on this semester include:

Academic

- Establishing effective communication between anti-racist and social awareness programs that already exist in order to strengthen collective action, avoid duplication of efforts, and consolidate and eventually expand our resources.
- Work towards implementing the G-Core proposal. This student initiative seeks to replace 2 of the existing distribution requirements with courses that address forms of oppression such as racism and sexism. The view here is that if the University can require sciences such as biology as a mandatory part of a persons education, then it can and should require an understanding of institutional racism and sexism, which effects us all.
- Develop a pilot model for a minors certificate program in racism studies in conjunction with residential colleges and departments.
- Develop a model for a 5-College Anti-Racist Education Project, with the long range goal of establishing a department of Racism Studies.

Arts and the Environment

- Work towards campus-wide implementation, in conjunction with residence hall personnel of ongoing Human Awareness programs in the dormitories based on the "Mackimmie House" model.
- Rejuvenate the "Affirmative Action in the Arts" project, an effort which is designed to address environmental racism; which includes the arts, buildings and overall campus climate.
- Promote an anti-racist perspective in all student government initiatives and projects, teams, committees, etc.

As you can see, we will be undertaking many projects aimed at effecting the overall University experience. Thru these programs we hope to promote the view that we all have a stake in combatting racism. Our team effort is open to all who are interested. Please come up to SCERA to give us your ideas, suggestions and, hopefully, your time. We feel as many people as possible should be involved, and we look forward to working with you in this new and important effort!

p.s. If you are looking for a challenging educational experience and are interested in anti-racist work, independant study credit is available — check us out!

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Craig AM/FM Stereo Tape Player BSR 260 AX Turntable and Regency speakers call Doug after 6 pm 6-9569 $120.00

Nikko 3035 Receiver 15 watts w/circuit breakers 1 year old looks like new $100 6-4920

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

1967 Chevy Convertable SS 283 engine low mileage 150 lbs. pressure all around, engine like new 253-3074

1970 VW Squareback 22+ mpg, runs great, good tires, battery, has rust $475.00 253-5178

Auto for sale 1974 Firebird good condition call 5-2591 ask for Ron

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

DO IT!

Seniors--Are you going to graduate without doing it? Get yourself into your yearbook! Call 545-2874

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

Disco at Hatch! Sat. March 1 DJ w/light 9-1:00 $1.50 $-bar Free Munchies!

Leap Year! Stomp to Live New Wave Fri Feb 29! 9-1:00 Hatch $2.00!

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

FOR SALE

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Womens Figure Skates good quality $20 size 6-7 6-8734

Tuxedo and 3-piece suits sizes 38-39 call 256-0626 any evening

Pioneer Supertuner TP900 AM/FM 8/track car stereo perfect condition 546-4443

Yamaha 12-string Guitar w/case. Excellent condition Dave 549-1880

Hi Speed & Duplication Service-Remote Recording Wholesale prices on Quality Blank Cassettes (no min.) Our quality is the same as Maxell UDSL TDKSA at ½ price. Lifetime Guarantee. Free brochure, spec. sheet, Omni Cassette & Duplication Mfg., P.O. Box 156, Northfield, MA. 01360 413-498-5851

BIC 940 Turntable good condition $500 call Judy 584-6406

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found white & tan Beagle type dog in Brit. Manor area Call 253-3509

Beautiful Black Cat with a little white on chest. Found 2/18/80 in Student Union Call Paula 323-6029

German Shepard 3 color male in C.C. area. Flea Collar. See Hotel Desk

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work-study office positions available in Soithwest area. Contact Jean Steiner, Southwest Business Office, 5-1552 We are an Equal Opportunity Employer

Shaklee—Positive salespeople wanted. Natural products. Exceptional opportunity to earn. Call Emily 549-3582

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Kundalini Yoga Club offers basic instruction. All welcome. M-Th 4-5:30 in Campus Center. $1 per session. 256-0391

Basic Auto-Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure, Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

Guitar Lessons "Masters in Music" 367-2713

LOST

Lost mens gold rimmed glasses near Franklin Commons. Reward upon return call 6-8406

Lost: Single key on leather ring, Hills Wheeler vicinity $5 reward call 586-9153

Lost—brown suede glove in Paige, Holdsworth, Stockbridge area. Please call Lisa 546-9903

Lost—gold bracelet between the library and Northeast area on February 21. If found, call Anna 546-4852 or 546-4849

MICHAEL C.

Michael C. when I look into your blue eyes I don't know what to say. A shy friend at CC on Thursday

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

Charismatic Prayer and Bible Study CC 171 Tuesday Feb 26 8 to 10 PM

Impressionist Pastel Portraits $10.00 moneyback guarantee 253-2983

Paragon is coming!

Heard melodies are sweet those unheard - are sweeter

B-B-Bones Happy Birthday! Go for it! Love Boneless, Cohey, Bagger, and Ben

Delta Chi Fraternity: Open rush Wed. & Thurs. Feb. 27 & 28 at 10 pm Tel:253-9230

Tim—Thanks for the gift. Tina

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to NYC or LI any and all weekends will share driving and $ call Roger 549-5184

Ride wanted to Ft Lauderdale area for Spring Break Will share costs and driving. Call Laurie after 7 256-0637

Ride wanted to Florida for spring break will share driving, expenses, party materials. Call Cathy and Deb 549-6534

Ride wanted to Washington DC Spring break and Friday Feb 29 Pleas call Debbie 323-6843 will share expense

Ride wanted from Belchertown Center to UMass daily 9 am or 10 am Debbie 323-6843 will share $

ROOMATE WANTED

Roomate wanted Brittany Manor begin 3/1 253-2402

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

Female housemate for furnished apartment West Street Northampton call 586-2859

Male roommate wanted Puffton Vil. own room $110 month & elec. prefer older student 549-5145 mostly eves

Room open in Amherst house fem. pref. near bus, coop members call 256-0468

Single room available in Belchertown house. On bus route $85 a month + 323-5262

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995; Room 922 Campus Center, UMass

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom efficiency bath and kitchen $175.00/month available now or March 1 Amherst call James 253-5707 after 6

Room Swiss Vill 110 a month everything bus route, open immead 253-2653

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation

SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you

THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

All for $5.50
with this coupon only

With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only,
limited to new customers only

Styles by Deborah I & II

65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549-5610 — Shirmack — 62 Main St Easthampton, MA 527-2411

OUR 41st YEAR

PREPARE FOR:
MCAT • DAT • LSAT • GMAT • GRE
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • PCAT
OCAT • VAT • MAT • SAT • TOEFL
NMB I, II, III • ECFMG • FLEX • VQE
NDB I, II • NPB I • NLE
Flexible Programs & Hours
Visit Any Center And See For Yourself
Why We Make The Difference
In Amherst
264 N. Pleasant St. (413) 253-5108
Classes Begin:
MCAT 2/16 & 3/23/31
LSAT 3/1 GRE 2/23
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Please call the Center for details
Outside N.Y. State Only CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782
Centers in Major US Cities, Toronto, Puerto Rico and Lugano, Switzerland

Come Join the College Crowd at
Time Out

TWO TV's
Friendly People!
Friendly Prices!
Free popcorn at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

NEW POSTERS
Clothing Special
Great Cards & Gifts
Daily 10 am-6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 -Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. - RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG
STAR TREK (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15 G
THE FOG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
James Coburn Marsha Mason Chapter Two (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG
STEVE MARTIN The JERK (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Richard Gere American Gigolo (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
DO NOT EAT. DOM DeLUISE ANNE BANCROFT Fatso (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 PG

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Work units
5 C.S.A. leader
10 Eve's mate
14 Byron title
15 Happening
16 Warning words
17 Ill will symbol: 2 words
19 Choir member
20 Clothes
21 Most difficult
23 Lasso
26 Buck's mate
27 Fragment
30 Of metrical feet
34 Fish sauce
35 Irritates
37 Do wrong
38 Ms. Ullmann
39 Dinner course
41 Scottish explorer
42 Like: Suffix
43 Ridge
44 Baseball's Rose
45 Rostand hero
47 Motivated
50 Pallet, e.g.
51 Won't's relative
52 German kingdom
56 Locust
60 Forfeit
61 Sloe
64 Public
65 Quebec university
66 Geraint's wife
67 Direction
68 Growing out
69 Contradict

DOWN
1 Lohengrin's bride
2 Absorbed
3 Pluck
4 Ironical
5 Beat
6 St.
7 Vein: Prefix
8 1000 mils
9 Firmer
10 Garland
11 Pittance
12 Termites, e.g.
13 Arguable
18 Ireland
22 Meat cut
24 Pithy
25 Awns
27 Of some Franks
28 Roman author
29 Peavey, e.g.
31 Cap
32 Enraged
33 Belief
36 Parasite
39 Scandinavians
40 Can wear away
44 Mended
46 Away
48 Angling gear
49 Item
52 Farm tool
53 Cable
54 Utilizations
55 Boy's name
57 Tops
58 Balkan river
59 Handy —
62 Ms. Gardner
63 Tabby

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

LUNCH
Junior Club Sandwich
Fish in batter,
Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Mixed beans Au Gratin
Fish in Batter,
Tartar Sauce

DINNER
Mini egg rolls
Chicken Chow Mein,
Noodles, Soy sauce,
Duc Sauce
Breaded Veal Pattie
Onion Paprika Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Cheese Strata
Mini Egg Rolls
Chicken Chow Mein,
Noodles, Soy sauce,
Duc sauce

Earthfoods

Millet and veggie casserole
Three-bean soup
Rice Bulghar
Green Salad
Yogury fig bars

Ocean Front Hotel Rooms in Lauderdale This Spring Break?

Student Suntrips offers these accomodations right now!

- $114/person/week
- Conveniently located on 'The Strip'

For Reservation Information
Call Toll Free — 1-800-848-9540

Arrangements by Student Suntrips, Inc.

Budweiser Budweiser Florida Breakout

If you live Off-Campus
The Student Senate needs YOU.

Nominations for Commuter Seats CLOSE TODAY
Tuesday, Feb. 26, 1980 5:00 pm
Get Involved!!

Nomination Papers can be picked up at 420 S.U.B.

presents

LENE LOVICH

Thurs. March 13 - 8 PM

Bowker Auditorium

UMass-$5.50-Public-$6.50

Available at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited (UMass) For the Record (Amherst) Platterpus (Northampton)

THE KINKS Thurs. March 6 - FAC - 8PM

TUESDAYS

2 for 1 Night

(All Mixed Drinks)

9-11

Disco/Oldies

No Cover

THE PUB

15 East Pleasant St.

AMHERST

Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Sponsors

Tired of always having to say no?

- Your reading load has jumped 600% since you were a high school senior.
- You spend at least 26 hours each week reading.
- You will be required to do as much work in one college year as you did in 3 years of high school. AND
- You read only 100–400 words per minute.

Why are you still wondering what speed reading is all about? Over one million people have solved the problem you have.

The SYSTEMS 2000 FREE SPEED READING LESSON is here all this week with:

- FREE diagnostic testing
- FREE reading information
- FREE counseling
- FREE glimpse of how it works

SYSTEMS 2000 SPEED READING couldn't be closer or more convenient.

FREE UP AN HOUR FOR US AND WE'LL FREE THE REST OF THE SEMESTER FOR YOU.

Open to all University of Massachusetts students, faculty, staff and friends. All Free Lessons held in the Campus Center at the following times:

MON Feb. 25	TUES Feb. 26	WED Feb. 27	THURS Feb. 28	FRI Feb. 29	SAT Mar. 1
11:30 a 165	12:00 p 905	12:30 p 176	11:30 a 168	12:30 p 165	12:30 p 165
2:00 p 165	2:30 p 905	3:00 p 176	2:00 p 168	3:30 p 165
7:00 p 165	6:30 p 905	6:00 p 176	5:30 p 168	6:30 p 165

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS THE HOUR THAT COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE.

Sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity

You have something to share with the people of the rural South and Appalachia — yourself. Find out how you can help, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or Priest. Your request will be treated confidentially.

- ☐ I'd like information about opportunities with the Glenmary Missioners and the free poster.
- ☐ I'd like a free copy of the poster only.

Glenmary Missioners
Room 21 Box 46404
Cincinnati, Ohio 45246

Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____
Zip_____ Age_____

Gymmen dump Temple

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team ended its season Saturday in Philadelphia with an overwhelming 239.05-181.85 victory over an injury plagued Temple University squad.

The Minutemen opened up a 43.45-38.15 lead after the floor exercise event and never looked back. Dave Buegler led the way scoring an excellent 9.45, while all arounds Hugh O'Neall and Bob Lamb scored an 8.75 and 8.50 respectively. Joe Villarosa earned a 9.25 for Temple, and mate Keith Avery a 9.10.

UMass crushed the Owls by 12 points on the pommel horse to take a commanding 77.70-61.05 lead after the first two events. The depleted Temple club was down to four competitors, against UMass' six. Tim Barry earned an 8.85 to lead the Minutemen to their second event win.

The romp continued on the still rings as Bob Donahue tallied an 8.40 and the Minutemen opened up a 29-point margin. Temple's Scott Bram was high scorer in the event, but once again, Temple had just four gymnasts in the event.

In the vaulting event, which was the only event in which Temple had all six competitors, UMass took a slim 45.30-44.35 win. Lamb earned a 9.45 and O'Neall a 9.20 to lead the visitors to their fourth straight victory. Avery had a 9.40 performance and Hank Horn a 9.10 to lead Temple in their best effort.

UMass blasted the home club by better than ten points on the parallel bars and held a 197.45-157.60 going into the final event. Donahue gave the best performance for UMass, scoring an 8.35. Bram once again led Temple with an 8.75.

Temple had just three competitors in the horizontal bar event, and needless to say, were once again beaten by the strong Minutemen gymnasts. O'Neall earned a 9.10 and Frank Cohen an 8.75 to give UMass its sixth event win and a complete sweep.

The win elevated the UMass final record to 6-3. Donahue, a senior all around, once again broke the 50 barrier in all around competition with a 50.80.

WRITERS TAKE NOTE
THESES • DISSERTATIONS • BOOKS

From the rough draft to the finished copies

VALLEY TYPING DOES IT ALL

If you're writing a large manuscript--thesis, dissertation or book--Valley Typing offers word processing services that save you time and money. When your rough draft is put up on our word processor, you can make revisions quickly and get an error-free final copy without time-consuming (and expensive) manual retyping--and without having to repeatedly proofread your document.

We are taking reservations for spring thesis deadlines--make yours today!

29 S. Pleasant St., Amherst, MA
(above Paper Clip) 256-6736

Valley typing

From Disco to Dorm
Our Perfect Perm $22.50
Wed. Special - Haircut & Blow Dry $8.00
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL 584-0111
od Feb. 25-Mar. 1st

Bluewall Presents

THE SON SEALS BLUES BAND

legendary Chicago blues

TONIGHT! Tues. Feb. 26 9:00 PM
$3 cover charge - club seating
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

RUN FOR OFFICE

Nominations are open for President of the Student Government Association. There are also 10 at-large vacancies for the Student Union Board of Governors and 10 area positions, 1 from each residential area except Southwest which has 2 and the commuters who have 3 seats.

The President shall be responsible for relations between the S.G.A. and the Administration, Faculty and Board of Trustees.

The purpose of the B.O.G. is to be responsible to the varied needs of the University community through the provision of appropriate facilities, activities and servces.

Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the Presidency or B.O.G. Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. The due date for papers is Feb. 28 5:00 for President and Feb. 29 5:00 for B.O.G.

Sports

Olympic impressions

By LOUIE SCHWECHHEIMER
Collegian Staff

Well folks, the show is over. The tiny village of Lake Placid, N.Y. will reduce its hotel and hot dog prices once again as the residents of this resort community in the middle of the Adirondacks return to their basic, unassuming lifestyles.

For the past two weeks, Lake Placid, whose motto, "Welcome World, We're Ready," has been the scene of all the hooplah and pageantry that accompany the Olympics.

From the slopes of Whiteface Mountain to the storefronts of Main Street, one could help but feel the great jubiliation generated by the carnival atmoshpere of the Olympic Games.

Although the dramatic hockey victory by the United States, and the five gold medal performance of Eric Heiden will probably go on to become symbols of this XIII Olympiad, so much will be left unsaid.

Riding the ski lift above Whiteface one could see the uniqueness of it all. As skier after skier left his mark on the viewing world, another world seen only briefly by the cameras truly exemplified the spirit of the Olympic Games.

This other world in essence, was one of people from all nations enjoying and sharing a bit of themselves with people. The scene on Whiteface was typical of the entire Olympic feeling. Athletes talked and mingled with spectators. The Hanni Wenzels and Cindy Nelsons seemed no different than a gang of good ole' boys from Georgia sliding down the slopes with a bottle of Jack Daniels and a big American flag waving behing them.

Walking through Lake Placid one became fondly attached to Main Street. Surrounded by the beauty of Mirror Lake and the now familiar speed skating oval and New Olympic Ice Arena it becomes almost impossible to imaging Lake Placid without the hundreds and thousands of die-hard fans chanting "USA...USA."

As the final ceremonies ended in a blaze of fireworks and trumpets, many memories fill the senses. The drama of Jim Craig's saluting the crowd draped in the American flag stands out, but it is the people and all the color and joy that they bring, that will remain forever.

U.S. Olympic hockey team captain Mike Eruzione is greeted by well-wishers in his home town of Winthrop yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

A UMass playoff game: A contradiction in terms

By DAVE BRADLEY
Collegian Staff

Well, this is it, sort of. The Playoffs. The men's basketball team is in Philadelphia now waiting to place its two-win season on the line against Villanova tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Commentary

What a miserable joke.

Never has the concept of The Playoffs been more misleading than when used in connection with tonight's opening round of the Eastern Athletic Association tournament. UMass, the undisputed cellar dweller in the Eastern Eight apartment, complete with its 23 losses and eratic play, will, compete in the same tournament as teams with records no worse than 13-13. Steve Martin could not come up with a more absurd comedy.

For most students of basketball, The Playoffs call to mind battles such as the sixth game of the 1976 NBA playoffs between the Boston Celtics and the Phoenix Suns which the C's won in triple overtime; or last year's college match-up between Indiana State University's Larry Bird and Michigan State University's "Magic" Johnson. Those were contests between contenders who wanted to prove they were the best.

But tonight's game is the equivelent of Harlem Globetrotters playing the Seattle Supersonics. Ridiculous.

Even if UMass were to win it would be a miscarriage of justice. a fluke. A travesty.

Villanova would have reason to wonder if indeed there is a God.

It's too late now to pin the blame on anyone for the Minutemen's performance this year. Whether it was because first-year coach Ray Wilson did not know how to use the players he had, or the fact that last year's mentor, Jack Leaman, did not recruit much talent or leave the new man with is not important. It does not make much difference now whether individual players gave 100 per cent effort when they were on the court or that they had a mental block about winning. and the probability that UMass oculd have held a basketball game and a track meet at the same time without filling the stands or the oversized garage called Curry Hick's Cage is irrelevent at this point. Because tonight The Playoffs begin, and any team that only wins eight per cent of its games does not belong in them.

One final note: senior co-captain Bill Morrison will not travel to Villianova. Morrison felt he was shown "no respect" by Wilson during his ast game at the Cage Saturday night versus George Washington University. He saw only 11 minutes action, all in the first half. Morrison, one of the more dedicated athletes on the team, said he "stuck with Ray (Wilson)" the whole season and was too discouraged with the coaches actions to continue with the team. it is the team's loss.

Staff Meeting

There will be an important meeting for the Collegian sports staff Thursday night at 6:00 to assign spring beats.

Pedro de la Cruz and his teammates play at Villanova tonight at 8 in the first round of the Eastern Eight Tournament. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Transfer hoopman Whitt likes UM team concept

By FRANK PAPSADORE
Collegian Staff

If you had a basketball scholarship at a division one school, namely twelfth-ranked Clemson University, which plays in the Atlantic Coast Conference, would you give it all up to play for the UMass Minutemen? Keith Whitt did and he is very happy about it.

Whitt is a 6'6" guard from Hanover, where he was a high school superstar. Whitt received numerous awards in high school, including the Hertz Number One Athlete in Massachusetts award. He was named to the Boston Globe and Boston Herald American all-scholastic basketball teams and several scholastic All-America teams including the Pro-Keds, Basketball Weekly and Scholastic Coach Magazine teams.

Whitt left Clemson in order to return home to Massachusetts and the New England lifestyle he loves, he said. He also said that he's happy to playing basketball in the future closer to his family and friends.

"I was recruited my senior year in high school by a few schools," said Whitt, "and I spent 48 hours on the Clemson campus, but I guess it just wasn't enough time to judge the school and the area. I felt socially uncomfortable in the south. Things were just slower there."

Whitt disliked the style of basketball down south. He claimed that it was "a way of life down there.

"There are so few professional sports teams down there that they put greater emphasis on the college teams. In New England it's different with the Celtics and Bruins and such. But teams like Boston College and Holy Cross are changing attitudes about New England basketball. UMass will be right there with them in the future."

Whitt will become eligible to play for UMass next December. He will play a key part in the Minutemen's efforts to turn the UMass basketball program around to it's old winning ways.

"UMass needs a tall second guard opposite the control guard", said Whitt, "I've got a pretty good outside shot, it's probably my best asset, but I just hope to help the team out in any way I can."

Whitt checked other New England schools before coming here, but picked UMass as the place he'd best like to go.

"I looked at Boston University/ and Providence College," continued Whitt, "but

Keith Whitt

I was really impressed with the "team concept' here at UMass. I also like Coach Wilson. He's a good coach and a good person. I hope to be playing ball for him and UMass for the next three years."

Whitt says that the present UMass team has a lot of talent but is just caught up in tough times, and inexperience.

"It's a very young team," said Whitt, "so there's a lot of hope for the future. I feel that UMass can become a great basketball school again very soon. We're going to be surprising quite a few people."

Whitt is a business major at UMass. He claims that playing basketball in no way hampers his studies.

"I play basketball because I get to go to school for free," laughed Whitt, "No, but seriously, I love basketball. You get good recognition, meet great people, and it can really help you after you graduate. Not just if you make the pros or anything like that, but even in just getting a job. Because of basketball, I'll have a bachelor's degree in business to fall back on."

After his scholling days are over, Whitt hopes to participate in the professional ranks.

"It'd be nice to play in the NBA," said Whitt, whose favorite team is the Boston Celtics, "But that's way in the future. I'm pretty sure, though, that by the time I get out of UMass, I'll be able to play pro ball overseas, at least."

Keith Whitt is just getting off an ankle injury and is starting to get to know the UMass players and their style of play. He insists that he hasn't been playing up to his potential but will certainly be ready for next year and the new UMass basketball season. It'll be coming home time for both Keith and UMass.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 92 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Wednesday, February 27, 1980

New Hampshire GOP (266 of 299 precincts) Democrats

Reagan	Bush	Baker	Anderson	Connally	Crane	Dole	Carter	Kennedy	Brown
51%	22%	13%	10%	2%	2%	0%	50%	37%	10%

Reagan, Carter win in N.H.vote

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Carter defeated Sen. Edward Kennedy in New Hampshire's presidential primary election yesterday night, but the Democratic challenger conceded nothing. Ronald Reagan won the Republican primary in a landslide over George Bush, and reclaimed command of the race for the GOP nomination.

Kennedy, in what amounted to a celebration of defeat, told cheering supporters that his campaign issues will take hold in the big industrial states to come.

With almost 95 percent of the vote counted, Carter was gaining half the vote, and led Kennedy by a comfortable 12 percentage points in a primary that drew a large voter turnout.

Son Chip relayed the president's thanks to Carter supporters at a Manchester victory celebration, and Robert Strauss, chairman of the Carter campaign, said, "Every time we win a state, it's a signal for the world of the reaffirmation of the unity the people have behind this president."

Carter's triumph was magnified by the fact that it came next door to Kennedy's own Massachusetts. It was the third defeat Carter had dealt Kennedy, who has yet to win a presidential campaign contest.

And it left Kennedy at the brink of political collapse with no place to go but home, to the Massachusetts primary one week away.

With 94 percent of the precincts counted, Democratic returns showed:

Carter 48,433 or 49 percent.

Kennedy 37,385 or 38 percent.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. 9,636 or 10 percent.

Two minor candidates got scattered support.

That translated into 10 Democratic nominating votes for Carter, 9 for Kennedy. In previous contests in Iowa and Maine, Carter had gained 45 nominating votes to Kennedy's 27.

In the Republican contest, with 93 percent of the precincts counted, it was:

Reagan 66,136 or 51 percent.

Bush 29,263 or 23 percent.

Sen. Howard Baker Jr., 16,626 or 13 percent; Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, 12,775 or 10 percent; Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois 2,287 or 2 percent; and former Texas Gov. John Connally 1,965 or 1 percent.

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas was dead last, with 530 votes, and he virtually dropped out of the race, saying he will enter no more primaries. "Obviously there's not much of a campaign out there," Dole said in Washington.

Former President Gerald R. Ford had 348 write-in votes.

The New Hampshire results put Reagan in the lead for 15 of New Hampshire's GOP nominating votes, Bush had 5 and Baker 2. Bush went into New Hampshire with 17 delegates, Reagan with 9, Baker with 5 and Connally with 1.

While New Hampshire held its keynote primary, Minnesota held precinct caucuses beginning the process of selecting 75 Democratic national convention delegates and 34 Republican delegates. Carter was expected to easily win a Democratic straw vote.

In Manchester, with his family at his side, Kennedy told supporters, "Well, we got almost 40 percent of the vote. Four years ago, Jimmy Carter got 28 percent of the vote and he claimed victory and we're claiming victory tonight."

Amherst

Town caucuses pick candidates

By SEAN HARVEY
and MARK FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Francesca Maltese, Donald M. Routh, Chauncy T. Simmons and William A. Ezbicki emerged out of a seven candidate field in caucuses yesterday and will compete for two seats on the Board of Selectmen April 8.

In a race for Housing Authority posts, Nancy E. Gillis, with 849 votes, and Rosemary Ix Morgan with 414 votes, were selected from three candidates to compete in the general election.

Maltese was the top vote-getter with 789 votes, incumbent Donald M. Routh was next with 763 votes, Simmons next with 550 votes and Ezbicki was next with 510 votes.

Fifteen percent of the town's 12,309 registered voters turned out.

UMass Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice, also a candidate, finished sixth with 218 votes and UMass Civil Engineering Department Chairman Clive L. Dym finished fifth with 246 votes. Frank W. Sanders was last with 199 votes.

"I didn't assume anything," Routh said. "I am happily surprised for myself. I am surprised LaVoice and Dym did not have such a strong showing."

Routh said he thought the reason for their poor showing was because the caucus came shortly after it was announced.

"I am pleasantly surprised," Ezbicki said.

TURN TO PAGE 14

Poll tests UM opinions

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

UMass students are equally divided between President Jimmy Carter and Senator Edward Kennedy as their choice for the Democratic Presidential nomination and favor George Bush for the Republican nomination, according to a survey released yesterday.

Preliminary results of the survey, conducted last week for the Collegian by Project Pulse of the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office, show that out of 190 undergraduate students contacted, 15 percent of those registered to vote in Massachusetts favor Carter while 15 percent also favor Kennedy. The survey did not delineate between parties.

On the Republican ticket, 12.7 percent of the registered voters favored Bush, while 6.9 percent favored John Anderson and 0.6 percent equally favored John Connally and Ronald Reagan.

Twenty-six and one half percent of the students said that if the election were held tomorror, they would vote for Carter, while 21.2 percent favored Bush and 21.1 percent Kennedy.

Ten percent of the students said they would not vote if the election were held tomorrow.

Students were also surveyed as to their feelings on current issues.

Opinions on President Carter's call for selective service registration were divided, with 50 percent opposed to registration and Strolling Sue Parker enjoys a quiet stroll down tree-lined Green Street in 'ront o' Forbes Library in Northampton. Sta'' photo by Amira Rahman).

TURN TO PAGE 14

DIGEST

Iran allows reporters' return

Associated Press

Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council has decided all foreign journalists are welcome in the country once they have received the approval of the Iranian Embassy in their home country.

Council spokesman Hassan Habibi made the announcement last night in Tehran without referring specifically to U.S. reporters, banned six weeks ago for alleged biased reporting.

Israel, Egypt open relations

Egypt and Israel established full diplomatic relations for the first time yesterday, a day hailed in Cairo and Jerusalem as a major chapter in the history of peace but denounced in much of the Arab world as a day of betrayal.

As ambassadors from the former enemies presented their credentials in the two capitals, Palestinian Arabs protested by closing down business and schools in the Israeli-occupied territories, Moslems staged similar strikes in parts of Lebanon, and all traffic in Syria came to a standstill for five minutes at midday. Protesters clashed with riot police in Sudan.

New York youths tackle shooting suspect Bernard Proctor as police officer Peter Mulligan arrives yesterday. Police said Proctor short at Mulligan and an off-duty transit officer after causing a disturbance on a bus. (AP Laserphoto)

Court upholds worker rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — American workers have a legal right to refuse to perform tasks they reasonably consider too dangerous, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The court upheld a federal regulation that bars employer retaliation against workers who base their refusals on a belief that the assigned tasks present an immediate danger of death or serious injury.

The 1973 regulation "clearly conforms to the fundamental objective" of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 — "to prevent occupational deaths and serious injuries," Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the court.

Flood given year's probation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Daniel J. Flood was sentenced to a year's probation yesterday after pleading guilty to conspiracy under a plea-bargain arrangement with federal prosecuters.

Flood, 76, stood bowed and trembling before the bench as U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch announced he would accept the plea, thus ending the ailing ex-congressman's two years of legal strife.

Radioactive spill triggers shutdown at Florida plant

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (AP) —A reactor at a nuclear power plant shut down automatically yesterday when the plant's instrumentation and control systems lost power and some radioactive cooling water was spilled inside the plant, said officials of Florida Power Corp.

There was no leakage of radioactive material outside the Crystal River No. 3 plant and no danger to the public, said the utility and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Some employees were evacuated from the plant after a site emergency was declared.

"There has been no measured off-site release of radioactive material," said an NRC statement issued in Washington. It said conditions at the plant "appear to be stable."

NRC spokeswoman Sue Gagner said in Washington that the radioactive water was confined to the containment building, which houses the reactor. There was no immediate estimate on the amount of water spilled.

"The nuclear unit tripped off line at approximately 2:30 p.m. when a power loss occurred in the instrumentation and control system. This resulted in the emergency systems being automatically activated and shuttigg down," said Florida Power spokesman William C. Johnson at the utility's headquarters in St. Petersburg.

"It worked beautifully," Johnson said. "That's what it was supposed to do."

The unit, which provides about 20 percent of the utility's generating capacity, was manufactured by Babcock & Wilcox, the same firm that made the nuclear unit which malfunctioned at Three Mile Island near Harrisburg, Pa., last March 28.

Johnson said the incident at Crystal River "has no relationship at all to anything that has happened to any other plant."

He said the utility had notified the state about the incident at the plant, located on the Gulf Coast about 60 miles north of Tampa.

The NRC's emergency response center in Bethesda, Md., was activated and five NRC inspectors from the Southeast regional office were sent to the Crystal River plant.

Afghanistan riots

NEW DELHI, India

Forces loyal to Afghanistan's beleagured Marxist government swept through Kabul yesterday and arrested large numbers of Shiite Moslems for their suspected role in violent anti-Soviet riots last week, according to reports reaching here from reliable sources in the Afghan capital.

However, official Radio Kabul broadcasts promising shopkeepers protection if they returned to work and urging government workers to go back to their jobs suggested both strikes against the government were continuing.

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
UNION VIDEO CENTER
featuring tapes by:
FRANK GILLETTE
SKIGAKO KOBUTO
NAM JUNE PAIK
and many others

MON. FEB. 25—SAT. MARCH 1
ON THE ADVENT VIDEO BEAM
HOURS: 1-4 PM AND 7-11 PM
ROOMS 162-9 CAMPUS CENTER
PUBLIC INVITED—NO CHARGE

SHAMPOO
starring: Warren Beatty
Goldie Hawn
THURSDAY, FEB. 28
Mahar Aud. (UMass) $1
7:00, 9:00, 11:00

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Wednesday
STEVE SPELLMAN
All Night Balloon Special
6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 P.M.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

It's not too late!
Bermuda $249.00
Includes Air fare, trans. to and from airport and accomodations.
Call Peter or Gary 5-0210 or Dan 549-5621

Ski
Sugarbush and Sugarbush North
UMASS SKI CLUB
SATURDAY MARCH 3
$15 includes
LIFT TICKET (INTERCHANGEABLE)
& TRANSPORTATION
MILK & DONUTS - UP
CHEESE & CRACKER - BACK
$5 NON REFUNDABLE DEPOSIT
DEPARTURES
Hasbrouck
4:45 AM
Southwest
5:00 AM
SIGN-UPS
Ski Club Office
CC 106
545-3437

A career in law—
without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 3,000 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12

The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Paralegal, Inc.
Approved by the American Bar Association.

University &
Office Supplies
Table Tennis Balls
Paddles & Nuts
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

GOING SOUTH?

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

WFCR tackles program problem

By MARYANNE MICCHELLI
Collegian Staff

Amherst radio station WFCR-FM's Board of Directors approved a resolution yesterday that would form an advisory committee to work with Station Manager Barry Goldfarb in broadcasting more programming related to minorities, especially the Spanish speaking community.

The group will include student and faculty representatives from the Five College area, as well as representatives from the community at large.

The meeting was attended by students and faculty who only minutes before had gathered in the Campus Center Concourse to protest Goldfarb's recent rescheduling of the Spanish oriented program Que Tal, Amigos.

Goldfarb had rescheduled the program to a late night time period, limiting the program to only two nights a week, effective March 31. He told board members that listeners had complained Que Tal, Amigos was scheduled too frequently and at an inappropriate time.

"Some parts of the Hispanic community believe that WFCR has shown bad faith, or intends to abandon its commitment to Hispanic culture," Goldfarb said.

The formation of the advisory group was suggested by UMass Spanish professor Juan Zamora and supported by board member E. Jefferson Murphy.

Speaking at the meeting, UMass Anthropology Professor and Hispanic Faculty Association President Orial Pi-Sunyer called the program "excellent, superior and first-rate." Pi-Sunyer said the information provided on Que Tal Amigos is often of a type that is not carried by commercial stations."

Smith College Economics Professor Andrew Zimbalist, who circulated a letter generating support among Smith faculty, referred to Goldfarb's move as "anti-democratic." Zimbalist added "Latin American music is nice, even if I don't understand it."

Donald Graypel of the Center for International Education said Que Tal, Amigos is important to "white, middle-class people who need their eyes opened to the real world around them."

After hearing the speakers, Goldfard said that the number of organizations he heard were "significant" and said although his decision "seems to be permanent, it wasn't meant to take something away."

Board Chairman Daniel Melley said he felt the board should "start fresh" and take examination of the needs of the community.

The board Graypel of a May 10 deadline for Goldfarb and the advisory group to arrive at a solution to the scheduling problem.

Grace

Diane Flaherty, UMass Prof. of Economics, enjoyed her free time figure skating in North Amherst yesterday. (Staff photo by Tim Connors)

GSS decides budget

Decrease from '80 brings cost cutting in personnel dept.

By SUZY CHAN
Special to the Collegian

The Graduate Student Senate held its first budget meeting for fiscal year 1981 last night, agreeing on appropriations for their $126,000 budget allotment.

According to GSS President Monte Pearson, the total revenues received by the GSS are $12,440 less than the 1980 budget.

Decisions on the services and operatons sections of the budget were made at the meeting. Services are the salaries of staff members and operations are various office expenditures.

In the services section of the budget, some modifications were made to cut down the overall personnel costs. According to a memo released by the GSS, the four elected officers; president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer will each receive the same salary during the academic year as a Teaching Assistant, but there will be a cut in the summer employee salary for the next fiscal year.

During the summer, only two officers will be paid. Over $17,000 will be appropriated for the student payroll which includes salaries for the four elected officers and two work studey positions.

Two work-study positions are open to qualified graduate and undergraduate students. The funds are a 20 percent match for federal work-study money and are set at $4.00 per hour for a 10 work week over the 20 week academic year.

The GSS approved $35,562.61 for total services among which $17,520 for student payroll, $15,002.61 for professional services and $3,040 for an audit which started last fall. The audit was imposed by the University Board of Trustees on the Graduate Senate.

For total operations cost, $8,550 was approved by the GSS. Of this, $4,000 is for student support, $1,850 for administrative expenses, $1,700 for the special supplies office and the rest is set for other expenses maintained by the Senate.

An application requesting Revenue Sharing funds was given to Senators for each department. The completed applications must be submitted to the Graduate Senate office by April 25.

According to Pearson, a series of stress workshops approved by the senate last week, will begin this Friday.

Graduate Student Senate President Monte Pearson addresses the senate Budget Committee while Lena Opas, vice-president, looks on. Staff photo by Amira Rahman).

UM staff women display art works

By TRACY CHAMBERLAIN
Special to the Collegian

What are those faceless female bureaucrats taking out of their windows, closets; off their walls and easels, and dragging into the Student Union Gallery in big plastic garbage bags?

In celebration of International Women's Week, original art works by University women staff members are on display in the Student Union Gallery now through March 1.

The exhibit includes stained glass, batik, photography, oil and watercolor paintings, pastel and pen and ink drawings and hanging tapestries.

"This is an excellent opportunity for women artists at the University who aren't in school or working toward their MFA," said Micheline Bousquet, part-time painter and full-time coordinator for the "504 Volunteer Program for Handicapped Students." This is the first time the University has provided its employees with the opportunity to exhibit their art work on campus, she said.

The show also seems to be providing communication between women artists at UMass.

"It's stimulating," said Miriam Leader, photographer and secretary in the Environmental Institute research unit. "It's interesting to see what other people are doing."

This week the Student Union Art Gallery is featuring original art work by UMass women staff members. Artists Micheline Bousquet and Peggy Pinky, co-director of the Gallery, admire Bousquet's work. (Staff photo by Leslie Moreland)

Black Affairs

The New Earth Ensemble provided the musical entertainment for the re-dedication of the Malcolm X Center on Thursday, February 21. The program included poetry with accompaniment as well. Thanks is extended to the performers and the Malcolm X staff. (Photo by Edward Cohen)

Celebrating the legend of a great leader

By MARLENE DUNCAN
Black Affairs Staff

On Thursday evening, Feb. 21, in recognition of the assasination of the honorable El Hadj Malik Shabazz, the Malcolm X Center in Southwest had it's annual re-dedication ceremonies. The event was composed of literearу pieces and exhibitons of the artistic talents of the Pioneer Valley.

Tony Crayton, the master of ceremonies, with the assistance of communications corrdinator, Julie Robertson, introduced a six member troupe from New York who expressed the multi-faceted nature of the Black experience.

Names of the entertainers are: Frieda Jones, Duma Mdlovu, Kurt Iampkin – poetry, Simon Nkosi, Kevin Jones – drums, brother Steve on bass. Through poetic translucence accompained by string and percussion instruments they delighted the community and emphasized the necessity of solidarity and group identity.

Political and brilliant in nature, the performers expressed their sentiments on the current situation in South Africa and its reciprocol conditons in the United States. the oppression that we, as a people, continue to suffer is exemplary of the rugged and often times disheartening path of struggle which we are destined to fulfill.

"What is wrong with the Black youth of American?" Are we rapidly losing the stigma associated with our history? Are we slowly becoming heartless and spiritless? Where and who are our leaders? One's goals are determinant of one's values and ultimately of one's definition of success. Once we have outlined our ambitions and diligently strive to correct some of the faults in our personal characters we will become more disiplined and have directon. In the words of Frieda Jones "the Black family is all that we have and it is the first element attacked".

The evidence of our intlligence and relentlessness can be seen in the lives of George and Jonathon Jackson, Malcolm, Garvey, Biko, and countless others who defiantly attacked the systems which perpetuate racism. Collectively we represent a force so buoyant – it is overwhelming to image the power and strength we are capable of.

Through their poetry they made an appeal to the freedom fighters of the world and questioned who in reality are the terrorists? When will we be free to express and celebrate the lives of Black people? To give tribute to the Black woman – Nonkululeko – "daughter of freedom"? "Getting justice is harly enough", but knowing how to productively love and work with each other to consolidate our pride and dignity in ourselves is the essence of liberation.

Concluding the event, The "New Earth Ensemble", composed of brothers: Marvin, Ujamaa, Behki, Mark, Kahlil, and Pavell, musically shed intellectual and spiritual light on the conditions and sentiments of Black people of the world.

As in its past Years, the Malxolm X Center, continues to expose the community to information about events and issues detrimental to our existance on this campus – in this world. We give recognition to its patriots and progressive staff.

No winners claim money

Below are the answers to last week's Black history month crossword puzzle. Because we had no takers for the prize money we will be saving the funds for future contests to appear later in the year in Black Affairs.

The staff of Black Affairs hopes that reader participation will increase.

ACROSS
1. U.S. conflict between the North and the South
2. Mandingo nation of the 17th century
3. King of Mali noted for his Hajj
4. African country east of the Sudan, north of Kenya
5. The "Louisville Lip"
6. Most ancient name for Africa
7. 1936 Olympic gold medalist
8. First Balck brigadier general
9. One reason for the explointation of South Africa
10. 20th century painter of pictoral histories
11. Agency most responsible for the murder of Patrice Lumumba
12. Large black organization in U.S. history (initials)
13. Bill Robinson
14. Author of God's Trombone

DOWN
1. Capital of the Republic of South Africa
2. Black ancient Egyptian Queen
3. First independent Black nation in the western hemisphere
4. Satchmo
5. Black capital of the world
6. Derived over 300 products from the peanut.
7. Muslims belong to the Nation of ...
8. Africa is one of seven...
9. Black Americans are descendents of ...

'Que Tal Amigos' conflict unsolved

By RENEE MOBLEY
Collegian Staff

An estimated 60 to 70 persons demonstrated yesterday at 1:00 on the Campus Center concourse against proposed cutbacks in the Hispanic program "Que Tal Amigos", a cultural and educational program aired by WFCR.

At 1:30 Students, Faculty and professors, representing all of the five colleges, presented their grievences about the program cutback. Also present at the two hour meet were the Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council and Robert Goldfarb, General Manager of WFCR.

A series of speakers criticized Goldfarb in his decision to cut the program that is now aired five days a week from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. to two days a week from 11:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.

They pointed out the fact that Goldfarb is new to the area and in making his decison he was unaware of the numbers in the community that would be effected.

One speaker displayed over 150 letters that praised the content and caliber of the program, while there were about forty letters that criticized the contents or time setting of "Que Tal Amigos".

Professors of Spanish Department at UMass and other colleges pointed out the usefulness of the program as a teaching aid. Professors and tutors instruct their classes to listen to the program to accustom themselves to the sounds and accents of the Spanish language. Such a practice will become difficult with the late hours.

"Students in their second semester of Spanish really need to listen to this type of work" said Marta Guevara, daughter of UMass Spanish professor Victor Guevara.

According to Ms. Guevara, "the meeting was excellent. Everybody who spoke was in favor of the program," she said.

Whether the overwhelming support of the community will have an effect on Goldfarbs decision is unclear. He has not promised to reinstate "Que Tal Amigos" at it's original time slot nor has he said he would allow the program to have it's original five hours per day.

Goldfarb did agree to help set up an advisory committee composed of community volunteers and the board seemed supportive of the program but was unable to offer a concrete solution.

The demonstrators did not come away from the meeting with all of their demands met. Whether they will continue the stuggle for the prime time, 25 hour a week slot, remains to be seen.

Announcements

Interview

BMCP's interview with Queen Mother Moore will be aired on WMUA at 6 p.m. Thursday February 28.

Game night

Fun and Games Night at the Malcolm X Center.
Date: Thursday February 28, 1980.
Time: 7:00 PM – until.
The games will include:
Pool – Backgammon – Cards – Ping-pong

Slide show

The slide presentation of te the "Children of Africa" will take place tonight at 8 p.m., Lumumba Hut, New Africa House. The presentation consists of a combination of slides on children from W. Africa to S. Africa and is set to music. The presentation will be done by Eshu Elegba.

Visit
TACO LINDO
At Cafe Square
at
The Hampshire Mall
SPECIAL THIS WEEK
2 Tacos & Soft Drink $1.85

THER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Editorial/Opinion

Whitmore's VIRUS is a costly illness

I just got over the flu a week ago, stayed in bed with a runny nose and scratchy throat, andelse. The Housing Administration calls it the VIRUS but, thus far, the symptoms haven't caused me any pain. Rumor has it that VIRUS was cultivated in Whitmore last semester to satisfy student demands for privacy, peace and quiet, and study space.

NANCY MAFFUCCI

Yet, something tells me the VIRUS resulted from faltering financial statements and University enrollment.

VIRUS stands for Variably Increasing Rate Utilization Structure – whatever that means. Some say that this disease will allow studnets to choose whether they want to room with someone else or whether they want to live alone. This choice costs a mere $50-$75 a semester. It also means that the single room which you have been living in will cost more next semester even though no improvements have been made – not even a coat of paint or new carpeting.

Nevertheless, the Housing Office is doing its best to promote VIRUS as a student benefit program. Director of Housing Placement Gerald Quarels said that the program is designed to meet a growing student demand for single living accomodations. Until recently, the housing office never seemed so eager to help remedy other problems facing students living in the residential hall system. On the surface the program will alleviate the high student demand for single living conditions. Anyone who qualifies within a particular residence hall system will be granted a single. But smarten-up UMies, the administrative motivation to meet the student need is financially based.

It seems obvious that if the administration wanted to fulfill students' demands, it could have improved the sense of community in the residence hall system and increased staffing, renovated more of the dormitories, created public space within the dormitory, and improved on the other inadequacies. Of course, such improvements are financially impossible, but in order to attract future students, we must improve upon what we have and not perpetuate the somewhat satisfactory conditions. In some ways the VIRUS plan will benefit the students and the University. But why does the administration have to sugar-coat an essentially fiscal plan as a student benefit?

Since room-choosing is just a few weeks away, VIRUS will undergo the ultimate test. Let's hope that it causes no ill side effects like loneliness, apathy, and anti-sociability.

On having radioactive advantage

Ever since the Three Mile Island mishap in Middletown, Pa., it seems that wherever one looks he, or she, will find an anti-nuke article, protest, poster, or person fanatically downgrading the evils of nuclear power.

It is truly unfortunate that these individuals behind the anti-nuke movement are so ignorant to the benefits of a nuclear powered America. I say this not as an instigator attempting to anger those who believe in their nuclear free cause, but as one who can speak from experience.

JIMMY ALLISON III

Although I shall soon be a Massachusetts resident, I was raised in the small town of Camp Hill, Pa. Camp Hill is two miles from Harrisburg, Pa. and a fifteen minute drive, at most, from the Three Mile Island plant in Middletown. Unfortunately, at the time of this accident I was attending college at the University of South Florida. However, upon my return home for a brief visit in the summer of 1979 I immediately saw how beneficial this supposedly terrible occurence was to my family.

My younger brother, Bill, who had been a mere high school student, now supplied our home with electricity. By simply placing the plug of a household appliance in his mouth, or elsewhere, the appliance would work as efficiently as it always had. I was amazed that my mother could new fry eggs as well as cook a variety of other meals on Bill's forehead rather than bother with the now useless stove. Everything that had once been dependent upon electricty to function no longer required it. Consequently, my mother had the costly utility disconnected, for, thanks to Bill, our home was now energy safe sufficient.

The good fortune of living so close to Three Mile Island does not end here, my friends.

My sister at the time of this "accident" had been heavy with child and three months later I became a proud uncle. This child was different from most children for it was cylindrical in shape and was only a foot long (not including its 9 inch tail). It was covered with auburn hair, had several small horns upon which appeared to be its head, and a long pink tongue which usually remained extended.

To most people this would appear to be an atrocity. However, after leading American doctors had examined this unique offspring, they found that all it required to survive was a diet of Vaseline and yogurt. Furthermore, these Doctors have discovered that his child also posseses a higher level of intelligence not found in the conventional human being. My sister has been informed by the doctors that her child is the human to be. Although my nephew's form may seem strange to us, it is merely to better cope with our nuclear powered future.

It may seem that the favorable changes in my family's life cannot go on, however, they most certainly do.

My father, in February of 1977, was informed that he had a malignant brain tumor the size of a grapefruit. Our family had completely given up hope and my poor father was just waiting to die. Three Mile Island changed al that. After this so called "awful" radiation leak, it was found that although my father's brain was now only one fourth it's original size, the tumor was gone. Even though dear old Dad must now be cared for like a child, this gift from God has given him many years of fulfilling life to look forward to.

I could go on and on and on about the wonderful things my family has experienced since that fatefuld day in 1979, but I am sure that I have made my point. My only wish is that people would take everything into consideraton before they attempt to stop something which is so beautiful Please, think twice and help rather than hinder such a magnificent scient.

I have seen the benefits of what has so wrongully been called an evil, and I must say that I, for one, am thnkful that such a thing as nuclear power does exist.

Jimmy Allison III is a Collegian guest columnist.

Letters

Dear Mr. Schmitt: Are you in Alaska?

To the Editor:

Mr. Schmitt, could you please tell me just who the hell you are? Do you work for the student government yourself? You spoke with the conviction of a man who has some special knowledge of the situation, but after I read your letter I had to conclude that you, are somewhere in Alaska. I represent John Adams on the Student Senate, and I'll be the first to admit that some of the accusations made in the Field Document are true. But it's also true that most of the central actors in those scams are no longer around, either because they graduated or they were caught and forced to resign.

How long are we going to be blamed for the mistakes of our predecessors? All the senators that I've had the pleasure to work with are honest, hard-working people. We're human and we make mistakes, but we get royally pissed when we hear people who never do anything themselves tear apart the SGA because of a few rotten apples.

The SGA manages a lot of student activities and manages them well. I suggest that anyone with doubts stop by the SCERA office. Instead of finding a bunch of crooks hanging around with their hands in the cookie jar, you will see a lot of students volunteering valuable hours in an attempt to improve student government.

Just think. If we didn't work on student government, we'd have the time to write articles on how badly someone else is running it.

Ken Marquis
John Adams

Olympics boring? Reader thinks not

To the Editor:

I am in total disagreement with Chris Schmitt's column, "Bored with Olympiad," (Collegian 2/21/80). First of all, how in God's name can anybody be bored with the Olympics? It is only once in every four years that we are able to see the best athletes from all over the world competing with one another in a variety of sports at a set time and a set place. Granted, these athletes are people just like you and me, but they have devoted the last eight to ten years of their lives striving for perfection; perfection in the one sport that probably means more to them than almost anything.

Secondly, the fact that our government doesn't financially support any of our athletes as compared to the foreign countries is challenge enough to see how our teams and athletes will fare. Certainly the USA doesn't bring home the bulk of the medals, but what they do bring home, they have the satisfaction of knowing that they accomplished it without somebody waving green paper in their faces.

Thirdly, how can anyone not be touched after watching the USA Hockey Team's wins over Russia, Czechoslavakia and Finland. Phil Mahre's superior skiing performance after being told that he would never be able to ski again. Eric and Beth Heiden's victories in the speed skating competitions. The spiritedness of the spectators and the overbrimming happiness of the athletes was enough to set my blood racing.

Perhaps there is a sporting event that Schmitt might enjoy. It's one that doesn't involve any European competitors, nor are these athletes supported by the government for their participation. This sporting event is called the Battle of the Network Stars and sounds like something that might be right up Schmitt's alley.

Sheryl Hutchenson
Puffton Village

Humor stripped from prior cartoon

To the Editor:

Does M.J. Galper have any artistic integrity?

It is obvious that he is trying, however unsuccessfully, to imitate Rob Ranney's cartooning style. Can't he write his own jokes? Can't he create his own drawing technique? Rob may be flattered by this imitation, but I doubt it. Although I miss Rob's strip I find no humor in cheap imitations.

C. Asbury
Sunderland

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief · JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor · FREDERIC M. KEELOR, Business Manager · JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor · ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor · LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor · RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor · JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor · SUZ TTE GOLDMAN, Graphics Manager · JIM DEGNAN, Sports Editor · JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The staff is responsible for all news judgments and for faculty member to approve any story prior to publication.
Opinions expressed are those of the editors, administration, student body, or advertisers. Signed editorials represent the opinion of the editors, and boards represent the opinion of the respective boards.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Reproduction of these editorials does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print every effort made to rectify any inaccuracy for which responsibility for any publication lies with the editorial staff.
USPS 333 220

More stories about game shows and tape recordings

Editors note – The conclusion of the David Johansen interview was omitted from yesterday's Collegian. It went as follows:

Part Two

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

About 1:30 p.m., my friend and I began ordering drinks and sipping them slowly, so as to be allowed to remain, like the privileged elite, at an establishment known for such culinary delights as "HoJo Cola."

The band entered. No Johansen. Guitartist Frankie G. called me over, with a warm "Good morning." He apologized for the previous night, telling me Johansen was drunk and just "having a good time."

At 2:30, Johansen entered after drying his hair. I had gone back to my table and was waiting for the word. Flynn came over, gave me back the tape, we exchanged a few words and he left, obviously disappointed at having to perform a polite gesture.

After a few minutes, I went back to their table and offered the "star" a firm handshake, apologizing if I offended him or his entourage. He's eating a tuna on rye or a turkey on whole wheat or vice-versa. (I don't remember, my friend grabbed the dinner check for a

TURN TO PAGE 15

Fresh Summer Salad in February?

You can make it happen with this super special on seedless grapes, and this recipe for molded waldorf salad (reprinted with permission from Pillsbury Kitchens Family Cookbook).

These nutritious seedless grapes are really special. Their quality is right. And a temporary market decline allows us to offer them at a much lower price than you've been paying.

MOLDED WALDORF SALAD WITH ORANGE CREAM DRESSING

SALAD
3-oz. pkg. cherry, raspberry or strawberry flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cranberry juice or water
1 medium apple, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 4 cup chopped walnuts or pecans

DRESSING
1 4 cup whipping cream, whipped or 1 2 cup frozen whipped topping thawed
1 2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 3 cup orange marmalade or 2 tblsp. frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

In medium bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cranberry juice; mix well. Stir in remaining Salad ingredients. Pour into oiled 5-1/2 cup mold or 8-inch square pan. Chill until firm, about 2 hours.

In small bowl, fold together Dressing ingredients, blend well. Cover and chill. To serve, unmold or cut into squares. Top with Dressing. 6 to 8 servings.

Finast

Imported Thompson Seedless White Grapes 99¢ lb.

Prices effective thru Sat., March 1, 1980
We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors. Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

FREE
one 20 oz. loaf Finast
Round Top White Bread
when you buy (1) 20 oz. loaf at the regular price of 45¢
You Get 2 For 45¢

FREE
one 20 oz. pkg.
Frozen-Cheese LaPizzeria Pizza
when you buy (1) 20 oz. pkg. at the regular price of $2.43
You Get 2 For $2.43
Finast

Minute Maid Orange Juice half gallon carton 99¢

Homogenized Milk
Finast half gallon carton 79¢
New You Low-Fat or Trim Line No Fat
Finast

Finast Hadley Beer & Wine Shoppe!
Case of 24-12 oz. cans Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer $5.95
Case of 24-12 oz. cans Budweiser Beer $6.95
Pink Chablis, Vine Rose' or Burgundy Carlo Rossi 4 liter bottle Wines $3.25

Hi-C Drinks
Orange, Grape or Fruit Punch half gallon bottle 79¢

Farm Fresh Whole Chickens
2-1/2 to 3 lb. average 45¢ lb.
Split or Quartered w/Giblets lb. 51¢
Finast

Colonial Sliced Bacon
Regular, Maple or Sugarless
1 lb. pkg. 99¢

Perdue Whole Chickens
2-1/2 to 3 lb. average 55¢ lb.
Split or Quartered w/Giblets lb. 61¢
Finast

Turkey Breast
A Frozen 4 to 7 lb. average $1.09 lb.

Fresh Green Peas
39¢ lb.

FIRST O'THE FRESH

Fresh Bananas
29¢ lb.

The UMass Music Theatre Guild
Presents
 An Evening with Rodgers & Haurt ***
A Musical Revue
At the Top of the Campus Lounge
Thurs. Feb. 28, Fri. Feb. 29
No Cover Charge

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

ACCOUNTING, ECONOMICS, PHYSICS, MATH, STATISTICS, SPANISH, COMMUNICATION STUDIES, CHEMISTRY, POLITICAL SCI, BUSINESS LAW, PHILOSOPHY, MARKETING, BUS ADMIN 210

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and/or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and/or during the evening. (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor)
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of the subject area, previous tutoring and/or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired but not necessary.
APPLICATIONS: are available in New Africa House, room 217.

THERE'S A REASON NURSES GET MORE RESPONSIBILITY IN THE NAVY. THEY'RE NAVY OFFICERS.

One side of her collar is the symbol of the Nurse Corps. On the other is the insignia of a Navy officer.

It makes a difference.

Navy nurses are responsible not only for the care of their patients, but for the training and supervision of hospital corpsmen and other clinical and administrative personnel. Their choice of specialties is from thirteen different fields, with positions in twenty-six cities. They earn an excellent salary, top benefits, and that one intangible that money can't buy—the pride and respect of a Navy officer.

For the complete story, speak to your local recruiter.

Navy Nurse Corp Representative, Lt. Jim Wayne, will be on campus February 28 & 29. You may also contact him: Navy Officer Programs, Leo W. O'Brien Federal Bldg., Albany, NY 12207 Phone (518) 472-4424

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

BELOW THE SALT

"Art is the most intense mode of individualism the world has ever known."—Oscar Wilde

VOL.VIII ISSUE 1 Wednesday, February 27, 1980 University of Massachustts

Taj Mahal: What's goin' on

By ROB HUFFMAN
Salt Staff

It's been 16 albums since Taj Mahal left the University of Massachusetts for California and a career in music. Talking with Taj before and after the show, Feb. 14, I found the man to be warm, gregarious, and eager to speak with the people who had found their way backstage.

At dinner, he filled his 6'5" frame with enormous quantities of food, although he refused to eat his salad after mistakenly smothering it with a very popular brand of French dressing, finding the taste repulsive. He was speaking quite animatedly about his recent trip to Africa (which is another story in itself), and eventually consented to talk about some issues closer to home.

RH: How ya doin'
TM: Pretty good.
RH: Welcome back; I was talking to you earlier, and you seem to have some kind of an idea of a cure for the common cold.
TM: Oh yeah, well basically whatcha need to do is stop eating. First of all, number one: increase your liquids and juices. Orange juice, papaya juice, pineapple juice, grapefruit juiice, and water, and teas, OK, nothin' to stimulate ya. The other thing ya need to do is take about two or three golden seal double zero capsules. And take tht at first, take three at first. And this is after ya feel like your throat and your sinuses and yuour chest gettin' warm, and fever comin' to your head. And ya take those. Before you feel that it's on ya, you know you feel like right at the back of your throat and you know it's gonna get worse, and in an hour it's worse, and an hour after that you're layin' on your back. Well you take this golden seal, full strength, and those two or three capsules, and then after that, about every hour, two hours or so, or every time your energy takes a dip, you grab a hold a one. About a day and a half, and you're usually pretty over it, without losing—it'll put ya down about half, three-quarter speed.
RH: Golden seal, eh? Is that a brand name?
TM: That's the name. That's not the brand name, that's the name of the plant; it's the golden seal plant. It's a very powerful plant, very powerful, even takes care of asthma, an' stuff like that.
RH: This is available in health food stores?
TM: Yeah.
RH: Sounds good, I'll have to try it.

I think many people around here would be most interested in hearing about your experiences at the university. Did you have a good time here?

TM: Yeah, I had a pretty good time here, as a matter of fact, I really never had too much trouble, or no run in with the administration ya know, I was very happy to be goin' to school here. 'Cause I lived over in Springfield, an' alot of kids over there never got off the block, ya know, an' I thought I was very privileged to be goin' to school particularly an' studyin' what I wanted.
RH: That was Animal Husbandry?
TM: Animal Husbandry right, an' I just happened to coincide with the folk music during that time. And tht scene was happenin' so I really enjoyed myself, ya know.
RH: What year did you graduate?
TM: I actually graduated in '63...I went and took an asociates degree, which is like junior and senior year, right, without a language, OK and a couple other of the arts things. It just puts you right at the meat of the whole thing. 'Cause I was goin' to class with the college juniors and seniors. I was gonna go for the B.A., but I went one semester, an' I just couldn't do it, ya know.
RH: Were you calling yourself "Taj" then?
RM: Oh yeah—before I came to school.

I was farmin' see, from the time i was about 15 'till I came to college, and then every summer while I was goin' to college, and all my vacations, I spent working on this farm.
RH: Do you still farm?
TM: No, I don't have the time for that right now. But I'm getting closer to it, because I've put about twenty-eight years into playin', about fifteen, eighteen years I been professional. So I just feel like at times I just want to space out for acouple of yuears and do that you know.
RH: And where are you living now?
TM: Out in California. Northern California.
RH: But you still have family around here?
RM: My mother and my stepfather live over in Springfield, and my two brothers live over there.
RH: What dorm did you live in?
TM: Middlesex House (across the street from Southwest).
RH: I don't think that's a dorm anymore.
TM: No, I don't think so either (laughs) It didn't look like it.
RH: So you were driving around campus today?
TM: Oh yeah, I always drive through, see what they did to it. It blows me away.
RH: Did you have any involvement with the music department here?
TM: Only with the people who played in it. I was playin' during the time, so a lot of people came to listen to me play, an' I played with a lot of other people.
RH: Played a lot of coffeehouses and things?
TM: Well, I played both types of things. Coffeehouses, and then places like this tonight. All the Fraternities, we were really big.
RH: You had a band?

TURN TO PAGE 10

Photo by Denise Doulidian

'Quadrophenia' looks good on celluloid

Photo courtesy of Union Records

By BRETT MILANO
Salt Staff

Quadrophenia is not a movie about The Who. Nor is it a movie starring The Who. It does take its starting point from Pete Townshend's rock opera which The Who recorded in 1974. The film, however, is not confined to the music on that album. The music is made almost secondary, and about half of the songs are omitted entirely, so that Townshend's lyrical themes may be developed more thoroughly. The Who's music does make frequent appearances on the soundtrack, but mainly as a comment or elaboration upon the internal story. This music, coming from The Who's finest album to date, is always a pleasure to hear; and it is artfully incorporated into the film. Yet the story is so well developed, with a great enough understanding of its characters, that this film does not depend upon The Who's music for its success. Quadrophenia is one of the most ambitious, and successful, translations to date of rock onto celluloid.

The Who's original Quadrophenia album had at least three themes working at once. On the surface it told the story of Jimmy, a young Mod who might have been spotted at any Who concert. But Townshend also attempted to develop the story into a capsule history of The Who and, by the end of the album, a statement of his personal belief. These additional themes are largely abandoned in the film, as Jimmy is more fully developed into a substantive character. The story is told with honesty and simplicity, making this a notable contrast from the overblown travesty that was the film version of Tommy. There are no exploding pinball machines or baked bean showers in Quadrophenia—just a straightforward account of what the Mod experience means to at least one of its members.

The film is, in part, a period piece set in mid-60's London. For those who never heard about the fabled rivalry between the Mods and Rockers, it's all here. The film's perspective is decidedly not romanticized, as it gives an unflinching account of frustration and violence. This is not however, a sensationalized account either, and the film's central issue is a less specific one. Much of it hinges on Jimmy's internal conflict: between his need to belong, and confusion about his own identity. Quadrophenia'sconclusion, both on record and on film, is intentionally unresolved. It can be either desperate or faintly hopeful—or, more probably, a certain amount of both.

Phil Daniels, who plays Jimmy, gives a superb performance. At times he gives Jimmy even more depth than Townshend does—particulary during the film's last half-hour during which there is virtually no dialogue. A surprisingly fine performance is also given by Sting, who is more commonly known as the lead singer of The Police. Sting's character, The Ace, is the embodiment of cool, whether he is drawing a crowd while dancing, or paying a 75-pound fine out of pocket money.

Although we don't hear a lot of rock and roll in this film, we do get a clear sense of what the music means. We see Jimmy coming alive as he watches The Who on television, and crashing a party to put "My Generation" on the turntable. In the film's most vivid scene, Jimmy stares out at the ocean in a moment of inspiration, while "Love Reign O'er Me" plays on the soundtrack. Although this is not a movie about music, it is a perceptive look at the emotions behind it. As for me, I was unable to say a word until long after the last Who song had faded from the soundtrack. As for you, see this film at least twice.

BELOW THE SALT STAFF

Editor: Jim Moran
Assistant Editor: Eileen Foley

Art Editor: Amy Hubert
Books Editor: Beth Segers
Dance Editor: Sarah Hammann

Drama Editor: David Ambos
Film Editor: Candyce Carlon
Music Editors: Tom Anderson, Albums Norma Coates, Concerts

Staff: Rob Huffman, Brett Milano, Debbie Wallace, Doug Paulding

ABOUT THE MAGAZINE

Below the Salt takes its name from an early Steeleye Span album. Its derivation comes from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt required that it be placed accesible to the lords and beyond the peasants reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt."

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our magazine is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, in the performing and expressive senses. This is the second time Below the Salt has been revived after other magazines. Thus, we publish this magazine in the spirit of a "second renaissance."

'No strain, no pain:' master classes with Ailey, Senegal

By SARAH HAMMANN
Salt Staff

"1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8, and 1,2,3,4,5,6,7, again. Right—let's try it from the top." If this doesn't sound at all familiar, then eavesdrop on any dance troupe's behind the scenes work-out.

This reporter spent two days shadowing and covering the rehearsals and master classes of two professional dance companies recently on campus, the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater and the National Dance Company of Senegal.

After deciding that I wanted to understand the anatomy of a dance company as closely as possible in the perimeters of the UMass community, I planned to attend master classes offered by the professional dancers and rehearsal direcor.

Master classes are a common practice taught by professionals performing at the Fine Arts Center. Departments like Dance, Music, and Art frquently invite representatives from the visiting specialists to teach or lead a class specific to their interest and professional talent. For the past few years, famous entertainers like Ruth Laredo, Andre Previn, and Jean-Pierre Rampal have instructed enthusiastic students.

This February has been a month overflowing with dance talent in the Pioneer Valley. Much of this talent has not gone unnoticed or unchanneled. After viewing each of the three Ailey Company performances last week, my dancing energy was high and my aspirations as a frustrated dancer were screaming to be fulfilled. Motivated for a new adventure, I sat in on the Ailey master class.

On the Bowker auditorium stage, 15 anxious dance fans and students stretched and extended, before rehearsal director May Barnett started the formal warm-up. Two congo drummers beat out an African rhythm to help loosen the participants, and Barnett launched in to a slow series of head, shoulder, and waist rolls, all the while keeping an attentive eye on her eager-to-please students.

"Don't go at moves with aggression, feel the spine, and go at moves feeling where your legs and fingertips are," advised the director, as she snapped her fingers to the congo rhythm and walked in and around the limber bodies. "No strain, no pain," she cooed in many an ear, while dancers softly chuckled under their breath.

Following two hours of stretching, contorting, and flexing their bodies to positions they had not imagined, the students bashfully approached Barnett, hesitating with questions yet asking for valuable advice. A few adventurous souls hoping to someday make it in dance were a bit more aggressive and prodded Barnett for further criticism.

That night, a friend and I enjoyed "Suite Otis," a sassy boy meets girl number. Following the show, we had the opportunity to slip backstage and speak with Rehearsal Director Mary Barnett. She commented that "tha master class was done as a company service to the university to hopefully attract people to dance."

A young female dancer, no older than 17, carried on a hushed conversation with Barnett. The rehearsal director had watched the last piece and told the wide-eyed girl that her movement was "coming, slowly coming."

To a random viewer, the girl's performance seemed little short of perfection, but dancers under the continual direction of "Mary Barnetts" forever strive for perfected pointe and precise attitude. In a rehearsal director's eyes, there is always room and need for inprovement.

The second company of my shadow experience hail from West Africa. Returning from a long weekend and a heavy snowfall, most dance students attended the master class and were surprised to find a language barrier of a different sort. Not only did the dancers and students speak a differentdance vocabulary, but they did not speak the same language. The professionals spoke an African dialect of French.

Leevon Conner, Northeast Area Office Coordinator for the master classes, quickly located a lighting manager from the company who spoke somewhat broken but communicable English.

Radically different from any sort of Anglo-Saxon classical ballet foundation of dance, the bare-footed Senegalese danced with loose arm and head motions. Most of us students had a difficult and especially amusing time attempting to imitate the acrobatic and off-beat movements of the Africans. Our limbs were as unaccustomed to moving their way as their tongue was to conversing in the English language.

Several Senegalese dancers joined the group as the class continued and a few subtley positioned themselves behind the congoes and began beating out a smooth yet polyrhythmic beat. Unlike the Anglo-Saxon method of dancing on the upbeat or downbeat, the Senegalese executed intricate steps between the up and downbeats. Ultimately, most students found this very difficult and unnatural.

As we students cooled down, a few of the African dancers took students hand in hand and walked them through the difficult combinations. They showed a genuine interest in teaching a culture different from their own and would murmur a well-pronounced "gooooood."

Students slowly filtered from the stage and began to bundle up before leaving this cultural dance experience. Before finishing, however, one of the company's dancers told me that their purpose in performing was to "raconter l'histoire" or tell a story, one of their tradition and culture. He felt that, although these stories had passed from generation to generation and were an expression of their historical culture, they had undergone "too much change," and this saddened him.

Be it part of a chorus line, company or local guild, it requires talent, discipline, control, and priority placement to be successful. Of course dancers make dance look easy; they appear effortless when they grace the stage adorned in well-thought-out costumes, and enthuse audiences with daring choreography. But, it is not until you attend the rigorous work sessions and hear the post-performance criticism sprinkled with praise, do you realize what an earned and not effortless talent dance represents.

NEFERTITI'S
POTIONS FOR FACE AND BODY
A little Egyptian magic. . .
Soothe your body & dazzle your soul!
THORNES MARKET / 150 MAIN ST. / NORTHAMPTON / 584-0906

THE GREAT "X" PERM SALE
Super Perms!
Super Prices!

Shampoo, Cut & Blower Styling. . .only $10

Special
FREE
$1.50 CONDITIONER
with Precision Haircut and your coupon
Good 2/28 thru 3/5
GREAT EXPECTATIONS PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
No Appointment Necessary
Hampshire Mall
Hadley

Photography Competition
Cash prizes ($100, $50, $25) and possible gallery display.
For B&W and color prints. Minimum size of 8x10", either matted or mounted. Up to 5 entries, with $1.00 entry fee for the first and $0.50 for each additional one. Photo essays or sequences count as one entry.
Further details available at CC 817. Submit entries at the Print Shop in 225 Campus Center, before March 14.
Open to any UMass Student

Ponderious Moments. . .
. . .Sumptious Tobaccos
. . .the likes of which history is made

CLIFFORD M. CLARK TOBACCONIST
The Valley's Finest Selection of Imported and Domestic Cigars
Tobaccos, Cigarettes, Snuffs, and Chews
Hampshire Mall Hadley 586-6212
Ingleside Mall Holyoke 532-4121

Cuts, Perms, Colorings
Whatever You Want, We'll Do It.
Can't Decide? Consult With Our Experts aristocrat
A FASHIONABLE APPROACH TO HAIR
17 Montague Road
North Amherst, Mass. 01059
413-549-6255
Open evenings for your convenience

BRING THIS AD IN FOR A 10% DISCOUNT ON ANY * SANDWICH *

You too can have
GIANT PASTRAMI SANDWICHES
(as well as chopped liver, hummus, brie, cannoli, baklava or Chinese almond cookies!) At...
THE GROCERY
235 Main St., Northampton
call: 586-5158

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS / AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Presents... M'BOOM
ROY BROOKS, JOE CHAMBERS, OMAR CLAY, FRED KING, RAY MANTILLA, WARREN SMITH, MAX ROACH, FREDDIE WAITS
re:percussion
ARTISTIC DIRECTOR, Max Roach
ONE NIGHT ONLY
FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1980
at 8 P.M.
TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE AND TICKETRON OUTLETS
General public $6, $5, $4
Senior Citizens $5, $4, $3
All Students Half-Price $3, $2.50, $2
Phone reservations, mail orders, group discounts and group dinner-theater packages available. For more information call the Box Office (413) 545-2511, M-F, noon-5 p.m.
A Benefit for the Fletcher Henderson Music Scholarship Fund

OPENING MONDAY 25TH
Finest Chinese Chef from 3-star New York Restaurant
SZE'S CHINESE CUISINE
MANDARIN SZECHUAN CUISINE
Lunch $3-$4
Dinner Specials
"Steamboat" for two
Sunday-Thursday 11 am - 10 pm
Friday-Saturday 11 am - 11 pm
586--5708
50 Main St. Northampton

School's got you spaced out?. . .Well, take a break and zap some asteroids or have a duel with light sabres. Defend the moon from invaders from space or drive in a road race. You'll find a galaxy of amusements at the
Bring this ad in for 4 FREE games
(Find out how you can win 10 FREE games!)
DREAM MACHINE
FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT CENTER
Over 55 well maintained machines. . .Just 5 minutes from the center of Campus
DREAM MACHINE
Hampshire Mall at Cafe Square
Open 7 days a week  Satisfaction Guaranteed
Mon.-Thurs. 10-10 Fri.-Sat. 10-10:30 Sundays 1-6

Cast is wild about 'Eubie,' too

By SARAH HAMMANN
AND DEBBIE WALLACE
Salt Staff

"We're just wild about Eubie!" resounded the jubilant ragtime troupe last Friday evening to an equally ecstatic Fine Arts Center audience. The razzmatazz, fast-paced company set the spectators swaying and rocking with several smart musical renditions of the internationally famous ragtime composer Eubie Blake.

The tap-dancing and leg-swinging company launched the evening of Blake classics with a Gay Nineties Charleston Rag. In rag style, the cutesy, "honeysuckle" sweethearts rattled knees and shuffled across the stage to meet their honey's warm embrace.

"I'm Just Wild About Harry," a well-known number, drew coos from the audience members who responded with "way to go Harry!" The enthusiasm and warm feeling generated by the flapper style dancers and singers electrified the audience. Having trekked a good distance in the heavy sleet to attend the show, spectators quickly left all thoughts of miserable weather outside and were warmed by the boundless energy and talent of the company.

Characters ranged from buxom-buttocked old ladies to flashy, satin-suited tap dancers. In a genuine vaudeville style, Chris Calloway stretched herself atop a piano and in hoarse yet syrupy tones captured the audience with strains of vampish "O' Daddy."

No airs were put on, and all audience-performer barriers disspelled as the troupe greeted the capacity crowd in relaxed, flowing tones. A pseudo-conversation developed as a cuddly looking Ron Taylor caught the audience with "I'm a Great Big Baby," as he queried the ladies as whether or not they could handle it," and chided the men to "eat their hearts out." All hearts went out to Ron Taylor.

Taylor said in an interview after the show that he had just joined the tour in January and "was learning something new with every performance. "I learn step by step and find it difficult to come down after a show," he said as he left the dressing room he turned on his large, sophisticated cassette unit to relax and shut out the world.

Robert Melvin, the fleet-footed tap dancer from Sissle (Blake's lyricist) and Blake's "Hot Feet" slipped by at that moment and jibed, "Right on Texas Slim," to Taylor, and Taylor hollered after him "I'm gonna get you Robert Melvin!" Their dialogue reflected the company's commaraderie.

Melvin remarked later that the touring company is "like one big family; we have our squabbles and heated argument, but when it comes to the performance, we all pull together and give a united effort to put out the best show. We do not let our outside differences interfere with the show."

Smiling widely, Melvin, an energetic and optimistic performer, said he has appeared in several touring Broadway shows, "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" and "Purlie."

Does the repition of "Eubie" reduce the performer's enthusiasm. Not so, according to female cast members. This travelling cast has been on a bus and truck tour performing one and two night stints since August with only two weeks of rehearsal. Singer Jackee Harry said, "You do different things so it is still exciting." She said, "Eubie Blake came to see the show in Atlanta. It was his third time, yet it was exciting for him and charged us up."

Blues singer Marva Hicks said, "It is a very exciting show. The up-beat makes it work, and keeps it moving non-stop. It's the performer's magic that makes it fresh each time and the chemistry of this company is extremely good."

"Eubie" is fresh and spirited, yet some of the twenty five musical numbers do not have the momentum, strength, or emotional intensity that other numbers offered.

A hectic schedule for the troupe is evident as dancers and singers alike scurry from dressing room to back-stage in order to strike the set as quickly as possible. Taylor asserted that "most performers do not relax enough to fall asleep until 3:00 A.M., and then must leave for the next stop on the tour by 8:30 the next morning and be prepared to give 100 percent at that night's performance.

This cast gave 100 percent.

★ Taj Mahal

CONT FROM PAGE 10

TM: Yeah, called the electras, they were real popular here. We used to do all sortsa things, we had a battle of the bands in this place over here (S.U.B.), all kindsa stuff. I hadn't played that room in twenty years.
RH: Feel good?
TM: Yeah, it was great, people really enjoyed it.
RH: What type of guitar were you playing tonight?
TM: Thatsa '41 Gibson L-7.

RH: Duh, it must be pretty special, if it's the only one you take on the road.
TM: It gets beat pretty bad, but it's like guitars that were when I was growing up. That was what I wanted, a guitar that looked like that. Even if it's an old beat up one, now, the tone that comes out of that baby is...boy! (shakes his head)...I ran into a guitar synthesizer the other day—Whoao!! Bot could you make some rock and roll records wit that thing. Oh I'm serious.

RH: Think you might get one?
TM: Well I might check one out.
RH: In Downbeat magazine, (Feb. 12, 1976), you said: "Records can't get what's inside of me."
TM: You got it. Yeah, they never been able to put down, like the new one that's out been closest to gettin' the whole tone of what's goin' on.
RH: The direct-to-disc recordeing?
TM: Yeah, it's closer. It gets what it sounds like live.
RH: It says limited edition on it.
TM: Yeah, it is. There's about 60,000. But what he's doin' is he's this month he's pressing the tape to disc copies of it. So that'll be readily available at $7.98, $6.95, stuff like that. So, you know, I mean, we realize that the audiophile'll but it. I mean it's hot, man. on the road, god, we'll sell out lots of those. But we're sellin' outta "Natch'll Blues" (counting on fingers) we're sellin outta "Ooh, so good and Blues..."
RH: So ther record industry's been pretty good to you, would you say?

TM: No. I would say that it's good in this way. I really shouldn't scream down on them because, I mean I have a part to play in it, being an artist is one thing, ya know, but the thing I find out about that record business is that they like people that are less creative, let me put it that way (laughs) much less creative.
RH: That's well put. Do you have anything to say to other UMass students that would like to go to California and make records?
TM: Get a seismograph (laughs) and learn how to read the Richter scale.

runner'shop
15 Strong Ave.
Northampton
159 N. Pleasant Rear
Amherst

ROLLER SKATING

Dominion Leather Boots
Finally! We now have a high leather roller skate for both men and women. These leather boots, made by Dominion, are also lined with suede leather. The two layers of leather proviode extra strength, durability and support.
MOUNTED ON CHICAGO PLATES
Your Choice of Wheels & Bearings
$85.00 and up

ROAD RUNNING

The New Balance 420
This company is getting their act together in this new lightweight running shoe. The uppers are nylon with plenty of suede reinforcement. The sole is made of Vibram which is super light, yet lasts for 600-800 miles of use.
Available in 3 Widths
B (narrow); D (average); & EE (wide)
$40.00

The Umass Arts Council Presents
A Soviet and East European Film Series
WALKOVER
a film by Jerzy Skolimowski
Wednesday, February 27th
7:30 and 9:00 P.M. Showings
Thompson Hall, 106—FREE

CARLO OF NAPLES
"foods of Italy"
wine beer
45 State St. Northampton 584-9722

The Red Hot Connection
The Great American Hot Dog Place
52 Center Street Northampton
OPENING SOON
at 15 E. Pleasant St. Amherst

UPC Productions
presents
LENE LOVICH
Thurs. March 13 - 8 PM
Bowker Auditorium
UMass-$5.50-Public-$6.50
Available at: TIX, Union Records
Unlimited (UMass) For the Record (Amherst) Platterpus
(Northampton)
THE KINKS Thurs. March 6 - FAC - 8PM

Academy of Music
Northampton
Only Area Showing
NOW, ENDS MAR. 6
at 7:00 and 9:00
"Breathtakingly lovely." —Judith Crist
"ONE OF THIS YEAR'S BEST."

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Around campus

Scholar speaks on Israel

The UMass B'nai B'rith Hillel is sponsoring a talk by Jonathan Lucas, the Five-College Israeli scholar in residence today. The first section, "Men and women in the Israeli army," will be held at 12:15 p.m. in room 168-170 Campus Center. "Cultural extremes in Israel" will be presented at 8 p.m. in 904-908 Campus Center. In addition, students wishing to speak personally with Lucas can meet with him from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Suffolk Room, Student Union 301.

Future Studies stages demo

The Future Studies Department of the School of Education will be sponsoring a demonstration of the PLATO computer based education system this afternoon. Four different demonstrations will be held: Higher education at 1 p.m., Secondary education at 2 p.m., Elementary education at 3 p.m., and basic education skill and adult education at 4 p.m. The demonstrations will take place in the Future Studies Department in the School of Education.

Juggling workshops offered

The UMass Juggling and Circus Arts Club will be sponsoring a special series of five workshops Feb. 20 and 27, and March 5, 12, and 26. The Club has regular workshops every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on the 1st floor of the Campus Center, but this special series is open to the greater campus community free of charge, as a service to the public. There will be three levels of teaching offered: beginner and advanced lacrosse ball juggling, and club juggling. Bring any equipment that you own. For more information please call Neal Bogdanovich at 546-4612.

WOST to offer colloquium

The Women's Studies Colloquium Series will sponsor a lecture by UMass History professor Joyce Berkman on "Olive Schreiner: Crusader Against Imperialism and Racism in South Africa," on Monday, March 3 at 4 p.m. in Thompson sixth floor lounge. Berkman is the author of Olive Schreiner: Feminism on the Frontier.

Panel discusses E. Europe

The fourth program in the Orchard Hill/Five College Radio GREAT DECISIONS 1980 series, "Eastern Europe: Emerging from Moscow's Shadow?" will take place tonight at 8:30 in Noah Webster House Lounge. In view of President Tito's precarious health and advanced age, this is another very timely topic. The panel of experts consists of Stanislaus Blejwus, an historian of Poland from Central Connecticut State College; Laslo Dienes, Slavic Languages and Literature, University of Massachusetts; Diane Flaherty, an expert on Yugoslavia, and Vaclav Holesovsky, a native of Czechoslovakia, both in the Department of Economics at the University of Massachusetts.

Commission holds meeting

The first meeting of the Commission on Civility in Human Relations will be held on Friday, February 29 at 4 p.m. in the Boardroom of Whitmore Administration Building.

Nominee to meet students

Dr. Wallace Russell, candidate for Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and Provost, will hold an undergraduate Student meeting tomorrow from 9 to 10:30 a.m. in 174 Campus Center. Students wishing to question the candidate should plan to attend.

Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Sponsors

Or would you rather be studying?

SYSTEMS 2000
IS OFFERING, THIS WEEK ONLY,
FREE 1-HOUR INTRODUCTORY SPEED READING LESSONS.
Haven't you said to yourself a million times, "I should check this out!"
DO IT NOW!

See what it's like to:
• cut your study time in half
• have your weekends free to enjoy
• remember more of what you read
• have better comprehension
FREE MEANS NO COST
FREE MEANS NO OBLIGATION

What's it worth to find out how to make the rest of the year an ease? An hour, that's all.
IT'S SO EASY, AND ANYONE CAN DO IT. ATTEND A FREE SPEED READING LESSON, THIS WEEK ONLY, AT THE FOLLOWING TIMES:

FREE UP AN HOUR FOR US AND WE'LL FREE THE REST OF THE SEMESTER FOR YOU.
Open to all University of Massachusetts students, faculty, staff and friends. All Free Lessons held in the Campus Center at the following times:

MON Feb. 25	TUES Feb. 26	WED Feb. 27	THURS Feb. 28	FRI Feb. 29	SAT Mar. 1
11:30 a 165	12:00 p 905	12:30 p 176	11:30 a 168	12:30 p 165	12:30 p 165
2:00 p 165	2:30 p 905	3:00 p 176	2:00 p 168	3:30 p 165
7:00 p 165	6:30 p 905	6:00 p 176	5:30 p 168	6:30 p 165

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS THE HOUR THAT COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE.
Sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

APARTMENT WANTED

Working Married Couple sick of complexes, seeks apt. in Levertt or Shuyesbury. Call John 665-3032 (nights) 545-2674 (days)

AUDIO

Craig AM/FM Stereo Tape Player BSR 260 AX Turntable and Regency speakers call Doug after 6 pm 6-9569 $120.00

Nikko 3035 Receiver 15 watts w/circuit breakers 1 year old looks like new $100 6-4920

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues., Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

73 Ford Wagon one owner, reliable transportation. Motor great, body hurtin. $400 256-8088 after five

12 volt 315 amp car battery brand new! 20.00 Rick H. 545-2150

Olds. Cutl 74 excellent run & body cond $1600 call 549-5144 ev.

DO IT!

Seniors--Are you going to graduate without doing it? Get yourself into your yearbook! Call 545-2874

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

Disco at Hatch! Sat. March 1 DJ w/light 9-1:00 $1.50 $-bar Free Munchies!

Leap Year! Stomp to Live New Wave Fri Feb 29! 9-1:00 Hatch $2.00!

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

FOR SALE

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Tuxedo and 3-piece suits sizes 38-39 call 256-0626 any evening

Pioneer Supertuner TP900 AM/FM 8/track car stereo perfect condition 546-4443

Yamaha 12-string Guitar w/case. Excellent condition Dave 549-1880

BIC 940 Turntable good condition $50 call Judy 584-6406

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found white & tan Beagle type dog in Brit. Manor area Call 253-3509

Beautiful Black Cat with a little white on chest. Found 2/18/80 in Student Union Call Paula 323-6029

German Shepard 3 color male in C.C. area. Flea Collar. See Hotel Desk

Found: Sweater - gloves. Feb. 13, 1980 Call 545-2438 & identify

Calculator must identify to claim call Don 253-5410

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work-study office positions available in Soithwest area. Contact Jean Steiner, Southwest Business Office, 5-1552 We are an Equal Opportunity Employer

Shaklee—Positive salespeople wanted. Natural products. Exceptional opportunity to earn. Call Emily 549-3582

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

Summer Jobs Do you need $ for school, experience in your discipline or just a fun summer? How about all 3! Set in the rolling greeen hills of the Bershires, positions are available at YMCA, ACA acredited summer camp for boys & girls. Positions open: Adventure Trip Director, Adventure Trip Leaders, Food Service Supervisor, Food Service Staff, Arts & Crafts Director, Male Counselors (ranch and regular camp) For more info cal 546-7787 ask for John (work study accomodated)

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Kundalini Yoga Club offers basic instruction. All welcome. M-Th 4-5:30 in Campus Center. $1 per session. 256-0391

Basic Auto-Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment. 253-7967 or write for brochure, Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

Guitar Lessons "Masters in Music" 367-2713

LOST

Lost: Single key on leather ring, Hills Wheeler vicinity $5 reward call 586-9153

Lost—brown suede glove in Paige, Holdsworth, Stockbridge area. Please call Lisa 546-9903

Lost—gold bracelet between the library and Northeast area on February 21. If found, call Anna 546-4852 or 546-4849

Annie Klein light brown glasses Mahar area call Lisa 6-8011

LOST Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at any time 549-6219 Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

•MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Will trade Electric/Acoustic Guitar and 25 watt Vox amp for Acoustic Guitar Rob Burbank 256-0768 or 545-3500

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

Impressionist Pastel Portraits $10.00 moneyback guarantee 253-2983

Delta Chi Fraternity: Open rush Wed. & Thurs. Feb. 27 & 28 at 10 pm Tel:253-9230

Gail—enjoyed talking about stuff on the 200 express. Like to meet for coffee Phil 6-8744

Judy—It's the "Little Things" about you that we love. Happy 21st! Love Vinny and Mary

Rod Baby: Give us back the knife, we want to do it again! Val & Carla Amherst Gigolo: Are you really as kinky as Pam says?

To Keith--The sweetheart of all my sweethearts--your kindness is very, very, very much appreciated! To many more more good and crazy times to come! Love, S.T.

Maria Happy Birthday if nothing else chimes

Superior Deliveryman Thanks for ride from Chadbourne to Leach. The Sunglass Girls

Students for Carter/Mondale will be sponsoring a democratic issues forum Thurs. 2/28 at 7 pm in CC rm 163. All interested students are invited to attend and participate.

Ice Maiden: The American Gigilo is jealous of your ski instructor

Attention—The winner of the first annual eighth floor McNamara Bum Contest is Gail. Other contestants-keep your cheeks up and don't be bummed out

Vending Machine Magic! Cigarettes, food, laundry, telephones and subways all for pennies! A complete slug and foreign coin list. Send $2 to: Gold, Box 90701, Brown, Amherst, Mass. 01003

Carole Z. You are very special. Best wishes always to you and Mark. I cherish your friendship and your smile. My love always from the other man in your life.

Wild Woman - Bruce Babes Traveis on a two way street - better pick him up! The advice of a wise friend

JANIE, Linda, Sue and friends: Thank you for making the 20th my best B-day ever. I love ya!

PARAGON. . .an experience

Death to Slim Whitman!

Kathy—This is your day, enjoy it! Happy B-day—your favorite roomie—Polly

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Ft Lauderdale area for Spring Break Will share costs and driving. Call Laurie after 7 256-0637

Ride wanted to Florida for spring break will share driving, expenses, party materials. Call Cathy and Deb 549-6534

Ride wanted to Washington DC Spring break and Friday Feb 29 Pleas call Debbie 323-6843 will share expense

Ride wanted from Belchertown Center to UMass daily 9 am or 10 am Debbie 323-6843 will share $

ROOMATE WANTED

Roomate wanted Brittany Manor begin 3/1 253-2402

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

Male roommate wanted Puffton Vil. own room $110 month & elec. prefer older student 549-5145 mostly eves

Room open in Amherst house fem. pref. near bus, coop members call 256-0468

Single room available in Belchertown house. On bus route $85 a month + 323-5262

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Student Movers and Haulers Cheap! 256-8868

Laflet T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995; Room 922 Campus Center, UMass

TO SUBLET

Room Swiss Vill 110 a month everything bus route, open immead 253-2653

Room in house close to camous on bus route $91.50 + 549-4166

One bedroom close to Town and School 253-2645 before midnght

3 bdrm Puffton Apt for summer on bus route, near pool and tennis courts Call 546-1177

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Flute—reasonably priced. call Mona after 3:00 pm 546-9701

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NEW EXTENDED HOURS
MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.
FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.
SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

SALE SALE
Hadley Picture Framing
10% off on Custom Picture Framing with this coupon
Mon.-Fri. 12:00-7:00
Sat. 12:00-5:00
44 Middle St. Hadley
North at Hadley Center, Just off Rte. 9
Offer expires March 7

From Disco to Dorm
Our Perfect Perm $22.50
Wed. Special - Haircut & Blow Dry $8.00
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL 584-0111
od Feb. 25-Mar. 1st

Nuke the Whale by Denny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Bevel out
5 Frostier
10 Applaud
14 U.S. playwright
15 Stove
16 Garment
17 Kind of bed
19 French river
20 Posh
21 Apples
23 — Fudd
25 Mr. Cole
26 Slag
29 Tacit
34 The one here
35 Healthy: Comb. form
37 Slur
38 Be ill
39 Peeled
41 — laude
42 Inactive
44 Abstruse
45 Gait
46 Savior
48 Poplars
50 By way of 51 Goads
53 Serves
57 Girl's name
61 Italian coin
62 Scattering
64 Vocal
65 Ant
66 Norse saga
67 Pins
68 Approaches
69 Soap frame bar

DOWN
1 Plentiful
2 Chem. suffix
3 Sickness
4 Combines
5 "Man in the — —"
6 Lineage
7 Loan cost: Abbr.
8 Elbe tributary
9 TV fare
10 Fine stemware
11 Mislay
12 Support
13 Private: Abbr.
18 Again: Comb form
22 Surfeited
24 Skis
26 Step
27 Ridge
28 Lubricated
30 Baseball team
31 Burmese weight
32 Evoke
33 Greek townships
36 Assistant
39 Mug
40 Shoulder ornaments
43 Uncovers
45 Mortars and —
47 Make angry
49 "Jacques — is Alive."
52 Document
53 Askew
54 Weary
55 Kind of drama: Abbr.
56 Monkey
58 Secrete
59 Finishes
60 Turkish titles
63 Little: Scot.

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

E	R	G	S		D	A	V	I	S		A	D	A	M
L	A	R	A		E	V	E	N	T	S		N	O	W
S	P	I	T	E	F	E	N	C	E		A	L	T	U
A	T	T	I	R	E			H	A	R	D	E	S	T
			N	I	A	T	A		D	O	E
S	P	L	I	N	T	E	R		I	A	M	B	I	C
A	L	E	C		R	I	I	E	S		E	R	R
L	I	Y		D	E	S	S	E	R	T		R	A	E
I	N	E		A	R	E	T	E			P	E	T	E
C	Y	R	A	N	O		A	C	T	U	A	T	E	D
			R	E	D		S	H	A	N	T
P	R	U	S	S	I	A			C	I	C	A	D	A
L	O	S	E		B	L	A	C	K	T	H	O	R	N
O	P	E	N		L	A	V	A	L		E	N	I	D
W	E	S	T		E	N	A	T	E		D	E	N	Y

DC menu

Lunch
Hamburg/Roll
Squash Bake

Basics Lunch
Golden Burgers
Squash Bake

Dinner
Roast Beef/Mushroom Sauce
American Chop Suey

Basics Dinner
Eggplant Parigiana
Potato Mushroom Delight

Earthfoods

Potato Pancakes with dressing
Mushroom Barley Soup
Rice Bulghar
Green Salad
Sour Creme Coffee Cake

TONIGHT
PUB MUG NIGHT
with
JIM PLUNKETT
"AN AMHERST TRADITION AND NOW WITH A GREAT NEW look"
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Paragon Experience

Paragon Experience

Jobs!
Lake Tahoe
California!
Little exp. Fantastic tips! Pay! $1600 $3800 summer. Thousands needed. Casino's, Restaurants, Ranches, Cruisers, Rafting, etc. Send $4.95 for Application Info. Referals. LAKEWORLD 161 Box 60129, Sacto, CA 95860

Sigma Alpha Mu
The only co-ed fraternity on campus invites all University men & women to an Informal Open Rush Party Feb. 27, 28 at 8:00 pm
Free Refreshments
395 N. Pleasant St. 5-0845

★ Poll

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

49 percent in favor. 64.3 percent said they favored the registration of women as well as men and 35.6 percent were opposed.

A majority of the students surveyed said they were in favor of a boycott of the Summer Olympic games in Moscow. Forty-six and seven tenths percent favored the boycott while 22.2 percent were opposed.

President Carter's job performance was also rated by students. Three and seven tenths percent said Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis was "excellent," 34.4 percent felt Carter was doing a "good" job, 37.6 said "fair" and 23.3 percent described his performance as "poor."

Students also rated Carter's handling of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Only 1.6 percent described his performance as "excellent," 29.8 percent said "good," 49.5 percent said "fair" and 18.6 said "poor."

Students were asked how, or if, their opinions of President Carter have changed. Thirtynine and six tenths said their opinion of him has not changed since his election. 35.8 percent said they were more favorable toward Carter while 24.6 percent were less favorable toward him.

Project Pulse director Randolph Cornelium said yesterday he would continue to update the survey "for the next couple of weeks."

Project Pulse, a division of the Student Affairs Office in the Whitmore Administration building, conducts surveys of UMass students for the University administration and campus organizations.

★ Primary

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

"I tried not to make a commitment in my own behalf. Friends said I would win but I did not believe them. Apparently they knew more about it than I did."

Maltese said he was "very excited."

I appreciate all the people who turned out to vote," he said. "It is important that I got a lot of support in all eight precincts. It shows that people really do care about what happens in this town."

Simmons could not be reached for comment last night.

In Precinct 3, which includes all of the UMass residential areas except Southwest, 96 of 1,204 registered voters turned out.

In Precincts 4 and 5, which includes Southwest, 171 voters of 1,492 registered turned out.

Texas Instruments
TI 59 Programmable
and PC-100C THERMAL PRINTER

The TI-59 programmable calculator from Texas Instruments. Capability, quality and value. Unchallenged by any other calculator in its class. Offers enormous calculatling power, magnetic card storage plus TI's exclusive solid-state software. Plus the PC-110C. A quiet, reliable electronic printer that prints a hard copy "list" of your entire program. When calculator is locked in place, printing can be controlled by keys on the PC-100C or keys on the TI Programmable Calculator.

Special Combination Offer

$50 OFF

Our reg. low price when you buy both the TI-59 and the PC-100C

This coupon entitles you to $50 off the combined price of a Texas Instruments TI-59 calculator and a PC-100C printer.

Offer good thru March 19

Limited to one unit per customer and to units currently in stock.

List Prices: TI-59 - $300. PC-100C - $200 Total - $500
Our Reg: TI-59 - $224.95 PC-100C - $159.95 Total - $384.90

with coupon $334.90

in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

WINTER SALE

SALE
$49.00
medium widths

$39.00
AA widths

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon. Sat. 253-5315

silverscape
silverscape
"The Yellow House" 264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3447
Natural Vegetarian Food • Full Liquor •
Coffee Beans, Valley's Lowest Prices
8-mid Mon.-Sat. 12-mid. Sun.

Beachcomber Tours PRESENTS ITS 11th ANNUAL daytona beach
FLORIDA
college spring break

FROM 179 QUAD OCCUPANCY

JET TOUR
- Round Trip Direct Charter Flight to Daytona from Boston or Hartford
- Inflight Meals and Beverages
- Transfers and Baggage

BUS TOUR
- Round Trip Deluxe Motor Coach to Daytona
- Coaches are Air-Conditioned and Lavatory-Equipped
- On-Campus Departures

SURF SUDS SUN FUN

ALL TOURS INCLUDE:
- First Class Oceanfront Accommodations for Eight (8) days, Seven (7) Nights at the Ramada Inn/Silver Beach, Days Inn or Inn On The Beach. All located directly on the strip.
- Hotel features include Air-Conditioned Rooms, Private Bath and Shower, Color TV, Maid Service, Swimming Pool, Restaurant and Live Entertainment.
- Welcome and Farewell Parties with plenty of FREE BEER.
- Exclusive 11th Anniversary ID Card for discounts at Shops, Restaurants, Night Clubs, etc.
- Services of the Beachcomber Staff.
- Limited Space Available — Reservation Required

OPTIONAL: Walt Disney World Tour, Kickerbilies, Deep Sea Fishing, Cancellation Protection and more.

PRICES DOES NOT INCLUDE SOUTHERN 15% FOR TAX, GRATUITIES AND SERVICE FOR THE ABOVE.

BY JET 8 Days/7 Nights $375 March 15 - 22

BY BUS 10 Days/9 Nights $179 March 14 - 23

CONTACT Mike Bruha 256-8625

MEMBER DAYTONA BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Beachcomber Tours, Inc.
1505 Mass. Ave., Arlington, MA 02174
(617) 646-1972 (800) 343-1179

FREE WATER

...and a free dinner at the UMass Phonathon '80. Help scholarships, sports, fine arts, BDIC and more — Monday thru Thursday, March 3-6, 10-13, 24-27, 31-April 3, and April 7-10, starting at 6:00PM. Drop by Room 8 Memorial Hall or call 545-2317 for info.

★ Johansen

CONT. FROM PAGE 6

sourvenir.) I sat down and he agreed to let me get a more "serious" interview..

JM So when is your new album coming out, or are there any plans for a new one in the forseeable future?

Keyboardist Ronnie Guy) It should be out sometime in April or May.

JM What will the title be?

DJ (jokingly?) Ashes in the Wind. I don't know, but we're working on it.

JM Why do you guys play the club circuit so frequently? Don't your albums sell?

Guy Sure, we sell 'em by the thousands.

DJ By the hundreds.

JM How do you keep up such a rigid schedule of performing?

DJ A lot of stamina and a lot of drugs.

JM Many of your songs and your covers seem to be influenced by an appreciation of Motown and soul sounds. Why are you taking this direction? Away from new wave I mean.

DJ I don't know. Do you suppose we could be starting a "revival" movement?

JM Last year the Grateful Dead played the Spring Concert at UMass. Would you consider playing it this year?

DJ Yeah, if they'd ask us.

Find it all— find it fast in Collegian classifieds

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark	6:00 PM	supper (potluck)
	7:00 PM	Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays	1:15 PM	At Newman

Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

AMC AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Tw-Lite Show Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
- DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
- STAR TREK G (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
- THE FOG R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
- KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
- James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
- STEVE MARTIN The JERK R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
- Richard Gere American Gigolo R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
- DO NOT EAT. DOM DeLUISE ANNE BANCROFT Fatso PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
17 Montague Rd.
Next to N. Amherst PO
549-0626
Free Delivery

PIZZA

	Small	Large
Pepperoni	$2.90	$4.90
Anchovies	2.90	4.90
Hamburg	2.90	4.90
Ham	2.90	4.90
Sausage	2.90	4.90
Plain	2.30	4.00
Onions	2.60	4.50
Peppers	2.60	4.50
Onion-Pepper	2.90	4.90
Mushrooms	3.00	5.00
Salami	2.90	4.90
Two-way Comb	3.30	5.50
3-way Comb	3.50	6.00
4-way Comb	3.70	6.50
Super Special	4.30	7.00

STEAK GRINDERS

	Small	Large
Plain	$1.30	$2.10
with Cheese	1.50	2.50
with Onions	1.50	2.50
with Peppers	1.50	2.50
w/Mushrooms	1.65	2.60
with Egg	1.85	2.85

GRINDERS

	Whole	Half
Salami	$2.00	$1.50
Meatless	1.85	1.10
Genova	2.20	1.50
Meatball	2.20	1.50
Sausage	2.20	1.50
Tuna Fish	2.60	1.55
Ham	2.20	1.50
Italian	2.20	1.50
Roast Beef	2.70	1.70
Ham & Egg	2.40	1.50
Pepper & Egg	2.40	1.50
Pastrami	2.70	1.70
Turkey	2.50	1.50

SPAGHETTI

with Sauce	$2.50
with Meat Balls	2.80
with Sausage	2.80

DINNERS & GREEK SALADS

COUPON 25c on large pizza

Pleasant St. Theater
4th Week
"A MASTERPIECE" —Andrew Sarris, Village Voice

Rainer Werner Fassbinder's THE MARRIAGE OF MARIA BRAUN
R
6, 8:10, 10:20
21 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-0761

the campus convienence store
OPEN AT 7:30 am MON-FRI
8:30 am SAT & SUN

UNION NEWS & SWEET SHOP
student union building

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
Thurs. & Fri. Feb. 28 & 29

LUNA
with special guests
"The most adventurous glitter rockers since the advent of David Bowie."
$2 cover charge

Sat. March 1
A & M Recording Artists
PRIVATE LIGHTNING
"A classy rock band that gets high marks in all categories"
with special guests (jazz fusion to the max)
$2 cover charge

FX

UPCOMING
The Atlantics Mar. 7
Beaver Brown Mar. 8

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

The healthful alternative. All natural. No caffeine.

The Celestial feeling is a mellow, relaxed feeling that says no caffeine and all natural. A welcome relief from that old tea and coffee grind. A refreshingly alive feeling that is so downright unique you'll want to share it with the whole family or the whole office. Celestial Seasonings® Herb Teas. Three exciting flavors and all you add is a little water and a little love.

15¢ STORE COUPON 15¢
CELESTIAL SEASONINGS HERB TEAS
15¢ COUPON 70734 100202 15¢ COUPON

Cats drop hoopmen

VILLANOVA, Pa.—The men's basketball team fell victim to a familiar second-half hex last night as it wasted a 40-33 halftime lead and ended up losing to Villanova University, 85-63 in the opening round of the Eastern Eight playoffs.

Thus endeth the season for UMass.

The Minutemen surprised everyone by running their way to a 31-30 lead with three and a half minutes to go in the first half, then increasing that margin to 37-33 and finally 40-33 at the half on a Curtis Phauls buzzer beater.

But the ball that had bounced UMass' way the first half must have gotten lost during the halftime festivities because in the second half the orange pill and the ballgame belonged to the Wildcats. Villanova scored a Eastern Eight playoff record 52 points in the second half.

Before the men from Massachusetts could tighten their laces for the second half, Villanova had put in nine straight points to take the lead again 42-40. UMass was able to tie the score at the 15 minute mark on a Jeff Bierly jumper but Rory Sparrow (8 points) and Tom Sienkiewicz hit from the floor and Alex Bradley (high man with 21) made good twice from the foul line to put the opposition up 48-42.

UMass was able to stay in the game as Tom Witkos (8 points) and Dan Wright (UMass leader with 15 points) hit from Chris Ford Land to make it 50-48 with over 11 minutes left to play. But from then on in the Wildcats worked the ball inside for two-footers and it was time to say the long good bye to the visitors from New England.

"They just wore us out," Coach Hay Wilson said after the game. "Even in the first half they were sending people in and out. We've been through a real tough stretch in the last two-and-a-half weeks as far as the number of games that we've played. We were fatigued."

Bradley had a career high 18 rebounds to go along with his point total. John Pinone scored 18 points for Villanova, Sienkiewicz had 11 and Aaron Howard tallied 10. The Wildcats shot 34.2 percent from the field to UMass' 48.3 in the first period but the tables were turned in the second half as the winners ended up shooting 43.3 percent and UMass 40.3 percent for the game.

Fouls hurt UMass as it sent Villanova to the free throw line 22 times in the second half and the Wildcats capitalized for 20 points. UMass only had four tries from the gimme stripe, making good only once.

Larry Bird of the Celtics lays the ball up over Atlanta's John Brown last night. The Celtics won, 108-97. (AP Laserphoto)

'Jib' Bowers: Hawaiian happy in the East

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

The question was posed to UMass swimmer Jib Bowers.

"What has your life been like?"

"It was growing up in Honolulu," he began. "It meant being very casual, very loose, but a go-getter."

For Bowers, whose life experiences have included modelling, and trips to Europe and Japan while still in high school, there existed a little more than a quiet life in Hawaii.

"Why did you come to UMass after all that," asked his inquisitor.

"The hotel school," he answered simply. "Also I had never seen snow, except in Japan on top Mount Fuji. I wanted to be on the East Coast, because California and Honolulu have the same type of living. The East Coast is completely different. I wanted to live in it instead of just see it from a distance."

"Do you like it here?"

"Oh, yeah, I really like it. It's made me grow up a lot in terms of the people. I've always known people that were very laid back. Here everyone's very punctual, very 'do this, do that'".

Bower's swimming career began just before high school, when he was offered a tryout by an AAU coach while he was participating on a recreational team in Honolulu.

"I got very good quickly," he recalls.

"When I hit senior year in high school things were changed," Bowers commented. "I had done all this travelling. I had gone to Europe, been to Japan, and been up here. Then I was doing modelling which introduces you to all these different people: Very wealthy, very affluent, very bizarre, very showy people. I liked going out with them. It wasn't a matter of the drugs or the drinking, because I don't do it. They're night people and swimming requires a day person. It's the type of thing where you get up at five-thirty in the morning and go to practice, go to school, go to practice and you're in bed by nine. Their lives started at nine."

In 1978 Bowers entered Umass, which required, on top of long hours of practice and study, more adjustment.

"I found that I was a different caliber of swimmer than the rest of the people here," he said. "It was not my type of workout because they didn't help me. It (swimming) got really boring and really hard," he recalls. "He (former UMass swim coach Avraham Melamed) demanded more and more out of me. He was a great coach but only for the other people on the team who had started in college. I was already a "swimmer" and I needed more of my own training. MY 100 (butterfly) time didn't get any better at all but my 200 which I never swam in high school except in state championships suddenly was getting much better."

It was a total mood change for Bowers, as he moved from a swimming circle of the West Coast where he had the ability to perform in his own style, to one where there was an apparent necessity for him to change his entire movement in order to adapt.

"He (Melamed) wanted to change my stroke, and this was the hard part," commented Bowers. "I had a stroke that was fast. It didn't need to be changed, it needed practice. That just hurt my performance completely."

In his first year at the New England Intercollegiate Swimming Association Championships, Bowers finished third in the 100 butterfly, and shaved three seconds off his time in the 200 fly, ending up sixth. But Coach Melamed was disappointed by his freshman's performance in the competition, which had a disastrous affect on Bowers.

"The whole thing really made me tired," he admitted. "I went back to Honolulu this summer and decided that I was tired of swimming, that last year had really drained me. I didn't swim at all."

After a full year of a rather trying, unpleasant experience, Bowers came back to school willing to give swimming one more shot.

"I came back up here in the fall and I was really looking forward to swimming, and it went well for a while. Then suddenly I realized that it wasn't the coaching but the swimming that I was getting tired of. I missed all the people I swam with in Honolulu. They were all still unbelievable. They're getting better and better because they have the same coach, but I'm still plugging along."

After six years of swimming Bowers has decided that he would like to break away from the emotional and physical pressures of the athletic world, and concentrate on other aspects of his life.

"I think that after this year I'm going to quit swimming competitively," he said. "But I definitely want to coach."

"Could you leave it altogether?" someone wondered.

"No," he answered.

IM wrestling on tap

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The Bad News Bears will be going for their first wrestling title, sending nine men into the championship round of the intramural tourney started last week. Tonight at 7:30 in Boyden's Auxillary gym, the Bad News Bears' nine along with 21 others will be wrestling to win first place plaques.

The field includes seven who will be looking to defend titles. Kevin Bergston of the Bad News Bears, last year's 135 pound class winner, will see action in the 145 pound class. Ken Ross, defending champ in the 155 pound class will wrestle at 160 and Jim Scanlon goes from 170 to 175.

Defending 175 pound champ Phil Crawford will wrestle tonight in the 170 pound class and Roy Barudin moves from 180 to 185 pounds. Crawford and Barudin are Bears.

Joe Mc Donough, also a Bear, who holds the 185 pound title will wrestle in the 180 class, advancing a round after a semi-final pin over Randy Rice.

Larry Grasso, last year's 190 pound champ will wrestle Heavyweight, as the Bears ninth entrant to advance to championship competition.

According to Joel Biechele, who is in charge of the IM tourney, of 17 weight classes only one—125 pounds had no entrants. The 130 pound class had one entrant, Scott Peterson of the Bears, who chose to wrestle in the 135 class. Peterson, wrestling men ahead of his weight class, has advanced to the finals.

In Monday's semi final action, Joe Marra pinned Dave Jacobs in 50 seconds flat to win a spot on tonight's line-up. Marra will face Dave Ehrman in 150 pound competition.

Jarrles Tarantino secured a spot in the finals with a close sudden death overtime win over Tom Grimm in the 140 pound class.

Jim Degnim

Stream of consciousnesss

Before we get started, is there anyone out there who hasn't heard how big Eric Heiden's thighs are? Just checking.

While the U.S. Olympic hockey team's win over the Soviet Union team was great to see, it is sad how the game became a symbolic war over the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan. The Olympic spirit is one of athletes from all over the world coming together to compete. The competition isn't meant to be fierce and bitter. It is a time when athletes from different cultures join under the umbrella of sport.

Twelve men attempting to force a disc of vulcanized rubber into a six feet by four feet goal became capitalism and democracy against communism and totalitarianism. Since the team from the United States managed to force the puck into the opposing goal one more time than the Soviets, our way was deemed to be better.

The crisis in ' an awakened nationalistic fervor in Americans, a fervor which had been invisible of late. The hockey victory compounded these emotions. America rallied around the hockey team, not bad in itself. But had the team beaten friendly nations on its way to the gold medal, I somehow think that it wouldn't have had such an effect.

I find it interesting, though predictable, that President Carter was so quick to conspicuously associate himself with the team. Hockey barely exists in his home state of Georgia save for the Atlanta Flames, whom the locals regard as something to be tolerated until football rolls around again. In Georgia, there are only two sports, as Abe Lemons would say, "Football and spring football."

But Carter, to whom "icing" is something Billy does to beer, immediately became Joe Hockey Fan, just like he became Joe Baseball Fan and Willie Stargell's buddy after the Pirates won the World Series.

Yes, the government was quick to align itself with the hockey team, but things were different when the Olympic was looking for money. It's like not chipping in when your friends call out for pizza but asking for a slice anyway.

Lest we get too serious, let's discuss the popular Boston Celtics.

I hope Red Auerbach and the Celtics don't draft Mike Gminski. Auerbach has expressed interest in the Monroe, Connecticut native and does seem to have a fondness for white players. (Tell me it's coincidence that the Celtics have more white players than any other team in the NBA, and I'll get you a good deal on the Brooklyn Bridge.) But I just don't think that Gminski will be that good as an NBA center. He is slow and can't jump.

Roosevelt Bouie of Syracuse is the man that could really help the Boston team. He is a great defensive player, runs well for a big man and has improved his offense a great deal in the past four years.

I know what you're saying. "What about Joe Barry Carroll?" He is a very good scorer, but his and consequently his defense are suspect. The Celtics need a big man who won't slow the team down. Bouie is the guy.

As for the other first-round choice, Kansas guard Darnell Valentine would look very nice in the Green and White, but I doubt he'll last long enough for the Celtics to pick him. There are quite a few good guards available including Kyle Macy, Sam Worthen, Ronnie Lester and Rolando Blackman. The Knicks have the rights to Reggie Carter.

Something to ponder: The Chicago Cubs will be paying Bruce Sut $700,000 this year to throw a baseball 60 feet. They even pay a guy to catch the ball.

By the way, if you didn't like this column, I'm sorry. Sports are foreign to me. I just found out that Bob Marley doesn't play for the Whalers.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 93 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Thursday, February 28, 1980

Like father, like son

Gregory Fournier of Leverett sharpens his chainsaw as son Kali Kai looks on with wonder and amazement. (Staff photo by Wayne Rosenberg)

1980 budget gets first look in Hub hearing

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Next year's proposed $142 million budget for the three-campus UMass system went before the state House Ways and Means Committee for the first time yesterday.

That budget represents a 10 precent increase over this year's $128.4 million budget, said Ken Moore, a member of the Student Center for Education and Research Advocacy. Representatives from the three campuses—in Amherst, Boston, and Worcester—presented the budget at Gardner Auditorium in Boston.

Gov. Edward J. King recommended a two percent increase for the University, more than $10 million below the amount requested, Moore said. King has recommended a 5.8-percent increase in the overall state budget, said Moore.

The proposed budget is $142 million.

The hearing was the first of a long process, ending in June, to decide the University and state budget, Moore said. Maintenance problems at the three campuses, as well as a perceived need for more student financial aid were among issues discussed, he said.

The economic importance of the University to surrounding communities was also debated, Moore said.

Also represented at the meeting were various community colleges, the state Board of Higher Education, the state Department of Education, the University of Lowell and Southeastern Massachusetts University, Moore said.

"We need students to get involved," he added. SCERA plans a mass-mailing campaign to the parents of 15,000 students living outside District 3 of Hampshire County, he said. Letters to 34,000 alumni will also be mailed, Moore added.

"Legislators need mail and phone calls occasionally," said Moore. "If enough calls and letters arrive at the right time, it can be pretty irritating to them."

The MSP.....

Massachusetts Society of Professors

A Strong Faculty — A Strong University

Profs blast de-certification effort

By VICKI NEWCOMBE
Special to the Collegian

Charging a "manipulative use of the faculty," and "blackmail tactics" in the contract negotiation process, the Massachusetts Society of Professors strongly criticized the actions of the Committee of 400, the faculty group opposed to collective bargaining during a press conference yesterday.

The COM400, previously known as the Faculty Freedom Task Force, distributed petition cards several months ago to all UMass faculty members calling for the "periodic evaluation" of the MSP. The MSP won the right to engage in collective bargaining in behalf of the UMass faculty in February 1977.

According to an MSP press release, faculty members who signed and returned the petition cards either knowingly or inadvertently called for the State Labor Relations Commission to hold a new election. The Task Force effort failed, but the MSP claims it is a "thinly disguised union decertification campaign."

Jules Chametsy, MSP President, told reporters the actions of the COM400 are "irresponsible at this crucial point in the destiny of the faculty union," and the COM400 is giving the administration a weapon to "hold out" in the bargaining process.

Emphasizing that the MSP wants a new contract, Chametsky said the COM400 is performing a "basic disservice" to faculty members' interests. MSP members said a large number of the Task Force members are of senior standing in their academic units, are well paid, and therefore not concerned about retrenchment or the effects of inflation on faculty salaries.

MSP Executive Board member, Peter D'errico, commented on the FFTF's apparent ties with the Virginia-based organization called The National Right To Work Committee. The Committee has been linked to FFTF communiques, court proceedings and press releases. According to the MSP press release, the committee "boasts a history of union-busting endeavors and opposition to established job-protection laws." D'errico said historically the Committee interprets the right-to-work as "the right to be subservient."

MSP members said they welcomed the COM400's participation in the contract

TURN TO PAGE 4

The union charges the group with 'manipulative use of the faculty,' 'blackmail,' and say they are performing a 'basic disservice.'

Anti-union ruling won't affect UM

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

Faculty unions at colleges and universities have traditionally formed to protect teachers wages, hours and positions through collective bargaining with the administration. But after a Supreme Court decision last week, faculty at private institutions no longer have the right to unionize.

In a case involving Yeshiva University, a Jewish Theological Seminary in New York, the court ruled that because faculty members were directly involved in university management, they could not form a faculty union.

The faculty at Yeshiva, like their counterparts at other private institutions, make tenure, promotion, and curriculum decisions directly effecting the school.

Jules Chametsky, President of the UMass Chapter of the Massachusetts Society of Professors said though the court's ruling does not effect faculty unions at the 302 public universities where unions exist, it was a "bad decision" concerning any faculty union.

"It could very well be reversed if applied to the public sector," Chametsky said.

TURN TO PAGE 4

DIGEST

HIGHFIELDS, Zimbabwe-Rhodesia—Robert Mugabe, leader of the majority of guerillas who have been fighting the seven-year war against this former British colony's illegal white-ruled regime, casts an historic vote yesterday in a three-day election under British supervision, designed to legalize the colony and bring internationally recognized independence. He was voting in this Salisbury suburb specified for blacks under the apartheid rule. (AP Laserphoto)

Hostages: Release in May?

(AP) Iran's new parliament will not be ready to decide the fate of the U.S. Embassy hostages until May at the earliest, a top Iranian official said yesterday.

The official, Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti first secretary of the Revolutionary Council, indicated that only a change of heart by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini could lead to an earlier release of the hostages, held by Iranian militant since Nov. 4.

Khomeini, leader of Iran's revolution, said last weekend the decision on whether to free the Americans would be up to the Majlis, or parliament, which will be elected in March and early April.

Reacting to Beheshti's statements, a high-level U.S. official said in Washington, "It would be of grave concern if the process dragged on that long."

Gas available—but expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be plenty of gasoline this summer, but American drivers will be using less as prices push toward an expected year-end high of $1.50 per gallon, the Energy Department is predicting.

In a 12-month outlook of the nation's energy situation, department economists took a more optimistic position on gasoline prices than many private analysts, who are forecasting even steeper increases during the current year.

Because of the higher prices and increases automobile fuel efficiency, the agency is estimating Americans will use 6.8 million barrels of gasolive daily in 1980, compared to 7.03 million barrels a day in 1979.

Afghan repression cited

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Afghan authorities resorted to large-scale repression and executions following last week's anti-Soviet uprising in the capital of Kabul, according to a report published here yesterday.

The report by the Associated Press of Pakistan, which could not be independently confirmed, quoted diplomatic sources as saying an Islamic scholar was among those killed by authorities in the aftermath of the bloody street fighting.

Mass arrests also were made, the report said.

Tito reported near death

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito has begun to bleed, his doctors said yesterday, and medical sources said it could signal the approach of death for the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader.

Tito's doctors said he was still suffering from pneumonia and increasingly erratic heart activity. Tito's left leg was amputated last month, and in the past week his medical team said he was being supported by an artificial kidney.

N.H. fallout

Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy appear at a news conference yesterday in Andover. Reagan talked about picking up delegates in such liberal strongholds as Massachusetts. "It's very difficult for me to stand here and feel optmistic about the only state that voted for McGovern," the Republican presidential candidate told reporters. (AP Laserphoto)

Bush in The Hub

By LARRY DWIGHT
Special to the Colegian

BOSTON — George Bush, former Central Intelligence director and Republican presidential hopeful, last night told 500 at the Copley Plaza Hotel, "I took it on the chin" in the New Hampshire primaries Tuesday. Ronald Reagan, former California governor, Tuesday received 51 percent of the GOP vote, Bush 22 percent and Sen. Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee 13 percent.

Bush last night, however, said he "will win" in the Massachusetts primaries Tuesday. In the Iowa caucus in January, however, Bush clearly outdistanced his opponents, gaining 17 delegates while his nearest opponent, Reagan, managed nine.

Speaking with his wife, Barbara, and daughter, Dorothy, alongside, Bush reiterated his pro-nuclear power platform to the crowd, the majority of whom were under 25, adding, however, that nuclear power should be "implemented slowly" and supplemented with solar power, as well.

On the economy, Bush castigated President Jimmy Carter, noting that the annual rate of inflation is 18 percent and unemployment 9 percent. Bush said he would control federal spending while stimulating investment and productivity. By improving the economy, he said, Blacks and minorities would have a "better opportunity to get ahead."

Asked about his role in the GOP debate Sunday in Nashua, N.H., Bush replied, "Reagan didn't keep his word." That debate, which sparked protests from other GOPhopefuls, John Anderson,

'I took it on the chin' in New Hampshire.

Phillip Crane and Bob Dole among them, was sponsored by The Nashua Telegraph and originally was to include Bush and Reagan only. Reagan Saturday apparently contacted the other candidates, however, asking whether they would like to join the debate. All replied they would debate, but at the last minute, apparently, The Telegraph decided only Reagan and Bush would debate.

"We had a signed contract between Reagan and myself to debate which did not exclude any of the candidates," Bush told the Collegian, and, "The truth will come out soon—already Phillip Crane and Howard Baker are saying that they were used."

Early last night, at the Copley, 600 young professionals gathered for a $25-per-plate fundraising dinner. Then, later, another group of older Bush supporters paid $250 per plate for a dinner on their candidate's behalf.

While the second party ate, the others listened to Bush speak. But as the night wore on, the older supporters filtered in to listen to Bush.

King: Carter may win in Mass. race

By THOMAS S. BROWN
Associated Press

BOSTON — Gov. Edward J. King raised the prospect yesterday of President Carter beating Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in next Tuesday's Massachusetts primary.

King volunteered that reading of the Bay State's political mood upon returning from the National Governors Conference in Washington, D.C. and meetings with Carter.

Up until now, King, an ardent Carter supporter, has adhered to the line laid down by Carter's Massachusetts campaign manager, David Flynn. King and Flynn have asserted repeatedly that a 15 to 20 percent showing by Carter in Kennedy's home state would constitute a "victory" for the incumbent.

However, after seeing the results of the New Hampshire primary, King told reporters, "I personally think he'll do significantly better than 20 percent."

King declined to specify a figure himself but when a reporter asked if Carter could come within 10 percentage points of Kennedy, King replied, "I certainly do. I also think Carter could win."

"That's not a prediction," King quickly added. "You asked me, 'Could he win?' I said sure, he could win."

In response to another question, King said he "very definitely" expected Carter to do better in Massachusetts than Kennedy will do in Georgia, the president's home state.

In other remarks, King expressed satisfaction with positions taken by the governors in favor of increased coal-burning. King said converting utilities to coal is an expensive proposition but "much better than continued dependence on foreign oil."

Connecticut Governor Ella Grasso yester-

TURN TO PAGE 5

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

TACO VILLA
ARE SUBS & PIZZAS
Getting Boring
Treat yourself to a Refreshing Change
•Wholesome•Quick•Inexpensive
Center of Downtown Amherst & N'ton.
Mon.-Thurs. 11-9 Fri. & Sat. 11-11 Sun. 3-9

Stockbridge Class of 81
Presents
FRITZ THE CAT
X Rated Humor
Animated
Full Length Feature
$1.50
Sunday, March 2nd
C.C.A. at
6:00, 7:45, 9:30 & 11:15

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 Special Engagements Excluded Tw-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. - RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 PG
STAR TREK (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15 G
THE FOG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
KIRK DOUGLAS FARRAH FAWCETT SATURN 3 (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 PG
STEVE MARTIN THE JERK (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 R
Richard Gere American Gigolo (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
DO NOT EAT. DOM DeLUISE ANNE BANCROFT Fatso (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45 PG

Anti-draft group plans protest

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

The Students Against the Draft group last night announced plans to stage a picket line outside the Amherst Post Office March 11 at noon. The "Picket For Peace" is scheduled as part of a continuing battle the group is carrying on in order to halt the institution of the draft.

The protest is to be used as a warmup for a day-long national March on Washington D.C., March 22, said a spokesman.

The group chose the Post Office for the protest because students would register at Post Offices across the nation in the event of a mandatory draft or registration.

Joe Schwartz, a representative for the national group, Mobilization Against the Draft, spoke to approximately 75 local member of SAD who attended yesterday's meeting. This date is important because it coincides with the time that the legislature will be moving on the draft proposal, he said.

He stressed that student participation and a large turnout at the rally in Washington would have a significant impact on possible legislative action. Plans were also being made for busses to leave the Amherst area for those who would like to attend the rally. Busses will also leave from Boston.

SAD released a statement outlining their objective and goals they seek to acheive. besides opposing the draft, they stated they support development of safe non-nuclear energy forms. They also support programs designed to address problems of poverty, unemployment, racism and sexism in the United States.

Joe Schwartz, a representative from the Mobilization Against the Draft, addresses part of the crowd at last nights SAD meeting. Schwartz outlined plans for a March 22 march on the Capital. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

SCERA: We need help

Appeals for student involvement

'We're looking for people. When policy decisions are made that effect us, we'll have a voice in the decision.'
—Henderson

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

Student Coordinator for the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy Mary Henderson called for widespread student involvement in the six major departments of SCERA, in a meeting last night of the Undergraduate Student Senate.

Henderson said SCERA's major goal is student empowerment in all aspects of the University. She said what SCERA "desperately needs" now is people to join the individual teams that make up the organization.

Henderson said information on any campus issues affecting students that are not being addressed should be brought to the attention of SCERA.

"We're looking for people," Henderson said. "When policy decisions are made that affect us, we'll have a voice in the decision."

The teams, which are open to any UMass student, are the Academic Team, Residential Team, Anti-Racism Team, Student Affairs Team, Women's Issues Team and Public Policy Team.

Ellen Levy, chair of the Academic Team, said a pamphlet outlining different places a student can go to gain knowledge and credit will be distributed to students in early March.

The primary goal of the academic team is to insure the academic freedom and rights of students, according to an outline submitted to the senate by the team.

Residential Team Leader Kevin George said his group is "trying to work with issues of immediate concern within the dorms and long range things, such as student control of their dorms."

George said that, among other things, his group will try to build up lease power so students could get refunds if they had serious problems with their rooms.

Ken Moore, Public Policy Team leader said his group is basically trying to keep a very close contact with state legislators. He showed a two-inch thick book of current state committee work that the team scrutinizes to find bills that might affect students.

In other business, SGA co-President Rich LaVoice urged senators to seek students who might be interested in running for seats on the Amherst Town Meeting which is held semi-annually. LaVoice stressed the importance of student input into Town Government.

"We're going to try to get more control over decisions that have a very real affect on us," LaVoice said.

One issue that was mentioned was the possibility that the state legislature might pass an educational excise tax that would be controlled by the town government. Without student representation, the town would have the means to "make a quick million bucks," senator Jay Flynn said.

Two fined in JFK 'trashing'

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

Two students responsible for the trashing of the 10th floor of John F. Kennedy Tower Dec. 21 have been identified and ordered to pay restitution for the damages, Paul Yanowitch, assistant to the Dean of Students said yesterday.

Both students, who Yanowitch declined to identify, were ordered to pay more than $100 in restitution to the University.

At the time of the trashing, Yanowitch said, the 10th floor lounge was "ankle-deep" in broken glass and broken furniture. The dryers in the laundry room had been knocked over, the bathrooms flooded with water and excrement smeared on the walls.

One of the students has left UMass because of academic probation but has been sent a bill for the damages. If the student returns, Yanowitch said, the student will face disciplinary action.

The other student has paid the restitution and has agreed to reside off-campus in lieu of disciplinary action.

The students will not face court action, yanowitch said.

Wayne Burns, JFK middle head of residence, said the students were identified through a series of telephone calls and with the cooperation of inhabitants of the 10th floor. Beginning this semester, Burns said, all unreported instances of vandalism will be billed to all members of the floor on which they occur.

Burns said the new policy would "increase peer pressure" on vandals, that he could not disclose the names of the involved students and that UMass Police initially investigated the "mess."

How quickly things change...Monday's warm weather gave Chris Britt, 1, and friend a chance to play some tunes in Amherst Center. (Staff photo by Peter Berry)

'Sickened' judge ousts stab case

By MICHAEL FOLEY
Special to the Collegian

NORTHAMPTON — Judge Alvertus J. Morse called an alleged stabbing incident involving UMass students "a case of racism mixed with alcohol," but he found no probable cause, or not enough evidence to go to trial with.

At the Probable Cause Hearing Tuesday, John Mcglone claimed he was stabbed by Winston Smith at a Christmas party in George Washington Tower on Dec. 15.

In explaining his decision, Judge Morse said no one saw a weapon and no weapon has been found. Secondly, in the crowded hallway, where the incident took place, no one saw the defendent make a swiping motion with a knife.

Judge Morse said, "This case makes me sick. It disturbs me a great deal. This is the fault of the University. If this is what our Universities are like—and we have evidence that whites were chasing blacks outside the building—what will our young people come to." In the Hampshire County District courtroom four black men sat on the bench in the rear and ten white men sat on the front two benches.

Mcglone, who is white, was taken on the night of the party to the UMass infirmary with about a two and a half inch deep wound on his back near the left shoulder. He testified that he "felt a pain," a "ripping" in his shoulder as he grabbed Smith, who is black, about the legs. He could not say positively that he had been stabbed.

According to concurring-testimony, it was Julian Shaw and Mcglone who were involved in the altercation. After some shoves and words, Shaw, who weighs 135 lbs, was cornered by the elevator where debate became heated and Mcglove had to be restrained.

Peter Falk, who was holding Mcglone on

TURN TO PAGE 14

★ Ruling

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Labor law authority at the UMass Labor Research Center, Harvey Friedman, called the case "one of a kind." While public university unions are sanctioned by state law, unions at private institutions have to be approved by the National Labor Relations Board, he said.

Friedman said the NLRB's statutes exclude managers and supervisors from organizing because of their decision-making positions.

There are 80 private universities where faculty unions exist, Friedman said, adding the ruling may place faculty-administration bargaining "into a non-existent field" at private institutions. Though the faculty may still negotiate hours and wages, the issue of faculty governance may not be negotiated, he said.

The existing union contracts will still be maintained but some schools may refuse to negotiate when their contracts expire, Friedman said.

Friedman called the governing structure at Yeshiva "not typical" though the faculty at most private universities "runs its own show."

Justice William J. Brennan's dissenting opinion said five-justices comprising the majority looked through "rose-colored glasses" when making the decision. Brennan said the managerial positions of faculty no longer effectively exist and that private higher education is now "big business."

The 5-4 majority decision referred to the governing structure at Yeshiva as "mature" or long-established.

★ MSP

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

negotiation process but charged that invitations have been answered with "bogus claims and lies," of union expenditures and financial disclosures.

D'errico and Chametsky were joined by MSP officers Vice-President John Bracey, Treasurer George Burak, and Office Director, Lynn Seymour, at the Campus Center press conference.

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

RUN FOR OFFICE

Nomination papersare due tomorrow by 5:00 for the 10 at-large seats on the Campus Center Board of Governors and 1 area seat is available from all areas except Southwest which has 2 seats and the commuters have 3 seats. Nomination papers more information available in the Senate Office 420 Student Union. Elections March 11 & 12 11:00 to 6:00

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Live productions presents

LENE LOVICH

Thurs. March 13 - 8 PM

Bowker Auditorium

UMass-$5.50-Public-$6.50

Available at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited (UMass) For the Record (Amherst) Platterpus (Northampton)

THE KINKS Thurs. March 6 - FAC - 8PM

CREEDO'S coffeehouse

GAMES/FOOD/MUSIC

111 Pleasant St. N'hamp. 7 pm-2 am Closed Mon.

SHAMPOO

starring: Warren Beatty, Goldie Hawn

THURSDAY, FEB. 28

Mahar Aud. (UMass) $1

7:00, 9:00, 11:00

CENTRAL AREA COUNCIL OFFICER ELECTIONS

Nomination papers for President, Vice President, and Treasurer can be obtained at 426 Van Meter North.

Must be returned by Saturday Mar. 1, 1980 by 2:00 PM

Man Cannot Live On Books Alone

and neither can woman

Bells Pizza House

Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am

Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am

65 University Drive

549-1311 253-9051

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

Free off-campus delivery

Almaden California Burgandy ..... 750 ml $2.49

Costa Do Sol Port. Rose . $2.25 qt.

Giumara California Wine 1.5 liters Mt. Vin Rose, Mt. Chablis, Mt. Burgandy $3.99

Vodka 80° special ..... $4.95 qt.

Harvey's Bristol Cream 750 ml. $7.49

1976 Cote's Du Rhone . . $2.49 fifth

CHECK THESE PRICES!

Growers Wines

Red, White, Rose

.99 750 ml.

2.99 ½ gal.

4.99 gal.

Schlitz 12 oz NR's ..... $7.49 case

Tuborg 12 oz. NR's $6.99 cs 1.99/6

Schmidt's 12 oz. NR's . . $6.59 case

Come Early and Come Often!

BOOK SALE

New Books Added Daily!

75% OFF back to old time prices

Many books were reduced previously which means extra savings because we're discounting 75% off the lowest price on the book

Hundreds of Books paperbacks and hardbounds

LAST TWO DAYS

on the Campus Center Concourse special tables across from the store a super sale from the UNIVERSITY STORE

Around campus

Presidential Forum

The People's Gay Alliance will hold a Presidential Forum tonight at 8 p.m. in Campus Center room 904. Representatives of several candidates will speak, with a question/answer session to follow. For more information call the PGA at 545-0154

Special Sabbath Service

The UMass Hillel and the Amherst Jewish Community are co-sponsoring a special Sabbath service tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall Auditorium, 2nd floor (north of Herter Hall).

Support Group to Meet

A support group for persons who have or have had anorexia nervosa will meet on six consecutive Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the Central Women's Center in Baker Dormitory in the Central Residential Area, beginning March 26. For more information, call 546-6181

Northampton Energy Program

The Hitchcock Center For the Environment will sponsor "The Energy Crisis: Who Cares", Saturday, March 1 at Thorne's in Northampton. The program is the first in a series designed to inform Hampshire County residents of the human side of the energy crisis. For more information call Steve Bressler at 545-0926.

Lecture Series on Montaigne

The Five College international colloquium will present a series of lectures commemorating Montaigne's "Essays" tomorrow and Saturday. The program will begin at Converse Hall, Amherst college, at 2 p.m. tomorrow, moving to Wright Hall, Smith College tomorrow night at 8 p.m., and conclude Saturday morning at 9:30 at Converse Hall in Amherst. Topics for the sessions range from the early reception of the "Essays" to the specificity of language and rhetorical devices. Observers are welcome.

Mass Energy Head to Speak

Massachusetts Office of Energy Resources Secretary Joseph Fitzpatrick will conduct a press conference Thursday, March 28, at 6:45 p.m. at the Holyoke Mall at Ingleside – Cafe Square. Fitzapatrick will speak on the "Energy Future of Massachusets – What's Ahead?" at 7 p.m., following the press conference. For more information contact Paul Raverta at Holyoke Community College or The Massachusetts Office of Energy Resource at 739-9615

USER Competition

UMass engineering students are invited to compete in a national Energy Efficiency Competition by the Urban Scientific and Educational Research organization. USER is looking for students who think they can design water-heaters, refrigerator-freezer, or air conditioners that save energy. Winners receive national awards and students have until March 30, 1980 to complete applications. For further information contact USER at P.O. Box 19112/20th Street Station/Washington, D.C. 20036.

Latin American Lecture

The Latin America Studies Committee will host a brown bag luncheon on Thursday, March 6, at noon in Herter Hall's 6th floor lounge. UMass Economics professor Diane Deere will speak on "Nicaraguan Agrarian Reform." All are welcome. For more information contact Nina M. Scott at 545-2887.

★ King

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

day called President Carter's victory in the New Hampshire Democratic primary "spectacular," but she avoided any prognostications for the outcome of Connecticut's March 25 contest.

"I hope we'll be able to get every vote we can for the president," Mrs. Grasso said as she met with reporters. But she would not predict a Carter victory over Sen. Edward Kennedy in Connecticut.

"I have not yet made that great numbers prognostication," she said. Mrs. Grasso was one of the earliest and strongest supporters of the president's re-election bid. She said she hoped that if the Iran situation is settled in time, Carter will campaign in the state.

But the governor said she supports his position that the situation is too critical for him to leave the White House.

"It was a tough decison for him to make, but he opted for duty," Mrs. Grasso said. "I think the events of the last few weeks have shown it is best for the president to do his job." Paul Goodrich, the Carter-Mondale campaign coordinator for Connecticut, also said he was taking nothing for granted because of the New Hampshire victory and Carter's lead in the polls in Connecticut.

"I've never been in an easy presidential primary," he said.

"We're gearing up for a very, very hard effort."

Soviet fliers congratulate US

WASHINGTON AP – The U.S. Olympic hockey team's upset victory over a veteran Soviet squad resulted in an unusual gesture of goodwill between American and Russian forces in the Indian Ocean Area.

Coral Sea. The Soviet airmen switched their radios to and international frequency and, speaking in English, congratulated the AMericans on the Olympic triumph.

Tom Lagare demonstrates karate action in his General Physical Education class Monday night. (Staff photo by Michael Chan)

Last Day to Run for President

Nomination papers are due today by 5:00 for President of the Student Government Association. Papers are to be returned to room 420 Student Union. A drawing to determine the order of names for the ballot will be held tonight at 5:30 rm. 420 Student Union. All candidates are welcome. Elections will be held March 11 & 12 11:00 - 6:00.

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN

NEW EXTENDED HOURS

MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.

FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.

SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.

Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake

The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

foods plus SPECTACULAR

WINTER VITAMIN SALE

SAVE UP TO 40% ON ALL VITAMINS

IT'S EASY TO SAVE... MAKE YOUR OWN ASSORTMENT.*

10% OFF ON PURCHASES OVER $10

30% OFF ON PURCHASES OVER $30

20% OFF ON PURCHASES OVER $20

40% OFF ON PURCHASES OVER $40

College Drug Store 4 Main St. Amherst

Spirit Haus Liquor Store

The Area's Largest Selection of Imported & American Wines

BEER SPECIALS

Heineken Light or Dark $3.99/six

St. Pauli Giri $3.75/six

Carlsberg ..... 12 oz, bottles $4.20/six

Budweiser ..... 12 oz, cans or btls. $7.49/case

Falstaff ..... 12 oz. cans $1.65/six $5.99/case

LIQUOR SELECTION

Mr. Boston Peppermint Schnapps ..... $5.29/qt.

Gordon's Vodka $5.25/quart

Mr. Boston Blackberry Brandy $5.29/fifth

Ron Virgin Rum ..... $9.99/1.75 liters

WINE SELECTION

Rosegarden Liebfraumilch ..... $2.39/750 ml.

Cartiers Blanc de Blancs $2.49/fifth

Folonari Soave, Bardolino, Valpolicella $2.39/liters

Verona Red & White $6.59 3/liters

Robert Mondavi Red & White Table Wine $5.19/magnum

10% Case Discount Available on Wines

Many Other In-Store Specials

Ice, Kegs & Soda Available

338 College St (Rt 9) 256-8433

Amherst open till 11:00

not responsible for typographical errors

Union troubles plague Amherst Morning Record

By LINDA PLAUT
Collegian Staff

In the course of two years employment at the Amherst Morning Record, Susan Hoch, typesetter and union co-steward, has seen significant union struggles to gain recognition from management.

The newspaper, owned by Amherst Publishing Corporation for 17 years, was sold in October 1978 to Allbritton Communications Corporation, a national media chain based in Washington, D.C. The new owners refused to recognize the union contract which contained a clause requiring union recognition by new owners, Hoch said.

Nancy Newcombe, municipal editor and co-steward at the Amherst Morning Record, said the new owners claimed they were not successors to the old contract and it was therefore invalid and ceased to exist.

Hoch said Allbritton Communications Corporation cut their contribution to the health plan and offered a 1980 wage increase "totally unacceptable" to workers.

As part of the old contract employees were covered by the District Security Plan, which Newcombe said was "excellent." Allbritton installed a different plan with fewer benefits, she said.

After nearly a year of labor complaints, arbitrations and the union's threat of a law suit, Allbritton agreed to recognize the union and start bargaining in September, 1979, Hoch said.

New contract proposals are expected to be discussed early in March, Newcombe said. A total financial package, including wages, insurance, paid holidays, vacations, sick days and seniority are only a few of the issues to be negotiated, she said.

As co-stewards in the 15 member bargaining unit, Hoch and Newcombe are the on the premises representatives of the union, District 65 of the United Auto Workers. The unit bargains directly with management. When a contract is resolved, Newcombe said, she will resign as co-steward and Hoch will become chief shop steward.

Purim holiday a festive time

"Purim is probably the most atypical and crazy Jewish holiday," explains Saul Perlmutter, UMass Hillel rabbi. "People stomp their feet and let go with an overwhelming racket on their noisemakers (groggars) everytime Haman (the bad guy) is mentioned. We read a Biblical book called the Scroll of Esther in which God's name is not found even once, and we're encouraged to dress up in all kinds of crazy costumes, " The holiday begins Saturday at sundown.

The reason for these actions is more serious. Approximately 2,500 years ago the Jewish community faced extinction at the conniving of a high government official named Haman. Haman had been insulted because Mordecai, a Jew, refused to bow down to him as if to a god. Haman drew lots(the Hebrew for Purim, hence the name of the holiday) to determine on what day Mordecai and all Jews in the kingdom would be plundered and killed, Perlmutter said.

To make a long story short, Esther, Mordecai's cousin and the King's wife, risked her life to intervene successfully with the King on behalf of her people. The Jews were warned of Haman's plan, they defended themselves, and ultimatley Haman was done in on the day that he had intended to destroy the Jewish community of Persia.

"Unfortunately, there's not always such a happy end to the story," Perlmutter adds. "Anti-Semitism, then in the Persia of 2,500 years ago as now in Iran and even in the enlightened USA, is still a problem. Purim strikes such a responsive chord because Jews continually have had to deal with those who have sought ot destroy us, who have tried to make us bend to their form of tyranny. We celebrate the courage of Queen Esther, who saved us from disaster, and we strenghten our resolve to combat anti-Semitism wherever and however it exists."

At UMass, Purim will be celebrated in several ways. On Friday night, Feb. 29, there will be a service in honor of the Sabbath of Remembrance called "Shabbat Zachor" which precedes Purim. The Smith College Choir will participate in the Hillel and Jewish Community of Amherst sponsored sevice to to be held in Memorial Hall Auditorium at 7:00.

$1 off an any name Pitcher of beer with this coupon
Don't forget our special Happy Hour on Fridays!
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

Sigma Alpha Mu
The only co-ed fraternity on campus invites all University men & women to an Informal Open Rush Party Feb. 27, 28 at 8:00 pm
Free Refreshments
395 N. Pleasant St. 253-9987

Beachcomber Tours PRESENTS ITS 11th ANNUAL daytona beach
FLORIDA
college spring break
FROM 179 DBL OCCUPANCY
JET TOUR
Round Trip Direct Charter Flight to Daytona from Boston or Hartford
Inflight Meals and Beverages
Transfers and Baggage
BUS TOUR
Round Trip Deluxe Motor Coach to Daytona
Coaches are Air-Conditioned and Lavatory-Equipped
On Campus Departures
SURF SUDS SUN FUN
ALL TOURS INCLUDE:
First Class Oceanfront Accommodations for Eight (8) days Seven (7) Nights at the Ramada Inn/Silver Beach, Days Inn or Inn On The Beach. All located directly on the strip
Hotel features include Air-Conditioned Rooms, Private Bath and Shower, Color TV, Maid Service, Swimming Pool, Restaurant and Live Entertainment.
Welcome and Farewell Parties with plenty of FREE BEER
Exclusive 11th Anniversary ID Card for discounts at Shops, Restaurants, Night Clubs, etc.
Services of the Beachcomber Staff
Limited Space Available — Reservation Required
OPTIONAL: Walt Disney World Tour, Kitchenettes, Deep Sea Fishing, Convenience Protection and more
PRICE DOES NOT INCLUDE SOCIAL TAX FOR TAX SAVINGS AND DETAILS, SEE THE BEACHCOMBER
BY JET 8 Days/7 Nights $275 March 15 - 22
BY BUS 10 Days/9 Nights $179 March 14 - 23
CONTACT
Mike Bruha
256-8625
Beachcomber Tours, Inc.
MEMBER DAYTONA BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Treat Your Feet
at The Lodge Shoe Sale!

Men's Shoes and Boots.
Several styles, but in limited sizes. Values to $60.00.
$4.95 - $39.95
Women's Shoes, Clogs, Boots, and Sandals. Values from $7.00 to $70.00.
$.95 - $39.95
THE LODGE at harvard square ®
©The Lodge at Harvard Square
Hadley Lodge only. Sale runs 2/28-3/8.
Route 9. Hadley. 584-9690. Monday to Friday, 10:00-9:00. Saturday till 6:00.

Editorial/Opinion

We talked about politics and ignorance

JACKSON KATZ

I think you'd be interested to hear about this talk I had with a hallmate of mine a few days ago. It was a real good talk, and I think it's worth relating.

It started out as just smalltalk, but then he noticed a STUDENTS AGAINST THE DRAFT button on my jacket and the conversation began to heat up. Now, I disagreed with this guy on a lot of points, but he did open my mind up to a different way of looking at a lot of things.

For instance, he had a sticker on his wall that said something about hating Iranians, and I asked him if he thought Iranians in this country should be deported.

"Of course!" he replied. "Immediately."

"Where are your ancestors from?" I asked him. He said they were from Western Europe.

"Oh really?" I said, and proceeded to tell him that an American citizen had been killed by the IRA in Ireland a while ago and that by his line of reasoning of course all Irish people with faulty passports should be deported also.

"It's different," he said.

"What about the fact that England and France won't endorse our boycott of the Moscow Olympics? That's a real slap in our face. We should show those countries that we're not gonna take getting pushed around like that, in a manner of speaking, by deporting all English and French people in this country!"

"I told you it's different," he repeated. "We're talking about Iranians." He made his point well.

Then he attacked my button, asking me how I could be against the draft, especially with the Russian invasion of Afghanistan and all.

I told him that the United States has a long record of intervention in the internal affairs of other countries, including helping to overthrow "unfavorable" governments with puppet dictatorships and things like that. I reminded him that the U.S. has even sent large numbers of troops to other countries to exert coercive military force, and that although the Soviet move is indefensible, it is nothing new, either.

He countered by saying that what the United States does is different because we do it out of friendship and goodwill, but the Russians do it because they're trying to take over the whole world.

I told him that Carter and some other people wanted to start draft registration to instill a "war hysteria" here and begin to prepare us for war, because they know very well that that would be the only thing registration at this time would be useful for.

He disagreed vehemently, stating that we need a strong America, and that Carter, as president, knows what's best for the country, and he's doing what he has to. He also told me that I was un-American if I was against the draft.

I asked him if he thought it was un-American simply to believe that the best thing for the people of this country was not to go to war and die for oil in the Mideast. I also advised him that just because the big shots in government say we need a draft doesn't necessarily mean we really need it.

"You're wrong!" he yelled. "The President knows what's good for us and what has to be done has to be done."

At the end of our talk I asked my neighbor why he had suddenly started caring about politics. He never even used to read the newspaper.

"Because I believe in America, and I must do my part to protect her! And then, when things settle down again, I can worry about the truly important things in life."

"Like what?" I asked, wondering what could be more important.

"Like whether or nor Yaz can make it through spring training, or if Fisk's elbow will ever heal, or if the Bruins can ever beat Montreal in the playoffs.."

"I see where you're coming from, I really do," I said as I left.

Jackson Katz is a Collegian columnist

Line of action threatens goals

MARK WAGNER

Calling for a shutdown of the nuclear power industry in favor of solar energy production and conservation, Barry Commoner capped the UMass SCANN Conference Saturday with a provocative speech in which he all but directly stated his political aspirations. Commoner, author, economist and no nuke activist, is throwing his hat into the race for president of our great land. In his address, Commoner plugged his brain child, The Citizen's Party, and attacked his liberal rivals Brown and Kennedy, calling their anti-nuke stances fake political ploys to attract votes. But Commoner failed to acknowledge that the no nukes vote will only propel him into a political spotlight while destroying any impact that vote might have in the coming election.

Commoner's speech was comprehensible. He strove to expose the inherent dangers in nuclear power. But his attempt to rally a formidable voter conglomerate out of the already disenchanted no nukers is not only ill-fated, but transparent, in that it reveals a power hungry motivation behind Commoner's plans. The Citizen's Party is the activists' own creation, and, given that the needs of the anti-nuclear voters are not met, Commoner's mind scheme could in time develop into a force to be reckoned with. But right now Commoner seems foolishly willing to put his credibility as a diligent activist on the line in this campaign. A party whipped together, starting this late in the presidential race, a race not even focusing on issues, will draw only smirking condolences from the press and will result in a disasterous voter percentage.

Anne Gyorgy, speaking before Commoner, outlined in detail the flailing attempts by anti-nuclear candidates in Europe to attain political positions. To the tune of three-four percent of voter returns, parties in France and Germany, grounded by an anti-nuclear platform are continually thwarted. As Gyorgy forwarned: Don't organize politically! Our time is better spent in grassroots movements aimed at portraying our demands to those already in power.

The New England primaries are upon us. If the anti-nuclear vote is to be an element in the 1980 presidential race it will be in these early states. That voter impact lies not in a rough draft of something called the Citizen's Party. Rather, it lies in supporting the firmly established anti-nuclear candidates in the race. On the one hand, there is Gov. Brown, who calls for burning peach and apricot pits for energy, and on the other hand there is Senator Kennedy, who has followed up his no nuke stands with a cognizable energy conservation plan.

Kennedy began the race calling for a two year moratorium on nuclear power plant construction. And in recent days he has come out in support of the platform proposed by the campaign for safe energy. Strong support by the anti-nuclear faction could place Kennedy back into contention.

Commoner attacked Kennedy's stances as vote getting techniques, but where does that put him as he capitalizes on the no nukes movement to further his public visability? If he is devoted to establishing a new and credible political party, one whose platform stands far left of center, Commoner would be better to keep his greed for power to himself. In not doing so, Commoner threatens his party before it is out of the gate To change a system, or an element in that system, such as nuclear power, one mustn't isolate himself into a faction but, rather, work that faction into the existing system and be heard from the inside.

Mark Wagner is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Defendant columnist gets his last lick

Dear Editor:

This is just a short letter regarding Michael Martineau's February 22 column in which he attacked me and told me to go piss on my foot.

I really haven't got much to say except that I wish to apologize to Mr. Martineau. I was under the impression that I had made my point perfectly clear. I had no idea that my column would be over anyone's head. Obviously, I was wrong. I'm sorry Mikey. I'll try to make it simpler next time.

Sincerely,
Jimmy Allison III
Amherst

Unite for No nukes

To the Editor:

In response to Liz Bennett's letter concerning Women Against Nukes (Collegian 2/20/80), the personalities of a group's members are what determines the dynamics of that group, not their genders. United for a united cause: "No Nukes."

Mark Kolligian
Amherst

The other side of another fence

To the Editor:

Pekinese serfs built the Great Wall of China, but who is paying the construction workers to build the Massive Chain Link of North Pleasant Street? What function does this metallic obstruction serve? Administration officials have been quelling student pleas for better lighting, reparation of the library, and other sorely needed physical improvements by crying poverty. It is bewildering to us that at the same time these claims are being made, this grotesque structure is snaking its way down the main boulevard of our campus. This type of ambivalence is rather unnecessary. Why don't the geniuses behind this master plan pick one side of the fence and stay there?

Hollie L. Ainbinder
Lisa G. Lipson
Central

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

Associate Editors

Jeff Baker, Fran Basche, Ellen Davis, Carolyn Mooney, Rob Stein, Associate Managing Editors; Ed Levine, Brian O'Connell, Associate News Editors; Eric Janszen, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Marcia Hospedales, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Peter Berry, Associate Photo Editor; Abbe Bjorklund, Associate Fine Arts Editor; Jane Wolfson, Associate Sports Editor; Jeffrey Bianchi, Associate Graphics Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

PAT METHENY

Uninhibited integrity

Pat Metheny caught in concentration during Sunday's dynamic performance at the FAC (Staff photo by Tim Connors)

By RICK MCRAE
Special to the Collegian

How versatile can a guitarist be? With enthusiasm and fervor, Pat Metheney displayed his mastery of the instrument as his quartet thrilled a near-capacity concert crowd at the Fine Arts Center Sunday night.

The single hundred-minute set consisted mainly of material from their last three ECM recordings, especially American Garage, the most recent release. The group also introduced their newest tunes including one as yet untitled.

Opening with Heartland, the Metheney Group sound became at once identifiable to those previously unfamiliar with the band: long lyrical melodies in the higher registers of the guitar played against a recurring rhythmic pattern and spiced with frequent changes of meter and texture.

Metheney's playing, while free of fuzz, wah-wah, distortion, and other effects employed by major fusion guitarists of the seventies, remained faithful to the nature of the piece because of its pure, singing tone and down-home flavor.

Metheney himself, concentrating more on musical quality than audience appeal, seemed to be physically-propelled by the music at times.

Mark Egan, the bassist, was featured in April Joy, and later in Jaco, a Metheney original in honor of bassist Pastorius. Egan displayed much facility and inventive ideas, but did not seem to demonstrate his full musical talent as much as hoped. His contribution to the ensemble, however, was valuable.

Drummer Dan Gottlieb, while not showcased, played with fine versatility behind the rest of the group.

It was Lyle Mays, however, who was responsible for both the emotional high and low points of the concert. A unique Eastern-tinged melody by Mays' synthesizer patched up to sound like a native-Asian stringed instrument. However, the piece descended into an assortment of unrelated meanderings by Mays on all his keyboards. It was altogether too pretentious and unsettling. Mays' best moments were in his piano work.

Throughout the concert Pat Metheney's uninhibited guitar playing was the focal point of the performance. His widespread use of harmonics and his two and three-part melodies bathed the audience in an atmosphere of exhilaration and warmth.

During a solo section of Unity Village, the Missouri-born musician quoted familiar riffs made legendary by Chuck Berry, Peter Townshend, and Roy Orbison, with a brief excursion into The House of The Rising Sun, which drew laughter and applause. Although soft-spoken and cordial between songs, Metheney expressed pleasure in returning to the Amherst area after two years since his first UMass appearance.

As an ensemble, the Pat Metheny Group was communicative and tasteful, and made sudden stylistic and dynamic changes as exciting as they were surprising. As a result, the audience was very satisfied, and for the encore the band played an energetic rock tune, with Mays urging the crowd to clap and Metheney playfully rocking the bass drum with his foot. All in all, it was a fine concert with a few shortcomings, and Pat Metheney triumphed without compromise of musical integrity.

You can still sign up for Spring Vacation in,
BERMUDA
as low as $279.00
no hidden charges!
for info call:
Peter or Gary 545-0210 or Dan 549-5621

CURRY-N-KABAB
MEDITERRANEAN — INDIAN — PAK
Revive your taste
Featuring The Magnificent Curries & Kababs
Better than pizza in town!
Grand Opening Offer
50c Off on Any Platter
Beef Shish Kabob
Beef Curry
Chicken Curry
Vegetable Curry
FREE DELIVERY
Take Out Service
Open noon to 3:00 a.m.
96 N. Pleasant St. (Behind Louis Food)
offer good thru 3/9/80

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Plan for Summer
to avoid
High Fuel Costs
Rail Passes &
Youth Hostels
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

LEARN WILDERNESS
In the rugged mountains of Wyoming and Washington, NOLS is teaching the essential skills of backcountry living.
On the Alaskan artic tundra and the grasslands of Kenya, East Africa, NOLS students are learning the challenges of enjoying and preserving the wild lands of the earth.
For fifteen years THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL has trained wilderness leaders for most of the major outdoor programs in this country. Today, the unique non-profit educational center offers over 30 different backcountry courses which range in length from 2 weeks to 3½ months.
If you want to LEARN WILDERNESS this summer send for your free copy of the 1980 NOLS catalogue of courses.
COLLEGE CREDIT AVAILABLE
Write: NOLS Dept. J
P.O. Box AA
LANDER, WYO 82520
or call (307) 332-4381
NOLS

HOT-L WARREN
S. DEERFIELD, MASS.
665-8757
Thurs. February 28th
Live Jazz
Fri. february 29th
Billings Gap
$1.50 cover
Sat. March 1st.
Zanny, Multitalented
Ed Vadas
$1.50 cover
Sun. March 2nd
Tom McClung
Jazz Piano
$1.00 cover
Mon. March 3rd
Western Mass Dart Assn.
Open Tournament 8 pm sharp
Also Women's Singles
Tues. March 4th
Al Fuller on the open mike
Folksingers & Acoustic Musicians
Welcome
Live Jazz
Wed. March. 5th
Moe Dixon
$1.50 cover
Enjoy Our Happy Hour
with Domestic Beer 50c
Bar Liquor 50c

BLUE WALL
campus center
at u mass
Fri. Feb. 29

LUNA
with special guests
"The most adventurous glitter rockers since the advent of David Bowie."
$2 cover charge
Sat. March 1
A & M Recording Artists
PRIVATE LIGHTNING
"A classy rock band that gets high marks in all categories"
FX
with special guests
(jazz fusion to the max)
$2 cover charge
UPCOMING
The Atlantics Mar. 7
Beaver Brown Mar. 8
ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

Calendar

Five College Arts

Thursday, Feb. 28

Video Exhibition Series now thru March 1 in Campus Center Rooms 162-165, open from 1 to 4 and 7 to 11 p.m. daily. Sponsored by UMass Union Video Center and Fine Arts Council. Free.

"From Moscow to Jerusalem," art exhibit featuring work of Soviet Jewish artists, Feb. 28&29 in Hampden Gallery, Southwest. Sponsored by Hillel as part of Jewish Arts Festival.

"Amoreuse," a play by Georges do Porto Riche, at Curtain Theater of UMass Rine ARts Center, Feb. 28,29 and March 1. The play, a French comedy about love and dishonor is produced by the UMass Theater Ensemble. Admission is $1 for students, $2 for general public.

"An Evening of Folk and Blues", Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. Sponsored by UMass Student-Faculty Credit Union. Admission is 50 cents for Students, $1 for non-students.

"VISIONS" a Five College Dance Concert featuring ballet, modern and jazz, at 8 p.m., Smith College Theater 14.

Friday, Feb. 29

"Dusa, Fish, Stas and Vy" will be performed at the Hallie Flanagan Theater at Smith College Feb. 29 and March 1. Call Smith College for performance times.

Saturday, March 1

High School Auditions Day. Sponsored by UMass Music Department.

Sunday, March 2

University Orchestra Concerto Concert, 3 p.m., Bowker Auditorium.

Sue Habel, organist, in concert at UMass Fine Arts Center,, 8 p.m.

Monday, March 3

Women's Art Workshops in conjunction with International Women's Week. Led by Mry Beth Edelson of A.I.R. collective of New York. March 3-5 at UMass Herter Art Gallery.

Tuesday, March 4

End of Innocence, a Torre Nilsson film in Spanish with English subtitles. Sponsored by Free Film Program at Northampton High School Little Theater, 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday, March 5

Leopold Teraspulsky, celloist, in concert at 8 p.m., Bowker Auditorium.

Marcel Marceau, famous French mime, will perform at the Fine Arts Center at UMass on Wednesday, March 5th at 8 p.m.

Club Listings

Blue Wall, Campus Center — Feb. 28&29 "Luna," March 1 "Private Lightining," Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 3-6 p.m. "Pogo A Go-Go" every Tues. night; new wave and reggae music with Pete.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all happy hours and chicken and wings daily 4-6.

Creedo's Coffeehouse, 111 Pleasant St., Northampton.

Flat Street Club, Flat St., Brattleboro, Vt.—Nightclub.

Hot-L Warren, South Deerfield—Drinks served daily.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight—pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview, Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst—Fri. night Happy Hour, free buffet.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 2-7 p.m. Live entertainment by Katie Jay Sat. night.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco and drinks.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Wed. is "Pub Mug Night" and Thurs. is "Two for One Night" with live entertainment by Two Way Street on Fri. and Sat. Disco with Casey Sun. and Jim Plunkett Wed. $1 cover.

Quonset Disco, 239 Russell St., Hadley—Wed. free dance lessons. Thurs-Sat. disco, $1 cover.

Rahar's, 70 Old South St., Northampton—open at 6 p.m. Happy Hours Mon.-Fri 4-8 p.m. Sat., Sun. and Mon. free pool and 35 cent Miller draft, half-price drinks.

Rusty Nail, Hadley Rd. Sunderland — Feb. 28 "Rum Boogie," Feb. 29 "Fat" with "Rum Boogie," March 1 "The Shades," March 2 A.T. Doe & the Dividends, March 4&5 "Martian Highway."

Rusty Scupper, 539 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m.

Second Fret Coffeehouse, 21 Pleasant St. Northampton — First Anniversary Show begins at 8:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Pioneer Valley Folklore Society.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton.

KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

BDIC offers individual majors

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Drop-outs are nothing new to a University, but when 40 percent of those dropping out have good grade-point averages, concern for the situation is essential, said David Pitlik, a peer advisor for the office of Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration.

If grades are not a problem for students, the reasons for dropping out must be a dissatisfaction with the University and its curriculum, said Pitlik.

"At BDIC we're looking for unique people slipping out the door of the University because they don't know about us," Pktlik said. "The pressing issue is that not enough students know about our reputation of working as hard as we can to make our program and their's acceptable."

Students would not drop out, Pitlik said, if they felt they were more in control of their courses. Although four semester in BDIC are required, Pitlik said many juniors and seniors join with success. If their program is deemed feasable by BDIC and a faculty sponsor, credits from past semesters can be accepted retroactively. "The emphasis is on individuality," said Pitlik.

BDIC's daily concern is the influx of students, said Pitlik. The program has an enrollment of nearly 200 students, he added, although there is always room for more.

This April, BDIC is planning their semesterly mosaic as an animated film festival, said Pitlik. Many students have completed successful films and the mosaic, or Student Festival of Creative Expression, will feature the films as well as animations by famed area animators.

The mosaic is "just getting swinging," said Pitlik. BDIC senior Alan Silberberg is organizing the festival whose tentative keynote speaker is Suzanne Pitt, creator and animator of the film "Asparagus," although Faith Hubley, creator of Mr. Magoo and last year's Doonesbury special, could appear in her place.

Whoever is secured for the mosaic will speak on the first night of the weekend, which has not been scheduled yet. The second night will feature student films, and students from the Five-College area are expected to participate.

The third night is scheduled as "old favorite" night. Old "Looney Tunes," "Mr. Magoo," and "Popeye" cartoons will be shown in addition to a possible guest lecture.

Student contributions for the program are encouraged, Pitlik said, and he hopes many Five-College students will get involved in the festival.

Poll favors Kennedy, Anderson

Editor's note—The author conducted the following survey of 300 people for a journalism class and distributed 178 questionnaires in the Hatch, 101 in the journalism class and 21 in a marketing finance class.

By LARRY DWIGHT
Special to the Collegian

According to a survey conducted last week of 300 UMass students, Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy is favored over two to one to defeat President Jimmy Carter in the March 4th Massachusetts primary.

Republican Presidential candidate John Anderson was favored over George Bush to win the Republican primary.

Over 36 percent of those who expected to vote in the primary were undecided.

Results indicate students favor Kennedy over Carter 64 percent to 30 percent. Three percent of the voters favored California Governor Jerry Brown.

Anderson was prefered over Bush by a margin of 48 percent to 35 percent. Trailing the field were Tennessee Senator Howard Baker, 8 percent; former Texas governor John Connally, 4 percent; Phillip Crane, 2 percent; and former California Governor Ronald Reagan, 2 percent.

The percentage of students not planning to vote in the primaries or the elections is only 4.6 percent (14 out of 300). Only two of those students are registered voters.

The overwhelming majority, 95.3 percent, plan to vote in the elections this November. Of the entire survey 42 percent are undecided. Brown, Baker, Connally, Reagan, and Crane got only 9 percent of the survey between them. Carter, Bush, and Anderson got 11 percent each. Only 17 percent of the voters are firmly for Kennedy.

The results of the straw poll are not definite, and the elections are a long way off, but it remains to be seen who will spark the minds of the young voters.

Correction

The ski trip to Sugarbush Mt. is on Satuday March 1, not March 3 as quoted in the Ski Club ad in yesterday's Collegian

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
LUNA
Thursday
& Beat the Clock 6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

GOING SOUTH?

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

FUN, FUNK & PUNK
Antiques
& Special
Costume
Jewelry
Coming Soon to
CC Concourse
Look for WENDY

SELL IT
SELL IT
in the
Collegian
Classifieds

NIKE
Nylon Cortez II
Mathews SHOES
The Village Green, Amherst

For the Audiophile
Who would rather listen to Music
Than to equipment . . .
The DCM Time Window.™
Listen through it
Not to it.
DCM TIME WINDOW.
SOUND & MUSIC
"Good Advice - Honest Price"
90-92 King Street
(Rte. 5)
Northampton
Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547

HOCKEY SALE
10-30% OFF
SKATES • STICKS • EQUIPMENT
by
CCM COOPER DAOUST MICRON KOHO CANADIEN
FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES
377 Main St. Amherst 253-3973
826 Main St. Springfield 732-6700

Rogers, Doobies, Summer win Grammy awards

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) —The Doobie Brothers, Donna Summer and Kenny Rogers topped a varied collection of music superstars by winning the record industry's highest accolades at the 22nd Annual Grammy Awards program Wednesday night.

In awards presented before a two-hour national telecast, the Doobie Brothers won a Grammy for best pop vocal performance by a group for "Minute by Minute." Group member Michael McDonald also won an arranging award for "What a Fool Believes."

More than 40 awards were presented before the televised portion of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences ceremonies. Only 14 awards were to be handed out on-camera, leaving ample time for presentations and performances.

Donna Summer's energetic rendition of "Hot Stuff" was honored as the best rock vocal performance by a female. But Miss Summer, who was nominated in several categories, lost to veteran Dionne Warwick's "Deja Vu" in the best rhythm and blues female vocalist category, and to Gloria Gaynor in the new disco category. Miss Gaynor won for her feminist anthem, "I Will Survive."

Kenny Rogers, host of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences ceremony, carried off best male country vocal performance Grammy for "The Gambler."

John Williams, who has already six Grammys for his motion picture and television special scores, won two more for the movie, "Superman."

Earth, Wind & Fire captured their third Grammy in two years, a best rhythm and blues instrumental award for "Boogie Wonderland." And a song performed by the group, "After the Love Has Gone," also won a rhythm and blues songwriter Grammy for non-group members David Foster, Jay Graydon and Bill Champlin.

Michael Jackson, who started in the music business more than a decade ago, won his first Grammy with "Don't Stop Till You Get Enough" for best rhythm and blues vocal.

About 4,500 members of the academy cast ballots for a record 58 awards this year. New additions included four rock categories and one apiece in disco and jazz-fusion.

Although the Grammy is the music industry's equivalent of the Oscar — an honor awarded by one's professional peers — a Grammy is by no means the commercial boost to a record that an Academy Award can be to a film or a performer.

An Oscar can turn a film into a major box office success, but top Grammy contenders are usually hit records before they are nominated.

Entertainer Kenny Rogers displays his "Grammy Award" Wednesday evening in Los Angeles after his hit, "The Gambler," got him the award for Best Country Vocal Performance by a Male. (AP Laserphoto)

These five performers all underwent plastic surgery to look like famous rock stars. They aer left to right, Rick Prather (Jim Croce), Erin O'Day (Linda Ronstadt), Danny O'Day (Kenny Rogers), Ron Rinard (Elvis Presley), and Bill Bowers (Buddy Holly). (AP Laserphoto)

Food Service
Management Trainees

1980 FOOD SERVICE GRADUATES: WE HAVE A MANAGEMENT CAREER PLAN FOR YOU!

We want to help you get a head start on your food service career. Why? Because that way we know we're filling the management positions in our institutional accounts with qualified and committed food service professionals.

Our management training program is one of the best in the industry. You'll find it's the kind of basic business and hospitality background you'll use throughout your working life. And of course we hope you'll spend a rewarding part of your working life with Servomation.

Our training program stresses "hands-on" experience. We'll rotate you through each typical work station so you'll know exactly what you're asking future employees to do. Our program also includes workshops on employee relations, budgeting, and merchandising as well as food service.

You'll have your choice of a gradual seven month training program that leads to an appointment as an assistant manager, or you can select our intensive two month program which prepares you to be an assistant manager for a school lunch program.

To qualify you should have, or be working on, a degree in food service management, home economics or dietetics. And you should feel committed to a career in food service. Once you complete our program you'll be promoted to assistant manager and be assigned to a manual feeding account somewhere in our Mid-Atlantic or Northeast Divisions. Your first accounts could be in a college, business/industry, health care or school setting. We offer good salaries and excellent fringe benefits including relocation assistance.

We'll be visiting your campus to discuss our training program in detail. Look for us on Thursday, March 6, 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM at the Flint Laboratory. If you are unable to attend, call us collect at (301) 821-5300, ext. 282, or write:

Mr. Michael Traskey
Personnel Services Manager
Servomation Corporation
803 Gieneagles Court
Baltimore, Maryland 21204

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

SERVOMATION CORPORATION

INFLATION FIGHTER'S SPECIAL!
Shampoo, Cut & Blower Styling. . .only $10
Special
FREE
$1.50 CONDITIONER
with Precision Haircut and your coupon
Good 2/28 thru 1/5
No Appointment Necessary
GREAT EXPECTATIONS®
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
Hampshire Mall
Hadley

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Nikko 3035 Receiver 15 watts w/circuit breakers 1 year old looks like new $100 6-4920

 Steve Garfield ***
brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound"

JVC Cassette Deck Mk II ANRS. Professionally maintainenced. Originally $300., $125. Call Phil 323-7365

40 Watts/Channel Receiver any reasonable offer, one year old 546-5637

QTA-720 A-FM Realistic Stereo Receiver 2 MC-1500 Spkrs, LAB 12C Turntable with Pickering Dat3 Cartridge. Excellent condition. Call Matt 6-8561

Realistic STA-120 Receiver 60 watts/ch. excellent cond. $180 865-7744

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best betnights & mornings.

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

73 Ford Wagon one owner, reliable transportation. Motor great, body hurtin. $400 256-8088 after five

12 volt 315 amp car battery brand new! 20.00 Rick H. 545-2150

Olds. Cutl 74 excellent run & body cond $1600 call 549-5144 ev.

74 Pontiac Custom Ventura excellent running condition $1200 call 665-7574 keep trying

DO IT!

Seniors--Are you going to graduate without doing it? Get yourself into your yearbook! Call 545-2874

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

Disco at Hatch! Sat. March 1 DJ w/light 9-1:00 $1.50 $-bar Free Munchies!

Leap Year! Stomp to Live New Wave Fri Feb 29! 9-1:00 Hatch $2.00!

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

FOR SALE

Brand new Nordic T-300 X-Country Skis 190 cm never used Eric 546-7671

Tuxedo and 3-piece suits sizes 38-39 call 256-0626 any evening

Pioneer Supertuner TP900 AM/FM 8/track car stereo perfect condition 546-4443

Yamaha 12-string Guitar w/case. Excellent condition Dave 549-1880

BIC 940 Turntable good condition $50 call Judy 584-6406

Customized 78 Honda 750 Custom paint, exhaust, etc. Meticulously maintained & improved since new. Over 3300 invested. Asking $2300 call 256-6642

Kinks Tickets 10th row center seats $26 each or best 546-9790

Zodiac Boots—very good condition size 7 BO 6-3216

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found: Sweater - gloves. Feb. 13, 1980 Call 545-2438 & identify

Calculator must identify to claim call Don 253-5410

Found 5 keys in brown case near Sylvan call 549-4200

Found Rodgers Key Andrea 253-2901

HELP WANTED

Oversea: Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Shaklee—Positive salespeople wanted. Natural products. Exceptional opportunity to earn. Call Emily 549-3582

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

Summer Jobs Do you need $ for school, experience in your discipline or just a fun summer? How about all 3! Set in the rolling greeen hills of the Bershires, positions are available at YMCA, ACA acredited summer camp for boys & girls. Positions open: Adventure Trip Director, Adventure Trip Leaders, Food Service Supervisor, Food Service Staff, Arts & Crafts Director, Male Counselors (ranch and regular camp) For more info cal 546-7787 ask for John (work study accomodated)

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons "Masters in Music" 367-2713

LLLEAP'N LIZARDZ!!!

Martian Highway "Leap-Year" Costume Ball Fry-day Feb 29 $2.00 advace $2.50 day of show. Call Larry 546-8588 for info. A Valley Space-People Twirleyz Fest!!!

LOST

Lost: Single key on leather ring, Hills Wheeler vicinity $5 reward call 586-9153

Lost—gold bracelet between the library and Northeast area on February 21. If found, call Anna 546-4852 or 546-4849

Annie Klein light brown glasses Mahar area call Lisa 6-8011

LOST Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at any time 549-6219 Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

Reward I lost a serpentine gold bracelet on Monday. If found contact Marian at 253-7619

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Will trade Electric/Acoustic Guitar and 25 watt Vox amp for Acoustic Guitar Rob Burbank 256-0768 or 545-3500

MUSICIANS WANTED

Guitarist and Drummer wanted for progressive rock band which composes original material cal Stu 253-5980 eves

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

Impressionist Pastel Portraits $10.00 moneyback guarantee 253-2983

Delta Chi Fraternity: Open rush Wed. & Thurs. Feb. 27 & 28 at 10 pm Tel:253-9230

Gail—enjoyed talking about stuff on the 200 express. Like to meet for coffee Phil 6-8744

Superior Deliveryman Thanks for ride from Chadbourne to Leach. The Sunglass Girls

Students for Carter/Mondale will be sponsoring a democratic issues forum Thurs. 2/28 at 7 pm in CC rm 163. All interested students are invited to attend and participate.

Attention—The winner of the first annual eighth floor McNamara Bum Contest is Gail. Other contestants-keep your cheeks up and don't be bummed out

Vending Machine Magic! Cigarettes, food, laundry, telephones and subways all for pennies! A complete slug and foreign coin list. Send $2 to: Gold, Box 807D1, Brown, Amherst, Mass. 01003

Silverscape Cafe waits for you. 8 AM to Midnight Mon/Sat 12-Mid Sun 264 N. Pleasant Amh.

Lambda Chi—for breakfast, especially the "orange juice". We will have to do it again soon. Love, Chi O.

Celebrate Leap Year at Lambda Delta Phi's Open Sorority Rush Party. Friday 8:30-12:30 call 5-0939 for info. Ask for Ellen or Kathy

Hey Langdon Happy 19th Sat. keg psyched!!

Morphine's Roomate Mick white means I want to get to know you. How about it?

Big hungry eaters wanted by Paradise Bar BQ no experience necessary. Apply in person noon to 5:45 Armory 131 King St. Northampton 584-5608

Jim 1308 Washington you spasalopolous! Love your friends George and Junior

Hey Cowboy: See what you started? The saloonkeeper.

Jenny Taub: Oh yeah? The Outlaw

Cowboys, Indians, Sheriffs: Bang-bang-you're dead. My Ranger takes all. Jenny Taub

If I should die. . .Paragon Experience

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Ft Lauderdale area for Spring Break Will share costs and driving. Call Laurie after 7 256-0637

Ride wanted to Florida for spring break will share driving, expenses, party materials. Call Cathy and Deb 549-6534

Ride wanted to Washington DC Spring break and Friday Feb 29 Pleas call Debbie 323-6843 will share expense

Ride wanted from Belchertown Center to UMass daily 9 am or 10 am Debbie 323-6843 will share $

I need a ride to New York City or Tarrytown NY area Fri Feb 29 please call Diane at 546-5417 will share expenses Thanks

For two to Ft. Lauderdale will share driving and expenses call 256-8297

ROOMATE WANTED

Roomate wanted Brittany Manor begin 3/1 253-2402

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

Male roommate wanted Puffton Vil. own room $110 month & elec. prefer older student 549-5145 mostly eves

Room open in Amherst house fem. pref. near bus, coop members call 256-0468

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

In Northwood Apts own room $105 mo. + elec. 665-2838 eves

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Student Movers and Haulers Cheap! 256-8868

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

TO SUBLET

Room in house close to camous on bus route $91.50 + 549-4166

One bedroom close to Town and School 253-2645 before midnght

3 bdrm Puffton Apt for summer on bus route, near pool and tennis courts Call 546-1177

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Flute—reasonably priced. call Mona after 3:00 pm 546-9701

The KIDZ at Pi Lam Tonight 9:00 P.M.

NEW POSTERS
Clothing Specials
Great Cards & Gifts
Daily 10 am-6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks
8-9 p.m. 50c
9-10 p.m. 75c
10 p.m.-closing $1.00
Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
Union Video Center
featuring tapes by:
Frank Gillette
Skigako Kobuto
Nam June Paik
and many others
Mon. Feb. 25—Sat. March 1
on the Advent Video Beam
Hours: 1-4 pm and 7-11 pm
Rooms 162-9 Campus Center
Public Invited—No Charge

Premeds and Predents:
National MCAT Review Course
National DAT Review Course
Extensive testing practice and intensive classroom review in all sections of MCAT or DAT. 36 classroom hours. Weekend classes. Excellent specialist instructors.
MCAT sessions in Boston and Amherst,
DAT sessions in Boston.
NATIONAL REVIEW COURSES
P.O. Box 6076, San Rafael, CA 94903
Call TOLL FREE (800) 824-7888
Ask for Operator 116

Nuke the Whale by Danny Gu. 1era

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

R	E	A	M		I	C	E	R		C	L	A	P
I	N	G	E		R	A	N	G	E		R	O	B	E
F	O	U	R	P	O	S	T	E	R		T	I	E	R
E	L	E	G	A	N	T		R	U	S	S	E	T	S
			E	L	M	E	R		N	A	T
S	C	O	R	I	A		U	N	S	T	A	T	E	D
T	N	T	S		S	A	N	T		E	L	I	D	E
A	I	L		S	K	I	N	N	E	D		C	U	M
I	N	E	R	T		D	E	E	P		P	A	C	E
R	E	D	E	E	M	E	R		A	B	L	E	S
			V	I	A		S	P	U	R	S
A	T	T	E	M	P	T	S		A	L	E	T	H	E	A
L	I	R	A		D	I	S	P	E	L	L	I	N	G
O	R	A	L		E	M	M	E	T		E	D	D	A
P	E	G	S		M	E	A	R	S		S	E	S	S

ACROSS
1 Wounds
6 Scour
11 Stroke
14 Yarns
15 Fruit
16 Large bird
17 Exiled
19 Put on 20 Vapor
21 Girl's name
22 Aida, e.g.
24 Ravish
26 Semblances
27 Lampoon
30 Dash
32 Spoor
33 Clear
34 Johnny —
37 Chills and fever
38 Pituitary e.g.
39 Aircraft: Inf.
40 Outdo
41 Across: Prefix
42 Tumbler
43 Wandering
45 Titans
46 Permeated
48 Matrix
49 A.M.s
50 Chief
52 Smut
56 Int. Lab. Org.
57 Dragon killer: 2 words
60 Bird
61 Miscue
62 Wee
63 Sea eagle
64 Tableau
64 W. Indies volcano

DOWN
1 Plant part
2 Cab
3 High mountains
4 Nebraska city
5 Fast plane: Abbr.
6 Tower
7 Stuff
8 Herb genus
9 French pronoun
10 Desert nomad
11 Walker
12 Love in Genoa
13 Fish
18 Pickable
23 Fastener
25 Clumsy boat
26 Network
27 Instrument: Suffix
28 Jason's ship
29 Color: 2 words
30 Angle
31 Ridicules
33 Scheme
35 Formerly
36 Supervisor
38 Alumnus
39 Cheerful
41 Locks
42 "— Blas"
44 Trot
45 Bell
46 Chemical compound
47 Tooth
48 Bevel
50 Muck
51 Shortly
53 Verbal
54 Leer
55 Far: Prefix
58 Rainbow
59 Sixth sense: Abbr.

DC menu

Lunch
Cold cut grinder
Farmer's omelet
Basics lunch
Garbanzo bean and rice provencal
Farmer's omelet
Dinner
Bread buffet
Baked chicken
Reuben sandwich
Basics dinner
Fiesta rice and cheese
Baked chicken

Earthfoods

SANDWICHES:
Humus pita
Tofu salad
Egg salad
Mushroom barley soup
Rice Bulghar
Spinach salad
Apple crunch cake

Thursday
Two Way Street
This week's special
Miller - Miller Lite
50c Mugs - $2.50 Pitchers
"an Amherst tradition & now with a great new look"
Serving food
11:30 am-9:30 pm
Seven Days
a Week
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Top of the Campus Restaurant
presents
THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
in
"An evening with Rogers & Hart"
a musical revue"
Thurs. & Fri. Feb.28 & 29
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

N.H. primary dollars spent in Bay State

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press

BOSTON — While the presidential candidates were slugging it out in New Hampshire, they were spending their money in Massachusetts.

The back-to-back primaries in the two New England states have meant less personal campaigning in Massachusetts.

The candidates slogged through the snow - what there was of it - in New Hampshire, as is the tradition every four years. But most haven't gone far from Boston in campaigning for the Massachusetts primary March 4.

Nr-netheless, "all the money is being spent in Massachusetts," State SEcretary Michael J. Connolly said in an interview this week.

Actually, the appearances have been made in New Hampshire, but they have literally spent millions of dollars on the three commercial television stations in Boston." Connolly said three-quarters of the electorate in New Hampshire lives within the Boston television market, as does 80 percent of the electorate in Massachusetts.

"The candidates have been as visible to Massachusetts voters as in New Hampshire, be said. But voters in Massachusetts "don't get the personal exposure."

According to Connolly, 80 percen' of the population in the Bay State lives east of the central Massachusetts city of Worcester, and that 80 percent is within the Boston television market.

Connolly described Boston as the "funnel for New England," and the pattern for many of the candidates has been to seek media coverage after arriving at Logan International Airport before trooping off the New Hampshire.

Only in western Massachusetts has the exposure been limited, Connolly said.

The secretary predicts a large turnout in next week's primary - 50 percent of the registered voters compared to 29.9 percent in 1976. He bases this on the success of his recent voter registration drive, the fact that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is on the ballot and "the sheer number of Republican candidates."

Connolly said the motivation which will trigger a large turnout is twofold - there are those who want to be sure to vote for Kennedy and those who are anxious to vote against him.

The state has 2.9 million registered voters, 1.3 million Democrats; 419,300 Republicans, and 1.2 million independents who can vote in either the Republican or the Democratic primary.

Lawyer seeks clues on Spring's treatment

GREENFIELD, (AP) — Earle Spring's court-appointed attorney said yesterday he will examine his client's papers and letters for clues on how the 78-year-old man felt about prolonged medical treatment before he slipped into senility.

"I'm looking for things that might give us further insight," said Greenfield attorney Mark Berson. "it's just an intent to be as exhaustive as possible."

Franklin County Probate Judge Sanford Keedy ruled Tuesday in favor of a motion by Berson who wants to study Spring's personal papers for any evidence if the retired chemist had any opinion about the issue.

Berson said there was no specific item he hoped to find. "You never know what you'll catch when you go fishing," he said.

Spring, who is receiving life-giving kidney dialysis treatments, was ruled mentally incompetent last year. His family wants the dialysis treatments stopped, arguing the former outdoorsman would want to die with dignity if he was aware of the situation.

Keedy had earlier ordered Spring's treatments stopped after the state Supreme Court upheld his right to make the decision.

The high court later ordered the treatments resumed after reviewing affidavits from several nurses at Spring's nursing home, the Holyoke Geriatrics Center, who said their patient told them he wants to live.

Spring is undergoing examinations by court-appointed doctors who will report on his physical and mental condition.

In a related decison Tuesday, Keedy turned down a request by the Massachusetts Association of Older Ameicans to intervene in the case. His ruling was made without comment.

Margot Botsford, the attorney for the senior citizens group, said its 20,000 members feel the case could set a precedent affecting the elderly. She said the group wanted to provide information on senility and chances of recovery.

Keedy also rejected a request by Spring's family for a restraining order preventing the Holyoke nursing home from commenting on Spring's condition or allowing unauthorized visitors.

Marguerite Dolan, a Turners Falls attorney representing the family, said she will reapply to the court for an emergency restraining order.

★ Stabbing

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

the floor at the time, testified that he did not see a weapon or a swiping motion. "When I let him up, I noticed a little blood on his back but didn't think anything of it," he said.

Mcglone had played Santa Claus earlier that night. Peter Falk, a friend of Mcglone's testified that Mcglone doesn't drink". The night of the party, by Mcglone's own estimation he had "four or five" shots of "Irish whisky".

Shaw testified that as he left the party he was chased by a large group of white men who chased him around the base of Washington Tower. He said at first they grabbed him on top the pyramids at Southwest but he managed to get away. They caught up with him behind the tower when he tripped, and "beat" him for "five to 10 minutes" before the police came, he said.

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND

TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great Get-A-Way places.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

Steak Sale
Dinner for Two $7.95
Coupon

During our Steak Sale you and someone you like can each enjoy a great steak dinner for just $7.95.

And when we say "steak dinner", we mean a complete dinner. A traditional cut Filet of Sirloin, our tenderest steak, lean and aged for a delicate taste. Served with your choice of soup or crisp green salad, potato or seasoned rice or hot buttered vegetables and hot bread.

It's a meal you can chew at a price you can swallow!

Mr. Steak
AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT
STEAK DINNER FOR 2 $7.95 with this coupon coupon expires March 31, 1980
Steak Sale
261 King St. Northampton
cocktails served

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
Only Area Showing
NOW, ENDS MAR. 6
at 7:00 and 9:00
"Breathtakingly lovely."
"ONE OF THIS YEAR'S BEST"

Lee Remick - THE EUROPEANS by Henry James
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Come Join the College Crowd at
Time Out

TWO TV's
Friendly People!
Friendly Prices!
Free popcorn at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

Sports notices

There are still openings in the Sport Diving Course being held in Key Largo, Florida, March 16-22.

If you are interested, you should contact Bob Sparks immediately at Project DEEP, 31 Elizabeth Street, Northampton, MA, 586-3448.

Entries for Intramural Softball & Soccer are Due March 3, both require a $10.00 forfeit fee. Swimming entries are also due March 3, Paddleball entries are due March 6.

Footbal/Volleyball forgeit fee refund checks for last semester are at the IM Office — these must be picked up soon as we will have to return the checks to Whitmore.

Softball officials' meetings:
March 3, 4, & 5, 4:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Soccer Officials' Meetings:
March 3, 4, & 5, 7:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Anyone interested in becoming a softball/soccer intramural official, must attend at least one of these meetings to be hired.

The UMass Music Theatre Guild
Presents
An Evening with Rodgers & Hart
A Musical Revue
At the Top of the Campus Lounge
Thurs. Feb. 28, Fri. Feb. 29
No Cover Charge

Fabrics of Life inc.
SALE
Feb 25 - Mar 1
20% off all Interfacing, Batting, Linings & Trim
50% off all Vogue Patterns in stock
Authorized Swiss Bernina dealer
Open 10-5:30 Mon-Fri, Thurs Eve 10-5 Sat
110 King St., Northampton (the yellow house) 584-3596

On tour for the first time in America, the UMass Arts Council presents
The Royal Dancers and Musicians from the Kingdom of Bhutan
Tuesday, March 11th 8 P.M.
Bowker Auditorium
Tickets on sale Now at the Fine Arts Center Box Office 545-2511
General Public, $2.00UMass Students, FREE with I.D.
All others Students, $1.00

Budweiser
12 oz. cans7.49/cs
unlimited quantities

Cartier Blanc de Blancs 750 ml
.....2.25 bottle 23.99 case
Inglenook 3 L Burgandy & Chablis
.....6.99 25.25 case
Premiat Cabernet Savignon 750 ml
.....2.35 bottle 25.40 case

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

Mike's Westview Cafe No. Amherst
Thurs. Nite
Penny Nite
Every Third Drink 1c
Pinball Machine

Bowling Machine
Attitude Readjustment Period
Mon.-Fri. 4 pm - 6 pm
Giant Sandwiches-Turkey, Roast Beef and Ham with chips and pickle $1.95
New Drink - Sourballs
Old Milwaukee $1.95 a pitcher
Domestic Bottled Beer 75c
Spearmint & Cinnamon Schnapps 80c
Friday Afternoon
Free Smorgy During
Happy Hour 4p to 6p

Graduate Study in EDUCATION
State University of New York at Albany

The School of Education of the State University of New York at Albany is seeking qualified applicants to a wide array of graduate programs.

Telephone: (518) 457-8586 or use the coupon below to obtain more information.

•Master's, certificate of advanced study, and doctoral degrees.
•Fellowships and assistantships with up to $5,000 plus tuition waiver.

To:
State University of New York at Albany
School of Education ED 239
1400 Washington Avenue
Albany, New York 12222

Please send me information on the following:
☐ Educational administration ☐ Counseling
☐ Rehabilitation counseling
☐ Teaching English as a Second Language
☐ Teaching
☐ Bilingual education ☐ Curriculum
☐ Reading
☐ Special education

Name
Street Apt #
City State Zip

State University of New York at Albany

Wrestlers take to the mats

Varsity looks to New Englands

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Armed with a 14-4 record, a second ranking in all of New England, and a five meet winning streak, the UMass varsity wrestling team travels to the University of Connecticut to do battle in the New England championships. Ten wrestlers leave on Friday with a good chance of returning on Sunday—first place titles in hand.

Leading the matmen will be heavyweight tri-captain John Allen, two time New England champ. With an 18-0 record this year and a tournament championship (CW Post Christmas Tournament) under his belt, Allen will be in Storrs, Connecticut defending his title, and going for his third.

"We have a chance to win in a lot of weights," Head Coach Dave Amato said. "We had a good season and only Rhode Island is ranked ahead of us in New England." Amato feels that in this weekend's tourney, Rhode Island and Boston University will pose the biggest threats to the matmen.

In regular season action, UMass lost to URI and defeated BU 22-19 in a close meet that went right down to the last bout.

Kevin Murphy, wrestling in the 150 pound class during the regular season will see action this weekend in the 142 pound class. Murphy was hurt in January and has missed the team's final six meets.

He feels that it will not be a handicap. "It might even help," he said. "I've missed so much that I'm really eager to wrestle. I've been staying in shape all along and working hard at practices."

According to Assistant Coach Dave Foxen, "ten wrestlers have lost a total of 140 pounds to tone up to be in perfect shape. They are in excellent shape to start with and now they are at their best fighting weights," he said.

Tri-captain Mike Carroll is going into the tournament with an eleven game winning streak and a 13-1 record on the year. Carroll wrestles in the 158 pound class.

Just recently, UMass defeated Harvard (24-18) and UConn (49-3) in a trimeet in which they won 14 bouts and lost six.

Joe McDonough, 180-pound winner, brings down Randy Rice in last night's intramural wrestling tournament in Boyden. (Staff photo by Michael Chan)

Bears take IM title easily

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The Bad News Bears, led by 180 pound Joe McDonough, snared their first wrestling title in intramural action last night at Boyden gym. No team came close to the Bears who chalked up 67 points with nine first place wrestlers and two second places.

Joe McDonough brought his record this year to three pins and no losses over Jim Brennock. McDonough pinned Brennock with 40 seconds left in the match. In earlier rounds, McDonough pinned opponents with times of 35 seconds and 3 minutes, 45 seconds.

According to Joel Biechele, tournament director, the tourney went smoothly. "There were very few forfeits, most everyone who weighed in wrestled and there were no injuries. I'm not a wrestler myself so I really enjoyed watching," he said.

Biechele said that one reason for the tourney's smooth sailing was the varsity wrestlers who helped out with the officiating, scorekeeping and time-keeping.

Kevin Bengston raked in his second IM wrestling championship with a 6-4 win over Matt King in sudden death overtime. With 40 seconds left in the OT period, Bengston brought King down for two points and the win, in the 145 pound class. Sophomore Bengston took first place last year in the 135 pound class.

In 150 pound action, Dave Ehrman pinned Joe Marra with just nine seconds left to wrestle. Ehrman, a former wrestler with the UMass team, won all of his matches with pins with times of 2:42 and 3:58. He gave up team wrestling because of a new found interest—ultimate frisbee.

160 pound Ken Ross pinned Bruce Lever two minutes and 30 seconds into the bout. Ross and Lever wrestled in the 160 pound class.

After one period 170 pound Phil Crawford led Stuart Cole 5-0. The score was forgotten though after Crawford pinned Cole 45 seconds into the second period.

Other winners include: Paul Belanger, Gary Curelop, Matt Price, Ed Kim, John Serocki, Jim Scanlon, Roy Barudin, Shane Hart, Tom O'Brien and Larry Grasso.

Craig signs with Flames

ATLANTA (AP) — Olympic hockey wonder Jim Craig signed a long-term contract with the Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League on Wednesday, the team announced.

Craig, an All-American at Boston University, was goaltender on the U.S. team which won a gold medal with a 4-2 victory over Finland Sunday in the Winter Olympics.

"Olympic hockey has done a lot for professional hockey. We happen to have the draft rights to the most recognizable and best known member of that U.S. team," Flames spokesman John Marshall said moments after the agreement was reached.

"We were very fortunate to get him," Marshall said, adding that Craig will start in Saturday night's game against Colorado.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed. The deal was struck by telephone between Flames General Manager Cliff Fletcher in Atlanta and Craig's agent, Bob Murray, in Boston.

Meanwhile, Massachusetts' winter Olympians—led by three of the gold medal hockey winners—were honored at tumultuous and moving receptions Wednesday, inside and outside the Statehouse.

The formal event was in a crowded House chamber. After that, the athletes went out front to greet thousands of shivering young fans who ignored the cold and a few snowflakes for a glimpse of their heroes.

Gov. Edward J. King, who presided, invited them all in to meet the stars at an impromptu reception line in Doric Hall.

The prime attractions at the Statehouse were the hockey players—Mike Eruzione of Winthrop, the captain who scored the winning goal against the Russians, Dave Silk of Scituate and Craig. The fourth Boston University alumnus on the team—Jack O'Callahan of Boston's Charlestown section, was in Chicago.

Eruzione said he hoped to see O'Callahan playing this weekend with the Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL.

Jack O'Callahan of Charlestown and the U.S. Olympic hockey team wears a Black Hawks jacket and hat as he talks contract yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

Irish stop DePaul

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Orlando Woolridge sank a pair of free throws with 19 seconds remaining in the second overtime Wednesday night to lift 14th-ranked Nortre Dame to a 76-74 victory over top-ranked and previously unbeaten DePaul.

Woolridge's free throws ended the Blue Demons' 26-game winning streak, longest in the nation. The Blue Demons, led by Mark Aguirre's 28 points, dropped to 25-1 while Notre Dame improved its record to 21-5.

Kelly Tripucka, who led Notre Dame with 28 points, gave the Irish a 72-70 lead with 4:24 left in the second overtime. But DePaul's Teddy Grubbs countered with a basket and Clide Bradshaw scored on a break-away layup to give the Blue Demons a 74-72 lead with 2:55 left.

But Bill Hanzlick hit a 15-foot jumper to tie the score and set the stage for Woolridge's winning free throws.

Maureen Sullivan

Spring springs eternal

Take heart, haters of snow and ice. Courage, those who stand like statues on North Pleasant Street, waiting for the bus like herds of caribou. Arise, sun worshipers one and all --- spring is coming!.

NO, I AM NOT INEBRIATED!!! You heard right. Despite the current cold wave and the ever-present length of days left on the calendar between now and March 21, there exists the concept that spring is not only coming, it's practically here.

And who, do you ask, shares my sunny view?

Why, the Athletic Office, of course --- the producers, directors, and writers of the new spring schedule, which has just come out.

This handy little brochure contains all the hopes and dreams of everyone from a 200-game winner to a runner-up in the Nationals to the beginnigs of rookie seasons for two varsity coaches.

For the spring, we have Dick Garber and his Gorillas who begin earlier than anyone else on the campus; they open the men's lacrosse season in two weeks at Annapolis for the Naval Academy Invitational. Last season, Garber posted his 200th win, as the Gorillas made a dramatic comeback to get into the playoffs (they lost to Navy in the first round).

For the spring, we have Dick Berquist and the Lordenmen (that's baseball, folks) traveling from Richmond to Rhode Island to Timbuktu before playing Connecticut at home April 8 --- three weeks after the season has opened. Speaking of season opener, let's not forget Haywood and the gang of Fenway, as they seek the possible by trying the impossible, the improbable, and the insane.

For the spring, we have the women's lacrosse team trying for their second straight perfect regular season under Coach Pam Hixon. With two All-Americans and a quasi-All-American on the squad, as well as a predominantly home schedule, the Gazelles, second in the Nationals last year, have a good chance of accomplishing the task.

For the spring, we have John Beal and Elaine Marasco begin their first season under the fun and sun of UMass en prime temps. Beal, coach of the women's tennis team, faces only one team on the home court, while Marasco and the women's softball team will be on the road as often as baseball. Who knows? They may see more of each other in driving on Route 91 than we will when they play here.

With the junior varsity teams and the intramurals (don't forget your health forms for co-rec tiddlywinks, folks) comes further proof that spring is around the proverbial corner, just as soon as the northwest winds stop pounding our bundled-up bodies, and the snow stops changing into knife-sharp pieces of ice, and the cold stops, and the slush stops....

HEY, ANYONE GOTTA TICKET TO MIAMI?

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 94 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Friday, Febraury 29, 1980

Over protective custody law

Former students sue UM and town police

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

A suit filed yesterday on behalf of two former UMass students charged the UMass and the town police departments with "illegal and unconstitutional abuse" of the state's protective custody law.

Filed in the U.S. district court in Springfield by UMass Legal Service Office Attorney Charles DiMare, the suit seeks compensation from UMass Department of Public Safety Chief Robert G. Joyce, UMass Police officers William F. Murphy, Cheryl A. Sponburgh and an unidentified UMass officer, as well as Amherst Police Chief Donald Maia and two unidentified Amherst police officers.

The suit was filed on behalf on David Leger, 21, of Lincoln and David Regan, 20, of Natick. Both withdrew from school last December and could not be reached for comment.

The suit seeks punitive damages of $10,000 for both Leger and Regan from each of the defendants and compensatory damages of $50,000 to each from the defendants jointly.

The suit charges that on Nov. 10, 1979, Leger and Regan were in the lobby of Coolidge Tower in the Southwest Residential area when they were approached by Murphy, Sponburgh and other unidentified UMass officers. After questioning the two students, the suit charges, the officers "viciously and brutally spread the plaintiffs against the wall."

The two were then "tightly" handcuffed and taken in protective custody to the UMass police station in Dickinson Hall, despite their claims that they were not drunk, the suit states.

Leger and Regan were then booked and fingerprinted at the UMass police station and, according to the suit, were denied a phone call and a breathalizer test.

Both Leger and Regan maintained they were not drunk.

Leger and Regan were then taken to the Amherst Police Station and after their second request for a breathalizer test was denied, their shoes were removed and they were placed in cells, the suit charges.

"The Amherst police officers treated (the) plaintiffs with contempt and rudeness, and continously tormented them," the suit charges.

Leger and Regan were eventually released at 11:00 a.m.

Neither Maia or any of the UMass police officers could be reached for comment yesterday and Joyce said he was not aware of the suit and could not comment.

Amherst Police Chief Don Maia

Summons would probably be delivered to the defendants sometime today, DiMare said.

"We want to chill the police against abuses of the protective custody law," DiMare said.

The state protective custody law provides for the detainment of persons intoxicated for four hours or until they are sober.

The case will probably take about five years to get to trial, DiMare said.

Icing! "Skippy" enjoys playing in water put on the campus pond yesterday by UMass Physical Plant workers. Water was put on the pond to make it smooth enough for skating again. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Leftists dig in at embassy in Columbia

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — With gunfire crackling around them, a heavily armed band of young leftist guerrillas dug in yesterday for what they vowed could be a months-long standoff at the besieged Dominican Republic Embassy, where they held the U.S. ambassador and at least 60 other hostages.

It appeared the Colombian government might try to starve out the estimated 30 terrorists, who seized the embassy and hostages Wednesday and demanded $50 million in ransom and freedom for political prisoners.

In an effort to end the standoff, Panama offered to give the guerrillas political asylum. But it could not be determined whether the offer was transmitted to the embassy.

The guerrillas, members of a group called "Movement-19," have threatened to kill their captives if their demands were not met.

Besides American envoy Diego Asencio, the hostages included an archbishop who is the Vatican's diplomat here and the ambassadors or acting ambassadors of at least 14 other nations.

The guerrillas said they were holding 20 ambassadors, and the State Department in Washington said it believed there were 80 hostages in all.

Volleys of gunfire rang out shortly after noon yesterday, and the guerrilla leader told a reporter by telephone that snipers of the Colombian security forces were firing on the building.

There was no immediate word of any new casualties. The guerrillas claimed to be armed with pistols, rifles, grenades, bombs and abundant ammunition.

One guerrilla was reported killed and two hostages and three policemen were reported wounded Wednesday when the armed gang — about 25 men and four women, all clad in sweatsuits — stormed into the embassy during a noontime diplomatic reception.

One of the wounded hostages was reported to be the Paraguayan acting ambassador, Oscar Gostiaga, shot in the leg.

The guerrilla chief, calling himself "Commander No.1," told The Associated Press by telephone yesterday afternoon the two wounded hostages and approximately 25 women captives would be released as soon as the government began serious negotiations.

"Tell the world that the hardline position of the Colombian government and the army is putting the lives of the hostages in danger," he said.

He said Colombian Foreign Minister Diego Uribe, leading the negotiations, was making the "unacceptable demand" that the women be freed — apparently before any serious talks could begin.

"We are prepared to stay here one or two months if necessary," the unidentified "commandante" said in a telephone interview earlier in the day.

He said yesterday afternoon the food in the embassy had run out and authorities were refusing to send in more.

"The ambassadors have nothing to eat," he said. "It's possible the government and the military want to starve us out."

Mexican Ambassador Ricardo Galan, one of the hostages, told a reporter by telephone that the situation in the embassy "is one of complete calm. The guerrillas have treated us well."

Panel discussion, concert, fair will highlight Women's Week

By SIOBHAN C. BREEN and KAREN PARTRIDGE

A packed schedule of events on campus has been planned for March 3 through 8 in celebraton of International Women's Week.

March 8th was declared International Woman's Day at an international socialist convention in Europe in 1911. This was done in memory of hundreds of women who perished in a fire at the Triangle Shirtwaist Company in New York City. Women at the company had been striking for a union contract but lost the strike due to the company's use of substitute workers. When the fire broke out, the doors to the fire escapes were locked, and hundreds of women plunged to their deaths.

International Women's Week has been sponsored at UMass by the Everywomen's Center since the early 1970's. This year the theme of the week is "Women, Families, and Social Change." According to the Everywomen's Center women's roles are changing, and International Women's Week wants to raise the awareness of women and men to the issues that women will face in the 1980's.

The Week will also celebrate the role of women in traditional and non-traditional families and their role as a driving force for social change, the center said. The lectures, films, and workshops offered during the week provide opportunities to explore and document the many valuable contributions of women to society.

Highlighting the week's events will be a panel discussion, a folk concert featuring Odetta, and a resource fair.

The panel on March 5 will be at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. The theme of the discussion will be Women's Role in Social Change. Featured on the panel are: Madonna Thundehawk, Representative of Women of All Red Nations and the Black Hills Alliance in South Dakota; Bunny Franklin, The Franklin County mother involved in a lesbian custody case; and Magnola Sanders, member of the Willie Sanders Defense Committee in Boston.

The panel members represent a diverse group of women who are all working tostrengthenwomen's roles in American society. Not only will the panel deal the political aspects of their participation in the struggles, but the effect it has had on their personal lives, according to the International Women's Week Committee.

Folksinger Odetta will be performing on Saturday, March 8 at 8:00 p.m. in the SUB. Odetta has been active in folk music for the past 25 years. Though she specializes in in work and prison songs, Odetta is equally strong when playing blues, lullabies, ballads, and spirituals.

Tickets for Odetta are $3.00 in advance from the TIX office in the Student Union Building or the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall, or $4.00 at the door on the night of the performance.

Also on March 8 the International Women's Week Committee is sponsoring a resource fair from 12 to 4 p.m. in the SUB. A wide variety of community organizations will be represented ranging from Renewable Energy Demonstration Project, UMass Housing Office, and the Third World Women's Task Force.

Springfield police arrest UM prof on drug charges

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

A UMass rhetoric instructor was arrested on drug charges by Springfield police Wednesday night on the Western New England College campus where police allege she was peddling cocaine to students.

Police identified the instructor as Elizabeth A. Middleton, 46, of West Street, Amherst. Police allege Middleton was attempting to get $1,100 for an ounce of cocaine when the arrest was made in Plymouth Dormitory.

Middleton and Western New England student John Brindle,20, each were charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute and conspiracy to violate a narcotic drug law. Two other students were arrested and charged with the conspiracy offense.

The four suspects pleaded innocent at their arraignment yesterday in Springfield district court and their cases were continued to April 11. Middleton could not be reached yesterday.

Springfield Police Capt. James Williams said the arrests followed an investigation by detectives who had received a tip about cocaine dealing on the college campus. A police stakeout was set up and Middleton was arrested Wednesday at 10:30 p.m.

Knapp testifies on '81 budget

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Outlining planning assumptions and budget priorities for the 1981 fiscal year, UMass President David C. Knapp presented the three-campus UMass budget to the State Ways and Means Committee Wednesday.

The University's request for a budget in excess of $142 million represents an increase of 10.4 percent over this year's budget, Knapp said. He said "More than 80 percent of the increase is for the operating costs of the three campuses and the University Administration.

The percentage of increase differs from campus to campus: 5.75 percent at Amherst, 10 percent at Boston, and 16 percent at the Medical School (in Worcester), Knapp said.

Among the budget priorities, Knapp said the University places the highest priority on the funding of those accounts most affected by inflation—utilities, maintenance, supplies, and equipment.

"The physical condition of the campuses, especially at Amherst, is becoming serious," Knapp continued. Ken Moore of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA), said there should be a push for deferred maintenance costs because, "the building problem costs will get higher, and higher."

The increase in maintenance and repair funding for the University is "slightly less than $1 million, an increase of about 36 percent over the past year," Knapp said.

Knapp also requested close to $850,000, an increase of about 80 percent, "to catch up on equipment replacement which bears directly on educational quality."

While the University must maintain itself physically and academically, it must struggle against inflation, Knapp said. "The most profound impact of inflation can be seen at the Amherst campus where, since fiscal year 1974, the purchasing power of the campus has dropped 14.5 percent," he said.

PGA holds Candidate's Night

By JEFF BAGLEY
Collegian Staff

The Peoples' Gay Alliance held a Presidential Candidates Night to discuss how national decisions and policies affect lesbians and gays and to hear where the various candidates stand on gay rights last night in the Campus Center.

Eric Anderson, of the Committee to Elect John Anderson, was the only representative that attended the meeting. All presidential candidates were asked to send representatives.

When asked about Andersons' record of support for gay rights, the representative said to the audience of about 35 people, "Anderson has supported all Civil Rights bills that have gone through Congress. He strongly believes one should not discriminate against any person for any reason." Asked if Anderson plans to do anything to stop violence against gays, Anderson said that he did not know specifically, but he would support such legislation."

Kevin George, spokesman for the PGA, spoke on behalf of Ted Kennedy. George quoted Kennedy as saying "Discrimination in employment not only jeopardizes the individual rights of those threatened with job loss but it is a waste of potential talent at a time when our country is facing serious problems."

When asked about how she felt about the lack of participation from the candidates, Andreas Fox, PGA office manager said, "This is just one of a series of services to the community that the PGA has provided and it is a shame that most of the candidates committees were so callous."

Other issues discussed at the meeting were energy and a protest scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. today at the Mountains Farms Mall in Hadley against the movie "Cruising."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

QR
DISCO 'til 2 a.m.
Friday Night
Martian Highway
8 pm - 2 am
Saturday Night
Progressive Hour
Most Drinks - Bar Only from 8:30 - 9, 50c
9 - 9:30, 75c — 9:30 - 10, 95c
FREE MUNCHIES - Cover $1.00
Rt. 9 Hadley, Mass.
Call 9214

VIDEO ART SERIES
presented by
Union Video Center
featuring tapes by:
Frank Gillette
Shigako Kobuto
Nam June Paik
and many others
Mon. Feb. 25—Sat. March 1
on the Advent Video Beam
Hours: 1-4 pm and 7-11 pm
Rooms 162-9 Campus Center
Public Invited—No Charge

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

IF I SHOULD DIE...
45 minutes of wide screen multi media wizardry
...an experience you'll never forget!
Dramatically explores life, death and beyond
Multiple imagery and hard hitting music carry you beyond death into reality
Music from Blood Sweat & Tears, Jim Croce, Bloodrock, Black Sabbath and others. Don't miss it!
MON. & TUE. 7:00/9:00 pm. MARCH 3&4 S.U.B. FREE!
PARAGON EXPERIENCE

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Friday
LUNA
& Grab Bag Special 6-10 P.M.
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

GOING SOUTH?
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Last day to Run for Office!

All Campus Center Board of Governors nomination papers must be returned to 420 Student Union today by 5:00. Make sure you indicate whether you are running for the B.O.G. at large or from a specific residential area—and indicate which area.

Top of the Campus Restaurant presents
Fri. Feb. 29
THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
in
"An evening with Rogers & Hart"
a musical revue"
Sat. March 1
The Valley Partners
Hot Country-Rock! Must see!
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

BOG to counter actions of CARP

Questions association with Unification Church

By MICHAEL FOLEY
Special to the Collegian

Board of Governors members last night decided to act upon concerns they have regarding the Collegiate Association for Research and Principles, a group that has been on campus the past two weeks attempting to entice recruits.

CARP, which has a table set up in the Campus Center Concourse, is aligned with the Unification Church under Rev. Sun Myung Moon, although CARP members deny affiliation with Moon's nationwide group, the Moonies.

The Board decided to set up a table Monday alongside the CARP table to inform the potential recruits of CARPs association with the Moonies. The Board's table, to be called "Who is CARP?" will include copies of Collegian articles and a cartoon reflecting campus concern over the Moonies, said Campus Center Director William Harris.

Board members said they are taking this action because they claim CARP members are collecting the names and numbers of possible recruits "under false pretenses."

Board Chairman Dave O'Malley said he went to Dean of Students William F. Field about the board's concern over CARP. Field "expressed concern," but told O'Malley the CARP situation is under the board's jurisdiction, O'Malley related.

O'Malley agreed CARP's table is under the board. "We have to deal with this problem. It's a front. It's a damn front. And they're (CARP) going to get people.

"A lot of students are going to get hooked," Harris said, referring to students who may be unaware of CARP's affiliation with the Moonies.

Board members said they were concerned with certain Moonie activities, such as inviting students to "conferences" in Florida, only to draw them into their cult.

"I think we should hit them from every angle," said a board member, referring to other action the board could take that might prove CARP activity illegal. Such activity could include CARP's unapproved solicitation of funds and sales of magazines. The Board denied CARP permission to collect funds, board member Curtis Wohels said.

CARP is trying to attract students to its membership in order to fill UMass Recognized Student Organizaiton requirements, Wohels said. This action is a move to become a part of the UMass community, board members said.

Luna, one of Boston's best new wave bands appears at the Blue Wall again tonight. Tickets are $2. Tomorrow night A&M recording artists Private Lightning will appear with special guests FX. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Eight sets of candidates seek SGA presidency

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

The nomination papers are in, the ballots are being prepared and the campaign for president of the Student Government Association is underway.

Eight sets of candidates responded to a 5 p.m. deadline last night in the SGA office on the fourth floor of the Student Union to become official candidates in the race.

Co-Chairperson of the Governmental Affairs Committee of the Undergraduate Student Senate, Merrell Green, officiated in drawing the candidates names out of a box to determine their positions on the ballot.

They are, in order:
James Kelly and Ruth Leimonas

The second group on the ballot will be a set of 13 candidates currently referred to, by members of the governmental affairs committee, as the "Gang of 13." They include: Karl Allen, Larry Blake, Joel Brava, Peter Coules, Elizabeth Downes, Don Guzek, Joan Heffler, Kathleen Keating, Mike Merriam, Kathy Powers, Frank Spada, Sam Williamson and Phil Van West.

Richard LaVoice and Richard Moran
Howard Goldman and Kim Kirschner
Michael Sullivan and Joseph Sullivan

TURN TO PAGE 6

Week in review

State learned of problems in library suit

This column is a regular feature appearing Fridays which recalls significant local events of the past week. It is compiled by the Collegian news editors.

MONDAY — UMass students in Southwest Residential Area erupted with elation following the U.S. Olympic hockey team's, 4-2, victory over the Finnish team to capture the Gold Medal, marking the first time since 1960 that an American hockey team has won an Olympic medal. In an unusual display of patriotism, more than 100 students paraded, shouted and carried American flags.

• It was learned that the state Attorney General's office could have problems suing the estate of the architect who designed the UMass 26-story library, because of an "ambiguous" three year statute limiting prosecution against designers of alleged faulty state-owned buildings. The state Legislature this year passed a bill that would limit prosecution of such cases to three years after detection or six years after construction.

• An anti-nuclear coaliton, believed to be the first of its kind, conferred at UMass in the hope of gathering support for its movement. Attended by activists from throughout the Eastern Seaboard, the conference attracted a host of prominent anti-nuclear activistists, among them noted author Barry Commoner.

• The UMass women's track team finished sixth in New England regional competition at Boston University, and several UMies turned in their best performances of the season.

TUESDAY — A bill filed by Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst, that would have repealed the state's 20-year-old drinking age, suffered defeat on the floor of the state House of Representatives on Beacon Hill, despite lobbying by the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy.

WEDNESDAY — Francesca Malteses, Donald M. Routh, Chauncey T. Simmons and William A. Ezbicki were chosen by Amherst voters to appear on the April ballot for election to the board of selectmen. Nancy E.Gillis and Rosemary Morgan were chosen to appear on the Housing Authority ballot. UMass Dean of Civil Engineering Clive Dym and Student Government Association co-President Rich LaVoice were defeated in their selectmen bids and Student Attorney General Anne Bolger was defeated in the Housing Authority race.

• UMass students were divided between President Jimmy Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy as their choice for the Democratic Presidential nomination but favored George Bush in the Republican race, according to a survey by UMass' Project Pulse. Fifteen percent of registered voters

TURN TO PAGE 10

Bill's SHOE REPAIR
LOCATED IN THE CENTER OF AMHERST
We repair Clogs, Earth Shoes, Birkenstocks, Frye Boots, Hiking Boots, Leather Jackets, Purses, Dr. Scholl's and Carry alls.

SALE SALE
Hadley Picture Framing
10% off on Custom Picture Framing with this coupon
Mon.-Fri. 12:00-7:00
Sat. 12:00-5:00
44 Middle St. Hadley
North at Hadley Center, Just off Rte. 9
Offer expires March 7
586-0332

On tour for the first time in America, the UMass Arts Council presents
The Royal Dancers and Musicians from the Kingdom of Bhutan
Tuesday, March 11th 8 P.M.
Bowker Auditorium
Tickets on sale Now at the Fine Arts Center Box Office 545-2511
General Public, $2.00UMass Students, FREE with I.D.
All others Students, $1.00

'HAHJEE'S 'PLACE'
Delicately herb seasoned dishes at reasonable prices.
ROUTE 9, HADLEY 584-9797
Located ½ way between Northampton and Amherst
Mon.-Thurs. 4-10
Fri. & Sat. 4-11:30 Sun. 3-10

Black Affairs

Tony Crayton, director of the Office of Third World Affairs addresses the audience at the re-dedication of the Malcolm X Center last Thursday. (Photo by Ed Cohen)

Third World Theatre Series is back

By MARCIA HOSPEDALES
Black Affairs Staff

Despite major budget cuts and problems associated with the launching of a new program, the Third World Theatre Series has not only survived last semester but is back again this spring—full strength! The program claims that with continued community support it has not only survived but has actually grown over the last few months.

The Series was conceptualized last summer from what was seen as a need for cultural diversity in the area. According to producers, the original aim was to bring together "audiences and artists in a mutual sharing of the Black, Hispanic and Asian experiences."

The goals of the program include not only bringing in professional theater companies but also encouraging a local theater community. The producers hope to use the program as an instrument for increasing student awareness at affordable prices.

This spring's plays focus on the themes of women and working people within a Third World context. The season will feature three visiting professional companies from New York City and Los Angeles. An original work by UMass MFA graduate, Freida Jones will also be premiered.

The plays deal with various themes including working women, Black Music from Bebop to the present, a housing crisis in New York City, and the experience of Asians in the U.S. All four plays will be accompanied by free master classes with the visiting companies.

The first play of the season, "I Just Wanted Someone to Know," is a production of the Labor Theatre, N.Y.C. and was taken from the oral histories of working women. It is scheduled to take place on Monday, March 10 at 8:00 p.m. Bowker Auditorium.

Season passes are $5 for students for all four plays and $8 for the general public. Individual plays are $2-students, $3-general public.

Over 2,500 people experienced Third World Theatre in Amherst last fall. Don't miss this exciting series. For workshop schedule information call 545-3604.

Food for thought cont.

America. The contexts of the programming will normally center around speakers, films, and a gospel performance.

In the last year's programming, the Gospel program was not planned. In asking about the planning for this years, the answer was not clear. It seems that this program will have similiar problems faced by groups in the post-Black History period.

People should make inquiries to Tony Crayton (Office of Third World Affairs) or Van Jackson (Director of the Cultural Center). to insure that this program does not die.

The second program relates to a new emphasis for local organization. The advantages of a Black Alumni program needs to be viewed very carefully. First, the normal contention, is that the program should contact those individuals who graduated from the university. In extending this thought, anyone who has gone through the pains of UMass (whether graduated or not), is still a part of our history in this Valley. The second reason would relate to people presently employed and our part of Higher Education (Grad school). In setting role models for people currently enrolled at this university, it helps to know someone who can provide a short cut in learning a discipline to know what the real world is all about. The plastic environment that exists in this valley distorts the truth.

The final reason for this program, would relate to unity. Under our present structure of operation, there is little opportunity for students and staff to work in a homogenous atmosphere. atmosphere.

In summation, the present standing of our community, in some cases allows an individual to gain vital experience in a traditional and alternative setting. But the problems that have stifled our progress throughout our history, have caused mistrust and destruction to our foundation. This continuous cycle has to be dealt with by each one of us. Because the past will overcome every positive step for the future.

Food For Thought

There are two programs that have a unique contribution to our community. The first relates to the Dr. Martin Luther King program, which is normally held in the Spring semester. The second event would combine students (Undergrads and Grads), administrators, faculty and staff into the formation of a Black Alumni program.

The Dr. Martin Luther King programs have been a part of community since the early seventies. The events are in honor of one of America's Greatest Men of all times. The Black community respects the man for his dignity in face of all repressionary forces in

International Women's Week

The theme for this year's International Women's Week is "Women, Family, and Social Change." A variety of activities have been planned in recognition of the many contributions women have made to society. Black Affairs will be printing a schedule of the week's events and the public service announcements for program highlights.

We hope this information will be useful to you. However, if you have any questions please call Jamila Gaston, Rosemary Conway or Jackie Baillargeon at the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall at the University of Massachusetts/Amherst. The telephone number is 545-0883.

Check information desk, Campus Center, Umass, as schedule is subject to change.

Women and men are welcome at all UMass official activites.

All events scheduled at UMass will have childcare available with special children's activities planned. Please preregister by calling Susan Markman at the Everywoman's Center — 545-0883.

Most Umass events will take place in the Campus Center. Look for specific listings by Feb. 29th 1980.

Monday, March 3

Morning:

10:00-12:00 "Career Development" A discussion assessing career goals, career planning and development. Jean Moss, (of Community Development Center, UMass), facilitator.

Afternoon

12:00-2:00 "Panel: Perspectives on Women, Family and Social Change" A discussion dealing with the changing role of women in society viewed in terms of personal development, inter relationships, myths and others and the role in bringing about social change. Pat Guthrie, Andrea Rushing, Ann Ferguson, facilitators.

2:00-3:30 "Women and Stress" Lynn Kirk, facilitator

2:30-4:00 "Contemporary Family in Black America" A discussion on the continued oppression of black people in the U.S. and its impact on the structure and continuity of the Black family. Fran Beale, facilitator

4:00-6:00 "Jewish Women: folklore (sephärdic and Indian)" Slides and tapes depicting Jewish women's folklore collected by Maria Esfornez and Barbara Johnson in Greece, Israel, and India. Barbara Johnson and Maria Esfornez, facilitators.

4:00-5:30 "ERA/Legal Rights" An overview of the Equal Rights Amendment and Legal Rights of Women — organizing activities also. Deb Jung, facilitator

4:00-6:00 "The Role of Black Professional Women in Social Change" The role of black professional women in social change problems of a white male dominated society. Sheila Johnson and Janice Okuedezeto, facilitators

Tuesday, March 4

Morning

10:00-11:30 "Sexual Harassment in the Classroom" A workshop to discuss the problem of sexual harassment in the classroom and organizing to fight back. SASH (Students Against Sexual Harassment) Womens Issues's Team, SCERA facilitators.

10:00-12:00 "Jews and Social Change Coalition Building" A workshop on how Jewish and non-Jewish women can work together for social change. Jennifer Wexler, Myra Hindus and Barbara Johnson facilitators.

Afternoon

11:30-1:30 "Women's Role in the Anti-Imperialist Struggle in Ireland" An emphasis on women political prisoners and the anti-imperialist struggle. Maired O'Casey facilitator

12:00-1:30 "Impact of Planned Parenthood on Third World Women" A discussion on the effects of family planning on third world women: genocidal efforts to limit the population of thrid world people. Suman Bohm and Diane Taylor facilitators.

3:00-5:00 "ERA Organizing" in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. Deb Jung facilitator.

4:00-6:00 "Union Organizing"

7:00-9:00 "Sexual Harassment in the Classroom"

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Announcements

Smith College

Black Arts festival

Smith College is celebrating its annual Black Arts Festival 1980; some of the events are open to the general public.

Saturday March 1st is Black Alumnae Day. The public is welcome to see the presentation of the Otelia Cromewell Award to Dr. Adelaide Cromwell Gulliver for her achievements and "conscious dedication to African and Afro-American culture and progress." This event will begin at 1:30 in Alumni Hall, Smith College.

Career workshops

On Saturday March 1st from 3-4 p.m. seven career workshops will be given in the fields of medicine, education, law, theatre, visual arts, and business. Students may contact Kharmia at 413-584-2700 ext. 2153 or 2160 for registration information.

Dance production

An Afro American Dance Production entitled "Triumphs" will be presented on Sunday March 2nd at 7:30 p.m. in Theatre 14 of Smith College. The production is directed and choreographed by Toni Dickinson. Tickets are free but necessary. Call 584-2700 ext. 2153

'Gospel Jubilee'

The Black Students Alliance of Smith College will present it's annual "Gospel Jubilee" in the Smith Chapel at 10:30 am, Sunday, March 2nd. Guest speakers and performers will include: Reverend James A. Forbes Jr., Val Eley of the 1975 New York Company of God's Trombone and guest choirs Visions of Mt. Holyoke College and Voices of Celestial Jubilation of UMass.

Historian to lecture

Retired Historian Wilhelmena Simpson Robinson, will be lecturing tonight at 8:00 p.m. in room 101 of the Campus Center.

Ms. Simpson was voted Professor Emeritus by Central State University of Ohio. She has received degrees from Alabama State University, Columbia University, and has travelled extensively throughout Africa.

Ms. Williams became a historian during a period when it was considered unpopular for women to become historians.

Her topic for tonight will be "Black Women in the Organizational Movements for the '80's.

Editorial/Opinion

Film boycott requests equality of outrage

DAVID JOLLY

I would like to lay to rest one argument of those who oppose the boycott of the film Cruising. They contend that the boycott is somehow an act of censorship, a violation of the director's right to free speech and the theater owners' right to free enterprise. This is not the case. As one involved in the boycott, I do not deny William Friedkin's legal right to spend 15 million dollars creating a brutal, distorted view of gay life (though the mind boggles and the stomach turns at the thought). Nor do I deny the right of Mountain Farms Mall to show the film, nor the public's right to view it. Censorship is not the issue. Responsible, sensitive film-making is. And so is our right as consumers to protest and boycott a product we find dangerous.

Hollywood films, by and large, ignore gay people. When they do deal with us, the image is negative and stereotyped—generally the swishy, limp-wristed hairdresser used for cruel comic relief. Even the rare film whose main characters are gay (e.g. The Boys in the Band—another Friedkin production) paints homosexual life as a sad, lonely, tortured affair. Unlike France (La Cage Aux Folles), England (Sunday, Bloody Sunday), or even Canada (Outrageous), Hollywood has failed to finance any film that presents a positive view of gay life, or gay characters who are three-dimensional people with the joys, sorrows, strengths and weaknesses common to all humanity. Two books with better balanced views of homosexuality, Rubyfruit Jungle and The Frontrunner, have been waiting for years to be put to film. Hollywood can't seem to raise the money needed to produce them.

Enter Cruising, a film that fosters a new stereotype of gays—violent as well as sick, folks for whom love is sex and sex is violence. (The film is the story of a gay psychopath who murders and mutilates other gays amid New York's S and M leather scene.) Straight people are unlikely to see any other Hollywood images of homosexuals in the near future, and if they have little contact with real people they know are gay, they could view Cruising as an accurate, comprehensive portrait of the gay scene. If they do, they will leave the theater with their prejudices intact, or worse, reinforced.

Some, like the youths who hurled epithets at demonstrators in Springfield, may have found just the excuse they need to bash a few more queers. Others may just find it easier to turn their backs on gays fighting to end discrimination in housing, employment, and the courts.

For Friedkin to make a film that perpetrates prejudice and discrimination is a supreme act of irresponsibility and insensitivity. Think a minute of the outrage that would meet a film about a black rapist who murders and mutilates his victims. Technically a director has the right to make such a film, but certainly anyone tempted to do so would realize that a movie linking blacks to rape and murder could fan the fires of racial hatred. The protest by the black community would be immense, with strong support from whites convinced of the dignity and justice of the struggle against discrimination.

Of course, no such film has been made. No Hollywood director would consider it. If a responsible social conscience did not stop him, the guarantee of a huge public outcry would. But neither conscience nor caution kept William Friedkin from fanning the fires of homophobia with Cruising. And now that the film is upon us, those of us offended by it have only the options for action of any outraged consumer group: To boycott the product, tell the public why, and urge them to join us. Our power compared to that of Hollywood's financial giants is limited, to say the least. But if a boycott of Cruising significantly lowered box office receipts, it might send Hollywood a message in the only terms it understands.

We who boycott Cruising are not censors. We could not be if we wanted to, and few of us want to. But we can protest and apply economic pressure in the tradition of other groups struggling for economic and social justice. Like those groups, however, we won't be effective without support from people from all segments of the community. If you're considering a trip to Cruising, consider the boycott as well.

David Jolly is a member of Lesbians and Gay Men Against Violence.

Demise of representation: The student non-vote

ED LEVINE

The UMass community had a golden opportunity this week, and true to form the students of this illustrious institution blew their chance.

The Amherst town caucus was held Tuesday. This election was to determine who would appear on the April ballot for positions on the Board of Selectmen and Housing Authority. Three UMass people were on the ballot—Clyve Dym, dean of Civil Engineering, Rich LaVoice, Student Government Association co-President, and Anne Bolger, Student Attorney General. All three lost.

At long last, UMass students had an opportunity to get their voice heard in the town of Amherst. With this opportunity within their grasp, the UMass students chose not to respond, but to let it slide.

Voter turnouts in the two precincts comprising the UMass campus were extremely low. In precinct three, which includes all the UMass residential areas except Southwest, only 94 out of 1,204 registered voters bothered to cast a ballot. In precincts four and five, which includes Southwest, only 171 out of 1,492 registered voters actually voted. What is even more surprising is that the three UMass related candidates did poorly in those preoincts.

Some say our generation is apathetic. It appears as if they are right. Some students might say the polling places were too far away to get to, with precinct three voting at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church on North Pleasant street and precinct four at the Bangs Community Center on Boltwood Walk. Indeed, that is a long walk in such cold weather. But then, why does UMass (and the town) support the largest free bus system in the world? It's surely not there for asthetics.

The location of the polling places is no accident, either. The Emmanuel Lutheran Church is out on the fringes of the precinct, as far away from campus as it could be. Southwest voters used to vote in a church across from the residential area, until 1972 when the polls were moved to the center of town, leaving the precinct the only one in town without its own polling place, the same year 18-year-olds were granted the right to vote.

It appears as if the townsfolk don't want students to have a voice in town politics. It also seems as if we have accommodated them. Students had the chance to get their voice heard, if only they had turned out in numbers.

The candidates who were chosen, those who will appear on the April ballot, could be detrimental to the UMass community. William Ezbicki and Chauncey Simmons are directors of the Amherst Taxpayers Association, an organization dedicated to the lowering of taxes—at the expense of services. Services that could be cut could directly affect UMass and the students of the University.

To use an old cliche, voting is not a privilege, its a right. A right should be exercised, not ignored. If you care about the quality of your life, then voting is a must.

Ed Levine is a Collegian staff member.

Letters

Mall-feasance

To the Editor:

The United Christian Foundation Board, at its regular meeting February 27, 1980, calls on members of the religious community who may choose to see the film "Cruising" to examine themselves for negative stereotypes of homosexuality and not allow these to be reinforced by the images portrayed in the film.

We also support the right of all groups including the gay community to exercise freedom of speech and assembly.

We affirm the right of gay people to educate film goers as to the diverse humanity of gay men and lesbians.

We believe this should include the freedom to leaflet and carry placards outside the theater at the mall.

Carolyn Porter
UCF Board Member

Off the top of his...

To the Editor:

I have to disagree with part of the column written by Jim Degnim on February 27th. He shouldn't make statements off the top of his head.

Photo by Cheryl Senter

He said it is no coincidence that the Boston Celtics have more white players than any team in the NBA. Mr. Degnim failed to mention that they also have the best record in the NBA. My point, however, is that only a season ago (1978-'79) the Celtics left training camp with just two white players: Dave Cowens and Jeff Judkins. It turned out to be the worst season in Boston's history, but along the way they were able to pick up players like Chris Ford, Rick Robey, and, afterwards, Larry Bird. How can you argue with that?

The real problem with Mr. Degnim's flippant statement is that any idiot can pick up the paper, read it, and believe it. I suspect he's one of those who just recently hopped on the Celtics bandwagon now that they are winners again. It is clear to people who have followed this team for a number of years that they are indeed color blind.

If Jim Degnim wants to talk about the Red Sox, that's a different story.

John Antonelli
Amherst

Praise stimulus

To the Editor:

Although I can't be sure of the opinion of others, (all but that of Mr. Martineau) I feel that it's about time someone like Jimmy Allison III is waiting for the Collegian. Personally, I think that the kind of material he writes is not only exceptionally humorous, but also the most intellectually stimulating material that I've read in some time. All I can say is, bravo Jimmy Allison III! Keep up the good work!!!!

Very truly yours,
Thomas J. Lahr

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

Associate Editors

Jeff Baker, Fran Basche, Ellen Davis, Carolyn Mooney, Rob Stein, Associate Managing Editors; Ed Levine, Brian O'Connell, Associate News Editors; Eric Janszen, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Marcia Hospedales, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Peter Berry, Associate Photo Editor; Abbe Bjorklund, Associate Fine Arts Editor; Jane Wolfson, Associate Sports Editor; Jeffrey Bianchi, Associate Graphics Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Letters to the Editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

SALE!

ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, MARCH 1

QUALITY LEATHER & SUEDE GLOVES

SATURDAY 3.95 A PAIR

SCARVES

IMPORTED FROM ECUADOR

100% WOOL REG. 8.95

...4.50

HATS

REG. FROM 1.50 TO 17.95

SATURDAY ..95 to 14.95

FACES

A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

★SGA

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

Ken Marquis and Scott Cashman
Jim Sheehan and Bob Weatherwax
Michael Cohen and Michael Ferrigno
The candidates will have less than two weeks to campaign before the election on March 11 and 12. Each set of candidates will receive about $190 from a fund set up by the senate to assist in campaign funding.

Correction

The Curry-N-Kabob ad which ran in yesterday's Collegian did not contain their phone number. That number is 253-3481.

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton

Only Area Showing NOW, ENDS MAR. 6 at 7:00 and 9:00

"Breathtakingly lovely." —Judith Crist

"ONE OF THIS YEAR'S BEST."

Lee Remick in THE EUROPEANS by Henry James

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

silverscope café

The Yellow House · 264 N. Pleasant St. · Amherst 253-3447

Natural Vegetarian Food • Full Liquor • Coffee Beans. Valley's Lowest Prices

8 mat Mon.-Sat. 12 mat. Sun.

NEW POSTERS
Clothing Specials
Great Cards & Gifts
Daily 10 am-6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

INFLATION FIGHTER'S SPECIAL!

Shampoo, Cut & Blower Styling. . .only $10

Special
FREE
$1.50 CONDITIONER
with Precision Haircut and your coupon
Good 2/28 thru 3/1

No Appointment Necessary
GREAT EXPECTATIONS®
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

Hampshire Mall
Hadley

Around campus

Service planned

A special Sabbath Service will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall Auditorium, 2nd floor. Musical selections from Cantor Samuel Naumbourg's Zemirot Yisrael will be performed by the Smith College Choir under the direction of G. Robert Kolb.

The Service is co-sponsored by UMass Hillel and the Jewish Community of Amherst.

Film shows tonite

"The Champ," starring Jon Voight, will be shown tonight in Thompson 104 at 6, 8:15, and 10:30. The film is a fundraiser for the New England Film Festival, and admission in $1.50

Energy is topic

"Energy and the Way We Live" starts in Hampshire County tomorrow at Thorne's in Northampton: Part I at 10 a.m., and Part II at 12:45 p.m. The program entitled, "The Energy Crisis: Who Cares?" is the first of three Free programs designed to involve Hampshire County residents in the human side of the energy crisis. Bring a bag lunch.

Women celebrate

The Jewish feminist organization, a newly formed group, has planned a variety of events open to the public on Jewish women to be presented during Inernationa Women's Week, March 3 through 8. The events are partially arranged for through the UMass B'nai B'rith Hillel.

The first program will be a Purim celebration and folksinging party in honor of a history of strong women tonight at 8 in Duke's Room, Student Union. Marianne Simon and Jenine Roberts will lead and perform songs of Purim, women, and liberaton. For information on other events during the week, contact Hillel at 5-2526.

DISCO
Friday — Saturday
9 til 1

"An Amherst tradition and now with a great new look"

Serving Food
11:30 A.M.
to 9:30 P.M.
7 days a week

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Texas Instruments LCD Quartz digital watches

Quartz Alarm Watches

Handsome, easy to set alarm watches for today's busy person. Set them to any time of day and they provide a gentle reminder, not a harsh buzz.

Eight functions - hours, minutes, seconds, month, date, day, year, day, alarm.

Many other styles available - for both women and men. And all at our discount prices.

in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

STADIUM

KEGS— BEER—

U. Mass. Amherst

LIQUORS WINE—

LIQUORS

Miller bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk 7.49 cs
O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl. 2.75 6 pack 9.90 case
Bud bottles or cans.....2.10 6 pk. 7.49 cs.
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls.. 1.60 6 pk. 5.90 cs.
S.S. Pierce Vodka 1.75 liter.....7.95
Old Milwaukee.....12 pack 3.10

Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre.....11.49
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch.....3.99
Sebastiani Mountain Burgandy, Mountain Rose, Mt. Chablis 3 liters.....4.99
Taylor California Cellars
Chablis, Rose, Rhine, Byrgany 1.5 litre.....3.59

Catch Our Weekly Specials

500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

 Steve Garfield ***
brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound"

JVC Cassette Deck Mk II ANRS. Professionally maintainenced. Originally $300., $125. Call Phil 323-7365

Realistic STA-120 Receiver 60 watts/ch. excellent cond. $180 665-7744

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

73 Ford Wagon one owner, reliable transportation. Motor great, body hurtin. $400 256-8088 after five

12 volt 315 amp car battery brand new! 20.00 Rick H. 545-2150

Olds. Cutl 74 excellent run & body cond $1600 call 549-5144 ev.

74 Pontiac Custom Ventura excellent running condition $1200 call 665-7574 keep trying

DO IT!

Seniors--Are you going to graduate without doing it? Get yourself into your yearbook! Call 545-2874

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem for hire perfect for bands, discos, coffehouses. Rick 584-4105

Disco at Hatch! Sat. March 1 DJ w/light 9-1:00 $1.50 $-bar Free Munchies!

Leap Year! Stomp to Live New Wave Fri Feb 29! 9-1:00 Hatch $2.00!

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

FOR SALE

Tuxedo and 3-piece suits sizes 38-39 call 256-0626 any evening

Yamaha 12-string Guitar w/case. Excellent condition Dave 549-1880

Customized 78 Honda 750 Custom paint, exhaust, etc. Meticulously maintained & improved since new. Over 3300 invested. Asking $2300 call 256-6642

Kinks Tickets 10th row center seats $22 each or best 546-9790

Zodiac Boots—very good condition size 7 BO 6-3216

For Sale 2 studio design bookshelf speakers Used 8 months. Call 6-1402 Asking $50.00/pair

Fiat 124 Sedan Mechanical condition. Some rust. 586-0871

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found: Sweater - gloves. Feb. 13, 1980 Call 545-2438 & identify

Found 5 keys in brown case near Sylvan call 549-4200

Found Rodgers Key Andrea 253-2901

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons "Masters in Music" 367-2713

LLLEAP'N LIZARDZ!!!

Martian Highway "Leap-Year" Costume Ball Fry-day Feb 29 $2.00 advace $2.50 day of show. Call Larry 546-8588 for info. A Valley Space-People Twirleyz Fest!!!

LOST

Lost: Single key on leather ring, Hills Wheeler vicinity $5 reward call 586-9153

Lost—gold bracelet between the library and Northeast area on February 21. If found, call Anna 546-4852 or 546-4849

Annie Klein light brown glasses Mahar area call Lisa 6-8011

Reward I lost a serpentine gold bracelet on Monday. If found contact Marian at 253-7619

Dearly beloved hat-hood black/white & black check reversible. Reward if returned, my ears have been cold. rachel 586-0233

Lost pair black leather gloves Tues 19th 5-6826 Thanks

MUSICIANS WANTED

Guitarist and Drummer wanted for progressive rock band which composes original material cal Stu 253-5980 eves

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Disco Party Saturday march 1 9 pm - 1 am in Hampden Student Center. Dance Contest with $25.00 first prize 50c admission charge. Sponsored by Southwest Assembly. Bottles prohibited

Impressionist Pastel Portraits $10.00 moneyback guarantee 253-2983

Celebrate Leap Year at Lambda Delta Phi's Open Sorority Rush Party. Friday 8:30-12:30 call 5-0939 for info. Ask for Ellen or Kathy

Big hungry eaters wanted by Paradise Bar BQ no experience necessary. Apply in person noon to 5:45 Armory 131 King St. Northampton 584-5608

Happy 5th birthday John F.—you're legal now! Love from Funcky, Jack, Maria, mary, Bob, Carolyn, Dan, Jim, Brenda, Bob, Bonnie, Paul, Sue, Janice, Helaine, Patrice, Paul, Cindy and Sue

Rich 1802 GWU, Are you keeping your eyes open? I'm still watching you. Your secret valentine

To Joanne, our future AHR, good luck, you'll need it. V.P. and Floor Rep.

Hey cross-eyed LOOSA, ya you Sue, Joan or whatever. . .get psyched for a keg! "ZeBar" awaits "ZeDrunk", come and party hearty—but bring your own bucket!! Happy 19th. Love, June and Diane P.S. (NO BEARS ALLOWED!!)

Cathy and Lisa Thanks for Thursday morning JTR

Judes, Happy Anniversary. The las tfive have been the best. Don't forget to keep the pillow. Love, Jeff

Hey Girls—Lance Sterling says- "the beach is that way" -Eighth Floor McNamara- Saturday night

See Paragon Experience!

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Student Movers and Haulers Cheap! 256-8868

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995; Room 922 Campus Center, UMass.

TO SUBLET

Room in house close to camous on bus route $91.50 + 549-4166

One bedroom close to Town and School 253-2645 before midnght

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Flute—reasonably priced. call Mona after 3:00 pm 546-9701

WANTED TO RENT

Want to sublet Rolling Green four bedroom summer with intention to take over lease 546-5387 546-5399

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Ft Lauderdale area for Spring Break Will share costs and driving. Call Laurie after 7 256-0637

Ride wanted to Florida for spring break will share driving, expenses, party materials. Call Cathy and Deb 549-6534

Ride wanted to Washington DC Spring break and Friday Feb 29 Pleas call Debbie 323-6843 will share expense

Ride wanted from Belchertown Center to UMass daily 9 am or 10 am Debbie 323-6843 will share $

For two to Ft. Lauderdale will share driving and expenses call 256-8297

Ride needed to Wash D.C. March break will share $ call Carole 6-4847

ROOMATE WANTED

In So Deerfield quiet country house 8 miles from campus, minutes from bus route $83/month & utilities 665-4807

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

In Northwood Apts own room $105 mo. + elec. 665-2838 eves

Roomate wanted to share two bedroom Southwood apartment: $160/mo Ph. 256-8202

FOUR SEASONS

Molson Golden 12 oz. btl.	case	10.69
Miller Beer 12 oz. btl.	case	7.49
Lucky Lager Beer 12 oz. btl.	case	4.99
S.S.Pierce Vodka	1.75 ltr.	8.99
Fleishmann Preferred	1.75 ltr.	12.49
Tango Pina Colada	qt.	2.99
Preferiti Lambrusco	750 ml.	1.49

Open 9 am - 11 pm
Mon. - Sat.
Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NEW EXTENDED HOURS
MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.
FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.
SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

presents
LENE LOVICH
Thurs. March 13 - 8 PM
Bowker Auditorium
UMass-$5.50-Public-$6.50
Available at: TIX, Union Records Unlimited (UMass) For the Record (Amherst) Platterpus (Northampton)
THE KINKS Thurs. March 6 - FAC - 8PM

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Singer
5 Finch
10 German river
14 Chicago area
15 Rust
16 Threesome
17 Kitty
18 Remitters: 2 words
20 Burns
22 Boy's name
23 Ilk
24 Performed
26 Old French coin
27 Shares top billing
30 Folks
34 Cling
35 Legume
36 Letter
37 Peruse
38 Broker
40 Busy place
41 Pouch
42 Sioux
43 Interlaced
45 Reacted to snuff
47 Motorless craft
48 Staff
49 Candia
50 Heptad
53 Prompt
54 Chowders, e.g.
58 Methods
61 Item
62 "Don't bet — —!"
63 Very best
64 Usurp
65 Spreads for drying
66 Consecrated
67 Swamp

DOWN
1 Woe word
2 Single
3 Grivet
4 Ran
5 Cry
6 Deports
7 Angered
8 Unbusy
9 Catnip
10 Scriber
11 District
12 Melodies
13 Betsy —
19 Oak fruit
21 Cicatrix
25 Doctored
26 Puget Sound port
27 Finds fault
28 Greek theater
29 Hue
30 Quill
31 Sheepish
32 At no time
33 Sows
35 Insect
39 Deity
40 Criminals' lairs
42 Pure air
44 Punsters
46 Constructs
47 Welcomes
49 Radium discoverer
50 Notice
51 Sea bird
52 Null and — —
53 Select
55 Single
56 Toll road
57 Worry
59 Junior Leaguer
60 Place

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

DC menu

Lunch
Tuna boat
Turkey divan

Basics Lunch
Lentil Spinach Stew
Turkey divan

Dinner
Steak, French fried onion rings
Seafood Newburg

Basics DInner
Soybean souffle
Seafood newburg

Earthfoods

Spaghetti
Onion-miso soup
Rice Bulghar
Spinach salad
Apple crunch cake

Happy Hour at
Barselotti's
Every Friday from 3-6
Draft Beer 50c
Most Bottled Beer 75c
Pitchers of
Old Milwaukee $2.00
Most Drinks 75c
25c Drafts with a Barse's Mug
Free Whole Wheat Pizza
Free Peanuts
2 T.V.'s
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

Stockbridge Class of 81
Presents
FRITZ THE CAT
X Rated Humor
Animated
Full Length Feature
$1.50
Sunday, March 2nd
C.C.A. at
6:00, 7:45, 9:30 & 11:15

SUNDAY The Hungry-U BRUNCH
Join Us
For Sunday Brunch 10:30-2
Free Bloody Mary
with any Brunch
55 University Dr. Amherst 549-5713

★ Week in review

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

equally favored Carter and Kennedy, 12.7 percent Bush, and 6.9 percent Rep. John Anderson.

● WFCR-FM, the UMass public radio station, attempted to quell complaints raised over programming changes which moved the time for Spanish speaking programming. The stattion agreed to form an advisory committee to study the problem.

● The Graduate Student Senate made final its 1981 fiscal budget allocating $126,00 for various programs.

THURSDAY—The UMass budget for the Amherst, Boston and Worcester campuses was reviewed by the state House Ways and Means Committee.

CLOG SALE

12 STYLES

reg. $24.95 to $38.95
SALE

$14.95
Limited Sizes

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

FAMOUS SINCE 1978
CARBUR'S
Restaurant and Lounge
BRUNCH
$3.50 Sat. & Sun. 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Quiche or Crepes or Eggs Benedict
Served with Soup or Salad
Fresh Fruit — Danish
Plus
Bloody Mary or Screwdriver 95¢
Elmwood Shops
Rte. 9, Hadley, 586-1978

Come Early and Come Often!
BOOK SALE
New Books Added Daily!

75% OFF back to old time prices
Many books were reduced previously which means extra savings because we're discounting 75% off the lowest price on the book
Hundreds of Books
paperbacks and hardbounds
LAST TWO DAYS
Thursday and Friday
Feb. 28 Feb. 29
on the Campus Center Concourse
special tables across from the store
a super sale from
the UNIVERSITY STORE

BLUE WALL
campus center at u mass
Fri. Feb. 29

LUNA
with special guests
"The most adventurous glitter rockers since the advent of David Bowie."
$2 cover charge

Sat. March 1
A & M Recording Artists
PRIVATE LIGHTNING
"A classy rock band that gets high marks in all categories"
with special guests
(jazz fusion to the max)
$2 cover charge

UPCOMING
The Atlantics Mar. 7
Beaver Brown Mar. 8

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol
in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

She was married at 13.
She had four kids
by the time she was 20.
She's been hungry and poor.
She's been loved and cheated on.
She became a singer and a star because it was the only way she knew to survive.

Coal Miner's DAUGHTER
SISSY SPACEK TOMMY LEE JONES
"COAL MINER'S DAUGHTER"
also starring BEVERLY D'ANGELO LEVON HELM Screenplay by TOM RICKMAN
Based on the Autobiography by LORETTA LYNN with GEORGE VECSEY
Executive Producer BOB LARSON Produced by BERNARD SCHWARTZ
Directed by MICHAEL APTED A BERNARD SCHWARTZ Production A UNIVERSAL PICTURE
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
Opening March 7 at a theatre near you

'Cruising' to nowhere

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

On approaching the movie theater, contact will first be made with protestors holding signs, "Boycott Cruising," "Stop Gay Oppression," and "Cruising Lies." This may deter a choice few from attending the movie "Cruising," but more likely will enhance people's interest in the film.

Spokesmen for local and national gay groups insist that gay people are not presented as everyday people in the film, that there is a need for films portraying gay people in normal situations. The point is: we are instead presented with "Cruising." It should first be analyzed as a film to see if it merits viewing, and then from a social perspective to see if gays are in fact being exploited.

Review

It is also important to understand why this segment of the population is being filmed.

It is doubtful that most viewers, upon seeing the film, will generalize that all gay people are like the sado-masochistic (S and M) leather gays depicted in the film. It is clearly showing a very small percentage of gays. But, is it a necessary film, a film with high quality cinematography or other devices? Unfortunately it is not, for if it was the film would merit attention.

"Cruising" is the story of a New York cop (Al Pacino) who is asked to go undercover into the world of S and M bars in order to find a psychopathic killer. The killer picks up his victims in the bar and, while seducing them, brutally knives them. Throughout a good deal of the film, we are pulled in by the suspense, and fascinated/shocked by the almost explicit sex and the blatent violence.

Director Friedkin can be commended for revealing the essence of the bar and exposing the inhabitants, as well as showing them "go down on ... another," without really completing the act.

Friedkin is also successful in creating a heightened tension, and most of the violent scenes were not as gory or sensational as have been publicized. It is a fair film with numerous flaws in the plot. There is a vague reference in the film concerning the killer's dead father, whom the killer seems to be taking his murdering cue from. There is also a definite hole in the film in that we are given almost nothing of the killer's background.

"Cruising" follows Pacino in and out of the Ram Rod, the S and M bar where the men are dressed as policemen (ironically enough) and Nazis. Slowly, Pacino is dragged into their world and feels cut off from his past. After leaving the theater there was a question among the viewers as to how Pacino becomes and also who committed the last murder. Perhaps some of the viewers I spoke with missed something important but I waver back and forth also.

It is doubtful that "Cruising" will lead to violence against gays, and hopefully viewers will have enough sense not to discredit gays because of this small population which does exist, by the way, within the hetrosexual population.

Hopefully, soon, gays will be depicted as they are—living and loving like hetrosexuals. The reasoning behind making "Cruising" raises an interesting point, and perhaps a sad one if the film industry feels this is what the public yearns for. It is uncertain if Friedkin intended to alienate all gays or just make money. I think the latter choice.

The protestors have every right to picket a film they feel threatens their rights, a film they feel exploits gays. Lorimar Productions has a right to distribute the film and those of us who want to see this controversial work, for whatever reason, have the same right.

Perhaps it can be a lesson in noticing mediocrity in film, as well as being shown a slice of our social arena. Except there are many other slices that warrant attention and it appears Friedkin was not very successful in this venture. If his attempt in making "Cruising" was to stir everyone up, he was successful indeed.

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
NEW EXTENDED HOURS
MON.-THURS. 9 A.M.-8 P.M.
FRI. & SAT. 9 A.M.-10 P.M.
SUNDAY 9 A.M.-6 P.M.
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS / AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Presents... M'BOOM
ROY BROOKS RAY MANTILLA
JOE CHAMBERS WARREN SMITH
OMAR CLAY MAX ROACH
FRED KING FREDDIE WAITS
re:percussion
ARTISTIC DIRECTOR, MAX ROACH
ONE NIGHT ONLY
FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1980
at 8 P.M.
TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE AND TICKETRON OUTLETS
General public $6, $5, $4
Senior Citizens $5, $4, $3
All Students Half-Price $3, $2.50, $2
Phone reservations, mail orders, group discounts and group dinner-theater packages available. For more information call the Box Office (413) 545-2511, M-F, noon-5 p.m.
A Benefit for the Fletcher Henderson Music Scholarship Fund

The rusty nail Inn
Presents
Fri. Feb. 29th FAT
Sat. March 1st SHADES (formerly Zonkaraz)
Thurs. March 6th

STEVE FORBERT
Tickets $5.00 in advance and at the door
Rt. 47 Sunderland 665-4937

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50
SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW - LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9—HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer
9 Academy Award Nominations
Fri.-Sat. (4:45 @$1.50) 7:30-9:45
Sun.-Thur. (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:25 PG
STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE
3 Academy Award Nominations
Fri.-Sat. (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:45-10:15
Sun.-Thur. (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:00 G
Norma Rae SALLY FIELD
4 Academy Award Nominations including Best Picture
Fri.-Sat. (4:45 @ $1.50) 8:00-10:15
Sun.-Thur. (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:00 PG
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
Friday & Saturday atMidnight all seats $2.50 R
THE FOG
Fri.-Sat. (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45-9:45
Sun.-Thur. (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:15 R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Cruising for a killer... AL PACINO CRUISING
No one under 18 will be admitted!
Fri.-Sat. (5:00 @ $1.50) 7:30-10:15
Sun.-Thur. (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30 R
James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two Academy Award Nomination for Best Actress
Fri.-Sat. (4:45 @ $1.50) 7:30-9:55
Sun.-Thur. (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:00 PG
STEVE MARTIN The JERK
Fri.-Sat. (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 10:15
Sun.-Thur. (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:15 R
HILLS OF HOME
Sat. and Sun. at 2:00
all seats $1.50 G
DOM DeLUISE Fatso
Fri.-Sat. (5:15 @ $1.50) 7:45 9:55
Sun.-Thur. (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Matinee (Sat., Sun.) 2:15 PG

Sports

Previews

It's tourney time

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball team faces Fordham University at 8:00 tonight at Fordham in the opening round of the Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women playoffs.

That, to use a cliche, is enough said.

For there are a number of factors that will determine if UMass, coming off a strong team victory against Northeastern last weekend, can play well enough to beat the 18-13 Rams; the number two seed and last year's EAIAW champion.

First is the day-to-day playing status of center Julie Ready. She has not started since the Feb. 9 game against Northeastern because of an aggravated stress fracture in her foot. Although her sister Martha has filled in well on the boards and scoring (18 points last game), Julie's shooting touch and leadership could prove invaluable in a tournament.

"They struggled a couple of games without her," said Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski. "She will not start (tonight) but I expect nothing less (than last game). I expect more. And I think the team expects more from themselves."

In their last game against NU for the Massachusetts AIAW championship, the Minutewomen shedded their acquired habit of blowing large halftime leads downing the Huskies 71-64 after holding a 13-point advantage at the half.

The other factor is Fordham itself. After winning the Easterns last year, the Rams advanced to the Nationals where they lost to the University of Tennessee 76-54 in the first round. The Rams' big gun is 6 foot center Ann Gregory. In four years at Fordham she has scored over 2000 points. This year she has scored 538 total points in 31 Ram games for a 17.4 per game average. Sophomore Annette Kennedy is the other top scorer in double figures with 14.0 points per game.

As the seventh seed in the eight-team tournament, UMass would look to one of the underdogs. But as Ozdarski has said, the best thing about this tournament is that all eight teams have to play in the first round. A pre-tournament favorite, if any, is Queens College. The number one seed had been mentioned in the national poll earlier this season.

Sue Peters, top scorer for the hoopwomen, will lead the team against Fordham University in the EAIAW tournament tonight. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Gymnasts prepare for Michigan State

Laurie Knapp of UMass performs on the balance beam in recent action. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The nationally ranked Michigan State University women's gymnastics team will be in town Saturday to face the gymwomen of UMass in a 1 p.m. meet at the Boyden Auxiliar Gym.

Michigan State, the Big Ten Conference Champion, comes into this meet with an 11–3 record, losing to such powerhouses as University of Florida, Penn State University, and University of Louisville. They are rated 16th in the nation by the Coach's Association.

UMass Coach Virginia Evans characterized Michigan as "a very strong team." This will be the toughest competition the 8–2 gymwomen have faced since the loss to Penn State in December. Bonnie Ellis is the premier performer for Michigan State.

Competing in the all-around for the Minutewomen on Saturday will be Liz Marino, Lisa Martin, Janice Baker, and Chris Wilson. Karen Clemente will probably add an extra event due to an injury to Amy Riuli. Also, Karen Ginsberg, who has been nursing a sprained ankle, is expected to be back in top form for this meet.

Beam specialist Riuli, will be lost to the Minutewomen for the remainder of the season. Doctors have reccommended that she rest her shoulder to avoid further injury. Riuli underwent surgery on the shoulder before the season began.

Alumni and Senior Day will be celebrated on Saturday. For senior co-captain Laurie Knapp, it will be her last chance to perform in front of a home crowd. She is the only member of the squad who will be completing her eligibility.

It is interesting to note that both the Michigan State Head Coach Michael Kasavana and Assistant Coach Jody Hittbrandon are UMass alumni. Kasavana was a member of the men's gymnastic team here, and also served as the assistant coach for the Minutewomen for four years during the early 1970's.

Spikers get ready for New England Open

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Lately, UMass has not played with the intensity it had shown earlier this season, losing to Springfield College, University of New Hampshire, and Penn State University. In those matches, UMass passed and blocked poorly, especially at the middle, where the opposition often scored with relative ease.

When the men's volleyball team sets out for University of Rhode Island to the New England "A" Open tomorrow, it will try to shake a two-week-old case of playing flat volleyball.

"We haven't lost to a team that hasn't been really good," said Coach Al Morel, "even though we have the ability to beat them, we lost, not because of really serious mistakes on our part, but because the other teams are gunning for us. We're one of the best teams in New England, and the opposition wants to get us."

At the Open, UMass will be facing all its Division One rivals, including Harvard, Northeastern, Rhode Island, Boston University, the Mass. Institute of Technology, and New Hampshire. Also at the Open will be Division Two team Providence College, Yale University, and Open defending champion Springfield College.

"Our practices have been good this week," said team member Orlando Larracuente, "We're looking forward not only to play, but to get into the finals and get another shot at Springfield College."

While the varsity is at URI, the junior varsity will travel to the New England "B" Open at Wentworth Institute tomorrow. There, UMass will play teams from Divisions two and three, including Amherst College, Middlebury College, Dartmouth College, Southern Connecticut State College, and Brown University.

UMass baseball clinic slated

The Annual UMass baseball clinic will be held tomorrow in the main Boyden Gymnasium, and will feature pitchers Doug Welenc and Larry Brown of the Houston Astros organization.

In addition, the clinic, which is open to players and coaches of all playing levels, will include instruction from college coaches Bill Thurston (Amherst), Rich Bedard (American International) and Chuck Roys (Springfield).

Welenc, a native of nearby Greenfield, compiled a 20–8 record in three seasons at UMass and was the Yankee Conference Player of the Year in 1979. Brown was a standout pitcher and quarterback at Harvard.

The clinic, which is under the direction of UMass Coach Dick Bergquist, will run from 9:15 a.m. to 2 p.m. Registration will be held at 8:45 a.m. The clinic will cover baserunning, hitting, defense, conditioning and pitching. Cost is $2.50 for coaches and $1.00 for players.

Sports notices

JV Lacrosse meeting – There will be a JV Lacrosse meeting Monday at 4 p.m. in Boyden room 249 for all those who missed Wednesday's meeting.

Hang Gliding – The UMass hang gliding club will be holding a club fly-in tomorrow. All club members who have been certified and have turned in their waiver forms are welcome to attend. Meet at the Campus Center at 10 a.m. Saturday. The rain date is Sunday, March 2.

Swim instructors needed – Instructors are needed to teach in a seven-week spring program for University and community children in NOPE Gymnasium. The program begins March 12 at 4 p.m. with an introductory meeting. Volunteer water safety instructors are needed and may obtain information sheets and registration forms from the secretary in NOPE.

There are still openings in the Sport Diving Course being held in Key Largo, Florida, March 16-22. If you are interested, you should contact Bob Sparks immediately at Project DEEP, 31 Elizabeth Street, Northampton, MA, 586-3448.

Entries for Intramural Softball & Soccer are Due March 3, both require a $10.00 forfeit fee. Swimming entries are also due March 3, Paddleball entries are due March 6.

Footbal/Volleyball forgeit fee refund checks for last semester are at the IM Office – these must be picked up soon as we will have to return the checks to Whitmore.

Softball officials' meetings:

March 3, 4, & 5, 4:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Soccer Officials' Meetings:
March 3, 4, & 5, 7:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Women's soccer – All University women interested in playing soccer should attend indoor practices on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 10 p.m. in NOPE. For more information call Coach Morse at 545-2759.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 95 | Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst | Monday, March 3, 1980

A lone student walks down to the Campus Center to escape the cold weather yesterday. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Mass. primary tomorrow

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

The eyes of the nation—particulary those of the national media—will be on Massachusetts tomorrow, as the state holds the second major primary in the 1980 presidential race.

At stake tomorrow are 111 delegates to the Democratic nominating convention, and 42 delegates to the Republican convention. Fighting for these delegates are three Democratic candidates and nine Republicans.

On the Democratic side, the candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are President Jimmy Carter, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, and Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. A good showing tomorrow is considered crucial for Kennedy if he is to have any chance of taking the nomination.

On the Republican side, the candidates, also in order of appearance on the ballot, are Illinois Congressman John B. Anderson, Tennessee Sen. Howard H. Baker, former Texas Congressman George H. Bush, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, Kansas Sen. Robert J. Dole, Benjamin Fernandez, Harold Stassen, and California Congressman Philip M. Crane.

Among the things to look for in the Republican race will be whether George Bush can get back the frontrunner position he lost to Ronald Reagan in last Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, and how well John Anderson and Howard Baker do.

At UMass, at least four of the candidates, Anderson, Bush, Carter, and Kennedy have active organization working for them. These organizations have been running tables in the Campus Center, conducting phone surveys, and sponsoring forums.

Presidential hopefuls respond to women's issues—see story, page 6.

In addition, Anderson, Kennedy's nephew Joseph, Bush's son and daughter have made personal appearances on campus.

Also to be contested tomorrow are seats on the state and town Democratic and Republican Committees. For the state committees, one man and one woman are to be chosen for the Franklin and Hampshire District from each party. For the town committees, up to 35 members can be chosen for each party.

In the two races for state committee man, there is only one candidate—incumbent Philip L. Sullivan on the Democratic side and former Amherst Selectman and School Committee member Nathaniel Reed on the Republican side.

In the race for Democratic state committee woman, there are three candidates, including UMass Rhetoric Professor Florence Frank. Frank is running against incumbent Helen "Poppy" Doyle of Ashfield and Helen F. Cullen of Hadley.

In the race for Republican State Committee woman, Frances King of Leverett is on the ballot against Mary. R. Torras of Shelbourne.

There are 22 names on the ballot for the Republican Town Committee and 35 names on the ballot for the Democratic Town Committee.

Polls in Amherst will be open for voting from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow. UMass students in all areas except Southwest can vote at the Lutheran Church on North Pleasant St. Students from Southwest can vote at the Bangs Community Center on Boltwood Walk.

Cult at UMass:

By JACK GALLAGHER
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

He looked into the mirror and realized his eyes were no longer glazed. After three and one-half hours of "deprogramming," he snapped out of his state of confusion, the result of 25 days as a member of Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

Yesterday afternoon, this same student walked into the Collegian offices with a full package of Lifesavers and a story to tell.

It was August, 1977, and he had been hitchiking across the country—on a leave of absence from UMass at the age of 20. He had had no problems in his travels; he made new acquaintances easily. And so it was when he reached San Francisco.

He got off a Bay Area Rapid Transit car and began walking toward a YMCA on that cool and dry Thursday afternoon. He wanted to drop off the clothes he was carrying in his backpack and take a shower. But he would never make it there.

A man, "clean cut," approached, struck up a conversation and invited the Massachusetts native to dinner, "to meet other travelers and his family." On the way there, they began talking about that "family," the Creative Community Project, and the "public services" it performed in the Bay Area. Later, he would learn CSS was a "front" for the Unification Church, for Rev. Moon.

They walked into the house, "ate a nice meal," then were entertained. The people there sang songs, as he sat on the floor, and put on a martial arts demonstration as well. He would later learn the group's purpose: "to get as many people and as much money under their roof as possible...to believe in Moon as the Messiah."

He listened to a man, Mose Durst, talk about the conditions of the world—how bad and corrupt it is. The man talked about the CCP, about how it was trying to change the world, collecting money and clothes for the poor and running a drug rehabilitation center. At the time, he didn't know heads of such fundraising drives would wire the money into Moon's bank account in New York.

Durst was telling him CCP wanted to expand throughout America and the world, and that he was invited to spend a weekend with the group in northern California's Mendicino County. He was told he would "have some fun, play some games" while there "to seek how the group works." It

TURN TO PAGE 10

The Collegian visited this Pelham house, on Gulf Road, where many of the CARP members who canvass in the Campus Center live.

CARP defends campus activities

By BRUCE WARD
Special to the Collegian

PELHAM—Claiming religious persecution and media bias, members of the Collegiate Association for the Research of Principles (CARP) criticized the Collegian for alleged inaccuracies in recent stories and vowed "none of this will destroy CARP" in an interview here yesterday.

The three members who identified themselves as UMass students, consented to the interview in their Pelham home, saying recent "anti-Moonie" campaigns are due to ignorance of what CARP stands for.

Karen Graham, a 33-year-old former Florida resident and member of CARP, told the Collegian she objected to use of the term "Moonie" because "it lumps us all into one mindless mass, like 'nigger'. People tend to forget," she added, "that we are individuals.

"Graham also said she had some respect for those who confront her at CARP's Campus Center table. "It shows they have some courage," she said. "It is those who talk behind our backs who are hard to respect."

Helgi Hardarson, a CARP member from Iceland, said the persecution of CARP "fits into a historical pattern. People react to new ideas in an emotional way. It happens to every new idea or religion. It happened to Copernicus, to Christ, to Martin Luther King. The masses are resistant to change."

TURN TO PAGE 11

DIGEST

Anderson attacks Bush

BOSTON (AP) — Republican presidential candidate George Bush angered fellow hopeful John Anderson in a clash last night at a reception for GOP entries in Tuesday's Massachusetts primary.

Bush said that after six caucuses and primaries the run for the nomination had narrowed to a race between himself and Ronald Reagan.

Then Anderson, his face flushed, took the podium and shouted into the microphone:

"Don't you believe it. This race is wide open. This race has opened up. Massachusetts will prove that the Anderson candidacy is on the march across the country."

Some in the crowd of several hundered booed, and Anderson, an Illinois congressman, declared:

"I hear some boos out there. Those are the kind of Republicans who have made this the minority party for the last 50 years."

Ford: Reagan can't win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford says Ronald Reagan cannot win the presidency because he is too conservative, but that he would himself become a candidate if he received a "broadbased" invitation from the Republican Party.

Ford said he would have to make up his mind about entering the presidential race by about April 1.

The former president said he had received a growing number of requests that he become a candidate, but he was not yet convinced they represented a "truly broad-based" feeling in the GOP.

"If there was an honest-to-goodness, bona-fide urging by a broad-based group in my party, I would respond," Ford said. "As of today, the party hasn't asked me."

Five freed from embassy

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Leftist militants holding the Dominican Republican Embassy freed five of their estimate 41 hostages yesterday after their negotiators met for the first time with Colombian government officials.

U.S. Ambassador Diego C. Asencio and 15 other foreign envoys were still being held and an official at the U.S. Embassy, who asked not to be identified, said of the leftists, "They'll keep the big ones."

It was not immediately clear when the talks would resume, or if any other hostages would be released soon.

A Colombian Foreign Ministery source, who requested anonymity, said, "The government's proposition is that only the diplomats and Foreign Ministry officials who were attending the party when the embasssy was taken by assault should remain" while negotiations are being conducted.

Ayatollah Ruollah Khomeini waves from the terrace of a Tehran hospital yesterday while making his first public appearance in a month. Khomeini tld the audience he wa at their service in "the last days of my life." (AP Laserphoto)

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity president, Stuart Tobin, presents Dean of Student Affairs William Field with a plaque of appreciation at Pike's Founding Fathers Breakfast, Sunday. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Dean Field addresses Pike frat breakfast

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Dean of Students William Field addressed 75 members and alumni of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity at a Founding Fathers breakfast yesterday.

Field announced that Chancellor Henry Koffler has waived the hiring freeze in order to fill the vacancy of Shannon Ellis, Greek Area Director who will be leaving this August.

Persons will apply for the position if they see houses like Pike," Field said.

Field mentioned the accomplishments of Pike during their four years on the UMass campus. The six founding fathers of the fraternity were searching for a house when Pike's national office contacted the UMass office of Greek Afairs, said Jim Goldman, a Pi Kappa Alpha alumni.

"The fraternity ideal is to promote intellectual, social, and physical growth in a supportive environment. We did not feel the other fraternities were doing that – they were not well rounded and we thought we could do better," Goldman said.

Field added that Pike had "the right ideals, the right spirits and an extraordinary fine tradition and cooperation with the university. It's the kind of fraternity we want to see."

Pi Kappa Alpha president Stuart To the presented faculty advisor Professor James O'Connel and Dean Field each a plaque of appreciation for their services to ter-fraternity.

When asked how the drinking age affected campus living during an informal forum, Field responded, "the drinking has been much worse this year in the dormitories compared to last year."

Members of the fraternity expressed concern over the current decline of the education budget. The number of out-of-state students has been increased, for the diversity of the UMass community, said Field.

Field added that recruitment has already been started, and special tution waivers have been granted for approximately 40 students with special talents in "dance, art, and sports."

When asked if he thought the tax exemption for fraternities and sororities would pass in the legislature Field said, "I hope so, the tax exemption would be better than having the University taking over the title of their property."

Historian speaks of great Black women

By David Green
Special to the Collegian

In the last event of Black History Month, Wilhelmena Simpson Robinson, a retired Black historian, spoke on Black Women in the organizational movement.

Although there were only a few people attending, they were educated on the achievements of the Black Woman from slavery to the present.

Ms. Robinson, a successful Black woman, found joy in speaking of the great achievements of Black women. She spoke of the outstanding strength and accomplishments of Sylvia Dubois, a woman born a slave; Harriet Tubmen, who is called "the Moses of her people," Rosa Parks, who is considered "the Mother of the Black Revolution" and some present active Black women of today like Dorothy Heigths, President of naitonal Council for Negro Women and Patricial Harris, who serves on President Caarter's cabinet.

Many people know about the Black man's accomplishments through his struggle of regaining his freedom. We sometimes look over the strength, pain, struggle, work and constant determination of Black women.

Bush's son campaigns at UMass

By LARRY DWIGHT
Special to the Collegian

"Campaigning for my father, has not hindered my life, it has become part of it," said Neil Bush, son of Republican Presidential candidate George Bush, when he was at UMass Friday.

Neil Bush debated with students in front of the Hatch in the Student Union. He explained his father's stand on foreign policy, energy, and the economy, and added some insights about his own life.

On foreign policy, Bush was asked if his father's experience as the director of the Central Intelligence Agency hurt the campaign.

"People tend to forget a few things about my father," said Bush. "They forget that he was Ambassador to the United Nations, where he worked with the representatives of 143 Third World countries and that my father was also the first Ambassador to the Republic of China. As for the experience with the CIA, that can only help him to understand what we are up against internationally, and to know power and its abuses."

On the energy issue, Bush's stance on nuclear power was questioned. "It is simplistic to say we can depend on any one source of energy," said Neil Bush. He said his father favors co-generation, solar and wind power, and coal liquification, along with the "prudent" use of nuclear energy. When asked what he meant by 'prudent' Bush responded, "It should be implemented slowly along with a national program for the safe disposal of wastes and the use of all other sources of energy."

Neil Bush was then asked about his father's plans for the economy. Bush said his father was not going to make promises, he was going to "look at the problems as they come up, and act reasonably. He plans to limit the growth of Federal spending, in order to cut inflation. The precendent was set back in 1973 when Jerry Ford limited Federal spending and cut inflation to four percent," he said.

Bush said his personal life is not suffering, even though he has been campaigning daily since last May, when he graduated at age 26 from Tulane University with a Masters Degree in Business Administration.

With him last Friday was his fiance', Sharon Hart of Nashua, New Hampshire. They plan to be married July 6th, 1980 in Kennebunkport, Maine. When asked how he and Miss Hart had met, he said it was at a coffee, campaigning for his father.

Karen Girouaid of John Adams Dormitory lines up a shot at the game room in the Student Union Building. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Int'l Women's Week

More opportunities available for women in the 1980's

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Thanks to the Women's Movement and efforts to change society's attitude about women, women in the 1980's may have a better chance for emotional, economic, and personal freedom.

International Women's Week celebrates the social change that has occurred in past years, the attitudes about women which have changed and the continuous efforts to attain equlaity for women. While presently many women realize they have choices concerning their career and family life, there are thousands of women who are caught between these two worlds. These women work full-time and return to their homes as the primary housekeeper, cook, and child rearer.

'Women earn on the average 59 cents for every dollar earned by men. Nearly 80 percent of the women in the workforce are in clerical, sales, factory and plant jobs.'

Since women do take time off to bear children and care for them in adolescence, they are penalized in the job market. The young women who have the greatest sense of choice about mothering are those few who have been told the door to the office will still be open.

To anyone who feels the Women's Movement is presently doing nothing more than alienating men and women, one valid reply is to look at the gross differences in pay between women and men. Women earn on the average 59 cents for every dollar earned by men. Nearly 80 percent of the women in the workforce are in clerical, sales, service, factory and plant jobs. These are not women who chose to add income to their husbands – but women who pay for half the heating oil and half their families' food.

Even in 1980 there are women professors, lawyers, business women and just about any other occupation, who will get considerably less pay because companies can get away with paying women less. Despite Equal Opportunity laws, there are women and minorities who are passed over because of their status.

If anyone believes women are fighting aimlessly, they only need to open the newspapers and read how every few months an abortion decision is changed.

Many legislators truly believe women do not have a right to decide about their own reproductive rights, and their own bodies.

The Equal Rights Amendment was first proposed in 1923 – we are making fast progress for cave people.

Why organize an Internation Women's Week? More than half the world's population is comprised of women. Social traditions, attitudes, beliefs, and laws govern the ways women view their lives. The theme "Women, Families, and Social Change" incorporates the role of women in traditional and non-traditional families, women in the working world, women in unions, and sex-role stereotypes. It is important people be aware that women in media, advertising, textbooks and history courses are still stereotyped.

'It is important people be aware that women in media, advertising, textbooks & history courses are still stereotyped.'

The workshops and panel discussions this International Women's Week will include issues such as ERA, sexual harassment, union organizing, rape and rape prevention, abortion, violence in the home, child abuse, and the contemporary family.

It is still very difficult for some women to convince people they are not natural homemakers, cooks and mothers. Throughout history women were kept from becoming politically active and from leaving the homes where they were responsible for the morality of men and children.

Internationally, women are still in this position as the inferior, second sex. Thanks to the women's movement, women in this country are not as oppressed. But we still have a long way to go. There is a strong need to look at the social change that has taken place and not to put women or men in a position which limits their freedom of choice or sense of controlling their own lives.

President Carter signed a document last week proclaiming March 1-8 National Women's History Week. To the President's right are Jane Pratt, President of the Girl's Club of America and Gloria Johnson, Treasurer of Labor Union Women. (AP Laserphoto)

Women's Week schedule

International Women's Week Schedule for Monday, March 3:

Editor's note: Check the Campus Center information desk for room numbers, and for schedule changes. Child care is available if arrangements are made beforehand with Susan Markman at Everywoman's Center – 5-0893.

Monday, March 3
Afternoon

2:00 p.m. – "Career Development" A discussion assessing career goals, career planning and development. Jean Moss, (of Community Development Center, UMass), facilitator.

12:00-2:00 – "Panel: Perspectives on Women, Family and Social Change" A discussion dealing with the changing role of women in society viewed in terms of personal development, inter-relationships, myths and others and the role in bringing about social change. Pat Guthrie, Andrea Rushing, Ann Ferguson, facilitators.

2:00-3:30 – "Women and Stress" Lynn Kirk, facilitator.

2:30-4:00 – "Contemporary Family in Black America" A discussion on the continued oppression of black people in the U.S. and its impact on the structure and continuity of the Balck family. Fran Beale, facilitator.

4:00-6:00 – "Jewish Women: folklore (sephardic and Indian)" Slides and tapes depicting Jewish women's folklore collected by Maria Esfornez and Barbara Johnson in Greece, Israel and India. Barbara Johnson and Maria Esfornex, facilitators.

4:00-5:30 – "ERA/Legal Rights" An overview of the Equal Rights Amendment and Legal Rights of Women – organizing activities also Deb Jung, facilitator.

4:00-6:00 – "The Role of Black Professional Women in Social Change" The role of black professional women in social change – problems of a white male dominated society. Sheila Johnson and Janice Okuedezeto, facilitators.

Collegian to hold SGA debate

This Tuesday, March 4, the Collegian will be sponsoring a debate between the candidates for the office of Student Government Association co-presidents.

The debate will begin at 7:30 p.m. in room 163-164 of the Campus Center. The candidates will be allowed a two minute opening statement, to be followed by questions by representatives from various campus media. If time allows, questions may be asked by members of the audience.

The debate is open to the public and members of the University community are urged to attend.

Contest winner

Man learns much from women's movement

How the Women's Movement has Affected Me
By RUSSELL D. JORDAN

Editor's note: The following is the winning essay written for a contest sponsered by The Collegian Women's Dept. and the Massachusetts Press Association. Judges for the contest were a Collegian editor, a UMass professor, and a member of the Massachusetts Press Association.

I think first before I broach the question on how the Women's Movement has affected me, I should provide a brief background of my attitudes before I became acquainted with the Women's Movement. I will attempt to be as objective as possible, but personal insights are notorious for their inherent biases.

My first feelings about women were, more often than not, sexual, albeit on a puerile level. This wasn't necessarily manifested in an overt way, but in several more subtle ways. Being an athelete was one of the accepted methods to insure popularity with women, so, with that in mind, I applied myself to the task of becoming an athelete (am endeavor I achieved only marginal success in). Thus, my first attempt to "meet" women was motivated by the superficial desire to impress.

At first glance it would seem a trivial enough sort of response, but in it lie the seeds of certain acquired attitudes. I was, at the time, not concerned with women as individuals, but more as a generalized or separate whole, to which I had only to apply certain accepted tactics to attract. In effect, I was depersonalizing women in a subtle manner.

Later, as I grew older, those juvenile posterings would give way to more sophistecated (or so I thought) enticements. This is not to say I didn't have women as friends, but those relationships were set apart from my overall dealings with women. It was a point to be expressed to one's friends that you and she were "just friends."

I think the most glaring examples of my feelings about women were not expressed when I was with women, but, rather, when I was with men. When speaking about women with my locker-room pals the conversation rarely went beyond the graphic description of various physical attributes. The conversations often tended to be lewd and dehumanizing. Later, I was introduced to the glossy, airbrushed world of pornography. This exposure tended only to reaffirm and strengthen my existing misconceptions about women. It was also the cause of the first real inspection I attempted reagarding my views about women.

By the time I entered adulthood my attitudes towards women were already well entrenched. The important thing to note about those attitudes is their acceptance by a large portion of society.

By this time, I had read enough newspapers and magazines to at least be aware of the Women's Movement. Sure, I thought, women should receive equal pay for equal work, yet that sort of response neglected a wide range of social pressures women were forced to accept.

My first occasion to observe a woman's reaction to these casual and insidious humiliations came at a job I once held. We (meaning the men I worked with) had taped the centerfold of a prominent "men's" magazine on the wall of our office. We gave it no further thought and it soon faded into the background. A woman, who worked in another part of the building, happened to see it, and she promptly tore it down. I've forgotten her comment, but it was something to the effect that if it had been a nude man it wouldn't have been stood for. I and my co-workers were struck dumb. We shuffled our feet and hung our heads but said nothing of real consequence. After she left, however, the other men in the office let loose a stream of derision.

I was initially shocked by what I thought was her overreaction to a harmless picture but was far overwhelmed by the shock caused by my co-workers. All the casual phrases and terms used to describe women poured forth in searing animosity. I could have understood the anger if it had been directed towards her impertinence, but it was directed exclusively and vulgarly towards her femininity. That incident was the impetus to my reappraisal of the way I looked at women.

Shortly after that incident I stumbled across several feminist magazines; I flipped through one casually and found a section dealing with those aspects of adversing women find particularly offensive. Even then I was struck by the blatant sexism portrayed. I can understand advertisements of bikinis with comely women featured. But, why on earth are semi-nude women needed to advertise spark plugs or tennis lessons?

It was then that I began to understand how much sexism permeates our society. There were more revelations: the widespread problem of women having to fend off the sexual advances of their superiors, women being denied or dismissed from jobs because of pregnancy, women being denied jobs because they were women; over a time the wast societal inequities that women struggle against became clear to me.

The most dramatic evidence to me of how pervasive sexism is in this country came about by the furor caused by the Equal Rights Amendment. That it should encounter such well-organized opposition is amazing to me. That one of its chief opponents, Phylis Shafly, is a woman is beyond belief. As I understand ERA it states in clear language that no person shall be discriminated against because of sex. I cannot rationally explain anyone's opposition to such an amendment. The fact that some people consider a bill that proposes equality threatening is truly disheartening. No oppressed group has ever had an easy time of gaining equality, but, I think with diligence on the part of its supporters, the ERA will pass. Much harder to correct are the prevailing attitudes concerning women in this country. The ERA would provide a legal foundation from which to challenge these attitudes.

In summary, I would say the Women's Movement has affected me in ways that are subtle but still quite noteworthy. If not for the Women's Movement, I would have had no opportunity to come to terms with the problems women face. Without that opportunity I would have succumbed to the generalizations that result in the closed minds and bigotry so often exhibited in our society. I would be less than candid, however, if I did not admit to stirrings of certain chauvinistic feelings, but whereas before I would have not realized they existed, now I can confront and hopefully conquer them. The Women's Movement has done more than help me to accept women as individuals; it has helped me to accept people as individuals.

HERE'S WHERE YOU'LL FIND A LOWER TOTAL FOOD BILL EVERYTIME

SPECIALS EFFECTIVE MARCH 3-8, 1980

Louis FINE FOODS
N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST, MASS

OVEN STUFFERS
PERDUE 4-6 LBS AVERAGE 79¢ LB

MOSEY'S CORNED BEEF
BUY NOW FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

CRY-O-VAC
BRISKET POINT CUT $1.49 LB
BRISKET STRAIGHT CUT $1.89 LB

CARANDO'S ITALIAN SAUSAGE HOT OR SWEET $1.49 LB
SHOULDER CLOD LONDON BROIL USDA CHOICE $2.09 LB
BONELESS BLADE STEAK USDA CHOICE $2.09 LB
BREADED VEAL PATTIES WINDSOR BRAND 4 TO THE LB 89¢ LB PKG
PLAIN VEAL PATTIES WINDSOR BRAND 4 TO THE LB 99¢ LB PKG

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU71
FACIAL TISSUES KLEENEX 39¢ 200 CT PKG
VALID MARCH 3-8 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU72
MUELLER'S ELBOW MACARONI 8 OZ PKG 9¢
VALID MARCH 3-8 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU73
LIPTON ALL VARIETIES CUP-A-SOUPS 2 OZ PKG 39¢
VALID MARCH 3-8 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU74
SWEET LIFE APPLE JUICE 64 OZ BTL 79¢
VALID MARCH 3-8 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

WITH COUPON PLUS $7.50 PURCHASE OR MORE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO LU75
FRANCO-AMERICAN SPAGHETTI-O'S 14.7 OZ CAN 19¢
VALID MARCH 3-8 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

SEALTEST ICE CREAM ½ GAL $1.59
SWEET LIFE CORN, PEAS, MIXED VEGETABLES VEGETABLES 20 OZ BAG 69¢

Not respnsible for typographical errors
We reserve the right to limit quantities

FRIEND'S OVEN BAKED PEA BEANS 2 16 OZ CANS 99¢
BUMBLE BEE RED ALASKAN SALMON 16 OZ CAN $2.69
SNOW'S MINCED CLAMS 6½ OZ CAN 79¢
MORNING SUN-NO CAFFEINE HERBAL TEAS 16 CT PKG 69¢
SALADA BONUS PACK TEA BAGS 125 CT PKG $1.89
NON-DAIRY CREAMER CREMORA 22 OZ JAR $1.69
NESTLE'S DELUXE HOT COCOA MIX 24 OZ CONT $2.19
PILLSBURY PLUS ALL VARIETIES CAKE MIXES 18½ OZ BOX 69¢
VLASIC KOSHER DILL SPEARS 24 OZ JAR 79¢
NEW! GAINES COMPLETE BEEF FLAVOR DOG FOOD 27 OZ PKG 99¢
PURINA DOG SNACKS BONZ 2 LB PKG $1.19
9-LIVES DRY CAT FOOD 22 OZ PKG 69¢
JOHNSON & JOHNSON BABY SHAMPOO 11 OZ BTL $1.99
JOHNSON & JOHNSON BABY POWDER 14 OZ CAN $1.89
MENNEN-REG., LIME, SPICE, HERBAL SPEED STICK 2½ OZ CONT $1.29
COLGATE 15¢ OFF LABEL TOOTHPASTE 7 OZ TUBE 99¢

GROCERY
HEINZ SUPER SIZE KETCHUP 44 OZ BTL $1.29
KRAFT REAL MAYONNAISE QT JAR $1.29
NEW FREEDOM MAXI-PADS 30 CT PKG $2.39
ALPO ALL VARIETIES DOG FOOD 3 14½ OZ CANS $1

DAIRY
HOOD BELLA COTTA RICOTTA CHEESE 16 OZ CONT $1.09
PARKAY QUARTERS MARGARINE LB PKG 55¢
C&F CHEESE CUBE MOZZARELLA 8 OZ PKG 89¢

PRODUCE
BROCCOLI FRESH GREEN LARGE SIZE BUNCH 79¢
US NO. 1 MAINE POTATOES FRENCH RUSSETT 5 LB BAG 69¢
SELECT TOMATOES 2 4 PACK PKGS 89¢

Editorial/Opinion

The opinion reserves the truth

Unlike most journalists, I'm not particularly interested in catering to the needs of the public. I'd much rather confuse, intimidate, and disgust my readers.

With sarcasm, irony, and whatever else an evil-minded writer might feel compelled to abuse, I attempt to convince the public that it is stupid, narrow-minded, or in some other way, inadequate. It's a thankless job, but somebody's got to do it.

BILL HALLISEY

Anyway...

The other day, whilst browsing through the editorial pages of the Collegian in hopes of finding some ideas and institutions to rip apart, it occurred to me that I'd been overlooking something—something big. And there it was, right at the top of the page—OPINION—a word so vulnerable to criticism and condemnation I almost pitied it.

Almost.

I have no opinions and I have no respect for people who wallow in them. Opinions are illusions; impotent constructs; perverted precepts. They're always true and always false, depending on how you look at them and, unless you hold them in diametrically opposed pairs, they're totally irrelevant. Yet countless people have sacrificed their lives for the sake of opinions. Every form of human conflict from lover's quarrels to world wars, can be traced back to an opinion.

To fully understand the problems at hand we must revert to metaphysics. Truth is like a pot of minestrone. You dip your spoon into it and come up with a piece of zucchini; dip it in again and you get a piece of chicken an an elbow noodle. The zucchini, chicken and noodle all come from the same vat of truth, but are they, in themselves, truth? No. Truth involves many other factors like peas, potatoes, and carrots.

Reality is very complicated. So, to make it a bit more palatable, man has created a device which narrows his perspective, allowing him to extract meaning from his tumultuous surroundings. This device he calls opinion, and it resembles truth about as much as a piece of zucchini.

Opinions, in fact, act as blinders to truth. To hold one is to willingly disregard everything which lies outside of it. If you feel you must hold opinions, hold them in pairs, each opinion being the polar opposite of the other. That way you'll have everything in between accounted for. Metaphorically speaking, it's like using a shovel to eat your minestrone instead of a spoon.

As long as people continue to be deluded into believing that individual opinions mean something, there will be chaos on earth. One opinion leads to a counter-opinion which is countered by a counter-counter-opinion. Before you know it, the world is in discord. Yet people continue to voice, share, adopt, and act according to opinions.

They are not a recent development. In the beginning, when God made heaven and earth, the earth was without form and opinion. God commanded Adam and Eve not to eat the fruit from The Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil because He knew that, as soon as they started making distinctions between what was good and what was evil, they'd fall into the habit of forming opinions. Scholars would later refer to this as "The Fall of Man."

Holding opinions is a form of cerebral masturbation. It's gratifying to the holder but it produces nothing of worth to anyone else. In my opinion, it should be banned from these pages. The space should be used exclusively for truisms and a priori assertions.

Bill Hallisey is a Collegian columnist.

Art/Science: Divide and conquer

A few weeks ago there was an article in the Collegian concerning the possible separation of schools within this University. Such a separation would divide the technical areas such as engineering and business from the so-called liberal arts. Fortunately, the probability of this happening is very small, given the current emphasis on "marketable education" and the amount of corporate intervention in large universities. If such a split did occur, it would put all liberal arts programs up you know which creek.

TONY SCIOLI

It is true that a degree in philosophy or political science will not insure financial security. But even the importance of financial security becomes meaningless if you develop some sort of cancer because you happen to live near a power plant or have fooled around with some agent orange while you were defending your country.

Isn't it really ironic that just when irreversible damage threatens our lives and future lives that the "value" of such areas of study as political science and economics is being questioned and their continued existence jeopardized? Isn't it funny that just when it is becoming apparent that our problems are caused by minds and not by atoms that the "value" of studying psychology and sociology is being questioned? Pardon the pun, but are really at liberty to consider these areas of study "liberal arts?" Moreover, should we try to attach a value to education?

There is another problem. Should a division occur there would be more students going to purely technical schools. This would be very dangerous. Eventually, these people will be responsible for such things as; running nuclear power plants, designing military weapons, and developing chemical pesticides. To have them merely fill niches in a machinery that affects and threatens our lives without exposing them to the political and ethical implications is a foolish risk. A risk that gambles with human life for the sake of profit.

Tony Scioli is a Collegian columnist.

Letters

Looking for honesty in Massachusetts...

To the Editor:

There is a political fervor on campus stemming from one candidates' ability to invoke new meaning to the seemingly mundane game of politics. This candidate has made apathetically apolitical people, like myself, realize that campaigning for the presidency doesn't have to be a con man's way of skirting issues and spending millions to receive public recognition. I am, of course, referring to Congressman John B. Anderson of Illinois.

One year ago, I felt that the word "politician" alluded to a sect founded on hypocrisy and obduration. I was wrong—Congressman Anderson is an exception.

As a registered Independent I never thought I would see a Republican candidate so supportive of Civil Rights, Environmental Concerns and without the traditional "hawkish" attitude so characteristic of the Republican Party.

People are now beginning to realize that they can make a difference by voting for Mr Anderson. However, many of these people are registered Democrats, and have missed the February deadline for changing party status. If you fall into this category you can still vote for Mr. Anderson on March 4. There is a large group of democrats in the Amherst area who are simply going to write in the name of John B. Anderson on the Democratic ballot.

With a barrage of write-ins, Anderson may not only win the Massachusetts Primary, but may receive much needed media coverage. This will in fact prove to the rest of the country that Massachusetts liberals once again voted for the best candidate.

Amy Peters Wood
So. Amherst

More on CARP: Views from within

To the Editor:

In the letter by Steve Snyder last Friday, he says that if you want to stop the student organization CARP (started by the Moonies), then spread the news of what CARP is. Let me help.

The Collegiate Association for the Research of Principles (CARP) is an international student organization started by students inspired by the teachings of Reverend Sun Myung Moon. In the United States the goals of CARP are:

1) To start a new radical American patriotism—advocating change based on respect for the value of life itself.

2) To affirm, in the midst of present day cynicism and unconstructive critism, the necessity for altruistic goals.

3)In the midst of moral chaos, to establish a new ethical system as a universal standard for social justice.

4)To offer a definitive critique and counter-proposal to Marxism-Leninism.

The World Student Times is a weekly national newspaper that I see as having a twofold purpose.

1) To establish a media for inter-campus communication.

2)To strive for an ideological standard for social justice.

Please do spread the word about what CARP really is—BUT, is this the type of organization that one wants to stop?

Herb Mayr
Collegiate Association for the Research of Principles
Pelham

Editors Note: The Editors in no way support the views or actions of the CARP organization.

Letters Policy

Letters to the editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

Associate Editors

Jeff Baker, Fran Basche, Ellen Davis, Carolyn Mooney, Rob Stein, Associate Managing Editors; Ed Levine, Brian O'Connell, Associate News Editors; Eric Janssen, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Marcia Hospedales, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Peter Berry, Associate Photo Editor; Abbe Bjorklund, Associate Fine Arts Editor; Jane Wolfson, Associate Sports Editor; Jeffrey Bianchi, Associate Graphics Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Women's issues

By DEBBIE ROBERTI
Colegian Staff

Because more than fifty percent of the voting population is female, issues such as the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion are of major concern when chosing a candidate in tomorrow's presidential primary. The following is a synopsis of the views of Republican and Democratic presidential candidates.

Republican Ronald Reagan has strong views on women's issues according to campaign and women's literature. He highly opposes abortion unless the pregnancy endangers the life of the mother. Earlier, Reagan supported the original pro-abortion bill that was put before the California Legislature. Campaign worker Angela Myers stated, "When the bill was first put before the California Legislature, it was a very mild bill, and Reagan thought that the court would live up to its restricitons, so he did not veto it. However, after the bill was passed, he felt that it had been abused." At this time, Reagan supports the pro-life organizations, and he is against all federal funding for abortions.

I'm personally opposed to abortion and would like to keep it to a minimum.'
Pres. Jimmy Carter

Concerning the ERA, Reagan favors equality between both men and women, but he is against the amendment itself. "He opposes the amendment mainly because, as it stands, Reagan feels that it is weak and should be rewritten more clearly," Myers said.

George Bush, another Republican candidate favors the concept of ERA, but opposes extension of the deadline for ratification only "because there is no precedent for such an action."

Bush is against abortion on a "personal level," but agrees that abortion should be a woman's right. He does not, however, support federal funding of aboriton, and he favors the Hyde Amendment, which allows federal payments for abortions only if the mother's life is endangered, or for various other critical conditions such as rape or incest.

One of the strongest Republican supporters of women's rights is John Anderson. He is a firm supporter of ERA, and stated that, "the Equal Rights Amendment is needed to enshrine in the Constitution the moral value judgement hat sex discrimination is wrong and to ensure that all states and the federal government review and revise their laws and official practices to eliminate discrimination based on sex."

According to his campaign literature, Anderson also believes that abortion should be the choice of the individual, and he opposes the Hyde Amendment. Anderson voted for the passage of the Pregnance Disability Bill in 1978 which gives coverage to all working women for pregnancy, childbirth and other related medical conditions.

Republican Howard Baker strongly favors the Equal Right Amendment. Baker, like Bush, does not "personally" support abortion, but he agrees that it should remain legal. He has stated that he would "oppose a constitutional amendment that would rescind abortion, according to a campaign worker.

On the Democratic side, Jerry Brown has been considered "one of the best candidates for the women's movement" by his campaign followers. Along with being a strong advocate for equal rights, he also supports extension of the ERA.

Brown supports aboriton because he feels that it should be "freedom of choice." Supporters say he also favors putting women in high political offices, and has done so in California. Brown supports the Pregnancy Disability Bill and the Domestic Violence Assistance Act which, if passed would provide services and assistance to victims of domestic violence.

Ted Kennedy, another Democratic candidate, not only supports the Equal Rights Amendment, but he co-sponsored the original bill. "The senator will make ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment one of his major priorities should he be elected," stated campaign worker David Rinder.

Kennedy does oppose abortion, yet as a senator, he is expected to uphold any Supreme Court decision concerning the issue. "Rather than dwelling on the abortion controversy, Kennedy would rather see more done concerning birth control and family planning," Rinder said. Kennedy sponsored both the Pregnancy Disability Bill and the Domestic Violence Assistance Act.

Perhaps the most important women's issue in President Carter's re-election campaign is the draft. For the first time in history of the United States, women are facing the possibility of going to war. Carter supports both the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment and the drafting of women.

On the abortion issue, Carter has stated, "I'm personally opposed to abortion and would like to keep it to a minimum." However, Carter would not endorse a constitutional amendment that would make abortions illegal. He is against all federal funding of abortion unless the life of the mother is endangered or in cases of rape and incest.

Private Lightning appeared at the Bluewall Saturday. Adam Sherman, lead singer for the band, performed a warm-up for their upcoming international tour. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Private Lightning: OK

By ROB HUFFMAN
Special to the Collegian

The lead singer of The Bastards once quipped that Private Lightning plays "polite rock." Seeing the Boston-based band at the Bluewall Saturday, and listening to their fresh debut album on A&M, I'm hard pressed to find a more appropriate subheading for their brand of intelligent power pop.

Enough categorization. Private Lightening (also the name of their record), has a potential classic on their hands with the intriguing "Song of the Kite," and hopefully will be sufficiently popular to play someplace better than the Bluewall on their next visit.

Nonetheless, Private Lightening had the best sound mix of any group I've ever seen at "the Wall." They sounded, in fact, just like the record. What I didn't expect from hearing their album, however, was that lead singer Adam Sherman plays reasonable electric guitar, sometimes dueling with guitarist-composer Paul Van Ness. Keyboard player Eric Kaufman joins violin player Patty Van Ness with a fiddle of his own, adding pulsating strings to the finale of "(I Can't Kiss You) When You're Laughing." The two other band members – Scott Woodman, Drums and Steve Keith, Bass, maintained a precise, rhythmic unity, providing a strong backbone for the group.

In addition to songs from their promising record, Private Lightning treated the crowd to a well-received rearrangment of Elvis Presley's "Burning Love," and new songs with titles like "Euphoria," "America," and "Intensive Care."

FX, the opening group, played well-memorized Jeff Beck tunes, as well as exciting originals which they should certainly be encouraged to perform more often. Like Private Lightning, they are a good band to dance to.

Rick Berlin, Luna's lead singer, performed two wild shows at the Bluewall Thursday and Friday night. The band is hoping for an album release some time this summer. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Food Service Management Trainees

1980 FOOD SERVICE GRADUATES: WE HAVE A MANAGEMENT CAREER PLAN FOR YOU!

We want to help you get a head start on your food service career. Why? Because that way we know we're filling the management positions in our institutional accounts with qualified and committed food service professionals.

Our management training program is one of the best in the industry. You'll find it's the kind of basic business and hospitality background you'll use throughout your working life. And of course we hope you'll spend a rewarding part of your working life with Servomation.

Our training program stresses "hands-on" experience. We'll rotate you through each typical work station so you'll know exactly what you're asking future employees to do. Our program also includes workshops on employee relations, budgeting, and merchandising as well as food service.

You'll have your choice of a gradual seven month training program that leads to an appointment as an assistant manager, or you can select our intensive two month program which prepares you to be an assistant manager for a school lunch program.

To qualify you should have, or be working on, a degree in food service management, home ecunomics or dietetics. And you should feel committed to a career in food service. Once you complete our program you'll be promoted to assistant manager and be assigned to a manual feeding account somewhere in our Mid-Atlantic or Northeast Divisions. Your first accounts could be in a college, business/industry, health care or school setting. We offer good salaries and excellent fringe benefits including relocation assistance.

We'll be visiting your campus to discuss our training program in detail. Look for us on Thursday, March 6, 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM at the Flint Laboratory. If you are unable to attend, call us collect at (301) 821-5300, ext. 282, or write:

Mr. Michael Traskey
Personnel Services Manager
Servomation Corporation
803 Gleneagles Court
Baltimore, Maryland 21204

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

SERVOMATION CORPORATION

International Woman's Week Starts Today

Films, Workshops, Music, Panels

For more information see the schedule at Campus Center Desk or call 545-0883

Childcare available w/special program
Susan Markman
Everywoman's Center
545-0883

Incredible Offer! EKCO ETERNA Stainless Steel Flatware
Never needs polishing choice of 2 patterns.
THIS WEEK'S FEATURE: Dinner Fork
Classic or Bastille 3 Pieces $1
EKCO ETERNA Kitchen Tools
THIS WEEK'S FEATURE: Basting Spoon 2 for $1
With every $3 food purchase

2 for 1 Photo Sale!
Two prints for the price of one!
Now, Stop & Shop will give you...with all 110, 126 or 35mm color print film brought in for processing, FREE, one complete set of extra prints! Yes! You'll automatically get 2 sets of prints for the price of 1. You won't have to ask for your free prints either. They'll be right in your envelope...right through May 31, 1980.

lenten seafood Save!
Fresh Pollock Fillets $1.69 lb
Fresh Cod Fillets 1.99
Fresh Haddock 1.99
Fresh Oysters 1.79
Cherrystone Clams .79
Fish Cakes Stop & Shop Cooked 16 ounce pkg Frozen 79¢
Cooked Shrimp 3.99
Eldorado Shrimp 5.49
Dressed Trout 1.59
Fish & Chips 2.49
DuChef Escargots 1.79
Mackerel Fillets .69
Shrimp Cocktail 3 for 2.49

corner deli May we serve you?
Available in stores with a service deli
Northwestern Turkey Breast $2.99 lb
All white meat
Genoa Salami 2.99
Carando Pepproni 2.99
Chicken Bologna .99
D.A.K. Salami 1.49
Potato Salad .49
Cooked Ham 3.49

corner deli cheese
New! Corner Deli American Cheese $1.89 lb
Jarlsberg Cheese 3.29
Austrian Swiss 2.89
Port Wine Cheddar 2.59
over 2 million pizzas sold kitchen
Stop & Shop Cheese Pizza $1.29
18 ounce size
Cheese Pizza 2.29
Twin Pack Pizza 1.09

frozen meats Top brands!
Pride of the Farm Turkey Breast $1.29 lb
2-4 pounds
Weaver Party Pak $2.49
Steak Umm 2.39
Cooked Sausage .99
Jones Sausage Meat 1.59

Special dollar values...
Assorted Fruit Flavored Hi-C Fruit Drinks 2 46 oz cans $1

save you money...
Fudge Brownie Mix Betty Crocker 3 15oz pkgs $2

in every department...
Chunk Light Star-Kist Tuna 3 6½ oz cans $2
in oil or water

Stock up this week!
100% Columbian Coffee Chock full o'Nuts 2 13 oz cans $5

Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
DOLLAR DAYS!
If you don't have our 8-page circular, get one in the store

U.S. Grade "A" Turkeys 10-13 lbs Frozen 69¢ lb
Plump, tender birds in the most popular size. Get an extra one to enjoy later!
Swift Premium Butterball Turkeys 10-13lbs. Frozen 79¢ lb

USDA Choice Beef Top Round Roast $1.89 lb
A superb oven roast, lean, naturally tender beef!
Beef Top Round Steak USDA Choice $2.29 lb
Beef Top Round For London Broil $2.49 lb

USDA Choice Beef Round Tip Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.99 lb
Your money back if you don't enjoy our 'Great Beef'
Beef Round Tip Steak USDA Choice $2.39 lb
Beef Round Cube Steak $2.49

White Gem Chicken Legs "White Gem" 5-6lb. pkg. 69¢ lb
Chicken Breasts White Gem 5-6lb pkg $1.09 lb
Chicken Wings White Gem 5-6lb pkg 69¢

Fresh Pork Shoulder Picnic 79¢ lb
Fresh Pork Loin Rib Half $1.29 lb
Fresh Pork Loin Sirloin Half $1.39

3 lb. Canned Ham Stop & Shop Lean from end to end! $4.99 each
5 lb. Canned Ham Stop & Shop 7.99 produce Get your dollars' worth of freshness!

Dole Golden Yellow Bananas 4 lbs. $1
Extra Large Fresh Pineapples 8 size $1 each

Pick Your Own Fresh Loose Vegetables!
Crisp California Carrots Clip Top 4 lbs $1
Broccoli Fresh Cut 2 lbs $1
Leaf Spinach Fresh Cut 2 lbs $1
Jumbo White, Red or Spanish Onions 3 lbs $1

Colonial Colonial Bacon Sliced 1 lb package $1.19
Pork Shoulder 1.19
Smoked Pork Butts 1.59
Colonial Cooked Ham Semi-Boneless water added $1.69 lb
Meat Bologna .79
Chicken Franks .89

Diet Delight Fruit Cocktail or Pear Halves 16 ounce can 2 $1
Stop & Shop Corn Cream Style or Whole Kernel 16oz can 4 $1
Stop & Shop Tomatoes California Whole 28 ounce can 2 $1
Stop & Shop Potatoes Whole or Sliced 16 ounce can 4 $1
Tetley Tea Bags Package of 100 2 $3
Skippy Peanut Butter Chunky or Creamy 18 ounce jar $1
Friskies Cat Food Buffet Size Assorted Flavors 6½ ounce can 4 $1
Golden Grain Dinner Macaroni & Cheese 7¼ ounce package 4 $1
Stop & Shop Spaghetti Sauce Meat Flavored, Mushroom or Plain 32 ounce jar $1
Big Buttertop Bread Stop & Shop Sliced 22oz loaf 2 $1
Aim Fluoride Toothpaste 6.4 ounce tube $1
Red Pack Tomatoes Crushed or Round in Puree 28 ounce can 2 $1
Diet Delight Oranges Mandarin 10½ ounce can 2 $1
Ocean Spray Juice Grapefruit 48 ounce bottle $1
Vanity Fair Print Towels 125ct 2ply 2 $1
Stop & Shop Green Beans French or Cut 15½ ounce can 4 $1
B&M Baked Beans 21 ounce can 2 $1
Pillsbury Plus Cake Mixes Assorted Flavors 18½ ounce package 3 $2
Cycle Dog Food Assorted Varieties 14 ounce can 3 $1
Prince Pasta Spaghetti, Thin Spaghetti, Elbow Macaroni, Ziti with Lines 16 ounce package 2 $1
Stop & Shop Lemon Pie 22 ounce package $1
Flex Shampoo Normal, Oily or Tint 16oz btl. or Conditioner Reg. X-Body or Balsam $1 frozen foods Fill your freezer with good dollar values!

Sara Lee Pound Cake 10¾ ounce package $1
Taste O'Sea Whiting Fillet 16 ounce package $1
Sun Glory Orange Juice 6 ounce can 3 $1
John's Cheese Pizza 13 ounce package $1
Half Gallon Ice Cream Sun Glory All Flavors carton $1
Morton's Cream Pies 3½ ounce package 5 $2
Macaroni & Cheese Dinner Stop & Shop 11 ounce package 2 $1
Stop & Shop Fish Sticks 16 ounce package $1

dairy Our specials really stretch your food dollars!
Breyers Yogurt All Natural Assorted Flavors 8 ounce cup 3 $1
Blue Bonnet Margarine 1 pound quarters 2 $1
Cheese Food Slices Individually Wrapped White or Yellow Stop & Shop 16oz pkg 2 $3
La Shake Yogurt Low Fat Drink 8oz cup 3 $1
Stop & Shop Orange Juice from Concentrate Half Gallon container $1
Temp-tee Cream Cheese 12 ounce cup, Whipped $1
Light n' Lively or Sealtest Cottage Cheese 2-1oz cup $1
Kraft Cheese Whiz 8 ounce jar $1

Prices effective from Mar. 3 Sat. Mar. 8, 1980 in farmers to all our customers we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1980 Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line.
8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

 Steve Garfield ***
brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound"

JVC Cassette Deck Mk II ANRS. Professionally maintainenced. Originally $300., $125. Call Phil 323-7365

Realistic STA-120 Receiver 60 watts/ch. excellent cond. $180 665-7744

Tuner Amp Turntable must sell, come see Joe 546-7925

Sony Stereo Music System Cassette Corder call 546-6899 BO

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

Olds. Cutl 74 excellent run & body cond $1600 call 549-5144 ev.

74 Pontiac Custom Ventura excellent running condition $1200 call 665-7574 keep trying

ENTERTAINMENT

Band wanted to play for semi-formal April 20th Varied types call 546-6388 Adrienne eves.

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

FOR SALE

Yamaha 12-string Guitar w/case. Excellent condition Dave 549-1880

Customized 78 Honda 750 Custom paint, exhaust, etc. Meticulously maintained & improved since new. Over 3300 invested. Asking $2300 call 256-6642

Kinks Tickets 10th row center seats $22 each or best 546-9790

For Sale 2 studio design bookshelf speakers Used 8 months. Call 6-1402 Asking $50.00/pair

Fiat 124 Sedan Mechanical condition. Some rust. 586-0871

Diving Gear new US Divers Equip call Ted at 549-6488

Complete Goaltenders Equipment from skates to mask all Cooper and Bauer call Nick 253-9074

Sears Free Spirit 10 sp needs repair $60 or BO 549-6377 eves

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

Free Blood Cholesterol Test male students, non-runners, non-weight trainers wanted for Ex. Sci. research project call Lou 253-7507

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons all styles. Beginners welcome for a free trial lesson. You choose the music you want to learn experienced instructor call Nick at 253-9074 leave message

Basic Auto Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-7967 or write for brochure Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

LOST

Reward I lost a serpentine gold bracelet on Monday. If found contact Marian at 253-7619

Dearly beloved hat-hood black/white & black check reversible. Reward if returned, my ears have been cold. rachel 586-0233

Lost pair black leather gloves Tues 19th 5-6826 Thanks

Lost UMass School ring gold with red stone, initials URL inside. Left in mens room in Hasbrouck on 2/27. If found please call Bill at 546-7218

Lost Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at anytime 549-6219. Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

Gold necklace lost Thurs Feb 21 near S.U.B.? call 253-7405

MUSICIANS WANTED

Guitarist and Drummer wanted for progressive rock band which composes original material cal Stu 253-5980 eves

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

MY.—Are you happy now? I hope so.—B.

Role—Happy Birthday! Party it up on your 20th. Love always, R X

Debbie B. Misplace your mittens lately? Your Hunk!

Charismatic Prayer and Bible Study Tuesday March 4 CC 805-809 8-10 PM

See Paragon Experience, March 3 & 4, SUB 7&9 PM FREE!!

Bill—I'll never understand the way you Delawarians talk. Julie

SHARON—Suppers ready, Darlin'! JD

Chi O We're moving in to the new wing within a week. Breakfast everyday! LCA

Happy birthday EMS, Love EMS.

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Washington DC Spring break and Friday Feb 29 Pleas call Debbie 323-6843 will share expense

Ride wanted from Belchertown Center to UMass daily 9 am or 10 am Debbie 323-6843 will share $

For two to Ft. Lauderdale will share driving and expenses call 256-8297

Ride needed to Wash D.C. March break will share $ call Carole 6-4847

To Syracuse NY for one or two people leaving Fri. March 14 call 6-7320 or 6-7321

Hey you with a car! We need a ride to Ft. Lauderdale or surrounding area for spring break! Can leave from NY or Boston. Call Stephanie 546-1454

Chicago—I need a ride there spring break. If you are driving to or by Chicago, please take me with you. I will split dollars and driving call Howie 546-6036

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

In Northwood Apts own room $105 mo. + elec. 665-2838 eves

Roomate wanted to share two bedroom Southwood apartment: $160/mo Ph. 256-8202

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995; Room 922 Campus Center, UMass.

TO SUBLET

One bedroom close to Town and School 253-2645 before midnght

3 bedroom apt Puffton Village 300 per month June to August, next to bus, pool, tennis courts, call nights 549-3765

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Flute—reasonably priced. call Mona after 3:00 pm 546-9701

I need 4 tickets to the Kinks top $ call Dave 256-0616

Wanted 2 tickets for Kinks concert 586-9199 (keep trying)

WANTED TO RENT

Want to sublet Rolling Green four bedroom summer with intention to take over lease 546-5387 546-5399

International Women's Week Presents—

Odetta

"One of the leading ladies of the 60's folk movement, Odetta still maintains an incredible presence on stage. All she really needs is her dignity of stance, her voice and her guitar, which is all she brought with her. The voice is a magnificent instrument, completely involving and compelling in its command of dynamics and texture, the phrasing and range a sheer delight whether she is singing children's ditties or the stylings she identifies with."

Vancouver

Saturday March 8, 1980 8:00 S.U.B.
$3.00 advance $4.00 at the door

Tickets: Available from UMass TIX and EWC
Childcare: Is available, call 545-0883 for information

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show — Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer — 9 Academy Award Nominations — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE — 3 Academy Awatd Nominations — G (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
THE FOG — R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Norma Rae SALLY FIELD — (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 — 4 Academy Award Nominations — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two — 1 Academy Award Nomination — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN The JERK — R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
DOM DeLUISE Fatso — PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Cruising for a killer. AL PACINO CRUISING — No one under 18 admitted — R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Reserve
6 Pool
10 Eanling
14 Devoured
15 Table spread
16 Athena's title
17 Awry
18 Maple Leafs or Blackhawks
19 Overlook
20 Pause
22 Kettledrums
24 Swedish island
26 Loops
27 Book decor
30 Wedding words
31 Footless
32 Surprised
37 Concorde, e.g.
38 United —
40 Employ
41 Overly harsh: 2 words
43 Man's nickname
44 St.
45 Taught
48 Paradise
51 Auctions
52 Expand
54 Savings: 2 words
58 Hart
59 Of the psyche
61 Masonic doorkeeper
62 Gratify
63 Pleasant
64 Shade
65 Greek army org.
66 Mild oaths
67 Chairs

DOWN
1 Cauterize
2 Insipid
3 Great bustard
4 Reply
5 Store hay
6 Powerful one
7 Spanish cheer
8 Spruce
9 Canada's former status
10 Satire
11 Pseudonym
12 Middle
13 Foundation
21 Make lace
23 — operandi
25 Wants
27 Enormous
28 — facto
29 "— — bed!"
33 Some stage fare: 2 words
34 Twosome
35 Italian name
36 Exploit
38 At no time
39 Revenging
42 Barbarians
43 Hobby
46 Rubber tree
47 Venus' girdle
48 German duchy
49 Inward
50 Winged
53 An Adams
55 Italian island
56 Girl's nickname
57 Fat: Fr.
60 Glaze

DC menu

Lunch
Fenway Franks with Yaz bread

Basics Lunch
Lentil Hot dogs

Dinner
Yankee Franks
Reggie bars

Basics Dinner
Hot dogs with Garbanzo beans

Earthfoods

Soybean Stroganoff
Rice Bulghar
Kale Soup
Fruit Salad
Bran Bread

Come to Southwest to laugh. . .or are you scared?

"NOW YOU SEE IT, CUBED"
The Umass Comedy/Music Revue
March 5, 6, 7 8 PM
Hampden Theatre, Southwest

Tickets available only at the door. . .$1.50
This is all new material—3 NIGHTS ONLY!!!

★ Cult

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

would cost him $20 for the weekend, he was interested and he could always take a bus back to the city if he wanted.

So he decided to go—he liked the family, there was a lot of love among them and they were doing something good. The bus left that night with about 25 people on it; they arrived at 1 a.m. and were led to what were chicken coops, where straw was laid out so they could sleep.

At 6 a.m., the now-student of agriculture was awakened by a man with a guitar who was singing "When the red, red robbin comes bob, bob, bobbing along." The Bay Stater thought it was weird but, later that weekend, he learned that he was a child, spiritually immature. "They (had been) spiritually mature all these years while I was going nowhere. You spiritually become pure...it takes time...you can't do it overnight," he recalled.

Saturday, after waking up to the same renditicn of "Red robin," he exercised, as he had the day before, carried a picnic lunch and walked into the woods to sit and eat with the others. At that time, each introduced himself and told of his background, beliefs and lifestyle. One told of how God had saved him from committing suicide.

During that weekend, an "old" member would be with a "new" member—all the time—"even sleeping and going to the bathroom."

After dropping a Lifesaver into his mouth, he continued, saying that there were no newspapers, televisions or other "outside" sources of information. "What you hear outside and what you hear inside are two different things." He began having conflicts within himself as to what he was learning, though, as the weekend wore on, and he wanted to leave for a while to talk to a rabbi and a priest.

But he was "verbally forced" to stay. Monday, he was asked for $50 because he was going to stay for the week. He was introduced to the divine principle at that time, but no mention was made of the Unification Church.

The following Friday, he was bussed back to San Francisco, to "the Hearst Street Mansion" where he listened to more lectures and was told Saturday that Moon wrote the Divine Principles. Sunday, he was asked to make a 21-day committment, and he did, without knowing he had to pay $50 more.

Ten days later, he wrote a letter to his parents and told them who he was with and what he was doing. "I told a leader I told my parents and he started screaming at me." Later, he talked to his parents on the telephone. And later, too, he learned the phone had been tapped.

His parents told him a relative had died in southern California and that they were flying to the West Coast to pay condolences. He said he would like to make the call with them, and it was arranged. The week before they were to come, he talked with the "head" of the family about how to deal with the outside world.

He was having spiritual problems: "Sometimes I felt up, sometimes down. No day would be constant."

Sunday, he met his parents. As he said goodbye to his "spiritual father," his parents would later tell him, they had never seen their son express so much love. They went to dinner at a fish restaurant, meeting two people from Massachusetts there.

They ate but, as they were leaving, he found out the two people, who he was told were authors, were staying in the same motel as his parents. He was suspicious.

In the motel, the man told him to look in the mirror. Then he told the 20-year-old he had "dilated pupil." He knew he wasn't on drugs so, as the man told him, someone must have had control of his mind.

"After three and one-half hours, when I clicked out of it—it was a normal pupil...I realized there were two sides to the story."

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

- Eurail Passes -
- Britrail Passes -
-Youth Hostel Agent -
Bargain Fares to Europe
(seats limited)

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

silverscope café
Natural Vegetarian Food • Full Liquor •
Coffee Beans, Valley's Lowest Prices
8 am Mon-Sat 12 noon Sun

Want a fun summer job?
1980 Summer Employment Directory
Where the jobs are & how to get them

Last week for BERMUDA
as low as $279.00
transportation & accomodations
NO HIDDEN CHARGES!
For Info Please Call:
Peter or Gary 545-0210
Dan 549-5621

GOING SOUTH?
Zodiac
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

University & Office Supplies
Computer Printout Binders for unburst forms
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Mondays
White Lightning Specials!
6-10 PM
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

WHAT KIND OF PERSON BECOMES A NAVY PHYSICIAN? DOCTORS JUST LIKE YOU.

Navy doctors start their medical careers just like you. As civilians, they come from all parts of the country with wide-ranging medical experience. From Park Avenue to Main Street. From new interns to 20-year doctors. In truth, the Navy doctor is you.

A Navy practice would be as varied and challenging as any you'll find in a civilian setting. From infant care to geriatrics, you'll treat dependents, retired personnel and those on active duty.

And, for a Navy physician, paperwork is kept to a minimum. There are a lot of great advantages to Navy medicine. Good pay. A family life. Even 30 days' paid vacation a year.

Get all the details. Call or write your nearest Medical Recruiter.

Lt. Paul Quinn Medical Programs Officer
Navy Information Team 22 Asylum Street
Hartford, CT. 06103 203-243-4213

BE THE DOCTOR YOU WANT TO BE. IN THE NAVY.

PREPARE FOR:
OUR 41st YEAR
MCAT • DAT • LSAT • GMAT • GRE
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • PCAT
OCAT • VAT • MAT • SAT • TOEFL
NMB I, II, III • ECFMG • FLEX • VQE
NDB I, II • NPB I • NLE
Flexible Programs & Hours
Visit Any Center And See For Yourself Why We Make The Difference
In Amherst:
264 N. Pleasant St. (413) 253-5108
Classes Begin:
MCAT 3/31 DAT 3/22
LSAT 3/1 GRE 3/24
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Please call the Center for details
Outside N.Y. State Only CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782
Centers in Major US Cities, Toronto, Puerto Rico and Lugano, Switzerland

Ground ZERO is coming sooner than you think.
Sat., March 15
Polish Hall,
Pearl St. Northampton

Texas Instruments LCD Quartz digital watches

LCD Quartz Watches for women

Classic, light-on-the-wrist cases Complement beautiful straps and bracelets. Five functions - hours, minutes, seconds, month, date.

Lightweight and compact. Several styles are available. All at our discount prices.

in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

J. AUSTIN JEWELER
spring engagement? we've got the diamonds
31 So. Pleasant St.
Amherst
253-3986

★ CARP

CONT FROM PAGE 1

The members objected specifically to alleged inaccuracies in "The Dark Side of the 'Moonies'" letter to the editor in last week's Collegian. The letter was written by Steve Hassan, president of Ex-members Against Moon.

The letter alleged "high intensity lectures and bombardments of close personal attention," at the Florida seminar held during intersession. Graham denied the charges, saying the seminar was "loosely structured with lectures in th morning and sports in the afternoon.'

When asked about the alleged "inability to express doubts at the seminar" the CARP members laughed. Hardarson said the purpose of the seminars was "to promote questions and then discuss any questions that may arise.

"It is only natural to question," Graham said.

Graham also said CARP members never deny their connection with Moon and stressed that her membership in the Unification Church is incidental to her membership in CARP. She also said that there never has been any legal connection between the two, even though there have been numerous investigations.

Graham also said CARP will be sponsoring another seminar in Colorado this summer and several events on campus.

CARP will continue at UMass, Graham said, despite any criticism directed at the group. "This is America," she said and cited the constitutional right to religious freedom. "We're lucky to be here," she said, "in other countries members of our church have been killed for expressing our beliefs. At least we cannot be shot for our beliefs in this country."

Find it all— find it fast in Collegian classifieds

sports notices

Swim instructors needed — Instructors are needed to teach in a seven-week spring program for University and community children in NOPE Gymnasium. The program begins March 12 at 4 p.m. with an introductory meeting. Volunteer water safety instructors are needed and may obtain information sheets and registration forms from the secretary in NOPE.

Women's soccer — All University women interested in playing soccer should attend indoor practices on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 10 p.m. in NOPE. For more information call Coach Morse at 545-2759.

Softball officials' meetings:
March 3, 4, & 5, 4:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Soccer Officials' Meetings:
March 3, 4, & 5, 7:00 PM, Room 249, Boyden

Entries for Intramural Softball & Soccer are Due March 3, both require a $10.00 forfeit fee. Swimming entries are also due March 3, Paddleball entries are due March 6.

Footbal/Volleyball forgeit fee refund checks for last semester are at the IM Office — these must be picked up soon as we will have to return the checks to Whitmore.

There are still openings in the Sport Diving Course being held in Key Largo, Florida, March 16-22.

If you are interested, you should contact Bob Sparks immediately at Project DEEP, 31 Elizabeth Street, Northampton, MA, 586-3448.

Need a summer job?
Assure yourself of an interview with one of more than 25 camps to be represented at:

CAMP DAY TODAY

Monday March 3, 1980
Campus Center Auditorium

Recruiters from 26 eastern camps will be speaking with interested students from 9:30 am—5 pm. Salaries range from $400-$2200

People needed with skills in:

Archery
Arts and Crafts
Basketball
Baseball
Ceramics
Camp Craft
Ecology
Fishing
Food Service
Golf
Gymnastics
Ham radio
Horseback Riding
Israeli Dance & Music
Judo
Lacrosse
Leather Working
Metal Working Maintenance
Music
Media
Mountain Climbing
Nature Lore
Nursing
Photography
Piano
Riflery
Sailing
Softball
Scuba Diving
Small Craft
Soccer
Special Ed for Handicapped
Secretarial Work
Swimming
Tennis
Theatre Arts
Track & Field
Water Safety Instructors
Wilderness Camping
Water Skiing

"Pssst...

Watch for Other Promotions and Look at our Everyday Low Prices
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

The UMass women's gymnastics team defeated Big Ten Conference champion Michigan State University Saturday, 135.5-135.4. A scorekeeping error Saturday resulted in Michigan State winning, but later that day, it was discovered that UMass had indeed won the match. Yesterday, the gymwomen won the state championship in a meet held at Salem State College. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

Gregory sinks cagers

By MIKE ESTRADA
Collegian Staff

BRONX, N.Y. – Fordham University center Ann Gregory set a school record by scoring 38 points here Friday night to lead the Rams past UMass in the opening round of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Eastern tournament.

That ended the season for the Minutewomen and the UMass basketball careers of seniors Jen Parker and Sue Peters. With her 15-foot jumper from the left side with 11 seconds left in the game, Peters finished her college career with 1358 points, more than any other UMass basketball player, man or woman.

After erasing a nine-point Fordham lead in the first half, the UMass boards game was dealt a deadly blow when Ginger Legare fouled out with 9:18 left in the game. This became the game's turning point when UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarske was forced to play the Ready sisters together for the third time this season. With a lack of speed, the Minutewomen could not run with the Rams, who stole the ball three times in a row and scored nine unanswered points. Their 17-point lead with 5:44 left was never relinquished.

From the games' beginning, it was apparent that the Minutewomen would have trouble containing Fordham's Gregory, the teams top scorer with a 17.4 game average and .523 shooting percentage from the field. She set a high post and drove the lane with good moves and body control. She was also the game's top rebounder with 18.

Fordham's vulnerability was inside, however. After the 6 foot Gregory, were two forwards at 5 feet 10 inches and 5 feet 6 inches. UMass went to starter Martha Ready early. She scored 12 of the Minutewomen's first 14 points. Sue Peters' jumper from the left side with 9:48 left in the first half tied the game at 18.

But then Legare got into foul trouble. She picked up her second and third personals with 25 seconds of each other and was taken out of the game. Enter freshman Sue Carey. After falling behind by nine, UMass came back paced by back-to-back three point plays by Carey. The second was one to remember. Carey drove the middle and tossed up the ball as she was falling; fouled by Rhonda Newsome. She hit the shot and the ensuing free throw to put UMass up by on 30-29.

Gregory followed with a three-point play of her own to give Fordham the lead at the half, 32-30.

At the beginning of the second half, Gregory did everything but blow UMass off the court. She hit a six-footer and then stole the ball from the Minutewomen, driving the full way for a lay-up to put Fordham up by ten with 16:10 left. The shooting of Peters and Tricia Corcoran brought UMass back within six, but that's where the trouble began.

After a time-out, Ozdarski inserted Julie Ready to give Martha a breather. Legare picked up her fourth foul with 9:25 left and seven seconds later, she fouled out.

"I put in Martha to have height to contend with Gregory," Ozdarski said. As Legare retired to the end of the bench, the Rams rolled on to the win.

Ram guards Terry Hrubash and Annette Kennedy combined for three steals in a row to seal the game for Fordham. The Rams now move to the semi-finals next weekend at Harvard. For the 14-9 Minutewomen, a season that had become frustrating is now over.

When all is considered, the season will be remembered for being pivotal on the injury to the foot of Julie Ready. It was not the same Julie Ready who played in pain while only scoring two points in 12 minutes of play Friday night. But the best thing is she will return next year.

NCAA hoop tournament selections are made

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

MISSION, Kan.– The Atlantic Coast Conference landed five teams in the expanded NCAA basketball tournament announced Sunday, including four of the top 16 seeds receiving first-round byes.

Enlarged to 48 teams this year, the NCAA tournament begins at four regional sites Thursday. It will conclude with the semifinals and finals March 22 and March 24 at Indianapolis.

The basketball committee, chaired by Big Ten Conference Commissioner Wayne Duke, selected 25 at-large entries to go with 23 automatic qualifiers.

Top-ranked DePaul was given the No.1 seed in the West Regional, while second-ranked Kentucky was seeded No.1 in the Mideast. Louisiana State, No.5 in The Associated Press Top Twenty, was seeded first in the Midwest while third-ranked Syracuse got the No.1 seed in the East.

The Big Ten and Pac-10 were given four tournament entries each in this, the first year in history a conference could have more than two teams.

The Southeast Conference and Metro Conference each landed three tournament entries and Duke conceded that committee menbers, "recognize there may be discussion on the matter," of a few conferences having several invitations.

Among the more notable at large teams who were not given invitations were Nevada-Las Vegas, 20-7, and Boston University, 21-8.

"We said our objective was to obtain the best 25 teams in addition to the 23 automatic qualifiers," Duke said. "We approached it with the objective of having the best 25 teams of the 221 teams available to us."

Others receiving first-round byes included North Carolina State, Georgetown and Maryland in the East Regional; Notre Dame, North Carolina and Louisville in the Midwest; Duke, St. John's and Indiana in the Mideast, and Ohio State, Brigham Young and Oregon State in the West.

The Midwest Regional will launch first-round action Thursday in Lincoln, Neb., with Missouri meeting San Jose State and Kansas State playing Arkansas. Friday night in Denton, Tex., first-round games in the Midwest will be completed with Alcorn playing South Alabama and Texas A&M meeting Bradley.

At Greensboro, N.C. on Thursday, the East Regional begins first-round play with Iowa playing Virginia Commonwealth and Tennessee meeting Furman. On Friday night at Providence, R.I., Villanova plays Marquette and Ione goes against Holy Cross in the other East first-round game.

UNH halts Spikers

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

KINGSTON, R.I.–UMass was eliminated in the quarterfinals of the New England Collegiate Volleyball League Division I Invitational Tournament held at the University of Rhode Island last Saturday. It was defeated by the University of New Hampshire 13-15, 10-15.

However, Art Carmichael, the tourney director, discovered during the semifinals against Yale University that UNH played throughout the tourney with a graduate student – something the NECVL does not follow.

After a heated debate between UNH, who said that it was not aware of any wrongdoing (since the tournament results do not count in the overall record), and Carmichael (who said he should have been notified about the grad student), the grad student was disqualified from the rest of the tourney. No other action was taken.

"UNH did an unfair thing," said Carmichael, "by playing with the grad student, UNH violated the NECVL rules; no matter what they said about whether or not this was an NECVL tourney, I was not notified about the grad student, and I should've been notified. No other team used grad students.

"UMass was injured in the whole thing," he said, "and as a result, UNH lost self-respect in the league because of this cheating."

The UMass players and coach Al Morel will appeal to the league for action against New Hampshire. Reaction to the incident from UMass players ranged from "sneaky" to "unfair," to "bush" to obscenities.

UMass had made it into the quarterfinals by splitting a two-game match against Springfield College 15-13, 9-15, splitting with Brown University 7-15, 15-6, and sweeping Providence College 15-6, 15-7.

Throughout the tournament, UMass showed signs of emerging from its two-week slump, using its blocking and middle attack to score. Orlando Larracuente, Ed Midura and Neil Gluck helped UMass in the defense with good digging and backcourt setting. The bench, including Darryl Cain and Scott Houle, was used against Providence College and in the second game against UNH; consistent setting and outside attack did much to give the bench experience, but not to win the matches."

"Overall, we did well," Coach Al Morel said. "We're just about healthy again, and we're coming out of our doldrums.

"We could've beaten any team here," co-captain Ed Midura said, "but in the first game against Brown, we didn't warm up well enough (after a two-hour break between matches), and we were tight. But we came back once we started to loosen up."

UNH defeated Yale in the semifinals, but lost to defending champion Springfield College 15-11, 9-15, 8-15, in the championship.

Allen wins third consecutive New England title

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Conn–John Allen pinned URI's Evans Brantley with one second left in the overtime period to take his third consecutive New England championship in yesterday's finals of the New England University Wrestling Association championships, held this weekend at the University of Connecticut.

Allen, Carroll and McQuade, along with two second places, two thirds and two fourths, contributed to a UMass team total of 83 3/4 points, good for second place. UMass trailed first place Rhode Island by only two points in the final standings, URI reaping 85 3/4 points.

In the final bout yesterday, Allen and Brantley were tied when the final buzzer sounded after seven minutes of wrestling. Brantley had started the scoring off with a two point takedown in the first period. With seven seconds left, Allen escaped Brantley's grasp for a point.

In the second period of regular play, the only scoring was done by Brantley–a one point escape. In period three, Allen escaped and was given a point when Brantley was charged with stalling to tie the score.

No further scoring was done until the third period of overtime action when Allen escaped for the third time. Brantley was tired and Allen poured it on taking him down with seven seconds remaining to wrestle, and pinning Brantley with a second left.

Allen's amazing stamina, strength and savvy, gave him his third New England championship. He outlasted an exhausted Brantley whom he had beaten 10-7 in regular season action. Allen was seeded first and Brantley second.

One second after the buzzer sounded the end of the 158 pound match, Mike Carroll jumped around the mat with excitement, exulting in his first New England championship. Carroll defeated URI's Dom Macchia in an exciting third period of wrestling. The score was tied 2-2 when, with 50 seconds left, Carroll chalked up a one point escape. He then lifted Macchis off his feet, and slammed him on the mat for a two point take down and a win.

On his way to upsetting the first seeded Macchia, second seed Carroll defeated BU's Steve McPherson 17-1.

Bill McQuade made it three first place titles for UMass wrestlers. To the tune of such chants as "c'mon Gilla, get on 'im," and "bring im down Gilla!" McQuade, alias Gilla, outclassed Ron Czarnetzky of Brown for a 10-1 kill. By the end of the bout, McQuade had been in the advantage position–on top, for six minutes and eight seconds riding time.

McQuade started his scoring drive early in the first period and continued working Czarnetzky through the entire seven minute bout. In his drive to the finals, McQuade defeated Jim Worth of Connecticut 16-6 in the first round.

Kevin Murphy placed second in the 142 pound class, losing a close one to URI's Bob Eon. Eon started the scoring off and had a 5-1 lead at the end of the second period. Murphy started a strong comeback, but too late as he fell to Eon 3-5.

167 pound Dave McEntee was the fifth UMass wrestler to see final competition falling to URI's Lee Spiegel and retaining second place.

118 pound Rich Schiarizzi pinned Maine's Alex Grabbe in the consolation round finals to take third place in the tourney, and 134 pound Greg Johnson outwrestled Brown's Brian Leach 11-1, also taking third place.

Primary polling places

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Polls in Amherst will be open today from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. for voters who wish to cast ballots in the Massachusetts Presidential Primary. Also up for election are representatives to the state and town Democratic and Republican Committees.

In the presidential primary contest, there are three Democratic and nine Republican candidates on the ballot. The Democratic candidates are Jimmy Carter, Edmund G. Brown, Jr., and Edward M. Kennedy. The Republican candidates are John B. Anderson, Howard H. Baker, George H. Bush, John B. Connally, Ronald W. Reagan, Robert J. Dole, Benjamin Fernandez, Harold Stassen, and Philip M. Crane.

Spaces are also available on the ballot for voters who wish to cast "no preference" votes, or write-in candidates.

Voters who are registered as Democrats or Republicans are required to vote for candidates within their party. Those registered as Independents may take a ballot for the party of their choice.

According to Amherst Town Clerk Estelle Matusko, a 77-78 percent turnout is expected for today's primary. Of the 12,294 voters registered in Amherst as of Feb. 5, the majority (6,074) are registered as Independents, with 4,653 registered Democrats and 1,566 registered Republicans.

Polling places for voters registered in Amherst are:

Precinct one–North Amherst Parish Hall, opposite Watroba's Store.

Precinct two–North Fire Station on East Pleasant St.

Precinct three–Emmanuel Lutheran Church on North Pleasant St. Precinct three includes all UMass residential areas except Southwest.

Precincts four and five–Bangs Community Center on Boltwood Walk. Precinct four includes the Southwest Residential Area.

Precinct six–Fort River School on South East St.

Precinct seven–Crocker Farm School on West St.

Precinct eight–Munson Library on South East St.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 96 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Tuesday, March 4, 1980

Gorman still leaks

By BRIAN O'CONNELL
and MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

No immediate resolution is in sight for six Gorman Dormitory residents who are entering their second week of living in the dorm's study lounges, after melting snow leaked through three floors of the four-story building.

Bill Scheumann, a Physical Plant supervisor, said Friday although preliminary repairs were already made, "I don't think it can be repaired until the weather is more favorable," adding "I have no idea of the cost."

Flooding began Feb. 16 in Gorman's fourth floor South bathroom. By Thursday afternoon of that week, the leading spread to the floor's north bathroom, forcing the University's Environmental Health and Safety Department to close it and evacuate three rooms: 408, 308, and 208.

TURN TO PAGE 2

Five cited in kidnap

By MARC FAGELSON
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Four UMass students were arraigned this weekend in Hampshire County District Court in Northampton on charges of kidnaping and asault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

Court officials identified the four as Lawrence Denaro, Craig L. Homenko, Eric M. Kehoe, and Peter Lawless. Robert Paladino was charged as an accessory after the fact. Four of the five students reside in the John Quincy Adams Dormitory.

Police declined to reveal any details of the incident.

The incident occurred Feb. 25. Homenko, Kehoe, and Denaro turned themselves in the following Friday. Denaro was arraigned Friday, Kehoe and Homenko on Saturday. Paladino and Lawless surrendered to Amherst police and were arraigned yesterday.

Residents of JQA tower said the incident stemmed from alleged thefts of personal property by a visitor to the dormitory. The incident apparently occurred when the students attempted to retrieve the missing articles, residents said.

The case has been continued until March 12 when a pre-trial conference is scheduled. The five are currently free on personal recognicance.

Winter beauty at Puffer's Pond. (Staff photo by Leslie Morelandi)

SGA debate tonight

Student Government Association presidential hopefuls will debate tonight in a forum sponsored by the Collegian.

With the presidential elections next Tuesday and Wednesday, the debate will provide students with a look at the necessary candidates.

The candidates will answer questions from representatives of the Collegian, Nummo, WMUA and a women's organization. If time permits questions may also be asked by the audience.

The debate will begin at 7:30 in room 163-164 of the Campus Center.

The debate is open to the public and all members of the University community are encouraged to attend.

Moon, CARP linked

By JACK GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

A member of the Collegiate Association for the Research into Principles (CARP), who sometimes mans a booth under those auspices in the Campus Center Concourse, has said her membership in the Unification Church (UC) is incidental to her membership in CARP.

But according to a report issued Oct. 31, 1978 by a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee, CARP is one group "whose major function is to attract new members to the UC, though their relationship with the UC may be hidden.

'Once we can control two or three universities, then we will be on the way to controlling the certification for the major professions in the United States.'

Further, the report, issued by the Subcommittee on International Relations, cites Alan Tate Wood, former president of the Freedom Leadership Foundation, quoting Rev. Sun Myung Moon, UC head, as saying: "Once we can control two or three universities, then we will be on the way to controlling the certification for the major professions in the United States."

The report also cites the May 10, 1974 issue of New Hope News, which reads: "Father [Moon] wants to mobilize 20 or 30 of the Korean professors to influence American academia, both professors and students. Because of this, Father stressed the importance of building up CARP to serve as a foundation for their work when they arrive... Father said that college campuses are a major battlefield, and if we win there we will definitely win America."

According to the report, Kim Young Oon, a follower of Moon when the latter was in Japan, went to Eugene, Ore. in 1959 to establish the movement in that area. The report states that growth of UC in the U.S. in the 1960's had been slow and that Moon arrived here in December 1971 "to take charge of his movement here."

Moon is a Korean native.

ERA examined

By SIOBHAN C. BREEN
Collegian Staff

"I see the Equal Rights Amendment more as a human rights issue," said Debbie Jung, a Campus ERA Organizer, yesterday during an ERA workshop yesterday, sponsored by the International Women's Week Committee.

Jung has been affiliated with the National Organization for Women since November. So far the reception for ERA on campuses has been very good, she said.

Jung stressed the economic importance that the passage of ERA would have on American women. "Without ERA," she said, "we do not have direct assurance women will be given equal responsibility in the job force."

Jung feels college women should be concerned about entering the job market for they "earn $1064 less per year than a male with an eighth grade education."

"NOW is opposed to the draft registration for women or for men" Jung said. "The organization feels the volunteer forces are adequate," and, continued Jung, "NOW is a pacifist organization."

If there was to be a draft, however, NOW believes "women should be registered along with the men," Jung said. "Today's military is a technological military...more brain than brawn."

NOW is supporting John Anderson and Kennedy in the primaries, Jung said. Both candidates have promised to work for passage of the ERA and are in strong support of pro-choice-women's control of their reproductive rights.

The major opposition to ERA lies in the South and in Midwest. Presently 35 states have passed the ERA and only three more are needed for ratification. This year the major campaign for ratification wil be in Illinois, "We have a very good chance of winning if we concentrate our efforts," Jung said.

Jung will lead another workshop on Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m. in room 101 in the Campus Center. The second workshop will focus on "what we can do to ratify ERA," she said. Jung will be seeking people to join in organizing an ERA support group on campus. "A group to publicize ERA on campus ... make it visible and alive," she said.

Essay lists examples of sexism

By ROSEMARY CONWAY

Editor's note: The following is one of four runner-up entries in an essay contest co-sponsored by the Collegian Women's Dept. and the Massachusetts Press Association.

"We are not what we might be"
-Slyvia Plath

This essay is about waking up.

I have always been vaguely aware of and discomforted by seemingly inescapable cultural influences of sex-role stereotyping. However, the "Women's Movement" and "Feminism" were ambiguous references filtered through to me from unknown sources. I have listened to the cries of "Sexism!" and thought the term overused. I witnessed the disgusted reaction of many students during the women's takeover of the Collegian offices, and responded negatively myself. I sympathized, and still do to some extent, with women who fear the Women's Movement out of confusion and frustration. I decided to investigate.

I found that the Women's Movement is about a lot of things, different things to different people. The Women's Movement is about empowerment, self-congidence, self-determination and survival. It encompasses issues of basic human rights and responsibilities. Despite fears, factions and other pressures, I strongly believe these are concepts on which most women can agree in a general way. If we honestly examine our lives both on a personal and societal level, we see that these basic rights are denied us; and that realization is what motivates us to act.

In the short time I have been active at the Everywoman's Center, I have felt a number of things: timidity, exhaltation, camaraderie, shock, outrage, frustration. One of the first things I learned is that one would be hard-pressed to identify when the term "sexism" is overused. Consider:

a) this portion of a speech by a prominent Amherst College English professor, Feb. 21, 1980: "In a marriage, the husband is head of the wife. He should be a hard taskmaster which is what a real woman wants and needs. If she is not happy, he must devise methods with his creative ingenuity to make her happy. She yells. He acts correctively."

b) that the Counselor/Advocate Program for victims of sexual assault saw 70 clients between July '79 and January '80, a third of whom were UMass students—a 50 percent increase over last year. 64 percent of the UMass assaults occurred in co-ed dorms; 22 percent in academic buildings.

c) that at a recent Student Senate meeting, 40 women from the International Women's Week Committe experienced 3 hours of various levels of hostility to help fund the only major women's event of the year on this campus. The extensive argument was presumably due to a lack of Senate funds. But later that evening, the Senate voted in 5 minutes to spend $400.00 for the co-presidents' trip to Wahsington.

d) the shoddy investigation into the death of Seta Rampersad.

e) the "all-in-fun" goading hostility typically arising whenever women's issues are brought up in conversation.

f) the physical abuse inflicted on women strikers and supporters at the WESCO plant.

So much for shock and outrage. The outrage heightens as each injury is added to the list, and is joined by frustration.

What I have discovered recently is that we cannot rely on a handful of "other women to fight the battle for us. (My choice of words is not to imply that one must be militant to be active.) People-power is necessary for the Women's Movement to achieve its goals—time, energy, money, education, etc. Even sincere philosophizing is useless without the pursuit of its practical application. In addition, within the Women's Movement itself the lack of cooperation must be rectified. The least we can do is be supportive of each other.

I wish to acknowledge that interpretations of what the Women's Movement is or should be are diverse. Personally, I do not condone segregationalism and especially not the misguided imitation of men. i feel these are generally self-defeatist. My involvement is based on the desire for a new "society" in which both women and men are able to develop—without repression—all aspects of their personalities.

In conclusion, the Women's Movement has helped to rouse me from the dreams of the asleep, in which all is attainable yet deceptive, to the dreams of the awake, which are not as easily realized, but—with effort—possible.

Choose careers

By SUE BOISSEVAIN
Collegian Staff

Careers. Most students are hoping for a career in something, but many are still unsure of how to choose a suitable career, or how to plan for that ultimate post-college goal. "Career Development," a Women's Week workshop was held yesterday aftenoon in the Campus Center to help women choose careers.

"If you're going to catch a taxi, the bus stop is not the place," said workshop leader Jean Moss. In other words, Moss feels if you are going to decide on a career you have to know your expectation. Moss, of the Community Development Center at UMass, had the handful of women at the workshop list their career expectations and then focused her energy on each individual.

Moss listed eight steps that should be applied to anyone's expectations: 'Define the goal that you want to attain. Know what is important to you. Know what you want to attain. Examine the information. Assess psychological, emotional, economic risks, and costs to you in making choices. Make an alternative career or goal, and plan a strategy."

"The socializing of women has a framework in this country which is made up of past experiences, future expectations, and present experiences and realizations," Moss said. "We learn these from family, friends, community institutions, schools, and peer groups."

"But our future expectations can come true, if in the present we do a lot of work to make these come true," she said, "and never accept things for life because our expectations are always changing."

Moss stressed the importance of the individual in determining his/her own strengths and weaknesses in deciding on a career.

She also mentioned the Student Development and Counselling Center in Berkshire House and the Communication Skills Center as two of the many facilities on campus that aid students in career choices.

Women's week schedule

Women's Week Schedule for Tuesday, March 4:
Editor's note: Check Campus Center assistance desk for room numbers and schedule changes. Child care is available if prior arrangements are made with Susan Markman at Everywoman's Center.

Morning:
10:00-11:30—"Sexual Harassment in the Classroom" A workshop to discuss the problem of sexual harassment in the classroom and organizing to fight back. SASH (Students Against Sexual Harassment) Women's Issue's Team, SCERA facilitators.
10:00-12:00—"Jews and Social Change Coalition Building" A workshop on how Jewish and non-Jewish women can work together for social change. Jennifer Wexler, Myra Hindus and Barbara Johnson, facilitators.
Afternoon:
11:30-1:30—"Women's Role in the Anti-Imperialist Struggle in Ireland" An emphasis on women political prisoners and the anti-imperialsit struggle. Maired O'Casey, facilitator.
12:00-1:30—"Impact of Planned Parenthood on Third World Women" A discussion on the effects of family planning on third world women; genocidal efforts to limit the population of third world people. Suman Gohm and Diane Taylor, facilitators.
3:00-5:00—"ERA Organizing" organizing in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. Deb Jung, facilitator.
4:00-6:00—"Union Organizing."
7:00-9:00—"Sexual Harassment in the Classroom," see Tuesday morning, 10:00-11:30.

UMass Chem. E. professor emeritus dies

Funeral services for Edgar E. Lindsey of Amherst, 65, professor emeritus and former head of the UMass Chemical Engineering Department, will be held today at 1:30 p.m. in the North Congregational Church in North Amherst. Lindsey died of cancer Saturday in Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

A graduate of Georgia Tech, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree, Lindsey received his Ph.D at Yale University. He founded the Chemical Engineering Department at UMass early in the 1950s, serving as department head. He was appointed Associate Dean of Chemical Engineering until 1963. From 1963 to 1966, Lindsey served as Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, returning to the duties of Associate Dean again in 1966. In 1968, Lindsey became a full professor emeritus of Engineering at UMass. he was given a special award by the UMass Engineering Alumni Association in 1978.

He leaves a wife, Shirley, of Amherst, and two children.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

★ Gorman

CONT FROM PAGE 1

Gorman resident Heather MacRae, one of the students whose rooms were evacuated, said, "The Physical Plant hasn't told us anything. I'd just as soon not move back because I know it will leak again." MacRae said she preferred staying in the study lounges because they were twice the size of Gorman student rooms.

Patrick Hennessey, another Gorman resident who was forced to evacuate his room because of the flooding, said, "as a reimbursement, I am going to try and get this room (study lounge) for the rest of the semester. You know something's wrong when you live on the second floor and you get water leaking through your ceiling," he added.

Many Gorman students are displeased with the lack of suitable study space in the dorm due to the evacuated students living in the lounges. Several Gorman third-floor residents said, "We want our study lounge back."

Editorial/Opinion

A dangerous deshmocracy

Those of you who read this page were treated to a small-minded orgy of underdog-kicking. I speak of Mark Wagner's piece, in which he slanders both the Citizens' Party and one of its chief spokespeople, Barry Commoner. The article contains, apart from some cheap attempts at manipulation of the antinuclear vote, several factual errors and some vicious name-calling.

In rebuttal, let me first point out that the Citizens' Party is not Barry Commoner's creation alone. He has never implied that it is, and to say so, Mr. Wagner, is to insult the efforts of many: Among them, Julian Bond, Maggie Kuhn, Studs Terkel, Wretha Wiley-Hanson, Ed Sadlowski, and the many others who formed the party. It is also a deliberate affront to those who have worked, and overworked to get the Citizens' Party off the ground and into a campaign. This campaign is not, nor can it be characterized as, one individual's quest for self-aggrandizement. It is a campaign, not just for 1980, but for the '80s and beyond. It is not a party for one individual, but for all of its membership. Before you request that another keep petty personal ambition out of politics, Mr. Wagner, I suggest you examine your own motives. I fear they are none too pure.

JOHN PARKER

Whatever the merits of your candidate, Mr. Wagner, I do not feel that smearing an organization which has a fresh approach to many issues and a commitment to integrity will garner many votes for the candidate you represent. Rather, I feel you have just shown the entire campus community that you are for politics-as-usual. Those who would like politics to be something different are invited to join the Citizens' Party: We're trying to make politics truly popular again.

If I might be permitted to change the subject, there's been something troubling me since my last visit to the typewriter.

What I should like to do now is to remind you of something easily forgotten in the everyday world of classes and tests: The disconcerting fact that, quite literally at any second, we could become part of a nuclear fireball. This was brought home to me forcefully last week, as I, even while fulminating over Mr. Wagner's editorial piece, overheard someone relating his recent nightmare to a friend over lunch. The following is dedicated to the young gentleman who has become my, albeit unwitting, muse.

"Today's service is being conducted by the Strategic Air Command, the Nuclear Navy, their Soviet counterparts, and concerned laity around the globe.

"It is not being televised, nor is it being broadcast over your radio. It is brought to you live, where you live, without commercial interruption, by the defense-nuclear establishment.

"A moment of silence. (Long pause.) —The service is beginning.

"Let us prey: In Nomine Patris, et Fifii, et Strontium-90. Amen.

"Our missiles, some housed in silos, are awesome in their might. When conflict comes, our lives are done, here, as well as Moscow. But give out this day, large defense contracts, and lead us all into inflation. Forget now all our trespasses, while we destroy those who trespass against us. For ours is the Neutron and the MX and the Trident, World without man, Amen."

John C. Parker is a Collegian columnist.

Collegian endorses Anderson

Today, registered voters in Massachusetts will have the opportunity to cast primary ballots for the man they believe should be the next president of the United States.

Whomever is elected as a result of primary elections will unquestionably have a great influence on the course of this nation and the world over the next four years.

He will have to deal with increasing unrest in many parts of the world, rising inflation, and dwindling energy resources here at home, to name only a few problems.

Among the large field of presidential hopefuls, we believe John Anderson stands out as the man who can best handle these problems.

Anderson, 57, is a ten-term congressman from Illinois running on the Republican ballot. He has served for 11 years as Chairman of the House Republican Conference, making him the third-ranking Republican in the House of Representatives. Before running for Congress, Anderson practiced law and served in the Foreign Service.

To many, the name John Anderson may not be familiar. Anderson has not received the media coverage or financial support many of his competitors have. But for those who have taken the time to discover John Anderson, his candidacy makes a lot of sense.

Anderson has been called by his colleagues one of the most effective members of the House. Journalists have praised him for his intelligence, character, integrity and articulate candor. Even Anderson's opponents in the GOP have said they admire him for the way he speaks out for what he believes.

In 1968, Anderson cast the crucial vote for the open housing law which made it illegal for an individual to refuse to rent or sell property on the basis of race, color, or creed. In 1974, Anderson was the first Republican to call for former President Nixon's resignation.

Today, in debates with his opponents, Anderson has not been afraid to speak out alone on approving the grain embargo to the Soviet Union, calling for the resignation of Treasury Secretary William Miller, having gun control and freedom of choice in abortion, and extending the ratification deadline for the Equal Rights Amendment.

On energy, Anderson is the only candidate offering any new ideas. He has proposed a 50 cent tax on gasoline to discourage consumption, that would be used to cut Social Security taxes in half. Anderson wants passage of a windfall profits tax that would be used to improve mass transit systems and help the poor pay their heating bills. He believes no new nuclear power plants should be built until safe methods of waste disposal are developed.

On foreign policy, Anderson is a voice of restraint. He is against draft registration, conscription, and development of the B1 bomber and MX missile system. Unlike his major opponent in Mass., George Bush, he was an early supporter of recognition of mainland China and the Panama Canal Treaties. He has called our involvement in the Indochina war "the most tragic error in diplomatic history," and is willing to confess that his biggest regret was voting for the Gulf of Tonkin resolution.

Many people have said, "Yes, Anderson's a good man. Too bad he doesn't have a chance." The fact is, Anderson could have a chance. November is still a long way away, and Anderson's campaign is on the upswing. A good showing in Massachusetts might be the beginning.

We hope you'll think abot the issues before you vote today. And think about what sort of president you want to see in the White House when you graduate. We think that man is John Anderson.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Collegian Board of Editors

Letters

Moonie tunes

The recent interest in CARP has prompted me to throw in my two-cents worth. In all fairness we must allow that the first amendment to the Constitution permits them to organize and expound their teachings(?). I will even submit to my fellow students that CARP has an inalienable right to proselytize and advertise themselves in any manner that they wish, within the bounds of the law.

In response to Karen Graham: This is America and you are lucky to be here. I won't deny you your rights, please don't impinge on mine. Play it straight and tell me sincerely why the ex-members of the Moon cult insist that they were brain-washed and pressured.

Michael Matfess
Brown

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
To the Editor:
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks
8-9 p.m. 50c
9-10 p.m. 75c
10 p.m.-closing $1.00
Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted
Fri. & Sat
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

Noreste, Admissions
August 80 applicants 4 year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English language textbooks and exams in English. School combines quality education small classes experienced teachers modern facilities
Guiseppe del Noreste
120 East 41 St. NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6589
or 232-3784

SEMESTER AT SEA
Plan a college semester at sea aboard the SCHOONER HARVEY GAMAGE. The credits in arts and science earned from Southampton College, a Center of Long Island University, may be transferred. Curriculum includes visits to numerous educational and historical places from Maine to the Virgin Islands.
HARVEY GAMAGE is a 95-foot U.S. Coast Guard inspected auxiliary schooner. For curriculum, cost and schedule, write or phone-
DIRIGO CRUISES
39 Waterside Lane, Clinton, CT 06413
Telephone: (203) 669-7068

ATTENTION UNDERGRADUATES
The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be offered
Wed. March 5, 1980 8:00 PM.
in Mahar
500 word essay
more info call 545-0610

Come Join the 5 College Crowd at
Time Out
TWO TV's
Friendly People!
Friendly Prices!
Free popcorn at Amherst's biggest little bar
37 N. Pleasant St.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

 Steve Garfield  brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound"

JVC Cassette Deck Mk II ANRS. Professionally maintainenced. Originally $300., $125. Call Phil 323-7365

Tuner Amp Turntable must sell, come see Joe 546-7925

Sony Stereo Music System Cassette Corder call 546-6899 BO

Harman Kardon 430 40 watts ESS 8 Speakers BIC 960 asking $425 546-1126

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best betnights & mornings.

Station Wgn 73 Chrysler T & C some work needed but runs well $400 call Sandy after 6 323-5711

Olds. Cutl 74 excellent run & body cond $1600 call 549-5144 ev.

74 Pontiac Custom Ventura excellent running condition $1200 call 665-7574 keep trying

74 Pinto Station autom 51000 M 2300 ccm good cond $800 call 549-1888

ENTERTAINMENT

Band wanted to play for semi-formal April 20th Varied types call 546-6388 Adrienne eves.

FOR RENT

Cape Cod summer rental E. Dennis, 5 bedrooms 2 baths 253-5017

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

Sunny, quiet 1 bedroom apartment on bus route dishwasher, $197 includes everything, available immediately, #310. Call 665-3958 9 am-4:30 pm

FOR SALE

For Sale 2 studio design bookshelf speakers Used 8 months. Call 6-1402 Asking $50.00/pair

Fiat 124 Sedan Mechanical condition. Some rust. 586-0871

Diving Gear new US Divers Equip call Ted at 549-6488

Complete Goaltenders Equipment from skates to mask all Cooper and Bauer call Nick 253-9074

Sears Free Spirit 10 sp needs repair $60 or BO 549-6377 eves

Put some plush in your life. Brand new carpet remnents for sale. Perfect for cold dorm room floors. Many colors and sizes - cheap prices. Call 546-7491 or come buy and check them out 416 Thoreau

Tyrolia 260D bindings 45$ 546-5763 Neil

Kinks tickets Roe U, $35 for pair or BO call 546-6908

HI SPEED CASSETTE & DUPLICATION SERVICE-REMOTE RECORDING Wholesale prices on QUALITY BLANK CASSETTES (no min.) Our quality the same as Maxell UDSL TDKSA at ⅓ price. Lifetime Guarantee. Free brochure, spec sheet, Omni Cassette & Duplication Mfg., P.O. Box 156, Northfield, MA. 01360 413-498-5851

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found brown & white beagle type dog in Brit. Manor area Call 253-3915

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Work study student athletic trainers and student secretary. Contact Robert Williams, Boyden Bldg., Rm 9, Ext. 5-2866

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

Free Blood Cholesterol Test male students, non-runners, non-weight trainers wanted for Ex. Sci. research project call Lou 253-7507

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons all styles. Beginners welcome for a free trial lesson. You choose the music you want to learn experienced instructor call Nick at 253-9074 leave message

Basic Auto Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-7967 or write for brochure Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

Sentics Workshop—"The Miracle of the Possible" call Elizabeth Paton 413 549-3880

Japanese Calligraphy Lessons call Eriko 6-1473

LOST

Dearly beloved hat-hood black/white & black check reversible. Reward if returned, my ears have been cold. rachel 586-0233

Lost pair black leather gloves Tues 19th 5-6826 Thanks

Lost Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at anytime 549-6219. Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

Gold necklace lost Thurs Feb 21 near S.U.B.? call 253-7405

Man's silver ring w/turquoise. If fd please call Leigh at 6-1134

Blue parka Herter basement name in jacket - please - Greg 253-3923

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Charismatic Prayer and Bible Study Tuesday March 4 CC 805-809 8-10 PM

Happy Birthday Julie—Maybe you'll finally look your age! Probably not though. Love, Gary

Hey Freckles I love you very much! Nails

Dear Heather Happy Birthday from your demonstrator PS can I have my notes back?

Brenda Simmons: (B.S., Fred, Tex) Hope you have an AMAZING Birthday!! Happy #21. Always, Fern P.S. THE BEST!!!

Tammy: Spontaneity can happen at any time. Be ready! Happy Happy Birthday!

Sex! Blood! Lust! Experience it Friday night at Mahar Aud. with Andy Warhol's X-rated Dracula at 7, 9, & 11

March 3 - March 3 Too bad this is March 4. To the Peanut Butter Freak, your the greatest ever. Have a fattening day. Happy Belated March 3! We love you — Chris, Vicky PS this is your gift

Meeting of Men Against Violence Against Women group Wed March 5, 7:30 CC 801

Absofuckinglutely orgasmic! Like you tons call me

Cruising depicts the downfall of society. Burn in Hell

To the gentleman with the red cap who was playing piano in SUB lounge last Friday—thank-you you made my day—Carol

Don't miss Paragon Experience!

Last chance to see Paragon Experience—tonight, March 4, 7 & 9 PM, SUB, FREE!!

To the kind soul who returned my purse to the library 2/26: A Million Thanks!!

Free Movie: Paragon Experience. Last chance tonight. Don't miss it!

Wanted 1 or 2 Kinks tickets call Bob 549-5877

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Wash D.C. March break will share $ call Carole 6-4847

To Syracuse NY for one or two people leaving Fri. March 14 call 6-7320 or 6-7321

Hey you with a car! We need a ride to Ft. Lauderdale or surrounding area for spring break! Can leave from NY or Boston. Call Stephanie 546-1454

Ride wanted to Washington DC Fri March 14 Spring Break will share $ please call Debbie 323-6843

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

In Northwood Apts own room $105 mo. + elec. 665-2838 eves

Roomate wanted to share two bedroom Southwood apartment: $160/mo Ph. 256-8202

Roomate wanted spacious, quiet, 2 bedroom apartment in Squire Village $135/month call 665-7766

Roomate wanted own room Echo Hill apt $100+ call Amy 253-3707 eves

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

TO SUBLET

One bedroom close to Town and School 253-2645 before midnght

3 bedroom apt Puffton Village 300 per month June to August, next to bus, pool, tennis courts, call nights 549-3765

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Flute—reasonably priced. call Mona after 3:00 pm 546-9701

I need 4 tickets to the Kinks top $ call Dave 256-0616

Wanted 2 tickets for Kinks concert 586-9199 (keep trying)

Looking for someone to teach auto harp lessons to me on Campus. Call Sue collect at 617-249-8092

Take a course in Good Eating from Bells

• Small & Large Pizzas
• Grinders
• Spaghetti
• Tossed & Green Salads

Bells Pizza House
Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am
65 University Drive
549-1311 253-9051

SALE SALE

Hadley Picture Framing

10% off on Custom Picture Framing with this coupon

Mon.-Fri. 12:00-7:00
Sat. 12:00-5:00

44 Middle St. Hadley
North at Hadley Center, Just off Rte. 9

Offer expires March 7 586-0332

Great Winter
SALE
20-40% off many Blouses & Skirts
50% off Grass Mats
20-50% off many Red Tag Specials
selected Jewelry, Gifts, Candles, Tea Sets, Boxes, etc.
Now through March 15

New Shipments
Posters — Bedspreads
Blouses — Skirts
Cards — Gifts
Jewelry

Open Daily 10 am - 5:30 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate Monday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS

1 Net
5 Distant
9 Flower
14 Mont.'s neighbor
15 Fish
16 Abscond
17 Asian coin
18 Arrest
19 Sage
20 Formal
22 Strict ones
24 Of some plants
26 Loop
27 Experts
29 Sever
30 Stand-in
33 Money handler: 2 words
37 Tender
38 American Indians
39 Help
40 Rostrum
41 Recited
42 Mortician
44 Reverence
45 Plus
46 Shortly
47 Currents
49 Money schedule
53 Duty basis: 2 words
57 Figure of speech
58 — Minister
59 Spoken
61 Esau's father-in-law
62 Sounder
63 Hideous
64 Lumps
65 Pitchers
66 Groups
67 Dagger

DOWN

1 Fen
2 Upper crust
3 Step
4 Poorly planned
5 Tree
6 Bubbles
7 Boy's name
8 Goes back
9 Lay off
10 Singly
11 Hercules' captive
12 Stain
13 Desires
21 Data
23 Travel
25 Shelter
28 Calumnious
30 Drench
31 Drive
32 Beverage
33 Greek letter
34 Queued up
35 Aswan Dam's river
36 Cover
37 Scottish links: 2 words
40 Fleshy
42 Reverse
43 Pilfer
45 Ill ones
47 Subduer
48 Fabric
50 Disputed Heights
51 Lyric poem
52 Strained
53 Church area
54 Pull
55 Ivy
56 Fountain drink
60 Fleur-de- —

DC menu

Lunch
Open Face Roast Beef Sandwich
Lazy Golompki

Basics Lunch
The Salad Sandwich
Rice and Cheese Stuffed Cabbage

Dinner
Stir Fry Beef and Vegetables
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

Basics Dinner
Sweet and Sour Tofu
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

Earthfoods

Lentil Burgers
Rice Bulghar
Creme of Celery Soup
Potato Salad
Datenut Bread

WRITERS TAKE NOTE
THESES • DISSERTATIONS • BOOKS
From the rough draft to the finished copies
VALLEY TYPING DOES IT ALL

If you're writing a large manuscript—thesis, dissertation or book—Valley Typing offers word processing services that save you time and money. When your rough draft is put up on our word processor, you can make revisions quickly and get an error-free final copy without time-consuming (and expensive) manual retyping—and without haveing to repeatedly proofread your document.
We are taking reservations for spring thesis deadlines—make yours today!

Valley typing
29 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass. 01002
256-6736
M-F 10-6 Sat. 10-2

TUESDAYS
2 for 1 Night
(All Mixed Drinks)
9-11
Disco/Oldies
No Cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Notices

THE FOUNDATIONS of COUNSELING which offers theoretical courses in counseling is now accepting applications for students in the fall. A 3.0 GPA is normally required and second semester sophomores are favored. Interested students should pick up an application form in 342 Hills South.

The NORTHEAST/SYLVAN AREA ART SERIES is sponsoring a theatre group, the Chrysalis Theatre Electric, which is presenting a theatre piece on nuclear power entitled "Soft Targets, Stone Children." The event will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Worcester Dining Commons. Admission is FREE and open to all students.

All Southwest women are invited to attend an Introductory Meeting to form a Southwest Women's Support Group. The meeting will be held at Southwest Women's Center tonight at 7.

The group will provide a comfortable atmosphere where women can discuss issues pertinent to their own lives with other interested women. Possible topics for discussion are Beauty, jobs, relationships, and the future. For more information call Southwest Women's Center 545-0626.

THE COMMUNITY EDUCATION RESOURCE CENTER brown bag lunch meeting for Thursday March 6 will discuss community implementation of alternative energy methods. Connie Kruger of the Energy Education Center will speak and show slides between noon and 1p.m. in room 267 of Hills South. Open meeting.

The University Health Services is offering a Men's Awareness of Sexual Health Workshop Tuesday March 4, at 7:00 p.m. in room 304 of the Health Center. No preregistration is necessary and all men are welcome. For more information contact Health Education at 549-2671.

ON FRIDAY, THE SABBATH SERVICES are in honor of International Women's Week. 7 p.m., Duke's Room, SU 310.

SATURDAY'S SABBATH SERVICES will be followed by a light brunch. 10:30 a.m., Duke's Room, SU 310.

GRAND OPENING--TONIGHT MARKS the opening of Phonothon '80. It runs for five weeks, Monday through Thursday, to call alumni for financial support. So come join us at the Alumni Office, Memorial Hall for a good time, with dinner, beer, and refreshments on us. Prizes will be awarded to the top callers and the top team.

TOMORROW: 4-5 p.m.: Exploring esoteric (Aquarian) Christianity—An informal discussion group forming. Inquire at UCF, 428 SU, 545-2661.

FILM: LION, WITCH AND THE WARDROBE, sponsored by I.C.F. free adm., 7 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium

PARAGON EXPERIENCE, sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ, 12 noon-close, Student Union Ballroom

THERE WILL BE A JEWISH Careers Group Meeting tomorrow, open to all interested in careers in Jewish life service. 3 p.m.,Suffolk Room, SU 301. ALSO ON WEDNESDAY, RABBI Avraham Ha-Cohen: will speak on "Strengthening Your Jewish Identity," information on a summer study program. 9 p.m., Duke's Room, SU 310.

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

All for $5.50
with this coupon only

With personal style cut, shampoo and blow dry $8.00, long hair slightly more.
With this coupon only,
limited to new customers only

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Dr. Amherst, MA 549-5610
Hairmack
62 Main St Easthampton, Ma. 527-2411

Come to Southwest to laugh. . .or are you scared?

"NOW YOU SEE IT, CUBED"
The Umass Comedy/Music Revue
March 5, 6, 7 8 PM
Hampden Theatre, Southwest

Tickets available only at the door. . .$1.50
This is all new material—3 NIGHTS ONLY!!!

You have something to share with the people of the rural South and Appalachia — yourself. Find out how you can help, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or Priest. Your request will be treated confidentially.

- ☐ I'd like information about opportunities with the Glenmary Missioners and the free poster.
- ☐ I'd like a free copy of the poster only.

Glenmary Missioners
Room 21 Box 46404
Cincinnati, Ohio 45246
Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____
Zip_____ Age_____

International Women's Week

Tuesday March 4
Schedule of Workshops
Come Learn More About:

- Sexual harassment in the classroom
- Jews and social change coalition building
- Women's role in the Anti-Imperialist struggle in Ireland
- Radicalization of women through social movement
- Impact of Planned Parenmthood on Third World women
- ERA organizing
- Abortion Action Coalition
- Violence against women

More information at Campus Center Desk
Child care available Susan Mark n 545-0883

KEGS— STADIUM LIQUORS —BEER
U. Mass. Amherst
WINE—

LIQUORS

O'Keefe Ale 12 oz. btl. 2.75 6 pack 9.90 case
Haffenreffer 12 oz. btls.. 1.60 6 pk. 5.90 cs.
Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75 litre..... 11.49
Old Milwaukee..... 12 pack 3.10
Taylor California Cellars
Chablis, Rose, Rhine, Burgandy 1.5 litre..... 3.59
Sebastiani Mountain Burgandy, Mountain Rose, Mt. Chablis
3 liters..... 4.99
S.S. Pierce Vodka 1.75 liter..... 7.95

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

CHEERING TRYOUTS

Attention University Men & Women
Varsity Football & Basketball
Cheering Tryouts
will begin Sunday, March 9 at 6:00 PM
in Boyden Gymnasium
All Are Welcome!

201 SU (next to Hatch) 545-0400

Union Records Unlimited

Hours: 10 - 5 Mon.-Fri. Sat. 10 - 5

SPECIALS!
List: $7.98
Our Price: $4.99

Virgin

SIRE

VA 13137

ATCO

VA 13134

WE NOW CARRY
Reggae • Imports • Bluegrass
Direct Masters • Cut Outs

Your Student-run Record Store

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass

Presents—
Tuesday
2 for 1
with Rock & Reggae
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

TAKING MCATS?
NOW AVAILABLE:
"A Complete Preparation For the NEW MCAT."
A 420 page self-study guide developed at Harvard University to improve science and math performance. Before investing hundreds invest only $14.00 (incl. postage)

Health Professions Education Service Inc.
11901 Goya Dr., Rockville, MD 20854
Please forward_____copies of the NEW MCAT preparation guide at $14.00 per copy. Amount of enclosed check __
Print Name_____
Address_____
City/State _____ Zip _____

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show - Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE RD.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer Vs. Kramer — 9 Academy Award Nominations — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE — 3 Academy Awatd Nominations — G (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
THE FOG — R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Norma Rae SALLY FIELD — (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 — 4 Academy Award Nominations — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
James Caan Marsha Mason Chapter Two — 1 Academy Award Nomination — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN THE JERK — R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
DOM DeLUISE Fatso — PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Cruising for a killer. AL PACINO CRUISING — No one under 18 admitted — R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

Sports

Captain Carl: Shoulder injury not serious

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. – Carl Yastrzemski, a 40-year-old baseball wonder, reported to the Boston Red Sox' training camp Monday for a check on an ailing left shoulder.

While pitchers and catchers were joined by several fielders in a workout in biting cold weather, Yastrzemski was examined by Dr. Arthur Pappas, the Red Sox team physician.

"There's a slight tear in the shoulder, but it doesn't appear to be serious," Yastrzemski said. "We'll know more after a couple of stress tests on the machine."

Yastrzemski, who last season became the first American League player ever to reach 400 homers and 3,000 hits, said he'll miss the first full squad practice Tuesday.

"I'll be back Wednesday or Thursday to at least do some running and throwing," he said. "The shoulder shouldn't set me back too far."

Yastrzemski said he hurt the shoulder of his non-throwing arm while working out on the Nautilus muscle-building machine near his home on Florida's East Coast.

"I was doing the shoulder push and felt something give," he said. "I called Dr. Pappas and he advised me to take it easy until he had a chance to check things out. So I haven't really done anything for the last 10 days or so.

"Until then I had been doing everything, running, throwing and some hitting. I was in great shape, felt good. I still feel good and I'm anxious to get started but I don't want to do anything to aggravate the shoulder."

Yastrzemski began Nautilus program for the first time this winter. He decided to try it after teammate Fred Lynn, muscles bulging from the program, won AL batting championship last year.

When asked about the strained Achilles tendon which plagued him the second half of the 1979 season, Yaz said, "I haven't had any pain at all while running or swinging a bat. I have new shoes built up to relieve pressure, and they work. I don't expect any more problems with the feet."

Yastrzemski was granted with a "Hi Unc" by Lynn who then kidded Yaz about his deep tan. Lynn later disclosed that he still is bothered by a groin muscle injury which pained him on route to the batting title last year.

Most of the Red Sox on hand worked out under the direction of coaches. Manager Don Zimmer, feeling ill, picked up some medication from trainer Charlie Moss in early morning and returned to his motel to spend the day in bed.

Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies and other major leaguers are preparing for the upcoming season. (AP Laserphoto)

Jonathan Hamilton

What's with Eruzione?

After the recent signings of several US Olympic gold medalist hockey players to NHL teams comes the surprise, even shock to many people, concerning Mike Eruzione's decision to forego a pro hockey career. The hero of the Russian hockey game who slid a puck past an unsuspecting goalie that was to be known as the shot heard around the Kremlin has decided to forget any dreams about the NHL.

This seems like such an open and shut case. You know the old adage, you hope opportunity will knock at your door. Well by golly, why in the world is he standing at the end of the rainbow turning his back on the gold jackpot? (we all know the price of gold today). I've been trying to hunt for reasons that would possibly make him say no to fame and fortune. First, he might have self-doubts about his play. Maybe he thinks his play will shrink from the absolute flawless play to below mediocrity. He even said he wanted to be remembered as the captain of the US Olympic hockey team, not as "a guy who play in the NHL for a few games and then got sent down to the minors." I guess that's the key to the whole situation.

He wants to go out on top like a true champ. But as much as I like Eruzione, I have to think he's quitting too soon. He's bowing out before his time. He's too young just to, as he says, "go into a bar with that Gold medal and tell stories."

Could he be using the gold medal in the future as a crutch to flash at people when he walks into bars? Hardly not. He'll succeed at whatever he does.

But what I'll miss most is his play. There remains no doubt in my mind he can play in the NHL. I wish he would so we all could enjoy his enthusiasm on the ice. Man, I love that Russian goal he scored. Play it again, Sam.

It seemed a little controversy surrounded the end of the Minuteman basketball campaign as co-captain Bill Morrison felt that Coach Ray Wilson did not do him justice in his last appearance at the Cage. Morrison, therefore, did not make the trip to Villanova for the playoff game which UMass lost 85-63.

Morrison, who played but 11 minutes, saw the entire second half from the bench. Cries from the fans, "Put Morrison in" drifted about but were ignored.

I think both parties were at fault in this situation. Wilson should have realized the long season his captain had been through and let him play the whole game. It's not easy to come out to practice day after day when your team is in such dire straits.

On the other hand Morrison should have had enough pride to finish out his career at Villanova instead of sulking. Athletes must put aside their personal rifts with coaches and give their best effort to the team.

Anyway let's hope that Wilson does a good job recruiting these next few weeks. It's going to be a long summer trying to explain to people why UMass basketball can only win 7 games in two years.

Trackwomen led by McCrone at New Englands

By JIM GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

A team of seven UMass trackwomen traveled to Harvard University this weekend to compete in the Easterns in their last meet of the season. The highlight of the meet for UMass was in the mile when sophomore Judy McCrone ran a 4:58 in both the trials and in the finals which was good for sixth place in the final standings. "I was pleased with my place but I would liked to have finished faster. Since the trials were so fast I think it might have hurt me in the finals," McCrone said.

Running the two-mile for UMass was sophomore Julie Burke. In a close race Burke's time of 10:45.8 was good for seventh place but failed to qualify her for for the nationals by less than a second. It was the second time Burke missed the national qualifying time by less than a second. She was was only three tenths of a second off her time in the New Englands where she placed fourth behind Judy McCrone with a 10:45.5.

The two-mile relay team ran its best time of the season for the finals held on Sunday. The team of Cyndi Martin, Robyn Dally, Karolyn Shea and Judy McCrone ran its best race but couldn't compete with the team from Villanova University, which ran a new national collegiate record of 8:49.8 on the way to winning the finals. "We ran with the consistency that we needed to compete in the big meets. I was really pleased with the race," said captain Karolyn Shea.

Other top Minutewomen competing in the Easterns were Diana Sealey who ran a 58.5 in the trials of the quarter-mile and Micki Callahan who ran an 8.8 in the trials of the 60 yard hurdles. Sealey's time was the same as her time in the New Englands on February 23 when she placed third.

McCrone may travel to the Nationals at the University of Missouri where she is expected to run the 2000 meters. "As far as I know Judy is ranked 14th in the U.S. in the two-mile. Since Judy had qualified for the Nationals in the two-mile at the New Englands we decided that she should run the mile in the Easterns," coach Arnie Morse said.

"The finals went out too fast. I was planning to go through the quarter in 72 seconds but ended up going through in 68 and I was in next to last place even then. But if you mess with the best, you lay with the rest," McCrone joked. The mile was won by Harvard's Darlene Beckford who set a meet and national collegiate record with her run of 4:32.3.

Gymwomen win after scoring error

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

In an exciting turn of events, the women's gymnastics team posted a victory over nationally ranked Michigan State University in Saturday's meet due to a mathematical error, 135.50-135.40.

This, their ninth consecutive triumph, will be an important factor in determining if the gymwomen will be one of the teams chosen to compete in the regionals. Only the top four teams in the East participate in this event. The Minutewomen are 9-2 on the season.

Two outstanding performances by the gymwomen gave UMass the edge after the first event 34.55-34.20. Lisa Martin and Liz Marino tied for first place in the vault with an 8.9. For Michigan, Bonnie Eillis scored an 8.75 to take third place.

It was here that the fateful mistake occurred. When the scores for this event were tallied the result was UMass 34.55-Michigan State 34.3. However, in actuality, Michigan State only accumulated 34.2 points. Gymwomen coach Virginia Evans discovered the error Saturday evening, but it didn't become official until yesterday mormimg when the head judge of the meet verified that an error in addition did indeed occur.

Top score for the uneven parallel bars was an 8.7 by State's Mary Beth Egel. For UMass, Liz Marino scored an 8.35 and Heidi Milendor and 8.25. After two events the score was 67.45-65.65.

Bonnie Eillis scored a 9.3 and Pam Sweeney an 8.6 to give Michigan first place in the beam event. Senior co-captain Laurie Knapp, in her last home meet, had the best score for the Minutewomen with an 8.5.

UMass' Liz Marino scored a phenomenal 9.3 in the floor exercises, tying her with Ellis for the highest individual score of the afternoon. State's Alice Hagen and Bonnie Eillis also turned in remarkable performances scoring a 9.10 and a 9.05 respectively.

Amato named NE coach of the year

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

"Coach Amato has done a great job," said assistant wrestling coach Dave Foxen early last week, and Sunday eight coaches from all over New England voiced their agreement voting UMass head coach David Amato the 1980 New England coach-of-the-year. Amato ruined another year of Rhode Island's domination of the New England University Wrestling Championship Meet held this past weekend at the University of Connecticut with three winners, two seconds and two thirds in his wrestling squad.

"It was nice," Amato said, "Coach Foxen deserves half of the award. He helped me out a lot, especially with Mike Carroll."

158-pound Carroll came back with an award of own – the Roger Leathers Trophy. Carroll was voted by the coaches as the outstanding wrestler in the weekend long tourney. Carroll upset top seed and two time champ Dom Macchia of the Unvirsity of Rhode Island. Macchia had also received last year's trophy for chalking up the most falls in the least time.

Carroll, 190-pound Bill McQuade and heavyweight John Allen were main factors in a winning force that stopped Rhode Island's annual domination of the New Englands. The three combined for as many wins as URI, chalking up just two points less than URI in total team score.

"It was disappointing, we wanted to beat them," Amato said. "We put a scare in them anyhow," Amato added with a wide grin.

Allen, McQuade and Carroll will have their sights set on the nationals to be held March 13-15 in Corvallis, Oregon. "They're all going out there with a better attitude than they had last year," Amato said. Allen and Larry Otsuka, now graduated, went last year. "They're all hard workers and all three have a good chance of playing," he said.

The UMass wrestlers will be facing men from all over the country, 32 in each weight class.

Dave Amato

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 97 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Wednesday, March 5, 1980

Massachusetts primary

GOP results

Anderson 31+%

Bush 31%
Reagan 29%
Baker 5%
Others 4%

Democratic results

Kennedy 65%

Carter 29%
Brown 4%

Anderson surprises, Ted gets solid win

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press

BOSTON – Rep. John Anderson surged from the Republican field to hold Ronald Reagan and George Bush to startling standoffs yesterday night in the Vermont and Massachusetts presidential primaries. Sen. Edward Kennedy gained landslide victory at home in Massachusetts, but President Carter swamped him in Vermont.

Anderson maintained his slim lead as the Collegian went to press early this morning. Final counts were not expected until as late as 7 a.m. today in the extremely tight GOP race in the Bay State. Anderson consistently maintained a 1-2 percent leader over his opponents in ballot counts up until 1 a.m. this morning.

Anderson led by a handful of votes as the Vermont vote neared completion. He had led throughout most of the evening but Reagan earned a spurt of late votes from a number of rural towns.

Anderson remained narrowly ahead in Massachusetts.

The white-thatched congressman from Illinois, was the big gainer in a two-primary day. After campaigning as a lonely, liberal outsider, he earned his credentials as a contender in contests to come.

Kennedy was gaining 65 percent of Massachusett's Democratic vote. He told a Boston victory rally that his victory proves the voters "will not tolerate an inflation rate of 20 percent and an interest rate of 17 percent," and want the wage-price freeze he advocates.

"We have faced adversity and disappointment" in the challenge to Carter, he said, but none so serious as the economic woes facing the American people.

Anderson succeeded in validating his claim that the Republican race has not narrowed to a two-candidate affair between Reagan and Bush.

With more than two-thirds of the Massachusetts precincts counted, Anderson was gaining 31 percent of the vote, Bush 31 percent and Reagan 29 percent.

In Vermont, Anderson and Reagan each had 31 percent, and Bush was well back at 22 percent.

That left the candidates short of the 40 percent required to win any delegates there; they will be chosen later at a state party convention.

The three GOP leaders were to divide about equally most of Massachusetts' 42 Republican delegates.

Reagan said he was not unhappy to be in a three-way tie in Massachusetts.

Reagan and Bush, who had struggled for the elusive mantle of Republican frontrunner, and left the Republican field without a clear leader. This could make it easier for former President Gerald R. Ford to enter the competition belatedly.

Anderson's support was bouyed by a hefty turnout of independent voters in the Republican primaries in both states. That won't be available to him later in closed primaries where only registered Republicans can vote.

Area voting; students express views

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

Large numbers of voters turned out yesterday in Amherst, Sunderland and Shutesbury. A lighter turnout was reported in Hadley.

Reports from Northampton, Belchertown, South Hadley and Pelham were not available last night. Sunderland reported a 23 percent voter turnout and a 22 percent turnout was reported in Shutesbury.

UMass students apparently are voting for candidates on the basis of how they stand on the issues.

"I like Anderson's views and admire the fact that he has the guts to stand up for his beliefs," said Matt Bannister, a freshman Communication Studies major. "I like his gas tax proposal. I think the American people have to realize that our problems are going to take time to solve."

"I voted for Anderson because I like all his policies," said Carol Morine, a junior Wildlife/Biology major. "I especially liked his pro-abortion stand and his support for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment."

"I voted for Kennedy because I guess he is the least of evils." said a student who wished to remain anonymous. "I don't feel any of the candidates reflect my interests. If I had my way, I would vote socailist. I think, in a sense, Kennedy is the 'liberal of the liberals'. He is not falling into sabre-rattling rhetoric."

"I voted for Carter because I think every president should have at least two terms consecutively in office, " said a junior Art major. "A president needs a certain amount of time to get a policy under way."

"I like Anderson because he is against the draft and he comes across as a very honest man," said Howard F. Goldman, a junior Sports Management major. "He has fresher ideas than all the other candidates and he is not afraid to stick his neck out."

"I voted for Kennedy because he is from Massachusetts and I don't like Carter," said Paul Mousesian, a senior majoring in Accounting.

"I voted for Carter," said a freshman, because of the way he handled the Iranian crisis. I think having Kennedy compete with Carter has toughened Carter up a lot. I have a feeling Carter is going to win in November."

Sophomore Susan Walker votes during yesterday's primary. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

CARP members and students engage in an impromptu debate yesterday at the CARP table in the Campus Center Concourse (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Students challenge CARP in spontaneous CC debate

By MICHAEL SILVA
Collegian Staff

An unscheduled open debate between Herb Mayr, member of the Collegiate Association for the Research into Principles (CARP) and students standing 10 deep at the CARP table took place yesterday on the Campus Center Concourse.

Mayr, at times standing on a chair to better address his large audience, accused the Board of Governors of attacking CARP by "using student money behind closed doors" to subsidize a BOG table beside the CARP table. The BOG table was distributing information on the CARP organization.

"They're attacking us," Mayr said. "They used $400 of student money. Why don't they attack a frat or the volleyball team."

However, Mayr admitted in a private interview afterward that he didn't know how much money the BOG spent on stocking the table. "We were told by the person who xeroxed it (the material) that it cost $400," said Mayr.

BOG members, at their meeting Thursday, said they were setting up a table because CARP members are "collecting the names and numbers of possible recruits under false pretenses."

Action to confirm any illegality in CARP's actions could include CARP's unapproved solicitation of funds and sales of magazines. The board denied CARP permission to collect funds, board member Curtis Wohlers said.

"This is an information table, any group can disseminate information," said Scott Brown and Tom Oliver, who helped to man the BOG table yesterday.

"We are elected representatives of the students. Our meetings are open meetings. Anyone can attend. We're not required to contact anyone," said Larry Ruth, treasurer for the BOG.

Some students chanted "Not through Moon" when Mahr said that CARP wanted righteousness in America.

The large group surrounding the CARP table was disbanded when Thad Dabrowski, an Administrative Assistant, took Mayr aside and informed him the CC table policy required no loud noise and an uncongested concourse. "We want to run an orderly house," said Dabrowski.

'You killed my brother'

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

As Herb Mayr was speaking at 11:30 yesterday morning in the Campus Center, a woman rushed past the CARP table shouting at Mayr, "You people killed my brother. He jumped out a window because of Moon."

The woman wishes to remain nameless because she fears retaliation from Moon's supporters. She told the story of her 24-year-old brother, Jose Martinez, a Pre-med major, who withdrew from Queens University after joining the Unification Church.

Martinez went with the Unification Church to a sort of training ground in Tarrytown, N.Y. He was originally to stay there for 21 days, but was not released for "between five to six weeks," she said. When the family called to see how Martinez was doing, they were told they could not speak to him, she said

"We knew he was there," she continued, "but whenever we called, they told us he wasn't there or that he couldn't talk to us."

What appealed most to her brother was the free clothing and food provided by the church, she said. "At first, Jose, like hundreds of other students, went to the rallies in

TURN TO PAGE 7

DIGEST

UN vote mixup admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance took responsiblility yesterday for a "foulup" in which the United States voted for a U.N. resolution critical of Israel's occupation of east Jerusalem.

The U.S. vote in favor of the resolution touched off a diplomatic and political furor and President Carter issued a statement Monday night saying the vote had been an error and was cast in the mistaken belief that references to Jerusalem had been deleted.

Loan rate reaches record 17¼

NEW YORK (AP) — With businesses still lining up to borrow money despite record-high interst rates major banks yesterday raised their prime lending rates to a record 17 1/4 percent.

The increase, begun by Chase Manhattan Bank and matched by nearly every major bank, came in response to new signs the Federal Reserve is determined to tighten credit.

Mass. n-waste buried illegally

WASHINTON (AP) — A former bookkeeper at a South Carolina dump for low-level nuclear waste has told state authorities that highly radioactive nuclear spent fuel from Massachusetts has been buried illegally at the site.

Susan Byers Lott, a former employee of Chem-Nuclear Systems Inc., said yesterday she told investigatiors in South Carolina that 26 shipments of spent fuel arrived for burial at the low-level waste site from a Boston Edison Co. nuclear plant between mid-1977 and January 1978.

Commission to see hostages

(Associated Press) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini yesterday overruled Iranian militants holding American hostages inside the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, and consented to a meeting between the approximately 50 captives and a U.N. commission investigating the regime of the deposed shah, President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Union members seek end to employee parking s fees

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

Twenty-five UMass members of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees gathered at the State House in Boston Monday to support a bill calling for the abolition of parking fees for UMass employees while working an assigned shift.

The union members led by Local 1776, Council 93 President Jonathan Tuttle, represented the custodial, operations, grounds, campus center and food services departments of the University's physical plant.

The bill, House Bill 2116, is sponsored by Rep. Steven J. Karol D-Attleboro, a 1968 UMass graduate, and Rep. William R. Nagle Jr, D-Northampton. It states: "Notwithstanding any provisions of any law to the contrary, no employee of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst shall be required to pay a parking fee for the use of University parking facilities while that employee is working any assigned duty shift."

Tuttle, Council 93's legislative director Peter Wright, and Roland 'Shorty' Messier, head janitor of the Southwest Residential Area, spoke in support of the bill. Caroll Drew of the State Labor Council for Hampshire and Franklin Counties also spoke in the bill's favor, as did representatives from the Massachusetts Teachers Association and the National Association of Government Employees, Tuttle said.

The University spoke in oppositon, he added.

The bill is a response to the $22 million Campus Center and Garage complex cost being passed on to students and University employees through the parking tax, Tuttle said.

Essay, 'The Door Waltz,' cites woes of equal rights adjustment

By JEFF MERRIHUE

Editor's note: The following is one of four runner-up entries in an essay contest co-sponsored by the Collegian Women's Dept. and the Massachusetts Press Association.

Sherry Lansing has been selected as chief executive for Universal Studios. At a salary of $300,000 per year, she is the first woman ever to run a major motion-picture studio.

Contrary to a few stubborn, predictable rumours, she did not "sleep her way to the top." Sherry Lansing is a talented, qualified exective who was a guiding force behind two of the year's biggest hit movies; the trendy China Syndrome and the critically acclaimed Kramer vs. Kramer. Times have changed.

The older women in my family are all housewives, as were their mothers and grandmothers, and this stereotype was bred into me. I had been taught to offer women my seat on a bus and to hold doors for them. While working in advertising I expected to meet women secretaries, operators and cashiers. Of course, they would always be referred to as "girls." A woman with a businessman would be either his secretary or wife. In my mind, at an early age women had settled into a comfortable, unthreatening stereotype.

Bam!! Like a thunderclap the women's movement burst into the public eye under the issue umbrella of the Equal Rights Amendment and Equal Opportunity Employment. Marilyn French published the highly acclaimed Women's Room and now Sherry Lansing runs Universal Studios.

I have been shaken. The comfortable, unthreatening stereotype I had imagined has fallen apart. The younger women in my family, sisters and cousins, will encounter the challenges of careers rather than the drudgery of full-time housekeeping.

In the world of advertising I was surprised to find women in nearly half of the managerial positions and just as surprised when confronted with male secretaries, operators, and cashiers. While working on advertising with male and female co-managers at K-Mart I directed my attention to men, felt guilty, then to women, felt uncomfortable, and then uneasily back to men. On buses, offering seats with the idea of the "weaker sex" just isn't done anymore, and at doors I clumsily dance the door waltz; me first, she first, us first.

The women's movement is growing stronger. One-sided ideals I grew up with are no longer acceptable as I try to integrate new equalities into my life. Although resolving who sits, who stands, and who holds the door are not primary concerns, they are symbolic of the more important issues concerning who gets which job and who gets how much. Five years of a powerful women's movement has made me sympathetic and cooperative and, hopefully, five more years will make me comfortable with these new realities.

Sherry Lansing got her job competing with men. Maybe in the future she will be competing with men and women, and I will have mastered the door waltz.

University & Office Supplies
Desk Organizers
& Desk Trays
A.J. Hastings Inc.
newsdealer & stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK
Wednesday-March 5
Come & Learn More About:
Anti-Nuke Organizing
Radicalization of Women through Social Change Movements
Asian American Women
Influence of the Media on Violence toward Women: Rape
Politics of the Lesbian Family
Palestinian Women in the Liberation Struggles
Older Nontraditional Women
Union Organizing
Abortion Action Coalition
Also:
Panel: The Role of Women in Social Change
Film: "My People Are My Home" "Babies and Banners" for more info - Time & Place
Campus Center Info Desk

GOING SOUTH?

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

INTERESTED IN A CAREER IN THE JEWISH PROFESSIONS?
Rabbi Barry Starr, Director of Recruitment at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City discusses undergraduate and graduate programs in all areas of Judaica.
Thursday, Mar. 6 12 noon-2:00 pm
Hillel, 302 Student Union
For an individual appointment, call 545-2526

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
Sandwiches · Cold Cuts
Bagels · Salads
OPEN AT 9AM-7DAYS · 549-6314
FRI. & SAT.
'til 10 PM

LSAT
GMAT/GRE
John Sexton's
TEST PREPARATION CENTER
CLASSES NOW FORMING FOR SPRING EXAMS
IN AMHERST, HARTFORD, NEW HAVEN & STORRS
You've worked hard in college but so has everyone else who's taking the test — Sexton Test Preparation Courses can give you a real edge.
CALL COLLECT: 413-733-2940
77 MAPLE STREET, SUITE ONE
SPRINGFIELD, MA 01105
"AMERICA'S LEADING EXPERTS IN TEST PREPARATION"

FUN, FUNK & PUNK
Antique & Special Costume Jewelry
Look for WENDY
at: CC Concourse
CASH PAID for class rings, gold silver & costume jewelry
Weds 3/5 & Fri 3/7
(and twice a week every week!)

COMMUNITY ORGANIZERS
ACORN needs organizers to work with low and moderate income families in 19 states (AR, SK, TX, LA, TN, MO, FL, CO, NV, PA, IA, OK, MI, AZ, NC, GA, SC, CA, CT) for political and economic justice. Direct action on neighborhood deterioration, utility rates, taxes, health care, redlining etc. Get a job that makes change. Long hours, low pay—training provided.
Contact University Placement Service for interview Wed. March 12 or write Kaye Jaeger, ACORN, 404 Lodi St., Syracuse, NY 13203 (315) 476-5787.

Student Government Association presidential candidates debate last night in a forum sponsored by the Collegian. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

SGA presidential hopefuls face UM issues in forum

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

Racism, sexism, campus safety, UMass budget cuts and tuition hikes were among a number of topics addressed by 14 Student Government Association co-Presidential hopefuls at a two and one-half hour forum last night.

In a round robin fashion, candidates answered questions asked by one representative each from the Collegian, Nummo, the Women's Issues Team of the Student Center for Educational Research Advocacy and WMUA. Moderated by Ed Levine of the Collegian, the forum attracted about 150 people and included three questions from each representative allowing the seven candidacies one minute each to answer questions.

Candidacies included Joan Heffler and Joel Brava, a resident assistant of James House in the Southwest Residential Area, representing a coalition of 13; SGA co-President and student trustee Rich LaVoice and Rich Moran, assistant to SGA Treasurer Bill Fitzgerald, and financial chairman of the Board of Governors; state delegate for President Carter and SGA ex-officio Senator Kim Kirschner and SGA senator and Distinguished Visitors Program chairman Howard Goldman.

Also running are Mike and Joe Sullivan; Ken Marquis, resident assistant of John Adams Tower in Southwest; Scott Cashman, a floor representative of that dorm; former Orchard Hill Area Government Vice-President Jim Sheean and Orchard Hill Senator Bob Weatherwax; and SGA Senator Michael Ferrigno and student judge and BOG member Michael Cohen.

Cohen, who appeared at the forun. with Ferrigno, said afterward he has changed his running mate to SGA Budget Committee member Kathy Manners. Candidates James Kelly and Ruth Leimone did not attend the forum.

All the candidacies agreed on several key issues posed by the questioners. These included increased student participation in SGA through communication and outreach efforts; combating overt and covert forms of racism and sexism prevalent on campus; recognizing the Undergraduate Third World Caucus as a viable and productive part of SGA; improving campus safety and fighting UMass budget cuts and tuition hikes.

The question of requiring students to take "G-core" social awareness classes raised some discrepancies among answers, however.

"Racism, sexism and discrimination are still rampant on this campus. We feel the G-core is an adequate way of going about attacking this problem," said Kirschner. Her sentiment was later reflected by her co-candidate Goldman, who spoke favorably of the Third World Causus.

"On this campus the Third World is a minority and they cannot be overlooked. We have to realize that the Third World has special viewpoints that must be represented," Goldman said.

"Most people on this campus grew up in a WASP-type environment," said Weatherwax. "They do not see a black until they're a senior in high school and know nothing about women's issues. They get to college, and bang—they've got to deal with it. We support the G-core wholeheartedly as a means of educating people."

But Marquis, speaking for Cashman and himself, said, "We think it's wrong to force students to take a course they might have no interest in. That's a form of oppression right there."

What they said...

- 'Racism, sexism and discrimination are still rampant on this campus. We feel the G-core is an adequate way of going about attacking this problem.'
- 'We shouldn't alienate the administration. In order to get things done, we've got to work with Whitmore.'
- 'Most people on this campus grew up in a WASP-type environment. They do not see a black until they're a senior and know nothing about women's issues.'
- 'Some of what was said (in the Field Document) was true.'

"We're in favor of the G-core, (but) we don't think it should be offered as a requirement," the Sullivan team said.

The education offered by the G-core, "can help us with the problems we're facing," said LaVoice, who has supported the requirement during his tenure.

The candidates also disagreed in their responses to the "Field document," in which Dean of Students William F. Field charged the SGA with various kinds of misconduct.

Paula Haven, a UMass student working on an internship at Tillson Farms, takes Bunker out for some exercise. This horse is one of two thoroughbreds stabled at UMass. (Staff photo by Tim Connors)

Guess Who's not coming to dinner?

No, the Who will not be appearing at this year's Spring Concert. Despite rumors to the contrary and the recent appearance of posters in the Campus Center, Union Program Council spokesman Art Edelstein said yesterday the Who have not been signed up to appear at the concert, and will probably be on tour at that time.

UMass women back bill fighting sex harassment

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

Members of the Student Center for Educational Research and the Advocacy Women's Issues Team attended a State House press conference and hearing yesterday for House Bill 5172. The bill attempts to establish a uniform grievance procedure to deal with sexual harassment within government, education and working situations.

SCERA member Ellen Ginsberg said despite yesterday's Massachusetts primary, major Boston media covered the press conference. She said the bill received "favorable" support from members of the Joint Judiciary Committee of the House and Senate.

Testimony on incidents of sexual harassment was given by three UMass women, one Harvard woman and Phyllis Foster of the Ombudsman's Office, in addition to testimony from working women.

One UMass woman discussed her problem as a student worker: "The night manager was a man. He had a habit of putting his hands on my body — patting my rear end, tickling me, putting his arm around me - and making obscene remarks...I avoided coming near him. But he was persistent, and continued to harass me, in front of other workers and in front of customers." This woman was eventually fired by the manager due to her inability to withstand the situation.

"We would have more women here today

TURN TO PAGE 7

Speakers discuss problem of women's role changes

By DEBBIE ROBERTI
Collegian Staff

"Perspectives on Women, Family and Social Change," one of a series of workshops for International Women's Week, was held Monday by Andrea Rushing and Ann Ferguson. The discussion dealt mainly with women's changing roles in society and within the family.

Andrea Rushing, an Amherst College professor was sent as a representative at the Third World Women's Task Force to talk about some of the problems currently facing many black women.

Rushing emphasized the importance of family for black women, and that the women's movement, although justified, has developed into a direct attack on home life.

"What a black family gives is different," Rushing said. "There is a respect for both children and elders, and you learn that what I, the ego, wants is not the most important thing in the world." Rushing added,"but you're never too old to be criticized, and you're never too old to be petted."

Rushing discussed the stereotyped role of a feminist. "Being a feminist does not mean that you hate men and children," she said,

TURN TO PAGE 7

Black Affairs

Coaches and members of the Sugar and Spice Women's basketball team from left to right (top row) Coach Richard Herbert, Robyn Nelson, Kelly Butler, Wilma Tynes, Nancy Brooks, Marilyn Sargeant, Assistant Coach Richard Callander. (botton row) Rochelle Brown, Liz Skelton, Michelle Dozier and Darise Victory. (Photo by Chester Davis)

Sugar and Spice still undefeated

By JOYCE McLAURIN
Black Affairs Staff

Sugar and Spice, the only black female intramural basketball team at the University has been on a winning streak since the intramural season began at the end of January.

The team is comprised of twelve enthusiastic young women that really take the game of basketball very seriously, but also enjoy playing for the fun and excitement of the sport.

Their success is due mainly to their dedication. The team practices for 2 hours every Saturday under the supervision of the team's coaches Richard Herbert (Herbie), Richard Callander (Collie), and the team's trainer Leon Thomas. They inspire the girls and give them self confidence while also pointing out their mistakes.

Recently the team has started discussions after every game, speaking on plays, gripes and different ways to better themselves as a team. They feel that these discussions will relieve some of the tension that is among them, and also help their performance on the court.

While they are on the court performing their special talents everything falls right into place, Liz Skelton-guard, Michelle Dozier-guard, Kelly Butler-center, Wilma Tynes-forward and Robyn Nelson-forward, are the starting five for Sugar and Spice. The other members of the squad are: Carol Williams, Nancy Brooks, Marilyn Sargeant, Rochelle Brown, Velma Thomas, Darise Victory and Barbara Roche and they blend the right amount of spice, which makes every member a valuable asset to the team.

Last year the Sugar and Spice team went undefeated until the final game of the playoffs, in which they placed second in the womens intramural basketball. This year the team has new hopes and ideas, they want to finish on top by winning first place and remaining undefeated.

So far this season the squad has a 5-0 record and are practicing very hard so that they can remain one of the best women's teams in intramural basketball. Sugar and Spice are also involved in other sports as well, such as intramural track and Co-Recreational basketball, they are also starting an intramural softball team, both women's and Co-Rec.

So we all wish you the best of luck in the playoffs and hope you do become number one.

Front meets Security Forces

Turnout was impressive last week in spite of heavy rains, as up to three million Zimbabweans braved the elements—and long lines—in order to vote for a new independence government. With the possibility of inconclusive results, and widespread questions about the fairness of the process leading up to the elections, few were venturing to predict details of the election aftermath. As the election got under way, Julie Frederikse filed from Salisbury, while Tami Hultman and Reed Kramer sent in a report from Mozambique.

SALISBURY (AN) As some 300 guerrillas at assembly point Delta were converging on an open field near the northeastern Mozambican border, the hum of a helicopter was heard over the stomping of combat boots. The sound grew louder and the guerrillas paused to watch the chopper land by the abandoned, looted mission that serves as headquarters for the 37 Commonwealth troops assigned to monitor Delta camp. The top guerrilla commander was called out of parade formation and introduced to the visitors, shaking hands with one of the Rhodesian soldiers who had just flown in.

The meeting marked the first time that this particular group of Patriotic Front guerrillas and Rhodesian Secruity Forces met face to face in the field. It was one of a series of encounters out in the bush between the soldiers who have been fighting with each other for the past decade, the first phase of a program aimed at integrating Rhodesia's three separate armies.

Representatives of the Cease-fire Commission, which is chaired by Britain's Major General John Acland and includes top officers of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army (ZANLA), Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe People's Revolutionary Army (ZIPRA) and the Rhodesian Security Forces, with Commonwealth supervision, have been jointly touring the 16 assembly points around the country, where 22,000 guerrillas are confined. they have been discussing what is rather noncommittally referred to as "resettlement."

On the eve of the elections, General Acland announced what he described as the "first psychological step in merging the gap between the armies," the opening of a guerrilla retraining camp supervised by Commonwealth troops and staffed with instructors of the all-black Rhodesian African Rifles. This initial exercise involved a battalion of 650 ZIPRA guerrillas, moved out of an all-ZIPRA assembly point into a Rhodesian military battle school near the Botswana border.

ZANLA sources said they had understood that the programs for integrating the armies were to include a contingent of approximtely 350 troops each from ZANLA, ZIPRA and the Rhodesian forces, with an aim toward developing joint patrols. ZANLA commander Rex Nhongo privately interpreted the ZIPRA-only debut exercise as a political move to favor Joshua Nkomo, who has 6,000 guerrillas in the assembly points as compared with Mugabe's 16,000. lobbying vigorously for an assimilation of the armies before the numbers game becomes a factor in the formation of a government.

Taken torm Africa News March 3, 1980

Historical Analysis

By JAMES LEWIS

This article is one of a two part series by James Lewis. He sketches the turbulent history of the 1960's when the Civil Rights struggle was at its peak.

The 1960's was a period of social upheaval and African Americans were fighting their oppression on two fronts. The courts and the streets.

Leaders on these two theatres were Malcolm X and Martin Luther King. The Latter advocated non-violent confrontation of the nation's civil laws and oppression of African Americans while Malcolm X advocated confrontation to change the conditions of Blacks in America "by any means necessary," he said.

In 1964, when Malcolm X had just returned from Washington, D.C. where he watched our senators fillibuster (delay) the vote on the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It was shortly thereafter that Malcolm made his speech "Ballots or Bullets." In it he talked about the power of the Black man to destroy their oppression. He said that whites were so evenly divided in the political sphere that Blacks could control the outcome of any election of this country.

John Kennedy won the 1960 election by 118,574 votes, (Information Please, 1980). In Illinois Kennedy carried the State by 9000 votes and 250,000 black people in that state voted for Kennedy. In Michigan Kennedy carried the state by only 9000 votes and 250,000 black Michigan voters supported Kennedy in that election,(My Soul is Rested, by Howard Raines).

The Civil Rights Act was an ideal . Its basic purpose was to enforce the Rights of Blacks to vote by Federal law. There were still numerous states in the south that practiced various means to keep blacks from voting. Martin Luther King and his colleagues were responsible for the creation of the Civil Rights Act. Malcolm X said that if Blacks were not allowed to vote there would be bloodshed. He said that 1964 was the year of the "Ballot or the Bullet". He said that if Blacks were not allowed their constitutional right to vote then all that they could do was to fight.

In the 1960's roughly 45 percent of the African American population lived in the south... It was in the south that King concentrated his non-violent confrontation approach. Malcolm concentrated his efforts mainly in the north.

Malcolm said that Blacks should revolt against their oppression and that Blacks had the power to turn this country upside down. Malcolm said that blacks could cause such turmoil that the U.S WOULD APPEAR VULNERABLE TO ATTACK

Continued in Black Affairs on Friday March 7

CABBS Sponsors Meetings, Fund raising

The Committee for the Advancement of Black Business Students (CABBS) has now been in existence for over a year. The organization started out as an idea by two former black business students and it became a reality as many felt the need for such an organization. The goals of the organization are basically two-fold: (1). to attract more minority students into the school of business. (2). to act as a support group and provide resources to aid in the facilitation of their academics, once enrolled.

One form of the resources previously mentioned that we provide are workshops of pertinent information to students. The last workshop given was on interviewing and skills identification. Although we felt this workshop was very enlightening, unfortunately only six students participated.

Lack of student involvement is a serious problem that we are facing. We, officers believe CABBS can be a liable organization, but without your support CABBS cannot survive.

Future activities entail a bake sale, March 12, a fund raising disco, March 29, and a panel discussion on career planning with minority alumni. Our meetings are held on Thursdays at 6:00 pm at the New Africa House room 109. Again we do need you.

CABBS will be having three guest speakers at this weeks meeting. Topics addressed will be course requirements needed for those students aspiring to get into the School of Business. Other topics will be some of the career opportunities open to students so that they can become familiar with. This will be held at the New Africa House resource center. Refreshments will be served. All are welcomed to attend.

Announcements

Contest

The Malcolm X Center is having a contest for drawings on a new logo. Deadline: March 31, Prize $10.00. Please submit all entries to any staff member at the Center. UMass students are encouraged to submit original drawings to be printed on tee-shirts and pamphlets.

Committee Meeting

All students interested on being on the committee for Martin Luther King Week, there is going to be a meeting Friday, March 7, at 2:00 in room 308 (Office of Third World Affairs).

Political Study Group

Underway is the formation of a Black Political Economy Study Group. Any female or male Afro-American students and/or non-students in the Pioneer Valley/Five College Area are invited to participate. For sign-up or further information please call Steve Coons (549-4523 or 545-0472).

The Black Political Economy Study Group will have its first meeting this Sunday, March 9, 1980, 12:00 Noon at: A-7 North Village Apts., Amherst, Ma. 01002.

Give

Black Affairs

your support

Editorial/Opinion

Television places last

This is the Official Column...

It is the third period of the U.S./Finland Olympic hockey finals. America's quest for the gold medal rests upon this game; at the moment the score is 2-1 in favor of the Fins. A few minutes into the period, play is stopped for a face-off and once again ABC chooses to take advantage of this short break in the action to squeeze in a commercial. During the ad the U.S. scores the tying goal; when we return to the arena we are met with screaming spectators and a jubilant American team. The television audience, needless to say, is feeling angry and cheated. Although we are permitted to watch the instant replay of the goal at every conceivable camera angle, it does not carry the same impact as viewing it live.

DEBORAH WAYNE

After that incident ABC got wise and cut down on the number of commericals considerably. The last eight minutes or so of the game were void of products claiming to be the official_____of the 1980 Winter Olympics (you may fill in the blank during the next commerical break).

Monday morning goaltenders may argue that the director should not have gone to a commercial at that moment. Foresight, integrity, and intelligence dictate that the game should either have been broadcast commercial-free or with as few commercials as possible. The inherent nature of hockey, in fact, of most sports, is that it is volatile. A boring, one-sided contest may turn in a matter of moments, and not even Roone Arledge knows when.

If all this sounds idealistic and naive, it is. So long as popular programming continues to be financed in the manner it is today, there are going to have to be commercials. The issue here is that sports is no longer, if it ever was, televised purely for sports' sake. Those of us who settle down in a comfortable chair with a six-pack and a bag of Doritos to an afternoon of sports are barraged with hype, screaming sportscasters, drippy human interst stories, and "psuedo sports".

For example, think back on the latest Super Bowl. It was not enough to show us the competition between the Steelers and the Rams. There had to be variety shows preceding the game, flashy halftime shows, and promo after promo after promo lest we forget to watch. Are the networks sincerely afraid that sports are dull, or are they milking them for more than they're worth?

There is more to life than baseball and football (such as what?) but commerical TV isn't showing it. There are many sports in this wide world that have never received national exposure. I imagine that some of these would be interesting to view, maybe if only for the sheer novelty of them. We have the talent, the technology, and the air time to do so, but instead, we are subjected to "pseudo sports". By this I mean events that are given birth to by the networks and the tube. Basketball et all were not created so millions of fans would be delivered to advertisers. But "pseudo sports" such as "The Superstars" and "Challenge of the Sexes" are mere hype for the participants and money makers for the networks. With so many other real sports out there to adopt, who'd ever think the networks would need birth control?

Debbie Wayne is a Collegian columnist

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MOBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor

Associate Editors

Jeff Baker, Fran Basche, Ellen Davis, Carolyn Mooney, Hob Stein, Associate Managing Editors; Ed Levine, Brian O'Connell, Associate News Editors; Eric Janszen, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Marcia Hospedales, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Peter Berry, Associate Photo Editor; Abbe Bjorklund, Associate Fine Arts Editor; Jane Wolfson, Associate Sports Editor; Jeffrey Bianchi, Associate Graphics Manager

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Religion just ain't like beer

Not long ago some folks came to my door to show me their ideas. It's a common phenomenon these days—strangers confront you and try to give you their ideas.

When these people tapped on my screen door one summer morning, I was frying an egg.

RON ALLEN

The two smartly dressed women who greeted me had recruited an innocent child for the sales pitch. They began by asking about me, my education, my interests, and my family. They smiled often, talked intelligently, and were pleasant to be with.

However, when one of the women began reciting doctrine from a huge bible-like book, I became impatient. Finally, after assuring them that my current religious beliefs were doing fine, I paid ten cents for a descriptive brochure and they left. Unfortunately, the ten cents bought me a return visit two days later. These people were sure I didn't know which religion was best for me.

On another occasion, I was confronted by a man doing a beer survey in the Student Union Building. He represented a beer advertising research agency and he requested my cooperation.

"Sure," I said, "I'll answer some questions."

"What type of beer do you like most; Schlitz, Bud, Busch, Miller, Miller Light...?"

"No particular brand," I answered.

Then he asked, "When you're buying more than one six pack, which beer do you buy most often; Schlitz, Bud, Busch, Miller, Miller Light...?"

"I really don't buy one beer more than another," I replied.

"When you're in a bar, which beer do you order most often; Schlitz, Bud, Busch, Miller, Miller Light...?"

"Well," I replied, "When I'm in a bar, I ask what types of beer they have, and I order the first one they mention." The man looked disappointed; I hadn't declared un-wavering devotion to any one beer. He was equally disappointed when I couldn't tell him the exact time of day I tend to drink, how much beer I consume per week, or where I drink my beer.

The man wanted to stuff my into some sort of stastical pigeon hole but I wouldn't budge. I felt like saying, "I'm human, I don't drink X amount of beer-X at X-time of day, at X-location and X-times per week." I often go weeks without a beer, and I collect beer-cans so I buy a different brand every time. I apologized for not fitting into the data more nicely.

After the beer-survey man walked away, I came to an interesting realization.

To the man from the beer advertising research agency, beer was like religion. Everyone should have a prescribed and constant brand of beer. As soon as someone is born, the parents choose a brand of beer for him. From then on, if the child is pious, he will drink only that beer. Also, he will drink only a certain amount of that beer at a certain time and a certain place. (At the right time, a representative from the beer company might come and marry him to a nice girl who drank the same type of beer.)

Conversely, to the women who came to my door last summer, religion was like beer. If you got tired of one, you should consider shopping for another more tasty brand. Furthermore, if someone comes to your door selling religion, you should take a sip. It's got nice flavor, a good foamy head, and a flashy package, buy it. And then forget about the old religion; because, like the 'salesman' said, it had more calories, and it wasn't brewed from cool clear mountain stream water.

Thus I conclude that for some people in this crazy world, beer is like religion and for others religion is like beer.

Well, I've got to go now. You see, some strangers approached me the other day and invited me to a free dinner and I hear there will be all kinds of beer. I forget what they said the main course would be. I think it was something fishy, like carp; beer goes good with carp. What a bargain.

Ron Allen is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Grass may be greener right here

To the Editor:

A February 20 Collegian article, "Why Do They Turn Down the UM Proposition," reported the results of a recent SAREO survey of accepted but nonenrolling Fall 1979 freshman applicants. While much of the article was reasonably accurate, the reporter apparently could not resist a concluding inference that intentionally and unjustifiably deprecates the University.

Your reporter indicates that nonenrolling students' most frequent response to what UMass "could have done so you would have chosen it over the college you will attend" was "absolutely nothing." In fact, their response was "nothing." The "absolutely" was the reporter's embellishment. Moreover, his next statement, "Most students felt that UMass could in no way compare with their 'first choice' school," is a misleading fabrication which can be neither inferred from the survey results or supported by other data.

Picky? Perhaps. But such flagellant remarks and attitudes about the University are all too prevalent among some UMass students, who both poor-mouth the University yet bemoan its image as a back-up choice for many talented students. In fact, as many of you do appreciate, we are a quality institution located in a wonderful part of the world and offering the opportunity for a top-notch education at a very reasonable cost. Our problems are common to many large, public Universities, and our particular advantages (Five College Program, programmatic diversity, excellent faculty, location) set us apart from most.

Yet one senses a self-defeating (and perhaps self-fulfilling) aura of inferiority, apoligy, cynicism and "grass-is-greenersm" that works to diminish institutional morale and reputation. An exchange student from the Midwest recently remarked, "I really appreciated my semester here, but I was surprised that so many students put UMass down; no one ever had a good thing to say about it." While constructive, objective self-criticism is healthy, an unfounded, prevailing negativism may only exaccerbate problems.

UMass students can do more and better than they have in effecting positive changes, promoting an objective yet favorable image of the University and, thus, enhancing the value of their own degrees. For example, the Office of Freshman Admissions is developing a Student-Admissions Representative Program, in which UMass students spend 1-2 hours per week talking with visiting students and their parents, participating in Campus Open Houses and Visiting Sessions, and perhaps assisting in an outreach program to their high schools. The Admissions Office is also encouraging student input (we want to use your words) for next year's publications.

Here are two constructive ways among many others to "have your say" about UMass Call (545-0222) or drop by the Office of Freshman Admissions if you are interested in participating. In any case, think something nice today about your good old State U. Putting it down is simply the path of least resistance. Maintaining a University's integrity and well-being is finally dependent on the pride, confidence and support which its students invest in it.

Sincerely,
Timm Rinehart
Asst. Director of Freshman Admissions

Vermont Yankee: Past dictates future

To the Editor:

The Vermont Yankee Nuclear Plant is just 25 miles up the Connecticut River Valley from Amherst. It is the leakiest nuke in New England and has one of the five worst safety records in the U.S. with a history of leaks, spills and shutdowns. Vermont Yankee is currently operating with an N.R.C. safety waiver.

The Vermont Yankee Decommissioning Alliance, a tri-state group of concerned citizens dedicated to the permanent shutdown of this costly and dangerous facility, has slated the weekend of March 28-30 (the first anniversary of the Three-Mile Island accident) for vital action at the plant site. Your participation is needed for canvassing, petitioning, active support or however you may best fit in.

Brad Wye
SCANN
406 G Student Union

Luna at the Bluewall

By NORMA J. COATES
Collegian Staff

Luna, one of Boston's most popular club bands, played their energetic pseudo-glitter-rock for enthusiastic audiences at the Bluewall last Thursday and Friday night.

Their performance, resplendent with theatrics, was a far cry from their punk posturing of two years ago when the remnants of the reknowned Orchestra Luna were just starting to play in small Cambridge clubs. Such theatrics were necessary, for the music, though loud and dynamic, lacked something. Seriousness, perhaps, or maybe just a good strong dose of rock and roll. Despite his androgynous appearance, lead singer Rick Berlin is not David Bowie.

I'm not implying that this band doesn't have talent. Guitarist Steve Perry plays one of the most ferocious leads I've heard from a club band in a long time. His ability was demonstrated when he invoked a classical mood with a flute solo, then switched back to his guitar to trade some heavy riffs with drummer Joe Petruzelli. Joining Petruzelli in the rhythm section was bassist Chet Cahill (I love his purple leather pants). Together, they laid down a solid, driving base which supported the group when Berlin's theatrics got a bit ridiculous.

Berlin's theatrics are a disguise for the band's major weakness, songs which lack good lyrics and conviction. Lyrics like: "I hate everything but I think I like you/I hate everything but you" would be more forceful with a punk beat, but Luna's going for glitter by way of Kansas, so lines like that just sound stupid.

A strong point of the band is their energy. They can really rock when they want to, as evidenced by a rollicking cover of "Tell Me Why," a tasty old Beatles rocker. A few more songs like that would certainly make them more interesting—and danceable.

★ L'Amoureuse

CONT. FROM PAGE 10

of behavior and emotion, all of it marked by sincerity. The one tone missing from the chord was a note of ostensibly-blithe sophistication such a women would surely have.

In the role of Etienne, the husband, Rich Martin had an extremely complex character to master. Etienne is a scientist, poet, lover, prude, philosopher, greybeard and adoles cent at the same time; kind of a combination of Byron, Henry Higgins,and Babbitt. Unfortunately, Martin did not quite manage to put all the pieces together. By dint of determined effort he was able to embody various of the characteristics at various times, but, because of lack of some vital vertebrae in his characterization, he never emerged as fully supported or convincing. He lacked the vitality, combined with a totally unself-conscious bearing, necessary to make Etienne believable as the oject of adoration to so many women — including his wife; presumably a woman of no mean judgement.

Despite its' shortcoming, the production was fairly effective in portraying the heart-spraining frustration that a protracted marriage often engenders.

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
2 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON OR AMHERST
MICHELIN - GOODYEAR - LEE - ZENITH - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
Cash & Carry TIRES Cash & Carry
All our tires are new and first line. No Blems or Seconds.
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

CONSUMER NOTE
WHEN COMPARING PRICES, MAKE SURE YOU ALSO COMPARE QUALITY GRADES, EFFECTIVE APRIL 1979 THE N.H.T.S.A. GRADED REGULAR BIAS-PLY TIRES (STANDARD •100) AS FOLLOWS:

NAME	QUALITY GRADE*
FIRESTONE (DLC)	80
ZENITH (PE)	80
GOODYEAR (POWERSTREAK)	70
WOOLCO (ALL AMERICAN)	70
SEARS (GUARDSMAN)	60
K-MART (KM-50)	50

* The higher the No.: the longer the tire will last.
DON'T FORGET! IT'S YOUR MONEY
CASH AND CARRY VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN Mon.-Fri., 9:30-5 Sat., 9:30-1
586-2544

A career in law— without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 3,000 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12

The Institute for Paralegal Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(215) 732-6600
operated by Para-legal, Inc.
Approved by the American Bar Association.

ATTENTION
UNDERGRADUATES
The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be offered
Wed. March 5, 1980 8:00 PM
in Mahar
500 word essay
more info call 545-0610

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—
Wednesday
All Night Happy Hour
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required
to purchase alcohol

THE FREE COLLEGE RING (seriously)

HERE'S HOW:
TRADE IN a man's gold High School ring (limit one per sale).
CHOOSE any Siladium• class ring. (Siladium is a fine quality jewelers' alloy guaranteed for a lifetime.)
SAVE on a new gold College ring with the trade-in of a man's gold High School ring.
ORDER NOW
March 5, 6, 7 Wednesday Thursday Friday
10 am - 3 pm $15 deposit at the UNIVERSITY STORE

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

David Whitman
Hair Shack
is proud to announce
Roger Davignon
and
Richard D'Amico
have joined our talented staff

124 Amity Street
Amherst
549-5111

David Whitman
Hair Shack
A Total Service Salon

★ Brother

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Yankee Stadium and discovered the church provided clothing and food for the followers. They didn't pay for anything," she said.

When he came home from his stay in Tarrytown, she said, Jose was a changed man.

"He called Moon 'the divine father' and his eyes were glazed," she said. She told her brother he should keep his eyes open and not believe anything blindly.

He was then kept in a New York City hotel which Moon had bought for close to $10 million, she said. Martinez was never allowed out alone, she said, and when she finally contacted him on the phone, he told her, "I'm beginning to see the real thing for this."

"I didn't trust them because nothing is ever given away for free," she said.

A week after he came back to the city from Tarrytown, she continued, they wanted him to help with organizational work, such as pamphletting. He refused to do the work, however, and as a result of pressure exerted on him by the church, he fled to Austin, Texas.

At that point, she said, her brother wanted to expose the church for what it was, but didn't out of fear for himself and his family. The family thought he needed psychiatric help, but nobody could be sure, and he returned to New York confused and disoriented. Soon after, he leapt from a tenth-floor window and killed himself, she said.

"I almost sent my daughters with Jose to Yankee Stadium. I thank God my daughters and I did not get involved." "If the Student Government knows anything," she added, "they'll never give (CARP)Recognized Student Organization status."

"Students think they'll be able to withstand the pressure, but Jose told me they pounded the religion into him. They would wake up early, and pound religion into the students. Then they would serve free lunch and then pound more religion into them," she said.

"I had a brother who could have been a doctor today," she finished.

★ Changing roles

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

"yet, today there are very few black women that call themselves feminists."

Ann Ferguson, a philosophy professor at UMass, spoke about the feminist movement's origins in Russia, China and the United States. "Most feminist movements," Ferguson said, "were established from other freedom struggles, such as the civil rights and anti-war movements."

Ferguson also pointed out that the roles of housewife and mother are not expected of women anymore. Yet, in order to keep their independence, women must be strong and able to "attack racism and sexism because they are oppressive forces," she said.

Concerning women and family, Ferguson discussed many of the changes occurring in the home, "Women struggle to equalize their relationships with men," she said. "Women also have the right to organize their families according to their sexual preferences," she said, in reference to single and lesbian parenthood.

★ Harassment

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

but for the fear of retaliation implicit in most sexual harassment situations," Representative Barbara Gray said. "It is precisely this fear which has kept the issue underground for so long." Gray is sponsoring the bill.

The Judiciary Committee plans to make a recommendation on the bill to the House and Senate before the vote. Rep. Gray is also planning a day-long event in April at the State House to publicize the bill and the problem of sexual harassment.

Forum planned

Northeast Area government is sponsoring a campus-wide "Meet the SGA Candidates" night tomorrow at 7:30 in Basics Dining Commons. Students with questions or comments for Student Government Association candidates should plan to attend.

Sick of D.C. Food?

Well, come have free dinner and Beer while phoning Alumni all over the U.S. during Phonthon '80. Funds raised go toward special programs and events for the University. Phonothon runs Mon.-Thurs., 6 PM at Memorial Hall. For more information call Ed at 545-2317

Phonothon '80

Eagle Eye Case Sale!

Finast

1. Save on a single can, package or bottle.
2. Save more on half-case purchases.
3. Save most on full-case purchases.

The more you buy... the more you Save!

Full case too heavy or bulky for you? We'll help you save! Full cases may be ordered using the form available at our full-case display. We'll have your order waiting at the checkout counter.

Del Monte Sweet Peas 3 17 oz. cans $1
half case of 12 $3.79 full case of 24 $7.49

Del Monte Tomato Sauce 6 8 oz. cans $1
half case of 36 $5.69 full case of 72 $11.29

Finast Hadley Beer & Wine Shoppe!
Case of 24-12 oz. cans Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer $5.95
Case of 24-12 oz. N.R. bottles Michelob Beer $7.75
Red, White or Rose 25.4 oz. bottle Lancers Wine $3.25

Welchade Grape Drink 2 46 oz. cans $1
full case of 12 $5.79

Clorox Bleach 4¢ Off Label 2 half gallon jugs $1
full case of 8 $3.79

Del Monte Corn Cream Style or Whole Kernel 3 17 oz. cans $1
half case of 12 $3.79 full case of 24 $7.49

Grade A Finast Tom Turkeys Frozen with Pop-Up Timer 18-22 lb. avg. 69¢ lb.

Underblade Chuck Roast USDA Choice Beef Chuck Bone-In $1.69 lb.

Pure 1 Chicken Breast with Rib Cage The only chicken processed without chemicals and water $1.09 lb.

Fresh Pork Steak Fresh Shoulder Butt Bone-In $1.09 lb.

Freshly Sliced Cooked Ham Domestic half pound 99¢
Available in Stores with Service Deli

Florida Pink Seedless Grapefruit 36 Size Box of 36 5 for $1

Prices effective Wed., March 5 thru Sat., March 8, 1980 at Finast Supermarkets Only!
First National Supermarkets, Inc., 1980. We reserve the right to limit quantities. Not responsible for typographical errors. Illustrations are for design purposes only and do not necessarily depict products on sale.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

 Steve Garfield ***
brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound"

JVC Cassette Deck Mk II ANRS. Professionally maintainenced. Originally $300., $125. Call Phil 323-7365

Matching Amp & Turntable must sell, come see Joe 546-7925

Sony Stereo Music System Cassette Corder call 546-6899 BO

Harman Kardon 430 40 watts ESS 8 Speakers BIC 960 asking $425 546-1126

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best bet-nights & mornings.

74 Pinto Station autom 51000 M 2300 ccm good cond $800 call 549-1888

Fiat 124 Sedan exc mechanical condition. Some rust. 586-0871

Convertible 67 Buick Wildcat only 80 thousand, strong engine, restorable classic 400 Mark 586-1322, 546-8908

73 Mod Mercury Stw new A.T. no rust 9 seats A.C. P.S. P.B. ex. cond. $1399 or BO 549-4373

Stn. Wgn. 73 Chrysler T & C needs some work but runs well $400 Sandy after 6:30 323-5711

FOR RENT

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

Rooms for Rent $125/mo plus in private home on bus rte in Sunderland. Available Spring and/or Summer 665-7500

FOR SALE

Diving Gear new US Divers Equip call Ted at 549-6488

Complete Goaltenders Equipment from skates to mask all Cooper and Bauer call Nick 253-9074

Sears Free Spirit 10 sp needs repair $60 or BO 549-6377 eves

Put some plush in your life. Brand new carpet remnents for sale. Perfect for cold dorm room floors. Many colors and sizes -cheap prices. Call 546-7491 or come buy and check them out 416 Thoreau

Tyrolia 260D bindings 45$ 546-6763 Neil

Used Ski Boots men 10½, Ladies 7½ both $50 Paul 665-3024

New Stereo Components—Cheap fully guaranteed TVS Calculators, typewriters, cameras, more 7:30-8:30 pm only 546-3276

Guitar Guild-Madiera w case $100 call John 253-2881

Kinks Tickets sixth row 6-9087 6-9085

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found brown & white beagle type dog in Brit. Manor area Call 253-3915

Found 2 puppies abandoned Sat night 1 white 1 tan must either return or find homes call Doug 549-0148

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs summer/year round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1,200 monthly. -Expenses paid. Sightseeing. Free information write: IJC, Box 52-MC, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

Free Blood Cholesterol Test male students, non-runners, non-weight trainers wanted for Ex. Sci. research project call Lou 253-7507

Jobs will be scarce this summer. A nationwide firm will pay a maximum of money, for a minimum amount of time. If you have from 12-30 hours of free time each week now, or this summer, your own car and are willing to work in your hometown or school town and surrounding areas. Write: Quality Unlimited PO Box 41 Easthampton, MA 01027

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons all styles. Beginners welcome for a free trial lesson. You choose the music you want to learn experienced instructor call Nick at 253-9074 leave message

Basic Auto Mechanics Workshop 28 hours of instruction including classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-7967 or write for brochure Autoskills, Box 210, Amherst

Sentics Workshop—"The Miracle of the Possible" call Elizabeth Paton 413 549-3880

Japanese Calligraphy Lessons call Eriko 6-1473

LOST

Lost Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at anytime 549-6219. Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

Man's silver ring w/turquoise. If fd please call Leigh at 6-1134

Blue parka Herter basement name in jacket - please - Greg 253-3923

Lost small blue backpack containing books Friday 2/29 if found please call 6-7174

Lost dorm keys key chain says Rod call Vicki at 6-7310 or 6-8[illegible]

2 notebooks Satire & Spanish Peter Ross 6-5355 $5

Lost silver plated cross If found please call Peter at 546-4624 REWARD THANKS

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR RIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Sex! Blood! Lust! Experience it Friday night at Mahar Aud. with Andy Warhol's X-rated Dracula at 7, 9, & 11

Meeting of Men Against Violence Against Women group Wed March 5, 7:30 CC 801

Wanted 1 or 2 Kinks tickets call Bob 549-5877

Ride needed to Wellesley anytime between 4 and 6 AM, Saturday

MASS PIRG Organizing Meeting Wednesday March 5 4:30 Rm 303 CC

For Dan: Said he to she "I love you true" said she to he "I know you do" "For these four years I've lived in bliss, inside your arms, within your kiss, for these four years I've known your heart, And I'm so sure it's just the start" said she to he "I love you true" said he to she "I know you do"

Stan—It feels great!! Love ya Jean

Anne—Thanks for the punch. I'd like to see you at Cashin, Sunday—Bill

Gwen; I met you Sunday walking to Coolidge. Where are you? Look at Kennedy, you'll find me! Call

Marie—Always look to the sun and you'll never see the shadows. Luv ya! SGA, DGG

Chew Hong--Got any left over Chow Hok Ming Mein?--Juloid

Thanks M.J.! your little sister

Pete Jacke call Macky 665-7923

T.C. on 10 water on the ankle? Wait till it's knee deep. We've only just begun. Penny & her 6'4 240 lb. sister

Dear Gdfumscc, We have taken your recommendation into consideration. Please do not send Ray looking for us

Joanne Have a good 22 love Michael

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Wash D.C. March break will share $ call Carole 6-4847

To Syracuse NY for one or two people leaving Fri. March 14 call 6-7320 or 6-7321

Hey you with a car! We need a ride to Ft. Lauderdale or surrounding area for spring break! Can leave from NY or Boston. Call Stephanie 546-1454

Ride wanted to Washington DC Fri March 14 Spring Break will share $ please call Debbie 323-6843

Wanted ride to Ithaca NY on March 6 or 7 will share expenses call Scott 253-7820

Ride wanted to Florida for Spring Break will share driving and expenses call Mary 546-8317

I need a ride to Darien, Conn. area on Friday March 7 and returning on March 9. Please call Diane at 546-5417 will share expenses. Thanks.

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

In Northwood Apts own room $105 mo. + elec. 665-2838 eves

Roomate wanted spacious, quiet, 2 bedroom apartment in Squire Village $135/month call 665-7766

Roomate wanted own room Echo Hill apt $100 + call Amy 253-3707 eves

Women roomate wanted Puffton Vill own room 113.00 monthly & elec heat included non-smoker 549-4176 after 5

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

UMass Legal Services Office offers free legal services to fee-paying graduate and undergraduate students in the areas of University administrative problems; landlord/tenant disputes; and uncontested divorces and guardianships. LSO also gives advice on Small Claims Court, and limited counselling in criminal matters. Call 545-1995' Room 922 Campus Center, UMass.

TO SUBLET

3 bedroom apt Puffton Village 300 per month June to August, next to bus, pool, tennis courts, call nights 549-3765

Summer sublet 2 bedroom, on bus route, furnished, pool, tennis, disposal $260 including utilities Paul or Storm 665-3024

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

I need 4 tickets to the Kinks top $ call Dave 256-0616

Wanted 2 tickets for Kinks concert 586-9199 (keep trying)

Looking for someone to teach auto harp lessons to me on Campus. Call Sue collect at 617-249-8092

Seeking Glamour and Excitement?

The Collegian Advertising Department is searching for advertising reps, so if you are very motivated and easily excited, drop down to the Collegian office and ask for Ken. Boring people need not apply.

A Car is Required

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action Employer

Bass SUPER SUNJUNS SALE

2 STYLES
2 COLORS
medium & narrow widths
all sizes available
Reg. $38
SALE $26.95

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Downtown Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5505

CURRY-N-KABAB
MEDITERRANEAN — INDIAN — PAK
Revive your taste
Featuring The Magnificent Curries & Kababs
Better than pizza in town!
Grand Opening
Offer 50c Off on Any Platter
Sick of Pizza?
Beef Shish Kabob
Beef Curry
Chicken Curry
Vegetable Curry
Fast & Efficient
Waiting for Hours?
Take Out Service
FREE DELIVERY
call 253-3481
Open noon to 3:00 a.m.
96 N. Pleasant St. (Behind Louis Food)
offer good thru 3/9/80

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Incision
5 Math. subj.
9 Pesky kids
14 Prong
15 Cereal
16 Fiber plant
17 New Zealand tree
18 Larynx part: 2 words
20 Wallet items
21 Coop
22 Booed
23 Trims
25 Hairnet
27 Preposition
29 Unbolt: Poet.
30 Avoid
34 Aeon
36 Speak publicly
38 Game animal
39 Divorce causes: 2 words
42 Auguries
43 Apportions
44 Summer time abbr.
45 Remainder
46 — Aviv
47 Plunges
49 Blackbird
51 Brittle
54 Young 'un
58 Neighbor of Tex.
60 Preposition
61 Juicy fruit
63 Chill
64 Preposition
65 Italian isle
66 Nine: prefix
67 World: Fr.
68 Fitting
69 Notices

DOWN
1 Sharpen
2 Vine
3 Butts in 4 Annoyer
5 Pitfall
6 Baits
7 Washington statement: 5 words
8 Jewel
9 Plait
10 Knocks
11 Elect. units
12 Tessera
13 Kernel
19 Footwear
24 Lampblacks
26 Bizet work
28 Moral Rearmament (abbr.)
30 Blubber
31 Golf feats: 3 words
32 Employed
33 Aerie
34 Cupid
35 Hockey, e.g.
37 Arn
38 Performing art
40 Bank abbr.
41 Aged
46 Duration
48 Charges
49 Unite
50 Eat into
52 Pebble
53 Europeans
54 Did the crawl
55 Salt: Prefix
56 Solar disk
57 Peddle
59 Tangle
62 Tree

DC menu

Lunch
Deli Ham/Water Roll
Corn Souffle

Basics Lunch
Zucchini Carrot Curry
Corn Souffle

Dinner
Italian Night
Spaghetti al dente/
Tomato Sauce
Meatballs, Italian Sweet
Sausage, Chicken Cutlet
Antipasto Cold Plate/
Crackers

Basics Dinner
Hi-Protein Spaghetti/
Tomato Sauce, Eggplant
Cutlet, Chicken Cutlet
Antipasto Cold Plate

Earthfoods

Spinach, Mushroom and Onion Quiche
Rice Bulghar
Creme of Celery Soup
Tabouli
Poppyseed Muffins

LEARN WILDERNESS

In the rugged mountains of Wyoming and Washington, NOLS is teaching the essential skills of back-country living.

THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL

On the Alaskan arctic tundra and the grasslands of Kenya, East Africa, NOLS students are learning the challenges of enjoying and preserving the wild lands of the earth.

For fifteen years THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL has trained wilderness leaders for most of the major outdoor programs in this country. Today, the unique non-profit, educational center offers over 30 different backcountry courses which range in length from 2 weeks to 3½ months.

If you want to LEARN WILDERNESS this summer send for your free copy of the 1980 NOLS catalogue of courses

Write: NOLS Dept. J
P.O. Box AA
LANDER, WYO 82520
or call (307) 332-4381

NOLS

silverscope café
"The Yellow House" 264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
253-3447
Natural Vegetarian Food • Full Liquor •
Coffee Beans, Valley's Lowest Prices
8 mid Mon.-Sat. 12 mid Sun.

Everyone says that Student Government needs reform
Mike and Mike want to tell you how.
Talk to Mike Cohen and Mike Ferrigano this afternoon at their table in the Campus Center Concourse.
Mike Cohen & Mike Ferrigano
SGA Co-Presidents

TONIGHT
PUB MUG NIGHT
with
JIM PLUNKETT
"AN AMHERST TRADITION AND NOW WITH A GREAT NEW LOOK"
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

L'Amoureuse: Heavy love

By DAVID AMBOS
Collegian Staff

L'Amoureuse is a comedy like the presidential elections are a farce. Tragi-comedy is probably the best word to describe both events. In each case there are some early laughs, then gradually the situation becomes more and more serious until, finally the bitterly grim outcome. The play, as performed by the University Ensemble Theater last weekend, was an uncommonly intense examination of a common problem; the souring of marital love.

The production was quite effective in conveying the heaviness of a sad situation; if it failed anywhere, it was in the comedic portion of the performance.

A cliche explanation for the failure of a joke or epigram taken from a foreign source is "something was lost in the translation." In this case, as happens all too often, with plays in particular, the problem was that not enough was lost.

Hesitant to remove in its' entirety the widespread cancer of unworkable or untranslatable dialogue, for fear of damaging the dramatic organism, a translator can easily be fooled into thinking that a lot of unrenderable material is actually worth saving; attributing the Pinteresque virtue of ambivalence to absurd-sounding phrases and interjections, investing with real wit speeches which merely sound urbane. This is apparently, a trap which director/translator Andrew Lichtenberg and co-translator Michael Quinn occasionally fell into — occasionally being too often. In the first scene especially, there was plenty of high-class banter which was eminently excisable, partly because it was of so little interest and partly because the players seemed most out element with the stuff, delivering it far less effectively than more serious dialogue later in the play. Having the actors backhand the lines about like Tracy and Hepburn was a nice idea, but the declamatory, Wildean conversation just couldn't take the strain, and it ended up sounding both incidental and pointless; like Fellini without the donads. Better in such cases to hack unmercifully at the weedy, verbal overgrowth, and the heck with it.

As I said before, the first scene was hard on the actors, and it was there the weaknesses in their characters were most apparent, and most easily identifiable. In the case of Debora Lichtenberg as Germaine, the wife, these were blessedly few. Lichtenberg did an exceptionally-good job with a very difficult role, successfully conveying by turns the intelligence, witlessness, maturity and childishness that a lady of Frech society might possess; displaying a wide range

TURN TO PAGE 6

Deborah Lichtenberg as Germaine and Rick Martin as Eteinne in the University Ensemble Theater production of Georges Porto-Riche's AMOUREUSE at the Curtain Theater last weekend.

THE ARK
(Episcopal Church at UMass)

Sundays at The Ark	6:00 PM	supper (potluck)
	7:00 PM	Bible Study, Prayer, Eucharist
Wednesdays	1:15 PM	At Newman

Rev. Ian Montgomery 758 N. Pleasant 549-5929

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50–Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show – Limited to Seating
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer vs. Kramer — 9 Academy Award Nominations — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE — 3 Academy Awatd Nominations — G (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15
THE FOG — PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30
Norma Rae SALLY FIELD — (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15 — 4 Academy Award Nominations — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

James Coburn Mariska Mason Chapter Two — 1 Academy Award Nomination — PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30
STEVE MARTIN The JERK — R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
DOM DeLUISE Fatso — PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45
Cruising for a killer... AL PACINO CRUISING — No one under 18 admitted — R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass

Thursday, March 6

THE INSTIGATORS
New Wave
$1 cover charge

Friday, March 7
ABC Recording Artists

THE ATLANTICS
"Big City Rock"
$2 cover charge

Saturday, March 8

THE BEAVER BROWN BAND
The 'Asbury Park' Sound
$2 cover charge

Mar. 13 Paradise Rhythm Shoes
Mar. 27 Van Duren

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

Come to Southwest to laugh. . .or are you scared?

"NOW YOU SEE IT, CUBED"
The Umass Comedy/Music Revue
March 5, 6, 7 8 PM
Hampden Theatre, Southwest

Tickets available only at the door. . .$1.50
This is all new material—3 NIGHTS ONLY!!!

International Women's Week Presents—

Odetta

"One of the leading ladies of the 60's folk movement, Odetta still maintains an incredible presence on stage. All she really needs is her dignity of stance, her voice and her guitar, which is all she brought with her. The voice is a magnificent instrument, completely involving and compelling in its command of dynamics and texture, the phrasing and range a sheer delight whether she is singing children's ditties or the stylings she identifies with."

Vancouver

Saturday March 8, 1980 8:00 S.U.B.
$3.00 advance $4.00 at the door
Tickets: Available at UMass TIX, EWC and URU
Childcare: Is available, call 545-0883 for information

A 248-pound Muhammad Ali began working out yesterday in Deer Lake, Penn. with the aim of regaining the heavyweight crown for an unprecedented fourth time. (AP Laserphoto)

Ali to fight Tate?

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Muhammad Ali, back in his Pennsylvania training camp and sounding like a kid with a new toy, talked Tuesday about his place in history, spouted philosophy and did his impersonation of a ring announcer, complete with crowd noise.

"Ladies and gentleman," Ali bellowed over the telephone from Deer Lake. "The winner and heavyweight champion for the fourth time — Muuuuhaaaa-maaaad Allllleeee." The former champion then made a wooshing sound to imitate a roaring crowd.

Yep, the 38-year-old "Greatest" who retired in 1979, saying he had nothing left to prove, is back and headed for a showdown with 24-year-old Big John Tate, the World Boxing Association champion.

"My manager, Herbert Muhammad (now calling himself Jabir Muhammad) is negotiating with Bob Arum. I'm just getting ready for the fight," said Ali who arrived at Deer Lake from his Los Angeles home Tuesday, just a little past midnight.

Arum, the promoter who has a contract with Tate, said Tuesday at his New York office he will meet with Jabir Muhammad and Muhammad's lawyer, Charles Lomax, in Chicago on Wednesday and expects to have Ali under contract very soon.

The promoter wants to stage a Tate-Ali fight in late June in the New Orleans Superdome. He wouldn't mention money but figures like $10 million and $15 million are being thrown around.

Arum said he still must reach an agreement with Tate and that there is the obstacle of Mike Weaver. Tate is scheduled to defend against Weaver March 31 in Tate's hometown of Knoxville, Tenn., the same night Larry Holmes defends the World Boxing Council heavyweight title against Leroy Jones in Las Vegas.

Arum and rival promoter Don King also are committed to ABC-TV for a Tate-Holmes match in August or September.

Of course, Ali could wreck a Holmes-Tate bout and when he came on the phone Tuesday, he was shouting, "I'm going to be a quintuple champion. You know what that means?" He then explained that he would consider himself a five-time champ if he beats Tate and Holmes.

Swimwomen place ninth in NE championships

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

After a rigorous season of many ups and downs, the UMass women's swim team finished their season by placing ninth in the New England Championships. The top three finishers were University of Maine, Boston Univeristy, and Springfield College.

Many of the UMass women achieved personal best times. Gail Holland, Nancy Collins, Cindy Piela, and Sue Flynn, swam to a tenth place finish in the 200 yd. medley relay with a time of 2:00.8. Other relay teams from UMass included the 200 freestyle team of Sue Flynn, Judy Miller, Caroline Benjamin, and Gail Holland, finishing seventh. The 400 freestyle relay of Jennifer Black, Judy Miller Caroline Benjamin, and Leslie Johnson captured a fifth place while the same team finished sixth in the 800 freestyle relay. The 400 medley realy of Jen Black, Nancy Collins, Celia Walsh, and Sue Flynn, finished ninth.

Freshman sensation Leslie Johnson, set a school record of 2:22:1 while placing eigth in the 200 backstroke. She also finished ninth in the 500 freestyle, sixth in the 400 individual medley, and eigth in the 200 freestyle.

Jennifer Black, who has been another outstanding freshman throughout the season, displayed her talent by capturing a fifth place in the 400 individual medley, tenth in the 200 individual medley, and sixtheenth on the 500 freestyle.

Sophmore Nancee Shifflett, who has been out for a while with an injury, also turned in some good performances. she placed eigth in the 100 backstroke, eleventh in the 200, eleventh in the 400 breastroke and eigth in the 50 and 200 breastroke events.

Other swimmers who contributed to the UMass standing were freshman Judy Miller who placed thirteenth in the 50 freestyle, senior Gail Holland who finished fourteenth in the 200 backstroke, and swimmer-coach Celia Walsh who finished fourteenth in the 200 butterfly.

School records were set in the one and three meter diving events. Kathy Driscoll placed third in the one meter event with a score of 350.9. She is now training for the national championships which will determine her rank in the country. Denise Tetro also established a school record in the three meter competition.

"Everyone worked hard throughout the season, which helped us to establish a respectable reputation for women's swimming at Umass," commented Nunnelly with a smile on his face.

Yester Morrow

LEARN TO BUILD
ANYONE CAN! DON'T MISS THE FUN OF YOUR OWN HOUSE RAISING. THIS VITAL PART OF THE DWELLING ACT HAS ALMOST DISAPPEARED. WE DEMYSTIFY THIS REWARDING PROCESS OF BUILDING FROM FOUNDATION TO FINISHES.

LEARN TO DESIGN
FITTING A BUILDING TO YOUR FANTASIES IS EASIER THAN YOU IMAGINE. AT YESTERMORROW, WE'LL HELP WITH THE TECHNICAL WORK SO YOU CAN BE MORE CREATIVE.

YESTERMORROW OFFERS INTENSIVE BUT PERSONAL INSTRUCTION WITH MORNINGS IN THE CLASSROOM AND AFTERNOONS ON THE SITE. PRICES START AT $300 FOR TWO WEEKS.

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY. FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT
Yestermorrow
Box 344 Warren, Vt.
1-802-496-3437

the rusty nail Inn

Nemperor Recording Artist
STEVE FORBERT
Thurs. March 6th
from the Album "Jackrabbit Slim"
the single "Romeo's Tune"

Fri. and Sat. March 7th and 8th
LAZARUS (formerly The Ellis Hall Group)
All tickets sold in advance and at the door
Rt. 47 Sunderland 665-4937

Sports

Veteran pitcher Steve Busby shown here preparing for the start of the 1980 baseball season. (AP Laserphoto)

Take me out... Hold on!

Players may strike April 1

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The executive board of baseball's players association Tuesday authorized striking the opening of the 1980 season if a new labor contract is not reached with major league club owners.

The action was disclosed after a nearly five-hour meeting between the executive board and its director, Marvin Miller.

Miller said that a resolution was adopted directing him to seek ratification of the strike action by major league players.

Miller said the board would meet again on April 1 in Dallas to consider the status of the 16-week old negotiations and take whatever action warranted at that time.

Miller explained that the strike action, if ratified by the players, would be taken on or after April 1. The season is scheduled to open April 9.

Miller added, however, that the board hoped movement is shown by management and that the players remain hopeful that an agreement can be promptly concluded.

Miller said, "Accordingly, the players association calls upon the owners to commence bargaining in good faith, in a serious attempt to reach an agreement."

Miller said that during the last four years of the contract that expired Dec. 31 and that introduced the free agent re-entry draft, baseball had experience unparalleled prosperity.

"The game has reached record attendance levels each year and achieved record television contracts for the next four years.

"Against this background, it is not appropriate for management to try and turn back the clock and cut."

Miller said management has not yet chosen to bargain in good faith.

Ray Grebey, the owners' chief negotiator, had no immediate comment.

Miller said that during the 23 negotiating sessions thus far, management has proposed a radical departure from the way player salaries traditionally are negotiated.

The players union executive director said management had proposed a maximum salary structure with incremental increases each year for all players with less than six years of major league experience.

"In most instances this (salaries) would fall below the 1979 average in each group," Miller said.

"If adopted, this would reduce salaries in the 0-6 year period by approximately 30 percent."

He said the owners also had demanded a major change in compensation for clubs that lose a free agent. They want a major league player instead of an amateur draft pick.

"This is intended to impair the freedom of bargaining power for free agents which would seriously reduce salaries for those with more than six years of service," Miller said.

"It would open the door for practical elimination of free agency." Miller added.

Dave Bradley

Name dropping

Few people have had the opportunity to rub elbows with those athletes who have joined the professional ranks. So it is for the benefit of those multitudes of frustrated sports followers that I share my rare but genuine experiences with the professional elite.

Frank Malzone was my first contact with the professional world. I had two meetings with the legendary Red Sox third baseman, the first when I was about eight years old. It was after a Red Sox/Detroit Tigers game and Malzone was sitting in a window seat on a Greyhound bus. My mother lifted me up to the window and I tapped on the glass. Frank was busy lighting his cigar so he didn't have time to acknowledge my presence, but I knew the encounter was the beginning of a meaningful father-son-type relationship.

The second time I ran into Malzy (I call him Malzy for short), he was signing autographs at Zayres in Natick. I walked right up to him and said, "Hi," and told him my brother did not come because he was angry that the Sox had lost the previous day's game. He signed a picture of himself and wrote, "Mike, you should have come over. Best wishes, Frank Malzone." See the influence I had.

Right now you're probably saying to yourself, "Geez, this guy's lucky!" But wait until you hear this.

I played basketball with Tom Heinsohn. That's right, Tom Heinsohn. It was a four-on-four half-court game with me, Tom, Paul Heinsohn, Donny Most and a few other scrubs at Whitney Field in Natick. And you cannot guess who was watching on the sidelines—Donny's father, that lovably scraggly voice of the Boston Celtics, Johnny Most.

Big Heiny seemed to be in a bad mood that evening for some reason because he kept screaming at the players on his team to "Pick away, pick away!" Every time his son made a bad play, like shooting an airball from 15 feet or something, the elder Heinsohn would yell at him and call him stupid and shake his head in anger.

One of my friends who was on Heinsohn's team idolized the then Celtic coach and even had some old films of Tom when he wore a Celt's uniform. You can bet my friend Spoon (a nickname we gave him because he liked Nick Weatherspoon of the Washington Bullets and cocaine) was trying his damndest to impress the professional.

Spoon had the ball and three a behind-the-back pass out of bounds, something Spoon had a knack of doing. A few joking comments were made and I chimed in, "That's the spoon. He thinks he's Jo Jo White (a guard for the Celtics)." Big Tom snapped back, "If Jo Jo ever did that I'd have him on the bench." I admired that serious, aggressive, insulting and idol-crushing display from such a great pro. It kind of went along with the way he set picks with his fists during our games.

Other b-ball players I've had contact with include John Havlicek (the time I saw he and his family in, you guessed it, that same Zayre parking lot where I spoke with Malzy), Dave Cowens (at his camp in Weston when he nearly smacked a 12-year-old for slapping the ball out of his hands during a demonstration) and former Celtic Paul Silas (who was stopped at a red light in the car ahead of me). Yes you might say I've been around.

So there you have it. I know them and you don't. But aren't you glad I took the time to bring you a little closer to the world of the professional athlete? Aren't you?

Carroll heads All-Americans

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Once an awkward high school player in Denver, Joe Barry Carroll took his time developing at Purdue.

But once he did, the sky was the limit for the giant they call "Rocky Mountain High."

"I can see him becoming an outstanding pro player," says his coach, Lee Rose. "I believe he'll make a good living at it. He's big and strong."

Rose's admiration is shared by many and reflected in Carroll's selection to The Associated Press All-America college basketball team for 1979-80.

The Purdue skyscraper was named Tuesday to the First Team by a nationwide panel of AP writers along with Louisville's Darrell Griffith and Kyle Macy of Kentucky at the guard positions and DePaul's Mark Aguirre and Maryland's Albert King at forwards.

Carroll's arrival as a player in his junior year last season signaled a turn in Purdue's basketball fortunes, transforming a 16-11 team from the year before to 27-7 and a trichampionship in the elite Big Ten, as well as an NIT berth.

This season, the 7-foot-1 sullen star averaged 22 points and 10 rebounds a game while keeping the Boilermakers among the nation's leading teams.

Griffith is one of the nation's leading dunk-shot artists, in fact the chief operator of Louisville's so-called "Doctors of Dunk." One of his specialities is a reverse dunk, which he puts home with as much fervor and ferocity as anyone in the land.

Griffith averaged 22 points, 5 rebounds and 3 assists a game for the Metro Conference champions.

The 6-3 Macy has been Joe B. Hall's "coach on the floor" at Kentucky ever since he helped the Wildcats win the NCAA championship in 1978. Among Macy's most supreme qualities is his ability to thrive in pressure situations.

Macy, one of the nation's top foul shooters with a 92 per cent average, averaged 16 points and 5 assists a game this year.

'Mr. Pete' Holschuh has designs on volleyball and ultimate frisbee

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

He wears his derby like a trademark, for instant recognition whether on the Ultimate Frisbee fields, the volleyball courts, or inside the art studios, doing what he likes best—printing.

"You could say it's a good luck charm," says Peter "Mr. Pete" Holschuh. "A friend of mine gave it to me about a year ago back home (in Guilford, Conn.), he said, 'It looks right on you. You can have it.'"

"Mr. Pete" majors in Fine Arts, doing mostly printing; he has made several T-shirts for the men's volleyball team (including one for last year's New England Collegiate Volleyball Championships, and this season's red and white uniforms featuring a character digging a ball), one for the women's volleyball team, and has one on the boards for "ZooDisc", UMass Ultimate's new team name.

"I enjoy doing graphics," he says, "Writing papers doesn't bring me any satisfaction. Graphics I like to do late at night.

"I hope to make money doing artwork. My first assignment was last spring, when Al (Morel, the coach of men's volleyball) asked me to do the shirts. I broke even on those shirts because I gave a lot of them away.

"When I graduate, I don't want a 9-5 job. I want to do something I'll enjoy."

Before coming to UMass, Holschuh applied to some of the Ivy League schools. After he was refused, he went to Germany for a year.

"I began to play volleyball when I was in Germany," he said. "I also got my nickname there. Some of my friends learned of my nickname, and started calling me "Mr. Pete" all the time."

"When I heard about the volleyball team here at UMass, I decided to go for it."

Holschuh plays in the men's junior varsity squad. Wearing number 14, the 6'1" sophomore says, "I'm a hitter on the squad. You know—hitter, spiker, whatever."

"Mr. Pete" is also the captain of the UMass Ultimate Frisbee Club, an organization that includes students mostly from Southwest (where the club plays) and people from around and off-campus.

"People are finding out about us," he says, "we're in the beginning of the season right now."

"I like the philosophy of Ultimate. It's very unique. This game is the most energetic and exhausting game I've ever played. It's continual and pretty intense."

Holschuh also teaches Frisbee; he has helped expand the UMass Frisbee program by starting and designing several classes.

His world revolves around volleyball, Frisbee, and printing. Crazy? Perhaps. Jumbled? Maybe. Busy? Definitely. He teaches, captains, bumps, spikes, prints, designs, catches, runs, yells, draws, and Lord knows what else.

But that's "Mr. Pete."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 98 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Thursday, March 6, 1980

Pressing on, dropping out

Above left, Illinois Congressman John Anderson raises a fist to acknowledge cheers yesterday at Yale University. Above right, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., jokes with reporters before a press conference yesterday when he announced he was withdrawing from the GOP race for president. Story on both men, Page 2.

Nestle cast out by C.C.

By MICHAEL FOLEY
Special to the Collegian

In response to requests made by University students, Nestle products are no longer being stocked in the Campus Center/Student Union complex or in campus vending machines.

The decision was sparked by unanimous votes by the undergraduate and graduate student Senates to support the nationwide Nestle boycott during the first week of February. The Campus Center Board of Bovernors also voted to support the boycott.

The objection to Nestle is based on the company's sales of artificial infant formula to Third World nations. Because clean water is often unavailable and the formula cannot always by properly sterilized and refrigerated, infant formula can become a lethal substitute for breast feedig, according to an Infant Formula Action Coalition. IN-FACT said Nestle controls about 50 percent of infant formula sales in Africa, Asia and South America.

In 1978 a U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Health chaired by Sen. Edward Kennedy estimated that as many as 10 million infants die each year from "baby bottle disease."

Richard L. Ellis, Campus Center Food Service Manager, notified the BOG that he had ordered the Top of the Campus restaurant, the Blue Wall, the Coffee Shop and the Hatch not to reorder the brand of coffee creamer they had been using. It was the only Nestle product in use to his knowledge, Ellis said.

Winn Cummings, who oversees the University Store, the Student Union News and Sweet Shop, and vending machines in the Campus Center, said there would be no restocking of Nestle products including Nestle candy bars, Beechnut Gum, and L'Oreal shampoo and cosmetics.

Cummings said he called Trico Venders, the supplier for campus vending machines, and "related the student wishes" to them. Trico agreed to stop restocking Nestle products in all vending machines on campus, he said.

Fighting disrupts senate meeting

By STEVEN SEMPLE
Collegian Staff

A Vietnam veteran enrolled at the University attacked two members of the Student Government Association at last night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting, requiring the assistance of five UMass police officers to quell the disturbance.

At about 8:10 John Silvaria, 28, Treasurer of the Veteran's Service Organization and self proclaimed "war hero," entered Campus Center room 164 with Joe Collins, also a veteran.

Collins, 29, interrupted a presentation by Al Wallace, an assistant to the treasurer, by first asking to be heard and then saying that Dean Field was on his way to the meeting. Collins, a senator, then refused to allow Wallace's presentation to continue by questioning the "validity" and "integrity of the SGA."

When other members of the senate asked Speaker David Routhier to overrule the interruption, Silvaria unplugged the microphone, killing the public addess system.

The meeting recessed at 8:15 in order to let the disturbance die down. At that time Wallace entered a debate with Silvaria in order to convince him that the pair should leave the room and let the senate meeting continue.

Treasurer Bill Fitzgerald then joined the debate, asking Silvaria if he was a student. Silvaria responded by removing his glasses and calling Fitzgerald a "punk." In seconds, Silvaria and Fitzgerald were engaged in a pushing and shoving match, each clutching the others throat.

After the tussle was broken up, Silvaria went after Wallace. That encounter, too, consisted only of a few shoves thrown by Silvaria. Wallace responded by shouting, "Call the cops! That's assault!"

Tensions appeared to have eased by the time the police arrived at 8:30, and Collins and Silvaria were ushered into the hallway. Once outside, Silvaria, who said he did not represent any group, explained that his motive was to "circumvent the whole (SGA) system.

"We want to turn over all (financial) accounts to Whitmore—the

TURN TO PAGE 4

There occasionally may be difficulties in making distinctions between 'acceptable' flirting and sexual harassment.

'One of our biggest problems is that people think sexual harassment means sexual assault.'

Women's Week skit depicts sexual harassment

By ANNE MERCIER
Collegian Staff

In a Tuesday night Women's Week workshop entitled "Sexual Harassment in the Classroom," three members of a newly-formed women's issues group performed a skit depicting sexual harassment in a University classroom.

Students Against Sexual Harassment is a new RSO group which grew out of the Women's Issues Team of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy. The workshop focused on SASH plans for a grievance procedure for sexual harassment cases at UMass, the recent Price v. Yale sexual harassment case, and the definition of sexual harassment. Acting in the skit were SASH members Pamela Malumphy, Jill Tregor, and Tildy Torchinetz.

"One of our biggest problems is that people think sexual harassment means sexual assault," Malumphy pointed out.

The SASH Policy Act recognizes the fact that there may be incidents of students initiating or encouraging sexual relations with professors. SASH members also said in their report that occasionally, it may be difficult to make distinctions between "acceptable" flirting and sexual harassment.

Tregor spoke of the "power differential" used to determine flirting from harassment. The SASH Policy Act used guidelines published by the Association of American College and several private corporations according to a "Project on the Status and Education of Women" publication. "Harassment at its extreme occurs when a male in a position to control, influence, or affect a woman's job, career, or grades uses his authority and power to coerce the woman into sexual relations, or to punish her refusal."

According to the publication, sexual harassment includes—verbal harassment or abuse, subtle pressure for sexual activity, sexist remarks about a woman's clothing, body, or sexual activity, unneccesary toughing, patting, or pinching, leering or ogling a woman's body, constant brushing against a woman's body, demanding sexual favors accompanied by implied or overt threats concerning one's job, grades, letters of recommendation, etc., and physical assault."

The SASH Sexual Harassment Policy Act does not define harassment as specifically as the project publication does, and their definition of a victim includes both men and women.

A graduate student's survey last year at UMass revealed that sexual harrasment is "an extensive problem" here.

The Ombudswoman of the University, Phylis Foster, "has many, many sexual harassment cases in the files," Tregor said, but these files cannot be released.

SASH plans to distribute surveys throughout UMass following Spring Break to document undergraduate cases of sexual harassment, Malumphy said.

Members of SASH also discussed the state legislature's plans for sponsoring an all day conference on sexual harassment at the State House at the end of March or in early April. A bill which would make it illegal for state universities no to have a grievance procedure for sexual

TURN TO PAGE 4

DIGEST

Iranian militants defy officials

Associated Press — The U.S. Embassy militants in Tehran adamantly rebuffed a new bid yesterday for a meeting between the U.N. commission on Iran and the Americans held hostages, despite Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's reported authorization for it. Iranian officials, just as insistent, said the meeting would take place.

How the showdown between the young Moslem radicals and the Iranian authorities would be resolved remained unclear, but one top official indicated Khomeini would have to intervene more directly.

The militants said they were awaiting word from Khomeini confirming his approval for such a meeting.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, in an apparent display of anger and frustration over the militants' stance, was quoted by the Tehran newspaper Azadeghan as saying "communists and Zionists" were trying to foil the U.N. mission.

Bogata terrorists offered deal

BOGOTA, Columbia (AP) — Government negotiators offered a deal yesterday to the terrorists holding U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and about two dozen other diplomats which was believed to include safe conduct out of the country, sources close to the government said.

The proposal included flying the guerrillas to either Algeria, Libya or another Third World country not immediately identified, according to the sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

Civiletti condemns press leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Condemning "the flood of leaks" from criminal investigations, Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti warned Justice Department employees in two special meetings yesterday that he will fire anyone caught disclosing confidential information.

He said his efforts were sparked by the leak of the FBI's Abscam investigation of political corruption and by two other leaks. Eight members of Congress have been named by sources as being implicated in the Abscam case, although no charges have been brought.

Bush tops Anderson, Reagan in Mass.

BOSTON (AP) — George Bush gained hairbreadth victory over Rep. John Anderson yesterday in the Massachusetts presidential primary election. Senate Republican leader Howard Baker quit the race, and former President Gerald R. Ford said the contest for the GOP nomination is "a wide open ballgame" he may yet enter.

Ford said the razor margins by which Bush won Massachusetts and Ronald Reagan edged Anderson in Vermont were "a clear indication to me that there is no consensus" among Republicans.

He said there won't be such a consensus before the GOP national convention, and thus forecast just the kind of campaign stalemate that would give him an opening for another White House bid.

While Ford hinted in Lauderhill, Fla., that he may get in, Baker conceded in Washington that he is out.

"It's pretty clear the campaign isn't going anywhere," he said after lagging far behind the leaders in the first five Republican campaign tests.

While the Republicans ran to virtual dead heats in the two Tuesday primaries, President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy won Democratic landslides.

Kennedy won his home Massachusetts primary with 65 percent of the vote to Carter's 29 percent. The president swept Vermont's non-binding primary with 75 percent of the vote to 25 percent for Kennedy.

Kennedy, saying he had a lift for his campaign and his issues, turned his effort to New York State on Wednesday, seeking support in a March 25 primary that is one of his major targets.

Carter said he was ready to compete for 418 Democratic delegates in 10 states, where primaries will be held or multistep delegate-selection caucuses will get under way next week.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said in Boston that Massachusetts didn't do Kennedy much good nationally because the challenger's first victory came from his own Senate constituents.

"I don't believe folks would view a Carter win in Georgia as a major event on the political horizon," he said.

Carter expects a victory there next Tuesday, when adjacent Florida and Alabama hold their primaries as well. Kennedy is investing little effort in those contests in the president's home territory.

Kennedy captured 77 Democratic nominating votes in Massachusetts, to 34 for Carter. That gave him the lead nationally, with 113 delegates to Carter's 89. But that margin won't survive the South, and Carter campaigners said the president already is guaranteed another 55 delegates in Minnesota, although they have not yet been formally selected.

Committees established to combat racism, sexism on UMass campus

The Commission on Civility in Human Relations, established by Chancellor Henry Koffler in November, yesterday formed three committees that would attempt to combat vandalism, anti-Semitism, racism and sexism on campus.

One committee would concentrate on short-term campus involvement, another on long-term committments and a third on environmental considerations.

In the short term, the commission—composed of 18 faculty, graduate and undergraduate members—will recommend to Koffler that a school day be instituted, in which all members of the University community be involved. Prof. Katherine Fite of the Psychology Department asked that academic deans, department heads, professors and students be involved in such a day "to make people think about civil, moral behavior."

In the long run, the commission would attempt to make the community aware of racism, sexism and anti-Semitism, "to make it part of the educational process." Prof. Johnetta Cole of the Anthropology Department said racism, sexism, anti-Semitism and anti-social behavior were all linked, and that none could be dealt with separately. Cole, who chairs the long-term committee, said she and others would compile instances of such anti-social behavior in the hope of educating the campus.

Prof. Edward Harrison of the Astronomy Department said that environmental factors had much to do with anti-social behavior, and that he would look into its specific aspects.

Prof. Irving Howards of the Political Science Department said the commission should "go out there ... and get specific instances of racism," sexism, anti-Semitism and anti-social behavior "instead of sitting here like we were on a throne."

The commission meets again March 14.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE
sponsors a
GAY DISCO
9pm - 1am
March 7, 1980
10th floor Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Admission $2

FUN, FUNK & PUNK
Antique & Special Costume Jewelry
Look for WENDY
at: CC Concourse
CASH PAID for class rings, gold silver & costume jewelry
Fri 3/7
(and twice a week every week!)

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
- Eurail Passes -
- Britrail Passes -
-Youth Hostel Agent -
Bargain Fares to Europe
(seats limited)
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MASS 01003 413-545-0500

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents—Thursday
Special Brew Night with Mug & T-shirt give aways
Entertainment
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

The Chequers Saloon
Amherst, Massachusetts
If the Quiche, Chicken Cordon Bleu or the Shrimp Stuffed Scrod doesn't get you, the cheesburger will.
University Drive
Next to Alumni Stadium
549-5861

KACO VILLA
Are Subs & Pizzas Getting Boring?
TREAT YOURSELF TO A REFRESHING CHANGE
JOIN THE MEXICAN FOOD EXPERIENCE
Wholesome • Quick • Inexpensive
Center of Downtown Amherst & N'ton
Mon.-Thurs. 11-9 Fri. & Sat. 11-11 Sun. 3-9

International Women's Week
Free Films
Friday - March 7
7:30 CC 101
Free Films
"INDEPENDENCE DAY"
"with Cuban Women"

$79.00 and what do we get? An ugly white building that leaks. Change how that money is spent. Speak with Mike Cohen and Kathy Manner at their table in the Campus Center.
Mike Cohen & Kathy Manner
SGA Co-Presidents

Trustees OK safety measures

By MARC FAGELSON
Collegian Staff

BOSTON—The UMass Board of Trustees yesterday authorized several Amherst campus safety improvements, including the construction of a traffic island at North Prospect St. and Commonwealth Ave.

Traffic lights and the island at the intersection were approved by the Amherst Board of Selectmen, but the traffic lights were rejected by the Department of Public Works (DPW). UMass Co-president Rich LaVoice cited wiring problems as the reason for the rejection.

The board said an overhaul of the University's boiler system is also being undertaken. The boilers, which currently run on oil, will be switched over to coal. Coal is more economical and already exists in quantity on the campus, LaVoice explained. Not all the boilers can be overhauled immediately, however, because some must be operating to provide the University with power, he said.

The fences around the Southwest Residential Area were also rejected as part of the safety package presented by the University. The DPW was responsible for the elimination of the fences, and further reduced the scope of the project.

The board voted to give greater power to the chancellors in altering non-voluntary student fees. In the past, these fees (such as the horseback riding fee at the Amherst campus) could be altered only by the board. Red tape and time will be reduced by the new policy, allowing the chancellor to reduce or add to these fees, LaVoice said.

A proposal to calculate tuition hikes on a yearly basis was sent back to the board's Budget and Finance committee. Action on the policy is expected to begin when the board meets again next month.

In other committee action, English Professor Madeline DeFrees was granted tenure by the board. A new professor at UMass, DeFrees specializes in creative writing.

At the closing of the board's meeting, LaVoice reported on the Student Government Association's physical operations. He listed as the SGA's priorities increased accountability and the development of an audit trail.

By bettering its accountability, LaVoice said he hopes the SGA can improve its records, accuracy and authenticity. Data should be up-to-date, he said, and to comply the SGA is developing new reports and services for students, he said.

Dead on The angle of incidence equals the angle of reflection in the Student Union Building gameroom. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

The women's movement: pride and self-realization replace role playing

By TRACEY ANNE EASTMAN

Editor's note: The following is one of four runner-up entries in an essay contest sponsored by the Collegian Women's Dept. and the Massachusetts Press Association.

Danny,

The thought of Sunday brings me such heavy hearted memories. I hate to argue with you. I don't know why I did, I just didn't like being expected to know how to cook a roast rare. Believe me I don't know how. I suppose it wasn't necessary for me to scream like that, but the thought of your expectation clawed at me. So I've been trying to figure out why I've been so crazy lately. Maybe it's because I need something substantial to be proud of now. But what? Nothing is moving for me now; I'm stuck. I mean, what am I anyway? Am I a student? I'm right in the middle of my school career, no further in than out. Am I a daughter? Perhaps on weekends, when Mom and Dad need a teething ring or a dishwasher or a chauffeur or a cook. I guess a dinner and clean clothes is payment enough for me. God, who am I to complain? Am I somebody's friend? If I can crawl from between their pleas for help, their complaints, their drug, school or lover problems, I'll see some loyalty. Am I an employee? God knows, not at this job, this part-time hell on earth. It's this work, in that office, in that house in that basement with that bastard that shoots my blood pressure sky high. Can't I damn his heart-stopping bellows, that broken typewriter and those paper clips and pens and pencils and cold coffee and late paychecks and bouncing paychecks and inadequate paychecks and 8:00 a.m. phone calls?

Damn it all to hell. I'm your lover, babe. Nurturing your twenty-year-old developing person on Wednesday evenings long distance and on Saturday nights in my warm disheveled bed. I listen to you laugh and tell stories about your boss' hate for his wife and the cheap motels he frequents after a hard day on the forklift and the ladies he pays to love him. I force a giggle too, to be with you.

What else can I be, Danny. I feel there's a space on this letter, a big space, that needs something. It's there hanging on my shoulders, scraping on the ground behind me, not letting me end. Before I didn't know what it could be. I felt in my heart that it was something substantial, something important, for both of us. Don't smirk, my love, I know what it is. I've known what else I am forever. I am a woman.

Maybe before I recounted some things and before I appreciated their significance, I would have left this out, but not own. Now, you see, I shall start my list with: "I am a woman" and work down from there. Maybe before I read "Tobi gives good head and good titty shots!" (you remember Tobi) in the elevator, and before someone scrawled "This is sucky scum!" all over an announcement I had posted for the Women's Center, and before Joey called me a "damn baby machine" as "a joke," and before Daddy roared with laughter when I applied for a summer job stocking shelves at the warehouse, and before walking home last night when I got a long hairy hand firmly raked across my chest, and before Kenny suggested that Amy get pregnant to avoid getting drafted, before these things I would have overlooked my womanhood. Before I might have giggled at these "jokes" like I giggled for you. Now they just disgust me.

Babe, that substantial missing component was in my mirror all the time. It took a bit of pride to grab my collar and make me stare it in the face. I guess that's what this Women's Movement I hear about is trying to do. Daniel, it has grabbed me and shoved me to the realization of what I am, first and foremost, what I will always be, come hell or high water, and the many chances I have to fulfill myself as well as those around me, by realizing the possibilities of womanhood.

You see, I've got something fine to hang onto, sweetheart, and something to be proud of. I would love to share its flexibility with you. Please understand why, and let me do so.

Loving us always, Tracey

Budweiser
12 oz. cans7.49/cs
unlimited quantities

Cartier Blanc de Blancs 750 ml
.....2.25 bottle 23.99 case
Folonari Bardolino ValPolicella Soave
1.5 L.....3.99 bottle 21.50 case
Canadian Mist qt.....6.95

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

Army veterans are doing it.
Becoming officers in the United States Army. For details on how you can get a commission with your college degree, call: Captain Phil Turner 545-2321 or 545-2322

★ Skit

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

harassment cases is currently under consideration by the Legislature, Tregor said.

SASH has recently drafted a grievance procedure to process sexual harassment cases at UMass, that must be enacted by the Undergraduate Student Senate, the Graduate Student Senate, the Faculty Senates, and the Administration, Tregor said. The chancellor would appoint a standing Grievance Board to receive student complaints of sexual harassment.

The Board would be comprised of nine members, five students and four administrators. At least three of the students and two of the administrators would be female, Tregor said.

★ SGA

enemy," he said.

No one was injured in the incident and no charges were filed.

When the senate got back to business, it passed a motion by Fitzgerald to encumber, or put a freeze on, $60,270.66 of senate money to be possibly for revamping the Registered Students Organization accounting system, pending senate approval.

The program is being run by the Students Review Task Force, whose members include Wallace, and Assistant Treasurer Richard Moran. Currently, four accounting firms are under consideration to be hired by the group. The overall cost of the program has not yet been determined.

A motion proposed late in the meeting to create a committee to investigate the Collegiate Association for the Research into Principles (CARP) failed on a deciding vote by Routhier.

KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

Editorial/Opinion

Conversing acceptably

We all want to be liked, accepted by our peers. In our little university community, I have seen that there are several effective ways to slip into the mainstream of UMass society with the rest of those "with it" people.

MICHAEL MARTINEAU

Vital to anyone's survival here is developing proficiency at the game "Can You Top This?" While the name is my own invention, the average UMass student is a seasoned veteran at it, no matter what it's called. See if this doesn't sound familiar...

"Hey Dan! How have you been?"

"Oh, incredibly busy, Phil. I have two papers due next week, and an exam tomorrow that I'm gonna pull an all-nighter for."

"Wow, I know just how you feel, Dan. I just got finished with an all-nighter, myself. I've been up since Tuesday. It wasn't easy, especially when my roommate set my desk on fire..."

"That's too bad. I get along with my roommate great. I have even gotten used to seeing his laundry stare at me when I come in the room, and he's been really nice to me lately, ever since I pulled that thorn from his paw."

"I'm glad to hear that, Dan. You know, I don't know how the heck I'm going to study for my three mid-terms tomorrow, with mother's operation and all. I'm lucky I could use my work-study checks to help pay for it."

"What a bummer...My mother is visiting me this weekend. I haven't the heart to tell her that I'm being kicked out of my dorm, and I'll be living in a tent on that little island in the Campus Pond...it would kill her."

"I know what you mean. My mother told me not to overwork myself this semester. She might be right, you know. Maybe 25 credits is too much."

Now, odds are that you won't run into a "CYTT" virtuoso very often, but you should be prepared.

Often the season dictates what the chic trends are. For example, two weeks ago, the thing to do was to get the flu. The more severe case, the better, and you were gauranteed center stage in any conversation if you spent any time in the infirmary.

Ah, but it proved to be just a temporary status symbol. Today, don't even bother mentioning that runny nose or scratchy throat that has been nagging you, because the person that you're talking to will have either just gotten over, or is about to get a virus that would make the bubonic plague look like a case of the sniffles.

Whereas flu victims were elite two weeks ago, now you will turn more of your friend's heads by starting a conversation by saying, "You know, I don't understand all this talk of a flu epidemic. I haven't been sick a day this semester." (A warning note: Avoid mentioning this in the presence of those who are currently ill. They will either react with hostility, or become suspiciously generous, offering you a sip of whatever they may be drinking).

Being a good conversationalist still counts for something. The next time that chat in the Hatch gets dull, try using one of these conversation-starters:

I don't care if they are Moonies, I think those people from CARP are doing a wonderful thing for the students."

"What's the big deal about this Eric Heiden guy, anyway?"

"I don't think Ed King went far enough. He should have raised the drinking age to 25. College students can't handle the responsibility."

"I think Linda Ronstadt would be a model First Lady which is why I'm voting for Jerry Brown."

"I heard a rumor that Earth Foods heats its food with a nuclear-powered stove,"

"What's the big deal about this Meryl Streep character, anyway?"

"I think that the Collegian is a consistently interesting, provocative, and well-written example of journalism – the best I've ever seen."

Believe me, no one will ever call you dull.

Michael Martineau is a Collegian columnist

Allowing collision of truth and error

The problem with being incensed by the presence on campus of an organization from Reverend Moon's Unification Church is that it is so easy. Here is a group of people representing an organization, with an international reputation for brainwashing youths, set in the path of thousands of normally docile students on their way to and from classes.

Passing by the table offering information on International Women's Week activities, which is directed toward fighting another unsubtle tradition of brainwashing, students step excitedly up to the festering crowd. There is some satisfaction in getting involved in a heated argument between CARP members and Board of Governors members, who appointed themselves as CARP's alter-ego late last week.

One can argue the immorality of conning depressed people into believing that a 20-year-old Korean-owned corporation is the New Order to solve all the world's ills. But one must wonder why, with all the suffering we inflict on each other by acting out the tenets of American society unquestioningly, we are so quick to hate those who do so similarly but from a less familiar stance.

In fact, the only tenet of American society being questioned by students threatening CARP members with violence in front of jeering crowds is the right to free speech and assembly.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Letters

Gulp...

To the Editor:

THE MOONIES THE MOONIES THE moonies the moonies ROTC happy hour at the Bluewall, get laid, wanna' get high man?, now listen son don't throw your life away...computers be a lawyer N o Nukes join the Now Generation it's the Real Thing GO FOR IT. This semester we are going to study science, primitive cultures, art. All the facts will be revealed and you will be in the know. Excuse me, do you know if it's possible to go from here to there?

The Moonies give a false sense of reality. The Moonies brainwash people. The Moonies cover up who they are with front organizations. Reverend Moon is a totalitarian dictator. Before I continue let me tell you I'm not a Moonie. My brother is, was, with him you never know. He told me when he was in California running part of a carpet cleaning business for the Moonies he'd take the company van, go to the beach all afternoon, he'd buy things for himself, he got high, and he felt guilty about such indulgences – bad spirits he called them. The Moon project there told him time away from them was evil in nature, that he wasn't being on purpose with his tasks.

Now what would your boss in the REAL world tell you? He'd if'd say she but my programmed tapes in my head come out with he), probably fire you. And do you know what the Moon organization out here said to him when he came this way? It's all right to recognize and play out facets of your life you feel guilty about. You can't be perfect. Take time off when you need to. Visit your family if you want to, drink if you want to, watch T.V., get up a little late, and forge ahead with your goals.

Confusing, isn't it? Facts this way and that way and the red red robin goes a bobbin' along. And who really cares anyway CULT CULT. My family the mother father straight lawyer brother sister mom dad hey bro' cult has got me in a propaganda campaign that at age twenty six could leave me a starving student the rest of my life.

Hey do you know Collegian what I liked best about your articles on CULT AT UMass: It was yellow journalism at its National Enquirer best, with the picture of THE house behind the trees. How 'bout a sequel CULT: UMass with a picture of the barricaded UMass library. gulp.

Scott Bickerton Hadley

Truth on task force

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct several factual errors in your February 22nd story headed "Task force begins fight against campus racism."

1. It is the Horace Mann Bond Center for Equal Education, not for Racial Justice, although the Center is deeply concerned with both goals.

2. The Bond Center has not agreed to publish a newsletter for the Anti Racism Task Force, nor has it been asked to do so.

3. Nor, therefore, will the Center be distributing copies of the alleged newsletter all over New England.

4. The Task Force Supervisor is Marea Wexler, not Wexell.

The Task Force has volunteered to prepare a detailed description of the holdings of the Center. These include material in over one hundred steel file drawers, some two thousand volumes, over 750 bound doctoral dissertations, and a world bibliography on the education of poor and minority children. Whatever the resulting product, it will be distributed on campus and elsewhere, to whomever is interested.

The Center is open to everyone, and is not restricted to any viewpoint. Anyone interested in equal education in this country or elsewhere can probably find helpful references in our Center.

Sincerely yours,
Meyer Weinberg
Director
Horace Mann Bond Center for Equal Education

Letters Policy

Letters to the editor should be kept as short as possible, preferably no longer than two pages. They should be typed at 67 characters per line, triple-spaced.

All letters should contain the author's name, address, and telephone number for verification. Telephone numbers will not be printed.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

STEPHEN B. KLEIN, Editor-in-Chief; JULIE EAGLE, Managing Editor; FREDERIC M. KEILLOR, Business Manager; JACK GALLAGHER, News Editor; ROB BURBANK, Executive Editor; LISA CAPONE, Women's Editor; RENEE MUBLEY, Black Affairs Editor; JIM MAHONEY, Photo Editor; SUZETTE COURTMANCHE, Graphics Manager; JIM DEGNIM, Sports Editor; JIM MORAN, Fine Arts Editor.

Associate Editors

Jeff Baker, Fran Basche, Ellen Davis, Carolyn Mooney, Hob Sten, Associate Managing Editors; Ed Levine, Brian O'Connell, Associate News Editors; Eric Janszen, Associate Executive Editor; Debbie Wallace, Associate Women's Editor; Marcia Hospedales, Associate Black Affairs Editor; Peter Berry, Associate Photo Editor; Abbe Bjorklund, Associate Fine Arts Editor; Jane Wolfson, Associate Sports Editor; Jeffrey Bianchi, Associate Graphics Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisers lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Killington Krazyness

UMASS SKI CLUB

LAST SKI TRIP THIS YEAR

Saturday March 8

Lift Ticket Transportation

$15

$5 non-refundable

Milk & Donuts

Cider & Cheese

SIGN-UP	DEPARTURES
Ski Club Office	Hasbrouck
Room 106	5:15 AM
CC	Southwest
	5:30 AM

EUROPE by CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
45 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
☐ RENTAL ☐ LEASE ☐ PURCHASE
☐ EURAIL PASS & YOUTH PASS

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton

Only Area Showing
FRI.-TUE. Mar. 7-11
at 7:00 and 9:00

Academy Award Winner
ZERO MOSTEL
GENE WILDER

MEL BROOKS'
THE PRODUCERS
AVCO EMBASSY PICTURES RE-RELEASE PG
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

WHY HITCH?

Take a warm, comfortable TRAILWAYS or PETER PAN bus to Boston, New York and many other places. Play it safe!

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

HP-34C

ADVANCED PROGRAMMABLE SCIENTIFIC WITH CONTINUOUS MEMORY

HEWLETT PACKARD

The HP-34C offer you an impressive array of advanced programming features: up to 370 programmable keystrokes; label, line and direct branching; 6 subroutine levels; indirect data storage; insert/delete editing; 4 flags; 12 labels; 2 user definable keys; loop control; and more

New "solve" key—can search for and find the roots of an equation with keystroke simplicity.

New "integrate" key—any function you can evaluate on the calculator by a keystroke solution, you can integrate.

Comes complete with an introductory booklet, and owner's handbook, and a free standard application book containing 10 useful programs.

all at our discount price of $134

at the calculator store

the UNIVERSITY STORE

CHEERING TRYOUTS

ATTENTION UNIVERSITY MEN & WOMEN
VARSITY FOOTBALL & BASKETBALL
CHEERING TRYOUTS
will begin SUNDAY, MARCH 9 AT 6:00 PM
in BOYDEN GYMNASIUM
ALL ARE WELCOME!

15% off

All merchandise! (except sale items.)
With your U. Mass Student I.D.

Amherst Lodge only.
Good 3/6 - 3/29.

Route 9. Hadley. 584-9690.
Monday to Friday, 10:00-9:00. Saturday till 6:00.

BYTE
the small systems journal

this month's theme is "Computers in the Laboratory." A discussion of how personal computers can be employed as a tool of analysis and control in scientific applications.

available now
in the campus center at umass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN

Sandwiches · Cold Cuts
Bagels · Salads
OPEN AT 9 AM · 7 DAYS · 549-6314
FRI. & SAT. 'til 10 PM

Walt Disney World. presents

FANTASTIC FRIDAYS

In the Magic Kingdom

Florida-bound over Spring Break? Then say "T.G.I.F.F." to our Fantastic Friday lineup of superstars. It's a rock festival dream come true — all for regular Magic Kingdom admission prices.

Fantastic Friday March 14	Fantastic Friday March 21	Fantastic Friday March 28
• The Dirt Band "An American Dream"	• Rupert Holmes "Escape" (The Piña Colada Song)	• Nick Gilder "Hot Child in the City"
• Papa John Creach with special guest,	• Marshall Chapman	• Livingston Taylor with special guest,
• The Guess Who	• Dixie Dregs	• The Amazing Rhythm Aces

Come for a day-long fantasy feast in the Magic Kingdom of Walt Disney World. Enjoy super entertainment. Plus, the thrill of such world-famous adventures as Space Mountain, the Haunted Mansion, Jungle Cruise and more. You'll find over 45 Magic Kingdom attractions in all. All within easy reach of any Florida beach.

Open 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., March 9-30.

© 1980 Walt Disney Productions

Club Listings

BLUE WALL, Campus Center—March 7, "The Atlantics", March 8, "Beaver Brown", Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 3-6 p.m. "Pogo A Go-Go" every Tues. night; new wave and reggae music with Pete.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all happy hours and chicken and wings daily 4-6.

Creedo's Coffeehouse, 111 Pleasant St., Northampton.

Flat Street Club, Flat St., Brattleboro, Vt.—Nightclub.

Hot-L Warren, South Deerfield—Drinks served daily.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight—pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview, Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst—Fri. night Happy Hour, free buffet.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 2-7 p.m. Live entertainment by Katie Jay Sat. night.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco and drinks.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Wed. is "Pub Mug Night" and Thurs. is "Two for One Night" with live entertainment by Two Way Street on Fri. and Sat. Disco with Casey Sun. and Jim Plunkett Wed. $1 cover.

Quonset Disco, 239 Russell St., Hadley—Wed. free dance lessons. Thurs-Sat. disco. $1 cover.

Rahar's, 70 Old South St., Northampton—open at 6 pm Happy Hours Mon.-Fri. 4-8 p.m. Sat., Sun., and Mon., free pool and 35 cent Miller draft, half-price drinks. Tonight, Benefit for Sojourn—4 D.J.'s Reggae to New Wave; March 7, Scientific Americans with the Paper Dolls, New Wave; March 8 and 9, Valley Big Band, 17 piece Swing.

Rusty Nail, Hadley Rd., Sunderland—Tonight, Steve Fobert with B.T. Doe and the Dividends; Fri. and Sat., Lazarus with Ellis Hall, Sun., Paradise Rythm Shoes.

Rusty Scupper, 539 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Happy Hour Mon-Fri. 4-6 p.m.

Second Fret Coffeehouse, 21 Pleasant St. Northampton — First Anniversary Show begins at 8:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Pioneer Valley Folklore Society.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton—March 11 and 12, Valley Partners.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
- Come to Collegian Office CC 113
- 8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
- Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
- 15c per word
- Student rate 10c per word
- Cash in advance
- 5 consecutive days 5 % discount
- Phone number FREE

AUDIO

 Steve Garfield ***
brings the latest in Pure Pop, Rock and New Wave (oldies too) to the airwaves every Friday from 9 am to 1 pm on the Friday Breakdown on WAMH, 89.3 FM stereo "The Pioneer Valleys Best Sound".

Matching Amp & Turntable must sell, come see Joe 546-7925

Sony Stereo Music System Cassette Corder call 546-6899 BO

Harman, Kardon 430, 40 watts ESS 8 Speakers BIC 960 asking $425 546-1126

MX Receiver 40 watts rms/channel $135 1 year old 6-5637

Realistic Speakers excellent condition 40 watts-realistic STA-21 receiver, LAB 60 turntable BO 546-8919

SONY one point stereo eletret condenser microphone excellent cond. $25 253-3225

AUTO FOR SALE

FIX YOUR OWN CAR. The Student Auto Workshop offers tools, space, and assistance. Tues, Wed, Thurs 3-9 pm, Fri 12-5, Sat 10-5. Level one CC garage. 545-0673

'73 Toyota Mark II Wagn 73000 mi excellent shape, yours for $1980 phone Kittye 549-5412

Car for Sale: 1970 Pontiac Lemans. Good condition. Runs well. Rebuilt engine. Only problem: transmission bad. $400 or best offer. Worth it! Call: 549-1661. Best betnights & mornings.

74 Pinto Station autom 51000 M 2300 ccm good cond $800 call 549-1388

Fiat 124 Sedan exc mechanical condition. Some rust. 586-0871

Convertible 67 Buick Wildcat only 80 thousand, strong engine, restorable classic 400 Mark 586-1322, 546-8908

73 Mod Mercury Stw new A.T. no rust 9 seats A.C. P.S. P.B. ex. cond. $1399 or BO 549-4373

Stn. Wgn. 73 Chrysler T & C needs some work but runs well $400 Sandy after 6:30 323-5711

ENTERTAINMENT

How can two people do the work of 13? The Coalition

FOR RENT

Cape Cod Summer Seasonal Rentals: W. Yarmouth & Dennis. 2, 3 or 4 bedroom. Save! 1-617-528-0404

Rooms for Rent $125/mo plus in private home on bus rte in Sunderland. Available Spring and/or Summer 665-7500

One bedroom Colonial Village $112/mo available now 256-6749 Andy or leave message Tobin 509

FOR SALE

Diving Gear new US Divers Equip call Ted at 549-6488

Complete Goaltenders Equipment from skates to mask all Cooper and Bauer call Nick 253-9074

Sears Free Spirit 10 sp needs repair $60 or BO 549-6377 eves

Tyrolia 260D bindings 45$ 546-6763 Neil

Used Ski Boots men 10½, Ladies 7½ both $50 Paul 665-3024

Guitar Guild-Madiera w case $100 call John 253-2889

FOUND

Found-Brown plastic rimmed glasses in Northeast quad. Call Jeff 6-3210

Found 2 puppies abandoned Sat night 1 white 1 tan must either return or find homes call Doug 549-0148

Women's ring found in Boyden 2-28-80 call 253-9880 for description

Representaion in numbers: . . .The Coalition

HELP WANTED

Summer work excellent money and experience. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01002

College Pizza needs delivery people and counter help preference to drivers with own cars. Apply at College Pizza 173 Sunset Ave.

Free Blood Cholesterol Test male students, non-runners, non-weight trainers wanted for Ex. Sci. research project call Lou 253-7507

Jobs will be scarce this summer. A nationwide firm will pay a maximum of money, for a minimum amount of time. If you have from 12-30 hours of free time each week now, or this summer, your own car and are willing to work in your hometown or school town and surrounding areas. Write: Quality Unlimited PO Box 41 Easthampton, MA 01027

Paralegal Interns Wanted The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full time paralegal interns for Fall 1980 semester. You can receive up to 15 credits from the Off ice of Internships will provide exciting challenging and rewarding work which will include the learning of many legal skills. Interviewing clients, legal research, and maintaining a continuing caseload under the supervision of attroneys. Third World students and women are encouraged to apply. Applications must be submitted by April 1, 1980

INSTRUCTION

Guitar Lessons—Jim Kimball, formerly with the Bricker band, taking on new students. Call 549-1383

Beginner Folk Guitar Lessons Call Mary 256-6719

Guitar Lessons all styles. Beginners welcome for a free trial lesson. You choose the music you want to learn experienced instructor call Nick at 253-9074 leave message

Sentics Workshop—"The Miracle of the Possible" call Elizabeth Paton 413 549-3880

LOST

Lost Black Lab named Astro Always seen around campus. If anyone has any info please call Scott at anytime 549-6219. Wears blue collar, keep your eyes open friends.

Man's silver ring w/turquoise. If fd please call Leigh at 6-1134

Blue parka Herter basement name in jacket - please - Greg 253-3923

Black leather gloves with green woolen inserts Reward. Sentimental value 546-7754

Lost dorm keys keychain says Rod call Vicki at 6-7310 or 6-8761

2 notebooks Satire & Spanish Peter Ross 6-5355 $5

Lost silver plated cross If found please call Peter at 546-4624 REWARD THANKS

PERSONALS

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR: FREE EAR PIERCING WITH PURCHASE OF STUDS. SILVERSCAPE DESIGNS 253-3324

Sex! Blood! Lust! Experience it Friday night at Mahar Aud. with Andy Warhol's X-rated Dracula at 7, 9, & 11

Pete Jacke call Macky 665-7923

David—Good Luck tonight. I know you'll be FABULOUS! Love, Donna

Why pay more? Chocolate Almond Coffee Beans 479 lb Silverscape Cafe 264 N Pleasant St Amherst 8-midnight Mon-Sat 12-midnight Sun

Carol, Make yourself known to me! The gentleman with the red cap

Rick Thanks for your friendship in the past, your companionship in the present, and I am looking forward to the future. Love always Linda

Mary Lou G.--Have an awesome birthday, and a big hug from Teddy Bear and her two friends

Wanted to positions as Co-President of SGA for two very capable individuals. Vote for KEN MARQUIS and SCOTT CASHMAN. #6 on the ballot

$$$$$ fun, surf, night life, and relaxation can be found in the seacoast town Ogunquit, Maine (located only 90 miles north of Boston) Five College students are invited to spend this summer living, working, and enjoying this beautiful, exciting town. Over 150 Motels, Inns, Shops, Restaurants, Theatres, Banks, Art Galleries, and Guest Houses need students to work in thousands of open professional and non professional positions this coming summer. Hiring season is right now so act promptly! To receive complete listing send $1 to the local representatives for your convenience and prompt correspondence: Ogung. Job Placement, PO Box 107, Amherst, MA 01002

Attention all mosquito pledges! I.N.A.U.S.! Congrats! Sprout, Spinney & Spacey Inc. To open soon S.I.T.O.A. Chi O Farmers Forever!

Enjoyed your company 3/2/80 How about a little edge?

Jo and Q I love feathers how about it

To my little star Just do it good, and I promise Hawaii is closer than you think. I love you. Rico

Second floor lounge of Patterson open those curtains!!! Lift those weights!! We miss those great bodies. . .Love, the even side of JQA Lower

Are we serious?? You bet!! Vote "The Coalition of 13" March 11 & 12

Pi Kappa Alpha presents Florida Warm-up Party at Poor Richards on Tuesday March 11, 8 pm Un-heard of Happy Hour prices all night. Tickets $1 pos ID required Don't Miss This One

Thor—Blizzards are better than flurries! Have an excellent day—Paul and Cris

SERVICES

Attorney Jason R. Rosenthal Legal Representation. Income Tax Preparation. Days 584-4285 Evenings 253-7617

Lafler T-shirts great silkscreening at great prices professional graphics provided 549-1018

GRANOLA!! Now that we've got your attention, Vote for: The Coalition

TO SUBLET

3 bedroom apt Puffton Village 300 per month June to August, next to bus, pool, tennis courts, call nights 549-3765

Summer sublet 2 bedroom, on bus route, furnished, pool, tennis, disposal $260 including utilities Paul or Storm 665-3024

WANTED

Fast immediate cash for gold-school rings-diamonds- silver Jeff anytime 527-7078 586-0180

Looking for someone to teach auto harp lessons to me on Campus. Call Sue collect at 617-249-8092

WANTED TO RENT

Male/female room in Brandywine call 549-1448 after 6 PM

3 bdr. apt on bus route for fall. Willing to take over for summer. Call Raina 546-6500 or Debbie 546-8445

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Wash D.C. March break will share $ call Carole 6-4847

Hey you with a car! We need a ride to Ft. Lauderdale or surrounding area for spring break! Can leave from NY or Boston. Call Stephanie 546-1454

Ride wanted to Florida for Spring Break will share driving and expenses call Mary 546-8317

I need a ride to Darien, Conn. area on Friday March 7 and returning on March 9. Please call Diane at 546-5417 will share expenses. Thanks.

Ride wanted to Pennsylvania Spring Break anywhere near Bloomsburg, Scranton, Williamsport, Lewisburg, Harrisburg will share $ Maryanne Reed 6-8514

RIDERS NEEDED

To/from Rochester and points in between during spring break call 546-5954

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted Brandywine call 549-4671

Roomate wanted spacious, quiet, 2 bedroom apartment in Squire Village $135/month call 665-7766

Roomate wanted own room Echo Hill apt $100+ call Amy 253-3707 eves

Women roomate wanted Puffton Vill own room 113.00 monthly & elec heat included non-smoker 549-4176 after 5

Want Female—share room—Brittany Apt furnished 70/month call Ellen 253-7363

1 room in Rolling Green: all utilities, A.C., furn, bus route, pool, D.W., elec heat vacant now Dave, Pete 256-0340

University of Massachusetts
11th floor
Campus Center
Reservations Recommended
549-6000 ext. 639

Monty Python's
LIFE OF BRIAN
Sat. - March 8th
CCA 5, 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Andy Warhol's X-rated
DRACULA
Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11
Friday March 7

Wax 'n Wane
Spring Swimwear Sale
20% off
Entire Stock
sassafras
HIGH TIDE
Wax 'n Wane
Downtown Amherst
Open Daily til 5
Friday til 8

Nuke the Whale by Danny Guidera

Norma B. by M.J. Galper

4 by Frank Emery

Bean by Kevin X. McNamara

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

S	L	I	T		T	R	I	G		G	R	A	T	S
T	I	N	E		R	I	C	E		R	A	M	I	S
S	T	A	T	A		A	D	A	M	S	A	P	P	L	E
O	N	E	S		P	E	N		N	I	S	S	E	D
P	A	R	E	L		S	N	O	O	D
			F	R	O	M		O	P	E		S	H	U	N
A	G	E		O	A	T	E		G	O	O	S	E
M	A	R	I	T	A	L	T	A	D	O	L	E	S
O	M	E	N	S		D	E	A	L	S		E	D	T
R	E	S	T		S	E	L		O	T	I	P	S
					M	E	P	L	E		C	R	I	S	P
S	N	A	V	E	R		A	R	G		I	N	T	D
W	A	T	E	R	M	E	L	O	N		C	O	O	L
A	L	O	N	G		L	I	D	O		E	N	N	E
M	O	N	D	E		M	E	E	T		S	E	E	S

ACROSS
1 Resorts
5 Rebuff
9 Aside
14 Church period
15 Exaction
16 Sault Ste. —
17 Spanish area
19 Of the East
20 Trash
21 Metal
23 Seafarer
24 — — war: Ship
27 Wet
29 Brief quiets
31 Persons
35 Stir
37 Imprint
39 Copse units
40 Mr. Burns: Abbr.
42 Constellation
44 Ambush
45 Plain
47 — throat
49 Weep
50 Equivocated
52 Funeral car
54 Entrance
56 Ceased
59 Select
62 Chart
64 Part of TNT
65 Bermuda product
67 Falcon
70 Godsend
71 Epochal
72 At all times
73 Sad song
74 Basin
75 Tax

DOWN
1 Deli items
2 — code
3 Pepys "Goodnight": 4 words
4 Dynamo part
5 Man's nickname
6 — Gatos
7 Landed
8 Tartan
9 Drs.' assn.
10 Safe conduct
11 Solo
12 Asian coin
13 Pavilion
18 Hare
22 Siesta
25 Numeric prefix
26 Phobias
28 Encountered
30 Metal worker
32 Keen
33 Shakespearean king
34 Notice
35 Curve
36 Distribute
38 Ponders
41 Follower
43 Tidy
46 Color
48 Tine
51 Faint
53 Towers
55 Records
57 Sea birds
58 Active ones
59 Arrive
60 Single
61 Grid group
63 Elf
66 Negative
68 Coursed
69 Soft leather

DC menu

Lunch
Cold cut grinder
Broccoli & Cauliflower Casserole

Dinner
Baked Ham
Spiced apples
Chopped beefsteak special

Basics Lunch
Pineapple yogurt
Stuffed pepper
Broccoli & Cauliflower Casserole

Basics Dinner
Herbed soybean casserole
Seafood cakes/Eggsauce

Earthfoods

Wok Fries
Rice Bulghar
Broccoli Soup
Green Salad
Carrot Cake

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

Check our other in-store specials

Almaden California Burgundy ..... 750 ml..... $2.49
Costa Do Sol Port. Rose . $2.25 qt.
Giumara California Wine 1.5 liters Mt. Vin Rose, Mt. Chablis, Mt. Burgandy $3.99
Vodka 80° special..... $4.95 qt.
Harvey's Bristol Cream 750 ml. $7.49
1976 Cote's Du Rhone. . $2.49 fifth

CHECK THESE PRICES!
Growers Wines
Red, White, Rose
.99 750 ml.
2.99 ½ gal.
4.99 gal.
Schlitz 12 oz NR's6.99 cs 1.99/6
Tuborg 12 oz. NR's$6.99 cs 1.99/6
Schmidt's 12 oz. NR's. . $6.59 case

The Distinguished Visitors Program
presents
William Shawcross author of Sideshow
speaking on
"Kissinger, Nixon and the Holocaust in Cambodia"
Tuesday, March 11, 1980
8:15 PM, Mahar Aud.
★ sign language interpretation will be provided

Mike's Westview Cafe No. Amherst

Thurs. Nite
Penny Nite

Every Third Drink
1c

Pinball Machine

Bowling Machine

Attitude Readjustment Period
Mon.-Fri. 4 pm - 6 pm

Giant Sandwiches-Turkey, Roast Beef and Ham with chips and pickle $1.95

New Drink - Sourballs

Old Milwaukee $1.95 a pitcher
Domestic Bottled Beer 75c
Spearmint & Cinnamon Schnapps 80c

Friday Afternoon
Free Smorgy During
Happy Hour 4p to 6p

Rape prevention workshop highlights Women's Week

By DEBBIE COHEN
Collegian Staff

As part of the International Women's Week celebration, a workshop on the myths, treatment and prevention of rape was given yesterday at the Campus Center.

The two-hour session was facilitated by Deb Beaudoin and Linda Marchesani, both of whom are education advocates at the Everywoman's Center and members of the center's Task Force on Violence Against Women.

Workshop participants discussed current attitudes and myths about rape, such as: it is a crime of sex, it occurs only to "sexy" young women and it is committed by men who need an immediate sexual outlet.

The group acknowledged that rape is a crive of violence and can happen to anyone, anywhere. Women as old as 82 and infants as young as 15 months are raped, and the average rapist is not a sexual pervert. Rather he is an "overly aggressive" but otherwise "healthy, normal and well-adjusted male under 25," Beaudoin and Marchesani said.

The workshop menbers stressed society's acceptance of violence against women and the common notions of female passivity and male dominance and aggression as major motivations for rape.

Although a rape victim's first response might be an attempt to forget the incident, she is strongly urged to notify someone immediately, be it a friend, relative, rape-crisis counselor or the police, the group conceded. After such an experience, emotional support for the victim is necessary and often invaluable, the facilitators said.

Correction

Smith College Economics Professor Andrew Zimbalist was incorrestly quoted in an article on WFCR (2-27) as saying: "Latin-American music is nice, even if I don't understand it." Actually, says Zimbalist, he is fluent in Spanish. The point he was trying to convey was that "Latin-American music can be appreciated by people who don't understand Spanish."

15% OFF ALL PIPES! Head Pipes Too with coupon

Ponderious Moments
. . .Sumptious Tobaccos
. . .the likes of which history is made

CLIFFORD M. CLARK TOBACCONIST
The Valley's Finest Selection of Imported and Domestic Cigars
Tobaccos, Cigarettes, Snuffs, and Chews

Hampshire Mall Hadley 586-6212
Ingleside Mall Holyoke 532-4121

FREE Tobacco Samples

GO TO ALE

The Big Reason Beer Drinkers Are Going To Ale.

Everyday, more beer drinkers are coming around to the very special taste of Ballantine Ale. That's because Ballantine Ale is brewed to be more hardy than beer, but not thick like a malt liquor. Sure, you can expect to pay slightly more, but then Ballantine Ale is brewed to be the best there is. When you're that good, you deserve to be America's largest selling ale.

P. Ballantine, Cranston, R.I.

BONANZA TWIN DINNERS

INCLUDES OUR: FAMOUS ALL YOU CAN EAT SALAD BAR, STEAMING BAKED POT. OR FRENCH FRIES & SLICE OF GRILLED TEXAS TOAST

NEW YORK SIRLOIN
2 for $6.99
Valid with Coupon Only
Expires MARCH 17/80
Cooley & Allen Sts. Springfield | 138 Westfield St. W. Springfield | 80 Lamb St. So. Hadley | Mountain Farms Mall Hadley

SIRLOIN TIPS
2 for $6.49
Valid with Coupon Only
Expires MARCH 17/80
Cooley & Allen Sts. Springfield | 138 Westfield St. W. Springfield | 80 Lamb St. So. Hadley | Mountain Farms Mall Hadley

LENTEN FISH DINNER
Batter-Dipped Cod Fillet
2 for $4.99
Valid with Coupon Only
Expires MARCH 17/80
Cooley & Allen Sts. Springfield | 138 Westfield St. W. Springfield | 80 Lamb St. So. Hadley | Mountain Farms Mall Hadley

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK

Thursday - March 6

Come and Learn More About:

Violence in the Home & Film

Community Access to the Media

Women in Southwest Asia

Women Speak Out: Incest & Other Forms of Child Abuse

Changing Role of Muslim Women in the Mideast

"In Her Hands - Women & Ritual" video on Syrian Jewish Women in NYC

For more info - Time & Place see Campus Center Info. Desk

Five College Arts

Thursday, March 6
"In Her Hands: Women and Ritual", on the Oriental Jewish Women experience in the United States in Campus Center 101 at 8:00 p.m.

"Now You See It, Cubed," satirical comedy revue, March 6 and 7, Hampden Studio Theatre, Southwest, 8:00 p.m.

"Hedda Gabler", presented by the UMASS Ensemble Theatre. Henrik Ibsen's masterpiece, March 6-8, Frank Prentice Rand Theatre of the Fine Arts Center. Curtain is at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are available at the theatre or call 545-3511.

Mary Beth Edelson exhibit. Herter Gallery, March 6-14.

Hestia Art Collective Exhibit. Herter Gallery. Now through March 14.

Faith Ringgold exhibit. Herter Gallery. Now through March 14.

New Africa House Student Exhibit in Augusta Savage Memorial Art Gallery. Now through March 15.

Pattycake Olesky is exhibiting and will perform "All the World's a Stage" at the Herter Gallery. Exhibit is now through March 15. Performance is at the Gallery on March 9 at 8:00 p.m.

The "Ear-regulars," former members of the New York Feminist Art Institute, exhibit "Better Huts and Gardens" at the Student Union Gallery now through March 15.

The Smith College Museum of Art is exhibiting "Promoted to Glory: The Apotheosis of George Washington" now through April 6.

Top of the Campus Restaurant presents

BOBBY DAVIS

with special guest

CLYDE CRINER

Fri. March 7 & Sat. March 8

TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

DISCO ON DOWN TO...

Rt. 9 Amherst

Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE

Beat the Clock on Thursday!
All Drinks

8-9 p.m.	50c
9-10 p.m.	75c
10 p.m.-closing	$1.00

Tues. 25c beers
Wed. 50c drinks
Sun. & Mon.
18 & 19 permitted

Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

AMERICAN MULTI CINEMA

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS with AMC CARD $2.25 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 - Special Engagements Excluded Twi-Lite Show – Limited to Seating

TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7500 HAMP. MALL ON CAPEN SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DUSTIN HOFFMAN Kramer Vs. Kramer
9 Academy Award Nominations
PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

STAR TREK THE MOTION PICTURE
3 Academy Awatd Nominations
G (5:45 @ $1.50) 8:15

THE FOG
R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:30

Norma Rae SALLY FIELD
(6:00 @ $1.50) 8:15
4 Academy Award Nominations
PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS

James Coco Marsha Mason Chapter Two
1 Academy Award Nomination
PG (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

STEVE MARTIN The Jerk
R (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

DOM DeLUISE Fatso
PG (6:15 @ $1.50) 8:45

Cruising for a killer. AL PACINO CRUISING
No one under 18 admitted
R (6:00 @ $1.50) 8:30

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass

Thursday, March 6

THE INSTIGATORS
New Wave
$1 cover charge

Friday, March 7
ABC Recording Artists

THE ATLANTICS
"Big City Rock"
$2 cover charge

Saturday, March 8

THE BEAVER BROWN BAND
The 'Asbury Park' Sound
$2 cover charge

Mar. 13 Paradise Rhythm Shoes
Mar. 27 Van Duren

ALL AGES WELCOME
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

in association with UPC
Productions info: call 545-2892

WORKING ON BEHALF OF THE STUDENTS

KEN MARQUIS & SCOTT CASHMAN

SGA CO-PRES.

VOTE #6 ON THE BALLOT

$1 off an any name Pitcher of beer with this coupon
only valid on Thursdays

Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

Don't forget our special Happy Hour on Fridays!

TAKING MCATS?

NOW AVAILABLE:
"A Complete Preparation For the NEW MCAT."
A 420 page self-study guide developed at Harvard University to improve science and math performance. Before investing hundreds invest only $14.00 (incl. postage)

Health Professions Education Service Inc.
11901 Goya Dr., Rockville, MD 20854
Please forward _____ copies of the NEW MCAT preparation guide at $14.00 per copy. Amount of enclosed check _____
Print Name _____
Address _____
City/State _____ Zip _____

Sports

A chubby Muhammad Ali takes a breather from training at his camp in Deer Lake, Penn. Ali is going for an unprecedented fourth heavyweight title. (AP Laserphoto)

Mermen dive into New England action

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

Twenty-seven teams will descend upon Springfield College's Linkletter Natatorium this afternoon at 4:00 p.m., to open the 61st annual New England Intercollegiate Swimming Association Championships, which will run through Saturday.

The only Yankee Conference team which will not be represented at the New England's will be the University of Maine. The Bears will be participating in the Eastern Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championships at the University of Pennsylvania, which will also begin today.

Massachusetts first year commander Russ Yarworth, whose squad finished dual meet competition at 3-7, is optimistic about his first New England Championships as head coach.

"Everyone should do well individually," he said. "We lost a couple of kids from last year, but I'm hoping to finish in the top ten."

UMass diver Dan Anthony, who picked up a combined two-board total of eight victories during the year will have to contend with such talented foes as Don Bonasia of Boston University, who went undefeated in dual meet competition this season.

"Danny's got it all there in front of him if he wants it badly enough," remarked Yarworth.

Anthony's diving counterpart, Mark Vernaglia, who is coming off an impressive sweep of the diving competition in a losing effort to Amherst College, also has a good shot at placing in the diving events.

But it will be in the swimming department where the Minutemen will be looking to draw most of their firepower. Tom Dundon, who currently holds the UMass record in the 200-meter freestyle (1:47.1), completed dual meet competition with an overall total of 11 victories in solo freestyle events. Dundon will be shooting for an individual spot in both the 100 and 200 freestyle, as well as team victories in the 400 and 800 free relay events.

The UMass duo of Howard Abrahmson and Dave Stevens, both of whom will be swimming in the 200-meter breaststroke, will be vying for the top spot with another Boston University bomber, Scott Sawyer. Sawyer recorded the best time in the conference in the 200 breast this season, with an astounding 2:09 mark.

Williams College will be looking for its second consecutive victory in the championship, and seems to be the favorite among Yankee Conference swimmers and coaches. Last year, the Ephmen racked up a total of 469 points in the three days of competition, better that 100 points in front of second place Tufts University, (354).

But there are two Bay State teams which will most assuredly give Williams a run for their money. The first, the Tufts University Jumbos, finished with a blistering 9-1 record under Coach Con Megerle. Tufts boasts a number of swimmers who scored victories in last season's championship, including flymen Bill Cossain and Mark Lilley, as well as backstrokers David Bates and Jim Montesi.

The other, the Boston University Terriers, will undoubtedly be the team which will make the biggest improvment over last year. BU finished a dissapointing 13th place in 1979, with a dual meet record of 9-5. But this year the Terriers have turned things around. With the performances of Bonasia, Sawyer, Karl Weiss (fly), Craig Wheeler (breast), and a 9-1 season total to their credit, BU hopes to capture at least third place in the overall standings.

Foxen chalks up wins in quest for Olympics

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Dave Foxen, the varsity wrestling coach alias olympic hopeful has been hard at work lately chalking up wins against wrestlers from all over the globe. Foxen is home from a tourney in Cuba and will be facing the Japanese National Team in mid March in the National colliseum in New York.

Foxen won the tourney in Cuba with a four and zero record, a pin and a superior decision. In the first two rounds, he wrestled two Cubans, defeating them with a first period pin in the first bout and a 15-0 superior decision in the second.

In semi-final action, he edged by a Canadian 5-3. "I was pretty beat," Foxen said, "I was glad when the match was over."

Foxen defeated a Bulgarian wrestler in the finals with a 9-4 score. "It was a hard match, he was probably the best guy I wrestled," Foxen said. "I felt like I had his number though."

Foxen was one of four Americans to win in the Cuban tournament giving America a second place title, second only to the host country. Russia placed third with three first place titles. "There were no Russians in my weight class, they are usually the best team," Foxen said.

In mid march, the wrestler from UMass will be one of ten Americans to take on the Japanese National Team in a dual meet. The Japanese will be wrestling in New York as part of a tour.

On home shores, Foxen has three tourney championships under his belt since Christmas: the Rose Bowl of Wrestling - Willes Open, the New York Athletic Club Tourney, and the Michigan Open. He was seeded first in the Rose Bowl and new York tournament.

Brad Park and Gerry Cheevers fight with Detroit's Dan Labraaten in last night's game, won by the Bruins 5-3. (AP Laserphoto)

Mike Estrada

Nobody cared

You probably don't care about the women's basketball team, right? Don't be offended, you're not alone. Judging by the size of the last few crowds this season at Curry Hicks Cage, the student population is more interested in the men's hoop team which finished with fewer wins than Denny Doyle had home-runs in 1976.

But then again, that's the nature of our society, we always go for the underdog.

The UMass women's basketball team ended its season last weekend with a loss to Fordham 81-63 in the first round of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Eastern tournament. Still don't care? read on.

When the greats of UMass men's basketball end their college careers, a la Alex Eldridge, they were enshrined at the Cage, basking before the multitudes of fans there to show their appreciation.

Sue Peters ended her college basketball career at UMass this weekend and nobody cared. If you missed the show, there's no second act: Peters end with more points than any other UMass basketball player ever. She scored the last points in the last game of this season.

Yet she had to stand by silently in Fordham's Rose Hill Gym last Friday while Ann Gregory, the Rams equivalent to Peters in terms of point scoring and finesse, received a standing ovation from the hometown fans. When Sue Peters finished her last Cage game two weeks ago against Northeastern all she got was flowers and a few handshakes from the 300 or so fans who payed to be there. Nobody cared.

The woman who just about singlehandedly put UMass women's basketball on the map, a local talent from Southbridge, that could play every aspect of the game very well, a star who came a shade away from making the Pan-American team last year, ended standing alone at mid court watching two temmates cut their own nets down. In four years, UMass basketball and the name of Sue Peters became synonymous.

"They (Peters and senior Jen Parker) have gone a long way with UMass and left a lot of themselves here," said coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, who started her Umass career the same time as Peters. "We have built a foundation that will last."

Peters said she was looking forward to the 79-80 season with great expectations after recalling that last year she was thinking about the team they would have this year. A seasoned Julie Ready and Peters looked to be the inside/outside combination that would put Umass in the nationals. And then Maura Supinski, a close friend and three-year on court associate of Peters got hurt; no questions, out for the season. When Julie Ready was sidelined late this season with her stress fracture, Peters was left holding the bag. A team that had shown so much potential began to break apart.

Beating Fordham would have proven, if to no one else but themselves, that the women's basketball team is the best show in town. But it wasn't to happen. I don't know which was sadder; seeing Ginger Leager retire to the end of the bench in tears after her fifth foul or Julie Ready throw two errant passes in a row while painfully running on a fractured foot. Man, it was a frustrating season.

"We never did reach our potential," said senior guard Jen Parker. "Everyone was looking for someone else to do it. I know I kept looking for Sue instead of taking the initiative myself."

And as Sue Peters lined up her shot with 11 seconds left in the game, witnesses swear that she looked up at the clock, knowing full well that this was it for UMass, her last shot. She made good, and nobody cared.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CIX, ISSUE 99 Student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst Friday, March 7, 1980

Hearings to begin this month

State Commission declines to investigate UM buildings

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

Chairman John W. Ward of the Special Commission Concerning State and County Buildings said yesterday the commission's upcoming corruption hearings will be "dramatic" and "raise people off their seats."

Former Amherst College President John W. Ward, who is now chairman of a special commission investigating construction of state buildings, speaks at a Collegian-sponsored press conference yesterday. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

However, at a press conference sponsored by the Collegian, Ward said that because of time and resource limitations the commission will not investigate any university structures.

Despite pressure from commission members, the blue-ribbon panel will finish its work when its legislative mandate expires June 30, he said. In its two years of existence, the commission has spent $1.3 million investigating public construction. Ward termed the present management of construction as "incredibly inept."

Ward said the hearings, scheduled to begin March 20, will reveal "severe conflicts of interest, outright illegality, and corruption" in the Bureau of Building Construction. The BBC was responsible for the erection of both the UMass library tower and Tilson steam plant.

Of the UMass Building Authority, the ex-Amherst College President said, "We've had no allegations of any individual acts of wrongdoing or malfeasance."

The Building Authority was charged with the construction of $80 million worth of university buildings, including the Campus Center Garage, and many dormitories.

Ward said the commission did not act in the case brought against the architect of the 26-story library by the Attorney General's office because UMass trustees had already requested legal action.

The legislative package submitted by the commission in December includes abolishing the BBC and replacing it with a new Division of Capital Planning.

Because the architectural firm of Edward Durell Stone was dissolved after his death in 1978, "There is a very slender chance, that if it's a design failure, that there will be much restitution in terms of dollars," Ward said.

Ward said in the case of negligence, the state can reconstitute a firm to bring legal action.

The attorney general's office filed a three-count suit on Feb. 15 against Stone's widow and business associates in connection with the design of the library.

The three pieces of legislation filed on behalf of the commission by Senate President William Bulger and House Speaker Thomas Mcgee, propose: restructuring the system of public construction, making commercial bribery a crime, and establishing a new Inspector General's office.

Ward said he expects opposition to the reforms from Gov. Edward King's administration rather than from the state Legislature. King may wish to revise the present system rather than institute an entirely new one, Ward said.

The cost of enacting the reforms have not yet been estimated but they may cost more, particularly with establishing the Inspector General's office, Ward said. That office would oversee and possibly audit all state-funded agencies and projects.

King's budget: Cutbacks to hurt education quality

By MARC FAGELSON
and BRIAN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

KING

The bottom line is this. Over the next couple of years, UMass students will be paying more for their education and getting less. According to Governor Edward J. King's 1981 UMass budget proposals, the University faces drastic cuts in the areas of personnel, maintenance and repairs, equipment, and—you guessed it—financial aid.

The trustees requested $2.6 million for Student Aid Programs in next year's budget. Governor King's recommendation was close to $800,000 under that figure; a decrease of over 30 percent. Ken Moore, a member of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy said King's cut in the budget, "may place an economic burden on students."

News Analysis

For the University's full-time employees, King recommended a 4.14 percent cut in the proposed budget. The trustees requested an increase of $1.25 million over this year's expenditures, but King's recommendation was over 2 percent below the amount spent this year.

Moore said the cuts could prevent students from getting courses they want and added, "The cuts will decrease the quality of education."

The most severe cut, however, is in funding for equipment used in classrooms. Microscopes, typewriters, and other classroom needs will be curtailed if King's recommendation is implemented. King undercut the trustees' proposal for next year by almost 60 percent. The trustees asked for nearly $1.4 million, King recommended $563,000 be used for upgrading equipment. King's recommendation is 19.5 percent below this year's expenditures, a loss of mo e than 32 percent in the University's purchasing power when inflation is accounted for.

If the Governor has his way on the 1981 UMass budget, students can expect no improvements in campus maintenance, less financial aid, reduced numbers of faculty and courses, and a reduction in the already dwindling supply of classroom equipment.

If the budget, which will be completed in June, looks anything like King's recommendations, 1981 may prove to be a year students would rather forget.

The future, for UMass at least, looks grim.

Marceau sees growing interest in mime

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Marcel Marceau, world's foremost pantomimist, breaks out of his silent world occasionally. During his third UMass appearance at the Fine Arts Center Tuesday night, Marceau again delighted a capacity crowd. The 11 pantomimes he presented evoked periodic laughter and a side range of happy and bittersweet emotions.

A backstage interview after the show, revealed Marceau the man. With grey hair freshly towel-dried, casual pants and sweater, and aging facial lines, it would be difficult to recognize this master who is always seen in white face.

Standing in a crowded hallway, with a child periodically screaming and crying, and his company manager Alex Holt standing close by to assure the interview remained short, Marceau's words in a medium-thick French accent did not lose their excitement or artistic flair.

Marceau amiably said he did not want to "speak his biography." Instead he spoke about his delight in performing at colleges. "On the campuses we have the greatest enthusiasm, the greatest energy, and the greatest expectations," he said.

"American universities they all want a better life; a better world. You can feel the way they receive the show—there is such fantastic energy and outstanding enthusiasm. This is very important bacause the youth of America will be later the leaders of the world. They will be the doctors, lawyers, politicians."

Marceau believes interest in watching and participating in mime has grown. "In just 25 years I have toured the United States 15 times, played all legitimate theaters in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and the one-night stands through the years. Through the explosion of the next generation, our art became more popular. "When I got to this country(1965), I am aware that I am responsible for the renaissance, of the mime, of the theater today. There was in France a tradition (of mime) but not in America."

"Such a thing as the silent theater had no place in America except for slapstick, clown, Red Skelton, Jerry Lewis, and Danny Kaye of American films."

"On the same importance of real theater, like ballet and modern dance, I made mime a real independent art able to compete with the regular theater. For future generations, there are so many mimes in America, (about 600 current American mime companies) there has been a mime craze that I think is very deep in the roots of America. We touch the soul of the people, we have a constant tour, we reach everybody despite the customs. If we go to any part (of the world) people know us because it is passed on to other generations."

Marceau also believes his art is universally accepted, "crossing all language barriers." "I will not say that we attract only a special public. I think it is a general public, through television appearances that has made me popular. It is exposure of course, but never I think will television be as beartiful as the legitimate stage. We draw 3,000 people a night, it's not like a rock concert but I think it

TURN TO PAGE 10

DIGEST

Former President Gerald Ford said yesterday "he'd have a hard time saying no" if enough people ask him to jump into the 1980 presidential race. (AP Laserphoto)

'Draft-Ford' group is formed

[AP] — Gerald R. Ford inched closer yesterday to entering the presidential race, as a national draft-Ford committee was formed to encourage him to make the jump. If enough people ask, the former president, "I'd have a hard time saying no."

Creation of the draft committee was announced by former Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed, who said Ford should know that many Americans agree he "offers the best alternative to the bankrupt policies" of the Carter administration.

Council to take over captives

[AP] — The Moslem militants who have held some 50 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for 124 days yesterday asked the ruling Revolutionary Council to take over responsibility for the captives.

The council met later, agreed to assume custody of the hostages and said it would set up a special "commission" that would meet today to look into arrangements for transferring responsibility for them.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh made it clear the Iranian government still considers the Americans hostages, however.

"Our conditions are rather clear" for their release, he told reporters, apparently referring to three conditions set down by President Abolhassan BaniSadr — a U.S. government admission of guilt in interference in past Iranian affairs, a pledge not to do so in the future and a promise not to block Iranian efforts to extradite the deposed shah and his "stolen wealth."

Subcommittee kills female draft

WASHINGTON [AP] — A House subcommittee voted 8-1 yesterday to kill President Carter's request for authority to include women in a draft registration program.

The vote, the first congressional test of sentiment for registering women, does not affect registration of men.

The issue of male registration is tied up in the House Appropriations Committee, where budgetary problems have stalled a vote on Carter's request for money to start registration this summer.

The vote against including women in registration was taken in the House Armed Services military personnel subcommittee, where members argued there is no military need to register women.

Rep. Richard White, D-Texas, the panel's chairman, said the whole purpose of registration is to provide a manpower reservoir for combat. He said that since women would not be sent to combat, there is no need to register them.

Bass SUPER SUNJUNS SALE

2 STYLES
2 COLORS
medium & narrow widths
all sizes available
Reg. $38
SALE $26.95

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Downtown Amherst
10-6:00 Mon. Sat. 253-5035

Correction

In Tuesday's article on parking fee hearing in Boston, it was inadvertantly reported the National Association of Government Employees supported the proposed action. The NAGE was present at the hearing, but did not speak out in favor or against the bill.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding January, June, July, and August, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003. Second class postage paid at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

ATTENTION SENIORS

All Graduating Seniors who have been awarded National Direct Student Loans or Nursing Student Loans are required to attend one of the following "Exit Interviews":

Thursday, March 6, 1980, 7:00 p.m.
or
Friday, March 7, 1980, 7:00 p.m.
in
Peters Auditorium in Goessman Building

This is a Federal regulation. Failure to comply will result in an Administrative Withdrawal.

Essay: My Side of the Mountain

By STEPHEN WEINER

Editors Note: The following is one of four runner-up essays in a contest sponsored by the Collegian's Women's Dept. and the Massachusetts Press Association.

It was dark in the hallway that connected Bartlett to Herter hall and I walked alone through it. A women approached me from the opposing direction. "Hi," I said, because I was lonely and trying to be friendly. She smiled at me, then hurried past. A few seconds later I realized I was heading the wrong way down the corridor, actually I wanted to be in Bartlett hall, so I abruptly turned around and went toward Bartlett. My footsteps echoed against the floor as I marched. Presumably the woman ahead of me heard me, as she jerked her head around, examined me for a moment, then started scurrying up the hallway and took a sharp right into the women's room. I stopped a moment, pondered the event, shrugged my shoulders, then walked on. Perhaps she thought I was going to atttack her, I told myself. It must be terrible to be so afraid.

I kept thinking about the incident and very soon I began to feel angry. I felt angry because all I had done was turn around, and my turning around, coupled with the fact that we two were the only people in the hallway, created enough fear in a stranger that she ducked into a room to avoid any sort of confrontation with me. The confrontation she imagined would have never taken place.

This brings me to one of the points of my essay, and that is: there is so much distrust between men and women currently that the simplest interchange between them can be interpreted completely mistakenly. As a male, I feel a victim of a broad and mistaken generalization—that generalization being that all men are assumed sexist, and therefore should not be trusted by women. The incident which I participated in as I walked along the corridor is a fine illustration of what I mean.

One of the excellent results of the Feminist movement is that it has helped people become more aware of the almost inexhaustible evidences of sexism which is rampant in our society. These examples range from Soap Operas, to "Men's" magazines to jokes destructive to women. I would be lying to deny that sexism is there, but the problem, I feel, is that the sexism is our society has, for too many women, become equated with MEN, not the society itself, which is populated by men and women. Many women believe that all men want is sexual fulfillment and that men can't or won't respect women. This is what hurts me. I feel that women are angry and have a good right to be angry, but that they are mistaken about their enemy. Their oppressor is not MEN, but the systems that have dominated both male and female mentalities for at least as long as America has been a nation.

As a man who is repulsed by sexism, I feel oppressed by women who assume I am sexist. When I try to understand feminist issues, often in classrooms, I find I am often cut off by the statement "You'll never understand because you're not a woman." To this statement, my defensive reply is "Why then, should I try?"

Blanket statements like "you'll never understand because you're not a woman," oppress the hell out of me because I end up feeling the way many women must feel—like I am not being taken seriously. I often feel played with by feminists and cut off from the very issues I am trying to grapple with.

As a person in this society I have two choices of how to act in accordance with the Feminist movement—I can support it or I can undermine it. Since I choose to support it I am already placing myself in a minority. Since I am a man supporting it that minority becomes microscopic. I imagine it is easier for women to find other non-sexist women than it is for non-sexist men to find other non-sexist men. Non-sexist men have a particular problem which I shall try to explain in the remainder of this essay. What used to be whistfully called "the battle of the sexes" in the 1930's 40's and 50's, has exploded into the Feminist movement of the 60's, 70's, and 80's. Men have felt threatened by women for a long time because, Darwin suggested, women can give birth. As a result men are jealous. The education of a male reflects this jealousy. Men are told as they grow up that beauty is exclusively a playboy bunny, that wives are like Lucille Ball and that the perfect man is Humphrey Bogart who is completely capable in every situation and never lets his genuine emotions be displayed. Is it any wonder so many men have nightmares about becoming emotional?

The Feminist movement is threatening to men because it wants to repaint the worn images of men and women in our society. This idea confuses many men, and their natural response is to defend themselves, as they feel attacked. They disregard women and put them down intellectually.

Now if you're a woman and you're walking along and six men charge up to you and one of them says "I like your tits," and then they all start laughing, I imagine it would be terrifying to yell "Fuck off," because you would be scared and humiliated and afraid you might be attacked. But I think it would be equally hard for one of the six men to turn to the other five and say "that's disgusting."

Do you realize what this man has just done? He hasn't said that his five friends were impolite, and he hasn't said "you're approach could use a little work," he has told five men, himself being the sixth man, all these men friends, that they have a disgusting attitude toward women. These men all love their mothers and send their sisters birthday cards and until that moment have never considered themselves even remotely sexist.

The one who spoke has betrayed men. This man can no longer identify himself with this group. He is alone. There is a tense stillness in the air and then one of the other men will say "It was only a joke" and everyone will laugh, and in that moment the one who spoke out will wonder "am I wrong?" because if he's right why don't more men agree with him? But he has revealed himself and he cannot go back. Sexist men consider non-sexist men traitors, so as a result, most non-sexist men keep their affinities under cover. My own "gentleness," as it has been sarcastically called, is only exposed in moments of extreme and impatient anger.

Whether a man is a discovered non-sexist or not

TURN TO PAGE 6

Upcoming Women's Week events

Editor's note: Check the Campus Center Assistance Desk for schedule changes. Childcare is available if prior arrangements are made with Susan Markman at 5-0883.

Friday, March 7

Afternoon:

1:00-3:00 -- "Reproductive Rights Organizing and the New Right" planning meeting. Roberta Russell facilitator. Campus Center 176.

2:30-4:00 -- "Carribean Women" The problems and issues of concern to Caribbean women. Gloria Joseph facilitator. Campus Center 176.

3:00-5:00 -- "Open House - Happy Hour at the Northeast Woman Center" B-4 Lewis House, UMass.

Evening:

7:30 p.m. -- Women's Film Festival. Campus Center 101.

Saturday, March 8

Morning:

10:30-12:00 -- "Independence of Disabled Women" and "Puerto Rico" Campus Center 174.

Afternoon:

12:00-1:30 -- "Alcohol, Family, and Sexuality" Lisa Thompson facilitator. Campus Center 176.

12:30-2:00 -- "Childcare in the Pioneer Valley - Issues and Problems" Campus Center 165. Pioneer Valley Childcare services, how to select a daycare, financial aid, and starting co-ops. Elizabeth Perkins (Coordinator of Daycare at UMass) facilitator.

12:00-4:00 -- "Resource Fair" Campus Center Concourse.

12:30-2:00 -- "Older Women" Campus Center 169.

2:00-4:00 -- "Woman's History - Lost, Stolen or Strayed?" Historian Diane Bolger will make a presentation on the development of women in society. Campus Center 101.

4:00-6:00 -- Plenary Session: A summary of the week's events. Susan Markman, Naledi Nkomo and Jamila Gaston, facilitators. Campus Center 101.

Evening:

8:00-11:00 -- "ODETTA CONCERT" Student Union Ballroom UMass. Tickets are $3.00 in advance and $4.00 at the door and are available at TIX and the Everywoman's Center. Call Suman Bohm, 545-0883 for further information.

Women's panel speaks, tells of work and struggle

By JANE DEVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

A panel of women actively involved in social, economic, and political change talked about their individual work and struggle Wednesday night at the Campus Center as part of International Women's Week.

Speaking to an audience of about 100 women and three men, all speakers exhibited emotion, struggle, and determination, while a spirited optimism prevailed in the audience's cheers and applause.

"I am a mother who has been discriminated against because I am a lesbian," said Bunny King, a women who is currently involved in a custody case for her two children. While ill, King voluntarily gave custody of her children to another women who, she claims, has since abused them. In tears, she said she has been denied an adequate trial and visiting privileges with her children because the courts said she was "too radical."

"My mind has been opened because of the system," she said. "I have been deprived of my children because of my sexual preference and since freedom in this country costs such an incredible amount."

"I'm divorced, have a child, and I thought I couldn't afford to strike," said Debbie Phillips, a WESCO Co. worker who has been involved in a 20-week strike. "We'd all taken more than our share," she said. She told of excessive violence by the police who used clubs on the women's legs and one in particular who "loved knocking the women down on their ass." "They were real nasty," Phillips said.

Madonna Thunderhawk, a native American who represents the Women of All Red Nations organization, spoke on her work for native American sovereignity, treaty rights, and ecological problems.

CARP accuses BOG of discrimination

By MICHAEL FOLEY
Collegian Staff

Members of the Collegiate Association for Research and Principles last night accused the Campus Center Board of Governors of using discriminatory procedures in setting up a table to inform students of CARP's alleged connection to the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

Michael Pill, an ex-Board member who advises the board on legal issues passed out a copy of the first amendment as the meeting began.

Herb Myr, speaking for CARP, said the "procedure" the Board used "should have been more objective." Myr said he would have perferred "an open debate."

Later, board members and interested students posed questions to the CARP representatives at the meeting, which was open to the public.

Calling the procedure "discriminatory", Myr said he feared the Board's action "might reduce academic freedom."

Ruth Smith, a UMass student, asked Myr why CARP was at UMass, what their purpose was and why they chose the Campus Center concourse to distribute their information.

"Obviously its an active spot," Myr said.

Myr said he wanted to work for social justice, saying he believed solutions to world problems have to have an ideological base.

"We are an ideological movement for the purpose of changing ideologies," Myr said.

Myr said CARP is a student organization, now present at thirty-five universities world-wide. "I hope they are present at hundreds shortly," he said. "I see American young people as having a great potential."

Pressed about CARP's association to the Unification Church Myr said "Most of our members are Unification members."

Myr said he liked Rev. Moon and thought his teachings were sound. But he would not say CARP is a front organization for recruiting new members for the Unification Church.

Mother condemns CARP

[Editors note — This letter was hand delivered to the Collegian's executvie editor yesterday afternoon by its author.]

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter in response to a picture taken at the Campus Center and published in the Amherst Record which was captioned regarding students asking CARP (Collegiate Association for the Research into Principles) members about their "alleged" connection with Rev. S.Y. Moon's Unification church and their purpose on campus. CARP is one of the sections of the Unificaton church and is totally committed to Rev. Moon and the furthering of his plans. The CARP members will lie or hedge about this connection (they are taught and coached to do this) but I know of their devious and brain-washing methods first-hand, as my daughter has been a member of the Unification Church nearly four years (over two years of which she has been a CARP member — mostly on the west coast). My daughter is a graduate of the U. of Mass., majoring in Child Development and had taught in N.Y. state in Special Children schools there. Due to a marital break-up and personal problems which left her in a low ebb in her life, she was recruited on the street in New York City. She has always been highly motivated in helping people and wanting to make this a better world and this was the origianl bait used. In the four years she has been involved, my husband and I saw her once in New York City at which time we were lulled into a false security regarding her freedom of movement, choice, etc. She has been constantly moved (mostly campuses in the west since a CARP member). I have attempted to keep in touch with her throughout this time. It is so frustrating and heart-breaking to our family to see the complete control of our daughter's mind and body and future and the awful waste of her many talents, that I must speak out and warn any student to beware. If you are depressed about studies or personal problems, don't be inveigled into a false haven or a weekend seminar, etc. Be aware of what you are getting into and know that your freedom is at stake. Sometimes we take the concept of freedom lightly but when you see the result of total control of thought, movement, body, and soul, freedom is a priceless gift.

A freedom loving mother

UMass student serving summons is 'harassed'

By SEAN HARVEY
Collegian Staff

A UMass student appointed by Springfield Federal Court to serve a summons to a UMass police officer said yesterday he felt he was "harassed and intimidated" by the officer.

Walter Martin served a summons on March 3 to officer William F. Murphy. Martin said Murphy kept asking him who sent him and how much he was getting paid. He then demanded and received Martin's license and copied down his name, social security number, home address and birthdate. Murphy then said Martin was refusing to cooperate and proceeded to read him his rights.

"He (Murphy) got me shaken up because I thought he was going to arrest me," Martin said.

Martin was delivering the summons to Murphy to notify him a suit was being brought against him by two former UMass students on charges of illegal and unconstitutional abuse of the state's protective custody law.

UMass Legal Service Office Attorney Charles DiMare, who represents the two former students, said a Federal Marshall would ordinarily deliver the summons but he had Martin appointed because it is cheaper and Marshalls are backlogged three to four weeks.

"I question the professionalism of some UMass police officers," DiMare said.

Under the Laws of Procedure any disinterested person over the age of eighteen is eligible to serve a summons, DiMare said, provided he is appointed by a court. Martin has been relieved of his duties and a new summoner appointed.

Martin said he is looking into the legal implications of the matter.

"He (Murphy) was popping me with questions right and left and trying to make me feel uncomfortable," Martin said. "I think he would have known better than to do that to a Federal Marshall.

The Kinks — The Kinks entertained another sellout crowd at the Fine Arts Center last night. (Staff photo by Steve Thomas)

Roger Duchesneau types a suggestion from Tad Weiss into the computer terminal in their room. Both of these freshmen Engineering majors reside on the 18th floor of John Adams Tower in the Southwest Residential Area. (Staff photo by J. Ferrarone)

Students encouraged to run for Town Meeting positions

By LARRY DWIGHT
Collegian Staff

Town of Amherst public services that UMass students use are in danger of being cut or limited, "by what is decided in the up-coming town meetings" said Arvid Muller, legislative research assistant with the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA).

A limit to spending increase has been set at 4 percent for the 1980 fiscal year by Mass. Gov. Edward J. King.

"To insure that students are represented at the town meetings, we are encouraging them to become a Town Meeting Member," said Muller. According to Muller, only 240 people are allowed to vote on the appropriations for 1980, and 80 of those seats are open for nomination and election.

To become a Town Meeting Member, any student registered in Amherst must first get on the ballot. Nomination papers may be obtained at the Town Clerk's Office on the first floor of the Town Hall in the center of Amherst.

The student must then get the signatures of at least ten people registered in the same precinct. The deadline to submit nomination papers to the Town Clerk's office is 4:30 PM on March 11.

Town Clerk Estelle Matusko advises students to get 12 signatures in case not all of the people are registered.

Elections for Town Meeting Members are on April 8th. The last day to register for these elections is March 19. Those students elected "have the responsibility to represent their constituents at the Town Meetings, being held starting April 28th," said Muller.

There are seven precincts in the town of Amherst. Precinct One includes Puffton Village, North Village Apartments, Townhouse Apartments, and Presidential Apartments. Precinct Two includes Village Park, and Butterfield Dormitory in Central Residential Area. The rest of Central is in Precinct Three along with Sylvan, Northeast, and Orchard Hill. All of Southwest and the fraternities are in Precinct 4. The area around the center of Amherst is Precinct 5. Colonial Village and Rolling Green are in Precinct 6. Precinct 7 includes Brittany manor, Riverglade Apartments, and Southwood Apartments.

Students are urged to contact the Town Clerk's Office for further information.

Black Affairs

Pictured above is acclaimed Folksinger Odetta, who has 19 albums to her credit, specializess in work and prison songs, while accompanying herself on the guitar. She is equally at home with blues, lullabies, ballads and spirituals.

Robert Sheldon of the New York Times said Odetta "has a voice so large and a physical presence so commanding, recordings have yet to do her complete justice."

Tickets to see Odetta are $3.00 if obtained beforehand from the TIX office in the Student Union Building or at the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall. Tickets may also be obtained for $4.00 at the door on the night of Odetta's performance. She will be appearing on Saturday March 8th in the Student Union Ballroom at 8:00.

Historical Analysis

This article is the second in a two part series by James Lewis. He sketches the turbulent history of the 1960's when the Civil Rights struggle was at it's peak.

African Americans were ready for change. During the 1960's, prior to 1965 civil rights demonstrations erupted in approximately 800 cities and towns across the United States.

The public's attention centered on the great Aug. 29 march on Washington D.C. About 200,000 people participated in the demonstration for jobs and civil liberties. This was one of the largest demonstrations ever held in the nation's capital.

The demonstrations and the riots were of grave concern to Americans. The riots followed a pattern. They were often started by a particular incident such as confrontations with white police. Riots included burning and looting, mostly of white owned businesses in the Black Community, but schools, hospitals, public institutions and housing were usually not damaged.

African Americans had many reasons to be upset. They were denied voting privileges in many sections of the country, they were confined to ghetto housing, they were brutalized by police, lynched by whites, they had high unemployment, inadequate health care, and underfunded schools.

The Johnson administration budgeted $76 billion for the military and he allocated 15 billion for education, health, welfare, housing and community development in 1968.

From July 18 to July 23, 1964, rioting swept through New York City's Harlem and Bedford Stuvesant areas. Insurrections followed in Rochester, New York, Jersey City, Patterson and Elizabeth in NewJersey. In Chicago rioting or other forms of civil disobedience broke out in the Dixmoore suburb and in Pennsylvania Philadelphia was a center of discontent.

King's push for voter rights continued in 1965. In February 21 of that Year Malcolm X was assasinated. On March 7 of that year Governor George Wallace (Alabama) sent armed state troopers to break up a demonstration by King and his followers.

The violence and resulting deaths that occurred because of that decision put pressure on the Johnson administration to pass the Voters Right act, which he did on March 15, 1965.

Six days later 50,000 people joined King in Montgomery Alabama and the Voters Rights act was enacted by congress in the summer of 1965. Between 1964 and 1968 voter registration among southern Blacks rose 50 percent.

Even with the victories of the Acts of 1964 and 1965 the United States was far from the land of opportunity for the majority of Blacks. Whats more each small gain for civil rights had taken long periods of time. There were groups of civil rights workers, particularly the young who were getting impatient with the slow rate of progress.

Stokely Carmichael was then a member of the Student Non Violent Coordination Committee (SNCC). By 1965 he had his fill of non-violence. SNCC members had been murdered in Mississippi. The murder of Malcolm X was still fresh in the minds of those that admired him. A white mob at one of Kings demonstrations had begun to chant "white Power" before they stoned King.

Stokely Carmichael began to advocate a Nationalist approach, calling for more militant action against all forms of oppression.

On August 11, the Watts area of Los Angeles exploded in six days of rioting aimed at police and private property. 15,000 national guardsmen and 1500 law enforcement officers were brought in to restore law and order.

At the end of these six days of chaos 34 people were dead, 856 were injured, 3100 were arrested and there was an estimated 20 million in damage.

1967 there was little release from racial tension. In Detroit alone there were over 150 racial outbreaks that were racially motivated.

The mainstream of America became increasingly reactionary as police began equipping themselves with automatic rifles, machine guns and tanks.

After a riot in Newark New Jersey a conference of Militants called for Black separatism and armed black militia. Carmichael appeared on Cuban television calling for "world wide guerilla warfare. H. Rap Brown, SNCC's new Chairman termed the riots "a dress rehearsal for revolution."

To whites watching and listening on television or living close to the violence on T.V. it seemed their world was being taken away from them.

On April 4, 1968 Martin Luther King was shot down by an assasin's bullet. The nation was never before in so much internal turmoil save for the civil war. Riots swept across the nation in a show of anger and defiance.

It was because of this legacy of both violent and not violent direct action on the part of Black Americans that allowed for political and economic gains.

Between 1965 and 1975, the number of registered Voters in the South rose from 1 million to 1.5 million. By the end of 1976 the United States had 152 Black mayors, 16 of them governing cities with populations exceeding 50,000, including Detroit, Los Angeles, Washington, Newark, Gary and Atlanta.

Willie Saunder's fight for freedom

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Special to Black Affairs staff

As a member of a panel for International Women's Week on "Women, Family and Social Change," Magnolia Saunder, founder of the Willie Saunders Defense Committee and sister of Willie, spoke of her struggle to clear her brother's name in connection with the rapes of black women that occurred in the Brighton section of Boston during 1979.

"Rape has been used throughout history to oppress the black man," said Saunders. "There exists a double standard of justice and scape-goating an innocent black man does not protect any of us."

She got together with her family of 13 to defend her brother and raise $10,000 in bail to free Willie from the Charles St. jail.

"The media convicted my brother," she claimed. "The community demanded an arrest and the police took the attitude that 'any nigger will do.' the fact that we could account for his where abouts made no difference to them."

"We must examine each case individually. Rape of a black woman should not be considered differently than that of a white woman. It was clearly a case of mistaken identity," said Ms. Saunders.

Since Magnolia has been involved in clearing Willie's name, she claims she has been "attacked politically by the District Attorney, William Bellotti's office." She charges that they have subpoened her telephone records, checked her bank account, harassed, and intimidated her. Magnolia said "there's only so much I'll let them do to me," and she is fighting back by bringing suit against the D.A.

"Willie's case is not an isolated one. The police didn't think we would rally around him like we did," said Ms. Saunder, "but the system has made me more militant...a person for justice and freedom.Hopefully Willie's case will enlighten a lot of brothers and sisters to the inequalities they may encounter in our judicial system."

Mugabe joins forces

With the announcement of Robert Mugabe's sweeping election victory and his nomination as Prime Minister-designate, the hopes of the Rhodesia's black majority were once again raised in a belief that their subordination to whites has finally ended.

Mr. Mugabe, whose party captured 57 of the 100 seats in the new Parliament, spent the day Wednesday in meetings with Joshua Nkomo, co-leader of the Patriotic Front guerilla alliance that forced the whites to concede majority rule and with members of his own party, the Zimbabwe African National Union Patriot Front. The meetings were called to consider the formation of the "national front" government that Mugabe has said he intends to establish with Nkomo, whose party was runner up in the elections with 20 seats.

Nkomo confirmed during the day that he will be joining the government either as a senior minister or as a titular President of the new state of Zimbabwe. Nkomo, who is 63 years old, is widely viewed among blacks as the founder of the modern nationalist movement.

According to Justin Nyoka, spokesman for Mugabe, the new leader also plans to expand the coalition by "co-opting" other elements. The purpose would be to arrange for a government that will inspire confidence from all sectors of the community. Since his victory earlier this week Mugabe has sought to reassure the 200,000 white minority community. Nyoka said that top officials in all government departments had agreed to remain in office under Mugabe.

Britain, which temporarily resumed power as the colonial authority in December, also continued to reassure the white community.

Even though the British government wants to avoid any direct role in the early days of an independent Zimbabwe, Gen. John Acland, head of the cease fire monitoring force said Britain may maintain a military presence in the country for "several years" if invited to do so.

Announcements

Contest

The Malcolm X Center is having a contest for drawings on a new logo. Deadline: March 31, Prize is 10.00. Please submit all entries to any staff member at the Center. UMass students are encouraged to submit original drawings to be printed on tee-shirts and pamphlets.

Committee

All students interested on being on the committee for Martin Luther King Week, there is going to be a meeting Friday, March 7, at 2:00 in room 308 (Office of Third World Affairs).

Study group

Any female or male Afro-American students and/or non-student in the pioneer Valley/Five College Area are invited to participate in the Black Political Study Group. Please call Steve Coons (549-4523 or 545-0472).

The group will have its first meeting this Sunday March 9 at 12:00 Noon at A-7 North Village Apt., Amherst, Ma.

Theatre

Third World Theater Series is presenting "I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW". This play is a documentary play with music, tracing the inner lives of working class women from the early 1900's to the present. It portrays the struggle of working class women. We see the exploitation in many industries, in homes as servants, as janitors living in sordid housing conditions. It depicts Black, Hispanic, Asian, and White women all with the same basic problems of making ends meet every week. "I JUST WANTED SOMEONE TO KNOW" will be presented Monday, March 10, 1980 at 8:00 p.m., tickets are $2.00 students and $3.00 Gen. public at Bowker Aud. University of Mass.

Benefit

Blacks In Contact, a social group of Third World residents of George Washington Towers, will sponsor a soul food dinner and slide show. The slide show will be presented by Tony Crayton. Donations for this event is $1.00 all proceeds will go to Sicle Cell Anemia Foundation. Tickets must be purchased in advance by 6:00 p.m. Saturday at the Head of Residence apt. in George Washington Upper or call Sonia at 546-4505.

The Women's Media Project will be on the air for 24 hours from 6 p.m. Saturday March 8 to 6 a.m. Sunday March 9 with women's music, interviews and documentaries.

Spiritness

You are cordially invited to "Spirit-ness" — an evening with Bobby Dee at the Top of the Campus (11th floor, Campus Center) March 7 & 8 at 9:30 p.m. The show feaures Bobby Davis...vocals and key board; Gail Hart...vocals; Jim Bridges...guitar; Shirley Hairston...vocals; Artie Dixon...percussion; Clyde Criner...keyboards; Fred Spence...bass and Royal Hartigan...drums.

Music

Afro-American Music Series presents a faculty performance: Dr. Salvatore Macchia on string bass assisted by Clyde Crine on piano and Royal Hartigan on drum, Thursday, March 13 at 11:15 a.m., Bezanson Hall-FAC.

Around campus

Women's week fair

A Resource Fair is being sponsored by the International Women's Week Committee tomorrow from noon to 4 p.m. on the Campus Center Concourse. The fair is designed to provide an opportunity for people to become acquainted with a variety of community organizations. Among those represented will be: University Health Services, Abortion Action Coalition, Third World Women's Task Force, Lesbian's Union, and the Jewish Feminist Organization.

Women's week concert

The International Women's Week Committee will present folksinger Odetta in concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Tickets are $3 in advance at Everywoman's Center and TIX, and $4 at the door.

A prominent figure in the Women's and Civil Rights Movements, Odetta has released 19 albums and given concerts internationally throughout her 26 year career.

Award checks ready

All award checks, with the exception of BHE Honor awards, are now available in the Bursar's office in Whitmore. A current I.D. card is required and the office hours are 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Nobody is coming

The Nobody For President Campaign arrives in Amherst today, where a Rally For Nobody will take place at Amherst College at 7:30 p.m. in the Converse Red Room. The Nobody Rally continues at 10 p.m. in Hampshire College's East Lecture Hall. Nobody is welcome.

Join the Collegian and help us to keep our community informed!

FOUR SEASONS

Miller Beer 12 oz. btl.----------case 7.49
Budweiser Beer 12 oz. cans----------case 7.49
Falstaff Beer 12 oz. cans----------case 5.49
Mr. Boston Vodka ----------1.75 ltr. 8.99
Arrow Peppermint Schnapps 750 ml 4.49
Riunite Wines ---------1.5 ltr. 4.69 750 ml. 2.49

Open 9 am - 11 pm
Mon. - Sat.
Wines/Liquors
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
In front of the malls

Great Winter
SALE
20-40% off many Blouses & Skirts
50% off Grass Mats
20-50% off many Red Tag Specials
selected Jewelry, Gifts, Candles, Tea Sets, Boxes, etc.
Now through March 15

New Shipments
Posters — Bedspreads
Blouses — Skirts
Cards — Gifts
Jewelry
Open Daily 10 am - 5:30 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

ROY BROOKS, RAY MANTILLA, JOE CHAMBERS, WARREN SMITH, OMAR CLAY, MAX ROACH, FRED KING, FREDDIE WAITS

re:percussion

ARTISTIC DIRECTOR, MAX ROACH

ONE NIGHT ONLY
FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1980
at 8 P.M.

TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE AND TICKETRON OUTLETS

General public $6, $5, $4
Senior Citizens $5, $4, $3
All Students Half-Price $3, $2.50, $2

Phone reservations, mail orders, group discounts and group dinner-theater packages available. For more information call the Box Office (413) 545-2511, M-F, noon-5 p.m.

A Benefit for the Fletcher Henderson Music Scholarship Fund

WE'VE SHORTENED OUR NAME AND LENGTHENED OUR MENU

SALADS SUBMARINES SYRIANS

the sub

11 A.M. TO 2 A.M. / 7 DAYS

33 E. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST / 549-5160

The Special
¼ lb. ea. Turkey & Ham
The Super
Genoa-Pepperoni-Ham-Bologna-Provelone
Italian
Pepperoni-Genoa Salami Provelone
Combo
Ham Bologna Genoa Salami
Bologna
Cooked Salami
Genoa Salami
Roast Beef
Turkey
Ham
Ham & Cooked Salami
Ham & Genoa Salami

Crab Salad
Tuna Salad
Chicken Salad
Egg Salad

Foot Sub Dog
Foot Chili Dog

Meatball
Meatball & Chili

Vegetarian Cheese
American or Provelone

Italian Tossed Salad
Chef Salad

Soup
Chili

Find it all—find it fast in Collegian
classifieds

Monty Python's
LIFE OF BRIAN
Sat. - March 8th
CCA 5, 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Happy Hour at
Barselotti's
Every Friday from 3-6
Draft Beer 50c
Most Bottled Beer 75c
Pitchers of
Old Milwaukee $2.00
Most Drinks 75c
25c Drafts with a Barse's Mug
Free Whole Wheat Pizza
Free Peanuts
2 T.V.'s
Barselotti's
Downtown Amherst

★ Essay

CONT. FROM PAGE 2.

discovered is irrelevant to a greater problem confronting non-sexist men. The problem is: who is a man who is non-sexist? With what group does he ally himself? What is the model he can use as an example? This man will have problems with men's clubs and he won't laugh at most of the jokes in bars. Where will he go? Women won't trust him because he's a man. He really doesn't want to become an Indian yogi and live out in a cave eating uncooked rice and contemplating nothingness. This man could join a whole community of men outside his apartment and no longer be alone if only he could tell some raunchy jokes. The temptation to belong is strong.

It's hard not to go back. One of the reasons it's hard not to go back is because sexist men have a very secure identity. As a non-sexist man one could very easily have an identity crisis.

I never know how far to go. What are the borders of sexism? Is there an objective definition? Is Casablanca a sexist movie? Why aren't more best-sellers written by women? When a woman is hitchhiking behind a man and a car passes the man but stops for her is it sexism on her part to accept? Is pink for girls a sexist color?

What the Feminist movement has done for me is not only educate me, but alienate me as well. Worldwide, this seems to be the biggest oppressive issue, as every country has its token oppressed groups, but all countries have men and women. I believe that the non-sexist man is in an almost friendless state. I certainly don't enjoy the loneliness.

PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE
sponsors a
GAY DISCO
9pm - 1am
March 7, 1980
10th floor Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Admission $2

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 next to: Poor Richard's 256-0252

BLUE WALL
Campus Center
UMass
Presents— Friday
Happy Hour
with Steve Spelman
Happy Hour everyday 3-6 p.m.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

silverscape café
Natural Vegetarian Food
FREE Cup of Coffee w/any meal
Fresh Baked Quiche
Greek Antipasto Salad
Soups
Fine Wines
Imported Beers
Expresso Cappuccino
Whole Coffee Beans
The Yellow House
264 N. Pleasant St.
8 am midnite Mon. Sat.
12 am midnite Sunday

Getaway Sale starts FRIDAY, MARCH 7 ...through SAT., MARCH 15

our famous, re-cycled
CHINO SHORTS
reg. 7.95 4.95

CHINESE SHOES reg. 6.95 3.95
men's & women's sizes

DANSKIN
20% OFF

STRAW HATS 25% OFF
new Spring fashions, including Panamas

Roll Bags
reg. 21.95
14.95

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Editorial/Opinion

What's in a name?

LISA CAPONE

When I was born, my parents already had three children—all daughters—aged 10, 13, and 16. You might say I was a surprise. Consequently, Little Lisa had three different female role models to observe besides Mom.

As fate would have it, each of my sisters developed a unique sense of self and femininity. The oldest, Sandra, who was the product of my mother's first marriage, had a different last name. This fact of her heritage plagued her, and she looked forward to the day when she could rid herself of it—her wedding day. This day came at age 28, and she became a "Mrs."

Polly, probably the most traditional of my sisters, opted for a fairly early marriage, and "naturally" took hubby's name. She later divorced and remarried, and, unable to resolve her new identity, has decided to retain her first husband's name, instead of that of her present husband—and instead of her own name.

Then, there's Gloria. Single, beautiful, and a professional opera singer. Of course, she'll never change her name if and when she marries. No one expects her to; she's an artist, and artists must maintain their stage names so that audiences, critics, and agents can identify them.

Next comes me. Although there's no diamond on my finger, I anticipate marriage within the next ten years. The question remains—what to do about a name. Do you keep your "maiden name" for life? Take your husband's name? Hyphenate your name and his? Make up a new one? What?

It seems to me that after twenty-odd years of being Lisa Capone, I could not possibly discard the Capone in favor of Mr. Blank's last name. (Would life be complete without people asking me "Are you any relation to Al?")

The way I see it, Lisa Capone exists. She is me. She has been me for my whole life. She is my identity. And identity is a very intimate thing. How can I ever become Lisa Blank? She doesn't exist! She's not me, and I'll never be her.

I'm not saying that women who decide to become Mrs. Blank have no identities of their own. I'm just saying that one's name is an intricate part of one's being—more intricate than most might think. (What's in a name, right?) I believe that more is in a name than just letters and phonetics. Names lodge a lifetime of experiences and memories, nicknames and petnames.

Women have more choice in the name choosing game now than they have in the past. As long as the choice is there, why not put some thought into it?

It's your choice, and one you'll have to live with for a long time—maybe your whole life. Do you want to be a Mrs., or do you want to keep on being you?

Lisa Capone is the Women's Editor of the Collegian

Deja vu: Learning to unlearn

CHARLIE BAGLI

February 1980 was an anniversary of sorts for me. President Carter's call for the registration of men between the ages of 19 and 20 prompted my memory. It was eight years ago that I got my draft number in the Selective Service lottery. Eight years ago I had to confront the possibility of fighting and dying in a foreign country much the same way young people may have to in an as yet unnamed country if registration and the draft are resumed.

In 1971 I turned 18. The war was raging in Vietnam. I was supposed to register for the draft. The 2-S deferment ended the year I entered college. I was forced to really think about the war and what I was going to do.

It took me until January to figure out if I should register. Everyone registered. And I thought if I'm going to live here, I might as well register. A month later, February 1972, the Selective Service system had their lottery and I got my lucky number. It was three. That meant I would be one of the first people called. Without going to Vietnam I went into shellshock.

I felt like I had been asleep in high school but now I was being forced to wake up real fast and figure this thing out. For hours I would sit and stare out the window. This thing was turning my whole life inside out.

The U.S. had been in Vietnam for 10 years. 500,000 American soldiers were in Vietnam. More bombs were dropped on Indochina than in all the previous wars combined. One of the most fertile valleys in the world in Laos was converted into a bomb crater. It was mind boggling. I didn't hate the Vietnamese and I didn't want to fight for something I didn't believe in.

Our government had many explanations: We have to stop the commies, preserve freedom and democracy; or when they really got down to it they said, "Those yellow people put a different value on life than we do so it's alright to bomb them back into the Stone Age."

The more I looked into it, the more I thought the war was wrong. Certain details tended to get overlooked by our "leaders." The Theiu regime in South Vietnam was one of the most brutal and corrupt in the world. It survived only with American props. Many of the generals of the government regimes supported themselves by combining their "generalling" with creative pastimes like dope smuggling and torture. As a sidelight, the war turned out to be fairly profitable for many American corporations. The oil off the coast of Vietnam was also in the back of their minds. If only the war would end the corporations would be free to get the tin, rubber, and oil, resources of the country which they could democratically divide among themselves.

Finally, one other item emerged. Very few of the sons of the politicians and corporate executives ended up in Vietnam. It just worked out that most of the people doing the fighting and dying in the war were from working class and minority backgrounds.

So I decided that this so-called war for democracy wasn't for our benefit or the benefit of the Vietnamese people. It bothered me that people in a far away land were killed in my name and now they were trying to get me to do some of the killing. I filled out my forms for Conscientous Objector status although I expected to be rejected. Everyone told me that getting a CO was impossible. I thought about jail, Canada, and going underground.

But then it came. Without any hearings—I got the CO. I think the reason I got it was that by 1971, the armed forces were in shambles. Anti-war sentiment reached even into the military. In Vietnam some units refused to engage in the fighting. Some soldiers in Vietnam shot their own officers if they were gung-ho types. By 1972 they didn't need anymore troublemakers in the armed forces. And by then I definitely qualified as a troublemaker. They were ready to give me whatever I wanted as long as it was out.

When the war ended the draft ended with it. The government switched over to the all volunteer army. Frankly, it never worked. Very few people want to join the army. It's the last resort—if you can't find a job. The army says they'll teach us a skill, but how many jobs are there for radarmen or riflemen? Desertions are higher today than at any time in the history of the U.S.

With that kind of situation it didn't take long before the Pentagon generals were crying for a resumption of the draft. Yet their pleading didn't get very far. Try as they might they couldn't justify it.

Then along comes Afghanistan. Carter says this situation is different. We need the draft. Hodding Carter, the president's spokesman, condemned Soviet imperialism. He praises the "fiercely independent Afghanis." For these reasons the politicians are again asking the youth of the country to be drafted and to be prepared to fight and die as I was eight years ago.

